31st LABOUR GROUP LEAGUE.

153rd Labour Coy v. 49th Labour Coy on the former's ground at Cologne, on Tuesday. The visiting team batted first, on a very wet wicket, and obtained a total of 42 runs. The home team replied feebly, only scoring 13 runs against the exceptionally good bowling of Cpl. Harrington and Cpl. Bowker, the former taking six wickets for five runs, and the latter four for five.

CRICKET FRIENDLY.

53rd Bn. The Rifle Brigade met H.Q., R.A. (Light Division) at Garath on Sunday. Cpl. Gore, of 53rd. R.B., bowled well, taking 6 wickets for 11 runs in the first innings and 9 wickets for 6 runs in the second. Result: 53rd R.B., 1st innings 60 runs; 2nd innings 39 runs. R.A., 1st innings 39 runs; 2nd innings 19 runs. 53rd R.B. won by an innings and 2 runs.

C.P.C. MATCHES.

EASTERN DIV. H.Q. (100 for 6) v 52 MANCHESTER REGT. (7). For the Manchesters the top scorers were, Lieut. White and Lewis with six each. Col. Dobbie and Cpl Gill bowled remarkably well, taking four for eleven, and six for ten respectively. For Div. H.Q Col. Sgt. Sandell, (13), Spr. Thompson, (38) and Pte. Walker (16) batted well. Bowling: C.Q.M.S. Madlock five for 35; Thorpe one for 14.

OTHER RESULTS.

16 West Yorks Regt. (158 for 8) v Southern Div. M. T. Coy (58 all out).

Lancs Fus. (67) v 3.3 S. B. (35).

41 M. G. C. (62 for 2) v Waim Survey Det (60).

3rd K. O. Hussars 47 for 7 wickets. D Corps Siege Park did not bat and the result was a draw.

Still They Come.

"I am willing to box anyone in the B.A.O.R. at from 10st 7 to 10st 10, any number of rounds. The bout to take place in the Cologne district."

Thus writes C.Q.M.S. J. French, attd. H.Q., 2nd London Infantry Brigade.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Friday, July 25, 1919.

Wind light northerly. Weather, morning fog: some low cloud during the day. Moderate temperature. Poor visibility at first, but becoming fair.

NEW RELAY RACE.

B Battery, 190 Brigade, R.F.A. Sports Meeting.

KEEN TUSSLES.

The above unit held their first sports meeting on the sports ground at Poller Wiesen on Saturday when a very varied programme was submitted.

The jumping, both for officers and N.C.O.'s, was distinctly good, Capt. Jenn, M.C., D/190, Capt. Taylor, D.A.C., carrying off 1st and 2nd prizes respectively. Sergt. Herbert, London R.A. School, Cpl. Blow, D/190, B.S.M. Dale, A/190 took the other ranks' prizes in the order mentioned.

Both in the long jump and high jump the competitors showed to great advantage. The long jump was won after a good tussle by Bdr. Deakin, B/190, Gnr. Riley, B/190, being second. For the high jump the tables were turned, Gnr. Riley being first, with Bdr. Deakin second.

SOMETHING NEW.

An original relay race was run off by teams comprising three men. In each case a despatch had to be brought from the back area by mounted orderly who handed it to a cyclist orderly, who rushed it to the front lines, where in turn he handed it to a dismounted orderly, who, handicapped by wearing a gas mask, had to deliver the despatch to his commanding officer and thus gain the coveted honour for his team.

The officers' tent pegging, in which Brig. Gen. Oldfield C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., took part, was won by Major Brandish M.C., Capt. George, M.C., being second.

The 190 Brigade's old favourite "Molly the Mule" again turned up and won an amusing musical chairs competition, and, as in previous competitions when only one chair is left, she in her frenzy tried herself to sit on the chair before the music had stopped; but nevertheless, to the satisfaction of all present, she did win the event with Dvr. Reeves A/190 up, dressed as a beautiful Spanish Senorita.

ROARS OF APPLAUSE.

"Tilting the bucket" brought roars of applause and was much appreciated by the German spectators, who evidently deemed it the acme of fun and good humour. More especially was this the case when two clowns came gaily down to try their luck, one armed with an umbrella, only to miss the hole and bring down a shower of whitewash on themselves.

Lieut. Winch R.F.A., B/Bty. sports officer, is to be congratulated on an excellent afternoon's sport and fun.

The band of the 11th Bn. Queens Regt., by kind permission of the C.O., played exellent selections the whole afternoon. The sports ended by Brig.-Gen. Oldfield, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., distributing the prizes.

R. A. F. SPORTS.

Fast Running at Athletic Meet at Salisbury.

The South-Western Area R.A.F. held a sports meeting at Victoria Park, Salisbury, on Wednesday. Lieut. Paul and Lieut. Marsh tied for the high jump at 5 ft 2½ ins. Acting Cpl. Nicks won the mile in 4 min. 50 sec. Lieut. Price won the 100 yards in 10 1/5 secs., and the 100 yards open was secured by Sergt.-Major Bolt, 1st Balloon Training School, in 10 3/5 secs. The half-mile was won by Lieut. Shaw in 2 min. 10 secs., the one mile open being won by Lieut. Barr in 4 min. 57 1/5 secs.

The long jump was secured by Capt. Scott (19 ft 6 ins.). S.M. Bolt won the 220 yards in 25 secs.; Cpl. Rider won the three miles in 16 min. 34 3/5 secs.; Lieut. Fraser won the 100 yards and R.S.M. Bennett secured the 440 yards in 55 2/5 secs.

In the tug-of-war the Southern Aircraft Repair Depot, Farnboro, the semi-finalists at the recent Olympia, beat Gosport.

Hampshire's Mystery Man.

Many people are confident that "G. Newcombe," Hampshire's mystery man, is C. B. Fry. They may take it as official that this is not so.

FOUR FIRSTS.

Excellent Sport at 1/5th S. Staffs Meeting.

GAILY DECKED VENUE.

The inhabitants of the sleepy little village of Commern had been wondering what all the bunting and flags, which had been gradually collecting on the Sports Platz, were for. It was an attempt to make gay for the regimental sports of the 1/5th Bn. The South Staffordshire Regt. Although it was raining at the commencement, there was a large assembly, including Major-General Braithewaite and staff, Brig.-General Crawford, C.I.E., C.M.G., D.S.O., A.de-C.; Capt. Douglas Cowan, D.S.O., M.C., and Lieut.-Col. Collas, D.S.O.

The regimental band rendered selections during the afternoon and evening.

The officials were under the presidency of Lieut.-Col. Morgan, C.M.G., D.S.O. who acted as referee. Judges:—Lieut.-Col. Collas, D.S.O., Commanding 51st Devons, and Lieut. King. Capt. and Q. M. Duffield acquitted himself well as M.C. Other Officials were:—The Rev. Shelton, C.F., Lap re order; Lieut. Stevens, M. M., Starter. 2 Lt. Wickham-Legg, Timekeeper; 2 Lt. Appleby M.C., and 2/Lt. Hall, stewards. Major B. F. Newall and Lieut Villiers had charge of the totalisator which did great business, "backers" waiting in queues. The splendid work of the R.S.M., C.S.M. Taylor, D.C.M., M.M., and C. S. M. Norman, enabled the time table and programme to be adhered to.

MOST SUCCESSFUL COMPETITORS.

Lieut. Walton was the most successful competitor winning no less than four firsts, in addition to being a member in the winning relay team. In the Officer's 100 yards handicap the Commanding Officer gained first place, our "Doc" Surg. Major A. W. Sucu, being second.

The event of the day was the tug-of-war, B v. C Coys, both teams collapsing after the pull. The battalion sports challenge cup was won by "B" Coy.

Brig.-General Cranford presented the prizes. Cheers for the Brigadier, Commanding Officer, and staff, and "B" Coy brought a very successful meeting to a close.

BRIGADE OF GUARDS.

Regatta Revived at Maidenhead.

The Brigade of Guards Regatta was revived at Maidenhead on Wednesday after a lapse of six years. The single punting handicap was won by Capt. Swinton. Other results were: Battalion Fours — the 2nd Grenadiers beat the 3rd Grenadiers.

Regimental Eights Challenge Cup — Coldstream Guards beat Grenadiers, the Scots Guards being third. The double sculling was won by Major-General Matheson and Col. Darrell, Coldstreams. The double punting was won by Major Fox and C. H. Blair, Scots Guards.

ENGLISH CRICKET.

Lancs 429 for seven declared, Gloster 155 for nine.

Yorks 380 for three declared; Northants 65 for six.

Derbyshire 153; Somerset 132 for nine.

Hampshire 207; Sussex 177 for seven.

11 CONSECUTIVE BULLS.

Brilliant Shooting for the Empire Trophy at Bisley.

The competition for the Empire Trophy at Bisley ended on Wednesday afternoon in a victory for the British, who retain the trophy. Despite a troublesome wind the British team's shooting was extraordinarily good.

At 800 yards Sergt. Burr, the King's prizewinner in 1909, only lost one point, and made eleven consecutive bulls. Unfortunately the light beat him at the last shot, which was an inner. The shooting of Sergt. Loveday, the King's prizewinner, was disappointing.

The following were the aggregates:—

Britain . . . . . 2112.
Australia . . . . . 2040.
New Zealand . . . 1979.
Canada . . . . . 1986.

A HUGE CIRCUS.

1st American Division "Outfit" Visiting Cologne.

After a remarkable success at Montabaur, before enormous crowds which included many British officers and men, the First American Division Circus is coming to Cologne for three days, August 1, 2 and 3.

The circus is a huge affair to put under canvas, and even the large Amsterdamer Strasse Football Ground, where it will be staged, is a "mighty tight squeeze," as Capt. F.C. Rans, circus manager, said. It seems to be a happy combination of Barnum and Bailey's famous circus, Buffalo Bill's Wild West show, and a lot of clever trick cavalry riding. Three-hundred circus people go with the show, all of them men selected from the First American Division and together with 100 trained horses, "Haute ecole" and cavalry trick riding, or "Monkey-Drill" as the Americans call it.

Twenty Big Acts.

Besides the twenty big acts of the main performance, there is an interesting side show consisting of a number of musical freaks and clever tricks and features. Here the Strong Man puts Samson to shame, the Hairy and Hairless Wonders show how strange are the ways of Nature, the Sultan's Own Dancing Girls give you a thrill, and many other things that promise to keep you wide-eyed for a half-hour.

SOLDIERS CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

New Hut Opened at Siegburg by Brig.-Gen. Higginson.

The formal opening of the Siegburg Hut took place on Tuesday. At 5.30 p.m. the hut was filled with soldiers, and Lieut.-Col. Dobbie, in introducing Brig.-Gen. Higginson, briefly described the aims and past work of the Soldiers' Christian Association.

Brig.-Gen. Higginson said that it afforded him great pleasure to express, on behalf of the troops of the Eastern Division, his appreciation of the work of the Soldiers' Christian Association, which had been working amongst soldiers for the past 32 years, and which, together with the Y.M.C.A., had done such splendid work during the war.

Mr. Harper, the Area Organizer for the district, replied for the S.C.A., and mentioned the name of Miss Kerr, the Siegburg Hut leader. It was received with much applause. The hut comprises three large rooms, behind which is a well fitted canteen. There is a reading room, a canteen, and a sitting room furnished to look as much like home as possible. For the occasion of the opening ceremony the hut had been tastefully decorated with flowers, the Allied flags and Chinese lanterns. Miss Kerr, Mrs and Miss Chynoweth, Miss Ruby Burns and Miss Jenny Burns, are to be congratulated on having established a little bit of England under the walls of the historic monastey of Siegburg.

FRENCH FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

The above championship will be decided at Wagram Hall in Paris on July 30, between the French and European champions, de Ponthieu, and Auguste Grassi.

De Ponthieu is the only Frenchman who was victorious at the Inter-Allied Olympiad. Grassi, the challenger, has been the French military champion since he defeated Trikri.

Donoghue Performs Hat Trick.

FEAT ACCOMPLISHED ON OPENING DAY OF LIVERPOOL MEETING.

By winning on Staples, Envoy, and Rothesay Bay, Donoghue accomplished the "hat trick" at Liverpool on Wednesday.

This jockey, who heads the honours list for the season, also performed the "hat trick" at Epsom on June 6th, when he won the first three races as well as the Walton Plate.

The following were the Liverpool results:

Riverside Plate:—1, Roy de Castule (3—1); 2, Tasty (2—1); 3 Vinny (10—1).

Wednesday Handicap:—1, Staples 11—10); 2, Shogunate (evens); 3, Spanish Chestnut (20—1).

Mersey Stakes:—1, Envoy (5—1); 2, Marshall Neil (100—6); 3, Spion Kop (evens).

St. George Stakes:—1, Rothesay Bay (5—4); 2, Bayuda (13—8); 3, Derset (7—2).

Liverpool Plate:—1, Skyrocket (7—1); 2, Tangiers (3—1); Eatoj Hero (8—1½).

Windermere High Handicap:—1, The Plough (5—4); 2, Beresion (6—1); 3, Cromaboo (20—1).

THE LIVERPOOL CUP.

Prospects for To-day's Race at Aintree.

The principal item on to-day's card at Liverpool is the Cup. There is a good entry for the event and speculation as to the favourite is diversified.

Writing in "The Weekly Dispatch," Keystone states that the choice seems fairly well divided between Dionysos and Chuette. Arion is not without a fighting chance, and the trio will be the brightest backed. He, however, plumps for Dionysos, Lord Derby's horse.

The Planet.

Tattenham in the "Sunday Express" writes as follows:—

Since Mr. Louis Winans sold Planet the public have been inclined to forget his best performances, but it would be a gift for him at 8lbs. below Arion if he could reproduce the form which made him rather an unlucky loser of the Cambridgeshire as a three-year-old. Subsequently he ran away with the Manchester November Handicap, and he was trying to give Bay Jingo 9lbs. when he chased Mr. De Pledge's horse home in the Manchester Cup last summer, finishing a neck in front of the largely Hainaut (gave 10lbs). He smothered Transition at evens on one occasion, so you realise what a good horse he is when he likes.

It is against Planet that he seems fast qualifying for a career that follows racing, but if you study his form on the first day at Ascot—when the conditions underfoot were not as he liked them—you must realise what a liberty the handicapper has taken with him. He was seen out twice on the Royal Heath, but did not get off, and only cantered home behind Diadem on the second occasion.

The doubt about the going alone inclines me to favour in preference to Planet, though the Epsom horse should certainly be saved on each way. Chuette may beat Arion and others.

Arion's Form.

I am divided in my own mind between Arion and Chuette; says Tattenham in "Lloyd's News." Nothing seems to come amiss to Lord Jersey's big horse, who, since he won the Jubilee, has gone on from victory to victory.

When a horse once starts winning in this way, it is never safe to say when he will stop, and I think, if anyone can give the winner of a handicap in two guesses, it is worth while backing both.

Personally, I have a tremendous fancy for the mare, and I am going to back Chuette to win, while I will save on Arion.

MACHINE GUNNERS' VICTORY.

41st. M.G.C. v. Rhine Army Staff Officers at Heumar.

Major Yates brought a team of Staff Officers of the Rhine Army, five of whom had been playing at Lindenthal during the week, to play the 41st Bn M.G.C. at cricket on the latter's ground at Heumar on Saturday. The 41st Bn. won the toss and the innings was opened at 11.30 hrs. by Lieut.-Col. H. G. Barry and Pte. Gorrard. The weather was delightful and drew a large number of spectators, including Col. Biddle, C.M.G., American Army.

The first wicket fell for 47 runs, Pte. Gorrard having made 23. Col. Barry put up some very fine batting, finally being caught by Major C. M. Yates with his score at 51. Play was stopped at 13.00 hrs. for lunch and re-commenced at 14.50 hrs. Capt. Denny knocked up a very useful 59 until stumped by Lieut.-Col. Langhorn. Major F. M. Ackle also made 19 in a very short time, the 41st Bn. M.G.C. being finally dismissed for 217.

Game Interrupted.

At 15.30 hrs the Rhine Army H. Q. innings was opened by Lieut.-Col. Langhorn and Lieut. Crystall. Soon after the first wicket had fallen, heavy rain came down, interrupting the game for half an hour. On play being re-started, the field was found to be covered with miniature lakes, making the task of both batsmen and fielders a more arduous one. Nevertheless, Major H. W. Yates gave a very fine exhibition of hitting, knocking up 52 in less than 15 minutes, being finally caught by Major F. M. Ackle, who brought off a splendid catch on the boundary line. Capt. Read, 16, Capt. Wright, 18, Major Treacher, 14, also considerably helped their side. Stumps were finally drawn at 18.15 hrs, the game resulting in a win for the Machine Gunners by 8 runs. It was, altogether, a delightful day; fortunately only slightly marred by the rain.

Bowling:—Rhine Army H. Q. — Major H. W. Yates 4 for 59. Major C. M. Yates 2 for 42. Capt. Sandon 1 for 12.

41st Bn. M. G. C.:—Major O. Boumphrey 5 for 62. Pte. Gorrard 3 for 57. Pte. Blunton 1 for 5.

MOORE AND WILDE.

Challenge from American for £500 a-side.

Pal Moore has again challenged Wilde to a contest under similar conditions to those of last Thursday for £500 a-side. In the event of winning, he will give £1,000 side stakes to St. Dunstan's Hospital.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Another New Troupe.

A new concert party of which much may be expected, made its appearance the other night at Miel. They are styled "The Goffomans", and they hail from the Western Division D.A.C. Lieut. Standing, who, by the way, makes an excellent girl with a first-class "mezzo" voice, is the leader of the troupe, and he is well supported by every member. There are two first-class and most charming "girls" in the party and they are fortunate in possessing a very elaborate wardrobe. The "Goffonians" are performing a most useful service by going the round of a number of small villages and their efforts are meeting with great appreciation.

The Pedlars Again.

Last evening I ran down to Bonn to see "The Pedlars" at the Stadt Theatre. There was an entirely new programme presented, concluding with "A Sister to Assist 'Er," that farcical sketch with which the late Fred Emney made such a success. "Erb", (Fred Weedon) played the part of Mrs. May, while Frank Hartley was a distinct success as Mrs. Mull. As usual, "Erb" was the heart and soul of the party, though one cannot help remarking upon the improved artistry of the others.

An Innovation.

Besides having the honour of opening the new Army theatre "The Palace," Herzog Strasse (off Schildergasse) on Monday next, "The Poppies" have inaugurated a special feature. It is announced that selections from their musical programme will be played by the orchestras at the VI Corps Officers Club, the Excelsior and the Germania. This is bound to advertise the show and one expects crowded houses at the Palace next week.

The Starlights Score.

The stage of the theatre at the British Empire Leave Club on Tuesday might have been the setting for a company straight from the Palace or the Alhambra, so good was the Starlights' performance. A splendid overture opened the programme and one realized at once that this was no amateur performance. It is impossible to pick out special performers by name when all were so excellent, but the dances of Rifleman Coltham, and Rifleman Hughes were excellent. Pte. Lords rendered his "fiddleosities" playing very cleverly, while Sapper Wentley in his "Little Scotch" and "More Scotch" provoked much mirth.

Fancy Dress.

Chinese and Japanese danced hand in hand with Lucifers, Abbots, Spaniards, Cowboys, Dragoons, old fashioned cavalrymen and innumerable other bravadoes at the British Empire Leave Club fancy dress ball on Wednesday night. Gaby Deslys came with an Eastern partner in gorgeous costume. One W.R.A.F. Dutch character looked most charming, as she glided round the room with a Dutch partner. The comedian with a mask on the back of his head, and his coat worn inside part before, caused much merriment, and managed to hide his identity until the end of the evening. Many men came as ladies, and among those who demand special mention was one in a long green skirt. Another who was really remarkable wore a fine ermine cloak and carried a lovely bouquet of roses.

The grand march past was a regular feast of colour. The G.H.Q. Jazz Band added enjoyment to a gay and most enjoyable evening. Hundreds and hundreds of spectators crowded the galleries and watched the gay scene below.

In a Few Words.

A gigantic American circus will visit Cologne during the first week in August. An announcement of the big show appears on our next page.

Lieut. S.E.Percy, H.L.I., the moving spirit in the Rhine Army Dramatic Company, has just declined an offer by Sir F.R.Benson to play an important part in a new play by Arnold Bennett.

The N. C. O's. and men of No 64 Casualty Clearing Station have been entertained to supper by the C.O., officers and sisters of the Unit.

JACQUES.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Bisley Loss.

The recent victory Bisley meeting sustained a financial loss of £1000.

Watford's Captures.

Watford have signed on Bassett (Notts County) for outside right, and Housman (Mansfield) for back.

"Snowy" Baker.

Mr. "Snowy" Baker, known all over the world as promoter of big boxing contests in Austria, has been obtained athletic sports editor of the Sydney "Evening News," and also of the "Sunday News."

Best Boat Regatas.

Staines Regatta on Saturday will see the end of the open best boat regattas of the Thames season, as the Goring and Reading fixtures, arranged for the Bank Holiday week-end, will not be held.

Five figures.

Mr. C. Harry, the City banking owner and patron of Percy Woodland, is buying horses as lavishly as Mr. Watkin Williams. Rumour credits him with giving about five figures for Parella from Mr. Gant.

Vacant Date.

The Scottish League has left vacant on the Queen's Park list of engagements January 1 for the long abandoned game between Queen's Park and Corinthians, which had to be dropped because of the dispute between the Football Association and the English Amateur Association.

Heart trouble.

David Taylor, the left full-back of the Burnley, Club, is seriously ill with heart trouble.

Getting Ready.

It is noted that hockey will be in its own stride this season, although most of the clubs have as yet very little idea of what their resources will be.

Big Boom.

Among the lawn tennis fixtures for the present week are the Scottish championships and the Frinton and Midland counties' tournaments. There is a big boom in the game this summer, and entries all round are very large.

Racecourse Thieves.

Racing in the north and midlands of late has been infested by gangs who are so well known in the south that they hardly dare venture there with profit. Salisbury was, however, bad enough, and it is full time the Jockey Club had their own special police staff.

Hard Luck!

Lord Wilton recently arranged to have a gamble on a selling plater, and promised to put his trainer on a "monkey." He did not attend the meeting, and when he saw the result and found the horse had won and been bought in, he suddenly remembered that held clean forgotten to back it!

£500 Transfer Fee.

Dumbarton F.C. have secured Scott Duncan, the Newcastle and Glasgow Rangers outside-right, at a transfer fee of £500.

A Famous Forward.

The Football League has taken no action in the application of W. Meredith, the famous forward, for a free transfer from Manchester United, as his club has offered him the maximum wage.

The Sedgley Wizard.

As a consequence of his extraordinary success in national pigeon racing, Mr. J.L. Baker, of Sandyfields, Sedgley, is known throughout Great Britain as the "Sedgley wizard."

Smoked his Cigar.

Mr. C. T. Garland, whose leg was broken by his horse, Silvester, kicking him in the paddock at Newmarket on Thursday, is lying in Newmarket Hospital and going on well. The Anglo-American millionaire went on smoking his cigar after the mishap.

Knock-On-Sea.

Golf is being resumed at Knock-on Sea, Belgium. Before the war the club possessed two eighteen-hole courses, but these were badly damaged during the hostilities. A good eighteen-hole course has been reconstructed from the original thirty-six.

Poisoned Foot.

Rushby, Surrey's best and unluckiest bowler, has been absent from the team lately owing to a poisoned foot.

To attempt the Channel.

Norman Ross, the noted American swimmer, who has been so successful in France, is to attempt to swim the Channel, says the "Excelsior".

Holley signs for Brighton.

Brighton have had practically to reconstitute their team for the coming season. Prominent among the new men is Holley, an International inside-left, who has seen many years' service with Sunderland.

On a "Cert".

Cricketers are not averse to backing horses now and again, and in consequence of information received all the Oval was on a "cert" at Sandown. Unfortunately it ran fourth and—well, it wasn't safe to whistle "Keep the Home Fires burning" in the Kennington neighbourhood.

Suggested Tourney.

The suggested international tournament for lady players, on the lines of the Davis Cup competition, has aroused a lot of interest in lawn tennis circles. It is generally believed that the idea will fructify in a modest way to start with, but so did the Davis Cup.

Echoes from Rhineland.

Collecting the Post.

We wonder how many of our readers have taken notice of the German post boxes, and have watched the German postman empty one. He carries a bag which slides in a slot at the bottom and the letters drop through a trap door. The bag is then withdrawn and the door fastened, the whole operation taking half the time it occupies in England. Once a week the postman cleans the brass plate on the front with cleaning gear carried in a small pocket on the post bag. The method of German post collecting seems to have impressed favourably many of our readers.

A Good Time Coming.

With the cessation of the blockade, we are witnessing "a certain liveliness" in the many conditorei establishments. Not only are white bread rolls again on offer, but milk cakes and iced confections are being made in abundance. Soon we shall see the native in his best and natural element, cooking dinners to suit most stomachs and purses, and baking pastries variegated in colours and designs. We have only to notice some of the most dignified Colognites on the shopping streets to realise that, like the rest of us, their hearts are very near their stomachs. The old folk dream dreams of sirloin and smoked ham, the younger ones have visions of sponge cakes, cream crisps and the like, all to be had for only a fraction of their incomes.

Substitutes.

Some of the economies and substitutions here introduced both before and during the hard times are worth our attention and by no means to be despised. The imitation rubber matting in some of the "Elektrischebahnen" is not easy to distinguish from the real thing; apparently cork is a large factor in its composition, and whilst quite as good, it is probably cheaper. The convenient briquette is purchased and used in preference to his coal, which latter is certainly to be had but of poor quality, and the need of this fuel is an incentive for the combination of peat pitch, which ignites rapidly and produces an excellent heat. Difficulties concerning soap and linen are the cause of many a linoleum-covered or unadorned dining-table on which wooden platter are often used for crockery. A wet cloth cleans both. It's an ill wind.

Novel Engines.

Have any of our readers heard of a steam locomotive without a furnace or heating apparatus of any description? Engines of this type are used exclusively in the Siegburg Munitions Factory for the purpose of drawing trucks from one part of the yard to another, and are capable of hauling about fifty tons. They are broad-gauge engines and obtain their power by the simple process of having steam pumped into them at a high pressure from one of the main boilers of the factory, and working from that instead of by the ordinary method of creating their own steam. These engines will work for an hour or more without refilling, because they lose no interior space through the firebox or smoke-box, but have the whole volume for steam. In appearance they are the same as ordinary engines, except that they lack the chimney and safety-valve.

Lectures on the German Mind.

Some very interesting lectures on "The German Mentality" are being delivered at the Central Y.M.C.A. Halls, Cologne. At the end of each a discussion takes place, and many are the questions that are asked of the lecturer. She is Miss Muriel Smith, M.A., lecturer in German at the University of St. Andrews, and she has come out to instruct us in matters Teutonic.

Misplaced Zeal.

A British officer, running after a tramcar at Düren the other day, observed a small boy apparently similarly occupied. Intending to emulate the good Samaritan he promptly picked the child up and deposited him on the car. When the little fellow commenced to cry bitterly and his anguish was echoed by his nother some distance down the road, the officer realised that his kindly action must have contained a flaw. Accordingly he returned the child to the weeping woman, who by this time was a considerable distance away, and discovered that the youngster had been running to meet his mother and had no desire whatever to board the tram. Moral: "Never take for granted the evidence of your eyes."

The Big Circus.

The wonderful Hagenbeck circus which was in Cologne for a week or two is now, we hear, in Düren, and crowds of soldiers as well as civilians flock into the huge tent every night. It is the only circus we know of that displays no horsemanship in the whole performance instead there are performing lions, bears, elephants and dogs in great variety. There are, too, some clever acrobatic and cycling turns and the clowns are funny. Roughly speaking we should say five or six thousand people can view the performance in comfort and it is certainly a show without a serious competition on the continent.

Electricity or Gas.

"Gunner" writes eulogistically of the German method of centralising power and distributing it in the form of electricity. He draws attention to the fact that from the larger centres current is supplied to even very small villages for lighting and power purposes. There is no doubt that in the future there will be a great development of electricity in Great Britain. As "Gunner" states, it is cleaner and more economical than any other form of lighting. He goes on to say that the German system gives opportunities of studying electricity in outlying districts.

TO THE EDITOR.

I sent you some humorous verse,
But your judgment my hopes did disperse;
You replied that my song
Was a trifle too long, —
Could I send something rather more terse?

In vain, Sir, I've tried to coerce
The rejected; 'tis firmly perverse:
As it will not compress
Without spoiling, I guess
I'll send this: but its' very much worse!

P.S. Brevity's the soul of wit;
Must the body cramp to it?

O.W

A Bevy of Fair Women.

The N.A.C.B. are to be congratulated upon the introduction of a score of our own British girls to tend their canteen and recreation room at Cologne. Wherever there is a feminine element we get a note of refinement, and the ladies who have ministered to us on Rhineside, whether they labour on the refreshment counter or entertain us in a social sense, have had an influence wider and deeper than perhaps they realise. The average man appreciates this, and the newcomers will no doubt be able to write to their sisters and girl friends telling of happy times due largely to the chivalry of the Army of Occupation.

"Cow-Catchers."

Many have remarked that the electric cars in Germany possess no "cowcatchers" for the safety of foot passengers who may get in the way of traffic, such as many of our British trams have fixed in front. The absence of such precautionary appliances leaves one wondering what would happen if a youngster——playing football or intent on reading the latest "blood and thunder" or schoolbook——sustained an "attack in the rear" from one of these "Flying Dutchmen." True, there is a sort of arrangement on the pavement side of such cars, as No 18 in Cologne, to protect passengers and others from falling between the carriages, but what about those who fall in front.

Lesser Echoes.

A new proclamation with regard to the letter and pearce services in Germany appears on the hoardings.

To obviate the shortage of thick string, steel band is being used in a Cologne establishment. The band is passed through a steel ring and is certainly effective so far as big packages are concerned.

White bread including tempting crisp rolls — is displacing the abominable dark brown stuff in Rhineland.

The streets of Bonn — so much wider and roomy than those of Cologne or Düren — are now looking a picture of freshness with their borders of tall green trees.

With the departure of the majority of German troops from Coblenz, the Officers Club in that town has been closed.

In the cabarets at Wiesbaden, the German devotees join in, with much gusto, the choruses of popular French songs every evening.

The wet weather that has prevailed during the past few days has caused the postponement of half-a-dozen military sports meetings in the occupied area.

Two Ford cars collided on the Coblenz-Bonn road yesterday. Meanwhile American troops waited patiently for the rations that one of the cars contained.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Sgt. J. G. McDonnell, R.G.A. Rhine Army, Pte. L. Wilson M.T., R.A.S.C. attd. 18th Field Ambulance "B" Sect. Rhine Army, and Lieut. G. M. Margrett, 53rd Manchester Regt., Rhine Army.

POETRY AND EVERY-DAY LIFE.

What do we understand by poetry? Most of us have more or less vague ideas as to its nature—from the plebeian view that anything with an agreeable "lilt" is poetry, to the pedantic definitions of the dictionaries.

Perhaps one should not be too hard upon the dictionaries, however, for after all, the true nature of poetry may be said to be almost incapable of definition; it must be "felt" intuitively, rather than grasped by a process of reasoning or analysis; hence, to supply a satisfactory answer to the question "What is poetry?" would seem to be a task of no little difficulty.

Although we invariably associate the term "verse" with poetry, it is patent that not all versifiers are poets, and that we cannot indiscriminately apply the term "poetry" to every effusion that may happen to be metrically and rhythmically perfect. Poetry—true poetry—must be understood to mean something vastly different from a mere faultless expression of a thought form; complete mastery of the laws of metre is not necessarily a passport to the Hall of the Immortals. A ragtime song may possess a perfectly pleasing and consistent rhythm, nevertheless there is a great gulf fixed between such and, say, a Beethoven symphony. So with poetry; that which pleases does not necessarily elevate, and real poetry should be nothing if not elevating.

With regard to the application of poetry to every-day life it is admittedly a difficult undertaking to endeavour to cultivate a taste where one is lacking, but the true teacher knows not failure; obstacles are to him but the incentive to greater effort and, improbable though it may seem, it is surely not impossible for teachers—English teachers in particular—to gradually develop in the minds of even the most illiterate and uncultured students, a taste for something higher, a power to appreciate good poetry and good literature generally. To achieve this is to widen a man's outlook, and make life itself more interesting, more pregnant with meaning. It is in reality, to arrive at far greater results than a mere acquisition to the student's vocabulary.

Introduced with tact, allied to the zeal of the enthuiast, there is no reason why poetry—that glorious vehicle for expression of the noblest thought—should not be made interesting to the soldier in our Army schools, no reason whatever why the soldier, as well as his preceptor, should not find delight in the magnificent word-pictures of a Shelley, the philosophy of a Browning, or the songs of a Keats or a Wordsworth, not to mention the whole universe of experience depicted for us in the pages of the immortal bard of Stratford.

P. O. Stationery. — The Postmaster General has reintroduced stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers.

Complimentary.—The Krupp howitzer presented to Ampthill is to be transferred to the sewage farm.

Another Fugitive.—Prince Max of Baden, the ex-Chancellor, is reported to have fled to Switzerland.

German Harvest.—The harvest in Germany this year is likely to be the best Germany has had for many years.

Fewer Trains.—As a result of the coal famine, the train service will have to be reduced.

A New Post.—Miss Winifred Barnes is to appear in the new comic opera "Maggie."

Optimism.—The British Dyestuffs Corporation, Limited, is expected ultimately to capture the world supply.

Afraid to Rejoice.—Saying he would not go out as the rejoicings would kill him when he thought of his dead brother a Hackney Jew hanged himself.

Silk Underwear.—Each member of the crew of the R 34 had two sets of silk underwear, worn underneath thick wool, for warmth in high altitudes.

Suicide after Rejoicing.—A Breconshire farmer, who took part in the Peace celebrations shortly after midnight, shot himself.

Mail Service to Germany.—Correspondence is now accepted for transmission to any part of Germany. The ordinary international rates of postage apply.

Posed as a Russian.—Henry Jensen, who was found dead in a lodging house, though registered as a Russian, has been found to be a German.

Killed by Button.—A Preston girl has died from septic pneumonia and inflammation of the throat caused by a button she swallowed.

Unemployed.—Now that Peace is upon us it is suggested that the out-of-work donation should be extended to unemployed flag day maidens.

Outbreak of Rabies.—A serious outbreak of rabies is reported in the Bonn district. Seventeen persons have been bitten by a mad dog in Hennef.

The Murdered Sergeant.—The burial of the French sergeant, who was murdered at Berlin, took place in Paris with military honours.

OUR NEW FIELD MARSHAL.

ROYAL HONOUR FOR GREAT CHIEF OF STAFF WHO WELDED ALLIED INTERESTS.

ADJUSTING THE COAL STRIKE.

GENERAL WILSON.

HONOUR FOR FAMOUS CHIEF OF STAFF.

The announcement was made at a dinner, given by members of the House of Commons to General Sir Henry Wilson last night that the King has appointed him a Field Marshal. The dinner was in recognition of his great services to the Empire and the cause of the victorious Allies.

The following message was read from Marshal Foch. "Since I have known Sir Henry Wilson I have always found him a great soldier and a passionate servant of his country. If I were to-day by the side of this friend I should be glad to tell him so. I beg you to say this to him on my behalf."

Proposing the Field Marshal's health Mr. Lloyd George said they had met to do honour to a great soldier who rendered service to the country at the most critical moment in its great storm, greater services than were generally known in the country. The part he played in saving France and Europe and in saving the world was difficult to estimate. Whatever credit was due for that, a large part was due to the magnificent way in which it was organised by their guest.

There were always difficulties in coalitions but whatever difficulties there may be in political ones, those with coalitions in the field are infinitely greater. When one has to deal with different races and nationalities, fundamental differences of temperament and outlook, it is exceedingly difficult to get combined action. That was one of the essential problems of the war. No man did more to overcome those difficulties by his tactics, adroitness, good temper and good humour than did Sir Henry Wilson.

When unity of command was established its success was due largely to the complete loyalty with which Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig accepted it. It was also due largely to the unwavering support which Sir Henry Wilson gave to the genius of Foch. He was proud to propose his health and he had the authority of the King in proposing the health of "Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson." (Cheers).

In acknowledging the toast the new Field Marshal paid a high tribute to the helpful support at all times given by the Premier.

AUSTRIAN DELEGATES.

SIDE-TRACKING IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

A fresh Austrian note has been handed to the Supreme Council urging the constitution of a special commission by the Peace Conference to settle legal, economic and financial questions, arising under the Peace Treaty, between the Successor States of the late Austro-Hungarian Monarchy. The Austrian delegation proposes that the actual Treaty of Peace shall confine itself to deciding frontier questions, the exact position of Austria in international law and the conditions of Peace between Austria and the belligerent powers. The delegation draws the attention of the Supreme Council to the fact that in November 1918 all Successor States called a conference of plenipotentiaries at Vienna for the purpose of settling all questions between the Successor States arising out of the liquidation of the former Austro-Hungrian Empire, which conference has been working ever since.

Four Austrian technical delegates arrived at St. Germains yesterday to give support to the Austrian contentions, regarding the economic and financial clauses of the Treaty.

SWISS NEUTRALITY.

ARRESTS FOR INTRIGUING WITH GERMANY.

Renaud Charriere, a lawyer practising at the Geneva Bar, was arrested by order of the Swiss Procurator General yesterday. Charriere alleges that several of the Federal councillors are seriously compromised in connection with financial and political affairs.

He also claims to have in his possession documents affecting various high personages who, it is alleged, intrigued in Switzerland in the interests of Germany, Several other arrests are expected.

NO "BUYING OUT" FROM ARMY.

Captain Guest stated in the House of Commons yesterday that the right to purchase discharge from the Army could not be restored while the Military Service Act was in force.

COAL STRIKE.

PREMIER'S PROPOSALS FOR ADJUSTMENT.

After interviewing the coal owners, the Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, together with Bonar Law, Sir Robert Horne and Sir Auckland Geddes met the Executive of the Miners' federation. It is hoped that as the result of these conferences some agreement will be reached. After the conference the following statement was issued:—

The Prime Minister met representatives of the Miners' federation of Great Britain this morning to discuss the question of adjustment of piece rates in the coalfields, in view of the reduction of hours consequent upon the adoption of Mr. Justice Sankey's interim report. Mr. Robert Smillie submitted the case for miners as set forth in the Keswick resolution. After a prolonged discussion the Prime Minister, on behalf of the Government, submitted the following formula for consideration of the Federation.

"Accepting and acting on the basis laid down in Mr. Justice Sankey's interim report that the reduction in output will be less than ten per cent, the Government is prepared to see that piece workers will not suffer any loss of earnings. Earnings will therefore be increased by an amount which on the average will be found necessary to correspond with the ten per cent reduction in hours."

The Premier suggested a method by which the formula, put into form for adoption in the several districts might be examined by a full committee representing the Coal Mines department and the Miners' federation.

Mr. Smillie said that his Executive would at once meet to consider the Government's proposals.

EXPORT PROHIBITED.

A Government Order prohibiting the shipment of coal except by order of the Admiralty brought business to a standstill on the Cardiff Coal Exchange. It was stated that the Government was compelled to intervene in order to secure supplies for essential services.

GOVERNMENT POLICY.

In the House of Commons Mr. Bonar Law announced that the Government fully recognised the importance of the decision on the final Sankey report re nationalization and expected that a statement would be made on the subject before the recess. The Government is doing its level best, he said, to deal with the whole industrial situation.

The Government was well aware that there were a number of people — not a large number — aiming at the destruction of the whole social and political system, people who were doing their best to foment discontent which might arise from any cause.

Mr. Houston: Will the Government deal with these people immediately?

Mr. Bonar Law: It is obvious that it would be wrong of the Government to use provocative language. On the other hand we have made it absolutely clear that the whole force of the Government will be used to protect the people against undue pressure.

RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN.

DENIKIN'S BIG ADVANCE AGAINST MOSCOW.

General Denikin, Commander of the volunteer army in Southern Russia has visited Kharhoff and announced that orders have been issued to the Southern Armies to begin the advance against Moscow. A Cossack division has crossed the Volga at Tzaritzin, where the peasants gave them an exuberant welcome. General Vinogradogf has occupied a large stretch of the left bank of the Dnieper. In the direction of Ekaterinoslav, General Shkuros' cavalry has defeated the Bolshevist forces which were holding the village of Romankovo. The cavalry took nineteen guns, thirty machine guns and several convoys with shells and small arms ammunition. — British Wireless Press.

POLISH SUCCESSES.

The Polish General Staff reports from the Eastern front that the enemy has been attacking along the Molodoczno-Minsk railway line, repeated attacks being repulsed.

The Poles have reached the river Lanea, eighty kilometres East of Pinsk, in pursuit of the enemy. In East Galicia the Poles have captured Tarnopol.

BULGARS ATTACK FRENCH.

A despatch from Salonika states that French soldiers at Lovpalenka have been attacked by Bulgarians. In the course of the fighting four Frenchmen were killed.

PERSHING LEAVES.

HIS TRIBUTE TO THE BRITISH NAVY AND NATION.

General Pershing left England on Wednesday night for Paris, after paying a flying visit to Cambridge to receive an honorary degree from the university. He will not return to England but will shortly sail from France for New York.

In an interview General Pershing said: "I wish before I go to let everyone know how great is our appreciation of the reception you gave us here. Every American who marched in the Peace procession received such a welcome and such an impression of friendliness on the part of the British public, that they can never forget it. It was a tremendous thing. My own impression was that if the crowd greeted everybody as they did the Americans, well there must have been some sore throats in London that night.

"We were especially impressed with the British Navy. We saw the splendid bearing of your officers and men. No American can think of the British Navy without giving it almost the entire credit for the possibility of there being an American Army in Europe. It was the British Navy that made that possible. We were delighted to march in the Parade with them.

Everywhere we went, there sounded a very sincere note of friendship. To me, it indicates a deep and profound sense of amity between the two nations and Saturday's march will have a lasting effect on the two countries. Those who have thought the British were undemonstrative have changed their minds." —

British Wireless Press.

BOLSHEVIST FIENDS.

MASSACRE OF CHILDREN ORDERED.

The Bolshevists have issued a decree-states "Le Matin," providing for the Socialisation of Polish and Jewish children in the entire region of Mohilef. Children are collected by force, centralised at various asylums and made to perform laborious work.

Recently, there was an outbreak of glanders among the horses in that region, and the Bolshevist Commissioners made the children eat flesh of the slaughtered animals. As a consequence numerous cases of illness among the poor children occurred and under a pretext of arresting the epidemic, the Central Soviet of Mohilef ordered that afflicted infants be shot.

This order was actually carried out, thirteen girls and eight boys being executed at Sienkovo, eleven at Ciercern and seventeen at Prallia.

NORTH WEST FRONTIER

AFGHAN VIOLATIONS OF THE ARMISTICE.

It is learned officially that there has been further trouble among the Afghanistan frontier tribes and a British convoy proceeding to Fort Sandeman was repeatedly attacked, the heaviest attempt being made against it near Kapip by 4000 tribesmen.

In this incident, four British officers were killed or missing, and two wounded. Indian other ranks casualties approximating to one hundred.

From information received during the past few days, it appears that the Afghan Commandants are actively violating the Armistice conditions.

COMIC WAGER.

A FANTASTIC TRIP.

Two Huddersfield men, named Holt and Fowler, have made a wager for £ 5 that they will walk to Edinburgh, 200 miles away, in comic outfit, and that they will live entirely on what they earn by their performances and appearance. They started yesterday, accompanied by others who will play pianos, dance and sing.

Holt is the donkey in the troupe, and he has slung over his shoulders a canvas representation of that animal, with which he walks and capers along.

Fowler is the clown, and he carries a wooden gate about a foot high, over which the donkey jumps. An amusing condition is that the donkey must sleep in the open, or in a shed.

All are married men.

SHANTUNG FOR CHINA.

It is reported from Paris that Japan has entered into an agreement with the Allies reiterating her promise to restore Shantung to Chinese Sovereignty, retaining only economic control of the railways and the Kiauchau concession.

BRITISH GOODS FOR ATHENS EXHIBITION.

About three hundred British manufacturers will be represented at an exhibition of British manufactures to be held at Athens in October. The actual value of the exhibits is estimated at £ 250,000 to £ 300,000.

TREATY RATIFIED.

PARLIAMENT'S ALL-NIGHT SITTING.

The House of Commons sat till 3.37 in the morning and finished the discussion on the Treaty of Peace Bill, the second reading of which had been carried earlier, after a speech by the Prime Minister and discussion from all sides of the House.

On the motion for the third reading Mr. Devlin moved the rejection of the Bill in consequence of the Prime Minister's statement with regard to Ireland.

Commander Kenworthy seconded.

Mr. Lloyd George said he had taken up no new position in saying that he could not agree to setting up a Parliament in Ireland and compelling Ulster to come under it. That was the position taken up by Mr. Asquith in September 1914, and accepted by all his colleagues. If those Irishmen who stood for self-government would take it for themselves they could have it, but they could not force others to join who did not want self-government. He stood by his declaration at the General Election, and he was prepared to carry it out.

Commander Kenworthy, Mr. Harbison, Mr. J. Jones, and Captain Redmond supported the rejection of the Bill.

On a division, the third reading was carried by 163 votes to 4.

The Prime Minister moved the second reading of the Anglo-French Treaty (Defence of France) Bill.

Mr. Devlin spoke and during his speech was twice called to order by the Speaker, being finally called on to resume his seat.

The Bill was read a second time and passed through its remaining stages.

Both Bills were subsequently read for the first time in the House of Lords.

MASKED ROBBERS.

STORY OF GUY'S HOSPITAL OUTRAGE.

Mr. W. J. Curry, clerk to the governors of Guy's Hospital, told the story at Bow-street on Wednesday, of the attack made on him by two masked and armed men on the afternoon of June 20, when he was alone in his office.

Peter Albert Vincent, alias Gaida, and Natale Auda, who are alleged to have "held up" three officials of the Elysée Restaurant, Coventry-street, while they committed a robbery there, were now charged with attacking Mr. Curry with intent to commit a robbery.

"I was sitting at my desk," said Mr. Curry, "when I was suddenly confronted by two men wearing black masks, and each holding a revolver, pointing direct at me. I asked what they wanted, and one of them replied. "You'll soon see." He then produced a piece of cord with a running noose.

"I jumped up and seized the man nearest to me. There was a struggle, and the man pressed the muzzle of his revolver against my left side, but did not fire. I received several violent blows on the head with some heavy instrument, but managed to force my way into the hall outside my office. The two men then ran away. I had to give up the chase owing to loss of blood."

The men were committed for trial.

A third charge is to be brought against them, and a formal remand was granted.

QUEER OPERATION.

GIRL'S TONGUE FIXED IN NECK OF BOTTLE.

The medical staff of the Anti-Vivisection Hospital, Battersea, were called upon to deal with a strange case yesterday. A little girl, aged eight, had been drinking from a tin metal polish bottle, when her tongue was drawn into the neck and, owing to the air pressure, could not be released.

The doctor first cut off the bottom of the bottle, but so firmly was the child's tongue wedged in the aperture, that he had eventually to divide the bottle from top to bottom, before relief could be given.

STRUCK OFF THE ROLLS.

Following on a conviction for bigamy a solicitor was yesterday struck off the rolls by a Divisional Court in the King's Bench, consisting of the Lord Chief Justice and Justices Sankey and McCardie. The solicitor was Hamilton Edward Pawley, 57, who was sentenced to 18 months' hard labour at the Central Criminal Court for marrying a ticket collector's daughter whose acquaintance he made in Oxford-street.

Another solicitor struck off was Oswald Milne, who in April last at the Central Criminal Court was sentenced to three years' penal servitude for converting £195 9s. 5d. to his own use, he being trustee of the money.

NO BADGES FOR "MENTIONS"

The question of issuing a special badge or decoration to officers and men who had been mentioned in dispatches had been considered, and it was thought undesirable to add to the decorations already issued, said Captain Guest (Parliamentary Secretary, Treasury) in the House of Commons in reply to Sir John Butcher.

ROYAL RIVER PAGEANT.

OLD-TIME PROCESSION ON THE THAMES.

The King, in the State barge, will head the Sea Services' commemoration pageant on the Thames, on the afternoon of August Bank Holiday.

The barge has left the King's boathouse at Windsor in order to be overhauled at Staines. On July 31 it will be rowed from Staines to Richmond in charge of Mr. W. G. East, the King's bargemaster. For the night it will be moored off Buccleuch House, Richmond, and will next day be rowed on to Millwall Dock or Hay's Wharf.

During their long training row from Staines, the crew will wear their undress uniform of white, but for the procession when the King is aboard, they will don the Royal red costume of olden times, when ceremonial journeys by water were the custom.

In the great procession of decorated boats, there will be represented the Lords of the Admiralty, Royal Navy, Mercantile Marine, Lifeboat Service, Lloyd's, Trinity House, London County Council, training ships and schools, pilots, mine sweepers, fishermen, crews of drifters, seamen's associations, and Sea Scouts.

The bridges and banks from Greenwich to Chelsea will be decorated, and there will be music all the way.

HINDENBURG'S PLANS.

REVELATIONS BY TWO PRISONERS.

A remarkable story is related of the betrayal to the American Army of Hindenburg's plans in 1918.

The liner Agamemnon has brought two German prisoners of war to America, consigned to the Director of Military Intelligence. It is learned that they are German officers of high rank who held positions of great responsibility under Marshal Hindenburg.

It is stated that prior to the beginning of the American offensive in 1918 the American Military Intelligence Corps, by inducements which have not yet been divulged, prevailed on these men to deliver the plans of the German General Staff covering the proposed German movements, the probable lines of retreat, and other detailed information of inestimable value. General Pershing, with these plans, was able to arrange his campaign with great freedom, and it is believed that the result was to cut the cost of the American advance virtually by half.—Reuter.

WOMEN FARMERS.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES IN SMALL HOLDINGS.

In Great Britain, women are going to receive every encouragement to become farmers. Sir Daniel Hall, Permanent Secretary to the Board of Agriculture holds out bright prospects for those "Land girls" who did such valuable work in replacing men during the war. He said the Board of Agriculture was studying the programme. They were starting colonies of small holdings up and down the country and they were definitely prepared to put qualified women on these holdings on the same terms as men.

Two sorts of holdings were proposed, namely, small ones of from fifteen to twenty acres for fruit and vegetable growing and larger areas for general farming. Some small amount of capital was necessarry to start on either, but the Government was prepared to assist with loans in proportion to the amount which the smallholders themselves would bring in. Three co-partnership colonies had already been started. One of these would be open to women and would afford scope for advanced enterprise, while another would specialize in fruit growing and market gardening. He thought the co-partnership colony would prove an attractive life to educated women. He would advise them to avoid the "One woman business" but there was certainly a call for the revival of a country life.

PUBLIC PROSECUTOR'S CLOCK STOLEN.

Sir Charles Mathews, the Director of Public Prosecutions, has been victimised by some one who had access to his offices in the Treasury, Whitehall.

A small gilt travelling clock, some six inches high, marked with the initials "C. W. M.," was stolen from his rooms yesterday.

The clock is of French make, and was enclosed in a red leather case.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

The London police are investigating a remarkable daylight robbery with violence, which was reported by Mr. William Albert Kauffman, of Upper Kennington-lane, London, described as a dealer in precious stones.

He says that he was lured to a house in Belvedere-crescent, Lambeth, London, where he was struck on the head with a hammer and robbed of £3,000 in bank-notes. Two men attacked him. He was taken to St. Thomas's Hospital.

UNION OF EX-OFFICERS.

DEMANDS REGISTRATION OF ALL VACANCIES.

A crowded meeting was held at Cannon-street Hotel last night to inaugurate the National Union of ex-Officers which has been formed to obtain a redemption of the Government's promise that no man who gave his services to the country in its hour of peril should suffer want on his return to civil life.

Lieut. Derout, R.A.S.C., presided and said that many ex-officers felt very strongly that the Government was not doing all it might to assist them in finding employment.

Wherever officers went they found women in Government jobs which could be filled by Army officers, many of whom were in urgent need.

Captain Savage, R.W.F., said the Union was resolved to demand compulsory registration of all vacancies, immediate half-pay for officers while out of employment and, where possible, the replacing of women by men.

It has also been decided to formulate a scheme for co-operative trading amongst officers.

Major Horn moved a series of resolutions embodying these proposals which were carried unanimously. They will be forwarded to the Premier.

MORMON DUPE.

INFATUATION OF LONDON TYPIST.

A girl typist, Florence Papworth, 19 years old, residing at Brixton, who had become acquainted with the Mormon sect in London, and wanted to go to Utah, was summoned at Bow-street, for making false statements in order to get a passport.

It was stated by Mr. Harold Pearce who prosecuted, that the girl knew a man named Linford, who was a member of the Mormon sect, and that she also became acquainted with an American soldier named Estel Wright. The latter wanted to marry her, but she refused him. She wanted to go to Utah, but her parents, who live at Peterborough, objected. She applied for a passport, saying she wished to go to Ogden, Utah "for the purpose of joining my guardian." As a matter of fact, said Mr. Pearce, she had no guardian there and she forged the name of her parents. He added that a certificate signed by the president of the branch of Latter Day Saints at South Tottenham stated that the girl was a member.

The magistrate bound the girl over for 12 months on condition that she went to live at home.

FRENCH TRAITOR.

DRAMATIC CONFESSION AT COURT-MARTIAL.

A Court-martial is proceeding at Lille on a soldier named Richard who is accused of betraying a Lille schoolmaster who was head of a committee for helping soldiers to escape and had rendered assistance to Nurse Cavell.

Up to yesterday, accused denied everything, but when M. Delaubier, Director of the Red Cross at Roubaix, was giving evidence the accused rose in the dock and dramatically confessed everything.

He told a moving story of his relations with the enemy police, declaring that they beat him for hours in order to compel him to do their bidding. He confessed that at Lille, Maubeuge and Roubaix he acted as a spy. At Hautmont he drew up eighty-five reports against people, taking them to the German chief of police himself.

He received one hundred francs a month for his services, but when the Germans could not get any more information out of him they sent him to a prison in Germany, where he petitioned the Kaiser, asking for a pardon in return for his services to the police.

REGIMENTAL AGENCY.

Major Prince Arthur of Connaught and Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig have joined the council of the Regimental Agency as vice-presidents.

The agency has been in existence for fifteen years, and, especially since the war, has done much to alleviate distress among soldiers. The type of case dealt with is that of men who have been discharged unfit for further service owing to wounds or illness and who, after their discharge, have contracted ailments not actually attributable to their service but aggravated by their hardships at the front.

MISSING OFFICER FOUND.

Captain Evans, the officer, who, while home on leave from Cologne disappeared on July 7th, five days after his marriage, was found on Thursday walking along the permanent way of the Great Western Railway near Wormwood Scrubs. He could give no account of himself.

Despite the disturbed internal condition of Germany, determined efforts are being made, says the Central News, to establish commercial aviation on a permanent basis. To this end, a further fusion of interests among the various commercial aviation companies is being organized.

'I want my money where I can get at it'

WE all like to feel that we can lay hands on money if we want it. One reason why Savings Certificates are so popular is that they are cashable on demand.

You can cash one or all of your Savings Certificates at any time by giving two or three days' notice to the Field Post Office.

The wise man, however, will not part with his Certificates unless he is obliged to do so, for in five years the Government will pay a full £1 for every 15/6 invested in this way, or in 10 years £1.6.0. 10/6 profit on every 15/6 invested.

Then put it into

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

You can buy them at any Field Post Office, or your own Unit Association.

OUR CENTENARY.

This is the hundreth number of "The Cologne Post," the daily newspaper of the British Army of the Rhine.

It is fitting that some notice should be taken of a journalistic venture that is unprecedented in the annals of our army — a venture that has stood the stern test of time.

Our newspaper has won respect from the British and Allied press, and it has gained the appreciation of soldiers who uphold the honour of their country in an alien land.

"The Cologne Post" has had its times of travail. During most of these hundred days its staff has been small, its perils daunting, and its difficulties manifold. Errors have crept into its pages time after time, but the wonder is that these have not been greater. Do many of our readers know that our paper's type is altogether set up by hand and that all our compositors are German?

But "The Cologne Post" has had its share of success. It was the first paper to print the Draft Treaty of Peace — that was an achievement of which we are proud. It holds more and more the respect and interest of our troops. Their joys and sorrows, perplexities and complaints, ambitions and ideals have found expression in our pages.

As long as a British army guards the portals of Germany there is need for "The Cologne Post." But it should be remembered that our daily newspaper depends largely on the co-operation of its readers. When we appeal for sympathy and practical support we believe we shall not appeal in vain.

SERIOUS READING.

The number of letters on serious reading which have appeared in our columns indicates that there is a considerable interest in the subject in the Rhine Army, and certainly the encouragement of the young soldier to cultivate a taste for the more solid type of book is one of the most important phases of his education

While there are some people who are born with the literary bent, it may be either creative or merely appreciative, there is not the slightest doubt that the taste for good books is one which can be cultivated and which is very well worth cultivating.

As one correspondent pointed out, the only way really to know the beauties of the English language, and to be able to use it to the best advantage, is to read those masterpieces which show so wonderfully what possibilities our mother tongue possesses as a medium of expression.

One wit has suggested that people write gammar books because they cannot write readable English, and while, to the man who wants to know English well, a foundation of laws and rules is undoubtedly necessary, the only way to gain the power of facile and fluent expression, either in writing or in speech, is the constant reading of good English and the unconscious acquirement of words and phrases which result.

The comparative reflect which has fallen from the best of our English literature is difficult to understand. It may be that the word "classic" is discouraging and if the young mind is to drink even lightly of the Pierian spring, the process must be one of leading and not of driving. The attempt to nourish the mind of the average young soldier on Boswell's "Life of Johnson" or Herbert Spencer on Education would be foredoomed to failure.

By gradual steps through the magic gateway of English romance, however, an appreciation of the supremest creations of English literature may be attained.

As an instance, many of the stories of Robert Louis Stevenson would lead to the desire for a greater knowledge of the history and traditions of his country, and nothing would tend more to stimulate curiosity regarding old London, than the works of Dickens. This is a principle which can be extended indefinitely and which applies to almost any of our great romantic writers.

English literature is indeed a noble and precious heritage and should be regarded as such. The cultivation of a taste for it by serious reading is a thing which can never be regretted.

AFTER THE FIGHT.

From Battlefront to Farm Life.

The announcement in an interview that Marshal Foch is about to retire to the obscurity of a farm, indicates in a convincing manner the austere simplicity of the man. An attempt to estimate the historical achievement of the great soldier must be deferred to the historian of the future, but the unswerving loyalty to a single idea which dominated his actions and thoughts is as obvious to-day as years of study and comparison will make it.

To a soldier who has reaped the fruits of his labours, may justly be forgiven the desire to leave the world "trailing clouds of glory," but being denied that, it requires no little moral courage to voluntarily endure self-effacement rather than become the instrument of future political intrigue, which would necessarily centre round so commanding a figure in his country.

The simplicity of the Marshal's life has passed into the history of the conduct of war and no picture of his bearing under the flush of victory will endure as will such pictures as that of the Commander at a moment of great tension, retiring to prayer in the little chapel on the hill of Cassel.

The whole of his teaching in the science of war is marked by the insistence of the personal worth and determination of the leader, rather than upon the ability to apply technical knowledge at the right time. He insists upon the will to victory as being an invaluable asset to a commander. That he was the living embodiment of his doctrine has been amply demonstrated in the period during which he acted as commander of the Allied Forces.

The manner in which he has chosen to spend the remaining years of his life, proves that no spirit of personal gratification, no desire to satisfy personal ambitions, no desire to seize and use the impulses of power, have influenced his actions. The ambition which turned Napoleon from the path which would have led him to become a great administrator and has left his name in history as the greatest adventurer, is wholly absent from the character of this other great French soldier. It is in the voluntary renunciation of the great advantages, which his power gave him, that the greatness of Marshal Foch's character is shown, rather than in the measure of his achievement.

Meanwhile, before the great Marshal retires into the obscurity of his remote farm, he will prepare the book which will tell to the world how he applied the doctrines he had previously taught to the officers of the French Army, and which will be a fitting conclusion to the work in which he described to his pupils what he conceived to be the principles of war. T. C.

100—NOT OUT.

There is magic in numbers. It does not lie in the manipulations of figures by which scientists and mathematicians prove this or disprove that, but in the actual numbers themselves, their shape, their associations, their superstitions.

And of all numbers 100 stands out pre-eminent. Its practical use is to form the base of all calculations from the flight of time to the reckoning of interest, but standing alone, with its initial (its only compeer) and its two round cyphers it has an air of solidity and self reliance, of standing firm and unassailable, that is an absolute fascination. Ninety-nine is nothing. Add but the one, whether in runs, or pounds, or years, or issues of "The Cologne Post", and magic is in the very addition.

Looking back through the file brings fresh recollections of anxious days and arduous nights, especially before we reached our 'teens. We wonder at our temerity in adventuring such risk as the throwing of salvaged bombs by Chinese labourers at "our" telegraph wire which traversed the battle area and isolated us for two days, or of speeding up German compositors who, knowing no English, made signs to signify that they could not work because they were hungry.

Yet the old instincts, stifled by a greater call since August '14, responded to the call of the "ship" and the printing ink germs which cause that awful complaint cacoethes scribendi, ousted in turn those red corpuscles stimulated by the great game.

We have had our trials and our triumphs and we have attained our magic number. We are 100 to-day.

Our chief personal pride is of course that we scored the biggest "scoop" in the history of newspaper effort, a scoop that will stand to our credit for ever and a day. We published the Peace Terms at least eight hours ahead of the world's press and nothing can ever deprive us of the credit for that feat.

That we are appreciated by our reading public goes without saying. The Army buys us and Germany reads us. We are a romance in this important lodgment of the Empire. From our point of vantage we see the trend of things at home and we have our finger on the pulse of the Army of the Rhine. It is all right, let disgruntled agitators fulminate as the may. We could send them such a consensus of opinion as would astonish them.

And of our English public; what of them? As it happens, this hundredth number supplies one answer. English advertisers are well nigh overwhelming us. That is an infallible testimony to our achievement. Another lies in the fact that the names of very many who leave the Army of the Rhine are on our mailing list, a reminder to them, in the midst of the insensate bickerings and passions, that we are still pulling our weight in the boat as even Labour used to do.

So to-day, at reveille, we all, from orderly and copy-holder up to the chief, will don our khaki as usual and over our ration breakfast will critically study our own work. We shall look at the spot where we know it will be and think of the steps by which we attained it — our magic number. — 100. not out.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

SERIOUS READING.

Sir,—I welcome Lt. Patterson's article on the above subject. Reading must be encouraged.

The study of good literature forms the basis for correct speech and for this reason alone is urgently needed. The language of our soldiers is so corrupted by the habitual use of obscene words and over-worked slang, that many men are quite unable to express themselves in ordinary English.

A man must be able to appreciate a good book in order to enjoy it. Too many men are interested only in the pith of the story and pay no attention to the manner of the telling. Education and encouragement are both wanted in the matter.

Many of us who have had no opportunity for reading during the past two or three years, now have libraries thrown open to us. Let us use them.

H.K. PERCY.

Sir:—It has always seemed to me a pity that in compiling the syllabus of Education for the Rhine Army, more prominence was not given to the tremendous educational possibilities in the wise and judicious reading of good literature.

Important as is the preparation of a man for a civilian career, the other side must not be neglected. Man is something more than a machine for turning out national wealth.

He is a creature with natural emotions, desires and aspirations and unless these be wisely directed in the formative period (which applies to most of the men in the Rhine Army) chaos and disaster is to be feared.

Good literature is invaluable in the formation of ideas that are good, true and beautiful. Every young man should have placed in his hands a copy of Ruskin's "Sesame and Lilies".

The first section deals with the value of good books and the second with the sanctity of womanhood.

I should like to see our Educational authorities do something to increase the facilities for good reading matter.

"TOMMY."

THE RATE OF EXCHANGE.

Sir,—Your article on this subject would shock some people at home, who have been saying that a long period must elapse before business relations are resumed with Germany.

That the value of the mark is so low is largely due to the vast amount of paper currency in circulation, in comparison with the solid wealth of the country as expressed in gold, foodstuffs, and available merchandise.

We know that Germany is woefully short of many millions of pounds sterling worth of food and materials, and to obtain these she must pay intrinsic value for them. The payment for such necessities in gold will depreciate the value of the mark, as also will the creation of further issues of paper currency.

The rate of exchange is not exaggerated, and as regards the British salesman, if he has something to sell that is a necessity, the German will pay a big price for it, even at the "exaggerated" rate of exchange, as is instanced in the case of soap,—the commonest and cheapest tablet of which sells at 3.50 Marks, approximately 1/—. Would the British salesman say that is a poor price?

MARK.

RACING SUGGESTIONS.

Sir,—The chief fault of the totalisator system, is that one never knows what return may accrue for the outlay. This is a very strong point, for as "Driver" says, we all would rather know what we are going to receive should we be lucky enough to win.

Another question which I have heard in several quarters is, what proof have the public that the amount disbursed by the totalisator people is a fair proportion.

They may for all we know retain ten, fifteen or fifty per cent of the total amount for bets. I am sure that the visitors to race meetings would, if they bet at all, prefer to bet as the British have always bet at home, and which to their mind is far ahead of the "Continental System." H.Q.C.

THE START OF OLD AGE.

Sir:—The question of the first start of old age is a fascinating one, worth discussing, I think. For instance I see that Dr. T. Bodley Scott, the eminent physician says: "When shall old age be said to begin? At 65 in many, especially in those who have hardening arteries, 75 in the more fortunate, should be the answer, I think; but the beginning of old age should be only the setting forth on a slow downward path. There is a rough rule, I think, for the mammalia, that the years of life should bear a ratio to the years of their development. A dog or cat takes two to two and a half years to mature, multiply by five and you get the duration of life; a horse takes five years and lives to 25; an elephant takes 30 to 40 years and lives to 150 to 200; men who mature about 18 to 20 should live to 90 or more. We, however, fight so habitually against natural law that but few of us fulfil our years." Your readers' views would be interesting. SENEX.

A "DRY" TRAIN.

Sir,—Having read an article by "Captain" in Cologne Post dated 23rd inst., I would like to suggest that bottled beer be also supplied on the Calais-Cologne express. The journey from Cologne to Calais is now very comfortable, but a very dry job.

And stayed — he was amazed!
Takes off his hat,
And begs you that
His error be erased.

AQUATIC SPORTS.

EXCITING EVENTS IN ELIMINATING CONTEST AT BONN.

"YOUR FOURTH PRIZE TO-DAY."

The fourth of the series of the eliminating contests, which are to decide which battalion will represent the 1st Western Inf. Bde. in the competition for the Divisional "Skill-at-all Sports" Cup, took place at the Victoria Baths., Bonn on Thursday, when an aquatic sports meeting was held. The 1/4th, 9th and 52nd Battalions of the Cheshire Regiment were the participants, while the following officiated:—

Major Rodd M.C., D.A.D.O.S., Western Division; Capt. R. Peacock, A.G.S., IX Corps, Lieut. L. Parsons, Lancs Div. Sigs; Mr. R. Skeeles, X Corps H.Q.; C.S.M. T. Picott, A.G.S.

As in the previous competitions, the battalion amassing the most points in a single competition, were awarded 4 points, the second best, 3 points, and the 3rd best, 2 points.

EVENTS AND WINNERS.

100 Yds:—1, R.S.M. Brown, 9th Cheshires; 2, Pte. Whitfield, 1/4th Cheshires; 3, Sgt. Barry, 14th Cheshires.

200 Yds:—1, Pte. Pearson, 1/4th Cheshires; 2, Pte. Whitfield, 1/4th Cheshires; 3, Pte. Green 9th Cheshires.

Diving:—Each competitor executing one high dive, one dive with a run off the spring board and one dive optional:—1, Sgt. Thompson 1/4th. Cheshires, 2, Pte. Pearson 1/4th Cheshires, 3, Pte. Jackson 9th Cheshires.

Plunge:—1, Capt. Lonsdale 9th Cheshires; 2, Cpl. Moore 9th Cheshires; 3, Sgt. Barry 1/4th Cheshires.

Relay Race:—Battalion Teams—1st 1/4th Battalion, the Cheshire Regt. Team:—Sgt. Barry, Pte. Pearson, Pte. Withfield and Pte. Jones.

EXCITING POLO.

Though each event was most keenly contested, it was the polo matches which brought the intense excitement of the numerous spectators to its climax. Each battalion was represented by four men, and the usual five mins. each way was played.

There being three battalions, a "bye" was drawn for, being won by the 14th Cheshires, and thus leaving the 9th and 52nd Cheshires to meet each other in the preliminary contest. The 52nd won this match, easily registering three goals against their opponent's nil, and after 15 minutes rest, entered the water against the 1/4th Cheshires.

Then the air became electrified with excitement. Barely three seconds had elapsed after the command "Go"! when the swimmers were fighting for possession of the ball, and a right ding-dong match ensued. Both teams were well matched, but whereas the 1/4th team relied on the method of carrying the ball as far towards the 52nd goal mouth as was possible, the 52nd were sending in shots from all quarters with amazing rapidity and accuracy, and had it not been for the brilliant play exhibited by Cpl. Nixon the 14th custodian, the 52nd would have scored on several occasions.

RAIN OF SHOTS.

Shots were whizzing towards him every few seconds, yet each one was disposed of in grand style, until "Even the ranks of Tuscany could scarce forbear to cheer".

On the other hand, it was the weak shooting of the 14th which prevented them from scoring and after extra time had been played and still no score made, the match was postponed until a later date.

Undoubtedly the outstanding performance of the day, was that of Pte. Pearson of the 14th Cheshires. The remark of Lieut.-Col. Crookenden, D.S.O., of the 52nd Cheshires, as he was distributing the prizes, was sufficient testimony as to the part he had played in the gala "This is your fourth prize to-day, is'nt it Pearson?" he inquired, as he handed him the medal he had won for helping to bring victory to the relay team. His performance in the polo team also was excellent.

RESULTS IN POINTS.

Owing to the polo match not having been decided, it was impossible to ward the points for the whole of the gala, but for the actual swimming and diving, the result stands as follows:—

14th Cheshires 32 points;
52nd Cheshires 9 points.

The last of these series of contests will take place on the Borabeim Sports Ground, on Monday, when the championship of the Brigade basket-ball Competition will be fought for.

The Divisional Sports are expected to take place on August 8th. Further particulars will be forthcoming at a later date.

NAVY v. ARMY.

Major Brooke Runs Up 100 In Fine Style.

The King and Prince Albert were present at the cricket match between the Army and the Navy at Lords on Thursday. The feature of the Army innings was the batting of Major Brooke who compiled 100, hitting with tremendous power. Details:—

OTHER RESULTS.

Somerset beat Derbyshire by 3 wickets after deadly bowling by Robson, the veteran Somerset player, who took seven wickets for 19 runs in the 2nd innings. Scores:—

Somerset 132 and 62 for 7; Derbyshire 156 and 37.

Yorks defeated Northants by an innings and 196 runs; Yorks 380 for 3 declared; Northants 72 and 112.

Lancs beat Gloucester by an innings and 169 runs; Lancs 429 for 7 declared; Gloucestershire 156 and 104.

Hampshire beat Sussex by 64 runs; Hampshire 207 and 225; Sussex 249 and 119.

A BOWLING WIZARD.

J. C. White The Brilliant Somerset Amateur.

One of the outstanding bowlers of the season is J. C. White, the Somerset amateur. His performances the last three days may properly be described as sensational. In the match with Worcestershire, at Bath, he took 16 wickets in one day for 83 runs, and followed up this remarkable feat by dismissing ten Derbyshire batsmen for 81.

A summary of his triumphs this week is given below. His 26 victims have cost him just over six runs apiece:—

v. Worcestershire.

	o.	m.	r.	w.

WORLD'S TROTTING RECORD

9 Miles In 31 mins. 50 1/5 secs.

A new world's trotting record was accomplished by Walter Winands with his horse Myrtle Leaf on the London Trotting Club's course on Thursday. It covered 9 miles in 31 mins. 50 1/5 secs.

R.A.S.C. AT ALDERSHOT.

The annual sports meeting of the R.A.S.C. were held at Aldershot on Wednesday, when an interesting programme of mounted and dismounted sports was carried through. Capt. Blackmore won the silver cup in the officers' jumping competition, and in the N.C.O.'s jumping Sergt. Sharpe made a fine run with only one fault. The A.G.S. team won the Relay Race for the 3rd King's; Q.M.S. Usher, A.G.S., carried off the Quarter, and C.S.M. Stevenson won the Hurdles. Driver S. W. Hill won the medal for the best performance.

Another Fine Achievement.

A TIE FOR THE BEST BOWLING ANALYSIS IN "C.P.C." COMPETITION.

In our Thursday's issue we published three notable bowling records. Yet another claimant for supremacy has been brought into prominence in the person of Pte. Fulford, 51st Hampshire Regt., who has the same average as Pte. Curr. His analysis reads as follows:—

Matches	Overs	Maidens	Wickets	Runs	Average

51st AUX BUS COY (32 for 3 wickets) v 2nd BDE R.A.F. (28) played at Kalk on Thursday the 24th inst. The R.A.F. team batted first, and were dismissed for 28, no one reaching double figures. For the Bus Coy the top score was made by Pte. Driscoll 18. The outstanding feature of the game was the excellent bowling of Pte Tudor, who captained the Bus Coy team, and captured 6 wickets for 7 runs.

51st Kings Liverpool (154) v. 52nd Manchesters (22). For 51st Kings chief scorers were Pte. Clegg 48; Lieut. Little 33; Q.M.S. Heaton 23; while Lieut. Hayford took 7 wickets for 9 runs, and Lieut. Wiltshire 3 for 12.

ATHLETICS AT LIMPERICH.

"D" Bty. 168 Bde. R.F.A.'s Notable Success.

The above battery held their first sports meeting, which proved in every way successful, before a good crowd of spectators and in glorious weather. Amongst those present were Capt. Everson, O.C., Major Manhope, B/168, Capt. and Adjutant C. W. Basnett, M.C., Capt. Howard, A.V.C., Lieut. Bex M.G.C., and Lieuts. Hartridge, Tombs, and Rivett.

Punctually at 1.30 the pistol cracked for the first heat in the 100 yards, and the sport throughout was good, clean, and keen. Gnr. Morris created great fun during the afternoon in his fancy dress. The refreshment department, which was in the hands of Lieut. Rivett, greatly assisted the competitors and visitors alike, owing to the hot weather. Lieut. A. Tombs, R.S.M. Cox, B.S.M. King, and Sergt. Derbyshire worked very hard the whole of the day, but were rewarded by the great success of the meeting.

Much keenness was manifested by the sub-sections for the aggregate prize given by the officers. Cpl. Griffen proved himself "hot stuff" in taking five firsts.

A concert was held on Friday evening and was well attended, and the prizes were given to the various winners.

WINNERS.

100 yards:—1, Wright; 2, Watt; 3, Hempsall.

"Some" Circus.

The 1st Division, American Army Circus which is to be held in Cologne during the first week in August promises to be very successful. A life-sized menagerie, including real lions, tigers, bears, elephants llamas, water-buffalo, ponies and horses is a free adjunct of the main performance. In short, it is a real circus, the biggest in Europe to-day and probably the greatest show of its kind ever put on by soldiers. In addition to all, and to sort of cap the climax, a grand concert is given after each main performance. Twenty coloured minstrels keep you roaring with laughter or humming the jazzy tunes they sing. Typical old southern plantation minstrels they are, with all the humour and melody that naturally belong to negroes. There will be two performances each day; side show opens at 1.00 and 5.00 p.m. main performance at 2.30 and 6.00 and concerts follow each performance. Three days—August 1, 2 and 3 on the lower Amsterdamer Strasse, Football ground, near the Zoological Gardens.

Peace Celebration.

The staff of the 2nd Army R.A.R.C. celebrated peace on Thursday evening at Colonia Haus, where they arranged what proved to be a highly successful concert and dance. Members of the W.R.A.F., having been invited, turned up in good numbers and at the opening of the concert the hall presented a well filled appearance. Major M. Horwood R.F.A., as president of the Committee responsible for the arrangements, is to be congratulated upon the excellent work of his staff. Major Brixey as general factotum received splendid support from his stewards, Sergt. Hayes, Sergt. Long, Sergt. Hurren, Bdr. Hollis and Bdr. Farport. At the conclusion of the concert, supper was served and for the subsequent dancing the M.C. was Cpl. T.F. Collings, assisted by Gnr. Cox.

In few words.

A well thought-out and delightfully arranged paper on "Why I admire Sir Walter Scott" was given at the Y.M.C.A. reading circle at Euskirchen on Monday evening by Lance-Corporal Seaton.

Many well chosen extracts from various of Scotts' novels illustrated the paper, which was succeeded by a brief resumé of "Kenilworth," by Pte. J. K. Douglas and a bright discussion.

JACQUES.

OLD SCOUTS' CORNER.

On Saturday last we spent a very pleasant and interesting afternoon at one of the ex-Kaiser's summer residences at Brühl. We were fortunate enough to be shown round the state rooms, which were magnificent.

We returned to Lindenthal about 7.30 p. m. for a parting sing-song, at which a presentation of a magnificent and tasty inkstand was made to Mr.R.H. Percival in appreciation of his untiring efforts on behalf of the Rhine Army Old Scouts' Circle.

On Wednesday evening, we had a paper by L/Cpl. G.G. Storey (A.S.M. 21st Newcastle Troop), on "Psychology," dealing with the subject of teaching the boy; also a paper by Pte. Kreamer (S.P.L.28th Stepney Troop) on Promotions. A very interesting discussion followed.

Today we are going to Nippes, to explore the "whys" and "wherefores" of Tanks. Old Scouts will meet outside Durham House Y.M.C.A. (opposite the Zoo) at 3.0 p. m. sharp. Now roll up Scouts, and you will be welcomed by the circle and.

"ROVER."

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Saturday, July 26, 1919.

Wind light between North and North East. Weather mainly fair but some morning mist or fog. Moderate temperature. Fair visibility.

MILITARY SPORTS.

52nd Durhams and 52nd Devons Successful Meetings.

Yesterday there were at least two additions to the many Army sports meetings that have been held recently in Germany. The athletic ground near Mülheim presented a bright appearance by reason of the hundreds of flags that were utilised in its decoration and for marking the various courses. Here the 52nd Bn. D.L.I. held the first of a two-days athletic sports meeting in fine weather. Although practically confined to preliminary events, the sport was keen and interesting.

The meeting of the 52nd Bn. Devonshire Regt. was equally successful and took place at Burscheid where practically every member of the unit either took part in or witnessed the proceedings.

One of the most striking features of this event was the punctuality of the various items, this being assured by several contests taking place simultaneously.

CARPENTIER V. BECKETT.

Match may be postponed for two or three weeks.

It is just on the cards that the match between Carpentier and Beckett, fixed to take place at Olympia on Saturday, September 2, may be postponed for two or three weeks. Carpentier will not be released from the French Army until the end of August, and he finds his military duties will not admit of his training as he desires for such an important match.

WILDE V. KID DOYLE.

No Match at Present.

The statement made at Manchester that Doyle had been matched to meet Jimmy Wilde in September is contradicted. Mr. Teddy Lewis, manager of Wilde, interviewed by the "Sportsman's" Cardiff correspondent, said there was not the slightest foundation for the statement that Jimmy Wilde has been matched to box Kid Doyle for £200. Jimmy is off to America in September, declared his manager, and such a match is therefore out of the question.

FRENCH FLY-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

In the twenty rounds contest for the French fly-weight championship on Wednesday evening Bouzonnie beat the challenger Borot in the eleventh round.

ENGLISH RACING.

Liverpool Results.

The race meeting was continued at Liverpool on Thursday, the following being the results:—

Sandown Handicap:— Shoemaker (4-1 on); Indian Feast. Two ran.

Course Handicap:— 1, Dart Up (13-8); 2, Polismen (6-1); 3, John Chinaman (7-1).

Knowsley Dinner Stakes:— 1, African Star (5-2); 2, Keysoe (2-1); 3, Wilson (2-1).

Molineux Plate:— 1, Diadem (7-4); 2, Pendion (3-1); 3, Trogon (9-2).

Lancs Breeders Stakes:— 1, Southern (10-11); 2, Sunny Moya (7-4); 3, St. Corentin (10-1).

Southport Plate:— Piraeus (11-10); Jasper. Two runners.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Dick Smith.

Dick Smith has won more championships than any other present-day boxer.

Contest Postponed.

The boxing contest between Tom Noble (England) and Ledoux announced for yesterday has been postponed.

Record Broken.

The record of 67 strokes for the Ashford Manor golf course has been broken by A. G. Kirby, the present Ashford professional, who went round in 65 strokes.

Preston North End.

Preston North End have signed on J.W. Lees, of Northwich, who can fill either of the inside forward positions. He is at present serving with the R.F.A. at Fulwood Barracks.

The Stymie.

There is really no more characteristic feature of modern golf than the neglect which has grown up among the amateurs, and in a lesser degree among the professionals in efficient practice of the stymie.

Sir Abe Bailey's Youngsters.

Sir Abe Bailey's youngsters have not done wonders as yet, but Southern, Magic Note, and All Prince should certainly not have a blank season, while Gipsy Lad and Wilson are already mentioned in connection with the Cambridgeshire.

At Enghien.

With the fields large, good sport was seen at Enghien steeplechase this week.

Three Catches.

Howell, fielding as substitute for Charlesworth in the Warwickshire team at Birmingham, brought off three catches.

Wealthy Owner.

Net personalty to the amout of £122,107 was left by Mr. William J. Compton, a director and steward of Sandown Park, and an owner of racehorses.

Midland Champion Leading.

Breed, the billiard champion of the Midlands, is leading the Bury man, Tothill, in the seventh heat of the tournament at Thurston's Hall, London, by 2,001 to 1,231.

World's Fly-Weight Champion.

Undoubtedly Wilde stands out by himself as the fly-weight champion of the world, and to this class, especially for important engagements, he should confine himself.—"Straight Left" in "Sporting Life."

1,000 runs.

Makepeace, of Lancashire, who completed his 1,000 runs for the season during the game with Notts, is the sixth player to do so. The others are Hendren (Middlesex), Hobbs and Ducat (Surrey), George Gunn (Notts), and H. L. Dollins (Australians).

To-day's Fixture.

Plymouth Argyle and Exeter City meet at Plymouth to-day in a friendly match.

Trainer Marsh.

Sir A. Black's horses and those of Mr. Barton will now be trained by C. Marsh, and one can only wish the newcomer luck at the famous training establishment.

Tom Ball Memorial.

It is hoped to arrange a professional golf competition on the Raynes Park course in September in connection with the scheme for a memorial to the late Tom Ball.

Cricklewood to Brussels.

A four-engined Handley Page, piloted by Lt.-Col. W. S. Douglas, flew from Cricklewood Aerodrome to Brussels (200 miles) in three hours.

Minor Counties.

The minor counties cricket match between Hertford and Stafford, at Watford, resulted in a draw. Scores: Hertford, 243 (Hylton-Stewart 119), and 53 for eight; Stafford, 242 (E. H. Bourne 80).

Air Racing.

A fixture which should give a much-needed fillip to air racing is the contest for the Jacques Schneider International Trophy, which will be decided on September 10th over a circuit of about thirty miles, starting from Bournemouth and taking in Swanage and Christchurch.

Sporting Mayor.

The Mayor of Brighton took the chair at Wednesday's meeting of the Brighton and Hove F.C. shareholders.

Sale of Runners.

After the Sutton Plate, the two runners, Laugh and Hagiology, were submitted to auction. The former was retained for 300 guineas, and the latter was purchased by Mr. A. Newey for 185 guineas.

£560 Tourney.

The qualifying competition of the Eastern Section of the Professional Golfers' Association for the £560 tournament at Walton Heath will be held at Doncaster on September 24.

Fulham's New Men.

If Reynolds is out of the Army, the old Dartford man will probably return to the Fulham Club, and meanwhile the services of Nixon under the bar may be reckoned upon. New men at full-back include E. Worrall (Sheffield Wednesday) and Chaplin.

High Praise.

The bowling merits of Lee (Middlesex) were under discussion recently among a party of cricketers, and came in for high praise from one of them. Asked for his reason, he replied: "Well, you see, I provided him with his first wicket in county cricket!"

Echoes from Rhineland.

Gradient Shunting.

Apropos the paragraph "More Economy" in a recent issue, it is pointed out that the system of gradient shunting is in use extensively in England. Two of the larges' sidings, namely, Toton on the Midland Railway and Colwich Sidings on the Great Northern, have, it seems, used it for many years. A reader says that a visit to either of these English sidings would convince anyone that we have little to learn from Germany in this direction.

German Primitiveness.

Some of the methods of work among German peasants are surprisingly primitive. For threshing certain kinds of crops, the old-fashioned flail is still used. The sheaves are placed on a rough convas cloth, which catches the seeds; and a stout ash stick, about eighteen inches long, attached to a long handle, serves as the flail. On one occasion, when this work was in progress, noticing the interest it aroused amongst some British soldiers, the farmer asked "Nicht in England?" On being told "no," he seemed to be very much surprised.

Another example.

Every German farmhouse cannot apparently boast of a grindstone for the purpose of sharpening the agricultural implements. The method which was noticed, in the case of a scythe for example, is very quaint — one would think unique. A flat square-headed piece of iron was driven into a wood block; the edge of the instrument was then placed flat on the top of the iron head, and the process of sharpening consisted in tapping the edge with the thin head of a hammer! We wonder how the English farmer would view work of this kind.

Street Gardens.

The horticultural ornamentation of busy streets is observed to a superlative degree at Wiesbaden. The result is extremely agreeable. Splashes of bright colour with a background of green are dotted about the open spaces in the town with undeniably good taste. Many of these miniature gardens have picturesquely laid out flowerbeds and without exception they receive long and careful attention at the hands of the municipal gardeners. Such decorations help to make town life tolerable.

Now, the R.C.'s.

Those soldiers who are R.C. in religion cannot, even if they wish to, excuse themselves from attendance at public worship, for their churches stand at almost every corner, and the services are practically every hour from six o'clock until noon on Sunday mornings. But the wideness of these facilities has its disadvantage, and the chaplains would be very glad if their men would concentrate themselves as much as possible on the particular church, in their area, which has been nominated for them. In Cologne the church in Minoriten Street has been set apart for the Army at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. each Sunday, and if every R.C. soldier in the area would only attend either Mass or Benediction at this church, a serious effort could be made to organize a choir, a "mixed" one, for the ladies could help as well.

German Houses.

A correspondent comments on the type of doors to be found on German houses. He points out that the glass panels of doors, even in residential districts, are almost invariably reinforced with iron bars of an ornamental description, but which are obviously placed there partly from considerations of utility. Even more puzzling to the British people is the German habit of keeping the garden gate locked during the daytime, but this probably arose out of abnormal wartime conditions, and the consequent prevalence of burglaries.

Quick Postal Service.

Yesterday reference was made to the German method of clearing the postal pillar boxes. Another thing that now will be noticed is that from the majority of them there are a dozen collections each weekday, eight or nine taking place after midday. On Sundays there are four collections. Our own Post Office in England has a fine record for accuracy and punctuality, and postal workers in the Army will have their work set if they mean to outrun the home service or the civil one in Cologne. But what an inspiring work it is! Knowing the geography of the British Isles to perfection; preventing letters to Poole on the South Coast going to Pool in Yorkshire; delivering all the little privacies of correspondence to their fellow soldiers promptly and intact. Truly, a job in the Post Office is more honourable than one in the cookhouse.

"4711"

Cologne and his wife as well as their guests, bidden and otherwise, are well acquainted with the celebrated eau-de-Cologne which is known by the number "4711". How many, especially of the guests, are aware of the origin of these mysterious figures? Some have hazarded the guess that this was merely the official number of the concoction when it was first registered. Others, with less ingenuity have propounded the theory that it was the result of the 4,711th attempt on the part of the indefatigable discoverer. The real origin, however, lies in the fact that the perfume was first manufactured in the house in Cologne which bore the number 4711 at an early period in the history of the city, when all the houses were numbered as they were built.

Unlucky 13.

One often hears that there is luck to be found under the Number nine, and none under the unlucky "13". An instance of the latter case has just occurred at a local Infantry's unit's sports meeting. A member of the Cavalry Division entered in the open mile race to try his luck. He arrived on the sports ground after a struggle and changed, but as it was raining decided to wait in a tent on the ground, with several others. Imagine his feelings when on going out to run, he found the race was actually taking place, in fact it was just finishing with a favourite in front. The unfortunate non-starter "let go" his feelings at the worried officials, but it was of no use, the "deed" was done. On looking at his number given to him for the race, the victim of ill-luck discovered, it was that horrible "13".

A Handy Implement.

One of the handiest cheap novelties to be found in the local shops is a small pencil sharpener. A blade of decent steel is rivetted to a framework made of compressed fibre, this latter being impressed with the word "Granate." It is the most genuine thing for its purpose that we have yet come across, and anyone wanting a novelty souvenir for young folk at home would do well to lay in half-a-dozen or more. Any objections that might be made as to helping Germany's commercial revival can be met by the statement of fact that the purchase of a pencil sharpener lengthens the life of a pencil and so reduces our spending account on the Continent.

Fields for Research.

The realm of compressed fibre, by the way, is as yet, only a partially developed region. For many occupations and processes, we are still without a satisfactory substitute for glass and pot. Our photographic readers know well the shortcomings of xylonite dishes, their inflammability, their saturating capacity, and the difficulties of thoroughly cleansing them. And anyone with a fountain-pen knows its liability to break if dropped on a hard floor. Everywhere there is a room for improvement, and if we on the Rhineside would turn some of our spare moments to the technical problems that occur to us, each in our own sphere, some very valuable commercial patents might result.

Village Concert Halls.

One cannot but notice in one's travels throughout the occupied territory, the numerous concert halls the village folks possess. In practically every village one finds these large halls in which the German civilians held many a happy gathering in the good old days before the war. "What a contrast to most small villages in "Blighty," which can only boast of one small schoolroom!" writes a correspondent. Of course these spacious village halls have been used the past five years for far different purposes than song and harmony. Possibly many housed prisoners of war.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

GERMANY'S GREAT REFUSAL.

STARTLING REVELATION OF PEACE OVERTURES WHICH WERE SPURNED.

COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT.

THE OLIVE BRANCH.

WHY GERMANY REFUSED TO DISCUSS PEACE.

"Germany ran into death with open eyes."

This remarkably candid utterance was made by Herr Erzberger in the National Assembly at Weimar yesterday, in the course of a revelation which has already convulsed the German Nation. Germany refused the opportunity of Peace in 1917, preferring to trust to the arbitrament of the sword.

Erzberger's disclosures were the consequences of a fierce attack on the Government by the Nationals.

POPE AS MEDIATOR.

At yesterday's meeting of the German National Assembly, Herr Erzberger, Minister for Finance, revealed the details of what has long been known, viz:— that the way to Peace was open to Germany in August 1917 and that it was deliberately rejected.

That his declaration caused a great sensation in the Assembly goes without saying. It opens the eyes of the German nation wider than ever. They are realising to the full, how grossly betrayed and deceived they were as to the actual responsibility for the war.

In August 1917, the Pope was asked by the Allies to ascertain from Germany a statement of its intentions with regard to Belgium, as being the essential to any talk about peace.

Germany refused on the ground that the military situation was in her favour!

The Papal Nuncio at Munich, through whom the exchange of notes was made, is reported to have wept when he announced this deliberate rejection of the olive branch.

ERZBERGER'S STATEMENT.

In his speech, the Finance Minister said that peace overtures were made by Great Britain and France in August 1917. A letter from the Papal Nuncio at Munich was addressed to the German Government, stating that England and France had asked the Pope to point out to Germany that a formal statement about Belgium would be of the greatest importance in rendering peace possible.

The German Government was asked to make known its intentions towards Belgium and to state what reparation it was proposed to make. A statement of what military, political and economic guarantees were required by Germany was also requested.

The Nuncio's letter concluded with an assurance that satisfactory answers to these points would make peace negotiations easier.

SCANT COURTESY.

Erzberger declared that this letter of the Papal Nuncio remained unanswered for four weeks! It was not until the 24th September that the German Government, the Chancellor being then Michaelis, gave an answer which contained the following:—

"We are not yet in a position to fulfil the wish of Your Eminence and to give a decisive declaration of the German Government about Belgium. The reason for that is not that we are not inclined to make such declaration, but that the assumptions for such a declaration do not appear to be warranted!"

Erzberger declared that the Apostolic Nuncio on the 30th September 1917 received him at Munich with the words: "All is lost. Your poor Fatherland also!"

TEXT OF LETTER.

The letter ran as follows:—

To the German Chancellor. Your Excellency! I have the great honour to send to your Excellency the copy of a telegram which had been delivered by His Excellency the Ambassador of H.M. the King of England at the Holy See to His Eminence the Cardinal State Secretary. The French Government participates in the statement contained in the same telegram. His Eminence is full of the desire actively to continue those efforts for the early acquisition of a just and durable peace which the Government of the Kaiser has shown such a readiness to accept.

Therefore His Eminence asked me specially to point out to Your Excellency the question of Belgium and to get:

(1) A formal declaration about the intentions of the Imperial Government as regards the complete independence of Belgium and the reparation for the damages done to Belgium by the war.

(2) A formal statement of the guarantees Germany wants for her political, economical and military independence. If this declaration is satisfactory, His Eminence thinks that an important step will have been made for the further development of negotiations.

As a matter of fact the Ambassador of Great Britain has already announced to his Royal Government that the Holy See will answer to the declaration contained in the telegram as soon as the answer of the Imperial Government is received through my intermediary.

I beg to express in addition that I am fully convinced that your Excellency, with whose elevation to the highest position the peace proposal of the Pope coincided, and who has shown such favourable sentiments towards peace, will acquire immortal merit for the Fatherland and for the whole of humanity, if by a conciliatory answer the good progress of peace negotiations is made easier. In such expectations I have the pleasure to express the sentiment of my highest consideration and have the honour to remain,

Yours devotedly

COAL STRIKE.

ADJUSTMENT OF RATES AND HOURS.

A meeting of the Cabinet was held yesterday morning to consider the industrial situation and there seems every reason to hope that a settlement of the question of piece rates for miners will be effected. The sub-committee appointed by the Miners Federation, in accordance with the Premier's suggestion, reported to the Executive as to how the formula would work out in different districts. A sitting of the Federation Executive was followed by a visit to Downing-street where they were received at once by the Premier.

They were in conference with the Government representatives for nearly an hour, during which time they put forward approximate estimates of how the Government formula for the new piece rates would work. The conference then adjourned to give the Government an opportunity to check their estimates. The situation is generally regarded as hopeful. Miners representatives again met the Premier in the early evening and Mr. Smillie travelled North last night further to consult the miners.

After the close of the evening conference with the Premier, the Miner's Executive issued an official statement with the Government on the formula as to increased rates for piece workers.

The effect of the agreement is to obtain a 14.2 per cent. increase in rates where the reduction in the working day is that of one hour. In view of the agreement the Executive of the Miners Federation strongly urge all affected districts loyally to carry out the decision, and where men are now idle as a consequence of the dispute, the committee appeals to them to resume work. It is thought there will be a general resumption of work in all affected districts on Monday although in Yorkshire it will take some time to get the pits workable.

The majority of the miners want to return to work, but Mr. Smith, the Miners President, still feels that a settlement must be made with Yorkshire independent of London.

Yesterday the Unions paid out the first strike pay of 9s. per man—not a very satisfying amount to men who are amongst the best paid in the country. If the Yorkshire leaders decline to accept the Federation settlement they will run great risk of finding themselves discredited.

BULGAR ATROCITIES.

MASSACRES ACCORDING TO PLAN.

The Inter-Allied Commission appointed to investigate the Bulgarian atrocities in Eastern Macedonia has published its report. This establishes the fact that Bulgaria carried out a systematic plan for the destruction of all Hellenic elements, making full use to this end of famine and deportation. At the time of the Bulgarian invasion the population of Macedonia numbered 305,000. There now remains but 225,000. Of the remainder 3,200 died in the country and 12,000 in Bulgaria; 42,000 were deported and 12,000 emigrated. The responsibility for this, says the report, falls entirely on the Bulgarian Government and the Bulgarian High Command.

EX-KAISER'S TRIAL.

Lord Curzon, speaking on the Peace Treaty Bill in the House of Lords, said it might be that the trial of the ex-Kaiser would not be held in London. He thought there was great force in the consideration that the event should not be converted into a spectacular show or allowed to interrupt the daily flow of national life. As no decision had been arrived at on the point, it by no means followed that London should be the place selected.

The French traitor Richard has been sentenced to death by court-martial at Lille.

SITUATION IN EGYPT.

TRANQUILITY COMPLETELY RESTORED.

Mr. Harmsworth, replying to Captain W. Benn, in the House of Commons yesterday as to the situation in Egypt, said that the total approximate numbers of killed and wounded during the recent disturbances in Egypt were, according to telegrams received from General Allenby on July 21:—

Natives: Killed 800; wounded, 1,500.

Europeans: Killed, 31 (composed of British 4, Greeks 7, Armenians 19, Jews 1); wounded, 35 (composed of British 2, Greeks 7, Syrians 3, Armenians 22, Jews 1).

Military casualties: Killed 29 (composed of British officers 3, British other ranks 17, Indian other ranks 9); wounded, 114 (composed of British officers 8, British other ranks 70, Indian other ranks 36).

Forty-nine natives had been sentenced to death, and the sentences of penal servitude and detention were as follows:—Life, 27; ten—fifteen years, 82; five—nine years 203; under five years, 118. Sentences of imprisonment as follows: Two years, 193; one—two years, 202; under one year, and sentences of fines, 2,873.

In a telegram to the Foreign Office, dated July 9, General Allenby stated that he had decided, as from July 15, to put an end to the military courts constituted to try offenders connected with the recent disorders, in view of the complete restoration of tranquility in Egypt. With the exception of offences committed against members of the British forces, all cases would henceforth be dealt with by the ordinary civil authorities. General Allenby further stated that he was remitting three months from the sentences imposed by military courts in connection with the recent disorders, and releasing persons interned in Egypt on political grounds.

SHOTS AT POLICE.

CRIMINAL'S WORLD-WIDE RECORD.

At the Old Bailey, Frank Long, 29, a hairdresser, was indicted for shooting at two policemen with intent to murder, and, alternatively, with intent to do them grievous bodily harm. When called upon to plead, prisoner said, "I want to be hung right away."

Mr. Eustace Fulton, for the prosecution, said Police-constables Ost and Wright were on duty in Holmwood-gardens, Finchley, on June 29, when they saw a man apparently keeping watch on one of the houses. He made a noise, and the prisoner came out. Wright called out to Ost, who had gone across the road. "Stop him," and heard three pistol shots. He then saw prisoner fire three more shots at Ost.

Inspector McEvoy said prisoner's record from his finger-prints showed that he had been convicted three times in this country for uttering counterfeit coin, and once in Natal and once in Melbourne. He believed his real name was Samuels.

Prisoner was found guilty of shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Mr. Justice Roche, in passing sentence of five years' penal servitude, said he believed the prisoner was no more insane than anyone in that court. There must be a marked distinction between burglaries and those which were accompanied by shooting.

RHINELAND REPUBLIC.

Reuter's Agency states that a conference on the question of the formation of a Rhenish or Rhenish-Westphalian Republic began on Thursday morning in the Düsseldorf Town Hall, under the chairmanship of the Prussian Premier, Herr Hirsch. According to the "Düsseldorfer Nachrichten", about 150 persons were present, including the Commanding General of the Seventh Army Corps, and the Chief President of the Rhine Province, together with representatives of the provincial authorities and Rhenish municipalities and of industrial and agricultural interests. Herr Hirsch said the opponents as well as the supporters of the plan had been invited. The Chief Burgomaster of Cologne, Herr Adenauer, said no decent-minded man in the Rhineland contemplated such an undertaking as that carried out by Dr. Dorten and his associates in Wiesbaden. It must, however, be recognised that the Rhineland's position was exceedingly difficult.

DISTRESS IN SLESVIG.

A message from Slesvig states that the situation there, particularly in northern Slesvig, is most critical as the inhabitants there are not receiving any of the great American food supplies sent to Germany. It is also declared that the German authorities have prevented the despatch of Danish food shipments to Slesvig, and that German soldiers and marines are persecuting the Danes. It is added that the occupation of Slesvig is a matter of urgency.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

The British Air Ministry intends to send out a mission to make certain that the terms of the air clauses in the Peace Treaty are duly carried out by the German Government.

THE KING'S FLAGS.

AWARD OF COLOURS TO EVERY UNIT.

An Army Council instruction issued yesterday announces that the King has approved of the presentation of silk Union flags to each service, young soldier, graduated, and garrison battalion of the Regular Army, to each second and third line Territorial Force battalion, to each Territorial Force unit which has served as infantry, and which under its normal organisation is not entitled to a guidon or colours, and to each battalion of overseas troops (except rifle battalions) which has served abroad during the war.

These flags will represent the King's colour, and are to be granted all the salutes and compliments authorised to be paid to colours. In the case of battalions that have been disbanded or that have otherwise ceased to exist the final disposal of the flags rests with the commanding officer and officers of the battalion at the time of disbandment, subject to the proviso that they are to be deposited in some sacred or public building in the locality where the unit was raised. Battalion titles and numerals may be embroidered on the flags, provided they are in accordance with the design approved for a King's colour.

PROFITEERING.

COMMITTEE OF INQUIRY.

The names of the members of the promised Parliamentary Committee of Inquiry into profiteering are:

Coalition Unionists.—Mr. T. Inskip, Col. F. S. Jackson, Mr. P. Hurd, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Mr. R. A. D. Carter, and Major P. Lloyd-Greame.

Coalition Liberals, — Major H. Barnes, Mr. T. Robinson, and Sir W. H. Cowan.

Labour.—Mr. Vernon Hartshorn, Mr. T. H. Sitch, Mr. A. Short.

Liberals. — Mr. George R. Thorne and Mr. J. S. Holmes.

National Democratic Party. — Mr. T Simm.

The terms of reference are: "To inquire how far the present high prices of articles of general consumption are due to excessive profits on the part of any persons concerned in their production, transport, or distribution, and to advise as to what action may usefully be taken in the matter."

CANTEEN PROFITS.

ADMINISTRATION OF HUGE AMOUNT.

The War Office announces that the Government has approved the organization for the disposal of canteen profits accumulated during the war, considerable sums being involved. These profits will be devoted to the benefit of disabled and discharged officers, N.C.O.'s and men and to widows, children and orphans of soldiers; and the provision of social recreation for the benefit of serving and ex-serving soldiers. It is the intention of the new organization to make use of existing machinery for the purpose and it is hoped the new scheme will take the form of the United Services Fund.

General Sir Julian Byng is leaving the army for the purpose, having been appointed chairman of the board of management. The executive committee will include representatives of all ranks of serving and ex-serving men and women.

SURGICAL APPLIANCES FOR EX-OFFICERS.

In the case of artificial limbs for disabled officers the cost of repairs and renewals (due to fair wear and tear) is already borne by the State. The Ministry of Pensions now announce that it has been decided to make similar arrangements in respect of surgical appliances, other than artificial limbs. The serving officer will continue to bear the cost of repairs and renewals of artificial limbs and appliances until he is retired, but on his retirement the Ministry of Pensions will undertake such cost.

HUNGARIAN ADVANCE.

On July 20th the Hungarians began a great offensive against the Roumanians, who were forced to retreat. The Hungarians crossed the Theiss at several points.

In the orthern district, however, they were repulsed and the Roumanians regained Hodmetzo and Varhily. The battle continues with great violence along the whole front. The aim of the Hungarians is to get in contact with the Russian Bolshevists.—Havas.

POLICE BURGLARS.

FURTHER CHARGES TO BE BROUGHT.

Thomas Maxwell, a police sergeant, and Albert Shaw, a police constable, both of Hampstead, were charged on remand at Marylebone with being concerned in a burglary on July 13, at 19, Nethernall-gardens, Hampstead. The two men, it was stated, were found in the house in a drunken sleep, and a quantity of goods had been made up into bundles.

Mr. E. F. Barker, who appeared to prosecute for the Commissioner of Police, said the value of the articles tied up was about £50. There would be a second charge against the prisoners of being concerned in a burglary at a bootmaker's shop in Rosslyn-hill, Hampstead, on Feb. 18 last. Most of the property stolen on this occasion had been found on Maxwell's premises, but some had been traced to Shaw. "I am very sorry to have to inform you," added Mr. Barker, "that subsequent charges will have to be proved."

The Magistrate: You mean further additional charges from Hampstead?

Mr. Barker: I am afraid so.

Both prisoners were again remanded, bail being refused.

SURPLUS WAR STORES.

DISPOSAL BOARD'S HUGE BUSINESS.

The latest official figures of sales of surplus Government property show that the sum realised up to July 12 is now over £141,000,000, including transactions amounting to £32,800,000 completed after the date of the armistice and prior to the setting up of the Disposal Board of the Ministry of Munitions, and £76,000,000 for sales on trading account and £65,000,000 for other surplus stores. Of the amounts received in one week the following are noteworthy: Mechanical transport, £272,096; ferrous metals, £131,682; non-ferrous metals, £722,760; and chemicals and explosives, £204,476. The total mechanical transport sales to date amount to £1,729,000.

AMERICAN COMMANDER IN COLOGNE.

General Allen, Commanding the American troops on the Army at the Rhine, visited Cologne yesterday, when he was the guest of the British Commander-in-Chief General Sir William Robertson. General Allen, who was accompanied by General Harts, was received by General Robertson at the Excelsior Hotel, and inspected a guard of honour furnished by the 1/6 Battalion, (Prince of Wales' Own) West Yorkshire Regiment, which was drawn up in line in front of the Dom.

Other officers in attendance were General Haldane, Commander Sixth Corps, Brigadier-General Fuller, Acting C.G.S. and Lt.-Col. Dillon, General Robertson's private secretary.

General Allen having taken the salute, he was introduced to Bt. Col. T.W.S.M. Howard, Commanding the Guard of Honour, and having inspected the men, expressed himself pleased with their turnout.

Taking up a position immediately opposite the entrance to Army Headquarters, General Allen watched the march past, and entering his motor-car drove away.

The proceedings were watched by a dense crowd in which the civilian element predominated. The traffic and spectators were admirably controlled by the military police on duty.

WORK FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

It is announced that Mr. J. Landfear Lucas, of the Spectacle Makers' Company, has been invited to confer with the authorities of the Royal Automobile Club with respect to his suggestion for the further appointment of disabled ex-Service men as county motor guides throughout the United Kingdom. The club regards the employment of the discharged soldiers and sailors as one of the most important problems of the moment, and loses no opportunity of helping its solution. Ex-Service men, especially if disabled, are engaged whenever practicable.

"QUEEN MARY'S OWN."

An Army Order issued last night announces that the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the 18th (Queen Mary's Own) Hussars being in future designated "The 18th (Queen Mary's Own) Royal Hussars."

GERMAN WAR DEBT.

Herr Erzberger has declared that the total war expenditure of Germany would amount to £1,250,000,000. Of this sum about £400,000,000 could be raised from sources already tapped, but the remaining £850,000,000 could only be got a tax on important and vital industries.

The French President, M. Poincaré, and Madame Poincaré, who were accompanied by M. Pichon, Foreign Minister, and Marshal Foch, have returned to Paris from Belgium.

CHEAP "MONEY."

PRICE OF IMITATION £10 NOTES.

At the Central Criminal Court, before the Recorder, a man named Ernest John Wallis was found guilty of having in his possession 31 pieces of paper upon which had been printed words and devices resembling those on £10 Bank of England notes. He was sentenced to twenty months imprisonment with hard labour.

The charge had relation to "Bank of Engraving" notes. Police-constable Baker, who found the notes in the prisoner's possession, stated that the prisoner remarked, "That is nothing. You can buy these for 3d. a time in Petticoat-lane."

Mr. Hudson, of the Bank Note Department, Bank of England, gave evidence as to the resemblance between "Bank of Engraving" notes and genuine ones, and pointed out that the "£10" in the corner was exactly similar. He mentioned that the paper used for printing Bank notes had for centuries been manufactured in Devon.

In the witness-box the prisoner declared that the notes had been left behind at his house by a man whom he had befriended. It was not true that since 1916 he had been carrying "Bank of Engraving" notes and circulating them on racecourses.

WINESHOP MURDER.

STARTLING NEW EVIDENCE AT INQUEST.

Important medical evidence was given at Hendon yesterday when Arthur John Biggin was charged on remand with the murder of Thomas Gregory at a wineshop on July 4th.

Prisoner, whose confession has already been disclosed, declares he committed the crime in self-defence.

Dr. Francis Andrew, divisional surgeon, described the injuries on the body of deceased and said that in his opinion the blows were inflicted while the victim was on the ground.

A new witness was Mrs. Fitch, who has a tobacco business in Colindale road. She said that on June 30th accused came into her shop, bought a sheet of notepaper and an envelope and asked permission to write a note. He said he did not want a stamp as he was dropping the note in a friend's letterbox. The letter ran as follows: "Dear Old Bean, I called this morning and found you were out. Will call later in the week."

Prisoner, who pleaded "not guilty" and reserved his defence, was committed for trial to the Old Bailey.

CIVIL SERVANTS.

ALIENS TO REMAIN IN OFFICE.

In reply to questions in Parliament Mr. Bonar Law stated that the Government had decided that it would not be justified in breaking its contracts with officials of enemy origin, who had already received permanent appointments in the Civil Service and whose good conduct and loyalty were not in doubt.

Mr. Joynson Hicks suggesting the appointment of a committee to consider the matter, Mr. Bonar Law said the matter had been carefully considered, and especially from the aspect of the desirability of giving these appointments to British-born subjects. A large proportion of these men went and fought on the understanding that they would come back to their posts.

SOLDIERS' FUNERALS.

The deduction of a sum of £5 for funeral expenses from the estates of men who have died from war disabilities, is the subject of a protest to the Ministry of Pensions by the Federation of Discharged Sailors and Soldiers.

Sir L. Worthington Evans, the Pensions Minister, has promised personal attention to the matter, and it is understood that instructions are to be issued authorizing the repayment of the money.

GRANTS FOR TRAINING.

During the week ending July 22 the Grants Committee of Ministry of Labour sanctioned the giving of 344 grants under the Government scheme for training ex-Service men, whether officers or men from the ranks, of similar educational qualifications, in civil careers. The total of grants made up to date is 1,950, and of these 885 are for officers and 1,065 for other ranks.

ROYALTY BARRED.

A resolution providing that members of families that have at any time ruled in Germany shall be ineligible for election to the Presidency of the German Republic has been adopted by the National Assembly at Weimar.

LIBERTY.

To remain an interested spectator of current home affairs and retain a spirit of optimism is becoming increasingly difficult. The truth is we must revise some of the terms and phrases in our political vocabulary. A beginning might be made with the word Liberty.

The use of the word is now largely restricted to a certain class of orators who do not appear to realize the consequences which may arise of the interpretation of their eloquence. Truly language was given to us to conceal our thoughts.

One of the reasons for the present unrest is attributed to our intervention in Russian affairs. But it would be interesting to know how a British striker's definition of the word would compare with that of a Russian workman who is "conscripted" to work in a state factory.

At a time when most sane men have acknowledged that the nation should be concentrating all its energies upon productive labour we are confronted by the spectacle of an intransigeant element who have deliberately struck at the destruction of a portion of our main factor of production. And if those have failed to see that in their actions they have struck at the liberty of every other man outside their circle there is a practical cause why such actions must cease. Frankly the general production of the country by which it is hoped to reconstruct the financial stability of the country is not so satisfactory as it might be.

The German workman has by his training and government been made amenable to discipline and is now being organized to undertake the work of capturing the European markets. Sentiment plays little part in trade relations and we cannot expect our recent allies to erect prohibitive tariffs in our favour. Therefore we shall find ourselves excluded from the very markets which now present most favourable opportunites for the development of our trade.

Our indebtedness to other countries can only be redeemed by maintaining successful trade relations so that any hitch in the activities of production will have far reaching results. It is not to be believed that the men responsible for the present state of affairs had any other object in view but the settlement of minor antagonisms. But the present is not the time to dissipate our energies in such actions.

If we are to retain pride of place among the nations we must be prepared to forego personal advantages in order to further the common weal. Any other policy will strike directly at the root of our common liberty, and it may be pointed out that liberty as the world knows it to-day, has been one of the most valuable British additions to political thought, it has been studied in our country by the thinkers of other countries who have been employed upon political reconstruction and we cannot now be expected to resign our interest in it.

The situation though acute is by no means hopeless. Remedial measures are not required so much as a little clear thinking and that is not beyond the powers of any man. It only requires to be recognised that Liberty in the abstract is not to be interpreted by Licence in practice.

CAN YOU WRITE?

We should like to publish a great many more articles written by officers and men on any topic likely to be of general appeal. We pay for all accepted articles etc., and except that nothing should, as a rule, exceed 500 words in length, we place no restrictions on would-be contributors.

A LITTLE BIT OF HEAVEN.

I entered a Palace Beautiful one day and my soul rejoiced within me, for I knew that here fed-up men, home-sick men, love-sick men, could find solace and refreshment to cheer them up and help them on their way.

I saw a thronging crowd of happy warriors ever around the portals of this Palace and none were refused admittance. They were welcomed with a warmth which would chase away the heaviest cloud of despondency.

I spoke to one of these men and enquired of him the secret charm of this place and he replied: "It is a little bit of Heaven." "Why!" I thought; that explains the song of another traveller:

"I have been there and still would go
'Tis like a little heaven below."

To find this abode of bliss even in a strange city! Oh! the joy of it; Heaven in Cologne! Angels in Cologne! Long, long ago I used to sing: "There are angels hovering round." I could not see them then, but my eyes are now opened.

I see them in the Palace Beautiful. Ten! Twenty! Fifty! not in flowing robes of white but in neat blue uniform and also at times in striped dresses with a most becoming cap. There are ministering angels, and very much alive.

They wait on you whilst refreshing the inner man, guide you around the strange city and show you many wondrous things, likewise they dance with you in fancy robes. They are, in fact, the life and soul, the light and sunshine of this Palace which is called beautiful.

I caught one glimpse of the Queen of these angels, she had a winning smile and a charming name — Miss Decima Moore — so now I draw aside the curtain and my Palace Beautiful is revealed as the British Empire Leave Club.

Here Tommy can eat, drink and be merry. Here read, write and play billiard and skittles. Here he can sleep in peace and here too he can dance. How he appreciates it too! I looked inside the billiard room: it was full. I entered the writing room, and in that secluded spot who could help writing the most flowing love letters ever penned?

The dining room was a picture, the tables were covered with snow white cloths and decorated with flowers. Here food was not rationed; enough for all, and of the best, not food merely, but sparkling beverages.

The garden with its little tables and numerous chairs was charming. I went to the bazaar and found a surging crowd of eager buyers. Here you can purchase anything and not be robbed by high prices.

The great hall with its beautiful decorations and splendid floor impressed me.

Here too, a crowd of happy men were gazing on the cinema screen and following the adventures of a hero in love.

We were all in love, in love with the Club, its organizers, its generous supporters. It is truly a little bit of heaven, and, to come down to earth and talk of money, it only costs each man 8 marks a day for everything, bed, four meals, river trips and city drives, in other words 2/3. G.K.

THE PASSING OF A.B. 64.

On 1st August, the soldiers pay book officially known as A.B. 64, ceases to be used, and the Rhine Army will revert to the former system of recording soldiers' accounts by means of the well-known pay and mess book. The decease of the familiar little brown covered book is appropriately lamented in the following letter:

Dear old Friend! Can it really be that we have to part at last? Hast thou not been my faithful companion since that day when I took thee almost in the light of a passport to carry me to the regions of hell?

Did I not place thee over my heart, and have I not kept thee, and guarded thee as faithfully as the fondest lover could have guarded the speaking likeness of the one girl in the world?

Could'st thou speak! Ah, how thou would'st remind me of my sensations registered in heartbeats, when I first saw that city whose name is for ever seared into the pages of history, Ypres. Did those heart beats tell of fear when that first shell burst so near? Enough! The emotions of a Celt are vivid, and sacred to himself.

Let me take one last long look at thy pages, where each entry calls up such striking memories. "In the Field—francs!!" This entry almost makes me look for my boots with thoughts of the September mud at Le Havre. The same entry a few days later is instinct with memories of that first endless train journey in the war zone.

Then there follow entries of varying amounts during a long period; the smaller sums telling of weeks spent away from shops and estaminets; the larger ones recalling hopes, too seldom realised, of a day trip to P——that Mecca of the English soldier.

Then, in red ink, comes an entry which acts as a veritable "Open Sesame," "Granted leave to the U.K." Memory registers the period which followed as one of the very few in life when "expectation" did not fall short of realisation.

The following months are marked by pencil, black ink, red ink, and even copying ink; entries covering periods of enthusiasm and suspense, success and retreat, until that last continuous advance and the subsequent move to the Rhine.

Many men are keen collectors of souvenirs; some enthuse over autographs; but the only souvenir I would like to keep is my A.B. 64, with its power of recalling old scenes of army life, its autographs of nineteen officers so closely connected with that life, its records of training in Blighty, dates of inoculation, vaccination, medical treatment, musketry classification, and even the size of my first gas musk.

Was there ever a book so instinct with power to revive the varying emotions connected with life in the war zone?

I would I could keep thee to be my companion during many future fireside evenings in dear old Blighty. But the fiat has gone forth!

My Paybook, My Friend, Farewell.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

DANCE ROOM ETIQUETTE.

Sir,—"Runner" is quite right in criticising the holding of a lady partner's wrist at arm's length. I have more than once been hit in the face through this stupid manner of dancing, and if "Dancing Londoner" really thinks that such an attitude in dancing is correct, one can only deplore that such a fine art should be so degraded.

To "cake-walk" or "jazz" during a waltz or other dance is not only a mistake, it is extremely rude and discourteous, especially if these foreign dances are not on the programmes.

I have often found that these and other eccentric dances (in name and movement) are resorted to by those who cannot waltz, but yet don't mind if they spoil a set of waltz by their animal-like capers.

"WALTZER."

Sir,— I cordially agree with your correspondent "Runner" that the practice of some of the dancers "Jazzing" during a waltz is very annoying to other dancers.

Probably the offenders could only "see themselves as others see them" the ridiculousness of attempting to "Jazz" during an obvious waltz tune would be very apparent to them.

E.E.

Sir,— I agree with your correspondent, "Jazz" that there is much to be admired in modern dancing. "Jazz" when "Jazz" is being handed out by the noise merchants, but for the sake of looks alone do not try to "Jazz" when the orchestra is playing "Where my caravan has rested."

"HAWKEYE."

DOGS IN CHURCH.

Sir,—We must admit the truth of "Parson's" remarks respecting animals in general, and "dogs in church" in particular. If the dog is trained aright, it cannot do harm in church. In isolated cases, once allowed, the custom would grow, besides which we should have to trust to the individual wisdom of each owner.

Thus we should see the man with the untrained dog bringing his, simply because others bring theirs, the "others" being in the first case the owners of the trained dogs.

There would result from this the desecration of God's house. In theory, "Parson" is right; but in practice—well I'm open to doubt. "GUNNER."

DISPLAY OUR TROPHIES!

Sir,—There seems to be a tendency in England at the present time for town and parish councillors to have captured guns and other trophies of the war (kindly presented by the War Office) consigned to the rubbish heap or else dumped in a river.

Can't something be done to stop this nefarious practice, which seems to be on the increase.

Possibly these local demi-gods overlook the fact that many brave fellows paid the supreme sacrifice in the gaining of their "relic" and for this reason the fruits of their sacrifice should be treated as things of great value and not as eyesores." "LET THEM STAND."

LOOKING BACKWARDS.

Sir,—I was passing a certain restaurant last night, when I saw the following notice in the window: "Concert—all the latest London successes."

I called in for some refreshment and anxiously waited for my ear to be tickled by the very newest gems from London town.

After a short time the band struck up with "Good bye my Blue Bell," followed by "A bicycle made for two" and "After the ball."

Of course the old airs were quite acceptable and brought me back a few years, but were they up to the description outside? JACKY.

DECORATIONS.

Sir,— I, too, would like some enlightenment on the subject of the ribbons your correspondent mentions.

Whilst on a visit to Paris recently I was struck by the number and variety of the ribbons worn by the Americans. As "dazzle" effects they were "it."

Perhaps our friends from "over there" have struck out in a line of ribbons on their own. I am sure that some of the ribbons being worn were not the much discussed Allied War Ribbon.

UNDECORATED.

AN OFFICER'S WAIL.

Sir,—Cannot something be done to improve the officers' clothing depot at Cologne? Many officers have to travel long distances to replace deficiencies in kit and on arrival cannot be served. After waiting for over two hours to-day, I was turned away as it was closing time.

About twenty officers were in similar circumstances. Most officers are unable to be in Cologne during the morning and my experience shows it is only those who can get down as soon as the depot opens in the afternoon that have a chance to be served.

WORN-OUT TUNIC.

THE SCOTS' SWEETHEART.

There's a land that waits me as a bride waits her lover,
Whose blush is the heather, whose veil is the mist,
Whose clouds are the twilight reluctant to cover
The face, bright with welcome, that waits to be kissed.

The voice of my bride is the ripple of water
That swirls in sweet sweetness adown the dim glen,
Embraced by the sea as its loviest daughter,—
O Scotland, I long to be with thee again!

There are skies that are clearer and suns that are brighter,
Where lovely enchantments enticingly woo?
But nowhere the homecomer's heart may beat lighter,
For he who loves Scotland can ne'er be untrue.

DIVERTING SPECTACLES AT RHINELAND ATHLETIC GATHERINGS.

The daily round in many Rhineland villages is being agreeably diversified with athletic meetings, horse shows, etc., and at a number of these much amusing ingenuity is exhibited. To-day we give reports of a sports meeting, at which a German fireman and a Fraulein were impersonated. At another the latest type of "R 34" came on the scene.

R 34 — NEW TYPE.

Develops engine trouble at 52nd King's Sports.

The 52nd King's commanded by Lieut.-Colonel C.E.R.G. Alban, D.S.O. held their Battalion sports and athletic meeting at Ronlinghoven on Monday. The morning's programme consisted of the running off of flat race heats and the preliminary tug-of-war, great enthusiasm being shown when a comparatively light team of "B" Company after a heavy struggle beat the far more massive team of "D" Company.

The running of Sgt. Wood in the 100 yards, and 440 yards and hurdles was splendid, and Pte Macey, the all-round athletic of "D" Company, maintained his usual standard in the long jump.

"D" Company deservedly won the company trophy, largely due to the individual efforts of the company commander, Captain R.G. Foss, M.C., who after the sports was carried shoulder-high round the field by his proud company. The officer's V.C. race, too, was a huge success, the Padre being a very popular winner.

A LADY PILOT.

About 3 p.m. the R 34 arrived in great style, being piloted by a lady in a dress of many colours, but once on the ground it developed engine trouble almost immediately, and in spite of the manfully efforts of the lady pilot, who practically stripped herself in her zeal to effect repairs, it crashed in the neighbourhood of the pillow fighting pole. The pilot (Cpl. Woods) and the navigator (Pte Fielding) were fortunately renamed.

Throughout the meeting, the band of the 13th Kings, lent by kind permission of Lieut.-Colonel Thurston and officers of that battalion, functioned very cheerily.

Among the race meetings of the day were the side shows under the able direction of Lieut. Wilson and 2nd Lieut. Hardy, where cigarettes, cigars and other luxuries could be obtained by knocking off the hat of a perambulating private, or by kicking a football into a sail.

Mrs. R.S. Spooner very kindly consented to present the prizes, and Brig.-General T.S. Lemon, C.B., C.M.G., commanding the 1st King's Brigade, made a short speech congratulating the battalion on an excellent and well organised meeting and the keen spirit of competition that has been shown throughout by all ranks.

INTER-COMPANY TUSSLE.

51st Bde D.L.I. Sports near Mülheim Bridge.

On Wednesday afternoon, the sports of the above regiment took place on the bank of the Rhine, just above Mülheim Bridge. They had been postponed from the 22nd, owing to the bad weather, and even on the 23rd the weather could scarcely be described as ideal. However, in spite of the frequent showers a large number of spectators were present. The inter-company cup aroused great interest and was won by "T" Company, who obtained 57, "X" Coy, being second with 35.

The band of the 52nd Bn. The Durham Light Infantry, by kind permission of Col. Frinzell, D.S.O., M.C., played selections during the afternoon.

Not a Sport for Women.

In a circular letter sent to the Prefect of every French Department, the Fédération Française de Boxe declares that boxing is not a sport for women and that none will be allowed to take part in any boxing competition sanctioned by the Federation, which prohibits boxing contests for youths under sixteen years of age.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Sunday, July 27, 1919.

Surface Wind light between West and North-West. Cloudy generally with morning mist. Continuing cool with fair visibility.

FIREMAN AND FRAULEIN.

C. Coy. 24th Hants Regt. Athletic Sports.

It is not often that one has the opportunity of witnessing such good talent as was recently displayed at the above Company sports at Buchholz. The entries were numerous and competition keen. The band, conducted by Sergt. Stubbington, was in attendance and an excellent programme was rendered. Much amusement was caused by the appearance of Ptes. Robinson and Purdue dressed as German fireman and fräulein respectively. At the finish hearty cheers were accorded to Major H.C. Westmoreland, D.S.O., who distributed the prizes, also to Capt. J.L. Thomas.

The following were the officials:—Judge:—Lieuts. H. Hodgson, C.H. Brown, M.C., and Lieut. Sowerbutts; Starter:—Capt. J.L. Thomas; Clerk of the course:—C.S.M. Paterson; Marshalling competitors:—2nd Lieuts. Isaacs and Gibbons; Refreshments:—C.Q.M.S. Cassell; Tape stewards:—Sgts. Bell and Wager; Recorder:—Sgt. Peters.

SIX-IN-HAND COACHES.

Pleasing features at D Coy., 9th M.G.C. Sports.

The above highly successful meeting was held on Saturday, at the Company sports fields, Rumrath. The weather on the whole was very fine. A pleasing feature was the presence of the two Bands of the 171st Regt. d'Infanterie Française, courteously lent for the occasion by the Colonel Commanding. The masterly handling of the trumpeters was as delightful as the rendering of the pieces by the instrumentalists. The six-in-hand coaches, too, of Headquarters "A", "B", "C" Companies also struck a note of piquant originality.

Of the many officials, each one surpassing the other for zeal and popularity, a few are worthy of special mention. The judges were Lieut.-Col. Percy-Knox-Gore, Majors Kinsey, Keyser, and Bennett; starter:—Lieut. Laughton; starters:—Lieuts. McClintock and Burke, and whipper in, the C.S.M. The Totalisator and the Canteen were in the capable hands of Lieuts. Illingworth and Martin respectively.

The Colonel brought the meeting to an end at 7.40 p.m. with the presentation of prizes, and the visitors, who included some French ladies, and the whole Company, voted the sports a remarkable success.

SERVICES CRICKET.

Army defeats Navy by an Innings and 76 Runs.

MATCH AT LORD'S.

The cricket match between the Royal Navy and the Army was continued at Lord's on Friday, when the Army easily defeated the premier service by an innings and 76 runs.

Final scores:—
Army . . . . . 390.
Navy 1st innings 117; 2nd innings 147.

COUNTY MEN IN ARMY XI.

The match was entirely confined to officers, and the Army had a number of well-known county men, including W. M Turner, of Essex, A. W. Carr, the captain of Nottingham, Nigel Haig, the Middlesex batsman and a nephew of Lord Harris, F. R. Brooke, of Lancashire, and F. C. G. Naumann, of Surrey and Oxford University. Another well-known figure associated with Somerset cricket before the war was Major P. R. Johnson.

OTHER RESULTS.

Kent 164 and 46 for one; Surrey 75. Wooley took 7 for 36, and performed the hat trick.

Yorks 498 for four declared; Gloucestershire 73 for six.

Australians 371; Notts 369 for six.
Essex 331; Hants 60 for two.
Warwick 259; Lancashire 188 for three.

SPORTS AT WAHN.

Exciting Contests between Bedfordshire Regiments.

In splendid weather on Thursday, a large concourse of spectators enjoyed some exciting contests between the various units in the 2nd Eastern Brigade. The following by their untiring efforts contributed largely to the success of the gathering:—

Major C. G E Shearman D.S.O., M.C., Referee. Major H S. Kreyer D.S.O. Lieuts. Spear, Noke, Kincaid and Tyson, Judges; Lieut. Tully, Starter; and Lieut. Jarvis, Timekeeper. C.S.M. I. Robbins A.G.S. acted as Marshal with the assistance of R.S.M.'s Lawrence, Walker and Lummer. Major A. Grover, D.S.O., M.C., acted as Recorder.

C.P.C. MATCHES.

"E" CORPS SIGNALS (56 for 7) v. 104 BDE. R.F.A. (20) at Euskirchen. Bowling for Signals, McDonald took 5 wickets for 13 runs and Boddy 4 for 7. These two bowlers have bowled unchanged throughout the competition, the highest score compiled against them being 51. Below are averages to date:—

	M.	O.	M.	R.	W.	A.
Boddy	14	116	37	193	55	3.5
McDonald	14	112.3	25	241	71	3.39

52nd BN. N.F. (106) v. R.A.A. BTY. R.A. (87). The N.F.'s batted first and scored 106 of which Cpl. Chadwick was responsible for a fine effort of 53. The Aircraft section made a good response and at one time looked like making a close finish, but with the sixth wicket down for 85, the remaining batsmen only got 2 more runs and finished up with a total of 87. Lieut. Emery took 5 wickets for 34 runs, and Pte. Hallas 3 for 17.

52nd BN. N.F. (73) v. 5th RAILWAY TEL. COY. (14) at Süz. The 5th R.T.C. batted first and scored 44, of which Sapper Shaw was responsible for 17. Lieut. Emery (5 wickets for 11 runs) and Lieut. Porter-Hargreaves (4 for 30) bowled very well, the last named taking the last four wickets in four balls. The 52nd N.F. replied with 74, having passed their opponents score with 2 wickets down. The chief scorers were Lieut. Emery (24) and Cpl. Chadwick (11)

121st HEAVY BTY. R.G.A. (50) v. 42nd FIELD AMB. (28) at Bonn. The Heavies were in good bowling form, Bdr. Hafield capturing 5 wickets for 10 runs while Major Jordan (21) was top scorer. For the losers Cpl. Langford took 7 for 19.

LONDON D.M.T. COY. (123 for 9) v. 51st R WARWICKS (51) at Mertenn. The D.M.T. Coy. won the toss and put the Warwicks in to bat first. The batting was very slow, 5 wickets falling for 22. The last five wickets only put on 29, the final score being 51. The best scorers were Lieut. Richards 15, Pte. Smith 14, and Lieut. Marshall 10. The batting of the D.M.T. Coy. was better, the final score being 123 for 9 wickets. For the winners L/Cpl. Davis made 37, Cpl. Wright 26, and Pte. Jacobs 24. Pte. Jacobs also took 5 wickets for 20, and Lieut. Wright 3 for 25.

41st BN. M.G.C. (62 for 2) v. WAHN SURVEY DET. (60) at Heimar. The Survey Det. batted first, but could make little progress owing to the steady bowling of Driver Gerrard (8 wickets for 25) who performed the hat trick, and were all out with a total of 60 runs, the only bat men making double figures being Cpl Beaulay (13), Cpl. Jones (14) and Lieut. Davis (12). For the Gunners, Lieut.-Colonel A. G. Barry (20 not out) was top scorer, while Major D. Bompfrey (11 not out) and Lieut. T E. Andrews (22) were the other successful batsmen. The gunners declared the innings closed, on account of the rain. They however, managed to surpass their opponents score with 2 runs, and 6 men still to go in.

THE DAVIS CUP.

Tie Between Home and S. A. Teams Begun.

The Davis Cup tie between the British Isles and South Africa commenced at Devonshire Park, Eastbourne, on Friday. The home team is A. R. F. Kingscote and A. H. Lowe, or T. M. Mavrogordato, in the singles, and Roper Barrettt and A. R. F. Kingscote in the doubles. For South Africa, G. H. Dodd and L. Raymond carry the colours in the singles, and H. Aitken and G. H. Dodd in the doubles. B. I. C. Norton has been left out. Major R. J. McNair skippers the British Isles team, and C. G. Watson is referee.

1st days results: — Singles — Mavrogordato beat Raymond 1—6, 7—5, 2—6, 8—6, 6—1. Kingscote beat Dodd 6—3, 6—3, 6—2.

Liverpool Cup Result.

ARION WINS PREMIER RACE AT AINTREE: CHUETTE SECOND.

Lord Jersey's horse, Arion, who won the Jubilee this year and who has been improving in form ever since, won the Liverpool Cup on Friday. Chuette (Capt. G. C. H. Davy), who was also greatly fancied, ran second, and King John (Capt Giles Loder) third.

The following were the results at Aintree on Friday:—

Juvenile Selling Plate:—1. Orange Water (3 to 1); 2. Le Verguier (7 to 4 on); 3. Mother Shipton (5 to 1).

Grasmere Handicap:—1. Sunline (11 to 4); 2. Summers Joy (5 to 4); 3. Emerald Glen (11 to 4).

Jollile Plate:—1. Pick Your Way (5 to 2); 2. Adorna (9 to 2); 3. Princess Joan (6 to 1).

Liverpool Cup:—1. Arion (6 to 4); 2. Chuette (3 to 1); 3. King John (33 to 1)

Croxteth Plate:—1. Shoemaker (5 to 2); 2. Mrs Jawleyford (11 to 8); 3. Carapace (7 to 4).

Du ham Handicap:—1, Sea Voyage (5 to 1); 2, Racerock (7 to 2); 3, Challow (100 to 30).

GOODWOOD MEETING.

Favourites for the Steward's Cup on Tuesday.

The chief favourites for the Steward's Cup at Goodwood on Tuesday, are Irish Elegance, and Racket. Roideur, too, is a horse not to be despised, having beaten Irish Elegance at Newbury. Still, no one should assume that the latter was showing his best form. Racket, regarded by many as the fastest three-year-old in England over five furlongs, will doubtless stick the pace—the Stewards Cup is an easy course, although six furlongs.

STEWARDS' CUP TRIAL.

At Newmarket this week, Loates's Racket, engaged in the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood, won a trial gallop over six furlongs by a length and a half from Sundari.

THE AMERICA CUP.

Sir T. Lipton on a New and Secret Invention.

Sir Thomas Lipton is very hopeful regarding the prospects of Shamrock IV. in the next race for the America Cup. According to an interview with the challenger in "Golf Illustrated and Outdoor Sports," a new and secret invention has been discovered by yachting experts, which, it is said, is likely to have a marked influence on the result.

Expressing his conviction that with this secret invention Shamrock IV. will accomplish what all his other cup challengers had failed to do, Sir Thomas added that however good Shamrock IV. was when she completed her cross-Atlantic trip in 1914, she will be an even more powerful racing machine when she crosses the starting line in the first of the cup races. All rules governing the competition will be observed, but beyond stating that a radical change in the Shamrock's rig has been decided upon Sir Thomas desires to withhold further information.

PTE. ELLIOTT'S CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

The following has been received from L. A. C. Devlin, 92nd Squadron, R. A. F., Eil:—

"Having seen the challenge in your paper to-day of Pte. R. Elliot, I am willing to accept the challenge for the best of 10 two-minute rounds, providing the fight will be promoted at an early date."

HALLAMSHIRE ATHLETIC SPORTS.

An obstacle race that afforded considerable amusement for the spectators as well as a severe test of athletic skill for those taking part in it, a large contingent of really funny clowns and an excellent band, were among the features that made the sports of the 1/4 h Yorks and Lancs thoroughly enjoyable at Blucher Park, Cologne, yesterday. There was a large crowd of spectators present and the sport provided some very keen competition. Owing to lack of space, the prize list is held over.

The fourteenth annual general meeting of the Automobile Association and Motor Union was held at the Savoy Hotel this week.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Seating for 6,000.

The First American Division Circus promises to be one of the most pretentious Army Amusements that has ever visited Cologne and a huge attendance is predicted. I am asked to state that civilians, German and others, are invited. Special bleachers will be constructed in the Amsterdamer Strasse Football Grounds, where the circus is to show, with a seating capacity of about 6,000.

Stage-coach Hold-up.

This is a splendid opportunity for the British forces in Germany to see at first hand some of the exciting features of the much talked-of Wild West. Not only will untamed, bucking horses be saddled and ridden, or at least an attempt made to do so, and fancy cow-boy tricks carried on, but a complete act, vividly portraying a western stage-coach hold-up with a band of fierce redskins, and their blood-curdling yells, a beautiful heroine and gallant rescuing cowboys, will be staged.

A Good Dude.

Pte. Robinson, of the R.A.M.C., who is at present with the New Bing Boys Concert Party, is a first rate "dude," and is very popular with his audiences in his military numbers. Before the war he was a member of the various Will Glasse and Cecil Morley Concert Parties, and since he donned khaki he has been in the "Owls," the entertainment which achieved such a success when it toured Ireland.

Leave Club Plans.

To-day the Rev. C. P. Wheeler will hold a chat in the writing room from 5 to 6 p.m. At 6.50. the Band of the 1st Eastern Infantry Brigade will give a concert in the theatre, Miss Ada Moore will give two songs, and Miss Somers Cocks will play the cello, Pte. A. Moyes will also sing. On Monday there will be an impromptu concert in the music room from 5 to 6 and at 6.30, a practice dance in the theatre. On Tuesday an impromptu concert takes place in the music room at 5 p.m., and also a dancing class in the theatre from 5 to 6. At 7 p.m. the Chequers Concert Party will give a performance in the theatre.

Altered Hours at Leave Club.

I am asked to say that from Wednesday next, 30th July, the hours of the entertainments at the Club will be an hour later in order that the men may take advantage of being given an hour later in which to report to barracks. Concerts will begin at 8 p.m. instead of 7 p.m. and dances will begin at 7.30 instead of 6.30. The whist drive at present is the only entertainment that will commence at the original time, of 6.30.

Learn Music.

Harry Lawrence writes with enthusiasm of the advantages of music study. He says: Last night I had the good fortune to be present when the Rhine Army Choral Society gave its performance at the Central Y.M.C.A., Cologne. The work of the choir under its conductor was splendid. The violin playing of Miss Elsa West was superb; her rendering of Bohm's "Moto Perpetuo" evoked a storm of applause. Boys! Join the Rhine Army Choral Society. You can all sing. It says so in notices that I've seen somewhere. Its practice evenings are advertised in "The Cologne Post."

"The Recuperators."

Their many friends in the Rhine Army will welcome the news that "The Recuperators" Concert Party have recently arrived from France. The fine series of successes which made them noted are likely to be eclipsed in Germany, judging by the splendid programme which they put on at their first public appearance in Cologne on Thursday evening. They entertained at Colonia Haus members of the W.R.A.F. and the staff of the 2nd Army R.A.R.C. and from the commencement it was evident that they had lost none of their old nerve and dash.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Record Attendance.

The attendance at Aintree on Wednesday was a record for a Liverpool July Meeting.

Good-bye.

Gainsborough's turf career is stated to be over. He has left Manton for his owner's place.

Newmarket Wedding.

Miss Shiela Marsh, daughter of Richard Marsh, the Egerton House trainer, is shortly to be married at Newmarket to Mr. W. H. Tolhurst.

Service Skippers.

Commander G. Harrison, the Navy's captain, and Maj. D. C. Robinson, the captain of the Army cricket team, had the honour of being presented to the King at Lord's.

Nice Jumping.

Racing will be resumed in the South of France with a meeting at Pau on Oct. 5, 8, 11, and the big jumping affair at Nice is also to be brought off as usual after Christmas. There is talk, too, of a new course at Cannes.

A Redeeming Virtue.

Mr. Alec Waugh, the precocious young author, whose books and speeches make such violent attacks on the Public Schools, is about to be married to a daughter of Mr. W. W. Jacobs. Mr. Waugh has redeeming virtues—he is a player of Rugby football.

The Cesarewitch.

Entries for the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire close on Tuesday, Aug. 5.

Very Fractious.

Piraeus, who eventually won the Southport T.Y.O. Plate, was very fractious before the tapes were raised, and delayed the start.

First Aid.

The establishment of roadside telephones and first aid facilities for motorists were foreshadowed at the annual meeting of the Automobile Association.

Big Score Sequel.

G. T. S. Stevens, the Middlesex cricketer, was presented with a silver rose bowl in commemoration of his recent score of 463 not out while with the University College School.

Professional Championship.

The Moniffeth course, Forfarshire, will house the Scottish professional golf championship, which is to be played on the 10th and 11th October. D. P. Watt (Mortonhall), who won it in 1914, died whilst on active service.

Still Playing.

Mr. Alex. McDonald, the Otago forward in the famous New Zealand Rugby tour of 1905, is still playing. According to a New Zealand writer, he is the last remaining original "All Black" to keep on playing.

Silver Racquet Tie.

The Hon. C. N. Bruce won his first round tie for the M.C.C. Silver Raquet at Lord's beating V. W. Yorke by three sets to two.

R. Crokers "Gee-gee's."

The sale of Mr. R. Croker's horses has been fixed for the evening of the second day of the August Meeting at Leopardstown, which is close to Glencairn.

Improvement Scheme.

The Stewards of the Irish Turf Club have decided to carry out a considerable scheme of improvement in connection with the stand accommodation at the Curragh.

Harrow's Best.

At the Harrow School swimming sports J. E. Minoprio proved himself to be the best swimmer at Harrow this year. He won the Ebrington, big, and the sixth form events. C. M. H. Harmsworth won the Ebrington, small and the plunging events, the latter with 43ft. 4in.

Norman Ross.

Norman Ross, the American swimmer who won the cross Paris swim on Sunday, has no intention of attempting to swim the Channel as has been announced. He has already departed for America to meet the Hawaiian (Duke Kahanamoku) for the world's championship of a hundred metres.

Lighsome.

The Paraffine Lass filly has been registered Lady Flare.

Shoemaker Sold.

Shoemaker was sold to Mr. R. Day for 270 guineas, while Dart-Up was retained at 440 guineas at Liverpool this week.

Rugby Legislator.

Mr. H. W. Jones, M. A., the well-known Irish Rugby football legislator and old Monkston secretary and player, left personal estate of £2,130 14s. 6d.

£10,000 Races.

Time was when the Leicester executive used to run £10,000 races, but the experiment proved a very costly affair, and nowadays the programmes at Oadby are framed on much more modest lines.

S. Y. Vanadis.

The well-known steam yacht Vanadis has been purchased by Baron H. Linden and renamed Finlandia. She has been overhauled and fitted out at Southampton, and has left the Solent for the Baltic on her way to Stockholm.

Skull Caps for Jockeys.

The committee of the V.R.C. (Australia) have passed a new regulation providing that in all races under its rules every jockey or rider shall after Aug. 1 wear a skull cap of approved design and material. The idea is to minimise the effect of racing accidents to jockeys.

Echoes from Rhineland.

"The Dog Hunt."

A novel sight may be seen in Cologne to-day. According to regulations, all dogs must, on account of the prevalence of rabies, be muzzled and lead in public. To ensure that no dogs are running about loose resort has been taken to a procedure instituted ten years ago. A man walks through the streets with a large strong net about one and a half yards in diameter and with a short pole handle, which he drops over any unsuspecting dog which he wishes to catch. He is accompanied by a closed waggon, like a small Black Maria, in which he confines his captures. The owners of the dogs can receive them back on payment of a fine. There are amusing scenes when some "tike" takes objection to this rough treatment and some difficulty is often experienced in transfering the capture to the waiting vehicle.

Now, Engine Experts!

A reader says that an engine of the type described in this column the other day which obtain their power by steam pumped into them at high pressure was tried at a certain steelworks in England a year or two ago but did not prove a success. Since the paragraph regarding this type of engine appeared we have heard of some other instances of the type being used at home though no authentic cases have been cited. We rather think too that the tramways of Paris were once drawn by locomotives using compressed steam. It would be interesting to learn more on the subject. Who knows?

Cheap Fuel.

Of considerable interest in the Cologne district are the lignite pits near Kierberg and Libiar. This lignite, of which the ubiquitous briquette is manufactured, is partially-formed coal, deep brown in colour, and soft and friable. Instead of lying far below the surface like coal, it is near the top and is quarried or "got" in open pits of great extent and depth, with vertical sides, the twenty feet or so thickness of "Overburden" soil showing us a yellow band round the top edge and contrasting sharply with the deep brown or black of the rest of the pit. The lignite, being "got" entirely by mechanical means, must cost very little. It is conveyed to the adjacent briquette factories and power stations, in which latter it is employed to generate the electric current, which provides light and power throughout the towns and villages of this part of Rhineland.

Deceived.

There are occasions, writes a correspondent, upon which, it is difficult to realise that one is in a foreign country, even though so many hundreds of miles from "Blighty." Walking through the wooded and rock strewn valley of the Nideggen-Heimbach district, where villages are somewhat scarce, and farm houses few and far between, is one of them. A battalion of "Jocks" have small camps scattered along this valley. In a distance of three or four kilometres you may see British officers fishing in the river, or crossing one of the bridges on horseback, and a field, with the familiar goal posts at each end, full of swiftly moving, khaki clad figures. The sound of bagpipes comes from a neighbouring wood. The "Cook house door," and "Defaulters" are flung across the valley, from the opposite side. The nature of the surrounding country completes the deception. You only know that you aren't in "Bonnie Scotland"—well, because you know you aren't.

Wild Flowers in Rhineland.

Lovers of nature must have noticed in Rhineland the great profusion and variety of wild flowers, scarcely to be equalled in our own English countryside. The bright vermilion of the poppy and blue of the cornflower is conspicuous amongst the cornfields just now. Corn marigolds are very common but do not show so much where the grain has ripened. There are also many humbler but equally pretty flowers of different species and colour that scarcely raise their heads above the soil. Harebells (Scottish bluebells) grow in great numbers by the road side. In the woods the elegant purple foxglove is often sought after by the German women on holiday outings. The heather, so dear to the heart of Scotsmen, is now bursting into bloom on the hills.

A Contemptuous Town.

Those who have seen the Rheinbrücke at Bonn may have missed seeing one very amusing thing, which shows very clearly the German's idea of humour. Over the arch on the Eastern side may be seen the small figure of a boy with his back turned towards the suburb of Beuel. This was designed by the people of Bonn to express their contempt for the inhabitants of Beuel, who refused to pay anything towards the cost of building the bridge.

Savings Certificates.

From time to time we are able to record the satisfactory results scored by various units which are doing their best to increase the national finances and incidentally to encourage thrift by the sale of War Savings Certificates. Some of these results achieved in a very short space of time have been remarkable. There is evidently keen rivalry among some branches of the service to make records in this way which is most commendable and we hope to publish many more reports of the kind. We shall always be glad to hear of the progress made in units of the Rhine Army.

To-day's "Jape".

The silence was that of breathlessness. The returned traveller resumed:—"Yes," he said, "the wolves gained on us at each moment; we strained every muscle and nerve in our flight; but hope fled faster; we heard their panting breath; at last we felt their cold muzzles against our legs.—" "Oh!" gasped our dear old grandmother, "thank Heaven they had their muzzles on!" The traveller fainted. (N.B. This jape will not translate into German)

Lesser Echoes.

Everything from fresh peaches to melons can be bought on the fruit stalls in the Cologne streets.

Last week the 51st Leicesters beat their previous week's War Savings subscriptions by over 10,000 marks, raising a sum of 51,600 marks. In two weeks they have lent to the Government a sum of 93,000 marks. Splendid!

The small red lamps, which illuminate automatically on the approach of an electric tram, at all the more dangerous junctions in Cologne might be adopted with advantage in England.

"Circus Town" is the name given to a small village near Coblentz by the American Circus Company stationed there. A letter thus addressed reached its destination.

When they returned to the village after a short absence, troops at Burscheid were accorded an enthusiastic welcome by the natives.

The warning "10 miles an hour" placed at intervals along the Cöln-Düsseldorf road is unnecessary. So bad is the state of the surface that no vehicle could proceed faster without being shaken to pieces.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Pte. J. S. Hiller, No. 5 Mdsx. Labour Coy, c/o Camp Commandant Cologne; Pte. Fravers-Hyland, No. 16 Field Ambulance, Midland Division, Rhine Army; and Sapper G W. Eliam, Railway Survey Section, A.P.O. S/120, Rhine Army.

WHAT MATTERS.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

It is not life that matters but the courage you put into it.

When the world was in the grip of that awful storm which swept over the nations, and men cried out in their agony—"My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me," then it was understood that only those who had true courage would stem the storm, which was devastating the world.

In that time of stress, physical courage was not lacking, and our men overcame all difficulties, which proved them to be true sons of the Motherland, and gave to us that wonderful victory.

There was a time, when as even the secular Press put it, "The Sermon on the Mount was battling against the Sermon of Louvain," when truth and justice together were struggling for the mastery. Courage everywhere, both at home and abroad, brought us to that triumph; but let us ever remember, that it was moral courage as well as physical, which helped us to the victory.

The Old Book tells us—"He that ruleth his own spirit is better than he that taketh a city" Even in the days when that proverb was written, it was seen that the hardest courage of all to possess, was moral courage.

Unity at home, loyalty to God, to King and oneself are great factors in our lives. It may seem that life is all wrong all chaos, and far too difficult for one to make any headway whatever—it is no life that matters but the courage you put into it—this can be our watchword, which can bind us together with one strong purpose to succeed. Never let us mind if things are not always as we would have them, let us mould circumstances, and not let them mould us.

The Victory over Self.

Industrial strife at home can yet rob us of the victory which is so justly ours, but moral courage will kill all selfishness, will make for unity and bring out all that is noblest and best in mankind. For the good of our Empire we look for men of sterling worth, be he high or low, rich or poor, that is the man who will succeed in the great battle for existence.

It requires moral courage for a man to keep true to himself and to the loved ones at home, but that man need never say life is too hard for him, if he has one atom of moral courage remaining.

There is a grandeur in the victory over self, and those men, God's Gentlemen, are drawn from all classes and all creeds.

The life of Jesus Christ was full of trial and suffering, and even the dearest of His followers failed to see the great purpose of his life, but through all, that Divine Courage permeated his life, and brought triumph to the grandest life of the ages.

If a man finds himself up against it, let him use that moral courage, and he will win through, no matter how great are the trials and temptations.

God alone can take the soul of a man and give to him moral courage the, greatest of all courage.

Physical courage is the characteristic of the British race, and thrice happy is he who has the moral courage too.

Through all the dark days that are to come, in all the problems that will present themselves, it is courage that is the real thing that matters.

METEOROLOGY AND AVIATION.

An old science has come very much to the fore during the past decade, — that of the scientific study of the weather.

The value of its study has increased to so great an extent, that it may eventually become a profession in itself.

The reason for this is due to the progress made in aviation without a knowledge of which the flying man may find himself very much handicapped.

Applicants for a flying licence must obtain a certificate showing that they can fulfill the following requirements, among others.

1) They must undergo a strict surgical and medical examination in every particular.
2) Rigid tests in the management of aeroplanes.
3) Tests of endurance.
4) Knowledge of all parts of the machine.
5) A fair acquaintanceship with practical astronomy.
6) A fair knowledge of navigation and how to read maps and charts. All nautical instruments shall therefore be studied.
7) Meteorology, or the science of the weather.

The latter forms one of the most important factors in aviation and I predict a great future for those who study it seriously in all its branches.

It is no ephemeral science. Even today, many people do not quite realise its significance, since they have not forgotten the ridiculous remarks, which at one time were associated with the forecasts of the weather prophet. Since the advent of the aeroplane our knowledge of meteorology has made great strides, for we have learned many things in connection with the atmosphere of the earth which before were either unknown altogether, or of which at least our knowledge was uncertain. At the beginning it was only necessary to know the condition of the weather in the immediate vicinity of one's flight. Now, however, we have such long non-stop flights, that it behoves one to increase one's knowledge of meteorology in all its aspects and in all latitudes. One needs to study.

Middle West Now.—The middle west of America wants to see the Prince of Wales during his visit to the States.

More Mystery. — New mystery ships are foreshadowed by the First Lord of the Admiralty.

Not a Friend.—A man who left a letter stating that he had not a friend in the world, hanged himself at Liverpool.

London Garden Paradise.—There is a garden paradise for birds close to Ludgate-circus.

The New Party.—Mr. Winston Churchill's speech at the dinner of the Coalition Centre Group has been published.

Covent Garden Opera.—A French opera "L'Heure Espagnole" was produced at Covent Garden with great success.

Feminine Objection.—The Southwark Borough Council have decided to dismiss a lady health visitor who refuses to wear a nurse's uniform.

Original.—Income-tax paid by "men who did not exist" was one of the features of a remarkable charge of fraud against a printer's overseer.

Five Years.—Frank Long, who attacked two policemen with a revolver has been sentenced at the Old Bailey to five years' penal servitude.

Important Decision. — An important decision has been given by Mr. Justice Rowlatt that bonus shares are not income, and therefore not liable to super-tax.

The Silent Protest.—On race-day at Crefeld, the Belgian Commandant ordered the strikers to work. Trams were running, but the officials did not sell tickets.

José Collins.—José Collins will shortly be seen on the films.

The Trial.—The trial of the ex-Kaiser will take place in England, but may not be in London.

Dearer Bacon? American packing houses urge a further advance in the price of bacon on account of the rise in the price of hogs.

"Council Economies."—Southgate Council has lost £1,229 on pig keeping £140 on a potato patch, and £100 on a national kitchen—all experiments to effect economy.

A Scotsman's Weakness.—"He butted me, as Scotsmen do; that is how I knew he was a Scotsman," said a witness at Woolwich.

Optimistic.—Sir Thomas Lipton believes that, as a result of a new secret invention, he will win the America Cup with Shamrock IV when next he tries.

Rabbits.—Hundreds of young men in Stepney evaded national registration and applied for the first time for ration books after the armistice.

The Bank Swindled.—The superintendent of the Bank Note Department of the Bank of England, giving evidence at the old Bailey, says in three instances spurious notes have been accepted by the Bank.

His Ambition.—"In my younger days at the Bar I hoped that by good fortune I might one day attain the position of county court judge," says the Lord Chief Justice.

His New Trousers.—It seems odd that the ex-Kaiser should order trousers from a Dutch tailor, for one would have thought his pre-war stock was extensive enough to clothe him for many a year

The Reason.—The Mayor of Luton, who left the town, following the rioting, said he went away for his wife's sake; and at the desire of the Town Clerk and the Chief Constable.

Out of Work.—According to Government enquiry nearly all pickpockets and burglars brought to justice recently have admitted receiving unemployment donations.

Counter-Talking.—The need for orators to combat revolutionaries is urged.

Back to Paris.—The German delegation at Versailles will move in the next few days to the old German Embassy in Paris.

Gigantic Lottery.—A scheme is being considered to hold a lottery in France with tickets to the amount of £ 1,200,000,000.

The Portuguese Way.—As rails have been torn up by strikers, the Portuguese authorities have decided to put a waggon full of strikers at the head of trains.

Cold and Wet.—The appearance of icebergs in the ocean is a sign that the summer will continue to be cold and wet.

For and Against.—At the Cologne town council there was a discussion on bathing in the Rhine, the Socialists being for mixed bathing, the Centre being against it.

Wars.—German propaganda is supporting Bolshevist activity, and any labour troubles in Great Britain are watched with delight.

Church Plate Filched.—Theft and alienation has been the fate of Tiverton's church plate for over a century and a half, according to the Vicar.

Brighter Tone.—The hopes of an early settlement of the coal trouble caused a brighter tone to prevail in the Stock Exchange.

Goat's Horns Decorated.—A wild goat, caught on the mountains by discharged soldiers, who gilded its horns, appeared a a Welsh peace procession.

New Occupation.—Owing to financial necessity a West Ham teacher supplements his income by painting plates for coffin-lids.

Quite French again.—Rouen is now to all intents and puoposes evacuated by what had remained there of the British Army.

Tailor's Charge Excessive.—A tailor's charge of £ 4. 5s for making a suit was held to be excessive at Clerkenwell and the tailor thereupon accepted £ 3.

Full Payment.—The Government has decided on the payment in full of enemy debts to British subjects at the pre-war rate of exchange.

THE LION LEADS in CURING

Trade Mark — Established 1847

During the strenuous times of the past few years

has more than maintained its reputation. it has gained increased commendation for its marvellous efficacy in removing pieces of shrapnel, splinters of bone, etc., from old wounds, healing them permanently from underneath.

Nature will always assert itself

It is useless healing a wound until it is thoroughly cleansed; it must break out again worse than before. The great success of

is that it will not heal till it has thoroughly cleared away all morbid matter. There is no danger to life in curing a bad leg by this remedy, as it does not throw back humour into the system. It cures without lancing or cutting, bringing all disease to the surface and healing from underneath in all cases of Ulcers, Abscesses, Whitlows, Boils, Carbuncles, Fatty or Cystic Tumours, Piles, Fistula, Polypus, Poisoned Wounds, and all forms of Skin Diseases, Eczema, Ringworm, etc.

Unequalled as a General Household Remedy for Cuts, Burns, Stings, &c.

Proof. At 59, Grey's Inn Road, E. BURGESS has a Museum of Extractions, consisting of Tumours, Polypi, and diseased Bone; also numerous Photographs of most serious cases, which have all been cured by the Lion Ointment. E. B. invites the fullest inquiry into each case published by him, and is confident that no other remedy can show a tithe of such results. Of Chemists 5d. 1/3. etc. per box; or a SAMPLE BOX post free 9d. from the proprietor—

GERMANY AND PEACE.

EX-CHANCELLOR'S INCRIMINATING REPLY TO ERZBERGER'S EXPOSURES.

FATE OF RUSSIA TREMBLING.

FRUSTRATED PEACE.

RETORT WHICH MAKES THE MATTER WORSE.

Although Germany knew in a vague sort of way that the Allies were willing to consider the question of Peace in 1917, it was not until Herr Erzberger revealed the full facts at Weimar on Friday that the German people learnt how cynically their rulers had flouted the proposals and deliberately sacrificed the German Empire on a gambler's throw.

The retort of ex-Chancellor Michaelis is not only unconvincing, it is a damning indictment of the militarist policy. The last sentence in particular is a perfect specimen of the arguments which were used to deceive the German populace during the war. When the truth became known, when the deceits and lies were exposed, Germany acted quickly and discarded the ministers who hoodwinked the people to their final defeat and consequent penalties.

It is also well to remember that Ludendorff has more than once declared that he was absolutely ignorant of the whole affair.

MICHAELIS' "EXPLANATION."

Michaelis' reply to Erzberger runs as follows:—

"The letter of Nuncio Pacelli was delivered to me in the beginning of September. I had a conference about it with the State Secretaries and Ministers and I met the Kaiser (who, if I am not mistaken, on the 9th September came back from a journey to the front) to report to him about it. I asked the Kaiser to hold a Crown Council in presence of the highest Army and Navy leaders. The Crown Council took place on the 11th September in the Bellevue Palace. The result of the conference was signed by the Kaiser himself and was as follows:

EX-KAISER'S OPINION.

"The annexation of Belgium would be a grave matter. Belgium could be restored. The coast of Flanders was very important, but the Belgian coast by itself could not be held. An intimate economical connection between Belgium and Germany should be arranged. That would be to the great interest of Belgium."

I decided with State Secretary von Kühlmann that it should be ascertained by an appropriate person if there was really the will on the part of the British to give up their former standpoint (i. e. responsibility for the war.—Editor) and to negotiate on a more acceptable middle line.

The letter of the Apostolic Nuncio did not contain any definite proof on these points. There was therefore a danger that Germany would be induced to make an accommodating declaration and that the basis of negotiations would be to our disadvantage.

The choice of an intermediary fell on a prominent neutral diplomat whom State Secretary von Külmann knew intimately and who seemed to be specially qualified to ascertain Great Britain's views. The mission was entrusted to him after a declaration of the German point of view according to the above mentioned Crown Council with the following stipulations.

OFFICIAL DISTORTION.

The basis for negotiations with England would be the acknowledgment:

1. That our frontier would remain intact,
2. That we should get back our colonies,
3. That no indemnity would be demanded,
4. That no economical war would begin after Peace.

I considered this way, in agreement with His Excellence von Kühlmann, to be the right one, because negotiations appeared to be only possible in case of absolute good faith. Negotiations through the Apostolic-Curia did not offer this security.

As the letter of the Nuncio was addressed to us, it appeared that Deputy Erzberger had been instructed before me that the letter would arrive. An indiscretion on his part had to be avoided at all costs. Therefore we took a non-committal standpoint as regards the Nuncio and gave him an answer, after a certain time, in general terms.

I made efforts to choose the right way to follow the first proposal; if the plan did not suceeed, it is because our enemies did not want it.

(signed) Michaelis.

Saarow 26th July.

GERMAN EMBASSY IN PARIS

Great animation prevails in the neighbourhood of the former German Embassy in Paris, in which Baron Lersner and his colleagues are going to take up their quarters. Four German officials living in the Embassy go daily to the office of a large bank, where they are busy all day restoring to France the securities seized in the invaded regions.

IMPOSSIBLE HUNGARY.

ATTACKS ON A FRIENDLY POWER.

The Supreme Council at Paris has issued the following declaration: The Allied and Associated Governments are most anxious to arrange Peace with the Hungarian people, thus bringing to an end a condition of things which makes economic revival in Central-Europe impossible and defeats any attempt to secure supplies fer the population. These tasks cannot be attempted until there is a Government in Hungary representing the people and carrying out in letter and spirit the engagements entered into with the Allies. Neither condition is fulfilled by the administration under Bela Kun, which has not only broken the Armistice but at the present moment is attacking a friendly and Allied power. With this particular aspect it is for the Allies to deal on their own responsibility but if Peace is to be settled it can only be with a Government representing the Hungarian people and not with one which rests its authority on terrorism. All foreign occupation of Hungarian territory as defined by the Peace Conference will cease as soon as the terms of the Armistice have, in the opinion of the Allied Commander-in-Chief been satisfactorily complied with.

RUMANIAN OFFENSIVE.

The "Petit Parisien" confirms the report that the Hungarian Bolshevists commenced the offensive against Rumania. The attack was of the most violent character and the first successes gained by the Bolshevists were important, the Rumanians having abandoned large quantities of material and a number of guns. The Rumanians are now pulling themselves together and it is believed will be able to oppose a vigorous resistance to the invaders. It is clearly the object of the Hungarians to smash up the Rumanian Army before the Allies can send help and thus be able to give help to Lenin's Red Armies.

The Supreme Council on Saturday considered proposals of the military experts put forward by Marshal Foch. It is hoped that a decision will soon be reached on the subject of intervention against. Bela Kun and the measures to be taken for helping the Rumanians.

NORTH RUSSIA.

NAMES OF MURDERED ENGLISH OFFICERS

In view of the mutiny among certain Russian Regiments in North Russia it is believed that the policy of evacuation will be expedited. The Bolshevists have sent out a wireless message in which they claim to be advancing along the Archangel railway in the region of the Northern Dvina. It also states that an enemy aeroplane dropped seventeen bombs without causing any damage and that the capture of Onega was assisted by a company of the fifth Northern Regiment who murdered their officers and arrested several Englishmen. Bolshevist troops, continues the message, when informed of the rising, marched eighty miles in twenty-four hours (!) and reached Onega, which was captured with valuable booty. An enemy gunboat appeared off Onega and demanded the release of the captured Englishmen, threatening bombardment in the event of refusal.

The names of the British officers killed by the Russian mutineers are stated to be Captain A. E. M. Finch, Captain D. P. Barr, Lieut. G. W. Gosling, M. C., and Lieut. T. C. Griffiths.

PEACE DECISIONS.

CLEARING UP MATTERS LEFT OVER.

The Council of Five met at Paris on Saturday to consider Committee reports.

The Bulgarian delegation has arrived. The Treaty is almost completely drawn up and there will be no delay in handing it to the Bulgarian delegation,

The report of the Committee on responsibilities has already been submitted to the Supreme Council, and the Committee of Reparations also has nearly finished its task.

SELF-EXILED QUEEN.

The "Extrabladet", Geneva reports that the Queen of Sweden will not return to Sweden. She is a Princess of Baden. During the war she preferred to stay in Germany, and has now bought an estate in Switzerland, where she intends to live in future.

BAREFACED FRAUD.

EMPLOYER IN RECEIPT OF OUT-OF-WORK PAY.

At the Westminster County Court, before Judge Tobin, an action to recover damages for personal injuries was brought by Thomas Simon Hackett, costermonger, Rowton House, Newington Butts, against the London General Omnibus Company. He said that the accident interfered with his earnings for seven weeks.

Cross-examined by counsel for the company, the plaintiff admitted that from February 27 to July 22 he was drawing £1 9s. a week Government unemployment pay. Two nights a week in March he earned 6s. as an attendant at a music-hall. At the same time he carried on a costermonger's business and employed men whom he paid 7s. a day.

Judge Tobin, in giving judgment for the defendants with costs, said. "This is a scandalous case and I do not believe a word the plaintiff says. He presents himself as an employer of labour earning from £4 to £5 a week, and yet he was drawing unemployment pay. That was a barefaced fraud on this country. It convinces me that this kind of fraud is adopted by not a few persons."

STRIKERS PERMIT!

TRANSPORTS ALLOWED TO SAIL.

Mersey dockers, who are on strike, have agreed, in response to an appeal by Mr. Doughty, K.C., to allow three big liners outward bound with Canadian soldiers to sail. The vessels are the Adriatic, the Scotian, and the Canada, which accordingly left on Saturday.

With these exceptions the hold-up of the port continues, and the great river presents a sight the like of which has probably never been seen before. It is full of ships of all kinds, big liners and coasting vessels riding at anchor because they cannot get into the docks, while the docks themselves are crowded with ships eager to get away but unable to do so. This deadlock of the port has caused much loss and widespread inconvenience.

Negotiations for a settlement were resumed yesterday.

ENGLISH WIVES.

PRIVILGE FOR THE RHINE ARMY.

The War Office announces the conditions under which wives of officers and other ranks may join their husbands serving with the Army of the Rhine.

All costs must be defrayed by the individuals concerned. The number to whom the privilege will be granted depends entirely on the accommodation in Germany. Wives desiring to join their husbands must communicate with them and then the sanction of the military authorities in Germany must be obtained. The authorities will notify their approval direct to the Military Permit Office in London, who will then provide the wives with authority to obtain the necessary passport.

AFGHAN RAIDERS.

The latest official communiqué issued at Simla states that hostile tribesmen were active in the vicinity of Dakka on the 23rd. The enemy were turned off after much fighting, and are believed to have lost severely, as they afforded good targets for our guns. Some tribesmen attempted to approach a picket at Paindi Khak, but withdrew with losses. The tribal lashkar in the vicinity of Basawal is estimated to total 6,000 Mohmands, Khugianis, Shinwaris, and Ut Khels from Afghan territory. Raiding parties are reported near the Lowari Pass. In the Zhob Valley an attack was made on Hindubagh on the 22nd inst., and the telegraph wires were cut. Fighting was reported on the evening of the 23rd, the railway station being burnt.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A GENERAL.

Major-General Sir Henry Macandrew, K.C.B., D.S.O., died at Aleppo on July 16 from heart failure following burns. While it is apparent that General Macandrew (who was in command of the 5th Cavalry Division) died as the result of an accident, no particulars are yet to hand.

CONSTABLE SENTENCED.

Alfred Chubb, 29, "D" Division, Metropolitan Police, was sentenced by Judge Atherley Jones, at the Old Bailey yesterday, to nine months' imprisonment in the second division for feloniously receiving certain magnetos stolen from premises in Wardour street.

At Saturday's meeting of the Supreme Council Marshal Foch is understood to have expressed the opinion that an army of 150,000 is the necessary force required for the Allied occupation of the Rhineland.

MARCONI CASE ENDED.

GOVERNMENT TO PAY HUGE AMOUNT.

Mr. Justice A. T. Lawrence, sitting in the King's Bench Division to assess the amount of royalties due to the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company Limited in respect of an alleged breach of contract by the Postmaster-General in not completing an Imperial chain of wireless stations, delivered his award. The inquiry had occupied eighteen days.

The Marconi Company claimed royalties amounting to £7,181,774. The Crown submitted that £50,000 would be a fair sum.

His lordship announced that he found the amount to be £590,000, and signed a certificate for that amont. That was his estimate of the present worth of all the royalties the Marconi Company would have received under the contract. He had excluded from consideration the letter as by order directed (by Mr. Justice McCardie), dated Jan. 21, 1915, and he had not diminished his estimate of the amount by any consideration of the probability or otherwise of the Marconi patents being employed in commercial wireless in the future. He mentioned this in order that there might be no misunderstanding between the parties in case of any future negotiations between them. The costs would have to be taxed in chambers.

The letter of Jan. 21, 1915, referred to by his lordship was one in which the Crown withdrew their renunciation of the contract.

COAL STRIKE.

YORKSHIRE FLOUTS MINERS' FEDERATION.

No new development in the coal situation beyond the fact that the Miners Federation leaders have appealed to the men to return to work. According to Mr. Smith, President of the Yorkshire Miners, the agreement arrived at in London on Friday between the Government and the Executive of the Miners Federation will not be accepted until it has been submitted to the men through the district branches.

The prospect of a complete and quick settlement is less favourable.

FETE TO THE FALLEN.

SIMULTANEOUS NATIONAL FRENCH TRIBUTE.

All the principal societies in France are co-operating in the organising of a great demonstration on August 2nd and 3rd with the object of celebrating at the same hour in every French Commune the liberation of French territory from the invader.

The demonstrations will be a national fête of gratitude to the soldiers. The principal ceremony will take place at the Sorbonne and will be attended by President Poincaré, M. Clemenceau and the Marshals of France, while in every town there will be deposited a scroll containing the names of soldiers who fell on the field of honour.

ONE-DAY LICENCES.

LIQUOR CONTROL ORDERS RELAXED.

A new order has been issued by the Central Control Board (Liquor Traffic) for all areas in England and Wales to which the Liquor Control Regulations have been applied, making it lawful to sell and supply intoxicating liquor for consumption on the premises during any specified hours between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekdays "for any public ceremony or gathering, or like special occasion, involving the assembly of, and necessitating the provision of, accommodation for considerable numbers of persons.

The order, which is dated July 22, appears in the "London Gazette" of last night.

ANTI-PROFITEER FINED.

A coster who was summoned at Woodgreen for causing an obstruction with his barrow was said to have gathered a big crowd of people anxious to buy broad beans at a price below that charged in the shops.

"That is something in his favour," said the magistrate. "My sympathy is with anyone who attempts to cut the wicked profiteering so much in evidence."

A nominal fine of 2s. 6d. was imposed.

ITALIANS ATTACKED.

A telegram from Trieste to the Corriere del Mettion says that on the line of demarcation fixed by the Armistice Commission Yugo-Slav troops suddenly attacked the Italian posts in the direction of Laibach. Furious fighting ensued, and numbers were killed and wounded on both sides. Reinforcements were sent and the Yugo Slavs repulsed.

A silver gilt cup which belonged originally to Sir Francis Drake was sold at Christie's for £3,800.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS.

NAVY AND MERCANTILE MARINE.

Admiral Sir David Beatty, speaking at Leicester, after receiving the freedom of the city, said that at no period has the name of Great Britain carried with it more weight in council and example than at the present time.

Alluding to the work of the Navy he said, "The Navy bears upon its shoulders a heavy share of responsibility for the entire protection of our vast lines of communication with oversea parts of the Empire. The Navy is the insurance of our overseas trade and of our commercial prosperity. The history of the Navy shows how diligently it has striven to preserve the security of those who go down to the sea upon their lawful occasions. It has never been a menace to any but those who endangered our overseas communications and to those who venture to disturb the peace of the world. Germany made the most desperate attacks known in history to close our overseas highways and Germany failed.

"Today the sea is as free and open as it had ever been. It remains for us to reap the benefits of that freedom and to do our utmost to establish a constant stream of British merchantmen with full cargoes over every part of the world. We have gained success during the past four and half years and now we have to struggle for prosperity. We have the means to do so. We possess it in the personnel of the mercantile marine—the finest in the world—who have left a record behind them during the war which should be laid to heart by every one of us and never be forgotten."

LUTON RIOTS.

CITIZENS UNWILLING TO GIVE EVIDENCE.

At Luton the chief constable says he has had the greatest difficulty in getting civilian witnesses to come forward in support of charges arising out of the recent riot, and the magistrates agreed to their names being withheld. Thirteen more prisoners were remanded, eight being ex-soldiers. The police accused five of inciting the crowd to break into the town hall, and gave evidence of inflammatory speeches made from the hall steps. Arthur Barrett, corporation employee, said he had worked for the borough a number of years, and they were a — bad lot. James Robinson said he would give the mayor five minutes to come out. He counted the minutes, and after counting more said: "One more, and if he don't come out we'll fetch him." Joseph Frederick Perry, thrice wounded, also called out the minutes, then said: "Over you go, boys; now you can fetch them out." Sidney George Quince was also alleged to have urged the crowd to "out" the mayor and policemen too. Frederick William Coulbridge cried: "Come on" to the crowd, and made repeated attempts to rush the police. He was also accused of assaulting the chief officer of the fire brigade. Other charges included assault on a policeman, damage to the deputy mayor's warehouse, and music shop, and four charges of stealing against a married couple and two women.

FOOD CONTROL.

RATION SYSTEM FOR NEXT WINTER.

The Food Ministry announced on Saturday that a ration system would have to be introduced before the ensuing winter so that the Ministry may regulate distribution in accordance with the original intention, the existing system having become largely inoperative with regard to different articles. The new system will operate for all articles simultaneously.

WOOLWICH ARSENAL FIRE

At the inquest at Woolwich on the body of Florence Edith Lucas; 29, of Erith, who was killed in a fire at the Woolwich Arsenal Cartridge Factory, No. 0, on Wednesday, the jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death," and recommended that all gangways should be kept clear. The evidence showed that the fire started in some cordite which a fellow-worker was removing from cartridges.

Edmond George Stone, dangerous building visitor, said that when the fire was out and the fumes were clearing away he went through the building and found Lucas lying on the floor. She was evidently escaping when she fell.

Neil Brocklebank, an examiner, said there was a machine in the passage where deceased was found, and in the fumes from the cordite it would be difficult to go past it.

George Scott Fortune said the passage where the machinery was stored was not one of the exits from the building, and he concluded that the girl had run down it in her confusion.

ROUMANIA AND GALICIA.

According to a message from Lemberg the Roumanian troops will immediately evacuate East Galicia, which is not claimed by Roumania as had been maintained by the Poles.

GIRL'S SKELETON.

BAD SMELL LEADS TO GRUESOME DISCOVERY.

A human skull and a quantity of bones which on being pieced together were found to be those of a girl about 17 years of age, were discovered beneath the floor of the kitchen in a four-roomed tenement at 12, Pembroke-place, Kilburn, on Friday. The house is one of a row of small houses in a poor and thickly populated neighbourhood.

The tenant, a widower named Hill, who has been in occupation of the house for about six months, having for some time been puzzled by an unpleasant smell in the kitchen, decided to make a thorough search for the cause of it. With the help of his little boy he took up the floor boards immediately in front of the fireplace, and after removing a small quantity of earth came upon a human skull, containing a perfect set of teeth. The hole was extended, and presently a number of rib bones was found, followed by the discovery, in sections, of other bones which completed the skeleton.

Until a medical examination has been made it is impossible to say whether death was caused by violence. A small piece of dirty ribbon was the only article found with the bones, which must have been buried many years ago.

After the police had been called in it was decided to take up the remainder of the flooring in the kitchen, and also the flooring in the front room and in the passage way leading from the front entrance.

GAOL FOR SECRETARY.

"COMRADES OF THE GREAT WAR" FUNDS MISSING.

At Stratford Police Court Maurice Geddes, of Leyton, was charged on remand with receiving a cheque for £25 on account of the Leyton and Leytonstone Branch of the "Comrades of the Great War" and fraudulently converting it to his own use. At the last hearing it was stated that the defendant was formerly secretary of the branch, and that when the accounts were investigated it was found that about £300 was unaccounted for.

Mr. Stern, for the defence, said that Geddes had served in South Africa and France, and had suffered from shell-shock. It was owing to this that he had got his books muddled. Geddes had said that he had paid large sums to widows and dependents of soldiers, and that was where the missing cash had gone.

Geddes was sentenced to three months' imprisonment in the second division.

SUSPECTED "DIPPERS."

An array of counsel attended the West London Court to defend four men—John Miller, Frederic Behars, Alfred George Beacon, and John Spillman, all of Hackney, who were charged on remand, before Mr. Boyd, with being suspected persons at Olympia on the night of the Wilde-Moore fight for the purpose of picking pockets.

Evidence was given by several detectives, who stated that they saw the prisoners operating in the vast crowd which poured into Olympia.

Mr. Curtis Bennett, K.C., urged that though the men were known to the police "for different reasons," they went into Olympia on this night as bona fide spectators of the boxing match. Their movements in the crowd were due to their being sent from one part to another by officials directing people to different seats.

Behars and Beacon, who had been previously convicted of felony, but were stated to have done good service in the Army, were sentenced to three months' hard labour each, and Miller and Spillman were discharged.

AIR PILOTS STRIKE.

A strike of aerial mail pilots, the first of its kind in the United States, was declared at New York on Friday morning, following on the refusal of the Post Office Department to reinstate two pilots who had been discharged on account of refusing to ascend in fog recently. The New York-Chicago aerial mail service is particularly affected.

WAR UNSETTLEMENT.

How often have we observed the effect of two, three or four years of war upon the individual? Perhaps it has been brought home to us when we have endeavoured to take up the threads laid down when we donned the uniform. There is the inherent difficulty in getting things done, and we find ourselves unfitted for sustained effort, mental or physical.

At first it seemed an idea without foundation, but slowly it was borne in upon one that there were arrears to make up, a gap to be bridged. Such is the effect of a new order of life. The old things which seemed so simple at first present alarming obstacles.

In the search for reasons, first and foremost, we have the surrenderings of initiative. In a lesser degree perhaps with officers, but certainly in the case of the rank and file, there is that sinking of individuality. It is only on rare occasions that men are required to think for themselves, unless a matter of life and death is involved.

A crisis acts as a stimulant and the brain responds, but for the most part initiative is cromped. The whole duty of the individual is to respond to others.

That is the difficulty. Many are trying to fit themselves to post war conditions, and by the exercise of stern self discipline are succeeding. It is difficult we know. There is the disinclination to study, the difficulty to settle down. There is an unhealthy craving after new sensations, a wild search after pleasure, all the product of the unsettlement, which the war has brought in its train.

Now to the remedy. It can only be overcome by the provision of wholesome amusement and training. Much remains yet to be done to equip men for what is to come hereafter. Men must not be allowed to lose the threads of knowledge which they possessed in civilian walks of life.

They might learn to producse ome of the things the Army must purchase at the public expense. Learn they must, that their time may be profitably employed and they may be better fitted to face the new condition of things which the past four years have brought about.

PARTIES IN GERMANY.

In these days of constant controversy and Party differences, a good deal of interest naturally centres round the institutions which govern nations, and considerable curiosity has been evinced regarding the constitution and methods of the German National Assembly.

The last historical sitting of this body, at which Erzberger, the Minister of Finance, made some sensational revelations, will certainly affect the development of the interior policy of Germany and greatly influence the proportions of different Parties composing the Reichstag after the next elections.

Before, and during the war, the German Reichstag could be divided into four great parties:—The Conservatives (including the pan-Germanists and the pure militarists,) the National-Liberals, the Centre Party (Roman Catholics) and the Socialists.

In the actual National Assembly, a body which was established to form a constitution for Germany, there are 22 Independent Socialists, 165 Majority Socialists, 75 Democrats, 90 Deputies of the Centre, 22 Deputies of the Volkspartei (or Party of the People) and 42 Nationalists. The German Nationalists are the old Conservatives, who remain faithful to the Kaiser and to the old system. The Party of the People consists mainly of old National Liberals who, like the Nationalists, think it is the fault of the Revolutionaries that Germany lost the war and signed the peace terms. Most of them are Protestants and therefore hostile to the Catholic Centre Party, as religious prejudice and antagonism is a very strong factor in all German institutions.

The Centre Party, at whose head Erzberger presides, is the Party of the Roman Catholics and is particularly powerful in Rhineland and Bavaria, and since affairs assumed a revolutionary aspect in Germany, its programme has become more democratic.

The Democrats are a Party which came into existence when the old Government was discredited on the signing of Armistice terms. This Party abandoned allegiance to the Government by refusing to approve of the signing of the Peace Treaty. With the others already mentioned it represents the middle class at the assembly.

The proletariat is represented by the Majority Socialists and the Independent Socialists. The latter, led by Liebknecht, separated themselves from the main Socialist group, during the war, by refusing to vote war credits, and since then have called themselves "Independent." Meanwhile they have been joined by Communists and Spartacists, and are Bolshevist in their tendencies.

Actually, the dominant influence in the National Assembly are the Centre Party and the Majority Socialists, and Erzberger's recent revelations can only consolidate this union, which a few weeks ago had been endangered by discussions about religious and educational matters, and had only been maintained by compromise.

TOO OLD TO LEARN?

When we were at school we grumbled against certain subjects that we were obliged to learn. In the one case it would be Euclid, in another Latin or Greek or French or German, and in another history, and so on. We did not generally realise practice in the development of all parts of the brain was necessary to complete intelligence.

There were lessons and lectures that we thoroughly enjoyed and there were others that we either attended with compunction or that we tolerated with distaste.

As we grow older we regret this laxity in learning. That is why we see so many men of all ages reading up their former studies.

It has been said that the older one becomes the less easy it is to retain knowledge, but I do not believe this to be true of any individual who would cultivate the will to learn.

I agree that in, say, the first decade of his existence a human being does acquire far more general knowledge than he would learn later, in two or three decades, but learning up to the age of sixty may be quite as easy though, of course, slower, and the memory almost if not quite as retentive.

If an adult can remember and quote some paragraph that he read in last week's newspaper he is capable of acquiring useful knowledge. Many, however, do not realise this.

No, age is no bar to learning. There is no reason why a man of fifty or even more, be he active, should not learn a trade or some branch of technical training to which he might turn his hand.

If he can speak and write a foreign language in addition, so much the better. We must strive for our own advancement and for that of our country, and the old buffers could well compete with the youngsters towards so noble an end. Come, old 'uns, let us try! W.R.P.

THE CARD INDEX.

There are many men who, having spent many long and arduous hours over some dreary piece of work, at last become so interested in the work of their hands, that it occupies their lives to the exclusion of all else, and becomes a tyrant which admits of no rival.

In the office in which I—spend my time, there is one who has permitted just such a tyrant to fill his life; he is a bombardier.

Most of us who have spent any time in an Army office know the Card Index; it is quite a simple thing; merely a large number of cards arranged in boxes, so that if anyone wishes to find out anything about, say, Lieut. Smith, all that is necessary is to open the box marked 'S' and by means of the Initials, extract the correct gard.

The bombardier I have mentioned, started to form a Card Index of all the Officers in a certain Corps, and soon he had it complete and in exact alphabetical order.

The Thing, however, had grasped his soul, and soon he had started an Index to the Card Index, so that instead of finding a Card without any delay, he first studied the Index and discovered if there was any probability of the card he wanted, being in the Card Index.

If it was proved that it ought to be there, he searched for it, but if no card was mentioned in the Index—he searched for it just the same, in case it might be there.

When the double index was complete, the bombardier surveyed his work; found that it was good, and straightway commenced to form another Index of the same officers, this time arranging them by Rank and—but to cut a long story short—our office is now crowded with card boxes.

For this one lot of Officers there is now the original Card Index; the Index index; an Index arranged in order of Acting Rank; of Substantive Rank; by Units; by initials; in order of Home Addresses; in order of Merit; in fact there is an index in every possible way one could think of.

Under the old regime a Staff officer would sometimes come enquiring about the rank or location of some officer under his administration, and under the old regime we would get the file which dealt with that officer and find out all there was to know about him, but now when a similar enquiry is made the bombardier pricks up his ears.

With swift footsteps he approaches the array of boxes, jerks out one, and in about thirty seconds snaps it back with a—but bombardiers do not swear—and rapidly opens another box—another blank and another; now the boxes are snapping in and out in a manner somewhat reminiscent of a Lewis gun; the bombardier waxes hotter and hotter, and at last the gunner comes to his rescue.

In the time honoured fashion he draws the necessary file and gives the necessary information; then to the bombardier, whose fingers are still gliding back and forth over the cards:—

"Say old man—what's trumps this deal?"

RAS.

THE RESOLUTION

Who invented the mouth-organ? Who the concertina? Perhaps, after all, it is better that I should not know, for I feel that it would be my life's purpose, were I to discover the names of the men who have inflicted untold suffering on humanity, to follow them to the ends of the earth, so that I might settle a long-outstanding account.

I am billeted with a certain unit which boasts several exponents of those inspiring instruments. Only towards one of them do I have the slightest antipathy — the one who sleeps on the same floor as I. Until to-night I have endured his perpetrations with, at the most, a superlative use of bad language, certainly without becoming virtually a murderer. But to-night I have seen red.

I do not blame the musician. Perhaps his soul finds self-expression through the mouth-organ. Art is a strange thing. I have known a man who admitted candidly that the noblest artistic effort of which he was capable was the perfectly symettrical trimming of his toe-nails. To his credit he it said he had beautiful toe-nails. Again, a lady of whose acquaintance I am proud, was as pleased when she had successfully accomplished her coiffure with only six hairpins, as if she had written "Paradise Lost" or composed Tannhauser.

Words fail, however, to express my feelings towards the inventor of the instruments. I wish I were the president of a Spanish Inquisition and he the prisoner before me. He must certainly have been able to distinguish one note from another, consequently he must have had a slight appreciation of music. Therefore he has no excuse. His crime is unpardonable.

But to be just. The man with the mouth-organ, as soldiers who have seen Active Service know, has often been a source of great comfort. He used to make me think of an Angel with the horns and cloven hoofs of the Devil. Perhaps I am too bitter, but I feel to-night that the beauty of the sounds produced by this instrument are to the hideousness as a teacupful of feathers to a gasometerful of coal.

As I say, my feelings reached their culmination to-night. In other words, to-night did it.

The night being wet, I made up my mind not to go out of doors, but to stay in billet and enjoy a little reading. Accordingly, after tea, I stretched myself on my bed, lit a cigarette, and opened an old favourite, "Twelfth Night". My friend the musician, at that very moment started his recital with his great masterpiece "K-K-K-Katie". However, I manfully read the opening lines of the play.

"If music be the food of love, play on;
Give me excess of it, that, surfeiting,
The appetite may sicken, and so die.
That strain again . . . . ."

On being brought round five minutes later, I made a resolve. I go to morrow to inscribe my name on the waiting-list for a civvy billet. Then, perhaps, by the time the two or three years have elapsed before I am fixed up, I shall be demobilized. Who knows? . . . .

L.W.H.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

LATER OPERAS?

Sir,— One advantage which awaits the forthcoming opera season is the extra hour now permitted for movement to and fro in the city. Last season not a few of the performances began before the usual tea hour, and portable refreshments were almost a necessity. So possibly in the future our aesthetic natures will not be offended as often.

Incidentally, lovers of opera will do well to acquaint themselves with the present progress of music in London and the provinces. The visit of Sir Thomas Beecham's company to Bradford, for instance, has been such a success, that a second visit has been promised. Bradford is only half the size of Cologne, so we can all take hope for the future of opera in England. VIOLIN.

THE BRITISH MUSICIAN.

Sir,—One would like to know why German musicians are placed in several of our own Concert Party Orchestras to help with the British Tommy who is often a professional musician. How is this?

One thought that after such expoundings in England by Sir Charles Stanford Joseph Holbrooke and other musicians on the capture of musical positions by, the Germans, and in the interests of the British composer, that it would have been the last thing to introduce into a British concert Party. A MUSICIAN.

BREWING BEER IN COLOGNE.

Sir,— According to the press, better beer is to be supplied in "Blighty." Transport cannot be spared to bring adequate supplies by barrel I agree, but cannot the N.A.C.B. arrange to brew some beer in Cologne.

If it could be managed the Board would earn eternal blessings and the profit would remain in British hands. Above all, appreciation of a glass of old English ale would be unbounded.

ONE OTHER RANK.

WHY NOT CATS?

Sir,— What a pity "A Parson" hides his identity. I should love to attend his church and hear some more of his views.

Really, it is an excellent idea, and when it is adopted I shall take my cats too, for I cannot bear to leave them behind. Every Church Parade I am asked why I am sobbing.

'Around, around flew each sweet sound."
'What loud uproar bursts from that door."

A LAYMAN.

THE GERMAN'S RECORD.

Sir,—I suppose it is only natural that when a British soldier gets talking to an ex-German soldier, the talk have veer round to the fronts they been on.

I was many months in Rhineland before I met a German who would admit having ever been on the British front—it was always Verdun or Russia. But I met an exception the other evening.

The landlord of the village inn is an ex-sergeant of the German artillery, and he possesses a neatly printed card, showing in addition to his name and other personal particulars, the engagements in which he figured during his two and a half years in the war zone. Flanders, Arras, the Somme, Chemin des Dames, were all there with the dates. Strangely enough he was in action south-west of Rheims exactly twelve months ago—so was the writer—and he was at Grevillers and Bapamme in March 1918 when the person to whom he was now doling out indifferent beer was not so far away.

He told me that every German artillery man received a similar record of services on demobilization.

It would, I know, be a very big job, but I fancy there are many British soldiers who would like to have a similar record of their overseas service. Is it feasible?

LIMBER GUNNER.

DANCE ROOM ETIQUETTE.

Sir—Having read the letter of "Dancer" and "Jazz". I would like to suggest that my letter was misunderstood.

In the first place when I said dances I did not refer to the Thursday evening dances. As a matter of fact I have not attended one of those dances. I was referring to the tri-weekly dances, where one does not require tickets for admittance. As regards modern dancing I have nothing detrimental to say about it, as I am very fond of these new dances, and when done properly they look very nice and graceful. What I meant by wild dancing I will try and explain.

For instance the M. C. announces a dance, we will say a One Step, the music strikes up and the dance commences but after a few bars of music some couples change from the One Step to the Fox Trot and so on with the result that they are constantly bumping into other couples with the exchange of a few low murmured words and black looks.

In my opinion when the M.C. announces a dance, that dance ought to be adhered to all through.

Regarding the "Jazz" I have seen it danced in London and elsewhere and it is not what I would include in a dance programme. It is the only new dance which I do not think becomes the average graceful British dancer.

I have attended many dances at the British Empire Leave Club and I dance all the new dances, with, I think, the same aptitude as the majority, but having experienced the result of a few dancers breaking the rule, I thought I would give my views on the subject. "RUNNER."

SALVE!

To live within a cave—it is most good;
But, if God make a day,
And some one come, and say,
'Lo! I have gather'd faggots in the wood!'
E'en let him stay,
And light a fire, and fan a temporal mood!

So sit till morning! when the light is grown
That he the path can read,
Then bid the man God-speed!
His morning is not thine: yet must thou own
They have a cheerful warmth—those ashes on the stone.

ARDUOUS TEST IN KHUD RACE: SHIELD CHAMPIONSHIP WINNERS.

The Khud Race, which seems to have been an adventure of the Jason or Hercules type, formed a feature of the final contests for the Shield presented by the Commander of the 1st King's Brigade. At another sports meeting a highly original obstacle race was run, involving the negotiation of a lake and three walls.

UP HILL AND DOWN DALE.

Amazing Speed And Exciting Finish Near Beuel.

The concluding contests for the 1st King's Brigade commander's shield took place near Beuel on Wednesday. In spite of the frequent heavy showers of rain, there were many visitors and a large assembly of spectators from the contesting units, the 13th, 51st and 52nd Battalions "The King's". The earlier contests in musketry, boxing and swimming having left the 13th and 52nd Battalions level on points, competition for all the events was very keen.

The competitions to be decided were the transport, limber driving, cross country run, hill, relay and khud races and tug-of- war.

The transports of the three battalions made a very fine display. When judged by Brigadier General Tyler, C. M. G., C. R. A., Lancs. Div.; Col. Galloway. D. S. O. and Col. Ballingall. M. C., R. A. M. C., the result was in favour of the 52nd. King's, who also literally ran away with the cross country race. Major Delaney, O. B. E., P. & R. T. Supervisor G. H. Q., so well known for his keen interest in sport in the Rhine Army, assisted in judging the racing events.

SURPRISING DEFEAT.

The surprise of the day was the defeat of the 13th King's Tugof-war team by the 52nd who thereby managed to take first place in every event except the khud race. This race was held through severe country, comprising a sequence of rugged hills and valleys, densely wooded. Each battalion was represented by twenty competitors, who, cut, bruised and torn, made astonishing speed and a very exciting finish in which the aggregate win went to the 51st Kings.

In the limber driving contest the first place wa taken by the 13th King's, some good driving being witnessed, the judge being Lieut.-Col. Howden, commanding 16t Brigade R. F. A. The tug-of-war pulls were judged by Lt.-Col. Pelly, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., commanding the 12th Bn Loya North Lancs., and Major Delaney, O. B. E.

In all there were 200 different competitors for the athletic events. The afternoon's proceedings were brightened by the music of the 12th Loyal North Lancs band and the pipers of the 16th H. L. I. present by the kind permission of their commanding officers.

At the close of the meeting the shield was represented to the 52nd Bn. "The King's" by the Brigade commander (Brigadier General T. S. Lambert. C. B., C. M. G.), who also handed to the O. C, 13th King's the Brigade football shier. won by the battalion earlier in the yeald

KEEN SPORTS.

2/4th Bn. Hampshire Meeting at Friedenberg.

Splendid weather and a great keenness on the part of all ranks contributed to a very successful sports meeting held by "D" Coy, 2/4th Bn Hampshire Regt, on Thursday at Stamford Bridge, Friedenberg, on the fringe of the perimeter. The band of the battalion was in attendance and rendered selections of music suitable to the occasion.

At the conclusion of an excellent afternoon's sports Major H. C. Westmoreland, D.S.O., presented the prizes, and in a few well-chosen words congratulated the winners, and the officers and N.C.O.'s of the Coy. concerned in the organization, on the success they had achieved.

EVENTS AND WINNERS.

100 yards:—1, Pte. Stevens; 2, Pte. Nicholls
Throwing the Cricket ball:—1, Pte. Morris (92 yards); 2, Pte. Hall.
440 yards:—1, Pte Morris; 2, Pte. Hall.
High Jump:—1, Pte. Deacon; 2, Pte. Vowles.
One Mile:—1, L/Cpl. Standsbridge; 2, Pte. Savage.
220 yards:—1, Pte. Miles; 2, Pte. Hall.

CRICKET FRIENDLIES.

NORTHERN DIVISIONAL M.T. COY. (89) v. 2nd NORTHERN BRIGADE SIGNALS (33). For the M.T. Company, Pte. Goldthorpe scored 31 and Pte. Beale 21 runs. Bowling for the winners, Cpl. Platt took 8 wickets for 10 runs and Lieut. Wallis 2 for 23 runs.

498th SIEGE BATTERY (84) v. 75th BDE., R.G.A. (53) at Rendorf. For the Battery Sig. Pestell bowled magnificently throughout, claiming 8 wickets for 17 runs, which brings his number for the season to 78 wickets at an average of 2 runs a piece Sgt. Smailes scored 44 not out.

NEXT YEAR'S BISLEY.

The question rifle experts are discussing to-day is: What will be the conditions of next year's King's Prize and what will be the weapon used. The gunmakers would be very pleased to have the last question decided. As the War Office has millions of the short rifles which helped to win the war on its hands, it is very improbable that any new rifle will be introduced for the present, and the likelihood therefore is that the King's Prize of 1920 will again be shot for with the short rifle at the short ranges. Then the question arises: Will the authorities permit the use of wind gauges and the aperture sight applied to the short rifle, which can be done? If they do, (writes a "Sportsman" special correspondent) it will induce many more competitors to come to Bisley than will come to shoot with the open sights, no wind gauge, and no slings.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Tuesday, July 29, 1919.

Surface wind light between North-West and West. Cloudy with occasional drizzle at first, probably improving during the afternoon. Continuing cool with fair visibility.

NOVEL OBSTACLE COURSE.

Hallamshires Programme at Cologne.

There was no lack of novelty in the sports organised by the 4th (Hallamshire) Bn. York and Lancaster Regt. which attracted a large number of spectators to Blücher Park, Cologne, on Saturday. An original course was selected for the obstacle race, which was perhaps the most interesting event of the day. A lake, 50 yards across, three high brick walls. and many other ingeniously selected obstacles had to be negotiated. A large band of clowns provoked considerable merriment, assisted by a diminutive donkey. "C" Coy. came through the company championships with many points to spare. The band of the 1/5th West Yorks played enjoyable music during the afternoon.

THE WINNERS.

Appended are the results of the more athletic events:—

GOODWOOD MEETING.

Likely Trio for "Stewards' Cup."

BY NOBBY.

At "glorious Goodwood," situated in the heart of lovely Sussex. racegoers this year look like witnessing the victory in the Stewards Cup of a horse that already has been described by a well-known sporting writer, as a "horse and a half", i. e. Irish Elegance, who will attempt to add to his Royal Hunt Cup success by adding the Stewards Cup, thereby proving what a great horse he is, and setting his 10st 2 lb. at defiance.

Years ago, this particular race was often the medium of some very heavy speculations, but I fear the bookmakers will not permit more than 3 to 1 against being obtainable on the day, regarding the above mentioned animal, whom I quite expect to see returned the winner, and an easy one at that, with the remaining other two places filled by Best Born and Racket respectively.

CHAMPION SPRINTER.

Those who are interested in sweepstakes (quite a feature among the Batteries and Columns in the A. of O. nowadays) and prove fortunate enough to draw "Irish Elegance", I strongly advise not to be tempted to part with their chance, because they think 10st. 2lb. is too big a weight for this horse to carry successfully as, barring accidents, I fail to see entered anything likely to lower his colours, believing as I do he is the champion sprinter.

To-morrow will be the Goodwood Plate, a two and a quarter miles race, and I shall be very disappointed if Langdon Hills with 8st. 4lbs. up fails to get in the first three if he does not win outright.

Williams 4 for 37.

"R" Battery, A.A. (126) v. 17th Lancers (100) at Kalk. For the winners, Bdr. Whitehouse scored 53, and took 8 wickets for 39 runs. For the Lancers, Capt. Boles and Capt. Stanyfort batted well for 28 each.

Important Boxing Proposals.

NATIONAL WEIGHT STANDARD AND THREE NEW WEIGHTS.

An important meeting of the Council of the Amateur Boxing Association was held at the Offices, Newlyn House, High-st., Aldgate at the week-end.

One of the questions discussed affected the championships, and as the result of their deliberations the Council decided to propose at the annual general meeting of the A.B.A., that three new weights be added to the championships.

It was further proposed that those already existing should be altered so that the complete list shall be as follows:—

Fly-weight (8st).
Bantam-weight (8st 6lb).
Feather-weight (9st).
Light-weight (9st 9lb).
Welter-weight (10st 7lb).
Middle-weight (11st 6lb).
Light heavy-weight (12st 7lb).
Heavy-weight (any weight).

The additions, it will be noted, are the feather, welter, and cruiser weights, and the effects of these and the alteration of the other weights in the other events, if the proposal of the Council is adopted, will be to create a national weight standard for amateur and professional boxing alike.

THE SCHOOL CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Another important proposal discussed, which received considerable support, was that championships should be instituted for schools other than Public Schools—for elementary and secondary schools throughout the country, in fact.

Boxing at the Ring.

At the Ring on Saturday night Geo Stammer beat Bdr. Tom Wilson, R.H.A., through the latter retiring in the 10th round.

POLO SEASON ENDED.

The Polo season finished both at Ranelagh and Roehampton on Saturday. At the latter Roehampton beat the Royal Horse Guards by 7—2.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Wild and Woolly West.

Typical features from the Wild and Woolly West will be an interesting part of the First American Division Circus that is to appear in Cologne on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of August. The men who participate in this portion of the performance are all former cow-boys and ranchers from the great plains and mountain country of America. Texas, Arizona, California, Wyoming and the other cattle raising states are here represented by some of their most expert riders and ropers. Lt. Le Roy Finchum, who is in charge of the Wild West Acts, was with the famous 101 Ranch in Texas and puts his wide experience with bucking horses and buckeroos into action with hair-raising results.

"The Live Rounds."

After a break of two months the "Live Rounds" (10th Royal West Kent Regt.) opened their season on Tuesday evening at Schingenthal with an excellent little show in two parts. The humour of the evening was in the very capable hands of "Stan Dabourne", while "Phyllis" has lost none of "her" charms. "Massa Johnshon", "Billy Pales", "Dan Barnard", "Frank Spencer", and Lieut. C. Burnett all contributed to the success of the show. The "Live Rounds" will be at the Cinema, Siegburg, nightly at eight for one week commencing on Monday, 28th July. The show is well worth a visit.

More Leave Club Fixtures.

The B.E.L.C. continues its career of activity. On Wednesday an impromptu concert will take place from 5 to 6 in the music room, and at 7.30 (not 6.30 as on previous days) a dance will be held in the theatre and the 9th. Durham Light Infantry Band will play.

On Thursday the Pipers of the 11th Bn. Royal Scots, will play in the garden from 5 to 6. At 6.30 the weekly whist drive will commence.

On Friday there will be an impromptu concert in the music room from 5 to 6, and also a dancing class in the theatre.

At 8 p.m. there will be classical dances by Mlle. Laure Aman and Mlle. Marte Brantzkii on the stage of the theatre, accompanied by the Ladies Leave Club Orchestra.

On Saturday there will be an impromptu concert in the music room from 5 to 6, and the dance in theatre commencing at 7.30. p.m.

"Y.M." Future Events.

An interesting programme has been drawn up for the present week by the Y.M.C.A., Cologne. This evening at 7 p.m. Prof. A. Main, D. Litt., C.F., will lecture on "Prussia," in the Loreley Hall, and in the Great Hall, "The Tonics" will submit their bright and breezy entertainment. To-morrow at the same hour "The British Empire in India" will be discussed by E. B. Denham, while the cinema and orchestra will provide amusement from 6.30 to 9.30 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. The third talk on the subject of "German mentality" by Miss Muriel Smith, M.A., on Thursday, and a discussion on "The Church and Unity" on Friday should be full of interest. Other announcements include on Saturday a visit of "The Prongs," at 7 p.m., and "Diversions," conducted by Miss Churchill, and on Sunday a discussion conducted by Dr. Francis and the Rev. A. D. Mackenzie on "Things that matter most." At 6.30 p.m. there will be sacred songs, and at 7 p.m. United Divine Service.

Medicals Entertained.

On Thursday afternoon the 47th General Hospital at Bonn was visited by the Lena Ashwell Concert Party previous to their engagement at Siegburg at night. The patients and staff were treated to a very enjoyable programme, every item being well received. Miss Winifred Chambers, Miss Julia Caroli, Miss Jesse O'Grady, Miss Monique Poole, Miss Lina Rashleigh, and Mr. Archer Hill contributed to the programme. Cheers called for by Lieut.-Col. A. W. Elsner, C.B.E., D.S.O., R.A.M.C., were heartily given.

Cards and Music.

Music and whist entertained a large gathering of "D" Coy., 17th Royal Fusiliers, at Hoffnungsthal. Those who contributed to an enjoyable musical programme were Lieuts. Field and Hankin, Sergt. "Jack" Howe, Cpl. Abell, Sergt. Jackson, and Cpl. Hawes. The proceedings were organised on behalf of the Commander, Lieut. Hood, M.C., by Lieut. Rogers and Sergt. Griffin, and Sergt. Hares was stage manager.

In few words.

A very successful concert was given by the orchestra of the 1st. Eastern Brigade at the British Empire Leave Club conducted by Lieut. H. B. Lewis.

All Round Horseman.

As an all-round horseman Percy Woodland has few equals but it is unfortunate his weight prohibits frequent engagements on the flat. His lowest riding weight is 9st 2 lb.

Preston North End.

Preston North End have signed on William Bowron, of Berry Hill, County Durham, a centre-forward, who, before the war, played in the North-Eastern League.

Ledoux—Noble match.

It has now been decided that the Ledoux-Tommy Noble match will take place on July 31 unless a further postponement is necessary on account of the injury which Ledoux has suffered to one of his hands in training.

Bloodstock Sale.

One of the most important sales of thoroughbreds ever held in the United States will be the dispersal of the whole of the stud of Mr. Clarence MacKay. This sale will take place at Saratogu, New York, on Thursday, August 14. The catalogue wil include the well-known stallion Spanish Prince.

To-day's Fish Story.

Fishing from a boat at Folkestone an angler caught a 7lb lobster.

Jimmy Wilde's Holiday.

Jimmy Wilde intends to go to Blackpool next week for a holiday, and will fulfil exhibition engagements at Rochdale on Aug. 9 and at Belfast on Aug. 16.

Racing Boom Dying.

The racing boom is showing signs of dying down. There were nearly as many bookmakers, clerks and their associates at Hurst last week as there were backers.

Three Figures.

To one of the veteran brigade has fallen the honour of being the first to take 100 wickets for the season. The bowler is Wilfred Rhodes, the right-handed batsman and left-handed bowler.

Nothing Doing.

Many boxers have challenged Eddie McGoorty, but when their challenges have been accepted the men have "backed and filled," and there has been nothing doing.

The Devon Dumplings.

In the third cricket match of the Devon Regiment week at Exeter the Devon Dumplings defeated Devon Regt., the scores being: Devon Regt., first innings 130, second innings 324; Devon Dumplings, first innings 383 for nine (declared), second innings 80 for one.

Best T.Y.O.

Sivern is said to be Sir Edward Hulton's best two-year-old. He will be seen out at Goodwood.

Motor-Cyclists.

Motor-cyclists before the war were very conservative, but the same cannot be said now. Thousands have been in the Mechanical Transport and Air Force, and have been brought into contact with the latest theories and practice in engineering.

League Breach.

The breach between the Southern Football League and the Football League has failed to be readjusted, and the two bodies have now broken the agreement made in 1910. Apart from the question of transfers as affecting players, this means that the annual fixtnre between the two Leagues will no longer be played.

Lady Golfer's Record.

At Edgware the United Services Ladies' Golf Association held its meeting. In the eighteen holes' stroke competition Miss Molly Griffiths a Sunningdale player, accomplished a splendid round of 79, which beat the ladies' record for the course, the previous best being the 80 by the lady champion, Miss Cecil Leitch, accomplished in 1910.

New Player for Portsmouth.

The Portsmouth F.C. has secured the transfer of Eward Robson, the ex-Watford goalkeeper. He kept goal for Sunderland during the war period.

Motor Racing at Westcliff.

In the special event for lady car drivers for a 10 guinea prize in the motor race meeting at Westcliff, on Wednesday, Miss Cummings won by 3/4 sec. on the handicap.

Brentford F.C.

If names indicate anything in football, Brentford should maintain in the coming season the high reputation they gained last winter. Twenty professionals and some capable amateurs are already on the list.

The King and Rugby.

In the report of the Inter-Services and Dominion Forces Rugby Championship it was emphasised that the success of the competition was very largely due to the interest displayed in it by his Majesty the King.

Angling Prospects.

The Thames ands its tributaries and the Great Ouse, Avon, Arun, and other well-known rivers, have been freshened up well by the rains and angling prospects are good. Two large specimen roach 2lb. each have been caught in the Arun, at Pulborough (Sussex).

LIFE-SAVER PRAISES ZAM-BUK.

Mr. H.R. Jones, D.S.M., R.L.S.S.

Mr. H.R. Jones, D.S.M., R.L.S.S., Supt. at the Public Baths, Abbey Road, Barrow-in-Furness, has found Zam-Buk invaluable. As a certificated member of the Royal Life-Saving Society, and a swimming expert and instructor for many years, Mr. Jones has had wide experience of first-aid and Life-Saving work. No less than 30 drowning persons have been rescued by him, and upwards of 60,000 soldiers and sailors received swimming instruction at his hands during the training of troops. Mr. Jones writes:—

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the great healing properties of Zam-Buk. Having been a personal user of this balm for many years, I can with confidence recommend it for bruises, cuts, stiffness of the joints, etc., for which there is nothing to equal Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk always has a place in my medicine chest ready for any emergency which may happen. Where there are so many thousands using our baths it is essential to have a supply of the reliable and ever-ready Zam-Buk at hand."

Smearing a Cut, Bruise, Burn, Scald, or Scratch with Zam-Buk means that pain is soothed, the injured skin is protected against germ attack, and natural healing is hastened.

Even wounds that have taken bad ways, and obstinate cases of Eczema, Ulcers, Piles, Ringworm, etc. are successfully treated by Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk is obtainable at the chemists or the canteen, but if they are temporarily out of stock, send to the Zam-Buk Laboratories, Leeds, for a supply.

Echoes from Rhineland.

Celebrating the Century.

To celebrate reaching the 100th number, the editorial staff of "The Cologne Post," presided over by the Managing Editor, held a pleasant little dinner, when reminiscences of the paper's career were exchanged between the courses. Capt. Inge, representing the Military Governor, was the guest of the evening, and proposed the toast of "The Cologne Post." He conveyed to the staff the warm congratulations of the Commander in Chief, Rhine Army, and the Military Governor of Cologne on their achievement, and good wishes for the future of the Rhine Army journal.

Seeking Information.

They were two thirsty souls, strangers in Cologne, and they had reason to believe that in the Cabaret known as "The Twelve Apostles," they would find some old friends from the North Country. But the job was to find "The Twelve Apostles." They decided to enquire of the first soldier who passed by. The first to come was an A.S.C. man, and to him they put the question, "Where's the Twelve Apostles?" Sandy — for the A.S.C. man's accent betrayed a dialect from North of the Tweed — reflected a moment, then shook his head and replied, "The only kirk I know in Cologne is the Dom, but the C. of E. Military Church is just round the corner."

Not a "Novel" Engine.

Some more information has reached us regarding the type of locomotive in use at certain works in Rhineland. A rifleman correspondent says he assumes that this was what is known as a fireless locomotive which is used almost solely in explosive and powder factories. Its uses, he adds, are obvious. With an ordinary steam locomotive ashes and sparks are occasionally dropped along the track, rendering it dangerous when used in the vicinity of explosives. The fireless locomotive, as its name implies, has neither sparks or ashes to drop and can therefore be used in explosive dumps and similar places without risk of firing the material. The chief point I want to get home, however, is that fireless locomotives are in use in England, and the Caledonia Works Kilmarnock are one of the British firms that supply what was described as the "novel" engine.

The Photographed Child.

What seems to be rather a common custom among German families is that on the birth of a child the parents present it with a well-bound photograph album, on the front of which is inscribed the child's name, date of birth and other family history. Below this is a short poem, more frequently a passage of scripture. On the opposite page is a portrait of the father and mother with particulars of their birth and marriage. The album is filled from time to time exclusively with photos of the child, taken at intervals of a year or so. So that when the child reaches man's estate the "Birthday Album" forms a most interesting record.

Pride of School.

"The House" is the fetish of every right-minded English schoolboy, and none so proud as he that wears his school colours on the cricket or "footer" field, but the German student is not content with proclaiming his college only on the sports ground. In addition to wearing blue, red, or other coloured caps, these budding philosophers and scientists may be seen promenading with their house colours, worn like a sash across the body, always, be it noted, making sure that it shows above the coat lapels. To walk through the streets of the occupied towns, especially Bonn, the uninitiated would think that every young man they met was a member of some Order or other, but it is only the German way of showing their pride in their school, and incidentally, an instance of the Germans' love of outward show, which plays a big part in their national character.

War Honours.

A very bulky number of the "Army and Navy Gazette" has just reached us, and on opening it to ascertain the reason for its largely increased size we found it was a "War Honours issue" containing 74 pages filled with the names of recipients of awards for services in the field and in connection with military operations in France, Flanders, in the Balkans, Italy, North Russia, Egypt, Mesopotamia, East Africa, Aden and at home. It forms a very complete reference and should be in every mess. A great many individuals would probably like to secure a copy also, so we may say that the price is one shilling and the publisher's address is 22 Essex Street Strand, W.C.

Electricity in Britain.

Apropos a recent communication on the subject, the fact that a standing Committee of the House of Commons is considering the Electricity Supply Bill points to a great development of electricity in Great Britain in the near future, and it seems probable from the discussions which have taken place, that at no very distant date even small towns will be as well off for their own supply as those of Belgium and Germany.

Stopped Clocks.

One thing which strikes the ordinary observer in Cologne is that, in a city where the municipal services seem to be well organized, so many of the public clocks should be stopped. Even clocks in the most prominent places have been pointing to the same time for months. One wonders whether the explanation is that the interior of the clocks have been removed and their metal used as war material.

Wearing Their Caps.

About a fortnight ago, the British Military Authorities granted permission to the students of Bonn University to wear their college caps and sashes. The other day, owing to certain demonstrations among the students which were prejudicial to good order, the Authorities warned them that if a similar scene occurs again, the permission will be cancelled.

Varied Military Garb.

The varities of uniform worn by the British Army seem to be a source of constant interest to the German populace. When British troops first arrived in Cologne, the appearance of a kilted soldier in the streets, created quite a small sensation, and even now such adornments as the red hackle worn by the Royal Highlanders is an object of much curiosity.

War Savings.

On Sunday we recorded the excellent results scored by the 51st Leicesters in investing 51,600 marks during one week. We are now informed that the 53rd Battalion Royal Sussex Regt. invested in one month 187,988 marks (£1841. 15. 9) The highest amount received in one day was 57,628 marks.

1st Battalion Machine Gun Corps on July 2nd invested 42,430 marks, B Coy contributing 21,150 marks and D Coy 13,687 marks.

52nd Battalion Leicestershire Regt. has 124 N.C.O's and men of the Battalion enrolled as members of the War Savings Association and on the first pay-day a total of 36,448 marks was invested by them, an average of 294 marks (or £4 1. 0.) per head. It would be interesting to know if this is a record.

To-day's Johe.

At the entrance to the Q. M. stores of a West Country regiment on the Rhine is a flight of steps leading down to the cellar. On the wall above this a Notice in German politely informs everyone that this is "Zum Unterstand." The regimental wag in a spasm of enlightenment has added to this "and zum Don't."

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Rifleman A.V. Bull K.R.R.C. 47 General Hospital Rhine Army; Cpl. E. Fisher D of S. & T., G.H.Q. Rhine Army, Gnr. G. Johnson, 303 Siege Battery R.G.A. Rhine Army.

Increased Pensions.—Increased pensions for retired Indian Army officers are being considered.

Valuable Necklace.—A necklace of 52 large pearls of fine Orient has realised £10,600.

A Business man.— Lord Rothermere is suggested as British Ambassador to the States.

Dodging the Column.—At Sonderbourg in northern Schleswig, fifty-two new German millionaires have arrived with the idea of avoiding taxation.

Great Chimney Felled.—The 250 ft. Vigo chimney at Northampton, the third largest in England, built 50 years ago, was felled yesterday.

Now and Then.—The headmaster of the Windsor County School says he does not know whether it is war weariness, but less keenness is displayed by boys.

Census of Wealth.—The German Government has ordered a census of wealth, All bank-notes must be stamped, otherwise they are cancelled automatically.

A Drop.—The Marconi Company, who claimed £7,181,000 against the Government for breach of contract, have been awarded £590,000.

French Naval Chief Dead.—Admiral Fauque de Jonquières, Chief of the French Naval Staff at the outbreak of war, has died in Paris.

A Marquis's Naval Medals.—Admiral the Marquis of Milford Haven has sold his collection of British naval medals for £1,419 2s. 6d.

Considerate.—Liverpool dock strikers are to allow the repatriated Canadian troops, with their wives, to sail without interference.

An Encouragement.—Camberwell Guardians suggest that Poor Law children who win scholarships should have 2s. a week pocket money instead of 3d.

Australian Naval Programme.—The Commonwealth is to purchase 47 Naval vessels, 28 of which will be built in Australia.

A Lesson.—For charging 4d, for half-pints of bitter beer instead of 3½d. a London licensee, and a barman have been fined £22 2s., with costs.

English Music.—Prof. Granville Bantock says English music is quite as interesting and beautiful as German, but up to the present it has never had a fair chance.

Wireless with Germany.—Uncensored wireless communication between Washington and Nauen, the chief German wireless station, has opened.

Danger in Fish.—Four people are in hospital at Birmingham suffering from ptomaine poisoning after eating tinned crayfish.

Welcome.—Cigarettes are again obtainable in London in airtight tins of fifty, as cardboard is more difficult to obtain than the metal.

Stained-glass Again.—The wonderful stained-glass windows in the Paris churches which were removed during the air raids, are being restored.

Gasping for Water.—A water famine exists in the south of Scotland in consequence of a six weeks' drought. The turnip and fruit crops are a failure.

Damage to Liner.—Damage estimated at £5,000 was caused by a fire which broke out in the holds of the White Star Liner, Cedric, in New York Harbour.

Captain as Rat Catcher.—Captain Arthur Davies, late Bedfordshire Regiment, has been engaged by a county council as an organiser of rat catchers.

The Limit.—A new form of profiteering has appeared. Certain shopkeepers and tradesmen in seaside resorts are charging a halfpenny for changing a Treasury note.

A Forced Loan.—The German Government, it is said, intends to levy a forced loan of £10,000,000,000 bearing interest at the rate of 2 per cent.

Four-Footed "Contemptibles."—Horses with more than four years' war service to their credit are entered for the Aldershot Command Horse Show on August 13 and 14.

London Theatres.—Saturday saw the last appearance of "Hullo, America!" Next Saturday is the last night of "The Naughty Wife" and "The Latest Craze." "The Boy" finishes on August 9.

Disappointed Hostesses.—Disappointment amongst ambitious Society leaders has been caused by the announcement that the Prince of Wales will live on a warship when he visits New York.

No Smoking Day.—The Cologne Press is organising a no-smoking day on Aug. 1st. All German smokers are asked on that day to give their tobacco to returned prisoners.

Wonderful Journalism. — "The Times" Weekly Edition now appears with an eight page illustrated supplement in photogravure. This is possible on fast rotary printing machines as the result of experiments carried out by the proprietors for the past five years, and the result is perfect.

Notes from London Town.

PRINCE'S TOUR.

It is now arranged that the Prince of Wales will include an American visit in his Canadian tour. In the present relations between ourselves and the Americans it was unthinkable that the heir to the British throne should visit Canada without crossing over into the United States. The Prince will leave for Canada early next month on H.M.S. Renown, He will be accompanied by a carefully-selected staff, the members of which are acquainted with Canadian affairs, and will call at important centres in the maritime provinces. The final port of call will be Quebec, after which the royal tourist will go overland to the north of the Great Lake system through the silver-mining region. The grain country will also be included in the trip, which will extend beyond the Rockies to British Columbia, the return journey being made across the continent to Montreal. The prince will perform several important public ceremonies during his stay in Canada, including laying the foundation-stone of the new Parliament buildings in Ottawa.

SEA MEMORIES.

A sort of competition of long memory is now going on in the columns of certain London journals. Tedious enough in its way, the main event of living interest recalled by the long memoried correspondents so far has related to the sea and sea romance. There is one old salt who recalls the last ocean race between the famous tea clippers in 1869. The vessels engaged were the Ariel and the Taeping. But there are as long memories of the sea as that still alive and quite as eventful. One old sailor of my acquaintance in the West country never tires of recalling the sight in Malta harbour when the last of the great towering wooden four-deckers were ordered home. I believe the vessel was bearing the historic name of Royal George, but I am not sure. But I know the old skipper describes how one sturdy and daring Jack Tar swarmed up to the top of her dizzy mainmast, stood upright on the tiny foothold on top, and, hauling his jumper off over his head as he swayed there, waved it in the air, amid thunders of cheers down below.

AN ALLURING POSTER.

The latest Army recruiting poster is ahead of anything yet produced in that way. It is the pictorial exploitation of the old newspaper parallel column idea. On one side of the poster is the young civvy. But he is cleverly made an ex-Army civvy. Anyone can see that the chap has been through the Army mill. On the other side is a veteran soldier, of about the same youthful age, in his comfortable off-parade order, smoking his pipe. Each succession of pictures down each side of the poster deals with the same problem. In each case the manifest advantage of the soldier's lot is made very clear. Whether it is clothes, rations, holidays, tobacco, health and medical attendance, sport, or what it may be, the man in civvies is down in the dumps, and the soldier is "cheerio!" And there is so much absolute truth in it, that the Army should win a good many converts.

WAR TROPHIES DEPARTMENT.

To obviate misunderstanding, let it be said that the department in question is not another addition to the State departments, but a somewhat belated departure by a West End store. This emporium has possibly perceived a revival in popular demands for German trophies, in consequence of the peace pageants and the historic note. At any rate, they have opened this special department, where one may become the possessor of anything from a captured German machine-gun at several guineas to a Pickelhaube at half-a-crown. And semily the trade is quite brisk. Some poeple have a strange taste in drawing-room ornaments. And certainly there is much irony in the fate which consigns these relics of the great war to the palaces of the new rich profiteers. Because I am informed that about the only people who are not purchasing these cheap mementoes—perhaps the only articles now being sold considerably below their actual production value—are Service and ex-Service men. Americans are big buyers. And so, strangely enough, are war widows, many of them mere girls.

A CAPILLARY PARADOX.

General Corkran, an Old Etonian, has been lecturing the Eton cadets on their long hair. Naturally, as an Army man, the gallant Brigadier detests it. Nothing was more anathema to the "Old Sweat" instructors of the new Army recruits than their habit of wearing long hair. Many a recruit has been dumbfounded and amaxed to find his hair condemned as "operatic" just after passing through the hands of a civvie barber. Short hair means in the Army close cropped. And there were sound reasons for the military prejudice. But, strangely enough, the rising generation of school-boys seems to be addicted to very long hair. Eton is not alone in the long hair brushed-back fashion. It is rather a paradox that this should be so at a time when not only is the Army fashion predominant, but all the girls are being most conscientiously bobbed. It suggests a sort of compensating balance between the youth of the two sexes. But one fancies the Brigadier is right, and that boys who wear long hair will never do much at field sports. This week I saw a party of London schoolboys, averaging about 15 or 16 years old, and their hair must have been fully six inches long in most cases. Who sets these queer school fashions? Not the cricketers or footballers for certain. REGENT.

REVEALING THE TRUTH.

GERMAN MINISTERS ACCUSE FAMOUS GENERALS OF REFUSING TO CONSIDER PEACE.

THE COAL STRIKE IMPASSE.

REFUSED PEACE.

MORE EXPOSURES OF GERMANY'S BAD FAITH.

The sensation of the hour is Erzberger's statement regarding the alleged British peace feeler in 1917. Doubts are expressed as to its accuracy. Opinion in authoritative quarters is that there were undoubtedly many feelers during 1916/17/18 about which nothing has yet been published, and further disclosures of a similar kind are expected.

Important statements on the subject were made by M. Painleve and M. Ribot to Marcel Hutin of the "Echo de Paris." Painleve, who was premier of the Council at the time, said he had no knowledge of the affair, which seemed to him singularly exaggerated. It was probably a question of a memorandum sent by the British Minister at the Vatican (who represented France also in certain events).

FRENCH COMMENT.

M. Painleve said he was convinced that M. Ribot gave no permission to carry out such a mission. "This piece of history which Erzberger has hushed up seems to me absolutely contradictory, contradicting as it does, the pourparlers which were going on with Austria about the same time. France undertook no pourparlers but confined herself to acknowledging a communication through Britain at the beginning of August 1917, when the Pope made an attempt at rapprochement and submitted to France certain proposals to serve as a basis for overtures with Germany.

Great Britain, in acknowledging the letter in very polite terms, went so far as to remark that the proposals did not contain sufficient guarantees as regarded Belgium. Gasparri telegraphed the British reply to Germany and asked for a precise declaration about Belgium. Germany did not desire to reply because they were unwilling to give Belgian guarantees.

Erzberger's statement is a distortion of the truth. Great Britain gave her Minister at the Vatican no orders to add anything when acknowledging receipt of the message, therefore the acknowledgement was very far from being an offer by the two Allied Governments.

MORE GERMAN EXPOSURES.

Meanwhile the German National Assembly continues to wash its dirty linen in public.

Herr Müller, Minister of Foreign Affairs, one of the signatories of the Peace Treaty made a long speech yesterday in defence of his policy. He declared that the Armistice was not the result of the revolution but of the military situation. He further surprised the Assembly by stating the fact, now revealed in Germany for the first time, that Great-Britain answered to the Peace note of the Pope that she had no opportunity to discuss his proposal with her Allies and peace negotiations had no chance of success as Germany refused to state her intentions about Belgium.

BISMARCK'S POLICY.

Müller, saying that only a clear answer about the Belgian question as regards reparation and her complete independence could have brought us nearer to Peace, stated further that Michaelis concealed the British proposals which opened the way for peace from the leaders of political parties and that the precise declaration about Belgium which he promised to those leaders was in fact the exact opposite.

Later in his speech, Herr Müller said: "Foreign countries must understand that we Germans are a peaceful folk. It has been said that we are destroying Bismarck's work. Bismarck's work has been endangered by the policy of the last twenty-five to thirty years. He would never have allowed the Military to mix up in politics as has been done in this war. And he had men who were much superior to Ludendorff. Ludendorff, next to Tirpitz has been the cause of the greatest ruin."

BAUER CARRIES ON:

The Nationalist Schulz-Bromberg renewed the attack on Prime Minister Bauer and Minister Erzberger.

Herr Bauer answered with further revelations: He read two notes in connection with Belgium, one by Michaelis to Hindenburg's answer. In the first Michaelis expresses his thanks for the support of Hindenburg and Ludendorff at the Crown Council of the 11th September 1917 (of which Ludendorff denies all knowledge).

Hindenburg in his answer says that a long occupation of Belgium would be necessary after peace and the German influence must be paramount in Liege to protect the industry of Rhineland and Westphalia. "We must keep strongly in our hands, "says Hindenburg," the area on both sides of the Meuse and South of St. Vith. The neutrality of Belgium is a phantom which cannot be considered from a practical standpoint."

COAL STRIKE.

WORDS OF COUNSEL AND WARNING.

All is quiet on the Yorkshire coalfields. On Sunday the situation was reported as being somewhat improved and there is a growing desire on the part of the men to resume work. In South Yorkshire the winding enginemen returned to duty after consultation with the owners, and in other districts naval ratings are carrying on without molestation.

Mr. Smith, President of the Yorkshire Miners Council, addressed a number of meetings on Sunday, when the situation was explained but no vote was taken. Nor was any mention made of the Council meeting which Smith has stated must take place before the terms are considered.

OBDURATE MINERS.

There is still no sign of resumption of work in the Yorkshire coalfields. Apparently the Government formula is being discussed at various lodges, who will appoint delegates to a conference at which a decision will be made. The general feeling is that any Government action will be welcomed which will bring the conflicting parties together.

Lancashire, Cheshire and Derbyshire miners have accepted the settlement and returned to work.

CONVULSIVE EFFECTS.

The far reaching effect of the coal strike and higher costs are well illustrated in the case of France. With her own collieries ruined, she was dependent on two main sources of supply—England and America. The price of English coal is prohibitive and the supply nil. Orders for seventy million tons have been transferred to America. The rest of the coal that she must have, France will obtain from Germany, under the terms of the Peace Treaty.

The demands of France, it is said, are very exacting and the German delegates point out that the whole of the German railway traffic will be stopped if Germany has to deliver the huge quantities of coal demanded by France each month.

BOLSHEVIST BOGEY.

Reports from Berlin state that a sensation has been caused in German Ministerial circles by the demand of the Allies for the immediate delivery by Germany of large quantities of coal in accordance with the terms of the Peace Treaty. The German representatives are said to have told the Entente that if the delivery were insisted upon, Bolshevism would be the result. The Entente are reported to have replied that they would know how to deal with that.

INCREASE OF OUTPUT.

Mr. J. H. Thomas says he is disturbed in spirit at the situation at home, which, following a colossal expenditure, both of life and wealth, needed above everything else to be stabilized.

The one thing essential was to restore confidence in this country, increase production, and keep every industry fully employed. To effect that was no easy matter considering the difficulties which to-day presented themselves, but it would be his earnest endeavour to work in that direction.

EFFECT IN SHEFFIELD.

The coal famine has severely gripped Sheffield's industries, placing just over 30,000 unemployed on the list. The local Labour Exchange paid out on Saturday £20,000 in out-of-work pay.

NEW LEAGUE WANTED.

Bishop Welldon, addressing the Durham Miners' Association in Durham Cathedral, appealed for industrial peace. A war upon the railways or in the coal mines was essentially not less barbarous than a war upon the battlefields of France. If a League of Nations was needed for the abolition of warfare, no less was there need of a League of Classes for the prevention of industrial warfare.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

With a view to maintaining the coal output to as high a level as possible, 20,000 miners and surface workers in the Manchester and Bolton coalfields have decided to remain at work and put in full time at the pits. At meetings, however, they are adopting resolutions condemning the 6s. advance on coal prices as unnecessary and prejudicial to the general interest of the industrial community.

LIMIT CANCELLED.

The Board of Trade announces:—

"In view of the altered situation, the recent Order restricting deliveries of coal in the metropolitan area to two cwts at a time has been cancelled. Private consumers may obtain coal for stocking purposes up to the quantity allowed by the rationing order. Coal merchants are not prevented from making such deliveries, provided they have established the reserve stock required for ensuring supplies to small consumers during the winter months."

SKELETON MYSTERY.

VICTIM'S STEP-SISTER CHARGED.

The police have not yet traced the woman Alice Grant for whom they are searching in the belief that she can throw light on the discovery of the skeleton of a girl under the floor of a house in Pembroke Place, Kilburn. The remains are assumed to be those of Connie Grant.

A remarkable development has arisen through a reported statement by the stepsister of Connie who has been detained by the police.

She says that a week after Connie was missing she found her dead body in the cellar in an emaciated condition and she assisted in the disposal of the body under the kitchen floor. No lime was used, the absence of flesh from the bones being due to the activities of rats.

Yesterday the police preferred a charge against Maggie White, the step-sister of Connie Grant. It was made under the Burials Act in respect of her alleged knowledge as to the disposal of the body. The police theory now is that the girl's death was not necessarily other than a natural one.

GERMAN DUPLICITY.

DOCUMENTS FORGED TO JUSTIFY WAR.

From Amsterdam it is reported that Colonel Scawertfeger, formerly of the German General Staff, who was charged in 1915 with the selection and classification of documents alleged to have been found in the Brussels archives during the German occupation, has published a brochure of the highest importance.

In it he declares that he never found any document which even hinted, let alone proved, that Belgium had not fulfilled its obligation of neutrality before the outbreak of war. The only thing attributable to Belgium was an inclination Englandwards, which was cherished because she realised the menace coming from Germany. The author states that the German Government not only falsely interpreted the Brussels documents, but committed many forgeries in order to deceive German public opinion.

SOLDIERS' SERVICE FOR FALLEN COMRADES.

Fifty thousand discharged and demobilised sailors and soldiers marched in procession through the London streets to Hyde Park on Sunday and took part in a great service conducted by the Bishop of London and Bishop Taylor Smith, Chaplain General, to the memory of the men who fell in the war.

As the procession passed the cenotaph in Whitehall the men bared their heads. The Bishop of London preached an impressive sermon on the lesson of the war and urged his hearers to practise in their daily lives the fine spirit of comradeship shown throughout the war.

Music was supplied by a band of broken heroes, every member being partially disabled by wounds. Many women were moved to tears during the service, which concluded with the Last Post and the Reveillé.

HUNGARIAN MINISTER'S DESPAIR.

A despatch from Vienna states that at the last meeting of the executive of the Hungarian Republic, Herr Garbai, the President, declared that the Communist system would end in a terrible breakdown and he could not take the responsibility for a continuation of it.

He tendered his resignation, which the Council refused to accept. Garbai thereupon drew a revolver with the object of shooting himself. He was prevented from doing so by two members rushing up and disarming him.

SIR E. POYNTER DEAD.

Sir Edward Poynter, Bt., G.C.V.O., President of the Royal Academy from 1896 till last December, died on Saturday, aged 83. Sir Edward, who was knighted in 1896, and created G.C.V.O. last year, was made a baronet in 1896, and the title now passes to the elder of his two sons, Lieutenant Ambrose Macdonald Poynter, R.N.V.R., F.R.I.B.A.

VAST FOREST FIRES.

A great series of forest fires are raging along the eastern slopes of the international boundary and southwards to the States of Idaho, Washington, and Montana. Large tracts of forest in the interior of the Rockies also are ablaze. Already thousands of square miles of timber have been destroyed, the damage being incalculable. In the opinion of forestry experts the fires cannot be checked except by the snows of next winter.

FOOD WASTING.

The American steamer Sun arrived at Genoa a fortnight ago with 5,000,000 eggs for Switzerland in 12,000 boxes, which were dumped on the mole in a blazing sun, and, owing to the difficulty of transport, the whole cargo still lies there rotting.

A number of British officers in a Handley Page have left Cairo for Damascus. They are the pioneers of the route to Baghdad.

PAGEANT OF SHIPS.

MIGHTY DISPLAY ON THE THAMES.

The last five years have shown that in the great war of people, all the strategy of generals and the gallant heroism of the ranks could have been of no avail without ships, says the "Times". Ships transported men to the battle fields on the Continent, and to far distant lands, carried them food and munitions, brought them back again wounded, sick or on leave, brought divisions from British Dominions overseas, came heavy laden with troops from the United States and have taken back men from the battle areas to their homes near and far. All the time, ships were bringing to the United Kingdom cargoes of raw material for munitions, manufactures, armament and food to enable the country to carry on.

Every type of ship so contributed its share to the common cause — a great liner acting as transport or hospital ship; a mercantile cruiser as cargo steamer laden with foodstuffs; a humble collier feeling its way down the North Sea with coal for London houses; a little Thames paddle steamer tossing across the seas to the river Tigris, all running the gauntlet of enemy submarines. Those things are known now and it is fitting that they should be commemorated. The mercantile marine was represented in the peace procession a week ago, but the great commemoration will come next Monday — the fifth anniversary of the outbreak of war between Great Britain and Germany. The highest possible honours will then be paid to the heroism of the men who manned the ships, to the ability of the vessels and to the enterprise which enabled them to be at the service of the country.

WAR GRATUITIES.

DEALING WITH CLAIMS FOR DECEASED MEN.

Difficulties in the issue of War Gratuity to the representatives of officers and men who died in the earlier years of the war have to a large extent been overcome, the War Office announces.

Accounts of some 700,000 estates which had already been distributed have had to be reopened, and these are being dealt with according to the date of notification of death. This accounts for the fact that, though gratuities due to men killed in 1918 have in very many cases been issued, those of men killed in 1916 and 1917 have, as a rule, not yet been paid.

Settlement in the case of all officers and men who died in 1914 and 1915 is actively in hand, and it is intended to complete the whole work by the end of December next.

Representatives of any soldier whose death occurred before December 1915, and who have received no communication from the War Office on the subject of his gratuity, are now invited to write to "The Secretary of the War Office, Imperial Institute, London, S.W.," giving particulars. This will prevent the possibility of the case being overlooked.

Until further notice no communication should be sent in respect of a soldier who died after December 1915.

MRS. ELIOT'S ESTATE.

In the Probate Court yesterday, Mr. Justice Shearman heard an application in connection with the estate of the late Mrs. Arthur Eliot, better known as Mrs. Atherton, who committed suicide in her Mayfair flat.

Mr. le Bas applied for a grant of letters of administration to Mrs. Stackpoole, sister of the deceased. He stated that by her marriage to Captain Eliot in April 1919, Mrs. Eliot's previous will was revoked and as far as could be ascertained no other will had been made. The proposed arrangement was consented to by all parties and an order was made accordingly.

U.S. RACE-RIOTS.

President Wilson has himself authorised a direct and searching inquiry as to where the fault chiefly lies for the disgraceful race riots at Washington. Scenes of mob violence have been taking place all over the country since the negro soldiers came home from the war, and in the South they would have attracted little, if any, notice. Of all the acute problems which the war has left, President Wilson and the members of Congress consider the race-rioting not the least serious. Not only President Wilson, but the former President Roosevelt, called urgent attention to the deepening disgrace of American lawlessness growing out of race-antagonism.

DOUGLAS-PENNANT CASE.

Earl Stanhope will move in the House of Lords to-day that, as the Government have refused to grant a judicial inquiry, a Select Committee should be appointed to examine the circumstances connected with the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas-Pennant from the Women's Royal Air Force, with power to call witnesses, to take evidence on oath, and to ask for the production of documents.

A GENERAL SHOT.

General Sir Henry Grant was accidentally killed while out rabbit shooting on Monday near Inverness. He slipped down an incline and his gun went off.

POST-WAR TRAINING.

SERVICE IN LIEU OF PREMIUMS.

Brigadier-General Asquith made an appeal yesterday to professional societies and employers to place at the disposal of the Appointment Department of the Ministry of Labour as many vacancies as possible for training ex-officers and men.

Of eighteen thousand applications for professional and semi-professional training, with Government assistance, two thousand have been dealt with. For the sixteen thousand that remain there are only some twelve or thirteen hundred offers. That position, he considered, was very grave, for it meant that unless a great number of additional vacancies for training are forthcoming, it is very difficult to see how the Government scheme can be successfully carried out.

That was one side of the picture. On the other, a great number of professional men have come forward and said they will accept a man's war service in lieu of a premium in professions in which premiums are customary. He hoped that a good many more will see if they also cannot waive the question of premiums in the same way.

RUSSIAN BLOCKADE.

DIFFICULT POINT OF POLICY.

Communications are passing between the Allies regarding the situation in North Russia, but their nature will not be made known for a few days.

The Council of Five in Paris yesterday, again discussed the question of the blockade of Russia. It appears that the theory of the American delegation, especially emphasized by President Wilson, is that blockade is inseparable from a state of war and inasmuch as the Entente is not at war with Russia the blockade ought to be raised. Many members of the Conference hold, however, that the Allied powers are no longer at peace with Russia and the blockade is therefore justifiable.

The Journal des Debats understands that the Council of Five decided to draw President Wilson's attention to the undesirable consequences which would result from the lifting of the blockade, pointing out that it would have the effect of providing exclusively for revictualling the Red Army and Bolshevist officials to the detriment of the anti-Bolshevist masses, thus operating against Hoover's plan for providing for the whole population of Russia without any distinction.

FAMOUS WAR HORSE.

One of the horses entered in the Aldershot Command Horse Show, to be held on August 13 and 14, is a brown gelding which was the first animal to jump the Hindenburg Line, in full marching order, after the infantry had broken through.

This animal was ridden throughout the war by Lieut.-Colonel Winwood, commanding the 5th Dragoon Guards. It went to France in August 1914, took part in the Mons retreat, and was in every action in which cavalry took part, including the battles of the Marne, Aisne, Ypres, Loos, the Somme, Cambrai, and Arras.

CANADA AND THE LEAGUE.

Modifications in the League of Nations Covenant suggested by Mr. Taft, ex-President of the United States, which would exclude Canada and other British Dominions from the Council of the League, are strongly opposed in Canada. The Journal, which is regarded as the official organ of the Ministry, says that Canada has sacrificed too much blood and treasure to be excluded from the Council merely to prevent splits in American political parties.

AIR MINISTRY CHANGES.

The Air Ministry announces that the Secretary of State for Air has approved a re-organisation of the Department of the Secretary to the Air Ministry, one of the objects of which is to provide more fully for the co-ordination of the work of the Department. In this reorganisation Mr. C. R. Brigstock and Mr. J. A. Webster, D.S.O., have been appointed assistant secretaries.

U BOAT IN TRAWL.

The Lowestoft steam trawler Boyhat entered Lowestoft on Saturday night bringing a portion of a German submarine with a machine-gun attached to it. The prize was fished up from the sea in the Boyhat's trawl net. It is 10 ft long, is very rusted, and has the appearance of having been separated from the rest of the hull by fire.

PETER'S PENANCE.

It is announced that King Peter of Serbia intends to abdicate in favour of Prince Alexander, and to retire to a monastery near Semendria.

A mail train from Moscow to Keiv was derailed and caught fire, all the passengers and train staff being killed.

STATE SCHOLARSHIPS.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION SCHEME.

Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, President of the Board of Education, was present yesterday at the Speech Day of the County Borough of Blackpool Secondary School, held in the Tower Ballroom.

He said we wanted more scholarships to the universities, and we wanted a larger provision of maintenance allowance to enable the children of poor parents to remain in the secondary schools until they had received the full profit of the secondary school course.

He had hoped to be able to announce this year that he had found it possible to create a large number of State scholarships to the universities, but he had not been able to accomplish that object. He was not without hope, however, that he might be able to accomplish it next year.

On the question of technical education Mr. Fisher said we were now faced with keen economic competition, but given a good system of technical education we could beat the whole word. "I am by no means satisfied with our present system," added Mr. Fisher. "I appeal to local education authorities to take advantage of the clause in the Act of 1919, which enables them to co-operate for particular objects and organise technical education over a wide area. I believe if we had a careful survey of our higher grade technical education on the one hand, and a combination of education authorities devising a scheme of technical education for particular industries, that then we should be on the right road to success. This matter of technical education is not one which can be settled by educationists alone. We must acquire the cordial co-operation of the business world if it is to succeed."

WOMAN MURDERED.

ANOTHER NORTH LONDON TRAGEDY.

Another grim tragedy came to light yesterday by the discovery of the body of a young woman in a house in Seven Sisters-road, Finsbury Park. She had been gagged and bound and then strangled.

The body has been identified as that of Lucy Nightingale, aged 26, a married woman belonging to Manchester. It is stated that for some timed, she has been living apart from her husband.

Dr. Spilsbury, the Home Office pathologist, is of the opinion that death was due to strangulation.

A man has been detained in connection with the crime.

FERDINAND'S STOCKS.

An application was made before Mr. Justice Eve in connection with the recent requisition under the Great Seal when a special jury decided the English securities held by ex-King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, valued at £400,000, were forfeit to the Crown.

Counsel said there was a difficulty, inasmuch as they could not deal with the stocks, which were registered in the name of Ferdinand, unless they had a vesting order. He proposed that a petition should be presented by the Attorney-General, on behalf of the Crown, under the Trustee Act, for a declaration that Ferdinand had held the stock, in the events that had happened, as trustee for the Crown. That would enable them to get a vesting order and have the stocks transferred into the name of the Crown. It was desirable to obtain the order at an early date.

ANTI-PROFITEERING.

There was considerable enthusiasm on the part of Ilford housewives when the street market, organised by the Urban District Council to benefit the purchasing public and to put a check on profiteering, was opened. The stalls were besieged, and several of them were cleared many times over. Prices showed a welcome fall. For instance, at one stall chickens were offered at 2s 6d each, and ducks at 4s, while eggs were sold at 3½d each. Amongst the fish that found ready purchasers were kippers, 8d per lb, and fresh haddocks, 4d. Fruit also was much cheaper—tomatoes, 9d per lb; peas, 2d; and new potatoes, 2d. Amongst the stallholders was a prominent local tradesman.

MARNE BATTLE MEMORIAL.

As a lasting memorial to those who fell in the Battle of the Marne, and as a thanksgiving for the victory, a chapel is to be built at Dormans, on the bank of the river, on a height overlooking the fields where the battle which decided the fate of France and of the world was fought out. The site was chosen by Marshal Foch, who stated that it was at that exact spot that the German offensive was broken and the invading wave hurled back.

A Fiat machine with two Italian aviators started from Kenley on Saturday in an endeavour to make a record flight to Amsterdam. The machine crashed, when over Marquise, near Boulogne, but both occupants escaped.

The Liverpool Dock strike was settled on Monday evening after a seven hours conference and work was resumed on Tuesday. The men claim that the settlement is favourable to them.

PEACE REVELATIONS.

The debate in the Reichstag, which took place on the 25th inst., was illuminating to a high degree, throwing light, as it did, upon many obscure points connected with past attempts to negotiate peace.

How often have we read in the German papers of the honest and repeated attempts to bring about peace made by the German Government. To judge by their statements it was the Kaiser and his Government alone who sought the path of peace, and their well meant efforts were only checkmated by the obstinate determination of the Entente to persist in a war of aggression upon a peace loving country engaged in awar of self-defence.

To such people the revelations made by Erzberger, in last Friday's debate at Weimar, must have proved unpalatable reading. The duel between the Minister of Finances and Herr von Graefe developed into a first class debate, in which Erzberger made use of his undoubted oratorical powers in conjunction with the revelations of the Papal offer of mediation in order to deal a crushing blow to his critics of the Right.

His object was probably a two-fold one:—

(1) To defend himself against attacks on the part of the Conservatives of the old regime, including the German National People's Party, who were accusing him of having betrayed the country and of being in Austrian pay.

(2) It was an endeavour to refute the accusation so frequently levelled at the heads of the Revolutionary Government that it was the outbreak of the revolution which brought about the military collapse and not vice versa.

All this is now a matter of history. We all know now what the strength of the German divisions amounted to at the beginning of November, 1918. What is of supreme interest to us is to find what powerful support has been afforded by Erzberger to that section of the nation, drawn chiefly from the Majority Socialists and Independents, which asserted that peace could easily have been concluded in 1917 by a Government which really desired the conclusion of hostilities.

It is instructive to find their statements now borne out by their colleague. He points out where the guilt for the breakdown of this attempt at mediation must be laid. He lays it rightly at the door of the military party led by Ludendorff, the great industrial associations, and the war profiteers.

The door leading to peace negotiations was banged, barred, and bolted against any attempt of mediation. The Vaterlands Partei which was intended to foster the war spirit à outrance was founded. The German people, which required peace abroad and freedom at home, was put off and hoodwinked.

It is extremely interesting to find that this view of the conduct of the war has been so convincingly confirmed by the German Vice Premier, and we shall await further revelations with interest.

SERIOUS READING.

Another side of the Question.

The correspondence under this title at present appearing in the columns of "The Cologne Post" suggests a comment which I have not yet seen put forward. Most of the contributors to the discussion deplore the taste of the multitude in the matter of literary fare.

But it is useless to lament the taste of the multitude. It exists, and will be catered for by the literary providers, however much we grumbe.

What creates this impalpable influence which we vaguely term "taste"; we do not know. Not education, certainly.

The crowd who applauded Aeschylus Aristophanes, the common people who sang and recited our British folk songs and ballads, the citizen populace who flocked to Shakespeare's plays, were not "educated."

They did not attend study circles or belong to literary societies. They enjoyed the literary fare provided by the artists of their time, and the artists, therefore, continued to provide that kind of literary fare.

They would not have got a hearing if they had not provided what their public required, any more than Aeschylus, Shakespeare or the author of Chevy Chase, would get a hearing if they wrote for our modern public.

It is moreover a mistake to suppose that in the past the taste of the multitude has always been better than it is at the present day. The mediaeval liking for interminable romances, the seventeenth century fashion for interminable heroic tales, the eighteenth century delight in the Radclyffean novel of horrors, all illustrate the bad taste of our ancestors.

Now the two chief sources of excitement in nine-tenths of the lives of average men and women, are the interests arising from adventure (mental or physical) and the interests arising from sex.

And since fiction, whether embodied in drama, poem or novel, is the result of man's interest in himself and the society in which he lives, it follows that the major part of fiction will rest upon the same grounds.

The different ways in which the multitude like these interests presented to their minds, we call "the taste" of an age. One age delights in a literary art, which attempts a serious (or gay) reflection of essential human nature and its problems, another prefers a fancy picture of life as it might be if the world were peopled with Scarlet Pimpernels and Gene Stratton Porter heroines.

Thus, while all ages unite in craving for stories which shall prove that life need be neither drab nor monotonous, they differ both in their outlook and in their conclusions on this subject. The popular present day attitude of mind is that of melodrama.

The taste of some periods of the past was certainly more robust; the taste of those ages for instance which were willing that their literary artists should crown tales of crime, love and adventure with the utmost penalty of fate.

But we have to accept the fact that man's mentality has shifted since the days of the ballad writers and the Elizabethan dramatists. Now he asks for the comfortable assurance that dangers and distress will turn to wedding bells and an adequate income before he closes the book.

It does not matter that this denouncement is purely arbitrary. A facile optimism must be justified at any cost to probability and the Gordian knots of life sliced through by the mighty stroke of the pen.

The unwanted wife or husband must die; the hero, though reported dead as mutton, ever so often must finally appear smiling; the honest struggler must succeed; the spotless heroine conclude chastely in wedlock. Hence our Dills and Garvices, our Oppenheims and Oxenhams.

But while I am as anxious as anyone that our public taste should become more strong and healthy, I can suggest no Beecham's pill for our diseased faculty of appreciation. The seeds of that illness are too infinitely mysterious for any skill of mine to locate. I cannot help suspecting, however, that it will not be cured by study circles or literary societies.

BRIGHT AND VARIED.

Can you write a short article?

We require a number of short, bright contributions for this page. They may be on any topic likely to interest the Rhine Army — humorous or serious, informative or descriptive. We place no limitations on those willing to submit articles. One stipulation only we are obliged to make—none must exceed 500 words. Payment will be made for all that appear.

WHAT TO SEE IN RHINELAND.

II. Bonn.

What about an afternoon in Bonn? It is a delightful town, small in size and prosperous in appearance, and it is situated close to the wooded hills that overlook and beautify the Rhine. Most of our soldiers bless their fortune when they find themselves in this university town, and they are well content to carry on their duties as imperial watchmen in its charming pleasaunces.

Long ago the archbishops of Cologne found glamour in Bonn, and when the battle between townsman and ecclesiastic became severe in the thirteenth century they transferred their residence and seat of government from Cologne to the smaller city. But archbishops, like most clergy, are always good judges of pleasing abodes.

Bonn has had its ebb and flow of fortune. It was quite popular in the days when famous generals were wont to besiege in leisurely fashion some comfortable and strategic cities. Was not Marlborough an unwelcome visitor and did not he show an inartistic desire to level its walls to the ground?

The guide-books say appropriate things and tabulate important dates about the Münster, a notable church which claims the inevitable Empress Helena as its founder. This good lady, the mother of Constantine the Great, must have been busily engaged for many a year in ecclesiastical foundations.

Then there is the Alte Zoll from which a wondrous view can be had of the Seven Mountains, Godesberg, and the Rhine Bridge; to those who like the prospect of long avenues bordered with majestic trees there is the Poppelsdorfer Allee which ends at the Schloss, one of the many electoral residences of our neighbourhood; and to the men who care to look at prehistoric remains, ecclesiastical antiquities, and pictures of the Netherland, Dutch, Rhenish, and Italian Schools, there is the Provincial Museum.

To me the most interesting places in Bonn are the University and Beethoven's house. The former was an electoral palace, and was only converted into a University towards the end of the eighteenth century. When the French occupied the Rhineland the academic interests of Bonn suffered sorely, but in 1814 Bonn was recovered by the Prussians and four years later the university entered a new and happier era under the auspices of Frederick William III.

The lecture-rooms are quaint with their stucco ornamentation, and one wanders through the rooms with many a thought of the philosophy, theology, history, and science, that have been taught by German savants.

Beethoven's House is full of interest not only to the antiquary and music-lover, but to the man of ordinary human interests. Who is it that does not feel pleasure as he looks at the original score of the Pastoral Symphony or the Moonlight Sonata?

Then there is Beethoven's piano—how could he do justice to his music on an instrument that is put to shame by a modern Steinway or a Beckstein?

There is, too, the model of Klingel's masterpiece, erected in Leipsic in 1902, a piece of sculpture which gave rise to so much criticism by its deification of the master musician.

Even the ear trumpets have their own interest when one remembers the fight which Beethoven made against physical adversity. Yes, Bonn should be visited.

THE ACCUSATION.

I could see it coming. I saw trouble in his very gait as he advanced towards me. As he drew nearer, I could see it was apparent in his set face; his compressed lips.

At last we were face to face. There was a look of tense excitement in his eye, terrible to behold.

That eye went through me and came out at the other side, and after travelling all round my spinal column, it performed a circular movement and alighted at its starting point—my own eye.

"And now we are alone," he said dramatically, "we can settle this little question between us."

My perplexity grew greater. To all outward appearances it was his question, not mine.

"What q——" but I could not finish before he was speaking again in tones more dramatic than when he first spoke.

"You have taken away from me all that I hold dear," he went on. "Was ever a man waylaid, trapped and robbed as I have been?"

What could it be? His wife, his family, his home, his fortune?

I could not speak. My brain was on fire. What domestic tragedy was he about to pour from his fullness of heart? We had been pals for so long, more like brothers, and from those sentimental confidences we had exchanged "out there" we knew each other's pedigree for many generations.

"I know," he continued excitedly, "you care nothing for me and mine. How I had scraped and schemed to acquire them! And all in a moment they are filched from me unceremoniously and without compunition to the perpetration."

Here was indeed a tragedy, enacted by some loathsome scoundrel, a wrecker of domestic happiness.

Then he made a terrible accusation. Drawing himself up stiffly he suddenly thrust his face towards me! I instantly contracted a Uriah Heep feeling, and before me was my accuser Wilkins Macawber.

He raised his arm and pointed deliberately at me. "You have done this thing, you whom I trusted as my best friend? Why are you looking at me like that? Why look so confused and abashed! I have found you out, wrecker of men's lives. You, whose conscience is blackened by your own horrible sin, who cannot control himself in the presence of company, what have you to say for yourself?"

"But," I protested, and that was as far as I got.

"Well," he said, "if you want me to be more candid, what do you mean by asking me for a cigarette in a crowd?"

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

CALVARIES AS MEMORIALS.

Sir,—There has been much discussion of late on the subject of Calvaries as memorials to our men. A certain class object on the grounds that they would be contrary to British religious ideas, but that is a narrow point of view.

What is the symbol of the Cross? Is it not Sacrifice? Would not Calvaries then be most fitting memorials to our heroes? Not only will they keep fresh in our minds the bravery and devotion of the men, who sacrificed their all, but can they not be used by those who pass by?

It was a common sight in France when the French soldiers were marching to or from the trenches to kneel at a wayside Calvary. These should be erected on village greens and in open spaces. Services could be held under its shadow and all denominations could unite and worship God with one mind and one thought, thanking Him that our country was saved from violation and at the same time remembering those who rest in a soldier's grave.

L. T. M.

FAVOURED AND UNFAVOURED.

Sir:—Would the charming girls who sometimes grace the informal dances at the British Empire Leave Club give one or two dances to other men besides the favoured ones who accompany them to the dances.

By all means let these favoured individuals see them home after the dances, but one of the very elementary principles of all dances is that the ladies should not show preference for one particular partner.

HAWKEYE.

PHOTOGRAPHING THE DOM.

Sir,—Can I supplement "Kodak's" letter by pointing out that the purchase of photographs is quite distinct from personal attempts at making them. Ignoring the size or the particular angle at which the shop-made article is offered, one's own pictures serve to recall far more vividly the building it represents than a dozen of the former. Buying picture postcards is open to anyone, but to the man with a camera and such a multitudinous array of subjects, it should be numbered among the Cardinal Sins to seek the shops.

"BIG BEN."

RHINE TRIPS.

Sir,—Is the once delightful trip on the Rhine deteriorating, as regards comfort? During the first excursions we were allowed to ride on the ordinary passenger train to Cologne and during the journey on the river were supplied with a decently cut bully beef, buttered sandwich, tea for lunch, and bread, butter, and jam with tea in the afternoon.

Now parties use trucks and the boat meals are served with hardly any system at all. Lunch consists of a slice of bread and half a tin of cold maconochie with a drink of poor tea.

BOB.

THE ALLIES RIBBON.

Sir,—I saw a reference to this the other day. From all I can gather it is a myth and a sham. It seems to be only a much coloured product of the comic-opera order and a purely fictitious one created by traders for the purpose of fleecing soldiers and ex-soldiers who buy it — often at an extortionate price — in the honest belief that they are entitled to wear it. So my advice is: Beware of the so-called "Allies" ribbon.

CAUGHT.

LEAVE CLUB HOURS.

Sir, — With regard to the altered hour at the Leave Club and dances beginning at 7.30 p.m., it means that a number of men have to leave before the dance is over. This is due to the fact that many come from outside of Cologne. With the dances commencing at 6.30 p.m. they are able to enjoy the whole of the programme and get back to barracks in time. To my mind the old arrangements suited the dancers best.

INTERESTED.

TRAMWAY COMPARISONS.

Sir, — Amongst the comparisons made, it has been stated that Cologne cars do not carry so many passengers as the London cars. Some years ago a Traffic Commission studied traffic arrangements and it was decided that the London cars were inferior, being double-decked. Passengers are able to enter and alight from the single deck car much quicker than the double-decked The chief trouble with the L.C.C. cars is in the stopping, and even on the Underground cars, better and more exits are being made.

Again, during the slack hours cars use practically the same amount of power as during the busy hours, whereas only a small car need be used, thus saving considerable power and cost.

ARNOLD.

POSTAL DELAYS.

Sir, — If letters are conveyed by aeroplane why is it that a letter from the frontier does not arrive in North Lancashire until the fifth day, and a return letter occupies anything from six to ten days.

Being on outpost-duty and some distance from a town makes one all the more anxious to hear from home and receive newspapers. What is the matter, or what is the cause of this delay?

C.B.

DANCING FOR ALL.

Sir,—As one greatly interested in dancing, may I suggest that fancy dress balls similar to the one held at the British Empire Leave Club be held more often for the benefit of the men.

An address where costumes are to be had would be a great help to those who do not know the city.

R. F. A.

PEACE.

Not in the raucous shouts of frenzied crowds around us,
Not in the outbursts of emotion, so long caged,
Nor in gay pageantry, or blare of trumpets on the highway,
Do we find peace.
But in the homes, or great or small, which gave us,
In old familiar haunts 'midst those we love,
In thankfulness shall we receive God's blessing,
His And find peace.

Davis Cup: British Triumph.

SOUTH AFRICANS COMPLETELY ROUTED IN PRELIMINARY CONTESTS.

The preliminaries of the contest for the Davis Cup were concluded on Monday, the results being as follows:—

A. R. F. Kingscote beat L. Raymond 1—6, 6—0, 6—4, 6—1.

G. H. Dodd beat T. M. Mavrogordato 9—7, 7—5, 3—6, 4—6, 7—5.

The latter was the South Africans' only win.

H. Roper Barrett and A. R. F. Kingscote, representing the British Isles, beat G. H. Dodd and H. J. P. Aitkin, the South Africans, in the doubles contest by 7—5, 9—7, 6—4. As T. M. Mavrogordato and A. R. F. Kingscote won their singles contests, the British Isles team has qualified to meet the survivors of the match between France and Belgium.

The second day's play at Devonshire Park, Eastbourne was favoured by improved weather and a drier court. Well before three o'clock there was a plentiful number of spectators, and as the games progressed, the stands filled to their utmost capacity.

The First Competition.

The Davis Cup was presented by Dwight F. Davis, a member of the American team that won it when it was first competed for in 1900. Then America opposed the British Isles at Boston (U.S.A.), our team being composed of A. W. Gore, E. D. Black, and H. Roper Barrett, three remarkable veterans who were playing in this year's championships.

The last time the British Isles captured the trophy was in 1912, when C. P. Dixon, J. C. Parke, and A. E. Beamish unexpectedly brought it home from Melbourne, Parke on that occasion winning a great victory over Norman Brookes.

America wrested the trophy from the British Isles at Wimbledon in 1913, when Parke beat both M. E. McLoughlin and R. N. Williams, and the issue turned on a dramatic doubles match, in which Barrett and C. P. Dixon were beaten by McLoughlin and H. H. Hackett after coming within a stroke of victory.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

No. 1 D.A.C. Concert.

Many fresh items were introduced by No. 1 D.A.C. concert party in their performance at Zündorf recently. Lieut. Caldicott, Dvr. Kirk and Gnr. Hawkins submitted several humourous sketches and another notable turn was that of Capt. G. H. McEwen, D.C.M., R.F.A., who was in splendid voice.

French Concert.

Lovers of good music will be attracted to the concert to be given in Cologne on Thursday, about which an announcement appears in another column. The artistes include Mme. Gabrielle Gills of the Grand Opéra de Paris, M. André Dorival, pianiste, and M. Pierre Sechiari, violiniste. The same programme recently submitted at Mainz stirred a large audience to extraordinary enthusiasm.

From Circus Town.

Twenty large lorries came down from Circus Town in the American area Saturday night loaded to the brim with 150 engineers and thousands of feet of lumber and other material for constructing the extensive bleachers for the circus spectators. A second party of 100 engineers reached the circus grounds—Amsterdamer Strasse football grounds—Sunday afternoon. Already great advances have been made in the preparation of the field for the big show. Two enormous American aeroplane hangars will be used to house the circus people and the menagerie, while the big show and the side show are too large to put under any canvas that is at present available and will have to appear in the open.

"The Drag Ropes" Debut.

"The Drag Ropes" made their debut on Saturday, when a concert was given at the Scottish Churches hut at Godesberg. The party is of the 77 Siege Battery, but on this occasion they were assisted by several members of the "P" A. A. Battery. A programme without a dull moment included turns by Lieut. Digby Storey, Bdr. Edwards, Gnr. Hobson, Gnr. Temple, Gnr. Bowen and Cpl. Funnel in "Devil May Care," Lieut. Slantleberry, Gnr. Gunson, Bdr. Harling, and Miss French.

"The Poppies."

Last evening I went to the new Army Theatre, The Palace, to see "The Poppies," the Western Divisional Concert Party. After a most successful night on Monday there was again a crowded house to greet their second performance. Ernest Longstaffe, a well-known composer of concert party numbers, presided at the piano. The two girls of the party Lieut. C. E. Judd and "Daisy" Bell were excellent, the Cockney impersonations of the former being distinctly clever. Ernest Brogden and Lewis Nanton are two capable comedians, while Harry Hilton, Horace Waldron, George Mason and Jack Coast are clever in their respective parts.

Burlesques.

The burlesques in the second half of the programme I thought clever and original. The dances and impersonations of Ernest Brogden received quite an ovation; one would like to see more of him in conjunction with Lewis Nanton. The only thing that marred the show was the pepetration of some rather ancient gags in the first half of the programme. But taking it all round, the performance was bright, vivacious, artistically staged, musical and abounding with comedy. "The Poppies" is a party of much promise and well worth seeing.

Dramatic Company on Tour.

The performance of "General Post" by the Rhine Army Dramatic Company at Solingen on Monday evening was received with considerable enthusiasm. Yesterday evening the same play was given at Bonn before a packed house. "The Title" will be submitted for the remainder of the tour. On July 31st a performance will be given at Euskirchen, on August 2nd at Ohligs, on the 6th at Düren and on the following three evenings visits will be paid to Berg.-Gladbach, Wiesdorf and Solingen.

In a Few Words.

"The Poppies" are drawing large audiences to the Palace Theatre, Cologne, this week.

On August 18th, the "Dream Child," a one-act play by Capt. Gordon Blight, a popular member of the Rhine Army Dramatic Company, will be produced by that Company in Cologne.

The 31st inst. is the latest date on which "Quips" can be received in competition for the money prizes recently offered. So far the number received has been quite small, but possibly as the closing date draws near there will be an increase.

EXCITING MILE RACE.

Lancashire Division Sport Meeting at Bonn.

The above Sports in good racing weather were held at the Sports Platz, Cologne Road, Bonn on Friday and Saturday.

Friday was devoted to eliminating contests and provided some keenly contested heats. Rain in the latter half of the afternoon made the track somewhat treacherous. Some good racing was seen on Saturday in the semi-finals and finals. The mile race provided the most exciting finish of the day, being won by the 52nd King's Liverpool Regt. with the 15th Lancs. Fus. close up. The 100 yards was won by 32nd Bn. M.G.C. in 10 3/5 secs.

The Unit championship cup presented by Major-General Sir H. S. Jeudwine, K.C.B., was won by the 15th Lancs. Fus. with 13 points. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Spooner.

BURSCHEID BEFLAGGED

52nd Devonshires Sports Meeting.

The sports of the above Battalion were held at Burscheid on Friday last, when side-shows were a feature of the proceedings. The fields were liberally beflagged. Selections were rendered throughout the day by the Regimental Band, while some enterprising spirits opened a totalizator.

A very fine challenge cup, presented by the Commanding Officer to be given to the Coy. scoring the most number of points, was the object of each Company's endeavour. "B" Company scored the most number of points and won the Cup. "C" Company had given them a hard fight for it, and were runners up. Ex-Regt. prizes were distributed by Brig.-Gen. C. Tudball Lucas C.M.G., D.S.O. at the close of the meeting, and three cheers, first for Brig.-Gen. Lucas, next for Colonel Webber and finally for Capt. Castle, the winning Company's popular commander, were heartily given.

GIGANTIC CIRCUS.

INFLUX OF AMERICANS.

The great circus train of 35 cars, carrying the personnel and equipment of the First American Division Circus arrived in Cologne late last night. All preparations necessary for their reception had been made, two huge aeroplane hangars having been erected in time to house them on the grounds.

"Some" Outfit.

Hundreds of soldiers and civilians hung around the circus grounds all day Sunday watching the rapid construction with wide-open eyes. This work is being done by personnel from the 1st Engineers, U.S.A., the same outfit that threw a pontoon bridge across the Rhine near Coblenz in the record time of 48 minutes. It seems that they are equally good at constructing grandstands. Although this is an army amusement and therefore peculiarly a soldiers' show, German and other civilians are cordially invited to attend. There are to be matinees and evening performances for three days, August 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

X CORPS v. WEAVERS.

On Thursday last, the "Weavers" Officers XI were entertained to cricket in the grounds of the X Corps at Bonn and after an interesting match the visitors won comfortably by 8 wickets. The outstanding features of the game were the consistently good bowling of Capt. Moore, R.A.M.C. and a lively innings by Capt. Crystall, both members of the visitors team.

488th and 481st Siege Bty. Try Conclusions.

A friendly game of cricket was played on 481 ground at Kötgen resulting in a win for 488 by 22 runs, on Friday. 481 batted first, Stone and Sturdy being top scorers with 7 each in a score of 55. 488 replied with 57, Cartwright getting 11. For 488 Willan took 5 wickets for 17, Frampton 4 for 11 and Timms 1 for 1 run, Le took 6 for 25 and Lieut. Mackenzie 4 for 18 for 481.

An Apology.

Enormous pressure on space has rendered it necessary to hold over reports of several military athletic meetings. For this unavoidable contingency we apologise to contributors and readers.

"UBIQUE'S" FIELD DAY.

Southern Division R.E. Tournament in Burscheid Area.

The Southern Divisional Royal Engineers had a full "Field Day" — in a sporting sense — in their Burscheid area on Saturday. A brightly-varied programme, drawn up by a strong committee, presided over by the Commanding Royal Engineer, Lieut.-Colonel R. K. A. Macaulay, D.S.O., R.E., interested competitors and spectators alike from soon after breakfast until well after tea, and even then the civilian element emulated "Oliver Twist" in "wanting more."

The band of the 51st Battn. Devonshire Regiment (by permission of Lieut.-Col. W. J. J. Colins, D.S.O.) enlivened the main proceedings with tuneful music and the "canteen" side had been well planned. No records were put up and in a fairly equable distribution of successes "Signals" made an all-round good show. Brig.-General C. Godley, Chief Engineer IInd Corps, assisted by Lieut.-Col. Macaulay, handed over the prizes at the final "Victory March" and thanks were accorded the following officials for their services: Lieut.-Col. R. K. A. Macaulay, D.S.O., President; Major A. Russell, D.S.O., Major E. W. Nesham; Captain G. Gray-Barnard, M.C., Capt. W. T. Seymour, Captain T. M. Cottrell, M.C. (Adjutant), C.S.M. Hamblin, C.S.M. Eves, and Sergt. Knight, Judges; Lieut. K. S. A. K. Parker-Simpson, Sergt. King, Starters; Lieut. H. Turnbull, Lieut. J. Beale, Lieut. Young (R.F.A.), Lieut. Owen, 2 Lieut. K. A. Lindsay, 2/Lieut. T. Newman, M.M., 2/Lieut. N. J. Pram, C.Q.M.S. Weatherly, C.Q.M.S. Willett, M.M., Sergt. Pratt, M.M., Sergt. Adcock, Sergt. Carson, Corpl. Garlick, M.M., and Corpl. Kennerley, M.M., Stewards; Captain H. A. Martin, M.C., Clerk of the Course, C.S.M. Armstrong, M.S.M. (Recorder), and Major J. H. F. Kendall, M.C., and C.S.M. East, M.M., Secretaries.

OFFICIAL SCRATCHINGS.

Goodwood Meeting.

STEWARDS' CUP.—Polyscope at 9 a.m. on Monday.

101 Not Out In C.P.C. Match.

ROYAL FUSILIERS SERGEANT RUNS UP THREE FIGURE SCORE.

Excellent bowling, batting, and wicket-keeping are features of "Cologne Post" Cup competition matches briefly described below. One bowler took 3 wickets for 3 runs, another 6 for 10, and several had the creditable average of 2 runs per wicket. Capt. Stanyforth kept wicket brilliantly for the 17th Lancers, stumping four men.

Doorbar 19 and 2nd Lieut. Chiman 18 (not out), while Bdr. Mitchell took 4 wickets for 13 runs and Rev. Doorbar 3 for 4. For 74th Bde. Lieut. Cross scored 15.

BRIGADE CRICKET CUP.

17th Defeat the 26th Royal Fusiliers at Overath.

Play commenced under a somewhat cloudy sky at Overath on Saturday, for the final of the 3rd London Brigade Cup. The 26th who batted first could make little headway owing to steady bowling and good fielding. The best man, Sergt. Williams, made 38 for the home team. The 17th R.F. seemed to be in fine form, some good scores being made by Sergt. Darrah 17, Capt. Owen 32, while 2/Lieut. Tillet who batted with marvellous skill, made 51. Result:—17th R.F. 135; 26th R.F. 69. This brings the Brigade Cup home to the 17th R.F.

MIDLAND v WESTERN DIVISION.

The Western Division met the Midland Division at Lindenthal on Sunday. Sergt. Pring made a useful 49 for the winning side before being run out, while Lieut.-Col. Osborne added 29 and Capt. Scatcherd 21. For the same eleven, Cpl. Prim bowled well taking 6 wickets for 15 runs. There were no startling scores for the Midland Division, Major Moffat (not out) and Extras each being responsible for 12. The scores were:—Western Div. 1st innings 67; 2nd innings 144 for 6 (declared). Midland Div. 1st innings 46; 2nd innings 26 for 4.

COUNTY CRICKET RESULTS.

Kent beat Surrey by 136. Kent 164 and 250; Surrey 75 and 203.

Essex 331 and 132 for four; Hampshire 408; drawn.

Yorks beat Gloucesters by an innings and 123. Yorks 448 for four, declared. Gloucester 120 and 202.

Lancs beat Warwick by an innings and 44. Lancs 490 for five, declared. Warwick 259 and 187.

Australians 371 and 242 for five, declared. Notts 391 and 67 for one; drawn.

BROTHER v. BROTHER.

The opposition of the Gillgans and Naumanns in this year's Varsity cricket match recalls other University sports in which brothers have been on different sides. A. B. Etherington-Smith was in the Cambridge crew of 1900, brother T. B. being one of the losing eight; the brothers Odgers were opposed to each other in the Rugby match in 1901, and the two Pearsons represented different interests in the cross-country event of 1905.

SPORTING CELEBRITIES.

(No I.)

Capt. G. G. Ziegler, M.C., Royal Fusiliers, who is now only 24 years of age, has an extraordinary record in all phases of sport. Shortly before the war he captained Haileybury Rugby eleven. In 1914 he was in the Cambridge O.T.C. and subsequently joined the Public Schools Bn. Capt. Ziegler played wing three-quarters in the B.E.F. Rugby team and last year played in the Rugby tournaments against the Australian and other teams. In addition he is a first rate cricketer and tennis player and excels at putting the weight, hurdle racing, and golf. Before being "demobbed" Capt. Ziegler was Sports Officer for the London Division.

M.C.C. TENNIS PRIZES.

The final round of the supplementary competition to decide who has the right to challenge Mr. J. F. Marshall for the Silver Prize was played at Lord's, on Monday, between Captain R. K. Price and the Hon. C. N. Bruce. The result was a victory for Captain Price, who, as usual, played a thoroughly sound, well-judged, and determined game, by three sets to one. He had to work hard all the time, but he was nearly always just in the better position.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CRICKET.

Tonbridge v. Clifton.

Tonbridge gained an advantage of 165 runs over Clifton at Lord's on Monday, the features of the match being a magnificent innings of 163 by the Tonbridge captain, L. P. Hedges, which included a 5 and twenty-seven 4's, and a century compiled by the Cliftonian, I. J. L. Saltmarsh, in very disadvantageous circumstances, and the splendid ground fielding of both sides.

WELLINGTON.

Wellington College have finished their season with a record of four wins, two defeats, and three draws. They lost to Marlborough, but beat Westminster and Charterhouse, and had the best of a drawn game with Haileybury. G. J. Bryan heads the batting with an average of 74, and E. S. de Brett has shown himself the best bowler, with twenty-five wickets at 14 runs apiece. A. E. Relf, the Sussex cricketer, has been the coach.

EASTERN DIVISION CRICKET CUP

53rd Bn. Bedford Regt. v. 52nd Bn. R. Sussex Regt., at Wahn resulted in a very narrow win for the Sussex.

For the Sussex, Sergt. Crossman scored 18 the highest in the match. L/Cpl. Peace took 5 wickets for 10 runs and C.S.M. Standing 2 for 5.

For the Bedfords, Lieut. Curtis and Drummer Whittington batted well together, the former contributing 12 and the latter 15. Pte. Dow took 2 wickets for 7 runs and Major Shearman 7 for 32.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

A. and S. Championship.

Gresham and Anlaby have qualified for the City of London A. and S. Association's senior cricket championship final.

Trundling.

The English single-handed and rinks bowling championship will take place on the Balham Club's green on Monday and Tuesday next.

E.G. Hayes' XI.

On August 20, E. G. Hayes is taking a Surrey team to Richmond to play a game against a local XVI. The match will be played on the Richmond Athletic Ground.

Birmingham Boys' Championships.

Competitions at five weights for the Birmingham Boys' Championships will be decided at Kyrle Hall, Birmingham, in the two weeks ending Nov. 1.

Cost of Sport.

£88,000,000 thirty years ago was the estimated amount spent annually on sport in Great Britain. The cost of cricket was then said to amount to £2,000,000, and the Turf accounted for almost £11,000,000.

Inter-League Football.

At a meeting of the Irish Football League held in Belfast, it was agreed that the Inter-League match with Scotland on Oct. 4 should take place in Ireland instead of in Scotland.

No 1st Class Fixture.

Here we are right in the middle of the season, and yet there was not a first-class cricket fixture in the country for Monday or Tuesday.

Age of Cricket.

Cricket can be traced back as far as the fourteenth century, but the oldest of British cricket clubs, which is the Marylebone, only dates from 1787.

Jimmy Wilde v. Kid Doyle.

It is announced that Kid Doyle, the Salford fly-weight, has been matched to box Jimmy Wilde at the National Sporting Club in September next.

Guardians At Cricket.

Ashby-de-la-Zouch Guardians have accepted a challenge by the Shardlow (Derbyshire) Guardians to play a cricket match at Ashby on Tuesday.

Duck Eggs.

"At Stockport market, Cheshire, duck eggs made sixpence each," chirruped the tape machine. They were considerably cheaper with the Yorkshire, Kent, and Somerset bowlers.

Yachting at Cowes.

There will be three days yacht racing at Cowes instead of the customary week this year. The Royal Yacht Club will hold races on Aug. 4, 5, and 7 for various classes of cruisers, including handicaps.

Golf in Wales.

The Welsh Golf Union has decided against holding a championship meeting this year.

Johnny Sheppard's Mishap.

The well-known and rising light-weight, Johnny Sheppard, of Bow, has had the bad luck to injure one of his hands, and will be unable to take part in another contest for at least a couple of months.

Unexpected Talent.

The present flood of military meetings, which may be regarded as trials prior to the Army Championship, are bringing to light some excellent but very unexpected talent.

Cycling to Hounds.

Riding to the hounds on a bicycle was the accomplishment of a prominent lady member of an Essex hunt some years ago. She was thrown several times, surmounted six stiles, was in at the death, and was presented with the brush.

Home Benzole.

The present output of home benzole is 31,000,000 gallons. It is believed that in two or three years it will rise to 60,000,000 gallons, and that the production of power alcohol would amount to 150,000,000 gallons, these figures being based on the report of experts.

New Arsenal Player Hurt.

H. A. White, the well-known Brentford footballer, signed on for the Arsenal yesterday morning, and in the afternoon he had the misfortune to have his nose broken while playing cricket for Shepherd's Bush at Slough.

Ashford Manor Prof.

A. G. Kirby, professional to the Ashford Manor Club, Middlesex, has broken the record of 67 strokes for the course by going round in 65 made up thus:—Out: 5 3 4 3 3 4 4 3 4—33; home: 3 3 3 4 3 3 4 4 5—32.

Freddy Fulton.

Fred Fulton, the 6ft. 4½in. plasterer, who was matched with Jess Willard, when knocked out by Jack Dempsey in less than a round, is now in London. Fulton was at the Carpentier-Smith fight in Paris, but failed to get on a match in the French capital.

Victory for Portsmouth.

In a football match at Fratton Park Portsmouth defeated Thorneycroft's by 6 goals to 1.

German Tennis Players.

It must be admitted that the elimination of the Germans from the Davis Cup competition highly proper as it is, has deprived the higher flights of the game of some very fine players, notably O. Froitzheim, O. Kreuzer, F.W. Rahe, and H. Kleinschroth.

Echoes from Rhineland.

The Arms of Cologne.

Most members of the Army of Occupation who have been in Cologne will be familiar with the city arms, which are very freely displayed on the trams, public buildings, and on the uniform of municipal employees. The origin of the design as it is at present is interesting, and relates to two important facts in the history of the city. The three crowns commemorate the "Magi," the "Three wise men from the East" of Scripture, whose alleged bones rest in the cathedral. These were presented to Cologne by the Emperor Frederich I (Barbarossa) in the 12th century, and were the centre for pilgrimages from far and wide up to the end of the middle ages.

The Meaning of the Flames.

The eleven "flames" of the lower part of the shield represent the souls o St. Ursula and eleven thousand virgins, who, according to legend, came from England in the 4th century and sailed up the Rhine. The Huns, under Attila, were besieging Cologne at that time and on the approach of the vessels mistook the inmates for enemies and massacred them. The Huns are said to have been so overcome on finding out they were mistaken that they raised the siege; hence this token of the eternal gratitude of Cologne's inhabitants.

Shop Window Dressing.

It will have been noticed that German shopkeepers carry out their windowdressing with a minimum of labour. In some establishments the front part of the window level with the window board is a fixture for about a foot in depth, bu the back part with its numerou shelves is built in three sections. Eacl section is on small wheels and can be wheeled out along the shop floor. Shoul a customer desire a certain article fron the window, the assistant wheels a sectior out, removes the required article, replace it by another, and wheels the section back. Any article in the front of the window can be easily reached while each sectior can be dressed in the shop. This does not entail the assistant going in and out of the shop to see the effect of his handiwork.

The War Savings Race.

In connection with the strong competition now in evidence between units as to which can show the best average investment in War Savings Certificates, the following two reports are interesting. The 12th Bn. Royal Irish Rifles invested in War Savings Certificates in 15 days the sum of 180,857 marks. The 1st Bn. Machine Gun Corps send the following: "I am pleased to report continued success in the efforts of the battalion towards War Savings. B Company continues to top the list in the matter of contributions; another bumper total of 19,167 marks being subscribed on the 15th of this month. Curiously enough, the winning ticket in the British Empire Leave Club Sweepstake was won by a Private Barnes of B Company, the lucky fellow standing to win £850. I think the War Saving habit has gripped the battalion thoroughly and there should be no looking back.

56th London Division Dinner.

Regimental and Divisional dinners are growing in numbers. On August 9th officers belonging to the 56th London Division are to dine together at the VI Corps Club, Cologne, when it is hoped a very representative gathering will take place. The arrangements are in the hands of Lieut.-Colonel Batt of the 310th Bde. R.F.A., from whom tickets may be obtained at the rate of 100 marks each.

Dull Auction Sales.

Anyone present at an auction sale in Rhineland will note with surprise the serious way in which the buyers and the auctioneer conduct the business. There is none of the repartee and laughter which is usual at such gatherings in England. The buyers make their bids as if it were a matter of life and death, and the auctioneer accepts them in the same spirit, having none of the sidetalk which is part of the stock-in-trade of English auctioneers, and which helps to make the proceedings pass pleasantly. At a horse sale an animal was led into the ring and the auctioneer proceeded to give the particulars in a mechanical way. He waited while a short inspection was made and then asked for bids. The bidding goes on, the auctioneer turns to the interpreter, who confers with an officer. Having obtained the necessary sanction, the animal is knocked down. Another horse is then led in and so the monotonous business goes on, minus the life and interest of sales at home.

That Fireless Loco.

More correspondence is rolling in regarding the fireless type of engine seen at Siegburg. One of the Royal West Kents says that the first engine of this kind appeared on the Metropolitan Underground railway in London as far back as the seventies. It only ran a trial trip, however, which was a failure, and it went on the scrap heap. It was, he says, nicknamed "Fowler's Ghost," after Sir John Fowler, the engineer of the "Met," but it is not certain that he designed it.

School Caps.

One cannot help being impressed by the military kind of headgear, worn by the schoolboys in Rhineland. Some of them wear bright green caps, with polished black "peaks," and a strip of silver braid round the edge, turned into three loops, at the back, like a clover leaf. The green material curves gracefully from the back of the head, and is completed above the "neb" with a round, flat, upright disc, like a green target, the whole being highly reminiscent of a steel helmt, surmounted by an eagle. Others wear bright red, or field grey, round "pancake" caps, with hard peaks, resembling the field service cap of the German N.C.O.

Have You Met It?

It is here, in Cologne, but it is not in petticoats now, it is in khaki. We allude to the Cinema Blight. Everyone remembers the irrepressible flapper to be met with in any theatre or picture house in England, who had seen the show before and therefore gave everyone within hearing a brief summary of the piece. Now, this pest has arrived in the Army of Occupation. On three separate occasions last week the writer suffered from his intentions, and the best and most exciting films were punctuated in this manner: "No he does'nt drown, a submarine picks him up; you'le see it in a minute." "No she does'nt marry this man, he turns out to be a rogue." "Oh, it's all right the hero will come in a minute and do the villain in —" and so on ad-infinitum. There really should be special seats reserved for this kind of fiend, and preferably some studded with sharp spikes.

About Sight-seeing.

It is questionable whether we are taking full advantage of the many and unique opportunities for sight-seeing that our present position affords. The many beauty spots in Rhineland — to gaze upon which, tourists in the far-off pre-war days parted with many Jimmy o' Goblins — are nearly all accessible by tram car and it is surprising that, except during the week-end the recognized haunts of the sightseer are neglected. The majority of the members of the Rhine Army have a few hours in the afternoon to spare daily and, with one of the excellent guide books that are now available, these hours can be profitably utilized in seeing all there is to be seen.

Cleaner Shaving.

The clean-shaved appearance of pre-war days is returning with demobilization. In the earlier days of the war, when Army regulations forbade the shaving of the upperlip, many a moustache was grown which its owner intended should be a purely temporary ornament. But war went on, the warrior got used to his moustache and the razor was withheld. Now come feminine objections and persuasions to restore the clean-shaved appearance of civilian days. Hence the increase in the number of clean shaven men at home in civiles.

Lesser Echoes.

The American authorities at Coblenz have forbidden keepers of public houses to supply officers and men with alconolic drinks.

It is not generally known that many English works, such as the Encyclopedia Britiannica, can be seen at the Reference Department, Stadt Library, Gereonskloster, Cologne.

Recently a correspondent signing himself "Married Officer" wrote a letter to the paper on the subject of wives in Cologne. Will he send his adress to this office?

Can any reader give the position of the grave of 1508 Sergt. A.M. Barrow 15 Co. of London, killed October 7th 1916, and buried October 9th 1916 by Pte. H. Ind (since killed) 2nd S. Africa Regt. It is believed near La Pars. Or can the position of B Coy. of both regiments be given on October 7th and 9th? Graves Registration are unable to trace.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Gnr. L. Parkhouse, III Heavy B y. R.G.A. Rhine Army, Sgt. H.M. Pattinson, 51st Durham L. Infantry, Rhine Army, and Gnr. A.L. Popham, A 310 Bty. R.F.A. Rhine Army.

BRITISH MADE COSTUMES.

In our issue of to-day appears the Trade announcement of a world famous manufacturing house, Messrs Phillip Clay & Co. Ltd. of 10/11 Friday Street, Cheapside, London E.C. They specialize in coats, coat frocks, costumes, gowns and furs, but we are told they are ready to supply every requirement of the trade, namely, silks, fabrics etc., in such high quality, and at such prices and terms that will attract the keenest buyer.

Their intimate knowledge of international markets enables them to provide for the individual taste of each, so that the lines they manufacture are more popular and therefore sell quicker than probably similar products of any other firm. Further, by close study of local conditions they are able to anticipate the requirements of the retailer and make provision for his special difficulties and desires. For instance, Messrs. Philip Clay & Co., Ltd., can always be relied upon to effect prompt delivery of their goods and their terms are especially generous.

Particular attention should be paid to the illustrations given in the announcement of Messrs. Phillip Clay & Co., Ltd., referred to above. These represent the last word in garments of quality and taste, but are only a few of the vast number of models ready for the coming season. Those who appreciate value should lose no time in getting in touch with this great manufacturing house. We are informed that they will gladly supply sample garments on receipt of the usual trade banker's references.

NATIONALIZATION.

GOVERNMENT ABOUT TO ADOPT MINORITY REPORT OF COAL COMMISSION.

KING'S SWORD OF VICTORY.

NO NATIONAL MINES.

STATE OWNERSHIP OF MINERAL RIGHTS.

It is understood, says the "Times" Parliamentary correspondent, that the Government have virtually decided against the nationalization of the mining industry.

This decision cannot be regarded as absolutely final until Ministers have settled the details of the scheme for the future government of the industry which they propose to submit to Parliament. But it is definitive enough for all practical purposes. Mr. Justice Sankey's Report in favour of nationalization has already been ruled out in the Ministerial discussions which are now taking place on the recommendations of the Coal Commission.

The scheme which the Government are working out, is based on the report of Sir Arthur Duckham, which, while retaining an element of private enterprise, recommended a considerable measure of public control. It has, however, been found that parts of Sir Arthur Duckham's scheme are unworkable. Although, therefore, the Government accept his guiding principles, they are working out many of the details in their own way.

Duckham Scheme.

Sir Arthur Duckham (who was an independent representative on the Coal Commission of other industries) presented a report in favour of the State ownership of mineral rights, but against the national ownership of mines. He put forward a scheme of his own for the amalgamation of colliery interests in the several districts in the form of statutory companies. He contended that the private ownership of minerals is not in the best interests of the community, and that all mineral rights should be acquired by the State and controlled by a Minister of Mines.

The nationalization of the mines was recommended by the Chairman and every member of the commission.

Sankey Report.

Mr. Justice Sankey was in favour of—

(a) The immediate acquisition of coal royalties by the State, with "fair and just" compensation to the owners;

(b) The acceptance of the principle of State ownership of the mines; and

(c) The immediate establishment of a scheme for joint local administration in preparation for the enactment of State ownership three years hence.

ECONOMIC FREEDOM.

UNITED STATES WANT THE OPEN DOOR.

Signor Tittonis laid his suggested scheme for an inter-allied Economic Entente before the Supreme Council on Monday. The project, he claims, is rendered desirable by the seriousness of the food and coal situation of the whole world. The Council did not arrive at a definite solution but it is generally anticipated that one will be found, despite the difficulties of deciding upon a formula which would be satisfactory to all. The main difficulty lies in the fact that amongst the Allies, some, notably America, are strongly in favour of complete liberty of commercial action and are opposed, now that hostilities are terminated, to the establishment of a regime which momentarily hinders liberty of action.

SWEDEN AND LEAGUE

SOCIALIST'S PREDICTIONS AND HOPES.

M. Branting, the Swedish International Socialist leader, in an article in the "Sunday Times" considers the present form of the League of Nations not quite comprehensive enough. He says it supplies the germ of an idea which is likely to develop in the right direction, and earnestly hopes that the Scandinavian States will enter the League immediately. He feels bound to add, however, that they will have much hesitation in doing so if America holds back.

Regarding the Bolshevist menace he affirms that it has passed its worst phase, while in England and France the national good sense of the people, in spite of the difficulties ahead, would supply a sure bulwark against extreme measures.

The manager of a large chemist's shop at Tokio killed his wife and four children and then committed suicide. He left a statement declaring that he found life unendurable owing to the high cost of living.

SOUDAN CHIEFS.

SWORD OF VICTORY TO THE KING.

A special mission of Soudanese Chiefs was received by the King on Tuesday. Sir Said Ali El Morghani delivered a loyal address. Speaking in Arabic he said:—

"I beg leave to tell your Majesty that what the Soudan has done is but the first fruits of what your Majesty's Government has planted there. It is simply the harvest of good deeds and a token of our gratitude. It is justice which has combined all the different parts of your great Empire, and justice which is the foundation of your kingdom. The spirit of peace and justice which has prevailed throughout the Soudan during all these years, as well as the interest which your Majesty's Government has taken in advancing it, the sacrifices that have been made to improve its material and moral condition, and the inclusion of the people of the Soudan amongst the subjects of the British Empire, have filled their hearts with pride, loyalty, and love of your Majesty, and we fully appreciate that the future advancement of the Soudan depends on its increasingly close connection with your Majesty's Empire. We therefore raise our hands to God Almighty, praying Him to grant your Majesty a long and happy life and to preserve Great Britain, the pioneer of liberty and civilization in the world. Long may the British flag fly over the Soudan to bring peace and tranquillity to it, and promote its advancement until it is ready to take its place with the other members of the Empire."

He subsequently presented his Majesty with a gold "Sword of Victory" which the King first accepted and then returned with these words:

"I accept this sword and acknowledge the sincere loyalty which has prompted the gift, and as a proof of your fealty to me I take the sword and hand it to you and your heirs to hold on my behalf in the defence of my Throne and Empire, and as a proof of my acceptance of the loyal submission of you and your followers."

The King conferred decorations on each member of the mission.

HEAT WAVE.

CAUSE OF ANTI-NEGRO RIOT.

After a week of heavy rains, followed by dangerous electrical storms, the Eastern States of America are now suffering from a severe heat wave, with an average temperature of 100deg in the shade, and in many parts it is several degrees hotter. The trying climatic conditions have apparently had their effect upon the people's tempers, and to-day's newspapers are filled with reports of shootings, free fights, tramcar and automobile accidents, and race riots. On Chicago's bathing beach a deadly fight took place between whites and blacks. A white negro boy invaded a section of the beach reserved for the whites, and he was pelted with pebbles. This was the signal for a general fight with stones, and very quickly firearms were produced, and rioting spread through State-street and to the heart of the negro district. Three men were killed and fifty injured before the mobs dispersed.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

FIRST MEETING IN WASHINGTON.

Although the European Governments have not yet appointed delegates for the initial meeting of the League of Nations at Washington in October, it is stated in Conference circles, that the various Governments concerned are almost certain to send the same delegates who participated in the drawing up of the Covenant at Paris, with the possible exception of Italy who will probably send Signor Scialoja as head of their delegation.

According to present plans the Austrian Treaty will be signed by the middle of August, the Bulgarian by the end of August and the Turkish some time in September, thus bringing the Peace Conference to a close in time to enable the leading lights who drew up the Covenant to reach Washington in time to add the finishing touches.

The Polish Press Agency reports that the whole of Eastern Galicia to the old Austro-Russian frontier is now in the hands of Polish troops. Their advance was made so quickly that the Ukranians had no time to destroy railways or bridges or to carry off any of their war material.

FATE OF INFORMERS.

SENTENCES ON FRENCH TRAITORS.

The last day of the trial, which was held at Paris and lasted over five weeks, of the informers of Laon was marked by a dramatic incident when Thomas, the German police agent, at the conclusion of his defence, added some words of his own. Addressing the Court, he pleaded for mercy for all the accused, saying:—

I would ask your indulgence for my fellow-prisoners. It is true that they have suffered long and cruelly. If the Germans had not brought this odious war upon you, all of them would have remained honest people. Once more I ask for them your pardon.

Toque wept openly, and others of the accused appeared much moved. The Court then retired to deliberate, and the following sentences were subsequently pronounced on the accused:—Georges Toque, Alice Aubert, Georges Roselle, Hélène Favre, Georges Lochet, Moïse Lemoine, Herbert Léandre, and Gaston Venet were all condemned to death. De Maux, Mme. Deloigne, and Armido Werrebronch were condemned to death in contumaciam.

The following were sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment:—Emil Thomas, one year's imprisonment, with benefit of the First Offenders Act; Maria Pernelle, Emile Gassot, Gabrielle Verlon, Alice Toque, and Léon Baudant, five years' hard labour; Joseph Romain, seven years' hard labour; Marie Tassot, Emile Lebjois, and Marguerite Giraudeau, 10 years' hard labour; Marie Kerrebrock, 20 years' hard labour.

The following were acquitted:—Elieville Kaltenbach, Marie Petroi, Louis Marguet, Angèle Herpson, Lucien Kirgis, and Adelet Kirgis.

The sentences recorded above bring to a conclusion the trial of the "mauvais Français" who, at the instigation of the German police agent, Emil Thomas, betrayed their compatriots to the Germans during the occupation of Laon, with the result that a number of French inhabitants of the town were executed on charges of helping France by concealing wounded soldiers. They were in turn denounced by a miller of Assis-sur-Serre, whom they had denounced, and who was sentenced to death by the Germans, but not executed.

CYPRUS CEDED.

HISTORIC ISLAND AGAIN CHANGES HANDS.

General Allenby has informed the Greek diplomatic agent at Cairo that Great Britain has decided to hand over Cyprus to Greece. The actual transfer will be made on July 29th.

(The island of Cyprus, which nominally belonged to Turkey, has been administered by Great Britain since 1878. In 1882 it was granted a constitution. Great Britain agreed to pay the Sultan an annual sum of £ 87,800 (as excess of revenue) and £ 5,000 for State lands, besides a large quantity of salt. These sums were not acutally paid but were retained as part payment for losses in connection with the Turkish guaranteed loan.

Cyprus has had a chequered ownership, having been owned in turn by Phoenecians, Egyptians, Persians, Egyptians again, Romans, English (Richard I. sold it in 1195), Venetians and Turks. It now passes to Greece).

A CLOSE CALL.

AVIATORS SUCCOURED BY BATHERS.

From the sparse details of an aviation accident received from Spezia it appears that an English aeroplane, proceeding from London via Marseilles to Egypt, fell in the sea near Monterosso, owing to engine breakdown. Two English officers, Lieutenant Adams and Lieutenant Collinge, with Sergeant Ascolis and Sergeant Banour were aboard. Three managed to free themselves. The pilot, Lieutenant Collinge, was fastened in the machine and though eventually released by the strenuous efforts of the others, he was greatly exhausted and expired after being brought ashore. The other three were slightly injured, their hurts being attended to by families who were on the spot for summer bathing.

EMPLOYMENT OF EX-OFFICERS.

Brigadier-General A.W. Asquith, who is Controller of the Appointments Department of the War Office, recently gave an account of some of the work of that organisation. The occasion was a private show at the West-End Cinema of some of the films taken to illustrate what is being done in the training of ex-officers for work in civil life. It is hoped to enlist the assistance of all the cinema proprietors in the country, and through them call attention to the urgency of providing employment. The film reproduces details of coal mining, especially the surveying for that highly valuable article, the teaching of weaving in the woollen trades, the building of aeroplanes and engine testing, electrical engineering, and of fruit growing, all industries in which young ex-officers are being trained.

For stealing a cheque-book, the property of Lieutenant Bucknill, 19th Hussars, Frank William Harrand Edgecombe, 22, said to be of good family, was sentenced at Aldershot to three month's hard labour.

HIGHER PENSIONS.

LARGE INCREASE TO BE RECOMMENDED.

A forecast of the report of the Select Committee on Service Pensions, which is being published immediately, has been made. It is understood that the Committee have agreed that a soldier is entitled to appeal against the amount granted, if he has reason to think the nature of his disability entitles him to more. In the case of an alternative pension, the Committee will recommend a substantial increase. It is understood that they are of opinion that a man's income should be brought up to the level of his average earnings before the war, plus a sixty per cent, bonus in addition to the twenty per cent, already granted on the present flat rate.

As to the flat rate itself, they have come to the conclusion that it should operate on the sliding scale, the basis being raised or lowered according to fluctuations in the cost of living. Having regard to present prices the Committee think an immediate adjustment is necessary and recommend a forty per cent. increase in the flat rate as regarding widows.

The Committee also recommend that instead of receiving half the amount awarded for a totally disabled soldier, two thirds should be given. It is estimated that the adoption of the recommendations in their entirety will mean an additional expenditure of twenty millions sterling annually.

LONDON HOUSING.

CATERING FOR THE MIDDLE CLASS.

Great activity is being shown in new housing schemes in various centres in England. In London, provisional approval has been given by the Ministry of Health to the London County Council's scheme for the development of a part of the White Hart-lane estate, Tottenham, and Wood Green, on the lines of a garden suburb.

Of the site, 62 aqres are allocated for 1,110 working-class dwellings and 50½ acres will be sold or leased for the erection of better class houses. The total cost of developing the remainder of the estate under this scheme is estimated at £1,200,000, and the Housing Committee proposes to carry out the work with the greatest possible speed.

The accounts of the Council's working-class dwellings for the year ended March 31 last show a net surplus of £6,423. The loss on empties was only 1.03 per cent. of the gross rent.

ILL FATED N. S. 11.

The first body from the crew of the wrecked airship N. S. 11 was washed ashore at Salthouse on the North Norfolk coast on Monday. It is evidently the body of a Flight-Sergeant. The airsh p station at Pulham has been apprised of the recovery and early identification is expected.

LIBERATOR OF LILLE HONOURED.

The presentation of the sword of honour given by the citizens of Lille to General Birdwood, whose army liberated their town from the Germans on October 17, 1918, took place on Monday at the Town Hall in the presence of many high military officers, the Prefect of the Nord, the Bishop of Lille, and the members of the Town Council. After the ceremony of the presentation of the sword the freedom of the city was conferred upon General Birdwood.

FATHER OF LUCKNOW.

Major General John Ruggles, the "father" of the Lucknow garrison and one of the oldest survivors of the Indian Mutiny, who entered on his ninety-third year only last week, died at Swanage on Monday. He retired from active service in 1876 with the rank of Major-General. In 1904 he was appointed Honorary Colonel of the 19th Punjabis.

AMIR RECALLS RAIDERS.

It is officially reported from Chitral that the Afghan Commander received peremptory orders from the Amir on the 23rd inst. to cease all agressive action against Chitral. The raiders near the Lowari Pass are reported to have been recalled and arrested by Afghans.

The Zhob tribesmen are still in the vicinity of Kapip (Fort Sandeman district). A hostile gathering at Hindubagh is reported, composed of tribesmen from both sides of the border, including deserters from the militia.

AUSTRIAN PEACE TREATY.

The Austrian delegation to the Peace Conference at Paris has not expressed officially any desire for a prolongation of the delay accorded by the Conference for the presentation of any written observations they may wish to make on the Treaty clauses. The period of delay expired yesterday.

A convoy of 60,000 milch cows is expected at La Pallice from America. They are destined for the reorganisation of the French agricultural industry.

FAMOUS GENERAL.

VISIT TO BRITISH HEADQUARTERS.

General Fayolle of the French Army accompanied by members of his staff visited Cologne yesterday morning.

He was met at the Hauptbahnhof by Lieut.-General Haldane, commanding the Sixth Corps, the guard of honour, with the battalion colours and band. being provided by the 6th West Yorkshire Regt., under Capt. Crabtree.

On his arrival the band played the Marseillaise followed by the National Anthem, after which General Fayolle inspected the guard.

Later he inspected English troops in the Dom Square. These consisted of the 6th Battn. Cameron Highlanders under the Command of Colonel Campbell, No. 4 Sub-Section of the 12th Tank Battalion (Tanks L 13 and L 9) under Captain Warburton M. C., and a composite squadron of the 17th Lancers under Capt. Boles.

General Fayolle was accompanied on his inspection by General Sir William Robertson, Lieut-General Haldane and numerous other distinguished French and British officers. The Cameron Highlanders, led by their pipe band and followed by the Tanks, then marched past. The general escort was furnished by two troops of the 17th Lancers.

The Mounted Military Police, who kept the ground, looked exceedingly smart and well turned out.

DEMOB. DOUBTS.

RECENT ARMY ORDER EXPLAINED.

In consequence of misunderstandings having arisen with regard to the scope of the Army Order on demobilization issued on June 27, the War Office states that the Order does not authorise the release of what were formerly known as contract men. The system under which contract men were released was abandoned some months ago.

The only men certified or recommended by the Ministry of Labour prior to February 1, 1919, whose dispatch for release will be completed by September 28, are the balance of the men still remaining in the Army who were registered either as civil demobilizers, pivotal men, or men for special release. Civil demobilizers are men required in civil life to assist the machinery of demobilization, in certain transport services, or in Government departments. Pivotal men are men required in civil life for the reconstruction of industry, such as foremen and heads of businesses whose release would result in the employment of a considerable number of men.

The men registered for special release included the men owning "one-man businesses," or men whom the Labour Ministry considered had special claims for release owing to the nature of their employment.

REVOLT IN ASTRAKHAN.

Astrakhan is reported to be in the hands of anti-Bolshevik workmen. The main portion of the Bolshevik garrison estimated at about 6,000 strong, is making for the coast with the apparent intention of joining sympathisers in Daghestan and Azerbaijan. They have shallow-draught armed barges, and by making a landing behind the volunteers they force General Erdeli's coastal column to withdraw somewhat. Armed bands numbering about 3,000, with machine-guns, led by Bolsheviks and Turks, are terrorising the country to the south of Temir Khans. The Bolshevik agitation in Transcaucasia has been redoubled.

DEARER BREAD.

It is understood, in connection with the threatened strike in the baking trade, that the Cabinet have decided that any further material increase in the cost of production shall be met by increasing the price of bread to the consumer rather than by increasing the subsidy and throwing the cost on the taxpayer.

SCAPA FLEET SALVING.

Contrary to statements made at the time of the scuttling of the German fleet at Scapa flow it is now found that the bulk of the ships can be refloated. The efforts of the British Admiralty salvage department have met with surprising success and before next year virtually the whole of the German fleet should again be on the surface.

BRITISH EMBASSY IN BRUSSELS.

The British Government has decided to raise the British Legation at Brussels to the status of an embassy. The present Minister has been promoted Ambassador

At a conference of the local Employment Committees of Portsmouth, Plymouth, Chatham, and Sheerness at Portsmouth, it was reported that the Admiralty had ordered that overtime was only to be worked in the dockyards in case of grave emergency. The number of unemployed at Portsmouth was stated to have fallen to 2,500.

ARMY MONEY ORDERS

EX-PAY CLERK CHARGED WITH THEFT.

At the Central Criminal Court, before the Common Serjeant, the trial was begun of Cecil Hall, 35, accountant, on an indictment charging him with stealing and receiving 50 demobilization postal drafts and 200 Army money orders, the property of the Secretary of State for War. The defendant pleaded "Not Guilty."

Mr. Travers Humphreys, prosecuting, said that the prosecution arose out of a very ingenious theft of postal drafts and Army money orders, which took place in the early months of this year from the Army Pay Office at Dover. The postal drafts were issued in books containing 50 each and were kept in a locked cupboard. Between January 24 and February 1 one of the books of 50 postal drafts was stolen, and of these 46 were now in the possession of the police. These drafts had been cashed in different parts of England.

The prosecution were unable to give evidence that the defendant had cashed any of the drafts. He was employed at the Army Pay Office at Dover from October, 1918, up to the time of his demobilization on the last of day of January, 1919. On being demobilized he left Dover and came to London. The first of the drafts was cashed at the Paddington Post Office on February 1, and on later dates up to May 3 others were from time to time presented in London and elsewhere. On May 3 the defendant hired a taxicab at Kennington to drive to Waterloo. After he had gone into the station the cabdriver found in the cap an envelope containing four of the drafts, and he took them to the police station. When arrested the defendant denied the charge, and said that he found the four notes in a railway carriage near Baker-street, and put them into the envelope intending to return them to the authorities.

Some witnesses were called for the prosecution, and the hearing of the case was adjourned.

SEAPLANE MISSING.

FEARED FORCED DESCENT IN BALTIC.

A British seaplane which left Christiana on Tuesday morning with six passengers and was expected at Copenhagen at five o'clock has not arrived. Inquiries at Gothenburg and Frederikshaven revealed no news of the aircraft. It is thought probable that the seaplane met with an accident and was forced to descend somewhere in the Cattegat and is unable to make use of its wireless installation.

"PUSSYFOOT."

In the House of Commons Mr. Simm asked the Prime Minister whether he was aware that a number of American citizens had arrived in this country for the purpose of assisting an agitation in favour of the prohibition of the liquor traffic; and, seeing that an acute difference of opinion existed upon this matter, whether it was proposed to take steps to prohibit propaganda being carried on in this country by persons who were not British citizens.

No information being forthcoming Lieut.-Colonel A. Murray asked: Are not thousands of Americans looking forward to visiting this country for the special purpose of relieving their thirst? (Laughter).

Mr. Shortt: I have read that.

RUMANIA RALLIES.

The Rumanians are reported to be rallying against the advancing Hungarians and also to be arming an efficient force of Hungarian opposition at Szegedin, which might endanger the Bolshevists chances and contribute towards defeating them. Another account states that these Hungarians compelled the Bolshevist Hungarians to give up the points they had occupied and recross the Tisza river.

ALIEN PILOTS.

Sir A. Geddes states that he cannot undertake to cancel all pilotage certificates held by aliens before August, 1914, for navigating rivers or harbours in this country. The number of such certificates was only twenty-four out of 2,500. Powers were vested in the Board of Trade with regard to the issue of new certificates.

POLITICS UNDESIRABLE.

Colonel Pottinger, addressing a meeting on Tower Hill in connection with the Industrial Reconstruction Council, appealed to discharged men to form one big union free from political influence, with Sir Douglas Haig as president. He thought that by such methods grievances would more speedily be settled.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at Doncaster yesterday on Lieut. Lupinsky, a Russian flying officer, who was struck by a propeller and killed on the Doncaster Aerodrome on Saturday when preparing to return to Tadcaster.

A large dump of munitions exploded at La Bassee yesterday. Four French soldiers, one English and one Indian were killed, and two women.

BACK TO THE LAND.

From the Middle Ages till the middle of the eighteenth century, England was a nation of farmers and merchants. Our country rose to greatness by means of its wool-trade, and it was famous for its agriculture and its rural industries. There were cities and towns, but England's strength lay in its broad and prosperous fields.

But the time came when England captured the carrying trade of the world from the Dutch, and her manufactures grew apace. London, Liverpool, Glasgow, and many another town became populous and thriving centres of industry. The factory system was ushered in.

Now the factory system was a necessary stage in our country's evolution, but we have had to pay a large human price for our industrial and commercial supremacy. Labour environment has been unpleasing and uninspiring, yet it has been inevitable that, in the struggle for existence, men and women have been lured from the bucolic joys of agricultural life to the busy haunts of fevered manufacture.

The war has taught us that there may be an unfavourable balance between town and country life. We have had an object lesson in the vast importance of rural industry, for the trend of our civilization had made us forget that in national crises a state cannot safely depend upon an overseas foodsupply. That country is happiest in time of war which comes nearest to the ideal of a self-contained and self-sufficient unity.

Thus England in her time of need looked not in vain. Britain became a garden, and the solitary places were made glad with the fruits of the earth.

Our public men now see that the country, as well as the town, has its part to play in national well-being and as we are entering a new and happier era, they are wisely preparing for a new balance between the city and the village.

The British soldier in his wanderings over Europe has seen how intensive culture of land in France, Belgium, and Germany can add to a people's wealth and political prosperity. They have a new perspective, and are confident that rural industries are not so insignificant as we in our pride of commerce and manufacture had reckoned them.

Many a soldier also has now less inclination for the tasks of the town. His life during the years of war gives him a new zest for the healthier occupations of the country. The factory or the office compare unfavourably with the farm or the rural workshop.

England must see to it that there is land for the man who is anxious to bring in a new epoch of agricultural prosperity. Village life must be reconstructed till it regains the old romance and appeal.

There is no reason why the country should have attractions only for the holiday-maker, the artist, and the novelist. A wise policy could ensure for it not only a considerable economic progress but the opportunity for intellectual development and social intercourse.

The problem of a small holding scheme is not an easy problem, but it must be solved in ar future. At present there is labour unrest in the towns, and for many the choice will soon be between English country-life or the colonies. We cannot spare our energetic and ambitious men for the outposts of empire before we have a goodly number of them settled on the broad acres of our land.

Already there are plans for a campaign of "Back to the Land." The Board of Agriculture is arranging for colonies of small holdings in England. Some of these are for fruit and vegetable cultivation and range from fifteen to twenty acres; whilst others are larger and fit into a scheme of co-partnership farms. Our Government is prepared to grant loans of money that the matter of capital may be less difficult to the new army of agriculturalists.

It is a campaign that is worthy, hopeful, and patriotic.

IN BELGIUM TO-DAY.

This little City has not suffered very much from the war, in a material sense that is. Only a few of the buildings are broken. Naturally the German following his usual custom blew up the bridges, and the riverside is sad in consequence. But this little City has not been the scene of any incidents of outstanding shame. The German contented himself by being always very rude to the inhabitants—he went no further.

There are plenty of people walking about and they have a cheerful air, as if they are anxious to forget about the war. Some of the women are good looking and are quite moderately well-dressed. And, crowning act of amiability, they wear neat boots.

Now every soldier who has been stationed out in the country, where wooden shoes are the fashion, is pleased at seeing women with smart boots on. It is an exhilarating sight, and he gazes at the wearers of the boots with a deep satisfaction and blesses them.

Shops again, after a long spell of the country, are a great attraction. When I arrived at the small City I made straight for the shop windows promising myself the fun of looking in them and of buying some probably quite unnecessary things, to prove I was in civilization once more.

But I was disappointed.

Shops should be individual: there should be grocer's shops and tobacconist's shops and, I suppose, shops selling brooms and brushes, though I hardly see the necessity for these last.

But these half empty, hungry looking windows combine every form of retail trade. There are invariably brushes and brooms; that goes without saying. Then always a display of cigarettes in very ornate boxes, and such funny exotic names—but it never says by whom they are made. I can't imagine anyone ever smoking them; I don't believe anyone ever does, I have never met anyone in the town who ever bought a packet of them. They are very dear also. I wonder whether they are relics of the Occupation, and whether when we return, years later, to visit the scenes of our campaigns, these cigarettes will still be in the windows unsold.

But above all there are brushes and brooms. They seem wildly popular—no shop is complete without them and they range down to nail brushes.

Articles of the toilet are popular, manicure sets, brilliantine and shaving soap, and these are civilized and cheering.

Now all these are very well in their way—but the pity of it is that every shop has a few of each of them and it is so monotonous.

There are tragic shops also. I wanted some flannelette with which to clean my revolver. I stopped outside a small draper's shop. The windows were not big—but they were well filled with various female garments, and it certainly seemed as if a roll of flannelette would be among the stock inside.

I went in quite hopefully, but all I found was a bare room with a small tressle table in it and two reels of cotton on a shelf. The owner was a returned refugee and her little stock just filled the two small windows and no more, Flannelette—no, not a shred of it.

It was a small glimpse of poverty but it was a vivid one. I thought, assuming that the shopkeeper sold all her small stock in a week—what would the profit come to? And she hasn't done that, for I pass the place every day and nothing seems to change.

And this is one of the very smallest sides of the horrors of war and its after effects.

THE INTERLUDE.

There were two of us on tennis bent and on the courts which we wished to occupy were two German girls. We couldn't turn them off — so much by way of excuse for fraternising. After several games we rested and talked.

"You Englishmen," said my partner, "are so cold-blooded, you are quite incapable of enthusiasm. Even in your playing you never get excited, you play well, your strokes are sure and strong, but you never show any feeling; in fact you are brought up not to show feeling."

"But," I objected, "the showing of feeling is just what we dislike in the German; he misses a shot and comes out with a strong expression or beats the air with his racket; or, if his partner misses, he grunts or shows his dissatisfaction in some other marked manner. Now for enthusiasm, you should see a number of schoolboys watching their team playing a football match, perhaps in pouring rain; you would then not say that the English boy is trained to suppress all emotions."

"At any rate," continued the Fräulein, "the Englishman suppresses any self-expression where we would most expect it, namely, in matters of courtesy. A few days ago I was introduced to two of your officers and they only stared at me; and to a lady you only just raise your hat a very little I know, and there are several other things."

"There again," I replied, "you misjudge the nation. It is true that the Englishman's enthusiasm expresses itself chiefly in sport, but it is just this love of sport which lies at the bottom of his ideal of true courtesy. Perhaps over-restrained in outward expression, he has a deep sense of fair-play. We call it 'playing cricket' in England, because there every boy learns to play cricket. This game, you don't know, perhaps to your loss. It is a fine training for a boy. It teaches him firstly to sacrifice himself for the benefit of his side, he learns patience and endurance and the skill needed to face real danger without flinching. All this has made him a ready and willing helper to the man in need, it has made him able, however weary, to give up his seat to a woman, only because she is a woman and to treat the child as a little friend, rather than an inferior to be abused or exploited."

"Well then look at our music," she again attacked, "We Germans all love music, we sing and play ourselves and sit for hours listening to others performing. And we are affected by our music, it really influences us in our actions, whilst you soon begin to long for the performance to be over, that you may go out and smoke; and afterwards you forget all about it. For us, music is an education and a stimulant, for you it is only a momentary sensuous amusement."

"It is true," I admitted, "that the Englishman has on the whole not so keen an appreciation of music. He has not the same heritage as the German. And further he acts on fixed principles only, and no touching music, opera or play ever moves him to depart from them. It is his healthy common sense which guides him always, I admit, however, that we lose a great side of life by this attitude and that genius does not occupy the same position in the common life of our people as does the sportsman. But it is not so, with, by any means, all Englishman. It is perhaps a passing phase, though a long one, as Prussianism was with you. You have only to remember our poets," and I mentioned several, with whom she seemed acquainted, "to realise the power of feeling in the Englishman."

"I am glad that at least you have admitted something," she retorted; "let us go on playing."

J.S.H.

THE ARMY TECHNICAL COLLEGE.

We learn that the Army Technical College at Siegburg is proving very successful. About 175 students of all ranks and of all professions are taking the current course but the College is capable of accommodating twice this number. A very comprehensive equipment of machinery, tools, etc., has been acquired and all the military and civil instructors are specialists in their particular professions or subjects. The syllabus is wonderfully comprehensive in each of three branches of the College. In the "Collegiate Classes" we find inter alia Engineering, Naval Architecture and Survey. The "Trades Refresher" department provides, amongst others, classes for bricklayers, electricians, turners, motor drivers, moulders, smiths, patternmakers etc. while jewellers, ticket writers and stoneworkers' draughtsmen are amongst those provided for in the "Artistic Craft" section. There are of course in each department many different classes which space precludes our mentioning. We simply quote the above to show the enormous range over which they spread.

It is not, however, only in classes that the student gains. The College is a residential one, the whole atmosphere is conducive to the absorption of knowledge. There is a fine library containing reference books and text-books on all kinds of subjects in art, science, mechanics and manufactures, and herein the student may wrestle with his unsolved problems knowing full well that expert assistance is standing by to give help, explanation and advice where and when it becomes necessary.

But all is not work. Sport has been provided for by the special reservation of a near by field and the College itself contains baths, hot, cold and shower and many little amenities which tend to make life pleasant.

It is too early to predict the possibilities of the College, but everything so far would indicate that we now have a practical scheme whereby the enlisted youth of the nation may prepare himself for future civilian employment of a high character or keep himself in touch with whatsoever trade or profession he left to join the Army.

The second course will open on 23rd August and will disperse on 4th October. All officers, N.C.O's and men wishing earnestly to avail themselves of the unprecedented opportunities afforded by the College should make enquiries through the usual channels. Applications must be supported by written evidence of previous experience so that all ranks intending to apply should at once take steps to provide themselves with this evidence from previous employers or schools.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

"PLACE AUX DAMES".

Sir,—A notice has recently been posted in the Cologne Golf Club House to the effect that ladies are not allowed to play golf after 3.30 in the afternoon, and not at all on Saturday and Sundays.

This simply means that many are debarred altogether from indulging in this sport, as their duties do not allow of their playing in the morning or early afternoon.

It is utterly unfair to say that they keep the average male player back—a visit to the golf course would prove this statement.

There are not many lady players in the Cologne Golf Club, and the majority of these play a decent game of golf.

It is surely unjust that they should be penalised for the very few who may obstruct other people's play.

FAIR PLAY.

HAVE A "PIEDMONT?"

Sir,— One reads so often complaints concerning the canteens, that it is with real pleasure that I venture to give them a word of praise.

I am sure all the troops in the Cologne district will lately have felt a deep sense of gratification that we have lately been provided with some really choice classic brands of cigarettes, brands that one surmised were only smoked by the aristocracy. I need only cite the aromatic "Piedmont" as an example. This is where the German must feel thoroughly squashed. The most discerning eye fails to detect such a brand in their shop windows.

But other brands that we used slightingly to call "Yellow Perils" they seem to have in unlimited quantities but of course they are welcome to them. Vive la "Piedmont!"

PHILANTHROPIST.

THE CARD INDEX.

Sir,— The article appearing in this day's issue of your valuable paper, on "The Card Index" is quite amusing, but illustrates once more the truth of the old saying, to the effect that a little knowledge can be a dangerous thing.

As a representative of an English firm of Card Index experts, I can sympathize with those victims of your bombardier's misplaced zeal, and it may be of interest to know that the article gives a very misleading and entirely false idea of the extreme usefulness of the Card Index idea when used in connection with Military Records.

The idea of the Card Index is to enable any man in charge of records to have all his information comprehensively and compactly collated and to enable him to find any information he may require with far more speed and accuracy than use of books or loose sheets would give him.

Of course, your contributor may have been writing with his tongue in his cheek, or—his bombardier may merely have been amusing himself with his alternative indexes, killing time pending demobilization, perhaps.

BYNWOOD.

WILD FLOWERS IN RHINELAND.

Sir,—I cannot agree with the "Lover of Nature" who writes in "Echoes" saying that "such a profusion of wild flowers can be seen here in Rhineland as is scarcely equalled by our own English countryside."

Poppies and cornflowers, I will admit, can be seen in abundance, together with white and yellow bedstraw, but to me, at least, the Rhineland cannot compare with a real Blighty countryside.

Where are the carpets of common primroses, bluebells and anemones with which our woods are bedecked in early spring? I did not see the like here in the season.

Again, where are the red and white campions (ragged robins), the greater and lesser Cranesbill, the brooks with their marsh marigold and irises, and last but not least where is there a meadow which can boast the growth of numerous bee orchids and scarlet pimp?

Rhineland I cannot admit to be comparable to a Wilts or Somerset countryside.

LOVER OF NATURE.

CALVARIES AS MEMORIALS.

Sir,—I heartily agree with the writer who takes the view that calvaries would form fitting memorials throughout the countryside to our honoured dead.

They are infinitely preferable to stained glass windows and the like which memorials go unnoticed except by the few.

Many a gallant lad saw these wayside Calvaries for the first time when marching along the roads of France and Flanders. Their attention was arrested by them often because the only standing stonework within sight was this picturesque shrine. It was a source of wonderment to many of us that these escaped the destruction of shellfire. It seemed that they shared Divine protection.

What more fitting memorial to the bravery and devotion of those men?

G.A.R.

AN OFFICER'S WAIL.

Sir,—My heart is gladdened to see the publicity given by you to "Worn-out Tunics" plaint. I have myself been trying for these five months to get a pair of boots (size 9) but have only succeeded in being offered anything under size 2 or over 23. I imagine the officers stationed in Cologne snaffle each pair as they arrive. It is even not improbable that they raffle for them. Of what use is one miserably-equipped Clothing Store for an Army of 200,000?

OLD BOOTS.

JENNY KISS'D ME.

Jenny kiss'd me when we met,
Jumping from the chair she sat in;
Time, you thief, who love to get
Sweets into your list, put that in!
Say I'm weary, say I'm sad,
Say that health and wealth have miss'd me,
Say I'm growing old, but add,
Jenny kiss'd me.

ALLAN CUNNINGHAM.

"Biggest Show In Europe".

WHAT TO SEE AT THE AMERICAN CIRCUS AT COLOGNE ON FRIDAY, SATURDAY, AND SUNDAY.

Many ingenious methods of puplicity have been adopted by the producers of the 1st American Division Circus to remind all and sundry of their advent to Cologne to-morrow and for the following two days.

With the idea of learning a little more about "the biggest show in Europe", a representative of "The Cologne Post" sought the advance agent for information other than that contained in the advertisements.

The American captain, seated in a huge motorcar, had only three minutes to spare, he said, but having started to talk he enthused over the many attractions of the circus for an hour. "I figure out that no show, produced under such difficulties, could begin to approach the First Division outfit for real attractions", declared our informant. He then proceeded to enumerate the many good qualities of the show. The 315 men of the Circus Company who will put on the big show have received special training in "Circus Town" in the American area. They comprise Cowboys, Indians, monkey-drillers (this is the Yank term for cavalry trick riders), clowns, and wild animals, and they will all combine to make up a unique entertainment.

A notable feature of the circus will be representations of typical Wild West incidents by members of the Company who were formerly cowboys and ranchers from the great plains and mountain country of America.

Transformed Football Ground.

"Why not hike out right now to the show ground with me and cast your eye over the fit-up that has been dumped by our boys? Sail straight into my bus and we'll beat it instantly."

The result of this invitation was that the writer soon found himself at the Amsterdamer Strasse football ground, unable to recognise the enclosure so thorough has been the transformation. In the space of a very few days, tons and tons of wood have been transported there and elaborate seating accomodation has been constructed from it. The greater part of the huge field has been encircled with rows and rows of seats so arranged as to allow elbow room — to say nothing of knee room — for the 6000 spectators for whose presence arrangements have been made.

On Saturday afternoon, the football ground was nothing more than a flat, uninterrupted stretch of turf. Now it is practically ready for the first show to-morrow afternoon with only the finishing touches to the huge erections remaining to be done.

A free Spectacle.

To-morrow, at ten in the morning, the magnificent parade of the Circus will march through the streets of Cologne. The start will be made at the Cathedral, and the parade will pass up Komödien Strasse to Auf dem Berlich, along that street and Richmod Strasse to Neumarkt, then down Schildergasse, across the Hohe Strasse to the Rhine and down the Rhine boulevard to the Hohenzollern Bridge, where it will disband.

There are to be two bands in the parade and the other features that will participate in the Circus in the afternoon and evening will appear as a free spectacle.

Tickets are going at a great rate in the Amusements office. The price of admission is three marks, with one mark for the Side Show and one Mark for the Negro concert after the chief performance. Reserved seat tickets for officers can be bought there for five marks each.

A WEEK OF SPORT.

Ambitious Programme of 8th Royal Scots.

Among the many sporting novelties in the Army of Occupation is a week devoted to sport, by the 8th Royal Scots, which is now in progress. All branches of athletics are represented. Besides prizes for every event, there is a silver cup being presented by Lieut. A. O. Gray, of the battalion, to the company who scores the most points on the week's sport.

The enthusiasm with which the battalion is entering into its week's enjoyment was made manifest on the first day, Monday, when two inter-company football matches were played.

In the morning "A" Company matched their strength against "B" Company, and won by the only goal of the match.

In the afternoon, "C" Coy met "D" Coy. This match was even more fiercely contested and resulted: — "C" — 1, "D" — 0. We must needs mention Cpl. Graham, "C" Coy's centre half, whose abilities in seizing opportunities was very noticeable.

In the evening, some good pulls were witnessed in the Tug-of-War, which resulted in "B" Coy having to pull "D" Coy on Friday in the final.

NOTED CRICKETERS AT PLAY.

Prolific Scoring in Friendly Match.

IX Corps Hvy Artillery (283 for 3) v. Western Division (188 for 8) at Cologne. Excellent form was shown by Capt. Robson, the old Kent batsman, and by Padre Burrows, well known in Liverpool cricket. Caldwill, the Worcestershire player, made his runs in 70 minutes. Gnr. Pestle and Capt. Barlow both bowled well without much luck, the latter bowling with considerable pace. For the Western Division, Capt. Heath played attractive and forcible cricket with some excellent shots between corner and mid off. Both sides let some chances go in the field but the ball was wet. The Western Div. won the toss but elected to put the other side in. The rain at midday rather influenced the game.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Thursday, July 31, 1919

Weather mainly cloudy. Some morning mist or drizzle still likely. Cool. Fair visibility.

PLAY, MUSIC, SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Dolly of the Pedlars.

This little cliché is an impression of Claude Cele as "Dolly", the girl of The Pedlars Concert Party. He stepped into the shoes of one of the former "girls", who was demobbed, and has played the part with conspicuous success, has all the qualifications of a pleasing female impersonator, he looks pretty, is dainty, and has a nice voice. Although young, Cole has been with the Pedlars some considerable time—in fact, practically all his stage-craft has been acquired with them. He hails from Devon.

Leave Club Concert.

A delightful concert was given by the "Chequers" at the British Empire Leave Club on Tuesday. The hall was crowded and expressions of delight were heard on all sides. Ted Lacy's songs always caused much applause, the most popular being "Old Dun Cow" and "Cabbages". Jack Street's rendering of the "Beauty of the Guards" also caused much laughter, while the song scena "In the Night" might almost be considered as the success of the evening, largely due to J.S. Anderson. The recitation "The Shooting of Dan McGray" by "George" was also eagerly listened to in absolute silence by the whole audience. Bill French's "Ragtime Dance" was a most excellent show, and he was called back again and again.

The programme ended with another splendid song scena.

Whist and Dance.

A very pleasant evening was spent at 36 Casualty Clearing Station on Tuesday, when the N.C.O's and men held a whist drive and dance at their hospital in the Weyerthal, Lindenthal. About 50 ladies of the W.R.A.F. attended. The prizes for the whist drive were distributed as under by the acting commanding officer, Major F. R. Fraser, R.A.M.C. who, in a few able words, thanked the ladies for their presence, pointing out that such evenings could not hope for success without their assistance. The prize-winners were Ladies: 1st Miss Mason, W.R.A.F.; 2nd Miss Horne, W.R.A.F.; Booby, Miss Findlay, W.R.A.F.; Gentlemen: 1st Cpl. Wood; 2nd Pte. Mortley; Booby Pte. Church. sealed prize: Miss Melluish, W.R.A.F.

After a short interval for refreshments, dancing followed. Quite a feature of the evening was the elaborate fancy dress worn by some of those present. The arrangements were in the capable hands of Sergt.-Major F. Shepley and Staff-Sergt. Palmer.

"The Buzzers".

"The Buzzers" (Light Division Signal Coy) have filled up the gaps caused by demobilization. They gave a concert at Ohligs on Thursday last and by special request they repeated the programme on Saturday. On both nights the theatre was packed to its utmost capacity.

"Mabel" and "Phyllis" were as fascinating as ever, the former making a special hit with "her" rendering of songs from "Going Up" etc. "The Spy" a burlesque admirably played by Sprs. Unwin, Cordery and "Phyllis" brought the house down, the air raid being particularly well done.

Pnr. Gallon, the clever Yiddish comedian, received a most enthusiastic reception, as also did Spr. Lucas and Cpl. Edeson with those old favourites "My Old Shako" and "Love's Garden of Roses". The versatile Unwin fully deserved the volumes of applause which greeted his "I had a Little Garden". "Phyllis" and Spr. Pearce were good in their duets.

The piece de resistance was the farce "Doctor Dozie's Patients" in which Dr. Dozie (Spr. Unwin) performed most marvellous electrical cures.

Out of Season.

Several friendly Soccer matches were played on Saturday and this in July! Apparently some of the clubs are apprehensive of their resources this coming season, and want to learn the worst as early as possible.

Brilliant Cricket Display.

REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT BY 52nd WELSH REGIMENT SERGEANT.

A notable bowling and batting performance on the part of the same player was witnessed at Duisdorf in a match between the 52nd Welsh Regt. and the Eastern Div. Sig. Coy. Bowling for the former Sergt. Kay took 9 wickets for 13 runs, performing the hat trick, and on a bowler's wicket gave a fine exhibition of defensive batting.

52nd WELSH REGT. (121) v. EASTERN DIV. SIG. COY. (20). Sergt. Kay of the home side going in first, carried his bat for 48, after a perfect display of defensive batting on a bowlers wicket. Following this, he took 9 wickets for 13 runs, performing the hat trick. Cpl. Wallwark made 26 and took 1 wicket for 3 runs.

CAV. DIV. H.Q. (59) v. 70th Sq. R.A.F. (40) at Bickendorf. Lieut. C. R. Jennings (16), Cpl. Harvey (10), and Spr. Smith (10) were the highest scores for Cav. Div. while Cpl. Adams took 5 for 19 and Spr. Smith 3 for 10.

LANCS. DIV. M.T. COY. (56 for 1) v. 92 FIELD AMB. (42). For the winners, Major Rowntree, Major Kershand, and Lieut. Almond compiled the necessary runs.

LANCS. DIV. M.T. COY. (98) v. 52 CHESHIRES (38). For the winners, Lieut. Almond and Pte. Boothroyd were the star artistes; Pte. Boothroyd making a score of 45 and Lieut. Almond taking 7 wickets for 14 runs.

II CORPS H.Q. (134) v. 4 F.S. BN. (52) at Leverkusen. For II Corps H.Q., Capt. Tarleton scored 78 and Pte. Holmes 13, while S. M. Bowley took 6 wickets for 23 runs and Pte. Holmes 4 for 19. For 4 F.S. Bn., Spr. Seaton made 13 and L/Cpl. Hodgetts took 5 wickets for 52 runs.

D/190 BDE. R.F.A. (100 for 2) v. NORTHERN DIV. R.E. (61). For the R.E.'s, Cooper scored 26 and Trappit 21. For the Battery, Capt. Fenn (27), Lieut. Baines (27), Dvr. Bingham, and Dvr. Morphew (13 not out), were the top scorers.

170 SIEGE BTY. (101) v. 3rd NORTHERN BDE. (57) at Riehl. The Gunners batting first, lost their first wicket for 0; the second, however, put on 55, Lieut. Yarborough making 37. Lieut. Harding took 6 wickets for 36. With the exception of Sergt. Prince (18), 3rd N. Bde. offered little resistance to the bowling of Gnr. Michelis (5 for 9) and Gnr. Hollings (4 for 28).

10th ROYAL WEST KENT REGT. (96 for 2) v. 69th SIEGE BATTERY R.G.A. (65) at Seligenthal. For the S.B., Bty. Sergt.-Major Joyce (13 not out) alone played with any confidence. For the Kents Cpl. Menney (37 not out) and Lieut. Horst (53 not out) were the best batsmen, while Lieut. Horst took 6 wickets for 26 runs.

23 ROYAL FUSILIERS (91) v. 303 SIEGE BATTERY (42) at Overath. Wilkinson for the Gunners was in fine form, taking 7 wickets for 21 runs, and scored 19.

41st M.G.C. (168 for 8) v. 180 LABOUR COY. (13). Dvr. Gorrard was in splendid form taking 6 wickets for 7 runs, and together with Major Boumphr y (3 for 4) dismissed the Labour Coy. for 13. For the M.G.C., Lieut. Andrews (37), Col. Barry (31 not out), Pte. Wood (29) and Lieut. Slade (28) were the best batsmen.

"R" A.A. BATTERY (165) v. 53rd NORTHUMBERLAND FUSILIERS (114) at Volksgarten. Again the Battery played a very stylish game, six of the team reaching double figures. Cpl. Bennet contributed a most useful 41, and Bdr. Whitehouse 37. The N.F.'s were unfortunately only able to present 8 batsmen. Pte. Crompton hit a striking 68, and two others reached double figures.

310 BDE. R.F.A. (57) v. K. O. HUSSARS (44) at Düren. For the Bde. Gnr. Yates 13 was the only batsman to reach double figures; Dvr. Small took 6 wickets for 5 runs and Bdr. Battersby kept wicket brilliantly. Lieut. Cannon scored 20 and bowled well for the Hussars.

OTHER RESULTS.

10th Corps Sig., 91; 207 Sq. R.A.F., 72.

51st Bedford Regt., 86; 69th Siege Bty., R.F.A., 36.

5th R. Irish Regt, 106 for 5, declared; 3rd Northern Bde., 57.

5th R. Irish Regt., 100 for 3, declared; D/190 Bde., 12 for 2. This match resulted in a draw.

CRICKET FRIENDLIES.

170 S.B. (77) v. 111 H.B. (27). In this match, Gnr. Nicholls of 170th S.B. took 9 wickets for 7 runs, hitting the wicket on seven occasions.

180th LABOUR COY (76) v. 49th LABOUR COY. (42). Bowling for 49th Coy., Cpl. Harrington took 7 wickets for 26 runs and for 180th Coy., Cpl. Stevenson had 6 victims for 15 runs.

78th LABOUR COY. (116 for 8) v. N.A.C.B. (15) at Klettenberg. For 78th Labour Coy. Pte. Snowball took 5 wickets for 6 runs and Pte. Emery 5 for 7.

77 SIEGE BTY. (8 for 80) v. 84 BDE. R.A.S.C. (44) at Mehlem. The A.S.C. batted first, but with the exception of Mandersley who played well for 16, none reached double figures. Fenton took 4 wickets for 9, and Harker 3 for 5. After losing 3 wickets for 8, Harker (14) and Fenton (29) carried the Gunner's score beyond their opponents. Stumps were drawn when the score was 8 for 80), Garmousway (20 not out). Up to date 77 Siege Battery have won all matches played in this league.

POLO MATCH AT KALK.

17th v. 12th Lancers.

The following polo match took place on the Lancers Brigade polo ground at Kalk last Saturday in the Handicap Polo Tournament, Group B.:—

17th v. 12th Lancers.

Col. Melville 1, Lieut. Browne 1.
Lt. Gossage 2, Capt. Adair 2.
Capt. Turner 3, Capt. Richardson 3.
Capt. Boles back, Col. Bailey back.

On the handicap the 17th Lancers had to concede 6 goals, and 4 chukkas only were played. The 17th Lancers were continually pressing but their shooting was somewhat erratic. They scored once in each of the first three chukkas, but in the last they were unable to add to their three goals. Thus the 12th Lancers with their original start of 6 goals won by 6—3.

For the winners Col. Baily played a very good defensive game and Capt. Richardson also played well.

For the losers Col. Melville and Capt. Boles were seen to the best advantage.

MOUNTED AND DISMOUNTED.

51st Hants Regimental Sports and Gymkana.

On Friday and Saturday, the 51st Hants held their regimental sports which, despite many disappointments with the weather, went off very successfully.

Brigadier General D.E. Cayley C.B., C.M.G. attended the sports on Friday with his Staff, and many other visitors came from the Machine Gunners and the other Hampshire Battalions.

Competitive feeling ran high amongst the youthful warriors and great was the excitement round the "telegraph boards," as after each race the points went up.

After an interval, there was a very exciting six-a-side football match—"A" Coy. v "B" Coy.—which resulted in a win for the former.

At the close of the day the positions of Companies were—"A" Coy.—93 points. "D" Coy.—92 points. "B" Coy.—84 points "C" Coy.—77 points.

During the afternoon, the semi-final of the Brigade tug-of-war took place, and in the evening, the Brigade cross-country run was won by the 15th Hants, the 51st. Battalion being second.

On Saturday, the ground had dried up and the weather remained fine all day. There were some very fine races, in particular the open mile and 3 miles which were both won by Pte. Orr, 29th M.G.C.

The final of the tug-of-war and the relay race were both won by "D" Coy.

The results in the company challenge competition were: "D" Coy.—158. "A" Coy.—117. "B" Coy.—116. "C" Coy.—98.

The first of the mounted events was a bare-backed mule race for the officers which was run in two heats. Many mules won the race without their riders and one mule was discovered in its stable. The final was won by Capt. H. Harris on "Jock."

Then came the tug-of-war on mules which caused much fun.

A pull between the officers and sergeants lasted for 15 minutes during which time Lieut. A.L. Grice gave an exhibition of dismounting and mounting, amidst much encouragement from the spectators.

This herculean struggle was finally decided in favour of the sergeants. Then our four-footed friends performed once more with the transport in musical chairs, and caused much laughter by their intense dislike for the chairs. The jumping competition (officers) was won by Capt. J.P. Fowler M.C., 15th Hants, and Capt. H. Harris R.A.S.C. was a close second.

In the N.C.O's jumping, a very fine display of masterly horsemanship was shown by Corporal Smith R.F.A., who won the competition. Pte. Rennison, 51st Hants, was second, and also gave an excellent performance.

The Lloyd Lindsay race was won by the 51st Hants Transport team.

The prizes were presented by the Divisional Commander at the conclusion.

Captain D.L. Wagnorn M.C., D.C.M. "D" Company carried off the beautiful silver challenge Cup which was presented to the winning Company by the officers of the Battalion, and Pte. Blythe "C" Company a smaller cup exactly the same design as the Company one, for the best all-round athlete in the Battalion.

Capt. Zeigler.

In the short biographical note accompanying the sketch of Capt. Zeigler, the Sports Officer of the London Division, and former captain of the Haileybury XV which appeared in our yesterday's issue, it was inadvertently stated that he had been "demobbed." This however, was only for a fortnight—on the usual leave warrant.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Curious Wide.

Fairservice bowled a curious wide at Blackheath. The ball went over the heads of batsman and wicketkeeper and fell into the hands of Seymour.

Results of Peace Matches.

At Newcastle, before 15,000 spectators. South Shields, 1; Newcastle United, nil. At Sunderland.—Sunderland 4 (Travers, Buchan, Parker); Middlesbrough, nil.

Lord Derby.

Lord Derby was not able to watch his colours carried at his home meeting at Liverpool, owing to having had to undergo another operatton last week in Paris.

Jap Sportsman.

Japan has not made a great noise yet as a sporting nation, so it is interesting to record that a Japanese professional billiards player lives in San Francisco.

For U.S.A.

A party of French boxers will visit the United States next summer. They will include Criqui, Vitte, Marcel Denis, Bora, and de Ponthieu.

Collar-Bone Broken.

At the Barnet and Alston Athletic Club's meeting at High Barnet, whilst the blindfold race was in progress, Miss Bradshaw, one of the competitors, who was travelling well and overtaking the leader, tripped and falling heavily, broke her collar-bone.

Many Trainers.

Charles Marsh the son of the King's trainer, is the fourth man who has had charge of The Panther since he went into training.

Record Event.

There were no less than 2,241 entries of school children at the sports held at Guildford. This is believed to be the biggest event of its kind ever held in the South of England.

A Foursome.

At Prestwick Vardon and Taylor beat Braid and Kirkaldy in a four-ball match by 2 and 1, and in a foursome in the afternoon they were victorious by one hole.

Plucky Jockey.

Gadtuna was fancied for the Thames Plate at Hurst Park but he bolted and threw his Jockey, V. Smyth. This caused delay, but fortunately Smyth was only shaken and was able to remount the captured Gadtuna to win the race from Silver Bridge.

Dempsey pays up.

One of the first things that "Jack" Dempsey did after winning the world's heavy-weight championship was to repay a loan to the man who financed him when he started his boxing career. Dempsey's Christian names by the way, are William Harrison, not Jack.

International Polo.

International polo matches between England and America will probably be resumed next year.

Football at Plymouth.

Plymouth Argyle received Exeter City in a football Peace celebration match at Plymouth before 7,000 spectators, and the game ended in a draw of 1 goal each.

Lynch wants Herman.

Joe Lynch, who defeated Tommy Noble at The Ring in February, and later lost on points to the one and only "Jimmy" at the Club, is now out for a match with Pete Herman for the bantam-weight championship.

Dark Legend.

An Indian paper states that Dark Legend is going to the stud in France after he has fulfilled his engagements in India, where he has won five races out of six and £5,000 in stakes. Dark Legend will be valuable as a sire as there are very few of Dark Ronald's sons standing.

The Soccer Jeason.

Another five weeks over our heads and the first post-war football season will have opened with a flourish of trumpets. The football leagues, with what many cricketers consider a spirit of grab, have seized the last Saturday in August and the first Saturday in May.

Regatta Revived.

After an interval of 5 years, the regatta on the Avon between Bristol and Bath was resuscitated at the week-end.

Hockey in Germany.

It has just transpired that an English hockey team would have toured in Germany in 1915 but for the war. The invitation had come from the German Hockey Association and the English H.A. were considering the matter.

A Lucky Man.

Sir Abe Bailey is a proverbially lucky man in whatever he takes up, and, since his recent return from South Africa, his trainer, Reggie Day—who could not turn out a winner—is now clearly one to follow.

Very Live Force.

It is said that Flaming Fire will be a very live force about Cesarewitch time. This cast-off from R. C. Dawson's stable was once suggested as a likely Derby winner, and "Vic" Tabor is coaxing him back to a more generous frame of mind.

Lawn Tennis Tourney.

A lawn tennis tournament will take place on September 22-27, at the London Flying Club, Hendon, where there are five hard courts and spacious dressing-room accommodation. Mr. D. R. Larcombe has been appointed referee and handicapper.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Popular C. O. Leaves.

The departure of Lieut.-Colonel A. C. Girdwood, Commanding the 51st Northumberland Fusiliers is much regretted by all ranks who have served under him. He is taking up the duties of Assistant Commandant, Royal Military College Sandhurst. One of his last public duties as O.C. of the 51st Northumberlands was to lead his men in the great Victory March in Paris.

Huge School Bags.

Were the importance of Education to be measured by the size of the satchels carried by the boys of Germany and those of our own country it is very evident the "laurels" would go to the former. Here in Germany, one is led to think the ruling powers conceived the brainy idea of teaching their young bloods how to carry a pack whilst they are yet small and immatured in order that when the time approaches for camp life and military training their backs would be well accustomed to bearing weights of portable size. But if this is the explanation, one wonders why the weaker sex should be subject to the same burden of school life!

Popular Tommy.

Many reasons have been given for the manner in which the German people have taken to the British Army of Occupation. Call it what you will, an experience during the early days of occupation is interesting to recall. The battalion to which the writer was attached, was amongst the first infantry over the frontier and eventually "anchored" at a village not twenty kilometres from Cologne. Naturally the villagers were much perturbed at the sight of troops and deserted streets was the order of the day. However, it says much for the fine qualities of "Tommy" that this state of affairs extended over but few days and upon departure nearly three months later, the battalion had a send off which brought back Blighty farewells. Therefore, should occasion arise to doubt the sincerity of the good feeling of the majority of the people of the Rhine, it is well to reflect that it has been formed on the solid foundation of the estimable qualities of the British soldier.

Goats.

A familiar sight, on the low lying pasture land, by a river, or along the road sides, are groups of raggedly clothed and booted oys and girls, each in charge of a white goat. These seem to take the place, in this part of the world, of the "cow and the rope," which was such a familiar sight on the high roads of France. As a rule, they are allowed their freedom, when their keeper is in the vicinity, and they never wander far away, but seem to be in continual fear of getting lost. There is no more "windy" creature than a goat, and none which breathes such an air of uncertainty and perplexity when left to its own devices. But perhaps there is method in its seeming madness, for each goat yields two litres of milk a day, which, as a rule, is used by its owner, for home consumption.

The Major's Mistake.

It happened in a battalion of the Blankshires, stationed less than a hundred kilometres from Mülheim. A Major had recently joined and had been posted O.C. "X" Coy. Upon entering the office one morning, he acknowledged the salute of a quiet looking individual standing outside the office door. Leaving the office about five minutes later, he found the soldier still waiting. Again on returning the individual remained and he thought he would investigate. Entering the office he requested the Sergeant Major to "see what that Lewis Gunner wants standing outside." The S.M. appeared at the door, noticed the one person in sight and returned perplexed. When he ventured the remark that he could not see any Lewis Gunner, the Major rose and accompanied him to the door. "That fellow standing there, I mean." "Oh!" said the Sergeant Major, "that, sir, is our Regimental Quarter-Master Sergeant. He is waiting for the C.Q.M.S." A closer examination of his badge revealed to the Major his error, whereupon he retired.

Catching up Time.

A correspondent points out that the orchestras at the N.A.C.B. Officers' Club in Cologne are gradually overtaking the flight of time in regard to the selection of British music. In less than a week they have made such rapid strides towards "up-to-dateness" as to have progressed from "Rosy O'Grady" to "Everybody's Doing It." If this speeding up is continued, next month should find them giving us "The Long, Long Trail."

Interesting Relics.

Visitors to the Dom on Sunday were favoured with an exposition on the relics of the Magi, the skulls of the three Wise Men, who came from the East to visit the newly born Saviour at Bethlehem. Tradition says that the Empress Helena procured the bones and took them to Constantinople, from which place they were removed to Milan. In 1164 they were presented by Frederic Barbarossa to Archbishop Reinald von Dassel, this prelate bringing them to Cologne. At first they were kept in the Chapel of the Magi, the central chapel of the seven flanking the choir, but they have latterly been kept in the Cathedral treasury, near the organ. The bones are kept in a golden reliquary, a costly specimen of Romanesque craftsmanship in the shape of a basilica, probably executed about the year 1200. Many readers will have observed that in the Cologne coat-of-arms three crowns are represented, the ownership of the Magi relics having suggested the design. A British chaplain of the R.A.F. celebrated Mass at the altar of the relics on Sunday morning.

The Meaning of Architecture.

To the visitor the architecture of a city or country creates consciously or unconsciously the first impression and in Cologne we are struck immediately by the type of modern architecture to be seen especially, in the large stores and many public buildings. It seems as if the architects of the present generation had cast aside the ornate adaption of the "German Renaissance" and the passing wave of "Art Nouveau" and created a style more applicable to modern construction and conditions. Utility takes premier place but to the critical observer the little refinements without which a work of art cannot exist are sometimes unfortunately absent. It is to be hoped the age of materialism will not crush out the sympathy and tenderness which created the Rathaus and Cologne Cathedral.

Coming Independence.

A Rhineland soldier, about to be demobilized, was turning his kit-bag out yesterday, when there tumbled forth a couple of pairs of schoon, Flemish fashioned. Upon being twitted regarding the clumsiness of his souvenirs he stoutly argued that everyone knew his own business best. After he was pacified a little he told his comrades they were intended for spadework and another pair for "rolling." This latter treatment is to be accomplished by nailing a box-lid, say 8 in. by 16 in. to the sole and heel, and then treading around as though one owned the earth and the waters under the earth. Whether he got his idea from the continental peasantry or whether he has seen Lyddites treading the shingle in Kent, cannot be said. But it is certain he will not go borrowing the wife's father's roller again if he can help it. As he puts ithimself, "T'owd ratterer can keep 'is roller rustin' in t' coil-hoil, nah!"

Bonn Rhine Bridge.

How many have noticed the stone carvings and figures which form the stone structure of the Rhine Bridge at Bonn? There are upwards of two hundred carvings representative of all kinds of animal life, as well as figures which have no representatives in real life, but which are interesting to anyone who cares to look for them. Unlike those of the steel structure which are practically similar, no figures are alike. There is a curious pair on the end tower representing an old man shewing his back to an old woman. This, as we mentioned the other day, represents the attitude of the people of Bonn to those of Beuel for refusing to share in the cost of the construction of the bridge. On the other side of the same arch is a lady regarding the figure with a horrified expression. This was the retaliation of the people of Beuel who, at the last minute, consented to pay a part of their share.

The Last Car Home.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes". Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Sgt. J. B. McDonnell, R. G. A., R. A. Reception Camp, Rhine Army; Pte. J. B. Haslam, 47th General Hospital, 13th King's Liverpool Regt. and R.Q.M.S. H.M. Williams, 51st Hampshire Regt., Rhine Army.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

EDUCATING GIRLS.

His Majesty, King George is known to possess common-sense, practical views on most subjects. At an exhibition of rural industries recently when shown a display of bottled fruits, he said: I think methods of preserving and utilizing fruit should be taught to our girls in school. All knowledge may be desirable but some forms are more desirable than others, and while it may be very well and very interesting to teach girls about flowers which they seldom see, and birds which they can never catch, I think it would be better to direct attention first of all to those things which would help to make them good housewives.

THE ECONOMIC FUTURE.

Mr. H.H. Asquith has been speaking of the formidable economic situation. He says: If we are to remain solvent as a nation, I can tell you in all seriousness, that there are only two possible expedients open to us. In the first place there must be drastic economy in public expenditure, and, in the second place, there must be an equally drastic increase in taxation.

WALK AND LIVE LONG.

Sir Hermann Weber M.D., the eminent physician, is a great believer in a good walk everyday to keep one fit. He says: Many persons, including some medical men, are of the opinion that it is injurious to take much active exercise, especially in advancing years, that the body is sooner worn out by it than by rest or very restricted exercise. Some of my friends have often tried to dissuade me from my long walks, saying that they would "wear me out." The animal body is not a machine made of dead substance, like wood or stone, but is made of living organs and tissues which by action are not worn out, but are nourished and maintained in working order, provided always that the exercise is not over-exercise. Many more people wear out too soon from over-rest, than from over-exercise.

THE AGONY POINT.

Mr. George R. Sims, the veteran journalist and playwright, who is a staunch advocate of the middle-classes, says: One of the most disconcerting of the profiteering scandals is the apparent disinclination of the Government to do anything to check it. The enormously increased cost of everyday necessaries has brought the life of the professional classes and the small fixed income classes to the agony point. And for these there is no relief in sight. But the moment Labour shakes its fist under the Government nose something is done. An enormous increase in wages is agreed to. This is really Relief for the Profiteer. It is compelling one portion of the community to find the money which will enable the other portion of the community to go on paying the profiteer his extortionate prices.

TYRANNY OF PROHIBITION.

The Bishop of Hereford holds strong views on most subjects, theological or general and has been delivering himself on the dangers of a "dry" England. He says: Prohibition implies the unrestricted right of the majority to coerce the minority. It takes for granted that there is no department of individual conduct which lies outside the majority's rightful control, no personal rights which the majority need respect, no sphere of private liberty into which the majority may not intrude. If the principle of Prohibition be sound, it must be capable of general application. Alcohol is not the only abused article of human consumption, nor the only one with respect to which its abuse stands connected with grave social consequences.

RAISING MINED SHIPS.

Mr. Frederic Talbot writing on the subject of salving ships that were lost in the North Sea during Germany's ruthless submarine war and are beyond the reach of divers, says: "There is no reason why the majority of these lost craft should not be brought to the surface, assisted into port, and be overhauled to swell the British mercantile marine which has suffered such startling diminution. The majority have been punctured by a mighty hole blown into their vitals by high explosive and through which the water poured to sink the ship. Only a few have been so hopelessly shattered as to render their salvation extremely precarious or not worth while. Fertile brains have been thinking hard, and experimenters have been busy putting newly born precepts into practice. Among these ingenious workers must be numbered the marine engineer, Mr. Russell Gordon, A.M.I.N.A., who has conceived and perfected a means of bringing sunken ships to the surface by air-balloons.

THREE CROPS A YEAR.

Mr. A. W. Sutton, the well-known horticulturist who has demonstrated that the soil is capable of producing three crops a year, says: When war broke out advocated and practised mid-July and early August sowing of what may be termedsummer crops demonstrated that satisfactory crops can be raised. The soil being warm germination is quicker than in the spring. For instance, at this season of the year crops have matured, and instead of letting the land remain idle, the land is raked over and seeds sown of quick-growing vegetables for maturing this year and others to stand the winter. The secret of success lies in the seed being sown where it is to mature, without transplanting except in the case of the crops which are to stand through the winter.

IRELAND AND FEDERATION.

Walter Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, dealing with the eternal question of Home Rule, says: Although I regret nothing I have said or done in the past, the war has altered this question also, and it is our duty to look dispassionately, fairly and above all, independently, at any suggestion for the solution of this difficult problem. I believe the proper remedy as regards our present system of legislation is the adoption of the federal system. I believe we should devolve on minor parliaments a great deal of the present work and leave the time of the Imperial Parliament free for great questions which concern the Empire as well as ourselves, and those greater domestic questions which ought to be dealt with by the Central Parliament. Any suggestion made for the government of Ireland I would look upon from the point of view of the federal system, and I would only support that scheme which I believe fitted into such a system.

CONSOLATION.

(With sympathy for our gallant cousins on the Long, Long Trail.)

A Doughboy, whom pluck had made roam,
Was returning from War to his Home:
But the sea was unkind,
And soon him you might find
At the Bulwarks — regarding the Foam!

As the Liberty Statue drew nigh
He sighed, and he muttered, "O my!"
"One could hardly believe"
"How the Ocean can heave!"
Gee! I'm glad that the Country's gone "dry!"

FERRYMAN.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Unsolved.—Seven murder mysteries of this year are still unsolved.

Dock Strike.—The Liverpool dock strike has been settled.

New Embassy.— The British Legation at Brussels is now an Embassy.

Going home.—Chinese coolies in the devastated regions of Belgium are to be removed.

Navy Leave Stopped.—Naval leave has been curtailed on account of industrial unrest.

Wedding in Mid Air.—A New York couple have been married in mid air with the assistance of a wireless telephone.

Back to Vagrancy.—There is evidence that men who were vagrants before the war are drifting back into their old life.

Italian Demobilization. — The Italian Third Army, commanded by the Duke of Aosta, has been dispersed.

Terrible Disaster.—In a railway disaster in Russia, 600 people were burnt to death in a blazing train.

Another Tragedy. — A Cottenham man attacked his wife with a hatchet and killed his baby with a blow of his fist.

Bull Ring Profiteer. — A Madrid bullfighter is to receive £20,000 for seven performances.

No Nationalization.—South Wales coal miners have passed a resolution opposing nationalization of the mines.

France Acquires Stock. — France has bought the stocks and supplies which were left by the American Army.

Lille's Gratitude.—The city of Lille has offered a sword of honour to General Birdwood, the liberator of the town in October last.

Lords and Commons.—A struggle may take place shortly between the Lords and the Commons over the Transport Bill.

Newspaper Criticism. — Indian newspapers criticise the inadequacy of arrangements for the comfort and medical care of the Frontier Force.

Coal for Labour. — Negotiations are taking place between France and Italy with a view to France sending coal in exchange for labour.

Use for Tanks.—It is suggested that whippet tanks might be used on mountain roads to carry provisions to hotels difficult of access.

Back to Beer.—After a year of prohibition the town of Hull, Quebec, has voted by a large majority, in favour of the sale of beer and wine.

Seaside "Flips".—The companies running seaside "flips" find miners—at a guinea a flight—among their best customers.

Withdrawal of "The Boy."—After a run of 800 performances "The Boy" will be withdrawn from the Adelphi on Saturday, August 9.

Thames Swans.—Swan Masters found an unusually large number of young birds, including many broods of six and seven, in the course of marking the Thames swans.

Less Coal, More Crime.—The North London Police Court Magistrate says one effect of the coal shortage was people who could not get work lapsed into crime.

The Sheep King.—Sir Samuel Mc Caughey, the Sheep King, to stimulate recruiting insured 500 soldiers against death and total disablement to the total amount of £ 100,000.

The French Way.— The Commander of the 10th French Army has issued a proclamation with regard to the maltreatment of girls who fraternize with French soldiers.

Demobbed Men's Jewellery.—It is noticed that many demobilized men are still wearing their identity discs on their wrists.

Imitation.—A type of macintosh modelled after the British officer's trench coat is very popular in Cologne just now.

War Heroes' Buffets.—The Food Controller has been asked to terminate the system of free buffets at railway stations.

War Savings Certificates.—War savings certificates have proved such an attractive investment that the desire has been expressed that the purchase should no longer be limited to 500 per person.

Sport Itself Again.—The big stores say that never has there been such a rush for sporting implements of all kinds. Even the game of Badminton is in demand.

Ex-Officer as Pigman.—Tired of waiting for news of his pension, which was granted six months ago, an ex-officer has taken a pigman's job at Tring.

Airmen Wanted. — The Air Force is advertising the advantages of service in the peace-time R.A.F. now being organized. The pay will be from 3/- to 18/- a day according to rank and trade.

Shamrock IV.—Shamrock IV with which Sir Thomas Lipton hopes to win the America Cup next year has been under cover in New York since the early days of the war.

Change of Hair.—Many Manchester women have succumbed to the craze for auburn hair and hairdressers are employed turning grey locks into creations of varied hues.

Marking the Place.— The spot on Chislehurst Common where the last German bomb fell on Whit-Sunday 1918 is to be enclosed by the Conservators.

Now Satisfied.— Journeymen basket makers in Lancashire have accepted the employers' offer of increased piece and time rates, with a reduction of working hours.

The Jazz Doomed.—"All the real lovers of dancing are asking for the old waltz back again," says the Secretary of the Society of Dancing whose congress is being held in London.

The Peace of War.—"What with coal strikes and the Triple Alliance wanting to boss us, the whisky famine, and gooseberry champagne at thirty-five bob a bottle, I'm getting fed up. Makes you long for the peaceful days of war!" said a wag the other day.

The IV Corps Torchlight Tattoo in the hills near Nideggen is to take place on the 15th and 16th August, and not only on 15th August, as previously stated.

A dinner for officers who have served with the 11th Division is being held at the VI Corps Club, on Saturday. Any officer who wishes to attend should write to:— Lieut.-Col. E. A. Bray, Lancashire Division Headquarters.

ARMY PAY RAISED.

LIVING WAGE PRINCIPLE ADOPTED.

THE BONUS SYSTEM TO BE DISCONTINUED.

CHURCHILL'S FOUR POINTS.

ARMY ESTIMATES.

DEFENCE OF GOVERNMENT POLICY.

Replying to a shoal of questions and speeches on the Army Estimates in the House of Commons, Mr. Winston Churchill said the Government is continuing the policy contained in the decision of the War Cabinet in March last, that Archangel and Murmansk shall be evacuated before the winter, also that whatever troops are required for a safe withdrawal will be despatched. The widest latitude is left to the Military Commanders on the spot as to the method, time and circumstances.

As to the general military situation in Russia, he said the armies of Koltchak and Deniken are passing through an extremely critical phase. It is a question whether Deniken's advance will relieve the pressure on Koltchak. The policy of the Allies has been to aid the Russians in order to prevent a catastrophe involving any derangement of the balance of power in Central Europe from stultifying the League of Nations at the outset. Our troops will not be used for other purpose than extrication. Their intervention is receiving in a great measure local support. It is untrue to say that Great Britain is being left by her Allies and that all other powers are quitting Archangel, we forming the rearguard. The suggestion that we are contemplating individual action can also be dismissed.

Four Grievances.

Dealing with other matters Mr. Churchill observed that the state of voluntary recruiting was so encouraging that he hoped conscription would pass away permanently with the expiration of the Military Service Act. Regarding the threatened strike, Mr. Churchill called attention to four grievances on which the proposed strike was based. First, withdrawal from Russia — which had already been decided upon; second, conscription, — which is passing away; third, the War Office Circular, — which had no political significance; fourth, conscientious objectors — all of whom are now out of prison.

When he saw the list of obsolete grievances he felt it to be his duty to issue a solemn warning to extreme agitators. They did not hurry in the ordering of a general strike and they have now got a brand new outfit of grievances.

He hoped members would not allow themselves to be frightened by this sort of thing, but would carry out their pledges to the electors and maintain, with security, the great position we have attained in the war.

Supreme Authority:

Mr. J. H. Thomas said the agitation of the working classes over the Russian question was not because they were in sympathy with Bolshevism but because they held that the Allies had no right to interfere in the form of Government desired by the people of another country. He regretted Mr. Churchill's phrase about "brand new grievances."

Mr. Churchill remarked that the grievances advanced as reasons in favour of a national strike were "pretty thin" when compared with the agencies which would be called into operation to remedy them. It would be odious if the forces of the State were to be used to interfere in disputes between capital and labour in order to advance the interests of private employers; but where the State as a whole is challenged and the life and welfare of the community are at stake then obviously the State must use all the resources at its disposal to fight them without flinching and to the bitter end.

As for consription it will disappear within the next few months. The country cannot be turned upside down by a national strike over something which in a few months will pass away altogether.

The debate was adjourned.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

FRANCE ASTOUNDED AT U.S. OPPOSITION.

French interest is concentrated on Washington at the moment, where President Wilson is defending the integrity of the new Triple Treaty against a group of bitter opponents.

This criticism is causing great astonishment in France where it is remarked that those looking askance at the idea of a defensive Alliance between France and America should reflect that it was solely in view of such Alliance that France renounced all the military guarantees which could have been exacted against Germany.

The Belgian Commission of Foreign Affairs has ratified the Peace Treaty.

ARMY PAY.

HIGHER RATES FOR ALL RANKS.

New rates of pay for all ranks in the army have been submitted to the Treasury for approval, which will probably be given this week. It is suggested that they will be considerably antedated.

Under the new scale the bonus now payable will be dropped, but the increases will more than compensate.

It is understood that the increases recommended by the committee are:

Private 2s 9d to 4/- (according to proficiency), Sergeant, approximately 8/6, Regimental Sergeant Major 14/-. The pay of departmental services such as the R.A.S.C., R.E. and R.A.V.C., who already receive a higher rate than infantry, will be adjusted accordingly.

Commissioned officers benefit in proportion. The recommended rates are:

Second Lieutenant £311, Lieutenant £440, Captain £640, Major £860, Lieutenant-Colonel £1000.

These figures do not include special duty allowances, the intention being that the new scale is in the nature of a minimum wage for all ranks. The increases mark a definite attempt to make it possible for officers to live on their pay. It is probable that increased pensions and halfpay rate increases will be included in the recommendations.

These increases are made possible as the result of persistent recommendations by the military authorities, who have long maintained that soldiers are underpaid.

DENIKEN'S SCRUPLES

WHAT HE HAS ACCOMPLISHED FOR RUSSIA.

Interesting facts regarding the operations of the volunteer army in South Russia were given yesterday by Major General Sir C.G. Briggs, Chief of the British Military Mission with Deniken.

He described the offensive which commenced on May 20th, resulting to date in the freeing of 136,000 square miles of territory, the capture of 200,000 prisoners and great quantities of stores and material. The area freed is rich in coal, iron and other minerals and the people are anxious for British trade. The territory is divided into a number of small states whose self-government is absolute. Deniken is not interfering in internal affairs, his only object being the destruction of Bolshevism and the establishment of a united Russia.

Answering questions, Major General Briggs said he had never heard of and excesses on the part of Deniken's men. Though poison gas was available any was used by the Bolshevists, Deniken declined to use it against his own countrymen.

Mr. Winston Churchill also spoke and said he was convinced that Deniken had the nucleus of a good army. He could not forget what Russia did at the beginning of the war when Paris might have fallen if she had not pushed her armies. Our policy was to endeavour to give such measure of support to Deniken as did not involve the sending of troops. He hoped the Allies would do the same for Koltchak.

IRRIGATION LOAN.

LANCASHIRE AND FOREIGN COTTON.

Regarding the Sudan Government's proposed six million pounds loan the "Daily Chronicle" says: "In recent years there has been a tendency to neglect irrigation in the Sudan and to concentrate all energy upon the Delta. Educated native Egyptians are interested in the problems of irrigation which play so great a part in the economic life of Egypt. Here is an intensely important work in which Egyptian talent may be employed to advantage. There is no reason why the Lancashire cotton industry should be dependent on foreign countries for its supply of raw material. If cotton growing were properly developed in the Sudan and other parts of British Africa, the Empire could provide all the cotton which the Lancashire mills require."

COAL STRIKE.

NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

A conference of Yorkshire coalowners and miners was held at Leeds yesterday, but proved abortive, no settlement on the question of piece rates or working hours being arrived at. The owners intimated that they would consider any separate proposals put forward regarding the wages of winding men and engine men.

KINGLY COUNSEL.

PRACTISE ECONOMY AND "CARRY ON."

The King and Queen visited the Guildhall on Wednesday to receive a loyal address from the City Corporation on the termination of the war. Their visit was marked by the greatest enthusiasm, the entire route from Buckingham Palace being elaborately decorated.

Replying to the address, his Majesty recalled the circumstances under which he paid his last visit to the Guildhall. It was a year ago when the Allies were engaged in a desperate struggle. Nobody could then see any prospect of the wonderful offensive which turned the tide and secured the victory. The King made eulogistic reference to the parts played by the Navy, Army and Merchant service.

Dealing with present problems his Majesty said "Now that we are at peace again our country urgently demands from every citizen the utmost economy in order to make the best use of the resources which the nation possesses, and strenuous and unremitting industry is required in order to ensure the greatest possible production of necessary commodities. Without these we shall have to face depression and poverty; without these we cannot hope to maintain the high position in the industrial and commercial world which we held before the war. I am confident that the ancient and sterling virtues of the British people will not fail us in the hour of need."

The King afterwards conferred Knighthoods on the two City Sheriffs, Mr. Banister Fletcher and Colonel W. R. Smith, M.D., while the Lord Mayor, Sir Horace B. Marshall, was made a Privy Councillor.

NORTH LONDON CRIME.

No arrest has yet been made in connection with the mystery surrounding the death of the woman named Lucy Nightingale, who was found gagged, bound and strangled, at Finsbury Park.

A man who was passing the house on Sunday at midnight, states that he noticed two men talking together in the front of the house where the murder was committed. The police are in possession of certain information in connection with a young man who was seen in the neighbourhood on Sunday night, and are now actively engaged in looking for him.

At the inquest which opened yesterday the body was identified as that of Lucy Nightingale, wife of a coal porter, but living apart from her husband. The police evidence described the finding of the body (which was tied up in a quilt) as the result of information given by a man named Bell, who was under the influence of drink at the time.

The case was adjourned.

GUARDING THE MINES.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Swan asked whether the men at Clipstone Camp, Notts, were standing by for use in emergency as strike breakers, also whether or not armoured cars and machine-guns are being held ready to proceed at a moment's notice for use against strikers in the event of disturbances.

Captain Guest replied that no troops are being held ready for use as strike breakers. It has never been the policy of the Government to use troops for such purposes, but he referred the Hon. member to the Premier's statement last week to the effect that the Government intend to take every means in their power to protect the mines.

L.C.C. AND ALIENS.

Captain Coumbe is to move, and Lieutenant-General Sir Francis Lloyd to second, a proposal at the next meeting of the London County Council, that it be referred to the General Purposes Committee to consider and report whether the standing orders and regulations for entry into the Council's service should not be amended so as to require that all candidates should be natural-born subjects of his Majesty, except in the case of lecturers or teachers of foreign languages; and in the case of any special post for which a foreigner may, for some reason, be considered most suitable, provided always that in respect of a vacancy for such a post, approval should be obtained from the Council before steps were taken to fill it.

CROP OF LIBEL ACTIONS.

Writs have been issued against the "Daily News" by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Mr. Walter Long, Sir Eric Geddes and Sir Auckland Geddes for alleged libels contained in statements relating to investments made by them in Russian securities.

ATLANTIC AVIATOR MARRIED.

Sir Arthur Brown, the navigator hero of the Atlantic flight, was married at the Chapel Royal yesterday to Miss Marguerite Kennedy.

Captain Cannel, of the Royal Fusiliers, acted as groomsman. There was a large congregation and a huge crowd assembled outside the church.

The Cabinet has decided to have Sir Edwin Lutyen's cenotaph made permanent. It will be executed in marble and will stand on its present site in Whitehall.

FOCH'S FREEDOM.

HONOURED BY THE KING AND LONDON CITY.

Marshal Foch returned to London on Tuesday to receive the Freedom of the City of London. Before the ceremony he was summoned to Buckingham Palace where the King conferred on him the honour of an appointment as Field Marshal of the British Army.

The drive through the streets to the Guildhall was witnessed by huge crowds of people who cheered with great enthusiasm. The ceremony was attended by a brilliant gathering including Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, Admiral Sir David Beatty, Admiral Wemyss and Mr. Winston Churchill.

Having signed the Roll of Freemen, the City Chamberlain in conferring the freedom said that our appreciation of Marshal Foch is founded on the knowledge of his work, which is without a parallel in military history.

Marshal Foch replied in French. He paid a tribute to the valour of the British soldier and the skilful leadership of British Generals and said the organisation of British arms had been marvellous. Industrial England had also played a great part in the struggle. He referred to the great battles on the Western Front at the beginning of March last year and alluded with pleasure to the fact that the British Army, half exhausted in withstanding the German offensive, was fully equipped and ready by August to join in the great sweep which brought the ultimate victory. The British Army continued to move forward until stopped by the armistice, and he was confident that, but for that, they would have crossed the Meuse and marched through Rhineland in the direction of Berlin, destroying the German Army as they advanced.

Another ovation awaited our new Field Marshal as he emerged from the Guildhall, and turning to the Lord Mayor he exclaimed "Mon Dieu! c'est magnifique."

LUTON RIOTS.

IRREPLACEABLE WAR RECORDS LOST.

Forty persons appeared before the Luton magistrates yesterday on various charges arising out of the rioting and assault at the peace night fracas.

The Town Clerk, who prosecuted, said that nobody regretted the loss of the Town Hall intrinsically because for a long time a new building had been desired. He thought, however, that the wishes for its removal were not so keen now it had transpired that the ratepayers will have to pay for a new one as the old hall was not insured.

All public records had been destroyed and the rioters had thereby deprived the town of almost the complete record of those who had served in the war, which record was irreplaceable.

He asked the magistrates to send all the prisoners for trial in order to learn the lesson that the civil power is greater than that of a crowd animated by rebellion of the worst type.

Wilfred Henry Ovenell, a master at Luton Modern School, was among the defendants. The police said that a complaint was received of the defendant throwing missiles at firemen and police.

When informed of this defendant denied the accuracy of the complaints but later he said: "I don't know whether I'm guilty or not. I'm all nerves through the war. There's a gap in my memory. I don't know exactly what happened that night."

The hearing was adjourned.

SPLENDID DUCAL EXAMPLE.

The Marquis of Londonderry has intimated to the widows of those soldiers and sailors employed at his collieries who fell in the war that he will continue to grant them the use of their house during their widowhood free of rent, rates and taxes.

Those widows who are not living in his house will continue to receive the same allowance and in both cases there will be a free allowance of coal.

STOLEN PAY DRAFTS.

Cecil Hall, the ex-army Pay Clerk, appeared at the Old Bailey yesterday, charged with stealing demobilization drafts and money orders from the Army Pay Office at Dover.

The evidence for the prosecution was similar to that given at the police court proceedings. Prisoner went into the witness box and said he had won a good deal of money at horse racing. The last payment into his bank account was £250, two days before his arrest. He denied all knowledge of the stolen drafts or that he had cashed any.

The case was adjourned.

MISSING SEAPLANE SAFE.

The missing British seaplane has arrived at Copenhagen. Owing to engine trouble it had been obliged to descend to the sea near Horten. The journey will be resumed later.

Sir Joseph Compton-Rickett, Paymaster General since 1916, died at Bournemouth yesterday morning after a short illness.

DOUGLAS PENNANT.

INQUIRY GRANTED BY HOUSE OF LORDS.

In the House of Lords the question of Miss Douglas Pennant's dismissal from the Women's Royal Air Force was raised by Earl Stanhope, who moved the appointment of a Select Committee of Inquiry.

Lord Weir, replying to Miss Pennant's champions, said he was convinced that he acted in the best interests of the service in terminating her connection with the W.R.A.F. The result of such termination was that Miss Pennant was transferred to another department without any reflection on her character, either implied or intended. His decision was in no way influenced by the pressure of any individual or group of individuals either inside or outside the Air Ministry and he had a profound disbelief in the existence of any conspiracy against Miss Pennant.

The Marquis of Dufferin, in opposing the motion, suggested that the case would not have attained such prominence if Miss Pennant had not had good friends.

Viscount Peel said that after Lord Weir's statement it would be incredible that anyone could believe he was actuated by any motive other than State necessity in taking the course he did.

On a division Earl Stanhope's motion was carried by 69 votes to 42.

SKELETON MYSTERY.

PROCEEDINGS AT POLICE COURT.

The woman named Maggie White was charged at Willesden on Tuesday in connection with the discovery of human remains at Pembroke Place, Kilburn. The charge was one of disposing of a dead body, contrary to the Burials Act. Only one witness was called, Detective Haigh, who gave evidence to the effect that the girl made a statement to the police on Sunday evening and said she wanted to tell the truth. When the charge was read over to her she said "All right." She was remanded until Monday next.

Inquest on Remains.

The inquest on the remains, supposed to be those of Connie Grant, was opened yesterday. The remains, consisting of an almost complete skeleton, were laid out on the mortuary table, together with some of the earth which covered them.

Maggie Grant, the stepsister, now under arrest, charged with being concerned in the disposal of the body, was not present. Inspectors Haigh and Coggins of Scotland Yard attended and the latter gave evidence of the finding of the remains, together with other articles such as buckles and bits of rags. The proceedings were adjourned for a week.

Woman Surrenders.

A woman answering to the description, and asserting she is Mrs. Grant gave herself up at Lewisham police station yesterday afternoon stating that she was wanted in connection with the Kilburn affair.

She was detained pending inquiries.

Late last night there was a further development, being the arrest of William Grant, father of the deceased girl. The two will be charged jointly with manslaughter, the police having established the identity of the woman.

VICTORY LOAN TOTAL.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain, in moving the third reading of the War Loan Bill, said that the total figures of the Victory Loan exceed the 708 millions stated by him on July 17th by about £59,800,000.

In considering the financial aspect, the following figures must be remembered: Since the beginning of the year there has been raised by National War Bonds 290 millions and by War Savings Certificates 47 millions, making a total for the year of over 800 millions.

The bill was read a third time.

BEDS-HERTS REGIMENT.

An Army Order notifies that the title "Bedfordshire" Regiment will in future be the "Bedfordshire-Hertfordshire" Regiment. The alteration is made in recognition of the attachment formed between the two owing to the enlistment of so many Hertfordshire men.

PARLIAMENT'S THANKS.

Mr. Bonar Law states that next week he will submit a motion that the thanks of Parliament be accorded to His Majesty's forces for their services during the war.

NEW SHIPPING.

Two million and a half tons of shipping are under construction in Great Britain and practically every yard is fully packed with orders. This statement was made by Captain Hooper at a meeting of the London General Shipowners Association yesterday.

Trusted agents of the American Department of Justice and other Government organisations are endeavouring to determine what lies behind the race riots which are occurring in the Northern States.

A SMART CORPORAL.

PRAISED FOR ARREST OF BOGUS OFFICER.

Allen Oswald Glynn, a youth aged nineteen, was charged at Misley (Essex) with wearing, at Clacton on Sea, officer's uniform without authority. Corporal Fletcher, of the Canadian Army Pay Corps, said he passed the defendant, who was wearing uniform and decorations. Defendant called him back, saying "Here, Corporal, don't you know an officer when you see one?" Witness then noticed that the D.C.M. ribbon was in the wrong place and that there were no badges on the lapels of defendant's tunic. He therefore said "If you are an officer show your papers to prove it. I'll show mine." Defendant then replied that he was the A.P.M. of the district, to which witness replied "You're a liar!"

With the assistance of a postman he took defendant to the police station. "He tried to make me look small," added the witness, "so I turned the tables on him in the interests of the lads in khaki. A regular officer when at the seaside would not expect a salute. These imposters are the cause of a lot of trouble."

In remanding the defendant the magistrates commended the corporal on his conduct.

BABY FARMING.

FLAGRANT CASE IN EAST LONDON.

Remarkable discoveries were made on Tuesday at Wanstead and the police are pursuing their investigations at a house in Carlton road, Leystonstone, where a baby farm is alleged to have been carried on.

A detective found nine children in an emaciated condition, while a baby boy lay dead in a perambulator in a back room. A woman and her husband were detained.

The police also dug up the garden and found a number of bones which are now being subjected to a pathological examination.

In connection with the case Henry Hatchard and his wife were remanded at Stratford police court yesterday, charged with being concerned in the manslaughter of an infant named Perry by withholding food from it.

INDEMNITY FORFEIT.

In the House of Commons Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that 320 millions of roubles were paid by Russian Bolshevists to Germany under the terms of the Brest-Litowsk treaty. This amount in gold was subsequently deposited with the Bank of France on account of the Allies. It is incorrect to say, said Mr. Harmsworth, that Admiral Koltchak's Government has been formally recognised by the allies and that a certain amount of this money would be placed at the disposal of Koltchak and Deniken to enable them to purchase supplies.

DOPE DISCREDITED.

At Kingston Police Court yesterday, Henry Butler, a commission agent of Leyton, was charged on remand with stealing £180 by means of the three card trick from Horace Hunwick while travelling in a railway carriage between Cambridge and Liverpool-street station. He was further charged with stealing £100 from Hunswick's person.

Detective-Sergt. Long, of the Great Eastern Railway Police, said that when prosecutor reported the occurrence he said nothing about a doped cigarette. Prisoner's counsel submitted that there was no case for the jury and described the whole story as an invention.

The bench held that there was no evidence against the prisoner, who was accordingly discharged.

AMERICAN LOAN TO GERMANY.

The Matin, Paris, publishes a cable from New York stating that according to a Berlin message a group of American financiers has offered to advance credit to the extent of one hundred million dollars through the mediation of New York representatives of the Deutsche Bank for the purchase of foodstuffs and raw materials.

SALVAGE AT SCAPA.

In the House of Commons yesterday Viscount Curzon asked the First Lord of the Admiralty to make a statement of the progress made in the salving of the German fleet at Scapa.

Mr. Long said that one battleship, three light cruisers and fifteen destroyers had been salved and operations on three more destroyers were proceeding.

AMERICAN SUBMARINE LOST.

A telegram from New London states that the American submarine G 2 has foundered. Two members of the crew of twelve were drowned. The rest escaped and were picked up by a revenue cutter.

Two motor-boats which left Stockholm on July 20th with provisions for Riga have not arrived. Nothing has been heard of them and it is feared they struck mines and were destroyed.

On Bank Holiday, Monday the 4th August, the offices of Messrs. Cox & Co. (France) Limited will be CLOSED.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

The essential thing about the British Army of to-day is that it is a citizen Army. The "man in khaki" is the "man in the street."

The soldier to-day is not something "sui generis," whose whole life and outlook is different from the man at home. He may not be in "civics" but he is still a citizen.

Still the idea is fairly widespread that the soldier has temporarily ceased to be a citizen. Now this abandonment of civic ideals is most unreasonable; of course, it is easy to find excuses for this attitude.

Soldiers pay no rents for the dwelling places they occupy; they need never worry about food; and their pay is not earned after the fashion of the coal-miner.

In fact, as these are the very things which the average citizen has to give most thoughts, it is not to be wondered at that many have forgotten their citizenship.

But we should never forget that it was the greatness of our citizenship which spurred the men of the empire to defend it against the menace of a citizenship which crushed the individual and which was a spiritual slavery. St. Paul was never tired of telling all sorts of people that he was a "citizen of no mean city." It was his pride to be known as a citizen of the Great Roman Empire. So we in the Army of to-day should remember that it is to preserve this precious heritage, that we are to-day in the Rhinelands of Germany.

We are soldiers because we are first of all citizens. And to forget, or to argue that we can no longer be citizens is to lose sight of the very ideal for which we have striven so mightily.

It is significant and most wise as well that the teaching of civics plays so important a part in our educational training scheme in the Army. The younger soldiers especially need to learn what the duties and privileges of citizenship are, what their relation to the State is.

Unfortunately our schools in Britain do not teach such things; but to-day when the world stands at a cross-road and when many are doing "that which is right in their own eyes," it is time to realise quickly what the foundations of our civilization are, and to strengthen them. Co-operation, a civic consciousness, "each for all and all for each," only thus can we win through.

The times are full of instruction and warning for us, who are still soldiers. When Britain is being injured, so are we. Our citizenship binds us to the Motherland, as securely as the ties of home. We must prepare for the day when we shall be civilians as well as citizens.

Meanwhile here on the Rhine we are really a British Colony of British Citizens who are showing a defeated enemy the ideals which inspired us in the war and which are still untarnished.

SCHERPENBERG—1918.

Wytschaete Ridge has gone and Kemmel Hill and the Salient are no longer safe for man or beast.

But the enemy is cramped, he lacks elbow room, he wants the line of hills running west from Kemmel which hems him in—Scherpenberg, Mt. Rouge and Mt. Noir. Once over those and the coast is in jeopardy. If we are to hold him at all, it must be here.

He has brought up his crack storm troops, all trained in mountain warfare, and has massed his artillery. He may attack at any moment.

On our side of the ridge we have not been idle. Foch's reserves, all tried soldiers, most of them heroes of Verdun, hold the line. They have taken the enemy's measure years ago. "Ils ne passeront pas"—that's the watchword again.

Every hedge hides a battery, guns almost wheel to wheel. And yet to one standing on the road that runs along the foot of these hills the slopes present a most peaceful scene.

Gardens, fields, and orchards all in the glory of spring; houses covered with vines, and bright sunshine over all. No sign of a hidden army, no suggestion of the coming desperate struggle.

For the last three days and all day long to-day the valley has echoed with the noise of war, but the great assault for which we wait has not yet come.

Prisoners told us this morning that the enemy would attack at mid-day, but it is evening now and still we wait; the interminable artillery duel still going on, the fire steady like the low growling of dogs before they spring.

Suddenly at seven o'clock, over the ridge a loud whining and moaning and down comes a storm of shells. We are alert at once, our eyes on the tops of the hills. There it goes, a red rocket, and another and another, all along the ridge. That is the signal; the enemy is attacking.

And now one sees the soul of France laid bare. From the crest, from the slopes, from the valley, a furious and sustained cannonade like the noise of thunder; a hillside of belching flame and smoke. The challenge has been accepted. The 75's make a magnificent display, a triumphant and a deadly drum-fire.

Not till darkness has completely fallen does the violence of our bombardment s acken, but the enemy has been silent some time.

Right up in the front along the top the 75's still twinkle; he has not gained the hills. The tension is relieved, truly they shall not pass this way.

By mid-night all is quiet and we spread our blankets by the guns in the gun-pits.

OWEN OLIVER.

MY BATMAN, PADDY.

Of all the batmen who have honoured me with their services I think none can equal a dear fellow from the back country of Ulster.

He looked on me as a child and was as careful of me as an old hen looking after a chick. On receiving a call to go into the front trenches night or day, he would say, "Just wait a minute Sorr and I'll ll be wid you", and up he would come, going first and pointing out all the bad places, telling me to stoop here, run there, drop, or crawl each time, although he had done so scores of times before.

He saw to it that I changed my wet garments. He washed, cleaned and brushed and took the greatest pride that my belt outshone every other belt in the Battalion.

I never wanted for anything. Others might sleep on the floor: I had a bed of wire netting. My kit, like most kits, increased in weight, but I never saw it transported. Yet it "got there", and never a complaint from the T.O.

Did I forget tea for instance? "Sorr the tay's just afther being wetted. Did I by chance happen to go to a neighbouring village and the Divisional Chaplain come along what a plausible tale he did tell to be sure.

Had he any failings? Well the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne was observed by him, and by myself, when I noticed a diminution in certain medical "necessities" and in wine I kept for Church use.

"Was it the Port, Sorr, that you was missing? It must have been all used on Sunday"! "No Sorr. I'm a teetotaller Sorr. Perhaps I did have a drop, Sorr, but drunk! No Sorr, I had the drink taken. I was not drunk."

"Paddy" could never be caught napping, and the hardest hearted man must forgive him. He served me well and long, and we were only separated by Red Tape. May we meet again. He was a good friend.

LANGUAGE LAPSES.

SOME STRANGE MISTAKES.

From time to time we hear amusing mistakes made by foreigners in their efforts to speak English. And no doubt we ourselves use words which sound quite as comical to the ears of a Frenchman or a German, when we try to talk in their languages. But in the latter case, owing to our more or less imperfect knowledge of the language, it is usually somewhat difficult for us to understand where the laugh comes in.

During the war, a Belgian refugee entered a baker's shop in London and, pointing to a loaf, asked for "One bread, pleases!" It was with much difficulty that an English friend afterwards made the Belgian understand what is meant by "a loaf."

The writer once called at the house of a young Frenchman with a letter of introduction from a mutual friend. The young man was not at home. However, his father tried to describe him so that I might recognise him if we met later. "My son is tall," said the old gentleman, "very tall. He is more than two yards high!"

The sound represented by th (as in "Thin") ofttimes proves a pitfall to foreigners. Trying to explain that she had just had a brain wave, a fräulein remarked, "I have just had a tink!" And it was very likely a younger sister of hers who rendered the last line of a poem well-known to British children as "What will the robin do then, poor ting!"

As we shall see presently it is not always the foreigner who is guilty of such mistakes. The Boulogne-Cologne Express was passing through a station in Belgium, when some one inquired "What place is this?" A young British officer looked out of the window for a moment and then quite seriously replied, "sortie!"

Some years ago there was a picture in "Punch" depicting the interior of a Parisian restaurant. An Englishman, in ordering his dinner, ended with the remark "Hâtez-vous, car j'ai une faim énorme." "Oui, monsieur," replied the waitress, "mais votre femme, ce n'est pas man affaire!"

A more recent drawing in "Punch" shows a British officer trying to explain something or other to a Chinese labourer. "Parlez-vous Francais?" asks the officer. "No!" replies the Chink. "Do you speak English then?" "Oui!"

A fellow Asiatic is the "hero" of the last story. During the Somme offensive in 1916, a Hindu mule-driver, who was proud of his ability to speak English, was riding some little way behind the front line. A shell burst quite near. The animal reared and threw his rider about five yards. Picking himself up, the Hindu took a running kick at the offending animal at the same time exclaiming "You damn liar!!"

TEACHING BY MAIL.

Tuition by correspondence has become such a world-wide institution that it is surprising to know that the first venture of this kind took place only a matter of thirty years ago. That was in Cambridge, where it was begun chiefly for coaching in classics and it is still in existence to-day.

However, though the idea originated in England, it was America that took it, put and developed it along the special lines that it occupies to-day. This curiously enough was the result of an accident.

Over twenty-five years ago there circulated in Pennsylvania a daily newspaper very popular with the mining community and edited by Mr. T. Foster. Owing to an accident that occurred in one of the mines, resulting in the death of a close friend of the editor, the latter commenced a series of articles on the principles and practice of mine ventilation and the prevention of accidents due to explosions.

These were so much appreciated by his readers that the staff of the paper could not cope with the correspondence and the demands of the miners for "more" at once suggested that he might carry on a bureau unconnected with the news office. Along with mining experts from England he compiled a course dealing with "safety in mining" the important feature of which being that it was in language that could be understood by the miner of little education — without technical phrasing, mine ventilation was explained from the chemistry standpoint down to the practical carrying out of the theories.

To-day from so small a beginning that school has grown to be the largest of its kind in the world, embracing numerous subjects translated into all the important languages and enrolling millions of students of every nationality and colour.

Possibly the chief objection to this system of education is hinted at in this much circulated "gag."

A. S. C. Sergeant: "Know anything about driving?"

Private: "Yes, I've had correspondence lessons."

Sergeant: "Good, here's a pair of mules to look after."

This idea that the tuition cannot be practical enough is a reasonable enough objection but the promoters of the schools do not suggest that mere reading will make a man a practical farmer or engineer.

What they do say is, that they can lead an ambitous student along the correct lines so that he can understand thoroughly the subject he is studying, and that he will not get into a groove of "rule-of thumb" but will take an intelligent interest in his work and always know exactly "Why."

Here are one or two points worthy of consideration: —

It matters not where a student lives he can always be under the attention of first-rate teachers.

Secondly, he can arrange his times of study how and when he pleases.

The third point may at first seem a tiresome disadvantage. All questions and answers are written. But this will be found to lead to exactness and will undoubtedly fix lessons in the students mind that oral tuition could not hope to.

Fourthly, the teaching is practically individual.

And lastly, when the course is finished, the student has an exhaustive record of his work which he can refer to at any time.

These claims have been fulfilled by courses which the writer has undertaken and he feels that the correspondence system will eventually take an important place in the educational question which at present is attracting so much attention at home. Adult education bristles with difficulties and in postal tuition lies an admirable solution.

HANSA.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

WIVES ON THE RHINE.

Sir,—As officers and men on the Rhine are to be allowed to have their wives to visit them, I think it would be a great help to many, like myself, if information could be supplied officially as to the probable cost of fares and apartments, the route to travel, and times of boat and train connections, also what arrangements have been made with regard to food.

L. O. L.

AMUSEMENTS IN BONN.

Sir,—I do not know the exact number of troops in and around Bonn, but the amusements provided at present do not seem adequate for them.

There are three cinemas and the "Pedlars" Concert Party — all packed at every show, and after these the German pictures, the Operetten Theatre (which few can understand) and the cafés.

Now that the Cologne Leave Club dances start later, Bonn troops cannot get back to their billet before 23. 30. Is there no chance of arranging dances in Bonn?

EMPIRE.

CALVARIES AS MEMORIALS.

Sir,—Reference L.T.M.'s suggestion that Calvaries should be put up throughout the English countryside to the memory of the lads who have fallen, may I draw the attention of readers to the series of stations which dot the hill running from Weilerswist in the direction of Brühl.

Here is to be seen a number of Calvaries at given points and those turn away to the right where at a higher level is a larger shrine.

One shows Christ borne down by the weight of the cross. I have often looked at these figures and been impressed by the message they convey.

No one could fail to be reminded by these wayside memorials of the great sacrifice made by the gallant lads whose bones are rotting in foreign soil. That I take it is the idea of war memorials.

W.T.

RECOGNITION FOR INTERPRETERS.

Sir,—Quite a number of N.C.O's and men have taken up a voluntary German course and made such progress as to be of great service to their units, by acting as interpreters, where business transactions with civilians are unavoidable, but these voluntary, German interpreters receive neither pay nor distinction for their efforts.

An infantryman, attaining a first class shot certificate, is given the honour of wearing the cross guns. Is there any reason why a voluntary interpreter should not wear some mark or band to denote his capabilities?

ACTING INTERPRETER.

CAFE PIRACY.

Sir,—I crave the hospitality of your columns in order to warn your readers not to pay taxes on wine in cafés, cabarets, and restaurants. I notice that it is a growing custom with waiters to forget to deduct the tax, which I believe amounts to about 2/- per bottle, when charging for wine. Whether it appears on the wine list or not, proprietors have no right to charge soldiers, although, probably, it finds its way into the waiter's pocket.

SAPPER.

FAVOURED AND UNFAVOURED.

Sir,—"Hawkeye's" letter requires qualifying. What he says is true, of course. I am not a dancing man, but often I am an appreciative observer from the gallery. And while noticing that certain ladies are selfish in this respect, I have also noticed that others are quite impartial.

ONLOOKER.

Sir,—I write in defence of those girls, who like myself, go to the dances in Cologne with a partner and dance with him almost exclusively all through the evening.

It is done at all the best dances nowaday in London, and for a very good reason. You cannot enjoy the modern styles of dancing unless you have a partner who knows all the new steps that you are accustomed to yourself.

It is quite different from the old days of waltz and polka, when there was only one way to execute them. New dances change so often that neither you nor your partner has a good time if unable to harmonize.

I hope I have been able to make this clear to "Hawkeye."

MIRIAM.

SUSTAINING INTEREST.

Sir:— The plethora of military athletic sports meetings that are at present engaging the attention of the Rhine Army cause one to wonder why the organisers do not endeavour to strike a note of originality in the preparation of their programmes.

It is true that several new competitive events have been introduced into some meetings, but this is not sufficient to maintain the interest of spectators for a whole afternoon.

The "Hallamshires" on Saturday made a refrshing effort to brighten up their proceedings at Blücher Park by including side shows and plenty of laughter-makers, but the idea is capable of great extension.

When will a unit give us something new that will grip the spectators in interest from the start and—more important still—maintain its hold until the end?

H.J.B.

NOTHING IS LOST.

Nothing is lost; the dewdrop from the flower
Turned by the sun to vapour, zephyr-tossed,
Descends elsewhere in some God-given shower
Nothing is lost.

Nothing is lost; your cheering word, forgotten,
To one whose path you for a moment crossed
Lightened the skies and meant new hopes begotten
Nothing is lost.

Nothing is lost, each pulse of true endeavour
Goes beating on and outward; and its cost,
The universe repays, unseen, for ever
Nothing is lost.

SPORTS AND HORSE SHOW.

3rd (Western) Brigade Meeting at Munstereifel.

The above Brigade held an athletic Sports and Horse Show on Friday and Saturday at Münstereifel. The whole affair was most ably organized, but the outstanding features were the entertainments, sideshows and amusements produced by 2/Lieut. F. Bromham. "Kicking the football," the inevitable Tom Thumb, and a representative of "Mr. Pussyfoot" vied with each other as to who should turn the largest amount of marks into the Brigade coffers, but the joint oratory of Lieut. Bromham and Duckett gave Tom Thumb first place. Hilarity dominated the whole meeting to which several German round-a-bouts, houp-las, etc. contributed no small quota.

The Committee comprised;—President Brig.-General F. G. M. Rowley, C. B., C.M.G., D.S.O., (Commanding 3rd Brigade); Secretary: Capt. K. F. D. Gattie, D. S. O., M.C.; Members: Lieut.-Col. L.J.G. Morgan-Owen, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Lieut.-Col. M.C. Corfe, D.S.O.; Major J. A. Fraser, D.S.O., D.C.M.; Major J. D. Kerr, M.C.; Capt. F. L. Davis, M. C.; Lieut. J. A. Morris, M.C.; Lieut. F. Bromham, M. C.

The Officials were:—Athletic Sports:—Judges:—Lieut.-Col. D. J. K. B. Bernard, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Lieut.-Col. C. E. P. Sankey, D. S. O.; Major T. H. Williams; Major L. K. V. Brown; Capt. B. M. Tatham; Capt. J. Esmond, M. C.; Capt. W. J. Bradley, M. C.; Lieut. J. A. Morris, M. C.

Starters:—Lieuts. W. M. Mason; C. V. Judge; L. Chandler; A. R. P. Cannon. Marshal:—Capt. F. Garter, D. C. M. Clerk of the Course:—R. S. M. Bridges, D. C. M., M. M.

Horse Show:—Judges—Lieut.-Col. C. L. Hawes, D.S.O., M.C.; Lieut.-Col. F. R. Burnside, D.S.O.; Lieut.-Col. L. J. G. Morgan-Owen, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Major R. A. Gooderidge, O. B. E.; Major C. A. Heydemann, M. C.; Capt. L. M. G. Dent, D.S.O. Starters:—Lieut.-Col. L. J. G. Morgan-Owen, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Major J. H. Fraser, D.S.O., D.C.M. Ringmaster:—2/Lieut. W. T. Jones. Assistant Ringmaster:—R. Surface wind light, between west and south-west, increasing. Fine at first, with morning mist, but becoming unsettled again later. Warmer. Good visibility.

TO-DAY'S CIRCUS.

Enormous Bookings for 1st American Division Show.

The first performance of the 1st American Division Circus will take place this afternoon on the football ground, Amsterdamer Strasse, Cologne. At the side show, which appears from the announcements alone to be well worth a visit, there is Hercules Goliath Sampson, an individual who is described as being capable of lifting heavy-weights like a derrick, Presto Change, conjurer, The Marvellous Twins, Oriental Dancing Girls, Glass Eater, the Human Spider, and numerous other attractions.

Then follows the "Big Show" for which the programme contains twenty items. Among them there are wire walkers, bicycling bears, jugglers, stumblers, monkey drillers, trapeze artistes, contortionists, rough riders, chariot races etc. At the conclusion of this show there will be a concert to which the Old Plantation Minstrels and the Honolulu trio will contribute.

It is interesting to note that the entire circus is made up of officers, men, animals, and equipment from the 1st Division, U.S.A. In view of the heavy bookings, seating accommodation has now been provided for 7,000.

FOOTBALL AGAIN.

53rd Royal Sussex Officers v Other Ranks.

The game opened at Lind on Saturday, with the playing fairly fast. 2/Lieut. Cockerill scored for the Officers during the first half. Ten minutes after the interval, Pte. Blagrove equalized for the other ranks. Shortly afterwards, 2/Lieut Green retaliated for the Officers and 2/Lieut. Cockerill added another goal. Pte. Richardson and 2/Lieut. Green again scored and Lieut. Walsh brought the total to 5 towards the close of the match. Result:—Officers 5 goals: Other Ranks 2.

BECKETT-CARPENTIER.

Match At Olympia Doubtful On Sept. 2nd.

POSTPONEMENT ASKED FOR.

According to latest intelligence from London, it is extremely doubtful whether the Beckett-Carpentier boxing contest will take place on September 2nd.

The Frenchman has asked Mr. Cochran for a postponement of three weeks in consequence of his being recalled to military duties at Joinville le Pont where he is a physical instructor. He will not be demobilized till late in August, which does not give him sufficient training time for what he regards as the hardest fight of his career.

Mr. Cochran, being unable to secure the Olympia for another suitable date, has left for Paris and hopes to persuade Carpentier to adhere to the original date.

CARPENTIER'S DEPUTY.

Fulton Prepared To Meet Beckett At Olympia.

Fulton, the American heavy-weight boxer, who stands 6ft. 5in. and weighs nearly 16st., has arrived in London and has deposited a cheque for £200, part of a stake of £500 for a match with Beckett, the English heavy-weight champion.

The American is prepared to take the place of Carpentier at Olympia on September 2 if the French champion's military duties prevent him from meeting Beckett on that date.

Fulton has a long list of contests, with quite an impressive series of knock-outs in his favour.

He has, however, been beaten by Dempsey, the world's champion.

AMERICAN BOXING.

Fox beat Johnny Kilbane on points in a six-rounds contest at Philadelphia.

At Jersey City on Monday, Kid Lewis was beaten by Jack Britton for the welter-weight championship.

"JOCKS'" SPORTS WEEK.

11th Royal Scots Continue Their Events.

LEWIS GUN COMPETITION.

The second day of the 11th Royal Scots' sports week was even more successful than the first. The morning opened with the Lewis Gun competition. There was a run of a hundred yards to the firing point, where the gun had to be loaded. The targets consisted of bottles, and the winners were judged on the knock out. "A" Company team were the winners. In the afternoon "C" Company won a rifle competition.

The item of the day took place in the evening, when "A" Company met "C" Company in the final of the football competition. The game opened with a rush by "A" Coy. which proved effective. It was a hot contest, there being no scoring until near the end of the first half, when a very fine goal was secured from a corner by "A" Coy.

In the second half, "C" Coy. mercilessly besieged "A's" goal mouth, but, owing to the magnificent defence displayed by their opponents, were unable to score until near the end. Twice "A" Coy. broke away, and scored on each occasion. The whistle blew with "A" Coy. 3 and "C" Coy. 1.

"GOLFING WEEK".

Competitions For Officers And O.Rs On Cologne Links.

A "Golfing Week" will be held on the Cologne Golf Links during the week commencing August 18th, when the following events will take place: —

1, Open Singles: — Championship of British Army of the Rhine. Open to any officer in the British Army of the Rhine. If more than 16 names are received there will be a preliminary stroke competition over 36 holes to qualify for the best 16 to take part in match play over 18 holes with a final of 36 holes.

2, Handicap Singles: — Open to any officer in the British Army of the Rhine who has obtained a handicap at the Cologne Golf Club previous to Aug. 18th. (A handicap can be obtained either by submitting a handicap at a recognised Golf Club or by putting in 3 cards). If necessary, a preliminary Bogey competition will be held over 18 holes to qualify for the best 32 to take part in match play over 18 holes.

3, Handicap Doubles: — Open to any pair of officers of the British Army of the Rhine who have a handicap at the Cologne Golf Club on Aug. 18th. A knock-out competition over 18 holes.

4, Handicap Mixed Doubles:—A knock-out competition over 18 holes, open to any officer and British lady in the British Area of Occupation. Any lady taking part will play under a handicap of 18 unless she has a handicap of less than 18 at any recognised Golf Club.

5, Open Singles—N. C. Os and Men: — Open to any N.C.O. or man of the British Army of the Rhine. If necessary a preliminary stroke competition over 36 holes will be held to qualify for the best 16 to take part in match play over 18 holes and a final of 36 holes.

OPTIONAL SWEEPSTAKE.

There will be an optional sweepstake on each event. Entries for any of above events must be made by the evening of August 12th either at the Golf club in the Book kept by the House Steward or to the Hon. Sec., Cologne Golf Club, co G. S. Intelligence, G.H.Q,

There will be an entrance fee of 20 marks for each of the first four events to be paid at the time of entry. Prizes will be given by the Golf Club.

In order to get through all the events in the time available, play will commence each day at 1000 hrs. and starting times will be given to all players. The draws and times of starting for players in each event will be published as soon after Aug. 12th as possible. Partners will be drawn for all competitions including qualifying rounds.

Arrangements will be made to billet officers from out stations in Cologne for the week provided any officer who wishes to do so will notify the Hon. Sec. at the time of entry. Lunch and tea will be available each day at the Golf Club. The members of the Golf Club will be at home on Sat. afternoon 23rd Aug. for the presentation of prizes.

FINE FRESH WATER CATCH.

Fishing from the bank of the Sülz, Cpl. Hennington, "D" Coy. 17 Royal Fus., an amateur angler, caught a "pike" weighing 6 lb and 18 inches in length. He had great difficulty in landing the fish, but in the end succeeded.

FOUR WEEKS TO GO.

"C.P.C." Competition Reaching Its Culminating Stage.

Within the space of another four weeks all the teams in the leagues of "The Cologne Post" Cup Competition will have to complete their fixtures. Many outstanding matches remain still unplayed, and secretaries must expedite matters as time is obviously limited. Until the league positions are decided, the competition cannot reach its culminating stage.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

French Dancers.

There will be a special attraction on Friday at the British Empire Leave Club, when two French dancers from the Opera are coming to give a series of Classical Dances. The music will be played by the Leave Club Ladies Orchestra. Songs will be sung by Miss Ada Moore and during the interval a sword dance will be given with pipers from the 4th Bn. Gordon Highlanders.

In Fancy Dress.

To Lieut.-Col. W. F. Roe, D.S.O., the matron, officers, and sisters of No. 37 C.C.S., is due the credit for having organised one of the most popular private dances that has been held in Cologne under the auspices of the Rhine Army. The happy event took place on Wednesday at the Bürgergesellschaft when a large number danced a varied programme in a brilliantly decorated hall. Fancy dress was optional, but the great majority of the revellers took advantage of the opportunity to be free from uniform for a few merry hours, at all events. The result produced a spectacle picturesque and animated.

"The Robin Hoods."

This talented party played with success at the Casino, Euskirchen, last week. Every member worked hard, but none infused gaiety and vitality into his performance like Bert Lennard, who got through a vast amount of work. He possesses a distinct style and a personality which makes itself felt all the time he is on the stage. His burlesque work in "skirts" is splendid, and if ever he feels inclined to take up dame speciality work. I predict a big future for him. So clever and versatile an artiste is indeed invaluable to any show.

Some New Artistes.

There have been changes in the personnel since I saw the party last, Fred Knucky is a new comedian of great promise, while Jas Savile (tenor) and Bob Doramett sing very pleasingly, while Jack Walker, despite the fact that he was suffering from a cold last week, also sang well. Victor Burr (Cynthia) still remains as charming as ever, although a little more freedom of movement and expression, especially in the sketch, would help his performance considerably. Ernest Anderson, pianist, completes the party.

New Visitors To Cologne.

"The Wasps" Concert Party, 83rd Brigade, R. G. A. made their first appearance in Cologne on Wednesday evening, in the Central Y.M.C.A. The show was full of animation from beginning to end. The programme included humorous selections by Vic Jaxon, late of "Sons of Guns" concert party. He joins Bert Evans, the lady, in a burlesque drama, and also several talking and singing numbers, accompanied on the piano by Bert Evans. James Garlick, the baritone, has a voice of rare purity. Other members of the party are Hal Treherne, ventriloquist, Teddy Wheeler, mimic; Harry Mountford, chorus comedian; Vic Jaxon, violinist; Jack Stapleton, mandolinist; and Bert Evans, pianist. Sam Tweedy is an efficient accompanist "The Wasps" should go far.

In Few Words.

"The Robin Hoods" are, I hear, to visit Düren, Bonn, and Cologne in the near future.

The Q-Vics (the 9th London concert party) are on tour and also expect to visit Cologne shortly.

JACQUES.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Shirley Kellogg's "Gee-gees."

Pat Hartigan, the Ogbourne trainer, is taking charge of Miss Shirley Kellogg's horses.

Motor-Cycle Prices.

A 3½-h.p. Rudge Multi Roadster now costs £90, a 3½-h.p. Rudge Multi T.T. Roadster £90, and a 5/6 h.p. Rudge Multi £98 10s., while a Rudge side-car can be purchased for £33 10s.

A Resolution.

The Central Association of London Angling Clubs has passed a resolution against the proposal to convert the Thames into a fishery district, and impose a charge for angling in the river.

Bonnie Mary.

Bonnie Mary, the best of this season's fillies in America, is descended from Disguise II., the Jockey Club Stakes winner over here in 1900. An American paper states that the race was worth 50,000 guineas.

Famous Athlete.

E. C. Carter, at one time a famous athlete in this country, has died in New York. After winning the Nation and Southern cross-country championships he went to America, but returned in 1887 to secure the four and ten mile championships. His times for a mile to ten miles stood as records for many years in the States.

42 lbs. Pike.

A pike which weighed 42 lbs. before it was stuffed has been presented to Harrow School by Mr. C. C. Makins, an Old Harrovian.

Hope for Bath.

P. P. Hope, the dashing young Somerset cricketer, will captain the Bath Rugby XV. next season. He is an old Sherborne boy, and a speedy and brilliant centre three-quarter.

Big Price.

Hull City have paid a big price to Northampton for the transfer of R. Hughes the outside right. Hughes assisted Hull City during the past two seasons while engaged at Hull on shipbuilding.

School Batsman of the Year.

Interest in the series of school matches at Lord's this week centred in the doings of L.P. Hedges, the Tonbridge captain—by general consent the Public School batsman of the year.

The Disappearing Trick.

Two men entered Tattersall's ring at Hurst Park on Friday and proceeded to take bets, including one for £15 to £10 on Mustapha by George Davis, and another of £21 to £12 on the same horse by Frank Tye. The horse won, but the "bookies" had disappeared at paying-out time.

Bird's Nest.

The objection to Bird's Nest for his race at Pontefract on the ground that Mr. I. Moos Vernon was not the real name of his owner, has been withdrawn.

Professional Sculling.

It appears probable that we shall have a professional sculling championship race this year. Ernest Barry appears to be "spoiling for a fight," and there is at least one possible opponent available.

An Ancient fixture.

One of the oldest annual cricket matches played in London, is that between the King's Scholars and the Town Boys of Westminster School, which has had an uninterrupted run for over a century.

International Forward.

It is stated the Rutherford, the well-known international forward, who is away on holidays, has not yet signed for the Arsenal. The club, however, invite his signature, and it is expected that Rutherford will rejoin.

Morning and Evening.

This week, Major the Hon. Harold Pearson is holding his annual polo tournament at Cowdray Park, Midhurst, Sussex. Goodwood week is always the date chosen for this competition, play taking place in the mornings and evenings before and after racing.

The Goodwood Plate.

Nowhere are long-distance races prettier to watch than at Goodwood, and one is pleased to notice that the Plate distance is this year extended to 2 miles 3 furlongs.

Winning Owners.

Lord Glanely, who heads the list of winning owners, has just over £20,000 to his credit in stakes. Sir E. Hulton is second with £8,209. Taylor heads the trainers with £21,411.

Up North.

Stanley Doust and O'Hara Wood are having a successful time in their peregrinations up North. They will have a big "bag" of trophies to show as a result of their prowess at Warwick, Notts, and other Tournaments.

Bat Baboon.

A twenty-mile cross-country race took place for the Hendon Trophy, and the London Aerodrome prize of £20. Five pilots took part in the race. Mr. Draper, flying a "Bat Baboon" machine, who received 37 seconds start, was first.

Crystal Palace F.C.

The Crystal Palace F.C. has signed on Granger, who comes from Aston Villa, and Allcock, from Walsall. Both players are full backs. The signature of J. Connor, of Sunderland and Belfast Distillery, has also been obtained. The new man is a centre forward.

THE

OF CUTS, WOUNDS & SORES

EVERY SOLDIER NEEDS ZAM-BUK

One of the most remarkable features of The Great War has been the part played by Zam-Buk in healing wounds and sores and stopping the spread of blood-poison and infectious skin diseases. It is on record that thousands of our troops were kept on their feet and rescued from serious skin troubles by this splendid first-aid preparation.

The good work Zam-Buk did both before and during the War is being daily repeated amongst our Armies of Occupation.

Zam-Buk owes its splendid and unvarying success to the fact that it is a rare substance of herbal origin, and is entirely free from the poisonous mineral drugs and rancid animal fats contained in ordinary ointment.

In addition, Zam-Buk possesses great refinement, so that when it is rubbed on the diseased or injured skin the soothing and healing essences enter the pores and purify and regenerate the entire tissue. Whether for burning eczema, ugly ulcers, or poisoned sores, or whether for the purpose of hastening the safe healing of a cut, bruise, or burn, Zam-Buk is without equal. It is the simplest and most efficient First-aid on the playing field, in the gym, and when out on manoeuvres.

Zam-Buk

The perfection of this ideal healing preparation was only attained after costly research and exhaustive experiments on new lines. Zam-Buk is the most universally used healing balm of to-day. It is perfectly safe, absolutely reliable, and unfailing in its soothing and healing effect.

You can obtain Zam-Buk at the Chemists, or from the Canteen. Should you, however, be temporarily unable to purchase this popular herbal healer, ask the folks at home to send you out a box, or send direct to the Zam-Buk Laboratories, Leeds.

PHOTOGRAPHY.

(XVI).

By Lieut. William R. Patterson F.R.G.S.

In my last article, I gave our readers the names of two places in the immediate neighbourhood of Cologne which offer practice in both time and instantaneous photography. These were (1) the Flora, whose delightful alleys, avenues, statues and lawns make exceedingly charming pictures worthy of enlargement; and (2) the Zoological Gardens, affording much scope for animal studies. Now, a little farther afield, though at no great distance, we have the Königsforst and also the Stadtwald, both of which will not fail to please the lover of landscape.

* * *

Those amateurs who intend to exhibit in the October Arts and Crafts Exhibition may discover pretty scenes in both these wooded spots. All the trees are now in full leaf; all the undergrowth at its best. In both places there are little nooks and crannies, trees above and water below. There are old fashioned farm houses, wonderfully quaint. There are rills and streams and copses and far-reaching corn-fields all over the place. And there are picturesque old farmers plodding along with their waggons, whip in hand, who, for a small gift, will be only too pleased to pose; some of these waggons are drawn by hefty, two horned bullocks, others by huge horses resembling our "shires." In taking such pictures as these, do not face the team, or you will find in your photograph huge heads out of all proportion to the body; rather secure your photograph from the side and, if possible, with your back or side to the sun.

It is a wise plan also in such cases, to study the questions, not only of light and shade, but also of background. Endeavour to secure the effect of light against dark or of dark against light.

Take your position in such a manner as to obtain the best possible light upon your object, so that the least possible direct light from the sun or brilliant sky may strike the lens. I have seen many negatives lately which were unclear owing to negligence in this matter.

Prices in Rhineland having been standardised, there will henceforth be no necessity for me to reply to many of the letters I have received. In future the majority of correspondence will be answered in "The Cologne Post" as distinct articles.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN COLOGNE

To the Editor, "The Cologne Post."

Sir,—I should like to criticise an opinion expressed in the "Cologne Post" on the subject of amateur photography in Cologne. The writer deplored the enthusiasm shown by our budding amateurs in taking photographs of the Cathedral. If the article was written seriously, it is obvious that the writer falls under one of two categories, he is either a professional photographer, or else he knows nothing whatever about the hobby. His contention that excellent photographs may be purchased in local shops at low prices, thus saving the amateur trouble, does not hold water, unless he regards amateur photography as an economy stunt.

A photographer likes to have permanent records of his own impressions of the places visited by him. They speak to him more than would the photographs he might buy in shops. Moreover, they enable him to remember the incidents of the day upon which the photographs were taken, and, best of all to the keen photographer, his skill in selecting the best points of vantage from which to take his snaps is well tested when the subject is of the type represented by the Cathedral.

In criticising an amateur's selection of subjects — one must take into consideration his motives for their selection. For instance, I like best to secure photographs which reveal contrasts with our towns at home. Cologne has been a city of pleasant surprises for many of us. Any snaps which bring out the beauties of such streets as the Deutscher Ring, are well worth taking home to show to people, they speak volumes for the German ideas of town-planning. Every man has his own interests, and these are invariably expressed in his photographic work.

CUTHBERT.

THE NILE AT NIGHTFALL.

The sun has set his last red ray,
Has fled, and given place to grey.
And silhouetted 'gainst the dark'ning skies
A fringe of palm trees fade as daylight dies.

The night is still, the silvery moon,
Is gently gleaming through, and soon
Will trace mysterious patterns on the Nile
Fast flowing, strong, and silent all the while

And yet, O Nile thou could'st unfold,
Tales of dark deeds and crimes of old.
Of grisly strife and never ending sleep
Beneath thy waters grimly grey and deep.

Yet when the sun has gently set,
Crimsoning o'er your minaret.
When all around's a sympathetic grey,
The evil dies, and nobler things hold sway.

Then love is born, then comes romance,
Passion prevails, and bright eyes dance.
Cupid himself must speak in accents low,
Mystically murmuring as the waters flow.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Saving Time.

Our readers are keeping their eyes open and using their powers of observation to advantage. From every incident seemingly trivial one may often learn something. A reader tells us, for instance, that when he was watching a German railwayman lighting the signal lamps at Cologne, he saw that he did not need to climb up a ladder to do this. The lamps are put on the top of an iron rod, fastened on the side of the post in such a way that the rod can slide up and down. The rod was pushed up until it was in position, and then fastened at the bottom end by means of a catch arrangement. "By this means," he remarks, "the job is done in half the time required on an English railway." Is the system peculiar to Germany, we wonder?

More War Savings.

Further records of good work in this direction are coming in. To-day the South Wales Borderers report that two weeks' subscriptions in Saving Certificates from 520 members produced the handsome sum of 208,953 marks. This represents a total of 3,705 certificates and shows what can be done in the way of thriftful investment. We wonder what to-morrow's record will be.

Premature.

An English Tommy at Solingen the other evening was placed in a laughable position. He had just purchased an alarm clock and had insisted on seeing that it was in proper working order, particularly as the shop assistant was a pleasant young lady. After some fun the clock was put in a box and wrapped up; and off he went to finish his promenade. Some minutes afterwards, when he was in a crowd, the alarm went off, ringing loud and long. Of course everyone looked surprised. The shop girl had set the alarm to go off in five minutes.

Mistaken Identity.

He was a "pukka" old soldier and had seen three winters in France and Flanders. His latest occupation is cooking for a company of young guards. One can readily imagine the look of incredulity which crossed his face, when one morning the familiar rum jar appeared among the newly arrived rations. He was soon engaged in conversation with the C.Q.M.S. The seal of the jar was broken and a cup produced. "Good health, Quarter," said the cook, helping himself to a liberal supply of the liquid. A grimace spreads over his countenance. Alas! he had swallowed half-a-pint of raw lime juice, issuable in lieu of "greens" under a recent G.R.O.

Not very Imperial.

Outside Bonn one can see at the Archbishop's palace, the room where the Crown Prince lived while he was a student at the University. On the door of the room once occupied by "Little Willie" there is a notice, "Shaving Saloon, open from 5 to 7. Cold baths on the first floor",

The Making of Books.

The fascinating subject of "The production of a book," from the making of the paper, to the complete volume ready for the reader's hand, formed the subject under observation at the weekly meeting of the Euskirchen Reading Circle. Opening with the associations usually attaching to books, Bdr. Lambert dealt in an intimate manner with the various branches of paper making, and thence through numerous stages in the hands of the publisher, printer and book-binder. It was an interesting and informative evening. By the way, are there no reading circles or literary societies among the troops in Cologne or Bonn?

Primitive Fishers.

The quaint old fashioned methods of the fishermen of the Rhine frequently attract the attention of strangers. One of the most interesting spectacular methods, is that in which is employed a strange looking canoe with a mast in the centre which leans forward over the prow. The occupant of the boat holds a rope, which runs through a pulley at the top of the mast, and from the end of which is suspended horizontally a large flat square net, with a fine mesh. At frequent intervals the drifting boat is stopped by means of paddling against the stream. The net is lowered, allowed to stay in the water for a few moments and quickly withdrawn. This method often results in large captures of very small fish, but of course different methods are used for other species.

Clothing Economies.

A characteristic example of German economy is to be seen in an outfitter's window. A pile of stocking feet just above the ankle and left ready for knitting or sowing on to leg portions is to be seen. Of course it is a common and praiseworthy practice to refoot hosiery, but this is the first time the writer has seen "feet" on display. Another Continental practice which makes for economy is the practice of wearing capes in lieu of overcoats. It is a fashion which the English ought to have no scruple in adopting, for our forefathers were great cape wearers. The cloth and the tailoring necessary for the production of overcoats, the fluctuation of fashion requiring changes in styles, and the different fittings to cope with growth in girth or height, all work against national thrift. On the other hand, one cape can be worn to some extent by father, mother, son and daughter. It is a healthy, warm and picturesque garment.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes". Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Cpl. W. Hutchinson, A. & Q. Office H. Q. Lancs. Division, Rhine Army; Gunner G. Johnson, 303 S.B. R.G.A., Rhine Army; and Pte. J. K. Barker, 41439, 1/5 K.O.R. Rhine Army.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

PLEASURES THAT HELP.

Viscount Grey of Falloden speaking to the scholars of Gresham School on Speech Day said: Physical fitness is one of the conditions of happiness, so make sure that no physical pleasures interfere with physical fitness. The moment we cease to be able to run a mile, walk twenty, or cycle fifty, we are no longer very independent. We should ask ourselves about any one of our pleasures: Does it make a man more physically fit? if it does, we are on the safe side, for we are enjoying something which is going to help, and not hinder.

TH NEW COTTAGE.

Mr. Henry Aldridge, Secretary to the National Housing and Town Planning Council, says: The day of the old narrow-fronted brick box, with a rear extension, is past. The new cottage will be a bright, well-designed house, in which working people can take a real pride. Local authorities are also practically unanimous in providing in their cottages a parlour in addition to a large living room. There is a growing feeling that in regard to tenancy, preference should be given to sailors and soldiers returning from active service and to people with large families.

THE NAVY'S HEROES.

Mr. Charles Inge, who is a novelist of note and took part under arms in the Great War, in the course of a tribute to the Navy, says: Though they have earned it famously, they want no fame. They do just as they have learned to think. For they have taken service willingly, where unconsidered heroism is tradition and calm unaided courage is routine. So they will mouth a joke, or spit carelessly, or look away and smile when they hear big talk of glory and renown. For they do not recognise their claim to words of praise. But, none the less, their claim to honour stands because they maintain and add to and transmit the wonder-legend of the Navy's fame. This is the worth and guerdon of their fortitude.

SWIMMING FOR HEALTH.

Miss Annette Kellerman, the famous swimmer says: It is only within the last few years that the medical profession has realised that swimming, taken properly and temperately, is one of the finest health restoratives imaginable.

Times without number have I been asked how I could possibly enjoy my daily swim in the winter when the snow is on the ground and when most people regard cold water with a feeling almost akin to dread. Certainly there is something Arctic about the idea, but still I can assure the most sceptical that after a few weeks' indulgence in a daily swim, one misses the few minutes in the water even more than does a hungry hunter his meals. And, from a health point of view, I can only say that should I miss my swims, I should feel quite an invalid.

DEMOCRACY TO-DAY.

General Sir Henry Horne has been speaking from a church pulpit on present-day problems. He said:

Are we building up what is known as "A Better England?" The idea with many people seems to be to spend as much money as they possibly can, to be as idle as they can, and, in fact, to do nothing unless they are absolutely compelled to do it. In excuse, two words have been run off their legs and perverted in every possible way. They are democracy and reaction.

Democracy, as defined by Abraham Lincoln, was the finest thing in the world; but Lincoln's definition stipulated that there should be government and that it should be for the people. At the present time democracy was not looked at in that light. There was too much disorder, and too much of the individual,

BOLSHEVISM AND MUSIC.

Mr. Edgar Wallace, famous as a war correspondent and the creator of "Smithey," says: Do not think because the German failed to understand British psychology that he is a bad psychologist. Nobody has ever understood the British, or ever will. The truth is that the German is a greater psychologist than any other race in Europe, and he was certainly the first man to discover the antidote for Bolshevism.

He knows better than any that the Spartacist derived his strength, not from the millions which Lenin supplied, but from the falling off in the supply of music, especially brass music. The Berliner goes about his business, takes a shrewd, clear view of the situation, and is working rapidly to rebuild the shattered finances of the country, and he has come to sanity, because some genius suggested that Bolshevism was a disease which was effectively destroyed by music as most other diseases are destroyed by sunshine.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Socialist Leader.—A socialist is to be made president of the Cologne Police.

No More.—Heligoland ceases to exist as a fortress in a few days.

To visit England.—President Poincaré is to visit England in October. He may retire from politics in January.

Infuriated Wives.—Infuriated Paris housewives attacked a grocer who put up the price of rabbits.

Our Next Job.—Waiters in the West End restaurants are said to be earning from £ 600 to £ 1,000 a year.

Bubonic Plague.—Two cases of bubonic plague have been discovered in a ship that has arived at Avonmouth from Egypt.

Traffic Control. — Drastic control of London's street traffic by means of a Board of Control, is suggested.

Unnecessary —It is no longer necessary to furnish the name and address of the sender of an inland telegram.

That's All.—South Wales postal workers demand 160 per cent. wage increase over the 1914 standard.

Not Sand Bags.—Among the goods for sale by the Ministry of Munitions are a million sacks.

That Wardrobe.—In West London as much as eight guineas is being asked for second-hand suits of clothes.

Child Diseases Prevalent.—Scarlatina and diphtheria are unusually prevalent among children for the time of year.

One Halfpenny More. — Cups of tea at London teashops have been increased from 2½d to 3d.

Bride for Fifth Time. — Mrs. Bridger, aged 74, of Cosham, has married her fifth husband, also a septuagenarian.

Traffic Resumed.—Parcel traffic between Great Britain and Germany will soon be permitted.

The King of Spain.—The King of Spain intends to visit Paris next month, on his way to Belgium.

The Rush.—A provincial barber reports that the number of regular-morning-shave customers is rapidly increasing. He attributes this to war nerves.

Huts for the Homeless.—The huts occupied by soldiers at Eastbourne have been converted by the corporations into dwellings for those who cannot find a house.

Still Active.—Miss Edith Milsom, of Hulme, who has just celebrated her one hundredth birthday, will attend the corporation's peace dinner.

Arm Watches.—Wrist watches for the fair are apparently to be displaced by arm, or armlet, watches, worn just above the elbow.

A Compliment.—Many girls Bond-street way are wearing hats which are the facsimile of those worn by the French soldiers.

Still Out.—The Yorkshire miners are not likely to resume work this week, and a restriction of the holiday train traffic is probable.

Those Peace Feelers.—Mr. Lloyd George is very unlikely to say anything about Erzberger's allegations as to peace moves unless questions are asked in Parliament.

Both Worried.—Railway officials are much perplexed by the constant necessity for changing their time-tables. The public are equally worried.

No Smoking.—The notice, "No Smoking" in London's Tube lifts which has been a dead letter for some time is being put into force.

Cruelty Indeed.—A Bristol boy was sent to prison for ill-treating a cat. He held is by its neck, throttling it, and threw it violently on to a concrete floor.

Rush for Gas-Stoves —Manufacturers of gas and anthracite stoves are unable to cope with the orders they are receiving from all parts.

The First Step —A commission of German employers and workmen has gone to Versailles with regard to the rebuilding of Northern-France.

Freedom for Alsatians.—The German prisoners in Japan who are of Alsatian origin have been liberated on the request of the French Government.

The Fastest-Plane. — The fastest aeroplane in the world, which arrived at Kenley, having come from Paris at a speed of 112 miles a minute, is reported to have crashed at Marquise.

Most Decorated.—Sir Archibald Hunter is the most decorated member in the House of Commons. In the Upper House, Lord Hardinge of Penshurst holds a similar position.

Companies Ready.—Railway companies have in readiness emergency time-tables which will be brought into use should the coal situation demand the curtailment of the services.

Presents To "Temps."—In some Government Departments the permanent officials are grumbling at frequent subscriptions towards farewell gifts to demobilised temporary girl clerks.

Young Field-Marshals.—For a Field Marshal's baton to be conferred before sixty is almost unknown in the Army. Lord Kitchener was an exception and Sir Douglas Haig and Sir Henry Wilson have brought youth to the ranks.

Woman Street Cleaner.—Miss Amy Wigan of Luddesdown, who has just died, was one of three sisters, who, during the war, kept the streets of the village clean.

Twenty Thousand Times.—The commodore of the L. and N.W. fleet of steamers who has died, made the Irish Channel passage more than twenty thousand times.

PENSIONS INCREASED.

NEARLY ONE HUNDRED MILLION POUNDS ANNUALLY FOR WAR VICTIMS.

NEW FIELD MARSHALS.

BIGGER PENSIONS.

LARGE ALL ROUND INCREASES.

In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Sir Worthington Evans presented the Pensions Estimates.

He said they were already out of date to the extent of seventy-three millions. Since the estimate was prepared an additional expenditure had been authorised, being a twenty per cent bonus to officers on retired pay and alternative pensions for officers and men and to widows, while certain pre-war disability pensions had also been raised to the present rates. These and other alterations would cost two millions.

The decisions would call for an extra expenditure for the remainder of the year of eleven millions, making the estimates under consideration eighty-six millions. This figure only covers a portion of a year. For a full year, with the present number of pensioners, the rate would be about ninety-three millions.

War's Heavy Toll.

Pensions and allowances are being paid to 43,572 officers, officers' widows and children. Other ranks totalled 1,372,017 and children 938,064. Referring to complaints of delay in the granting of officers pensions he said that authority had now been obtained from the Treasury to make advances in necessitous cases, and some 7,400 advances had already been made.

Interrupters Ejected.

While acknowleding Sir Arthur Pearson's services to the blind, Sir Worthington Evans was interrupted by a man in the public gallery calling out "What about the civilian blind? Give us State aid for the blind."

When the interrupter was being removed by an attendant another blind man shouted. "In the name of the organised blind of this country I protest against the Government not helping the blind as they ought." A third speaker commenced to interrupt but was ejected.

The Revised Scale.

Continuing, Sir Worthington Evans, said the Government is prepared to accept the proposed new scale. The flat rate will be as follows:

For a totally disabled single man, 40s; married, 50s; married with one child, 57s 6d. For each subsequent child the scale will be a percentage of the full scale according to the percentage of disability. A widow under forty without children will receive 20s, while widows of any age with children or those over forty without children will receive 20s 6d. There will be paid in addition 10s. for the first child, 7s 6d for the second and 6s for each subsequent child.

In assessing the claims for alternative pensions pre-war wages will be regarded as having increased by sixty per cent, so that a man who was in fact earning 50s a week before the war will be deemed to be earning 80s. The maximum alternative pension will be £5 a week instead of £4.10s. The new rates will be brought into operation in respect of the first week ending after 1st September and any arrears will be paid as from that date.

Helpful Criticism.

Mr. Hogge thought the Government had responded very generously to the recommendations of the Committee.

Sir Montague Barlow objected to the description of a pension as a Royal Bounty. It was a payment, he said, to which a pensioner was legally entitled.

In a maiden speech Captain Hacking urged that an admission by the Government of a statutory right to a pension would remove a deal of discontent.

Colonel Ashley expressed the view that thousands of discharged men, particularly those who are only partially disabled, should be given an opportunity of filling some of the posts held by the 11,000 women at the Ministry of Pensions.

Mr. Lyle criticised the methods of medical boards as being too inquisitorial. Their duty, he said, seemed to be to award as small a pension as possible.

The Pensions Minister, in reply, promised that every suggestion made during the debate should receive careful consideration. The votes were agreed to.

OFFICIAL THANKS.

The thanks of Parliament to the Forces will be formally tendered by motion in the House of Commons next Wednesday.

The motion will include a proposal to grant £100,000 each to Admiral Sir David Beatty and Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and smaller sums to other prominent leaders. It is expected that an earldom will be conferred on the chiefs of the Navy and Army at a later date.

The Government are preparing a Bill against Trusts which will be introduced to the House during the Autun session.

ROYAL HONOURS.

TWO MORE FIELD MARSHALS APPOINTED.

His Majesty the King has appointed General Sir Herbert Plumer, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O., and General Sir E. H. H. Allenby, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., to be Field Marshals. These honours, together with that of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, are dated July 31st and take precedence in the above order.

In recognition of their valuable services the King has also conferred on General Maynard and General Ironside, Knight Commanderships of the Order of the Bath.

NAVY GOES NORTH.

TO COVER EVACUATION OF WHITE SEA.

It is learned that a strong Naval force is proceeding to North Russia in the near future to take part in combined Naval and Military operations. Further military reinforcements will be sent if necessary but there is good reason to hope that the situation will give no more cause for anxiety.

It is also understood that some of the Army units which are under orders for foreign service are being ear-marked for Russia in case of need. There is no question of employing conscript troops in view of the satisfactory position of recruiting in the Regular Army. Neither is there any question of the extension of British liabilities in North Russia. The measures now being taken are intended to ensure the evacuation with a minimum of loss.

DENIKEN SCORES.

FORTY-TWO MILE ADVANCE.

A War Office communiqué states that a great victory has been gained by Deniken's army. The important town of Kamashin, on the river Volga, which for a considerable time has been the immediate objective in the advance towards Saratow, has been captured. Possession of this town gives Deniken a firmer footing on the most important river in the country and constitutes a serious threat to the Bolshevist lines of communication with Astrakan. Preparations for an advance of thirty miles had been in progress for some time and on July 29th the attack was launched. It met with complete success, the town being entered on Wednesday. The enemy were pursued for twelve miles further.

RESTAURANT PROFITEERS EXPOSED.

The Paris Daily Mail correspondent gives an account of a man who is fighting one branch of profiteering by going to a different restaurant each night to dinner and then refusing to pay unreasonable charges. He then explains in the newspapers next day his reason for refusing, giving the name of restaurant and the prices charged.

GENERAL RAWLINSON FOR NORTH RUSSIA.

It is officially announced that the Government has decided that General Sir H. S. Rawlinson is to proceed at once to North Russia in order to co-ordinate the operations connected with the withdrawal of the Archangel and Murmansk forces.

THE SCHELDT QUESTION.

The delegates of the Dutch Government having arrived at Paris, the first sitting for the revision of the Belgian-Dutch Treaty of 1839 was held on Wednesday. The Dutch Minister of State read a historical exposé drawn up by the Dutch Government.

It is anticipated that the task of the Commission, whose chief work is to determine the question of the Scheldt, will necessitate numerous sittings and it is not expected that their labours will be concluded before the end of next week.

WHEN THE WAR WILL END.

The French Cabinet has decided that the cessation of hostilities is to date from the publication in the Official Journal of the ratification of the Treaty with Germany, without waiting for the conclusion of peace with other belligerent countries which are still nominally at war with France.

GERMAN PAYMENT.

FIRST CLAIMS ON WAR INDEMNITY.

M. Klotz, Minister of Finance, made an important statement before the Financial Committee of the French Chamber on the financial clauses of the Peace Treaty. He said that Germany would not have to owe Belgium anything. The 2,400 million Francs advanced by France to Belgium would be collected by France. The balance between France and England regarding advances to Belgium had not yet been struck. Germany would be debtor to France, England and America for all the sums advanced to Belgium and a settlement would be made before 1926, with interest.

Regarding reparation the Committee faced a situation unparalleled in humanity. Germany had only one enemy a group of nations which was solvent. Hers was a crushing burden. The total expenses of the war reached 1,005 milliard (1,005,000,000,000) francs and the Allies agreed to recognise that Germany was incapable of paying such an amount. Restoration of the invaded provinces has preference in the matter of the monies Germany has to pay in reparation. Damage to individuals and personal property is a second claim. The idea of immediate payment is untenable. The better way is to allow the loser to liberate herself by means of labour.

COMIC POLICE STRIKE.

DISCREDITED UNION AND CREDIBLE MEN.

The London Executive of the Police Union declared a strike last night, to last until such time as the clause relating to the abolition of the Union is removed from the Police Bill which is now before Parliament. This move follows an unsuccessful attempt to interview the Premier. The Executive is urging members throughout the country to follow suit, but after the recently published police awards it is doubtful whether the Union will have much following to this absurd extent.

In a few London districts some men left their beat on learning of the "order" to strike, but the attitude of the majority of men is that the Union is not justified in calling such a hurried general strike.

Returns at midnight in the metropolitan destrict showed that one hundred and ten men had absented themselves. Sir Nevil Macready, the Commissioner, in a statement says that these men have been suspended. They will be dismissed in police orders at once and will never be reinstated.

FRENCH FOOD CONTROLLER.

With the object of ending the present crisis caused by high food prices the French Government contemplates the centralization, in the hands of M. Vilgrain, of all questions concerning food and supplies.

He will be a sort of Food Controller, directly responsible for the general administration of supplies. He will handle the problems of transport and freight and will have power to negotiate with shipping companies for the supply of ships.

HUNGARIAN POLICY.

The Supreme Council in Paris has been occupied in determining what attitude shall be adopted towards Bela Kun. The Rumanians will be supported by the despatch of material and the Czecho-Slovaks encouraged to take energetic action.

The question has also been considered as to what support can be accorded the Rumanians with inter-allied effectives in order to give an international significance to the operations. No decision has yet been reached.

FINSBURY MURDER.

In connection with the Finsbury Park tragedy, Henry Ball, occupier of the house where the woman Lucy Nightingale was discovered strangled, was brought up yesterday morning. The charge preferred was that of being accessory to the murder after the fact. Formal evidence only was given and the prisoner was remanded for a week, bail being refused.

BULGARIAN FRONTIER.

No complete solution of the Bulgarian frontier question has been reached by the Supreme Council. It is known that the Rumanians desire the whole of the Dobrudja but they are willing to agree to a rectification of the frontier.

In French opinion the Rumanian desire is considered legitimate and it seems that this method of solution will be adopted. The whole question will then practically be settled.

NEW HEIGHT RECORD.

Yesterday an American aviator beat the altitude record by climbing 30,700 feet. The thermometer recorded twenty-five degrees below zero and the motor became so chilled that the aviator was forced to descend.

The Treaty whereby the United States promises to go to the aid of France in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany, has been submitted to the Senate by President Wilson in a special message.

STOLEN PAY DRAFTS.

ROGUE MEETS WITH HIS DESERTS.

After a four days' hearing the trial was concluded at the Old Bailey yesterday of Cecil Hall, the ex-Army Pay Clerk who was charged with stealing demobilization drafts at Dover.

The Jury found him guilty.

Detective Inspector Cornish, of Scotland Yard, proved several previous convictions against the prisoner in London and the provinces.

The Judge, saying that Hall was guilty of a most serious offence, which he aggravated by going into the witness box and committing deliberate perjury, doubted whether he ought not to be sent to penal servitude. He passed sentence of twenty-two months hard labour and ordered Hall to pay £100 towards the costs of the prosecution.

TELLING THE TRUTH.

AMERICAN'S BLUNT REPLY TO GERMAN SOCIALIST.

At the international Trade Union Conference in Amsterdam a Belgian delegate delivered a passionate protest against the supine attitude of German labour towards the German outrages in Belgium. The German delegation submitted a statement admitting that these things should not have been done and pleaded that the German people were deceived.

The President of the Congress having declared (in the usual manner) that capitalism was responsible for the war, an American delegate bluntly informed him that the responsibility rested solely with Germany and Austria.

ARGENTINE CELEBRATES.

BIGGEST FESTIVITIES ON RECORD

The British Minister to the Argentine, Sir Reginald Tower, was entertained at a most successful complimentary dinner at the Plaza Hotel, Buenos Aires, on Friday last by representatives of the most important firms and undertakings in the Argentine, in recognition of the esteem and regard in which he is held and of his magnificent services and untiring zeal in looking after British interests during the war.

The British colonists peace celebrations were concluded with a ball, attended by over 2,000 persons. It was the most successful and probably the largest gathering ever held at Buenos Aires.

GENERAL FAYOLLE'S NAVY TRIP.

General Fayolle, who visited Cologne on Wednesday, made the last stage of his journey on a British warship. He was piped on board the M.L. 358 at Bonn in "pukka" navy fashion, being received by Commander Acheson, C.M.G., M.V.O., D.S.O., R.N., and Lieut. Farrat, R.N., Commander of the launch.

The French flag was broken at the masthead as he stepped on board. The boat was escorted down stream by M.L. 542, under the command of Lieut. Robinson, D.S.C., R.N.V.R. While the party were disembarking, the band of the D.L.I. played the "Marseillaise", followed by the National Anthem, whilst a guard of honour of bluejackets under Lieut. Foxley, R.N. stood smartly at the "present". Sub-Lieut. Jones, R.N.V.R., carried the colours escorted by four marines.

During the inspection of the guard the D.L.I. band played "Rule Britannia".

Before leaving, the General remarked that this was the first time in his career that he had set foot on a British warship or had had a British Naval guard of honour.

IF THERE IS NO BREAD.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Hailwood asked whether the Government recognised the serious state in which the country will be on Monday next in consequence of the bakers' strike which is threatened to commence to-day.

Mr. Wardle replied that the Ministry of Labour has been in contact with all the parties at a meeting held at the Ministry when a communication was made to the employers which appeared likely to remove the difficulty.

CAIRO INCIDENT.

Industrial agitation in Egypt is gaining strength. A serious incident occurred last evening as a result of a strike of waiters and men employed at a well-known café. These employes, who have hitherto relied solely on tips, have demanded wages and have struck work in support of their case.

Persons leaving the café were roughly handled and one visitor drew a revolver and fired, wounding two strikers, and a bystander.

AN ANGRY AMBASSADOR.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun states that Mr. Nelson Page's resignation from the Ambassadorship at Rome is due to serious friction between he and President Wilson. He deeply resents President Wilson's attitude regarding the Fiume crisis.

It is now considered possible that Lord Reading may go again to Washington as British Ambassador.

COAL STRIKE.

SETTLEMENT PREVENTED BY ONE MAN.

Hope has revived in connection with the Yorkshire coal strike. Following the futile conferences held on Wednesday Mr. Snackleton returned to London and reported the situation to the Minister of Labour. The War Cabinet met later and had the position explained. The Minister of Labour received a deputation of miners last night. The cause of yesterday's deadlock is said to be the refusal of Mr. Smith, the men's leader, to recognise the right of the Miners' Federation to negotiate with the Government on behalf of the Yorkshire men. Great disappointment was caused throughout Yorkshire when it became known that no agreement had been reached yesterday.

SKELETON MYSTERY.

PRISONERS MAKE CONFLICTING STATEMENTS.

As a sequel to the developments of the Kilburn mystery, William Grant and Alice White appeared in the dock yesterday, charged with the manslaughter of Connie Grant. The only evidence taken was that of inspector Hagan who said that Grant made a second statement after receiving the statement made by the woman. The Inspector had previously told Grant that his first statement was not in agreement with the facts.

A mass of evidence is being prepared, and the prisoners were remanded until Monday, when Maggie Grant, the step-sister of Connie Grant, will also appear.

SERVANTS OF FREEDOM.

AMERICA AND BRITISH SEAMEN.

President Wilson, in a letter to the Chairman of the Committee which is organising America's tribute to British Merchant Seamen says:

"Along with our own gallant seamen they have rendered such a service to humanity in the great war as enrols them amongst the true servants of freedom and civilization."

The Committee intends that America's tribute shall not end with the raising of a fund to assist the thirty thousand disabled British seamen but that the effort shall be continued permanently in order to further the development of friendship amongst all English speaking peoples.

PEACE PROPOSALS.

As regards the revelations in the German National Assembly about the Peace proposals in August 1917, a member of the Vatican has declared to the representatives of the Havas Agency in Rome that the negotiations have been wrongly described and wrongly interpreted in Germany. There was no question of a Peace proposal by Great Britain and France, considering the tone and brevity of the communication made by the British Minister to Cardinal Gasparri.

It was rather the contrary, reasons showing the impracticability of Peace being enumerated, specially as concerns Belgium. The Holy See sent a copy to the Nuncio with a letter, and that is all. Both documents will be published. They would have appeared before this in the Observator Romano if the strike of the printers had not stopped the publishing of the paper.

INVESTMENT OF GRATUITIES.

Although the Victory Loan is closed to public subscription an extension of time up to August 15th has been arranged for the benefit of those officers who wish so to ear-mark their gratuities either for Victory Bonds or Funding Loan. Instructions should be sent to agents or bankers stating the amount it is desired to invest. The investment will then be handed over to the agents on the officer's behalf when his gratuity is issuable. Gratuity so invested will bear interest as from 4th August 1919.

Income Tax will not be deducted from the source. Applications will be dealt with in order of receipt.

DE MORTIUS NIL NISI BONUM.

Colonel L. Ward, the Unionist member for Hull in the course of the debate on the Army Estimates, pleaded that no distinction should be made in the graves in France and Flanders of men who were shot for offences committed in face of the enemy. He further urged that the War Office records of such sentences of execution be destroyed.

PROTECTION OF INVENTORS.

Encouragement and help for inventors is a marked feature of the Patents Bill which was read for the second time in the House of Commons on Wednesday. The objects of the Bill are to improve the position of the inventor and enable him to reap the rewards of his ingenuity. The Bill will also prevent abuse of the Patent Laws by those foreign inventors who were wont to obtain protection in Great Britain but did not work their patents there.

The French Cabinet has discussed what measures are necessary to give rapid effect to the Channel tunnel project.

KILLED ON LEAVE.

MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY IN RAILWAY TUNNEL.

In connection with the discovery in the Box tunnel on the Great Western Railway of the body of Gunner White, a soldier belonging to the Army of the Rhine, Gunner Edwin Doyle, 29th Bde. R.F.A. was arrested at Woolwich yesterday. It is understood that Doyle made a statement at Birmingham alleging that he had pushed a man out of a railway carriage.

The facts, as elicited at the inquest on Monday, showed that White was on leave. He left Paddington [illegible] Friday night. When the train [illegible] Plymouth the officials found a soldier's equipment in a carriage but the owner was not there. No evidence was given as to how White met his death.

A relative having suggested that the circumstances pointed to foul play, the coroner adjourned the inquest.

LUTON RIOTS.

SCHOOLMASTER COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Further evidence was given yesterday at Luton at the resumed proceedings against a number of prisoners charged in connection with the Peace Day rioting. Damaged helmets were put in to show the force of the attack. It was stated that two firemen are still unfit for duty.

Regarding the prisoner Ovenell, a master at Luton Modern School, it was stated that he holds an Oxford M.A. Degree with double honours. He won a Commission at Arras after serving in the ranks from August 1915.

He and others were committed for trial.

CHICAGO RACE FRACAS.

Race riots in Chicago continued with great violence yesterday, many deaths occurring. Four thousand troops have been mobilised to restore order. The riots are attributed to the effect of Bolshevist propaganda among the negroes.

According to the latest estimates there are twenty-five killed and more than four hundred injured. The situation is complicated by the strike of 15,000 street elevated railway employees, with the result that traffic is completely tied up.

Later messages state that the racial rioting early on Tuesday was of the most desperate description. A reign of terror prevailed for many hours and the street fighting assumed so grave an aspect that the militia were called out. They used machine-guns to disperse the mobs. A large crowd of negroes stormed the armoury of the 8th Regiment of the State Guard and attempted to obtain arms and ammunition, but were repulsed.

Fierce rioting continued yesterday, the Provident Negro Hospital being attacked. Knives, razors and slung shot were used, four men being killed and a number injured. A boy was stabbed and thrown into the river but was rescued. Italians sided with the whites.

Another night of rioting in Chicago added four more deaths, the total being now thirty-two whites and negroes. The latter were exasperated at the virtual stoppage of food and transport. They fired at passenger trains passing through the negro quarter and sniped military patrols. Martial-law has been declared and all street illumination is cut off.

U. S. AND TRIPLE TREATY.

In his special message to the Senate which accompanied the submission of the Ango-French-American Treaty. President Wilson earnestly hoped that it would meet with approval and an early ratification, together with the Peace Treaty with Germany.

He intimated that the special treaty will remain in force until the League of Nations affords sufficient protection to France. After pointing out that Great Britain volunteers the same promise his letter concludes: "It is by taking such pledges as this that we shall prove ourselves faithful to the utmost to the high obligations of gratitude and tested friendship."

THEY ASKED FOR TROUBLE.

The official investigation into the incidents which occurred at the departure of the German delegates from Versailles has concluded. The report states that there is no ground for proceedings.

It transpired that the Germans who exchanged rowdy greetings with the onlookers provoked some of the crowd by shouting "Hoch, Hoch" and making grimaces. There was no proof that stones were thrown.

GIFT TO THE STATE.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has received a letter from Mr. C.B. Hollinsworth, of Birmingham, containing an offer to surrender to the State for cancellation War Bonds amounting to over thirteen thousand ponnds.

A rumour from Peshawar that the Amir of Afghanistan had been fired on by Afghan soldiers is confirmed.

On Monday a great storm swept Roosevelt field, Mineola, where the R. 34 was moored, destroying three giant aeroplanes, including a Handley-Page machine weighing eleven tons.

THE KING SPEAKS.

In the long history of our country there has been no sovereign who has won greater respect and loyalty than our gracious King. His heart beat with the heart of his people — he mourned with them, he rejoiced with them, he led them to victory and peace.

We had our crises in these tragic years of war, but at almost every danger point King George uttered a clarion call to the British Empire.

Once again our sovereign has spoken and his words are a challenge and an inspiration.

"The spirit of union, self-sacrifice, and patience which our people displayed during the years of fighting will still be required if we are to reap the full benefit of the peace which we have won, and those great qualities must be reinforced by the homelier virtues of industry and thrift."

These are strange times. The strain of war has brought its inev itable reaction. There is a spirit of unrest in every class. Some have given way to carping criticism, some to obstinate selfishness, some to money-seeking, some to the giddy round of pleasure.

If we are a great people — and we are a people with high traditions and serious ideals — then now is the time to play the man. Each must work with his fellow, must bear and forbear, must struggle loyally and zealously till the new and better era brightens the dark firmament with its rosy dawn.

"Now that we are at peace again, our country urgently demands from every citizen the utmost economy in order to make the best use of the resources which the nation possesses; and strenuous and unremitting industry in order to ensure the greatest possible production of necessary commodities. Without these we shall have to face depression and poverty."

The time was when the King of England led his soldiers to victory in the field of battle. Who is not proud when he reads of Henry V at Agincourt? But our King is leading a nobler venture. We shall rally round him and we shall win our triumph.

WHOSE THE BLAME?

German Workers Declare that their Government Betrayed them.

Time after time we hear from Germans of different classes the statement that they did not wish for the war and that it was forced upon them by the Militarist Government.

We Britishers coming from a "free" country find great difficulty in believing this at times, but the point we do recognise is that these self-excusing Germans are in agreement on the point that their international representatives were responsible for the war and for the atrocious methods by which they prosecuted it.

Many belated admissions saw the light at the International Trades Union Preparatory Conference held at Amsterdam and were communicated by Reuter's Agency to the "Times."

Following a motion of the French delegate, M. Jouhaux, aiming at the reconciliation of the Belgians and the Germans, a committee was formed to consider a statement presented by Herr Sassenbach, the German delegate, concerning the action, or lack of it, of the German working classes at the outbreak of, and during the war.

This statement, which is to be reported on by Monday next, when the actual Congress opens, contains much of interest to the British troops on the Rhine who have heard repeatedly that Germany was not responsible for the war or for the afflictions of Belgium.

After stating that German trade unions always recognized that Germany acted wrongly with regard to Belgium and always condemned the activities of war committed during the German occupation of Belgium it goes on to say:

"If at the beginning of the war all had been known that is known now; if the labouring classes had not been misled and betrayed by the Government, the attitude of the German labouring classes and their leaders would have been different.

"If the German labour movement had suspected that Germany was the aggressive Power, then without any doubt it would have tried to prevent the war with every means in its power.

"We must recognize that the workers of other countries cannot appreciate or understand several of our actions during the war, but these acts were forced upon us by the heavy struggle being waged by the German nation.

"Now the truth is being brought home, and many a thing which we did under full conviction should, it is clear, never have been done."

HOPELESS.

"Look here, old chap" I said "it's got to stop." he was lying, book in hand and pipe in mouth on the billet sofa. He generally is lying somewhere. He looked up with a hurt expression, his forehead like a newly ploughed field.

"What's got to stop?" "I mean," I said in my severest tone, "that your behaviour is getting beyond a joke, and it's quite time you pulled yourself together, and tried to get up in the morning."

The ploughed field became pasture land again, and "Oh, is that all," don't I get up every morning" came languidly from the sofa.

I began to get exasperated. I had been used to giving Jeremiah fatherly advice, for months past, but he generally treated it with more respect than this.

"Now look here, just because you have recently returned from leave, don't think that the nasty civilian habits you have acquired in "Blighty" will go down here, and that you can lie in bed until 10 or 11 o'clock in the morning, keeping Frau, and everybody else waiting, while you snore your life away, in piggish self-indulgence."

He sat up after that, closed his book, and shivered. "Please, don't use such soul revolting expressions, and for goodness sake, keep to the point." One hand was supporting his tired head.

"I am keeping to the point," I said, "and you've got to do something. It's no use buying an alarm clock, and then forgetting to wind the alarm part of it up. Do try to think. Can't you get Fräulein to knock on your door, at a reasonable hour. Lots of them don't mind doing that."

He lay back once more, and fixed a cushion behind his head. "You know she won't come within a mile of my room. For goodness sake try to suggest something practical."

I thought he was coming round. "Then" I said, "I will make an appeal to your better nature. For the sake of your future wife, and of all the eulogistic letters you have written, of the noble deeds you are performing in Germany, do not let these habits of sloth and self-indulgence make you their slave. Think well of the future, of the girl who is waiting for you with open arms across the water, ready to share life's burdens and make you a happy home. Remember that you are one of a victorious army."

The expression on his face had changed. A kind of angelic smile spread over his countenance, which I could not understand.

"One moment," he said; "there is some mistake. Why all this blather about the future. I am married—on my last leave you know."

"But" I gasped, "you never told me! In any case that fact simplifies matters considerably. Your duty is doubly clear. The necessity of making yourself do things, is imperative. You have no time to lose."

"Oh yes, I've plenty of time. I've signed on for two years!"

I collapsed on the carpet, and vainly tried to think of a place where I could await demob. in solitude.

G.W.E.

A NEW UNION.

The Society of Mess Presidents.

In these days of trades unions one should move with the times, and my little scheme is to found a Society or Union for the Protection of Mess Presidents. I have not yet got the rules properly worked out in my head — I hope to let you know at a later date — but I think there is a crying need for something of the sort.

Roughly the position is this:

In any Mess there is a Mess President — one only — whose duty it is, remembering that an army marches on its stomach, to feed the other members of that Mess — and, moreover, to extract, wrench, squeeze, cajole, or in any other way procure the money for the above purpose from the above-mentioned members.

Now, can anyone have a harder time than the poor Mess President, that most unpopular man; for it must be understood that he is always in a minority?

Let me give you a sample of the conversation any lunch-time on Monday in our Mess.

The President glances round the Mess to see that all the members are at last present; then with a furtive air he draws a sheaf of slips from his pocket, and after catching the Transport Officer and one or two others who have just remembered important engagements elsewhere, he proceeds to deal them rapidly round the table.

General Chorus: "What! Mess bills again! We only had them a few days ago!"

Plaintive solo from the junior subaltern: "I say, I haven't got any money! Does that matter?" ("Oh, not at all", with heavy sarcasm from the P. M. C.)

The Colonel: "Damn it! You've got me down 'Whisky 60 marks'! I've never had it! It's scandalous...." Erupts into sulphurous profanities, comprising a short life history with illustrations, certain origin, and probable destination of P. M. C. 's in general.

The Adjutant: "What's 'Chocolate 10 marks'? Have you been feeding your billet people with chocolate, and putting it down to me? Of course you don't expect me to pay it?"

The senior Major: "Look here! 'Guest night 40 marks!' Why, it was all rations!"

A rude subaltern: "I say, are you going to be married? Saving up for the ring, what?"

A Company Commander: "Good Heavens! 'Soap 5 marks!' I know I've never had that!" (Opportunity for crushing retort from P. M. C., who, however, is by now too overwhelmed to grasp it.)

General chorus: "What's 'extras'?"

More reverberating murmurs from under the Colonel's moustache.

Chorus A.: "How much did you pay, old man, to get the job of P. M. C.?"

Chorus B.: "You won t need a gratuity after this, will you?"

A subaltern: "Has the price of rations gone up?"

And so on ad lib.

Now, I just ask you, Mess Presidents, isn't it always the same? We must pull together, you know. We must form a league, and show them all who's who. In the meantime, as a league must have funds, will all those intending to join please send subscriptions to me, care of "Cologne Post"? (And mind you seal the envelopes up well, because I don't trust them).

UBIQUE.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

RECORD SPEED.

Sir,—I was rather surprised to read in "The Cologne Post" that 112 miles per minute was claimed as a speed record for aeroplanes.

I personally know several airmen who exceed this rate by one hundred per cent, daily, on their early morning flips.

PUP.

IN FANCY DRESS.

Sir,—I fully agree with "R.F.A." that a series of fancy dress dances would be appreciated at the British Empire Leave Club.

The success of the one held on Wednesday, 23rd July, may be gauged from the fact that within ten minutes of the dance commencing it was impossible to gain admittance to the balcony to view the gathering.

I would suggest that a small charge be made for admittance to the ball room for those in fancy dress, the proceeds to be distributed to the wearers of the best costumes, first and second.

HAWKEYE.

PETTY THEFTS.

Sir,—I have just received a parcel, the full contents of which were advised in a letter written on date of its despatch A pair of new puttees and a swimming costume had been extracted therefrom. A pair of boots, a pair of plimsolls, and 200 cigarettes were kindly left for me.

There is no doubt whatever that the articles were deliberately taken out of the parcel, as the covering was quite undamaged on receipt.

Have any other readers similar complaints?

A. B. C.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

Sir,—I venture to suggest that a little more consideration might be given to the desires of men like myself who are anxious to further their natural inclination and learning for subjects of a technical nature.

It would appear that unless a man possesses, or has attained, some degree of knowledge or proficiency in the particular technical subjects he desires to enter for, he is unable to profit by any of the much advertised courses of instruction.

DISAPPOINTED.

INCONVENIENT TRAINS.

Sir,—Could some one in authority alter the evening train service on the Burscheid and Wermelskirchen line? At present all ranks on pass to Cologne have to return by the 8.40 train, which arrives at Opladen about 9.10 and have to wait until 10.20 for a connection to Wermelskirchen. This train, 10.20 from Opladen, invariably runs late the average time of leaving Opladen being 11 o'clock.

The 10.48 train from Cologne arrives at Opladen about 11.10 but is useless to the troops in this area as there is no connection.

If the 10.20 ex Opladen was altered to 11.20 it would give the troops another two hours in Cologne and so do away with the two hours wait which is at present done at Opladen.

HANTS.

THE CINEMA BLIGHT.

Sir,—Yes! I have met it. My last evening at the cinema was one of mental torture under the persecution of one such insect.

The sole interest in a picture lies in its uncertainty, its mystery, its plot. If one knows the story already, all interest disappears.

Let us appeal to these pestilential people to exercise a little sense. Otherwise we must leave them alone with their mania; I for one have not been to the cinema since my last experience with these pests who are becoming so common.

GUNNER VICTIM.

TRAMWAY COMPARISONS.

Sir,—The Traffic Commission which sat some years ago, decided that the L.C.C. trams were inferior only in time wasted at stopping places for passengers to alight and board the cars, but not in the number of passengers carried.

The system of exits on Cologne cars is certainly better than the L.C.C. cars, or of any English tram; but can "Arnold" suggest any other practical method of exit on double-deck cars except the present. One double-deck L.C.C. bogie car carries more passengers than the three Cologne cars.

TRAMWAY ENGINEER.

CALVARIES AS MEMORIALS.

Sir,—Let me associate myself entirely with the views of your correspondent who suggests Calvaries as memorials.

Instead of having huge and expensive monuments in large cities numerous smaller ones should be erected.

Calvaries of real value from an aesthetic point of view could be erected at comparatively small cost.

I saw a photo of a beautiful one recently erected in Kensington, which might be a model for all such fitting memorials of our gallant dead.

W. B. E.

FAVOURED AND UNFAVOURED.

Sir,—The views of "Miriam" strike one as being peculiar. Dances presumably are primarily social functions, and may be reasonably regarded as a means of extending one's acquaintance, but this would be impossible if everybody went on "Miriam's" principle of dancing with the same partner for the whole evening.

FOX-TROT.

THE ONE APPEAL.

Tell me not of a face that's fair,
Nor lip and cheek that's red,
Nor of the tresses of her hair,
Nor curls in order laid,
Nor of a rare seraphic voice
That like an angel sings;
Though if I were to take my choice
I would have all these things;
But if that thou wilt have me love,
And it must be a she,
The only argument can move
Is that she will love me.

SPORTS FAR AND NEAR.

Cavalry Division Week Opens With Successful Horse Show.

The Cavalry Division Week, which will be continued to-day, and on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, was inaugurated yesterday with a very successful Horse Show. Farther afield in Rhineland many sports meetings have recently been held, as also in England. The Brigade of Guards held their annual sports at Stamford Bridge on Thursday.

2/4th HAMPSHIRES PROGRAMME.

A successful sports meeting was carried out by the 2/4 Bn. Hampshire Regt. at Suppelbach, on Saturday. The course had been carefully arranged and much credit is due to 2/Lieut. R. Dear, M.C. and his hard working assistants for their very strenuous and successful efforts, while the requirements, both liquid and solid, of the inner man of all ranks were amply provided for, by the energies of Lieut. R.T. Anderson and 2 Lieut. C. Newman.

After a "neck and neck" race with "A" Company, (Capt. J. Scott, M.C.) "C" Company, (Capt. J. L. Thomas) gained the much coveted honour of winning the Company Challenge Cup. The band under the direction of Sgt. H. Stubbington gave selections throughout the afternoon. During the intervals, the side shows were well patronised.

At the conclusion, the Trophy and Prizes were presented by the Commanding Officer, Lieut.-Col. H. Sidney, D.S.O., T.D.

The following is the list of officials and prize-winners.

SUMMER FOOTBALL.

A football match between "D" and "A" Companies, 53rd Bedfords was played at Urbach on Wednesday. There was no score in the first half but five minutes after the resumption Pte. Woodward gave "D" Coy. the lead from an awkward angle. He repeated this performance shortly afterwards, and Pte. Brown added a third goal.

TORCHLIGHT TATTOO.

1,200 Men And Massed Bands of 11 Battalions.

FINE SPECTACLE ASSURED.

Considerable interest is sure to be taken in the VI Corps Torchlight Tattoo which is to take place on the cricket ground, Stadtwald, Lindenthal, Cologne, on Monday and Tuesday evenings next. In order to enable those who attend the Cavalry Division Races to be present, the proceedings will commence at 9.30 on Monday and 10 o'clock on Tuesday.

In all 1,200 men will take part, including the massed bands of 11 battalions, 250 strong. The calls will be played by massed bugle bands. German civilians are to be admitted, and there is a stand capable of accommodating a thousand officers. It is expected that the Commander-in-Chief will be present on one of the evenings.

The torch-bearers are being formed by the 3rd Machine Gun Battalion and the 9th D.L.I., and are being trained by Lieut.-Col. Betts, D.S.O., of the Army Gymnastic Staff.

ARMY CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Boxing And Other Events At Solingen.

Eliminating contests for the Army of the Rhine Championships were held by the 13th Bn. K.R.R.C. at Solingen on Wednesday. The preliminary rounds, contested in the afternoon, promised some exciting finals and expectations were fully realised for the large attendance in the evening witnessed some particularly good boxing. The winners should go far in the latter stages of the competition.

OTHER COMPETITIONS.

In the Basket Ball competition C Coy team were the winners.

Over sixty took part in the cross country race. A great deal of interest was evinced in this event, the winner being Rfn. Brown (C Coy), Rfn. Freeman (A Coy), 2 Lieut Zipfel (C Coy), and Rfn. Tegge (A Coy) were 2nd, 3rd. and 4th respectively.

The prizes were distributed at the conclusion of the boxing contests by Major F.W. Parish D.S.O., M.C., commanding the 13th Bn. K.R.R.C

EASTERN DIVISIONAL CRICKET CUP FINAL.

The final match for the Western Division Cricket Cup was played off between the 1st M.G.C. and the 51st S.W.B. at Lindenthal yesterday afternoon, and resulted in a win for the M.G.C. by 176 runs to 59.

1st. M.G.C.—Pte. Howard, 4; Sgt. Burdon, 0; Lce. Cpl. Ashdown, 97 (not out); Maj. Rees, 8; Lt. Richardson, 4; Maj. Heyland, 20; Pte. Dodsworth, 15; Pte, Nicholas, 0, Lt. Griffin, 5; Pte. Crowe, 10; Sergt. Ford 5; Extras 8; Total 176.

51st S.W.B.—Lt. Gibbons, 9; Capt. Pritchard, 6; Lce. Cpl. Wicks, 5; Lt. Ayers, 1; Capt. Wilson, 0; Lt. Lonnon, 7; Capt. Simpson, 2; Sergt. Illingworth, 8; Lt. Cooper, 9; Cpl. Henson, 0 (not out); R.S.M. Bridges 12; Total 59.

Pte Nicholas took 6 wickets for 31 runs for the M.G.C.

CAVALRY AT POLO.

The 17th Lancers beat the Lancers Machine Gun team at Kalk, on Thursday. The 17th Lancers team consisted of Capt. R. St. J. Fowler, M.C., Capt. Venn, Lieut. A. W. Gossage, M.C., and Lieut. Macreeny, all of whom played a splendid game. The match was one of the series in the polo tournament.

AMERICAN CIRCUS.

6000 People Watch The First Performance.

STREET PROCESSION.

Yesterday morning large crowds of people watched with interest the passage of the American Circus procession through the streets of Cologne.

The 300 odd performers who comprised it, together with a hundred specially trained horses, cages of wild animals, an elephant, two bands and, of course, the inevitable stream of excited children bringing up the rear, wended their way through the principal thoroughfares with all the pomp and circumstance that is necessarily associated with this type of entertainment.

If the object of the procession was to provide "doubting Thomases" with tangible evidence of the many and varied items to be seen at the big show of which this was a preliminary, the object was undoubtedly achieved.

The bright and coloured costumes and the gaily decorated vehicles and animals formed a vivid and animated spectacle. One could not fail to marvel at the apparently unlimited possibilities of Army amusements. Something akin to sheer audacity must surely have prompted the First American Division even to attempt such an enterprise, but all concerned are to be congratulated upon the great success of the project.

THE BIG SHOW.

Under a bright sunny sky, 6000 people, or thereabouts, watched the ever changing and thoroughly entertaining evolutions of the performers in the big ring at the first show in Cologne yesterday afternoon.

The show opened with the customary Grand Entry of "a galaxy of circus stars gathered from the four corners of the earth", as the programme has it. Then followed twenty extraordinarily clever acts which were reminiscent of Barnum and Bailey's, Bostock's and Buffalo Bill's great productions.

Perhaps the most striking of all the good things provided was the act given by the Merry Monkey Drillers comprising 50 men and horses. The surprising feature is the fact that the riders are all members of the American Army and the animals are selected from the Army transport. Standing with one foot on the back of each of the off horses of three abreast and galloping furiously round the ring, wherein there are obstacles, is but one of the many thrilling feats these people perform.

OTHER FINE ACTS.

At another time in the proceedings, there are two comedy jugglers, trapeze artistes and acrobats performing simultaneously while during every break in the serious business, forty clowns provide irresistible merriment. Lack of space prevents the publication of details of all the acts. Suffice it to say that a visit to the Circus may be strongly recommended and certainly will not be regretted.

The Side Show is full of the wonders of the world and the programme concludes with an excellent minstrel concert.

During the last act of the Big Show yesterday, an unfortunate accident occurred. In the course of the exciting chariot race, one of the vehicles became detached from the four horses drawing it and overturned on top of the driver. The extent of his injuries was not known.

17th ROYAL FUSILIERS.

Win the 3rd London Infy. Bde. Athletic Cup.

The 17th Battalion Royal Fusiliers secured the 3rd London Infantry Brigade Athletic Cup, presented by Brig.-General J. S. J. Percy, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., by obtaining the highest number of points in the Brigade Sports last Tuesday.

The results were.

17th Battn. Royal Fusiliers 34½ points.
23rd Battn. Royal Fusiliers 16½ points.
26th Battn. Royal Fusiliers 15 points.

SOUVENIR OF THE GREATEST DAY.

The 5th Tank Brigade M.T. Coy. have had printed an artistic souvenir programme of their peace sports and concert with the names of all concerned, including the winners of the various events, recorded. The programme consists of four pages of good quality paper held together with silk cord in three colours.

An appropriate poem entitled "Home at Last" by "C.S.C." divides the sports results and the concert programme. As a souvenir, the production is bound to serve in the years to come to recall the greatest day in history.

CRICKET FRIENDLY.

4th Bn. Suffolk Reg. v Army Bakeries at Kalk in rather dull weather on Saturday. For the Suffolks Lieut. Bailey D.S.O., M.C., took 8 wickets for 8 runs, getting 4 wickets in 4 successive balls, and Pte. Pither 2 for 8.

Scores:—Bakeries 21; 4th Suffolk 156.

DARVEL THE MARVEL.

R.G.A. Gunner Takes 8 Wickets for Nil in "C.P.C." Match.

Lieut. Smeeton's bowling record in our Cup Competition—7 wickets for 0 runs—has been surpassed by Gunner Darvel of the 73rd Bde, R.G.A., who took 8 of the Midland D. A. C. wickets for 0 runs. His deliveries are described as being unplayable.

77 Siege Bty. (162 for 3) v Mid. Div. M.T. Coy. (18) at Godesberg. Quite the features of the match were the batting of Bdr. Heys who made 102 (not out) and the bowling of Sergt. Garmonsway (6 for 7) and Capt. Fenton (4 for 5) for 77 S.B.: Sergt. Garmonsway scored 38.

No. 5 R.T.C. (72) v A.P.O. S. 40 (128) at Kalk. For the winners Cpl. Mack (62) showed splendid form, playing beautiful cricket and giving few if any chances. For the losers Sergt. Fysh scored 21 and Pioneer Harris 19.

2/4 HANTS (68 for 6) v 31 LABOUR GROUP (47). For the winners Sergt. Taylor scored 20 and Major Westmoreland hit hard for 12 not out, while Pte. Trentham secured 7 wickets for 22 runs. Pte. Snowball, of the Labour Group made 19.

51st HAMPSHIRE REGT. (72 for 5) v SOUTHERN DIV. R.E. (44) at Wermelskirchen. For the 51st Hants Sergt. Woodfield made 21 and Cpl. Leaman 17, while R.Q.M.S. Williams took 8 wickets for 14 runs. For the R.E.'s the only man to reach double figures was Spr. Smedley who made 13 not out.

16th LANCS FUS. (120) v LANCS DIV. SIG. COY. (111) at Bonn. Pnr. House for the Signals, carried his bat for 75. For the Fusiliers Pte. Bradshaw scored 39.

23rd ROYAL FUS. (91) v 303 SIEGE BTY. (42) at Overath. For the Fusiliers Pte. Birkeley scored 31 and L/C. Simmonds 27, while Sergt. Taylor took 6 wickets for 17 runs and C.S.M. Russell 4 for 20. For the losers Pte. Wilkinson was their outstanding player taking 7 for 21 and scoring 19.

52nd BN. NORTHUMBERLAND FUS. (79) v 2nd T.M.B. (20) at Sülz. For the N.F.'s Pte. Wilsher scored 26, Cpl. Peters 16 not out, and Major Palmer 10, while Pte. Wilsher took 6 wickets for 7 runs and Lieut. Deucher 4 for 8.

WAHN SURVEY DET. (26 for 1) v 12th ROYAL IRISH RIFLES (20) at Haan. Cpl. Jones captured 8 wickets for 6 runs, which included the "hat trick". Gnr. Holt also bowled well, acting for W.S.D. C.Q.M.S. Pullen and Lieut. Davis each scored 10.

9th D.L.I. (116) v 24th VET. HOSPITAL (6). For the D.L.I. Pte. Brianley scored 35, Sergt. Dickson 15 and Forthingham 10 not out. In the last over Capt. Gibson for Durham took 4 wickets.

MIDLAND D.A.C. (48) v 73rd BDE. R.G.A. (24) at Nieder-Elvenich. The visitors batted first but did not make much headway against the home bowlers—Gunner Darvel especially, who was unplayable. The Brigade only compiled 24, Darvel being responsible for no fewer than 8 wickets for 0 runs. The Column started badly, but eventually pulled passed their opponent's score, thanks to Keeble and Darvel, and finished a pleasant afternoon's cricket with a total of 48.

OTHER RESULTS.

13 Kings Liverpool Regt. 82; 303 Siege Battery R.G.A. 45.
354 Siege Bty. 31; 488 Siege Bty. 14.
1/6 West Yorkshire Regt. 64; 1/5 West Yorkshire Regt. 53.
1/6 West Yorkshire Regt. 136; C/113 Bty. R.F.A. 45.

SEMI-FINAL AT KOMMERN.

2nd Mid. Bde. Inter-Coy. Knock-Out Competition.

D Coy. 15th South Staffs Regt. (73) v 2nd Mid Bde H.Q. (38). Bde. batted first and found it very difficult to obtain runs, Burton taking 6 for 4 and Ford 4 for 24. Extras was top scorer with 7. Don Coy. gained the necessary runs with the loss of 3 wickets, Burton making 33, and Lieut. Orford 23. Lieut. Richards took 3 for 16.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

The Tangerines.

The Tangerines Concert Party of 2/4th Bn. Queen's Regiment, gave a performance last night at Haus Frankenforst. The party although consisting only of seven gave a very fine and creditable performance, Billy Raynor (Sgt. Whittaker) was splendid and his songs "Human Systems," "Apple Dumplings" etc., brought the house down. Lieuts. Brewis and Simpson were excellent in their songs "Everybody's Jazzing" and "Wild, Wild Women." "Queenie" (Pte. Head) and Phyllis (Pte. C. Irving) were dainty girls. L/Cpl. Griffiths at the piano was also at his best. On the whole a very enjoyable evening was given by this merry little party.

French Artistes' Recital.

It requires a very high degree of artistry to convey the impressions and wonders of the great composers to an audience, when that audience is seated upon straight-backed wooden chairs, in a hall that has an inexplicable atmosphere of depression. On this account all the more credit is due to the French artistes who took part in the recital at the Gürzenich hall, Cologne, on Tursday evening for having charmed a very meagre audience by their efforts. Mme. Gabrielle Gills undertook a wide range of items, including a charming little song in English entitled "Come back." In her singing she revealed the possession of a soprano voice of extraordinary purity and a vivid sense of the dramatic. M. André Dorival and M. Pierre Sechiari included Saint-Saens, Mozart, and César Frank in their selections for violin and piano. Their programme was delightfully rendered, the only criticism being, perhaps, that the pianist was slightly heavy in two of the extremely delicate passages of Saint-Saens' Sonata No. 1.

"The Prongs" at Opladen.

"The Prongs," the 92nd Bde. concert party entertained a large audience at Opladen on Wednesday. A new sketch, "The R.T.O." was a great success. In it there appeared J. Robinson, the popular Lancashire comedian, Edwin Batey as the R.T.O. and Fred O'Bayman, female impersonator. Other members of the party who contributed popular items to the programme were Charles Castle, Joe Wade, and Bert Rudd.

JACQUES.

OLD SCOUTS' CORNER.

On Saturday last we spent a very interesting and exciting two hours with the Tanks at Rhiel. The afternoon was a great success, and the thanks of the "Circle" go to those responsible for the outing and the crew who manipulated the internal workings of the "monster." The route was ideal for Tanks, the ground being fine for the necessary bumps and jars that are all in the day's work with "tanking." All were eager for a ride, and the first eight that entered the small iron monster could only see innocent looking ground all around and must have thought it was all plain sailing. The engine was started, forward a few yards, then a "jazz" to the right which nearly put a certain Corporal in hospital. The next stunt was a drive over a bank which caused a gasp of dismay from all watching; for those inside ignorance was bliss, but tons more followed and all had a share. Cameras were busy and many exciting photographs were taken which we hope to see on Saturday.

* * *

We then adjourned to the Durham House Y.M.C.A., where a good tea was waiting kindly prepared by Mr. Organ. Even a tank could not have done more damage to the plates of goodly viands than did the hungry party that attacked them. Finally we all went to Lindenthal Y.M.C.A. where a singsong in the music room ended a jolly good day.

* * *

On Wednesday last we spent a profitable two hours discussing the question of Character. The subject was opened by Lt. W. Charters.

* * *

On Saturday we are going for a trip on the Rhine in a Motor Launch. All old Scouts meet under Hohenzollern Bridge (where Bonn tram starts) at 2.15 p.m.

ROVER.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Naval Racquets Champion.

The Navy Racquets Championship was won at Prince's Club, London, by Lieut. J. C. Leach.

Rotherham's Capture.

Teddy Glennon has said good-bye to Sheffield Wednesday after being connected with the club for nine years. He has been transferred to Rotherham County.

Army Regatta.

What an interesting meeting an Army regatta would be, in which all regiments could compete! Perhaps the Army Sports Control Board or the Army Rowing Association will look into the possibilities of such a regatta before next season.

Wilde and Driscoll.

Jimmy Wilde and Jim Driscoll will furnish the chief items in an attractive open air boxing tournament at Rotherham on August 9. Mr. Eugene Corri will act as referee in a competition which is being promoted by Mr. W. Widdison, the well-known Yorkshire sportsman.

The Carnoustie Style.

At the Scottish amateur tournament at Montrose last week nearly all the Carnoustie players adopted the interlocking grip. This is the scheme by which the unison of the hands is secured by placing the little finger of the right hand between the index-finger and second finger of the left.

Farewell.

Tom Hayward has said farewell to first-class cricket—at least so it is stated and so it would appear.

Folkestone Prepares.

The whole of the buildings on the Folkestone racecourse have been vacated by the War Office, and will be fully reinstated before the meeting on August 11 and 12.

Jack Doyle.

Doyle is built on remarkable lines for a lad of his weight. He has the height and reach of a feather-weight, and yet he does not appear particularly thin or "spindly" while his strength is undoubted.

How not to box.

There were unfortunate scenes at The Ring on the occasion of the meeting of Kid Doyle, of Salford, and Alf Mansfield, of Aldgate—scenes which may speedily sound the death-knell of boxing, according to one authority.

Cricket Feat.

White's feat of taking sixteen wickets in a day has on one occasion only been excelled in first-class cricket. This was in 1907, when the late Colin Blythe, playing for Kent against Northamptonshire at Northampton, took all ten wickets for 30 runs in the first innings, and seven wickets in the second for 18—seventeen wickets in all for 48!

£559 Profit.

Hull City are among the football clubs that can look back on the last football season with a sense of satisfaction financially. They made a profit of £559.

Brilliant Cover-Point.

Much interest will centre in the first appearance of L. P. Hedges for Kent. The Tonbridge School captain is undoubtedly a magnificent batsman, and is a brilliant coverpoint.

Tom and W.G.

Hayward shared with "W.G." the distinction of having made over a hundred centuries, viz., 88 for Surrey, seven for Players, six for England, two for South, and one for an England XI.

Anglers' Valhalla.

Salmon-fishing is the sport at Gordon Castle, Fochabers, and when a guest has been particularly successful a plaster cast is taken of his best salmon, and this is hung in a sort of anglers' Valhalla, with the captor's name.

Football Loss.

Bradford Northern report a loss of £129 4s. 3d. Against this is set £86 4s. 3d. from the Supporters' Fund, which leaves a net deficit of £43. The gate receipts during the season amounted to £655 5s. 2d., and of this amount £118 16s. 8d. was absorbed by the entertainment tax.

Goodwood of Old.

The annual racing reunion at Goodwood dates back to 1801, and it is interesting to note that the stakes originally amounted to only a trifle over £600.

Charities Benefit.

The sum of £136 will be divided between King Edward's Hospital and St. Dunstan's as the result of the charity match between Surrey and Middlesex at the Oval.

Millwall's Manager.

Friends of the Millwall Club will be interested to hear that Robert Hunter, who received and accepted the offered post of manager during the war, will continue to act in that capacity next season.

No School Golf.

We have no inter-school, or inter-class rivalry on the golf links. The Universities, thank Heaven, do keenly present the bill in a competitive connection, but until that stage, if the boy reaches it at all, nothing is done for him at all.

Donoghue up.

Templeman had been riding Irish Elegance at exercise, and was under the impression he was to steer the big horse in the Stewards' Cup, but Mr. James White, the owner, had engaged Donoghue, and the matter was amicably settled, the latter having the mount.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Torchlight Tattoos.

Torchlight Tattoos are becoming popular in Rhineland. The VI Corps will hold one on the Cricket Ground Stadtwald, Lindenthal at 21.00 hrs. on the 4th August and 22.00 hrs. on the 5th August. Entrance will be free to all ranks. We yet hope to see a monster combined tattoo of the Rhine forces in the Neumarkt. It would be a most impressive spectacle which would long be remembered by the inhabitants of Cologne and our own men before the Army of Occupation is reduced to its ultimate srength.

"Sheffield Steel."

There are not a few soldiers who think that because they see articles so labelled in local shops the goods in question are of steel manufactured in Sheffield, Yorkshire. Of course, they may be. Germany was a large customer of Sheffield manufacturers before the war, and no doubt she will be again. But there is good reason to believe that when a vendor has his goods marked "Sheffield steel" he means that the steel is made by a similiar process, or after the style of that made in England. Sheffield cutlers are at present endeavouring to protect themselves by asking Parliament to give them a vested ownership in the word Sheffield.

Similar Deceptive Instances.

Whether they will succeed or not is doubtful, for there are several similar cases in the commercial world. Witney blankets, Brussels carpets, and Wharfedale printing machines are but three of many instances showing where it has been impossible for localities to limit the use of a place-name. So if any of our readers be inclined to believe that goods offered for sale in Rhineland are genuine Sheffield steel, let him or her remember Yorkshire pudding. It is "made" nearly all over the world, but where out of Yorkshire can the real stuff be got? A few wags will perhaps be telling us that a Shetland pony is a Shetland pony, no matter where it is bred. But is it?

Dogs for Draught Purposes.

Apropos of our recent paragraph dealing with ox-drawn vehicles, has anyone noticed the surprising amount of haulage work done by dogs in Rhineland? The same thing, of course, occurs in Belgium and Holland. Although in Cologne it is an uncommon sight to see a dog drawing a cart, in smaller towns like Seigburg, and in rural districts, an everyday spectacle is miniature farmers' waggons drawn by surprisingly small and wiry dogs. Despite their size, however, these dogs are exceedingly strong. When the carts are piled high with heavy garden produce the driver will also mount on the load and the dog set off at a rattling pace which leaves one gaping with amazement.

Where are the Babies?

Married men in the Army of Occupation have, no doubt, noticed that there are few babies on view in Cologne and district. Perambulators are conspicuous by their absence. During the whole of a long walk, the number of perambulators with young occupants could be counted on the fingers of both hands and it would be a rare sight indeed to see a German father proudly pushing a perambulator which contained his offspring. What is a common sight in England, is an unusual occurrence in Cologne. If we are to judge by appearances, the German birth-rate must be low. What are the decisions which contribute to such a state of affairs? Is the young fräulein averse to marriage and motherhood? Is the male population so denuded by the war? In any case it is a mystery to the uninitiated.

Butterflies.

In the Museum at Düren, there is a collection of butterflies and moths, exhibited in a way one does not see in English museums. The cases containing them are two-sided, and stand in the room, like steep sloped reading desks. At the back of the case is a mirror which covers every part of it. Thin strips of cork are fastened to this mirror at intervals, and into these strips the pins which hold the butterflies are stuck. The result is, that by craning the neck slightly, you can see the underside of the insect reflected in the mirror, and compare it immediately with its top side. In most collections, if there is any beauty in the underside of the butterfly's wings, it requires a second specimen, pinned upside down to show it. Dare we call this German way of exhibiting "Insect Economy?"

Flood Marks.

We all know the occasional floods on the Thames and have heard of similar troubles on the Seine. Old Father Rhine also swells his breast each spring till he is level with his banks between the bridges at the Stapelhaus and puts three feet of water over the Merheim meadows. His three greatest efforts are noted by stones let into a building at the corner of the Leystapel and Filzengraben, which show that in 1882 he was about eight feet and in 1876 about five feet above the tramlines, while in 1774 he was about twenty feet above the quay, which—judging by eye—means that his waters must have been lapping the Hohe Strasse or thereabouts

The old Castles.

Frequently you see the ruins of old castles perched seemingly precariously on the hills. As you wander among their ancient walls, you seem transported into another world. You can imagine a chieftain of the old days emerging from his castle and proudly surveying his possessions, while "The Rhine, the Rhine, the German Rhine" flowed swiftly along beneath his feet—the Rhine that for generations has inspired poets. As you survey the scenes, it is possible to understand to some extent the German's love of his Fatherland.

Rhine Scenery.

Anyone who has not availed himself of the present opportunity of viewing the Rhine scenery, to be seen in all its beauty from Bonn onwards past Mayence, should lose no time in doing so. The railway runs by the Rhine-side practically the whole way, so if you do not feel inclined to ramble, you can feast your eyes from the carriage window. The river winds its way between high hills covered with vegetation. For miles the hillside can be seen with thousands of vines adorning its slopes.

English or German?

Apropos of the recent controversy as to the nationality of our National Anthem, it is interesting to note the many (hitherto recognised as) English songs which are apparently also of German origin. A visit to any café while the string band is giving selections will illustrate this, and in the village Gastnauses one may hear English songs sung with gusto by the villagers. Chief favourites appear to be our "Asleep in the Deep," "Love me and the world is mine," "Hip Haddy Hay" and "The Man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo." Just who did write these songs?

Not Even the Seat of War.

What has happened to all the public seats in Germany? The old reply that they have been used for munitions can hardly apply in this case. The tramway shelters are simply bare sheds with nowhere to sit down (and this is no joke in places where the cars run at half hour intervals), but the railway stations are the chief offenders in the matter of seats. Even in Cologne stations, long stretches of platform are destitute of anything on which to rest limbs, while the stuff search round for the 5 o'clock to Siegburg. As one disgusted Tommy recently put it, "We ain't entitled to blinking seats, we ain't; we are the perishing 'Standing Army!'"

To-Day's Jape.

A certain Sergeant Major in a Highland Battalion was standing in his company office. The Company Commander had before him a German letter, and turning to his Second in Command said that he would have to have it translated. The Sergeant Major promptly sprang to attention, saluted and said: "What you want, sir, is an interrupter."

Lesser Echoes.

The Wrafs of the Rhine playfully call themselves the "Collodginy Wrafs."

Several readers want to know where they can obtain copies of such popular war poems as "Spottie," "Napoo," and "The Hell Gate of Soissons." Can anyone say?

Several hundred men in No. 42 Stationary Hospital are without a gramophone to enliven the long hours. Can anyone supply this want?

In the country districts of occupied territory, all civilians between the ages of 12 and 45 have now to be inoculated in accordance with a new German order.

It is said to be still taught in German schools that it is always foggy and "obscure" in London.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes". Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Rifleman A.F. Edwards, No 60750, c/o "A" Branch, G.H.Q. Rhine Army, Gnr. F.C. Darby, c/310 Brigade R.F.A. Highland Division, Rhine Army, Gnr. G. Jonnson, 303 Siege Bty. Rhine Army.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

In Gold.—The German customs taxes will have to be paid in gold.

State Monopoly.—A state monopoly for matches has been ordered in Germany.

Tickers Taxed.—The German Government has decided to levy a tax on watches.

More Salubrious.—A new garden suburb is being planned for Tottenham.

Costly Chattels.—All kinds of furniture are selling at very stiff prices in England.

Will Cost You Less.—Motor-cars are said to be falling fast in price.

Service at Home.—The question of awarding a special War medal for Home Service is under consideration.

Destructive.—The ravages of the common moth are said to be almost as ruinous as those of the rat.

A Better Purpose.—The ex-Kaiser's yacht "Meteor" is being used for re-patriating British soldiers to South America.

A Heavy Toll.—So far the coal strike in England has cost the miners nearly two millions in wages.

The Aftermath.—After four years' banishment, poverty is creeping back to the mean streets of England's towns.

Is it the Last?—Asked if he believed this war was the last war, Hindenburg replied: "Only dreamers believe that."

French in Russia.—There are still French prisoners in Russia waiting to be exchanged.

Army Music.—The War Office has formulated an ambitious scheme of Army music.

Jewelery Goles.—Munitioneers are for the most part pledging expensive jewelery acquired in the golden age of war wages.

Still Going Down.—German marks and Austrian crowns are still falling in value in Switzerland.

Business as Usual.—Business relations between Italy and Germany have been resumed.

The Prince's Train.—A Yaxley woman committed suicide in front of a train in which the Prince of Wales was riding.

Unlucky Kid.—"Wilson Peace" were the names given to a child christened at Finchley.

Boys Own Businesses.—A remarkable feature of the war period was the number of boys who set up businesses of their own.

The Upward Trend.—Since the war the wages of manual workers in England have risen from 100 to 120 per cent.

Aids Revolutionaries.—Foreign revolutionary agents are largely using Esperanto as a means of communication.

Crafty Afghans.—In spite of the Amir's peace overtures some of his troops are still fighting on the Indian frontier.

A Busman's Holiday.—One of our most famous admirals is spending his holidays in a wherry on the Norfolk Broads.

Plenty of it.—If this year's harvest and the import facilities for brewers' materials are good, beer will be abundant in Great Britain in the coming winter.

The Coming Tussle.—America is said to be bribing the business brains of England with large salaries to cross the Atlantic and help in the trade war.

Liked Harry Tate.—The absurdities of Harry Tate's "turn" especially amused the King when he visited the London Coliseum the other night.

Strong View.—Lord Aberconway thinks that so far as it represents the opinion of the individual worker the card vote is a fraud.

Good Money For All.—The Labour programme provides for a minimum wage for everybody and claims to abolish destitution for all time.

Our Practical King.—While the King is at Balmoral he will dispense with the previous custom of having a Minister in attendance.

Played For Years.—"The Broken Melody" which was toured for thirty years by the late August Van Biene is being shown on the film with music by his son.

Ill-Treating Belgians.—A German officer who was arrested in Cologne recently for ill-treatment of Belgians has been sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Wires Home.—Telegrams for Great Britain are now accepted again at Berlin Post offices, at a cost of 65 pfennigs a word.

When women Bob.—Since women have taken to wearing their hair "bobbed" men have adopted the style of long locks.

Selling Our Goods.—The Government says it is no part of their policy to discourage British traders from competing in the German markets.

For Security.—Now that everything in the home has risen in value many people are seeing the wisdom of increasing their fire and burglary insurances.

They Are So Popular.—It is being asked whether the present limitation of 500 War Savings Certificates per person cannot be removed.

An Old Time Game.—The Bishop of London is trying to revive the old Sussex game of stoolball for wounded soldiers. He plays it vigorously himself.

A Pleasant Prospect.—Milk is to be raised to three shillings a gallon in England early in September; meat will also go up in price then.

Prefer Outdoor Life.—Many girls who have been driving Army cars during the war are greatly depressed at the thought of going back to office or shop work.

More Holidays.—Most of the public schools in England are having an extra week's holiday in celebration of peace, as suggested by the King.

Films at Home.—By means of a new invention anyone having electric light in the house can show ordinary "movies" by means of a hand projector not larger than an ordinary suit case.

Precocity.—A boy who had two years training in a commercial college became a company promoter and is now in gaol on a charge of obtaining £1,000 by false pretences.

Shall we Blush?—"The Edinburgh Evening News" refers to the cultured manner in which "The Cologne Post" consistently endeavours to mould the young soldier's mind.

Heavy Crime Roll.—The epidemic of crime in Great Britain shows no signs of abatement. Never was the number of murder mysteries so great.

A Woman "Freeman."—Strangely enough the first "freeman" of the borough of Stourbridge is a woman—Lady Catherine Sarah Grey.

A Great Novelist.—As a sequel to the George Eliot celebrations at Nuneaton last week, a George Eliot Society is to be formed.

An Eight hour Day.—A South London grocer's letter to the Early Closing Association reads:—"Herewith 10s, towards the funds. Don't forget "Sunday Closing" whole or part time for all shops. I am doing 105 hours a week."

Plenty Still.—The number of German prisoners of war located in various parts of the United Kingdom is 91,818. Most of those areemployed on agricultural work, and some are clearing up camps on the East Coast.

Making Flannel.—At Llamortyd Wells, a factory has been established by Mr. Arthur Beckwith, where disabled ex-service men may be instructed in making Welsh flannel, and equipped free of charge with a loom when proficient.

Should Resign.—Notices are being issued by the L.C.C. intimating that to find employment for demobilized sailors and soldiers, women tram conductors are expected to resign.

Tents as Hotels.—The total hotel accommodation available in Great Britain is insufficient to meet the demands of motorists and tourists generally. The Army camping tent has been used in many places.

NEARING THE END.

Story of the Final Collapse of Germany as Told in Official Records.

BELA KUN'S FORCED EXIT.

GERMAN WHITE BOOK

REVELATIONS OF THE WAR'S FINAL PHASES.

A White Book just issued by the German National Assembly contains all documents relating to the period from August 13 to November 11, 1918, in so far as they refer to the peace offer of October 3 and the armistice agreement of November 11. The German Government says in the preface that it has decided on the publication of all the material because the people wanted to know the truth.

The Council of August 14, under the presidency of the Kaiser, was the beginning of the peace action. In the middle of July General Ludendorff had maintained that the enemy would be definitely and decisively defeated in the offensive then proceeding.

A month later it was known to be impossible to win the war militarily, but the Kaiser decided to await an opportune moment, "the next German success in the West," to try to come to an understanding with the enemy through neutral mediation.

On September 3 Count Hertling rejected the idea of an immediate peace offer, and when Austria, notwithstanding Germany's opposition, issued a direct appeal to the belligerents, Germany decided still to adhere to neutral mediation, which, however, failed in its purpose.

Collapse of Bulgaria.

Then came Bulgaria's collapse, and on September 21 the idea of a direct appeal to America appears in the documents for the first time. A few days later the Foreign Office was ordered to communicate this proposal to Turkey, and if Turkey agreed the new Government which was being formed in Germany was to dispatch a peace offer to President Wilson, "so that the proposal would emanate from a new Government."

The peace action then entered upon a new phase. Changing its attitude, the Supreme Army Command requested the urgent dispatch of the peace offer owing to the acute danger of the military situation. Quite a number of telegrams and telephone messages from Main Army Headquarters reached Berlin on October 1 to the effect that a break-through might occur at any moment. In the evening of the same day General Ludendorff declared that the Army could not wait another 48 hours.

On October 2 General Ludendorff telephoned to Berlin the draft of a Note to America, which in its main features accorded with the Note subsequently dispatched. On October 3 Prince Max asked Main Army Headquarters whether they were aware that a peace action under pressure of military distress involved the loss of the German colonies and German territory, especially Alsace-Lorraine and parts of Poland. Marshal von Hindenburg replied that the Army Command insisted on its demand for an immediate offer of peace. Under this pressure the Note to America was dispatched on the night of October 3.

On the 9th October Colonel Heye declared "I am not afraid of a catastrophe but I want to save the army, so that we have a means of pression during Peace negotiations."

Wilson's second note of the 15th October was very much stronger and for the first time armistice and peace were separated from each other. People and army protested against the tone and General Headquarters asked if the German masses would continue the struggle to the end or if the moral force of resistance was exhausted.

It was a shifting of responsibility. The people were downhearted because the military power had broken down. Now they said the military power would excuse its breakdown because the people were downhearted!

On the 17th October. Ludendorff was again in an optimistic mood and the question of reinforcements in the West by evacuation of Russia and the Ukraine was discussed.

On the 20th October. Hindenburg announced that Turkey had commenced separate peace negotiations and that Austria would follow. He described the military situation as very bad, but added that Germany's fate would not be worse in case of a complete defeat.

The German note of the 20th October announced the end of the U-boat war. The sinking of the "Leinster" was announced immediately afterwards.

Wilson's note of the 23rd October expressed doubts as to interior state of affairs in Germany.

An exchange of telegrams with Vienna to prevent a separate peace was made in vain and the rest of the story is now ancient history.

An appendix deals with a series of documents concerning the resignation of the Kaiser and Crown Prince.

FALL OF BELA KUN.

NEW PRIME MINISTER A COMPOSITOR.

Yesterday Bela Kun fell from the high office he has so shamefully abused.

After the defeat of the Red Army he summoned a sitting of Soviets and Commissaries of the people and made a despairing statement about the desperate situation. The Soviet Government had no option but to resign.

A purely Socialist Ministry has been established with a compositor named Beidel as Prime Minister. Their avowed policy is to keep order in the interior and to begin negotiations with the Entente.

£4,400,000 A DAY.

RUINOUS EXPENDITURE.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain informed the House of Commons on Thursday that the average daily national expenditure (including advances from the Civil Contingencies Fund in respect of services to be met from moneys provided by Parliament) for the period from April 1 to July 26 was £4,442,000. Expenditure in the early part of this financial year, he added, was no safe guide to the total for the year. This is at the rate of £1,642,500,000 per annum.

It being the last day allotted to Supply in the House of Commons, the outstanding votes were put from the Chair under the usual guillotine resolution, and in ten minutes about £460,000,000 was voted without any discussion.

HAIG ON PENSIONS.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig was presented with the freedom of the Borough of Kingston yesterday. Replying to a speech in his honour he said he was deeply gratified to read the recommendations of the Pensions Committee and that the Government had accepted them without reservation. Every day's delay added to the suffering of men who had already suffered too long. It was a real happiness to him to think at last that there was a good prospect of the Government dealing with ex-service officers and men, particularly those who are disabled, in a manner worthy of the services rendered to national greatness. Every one must co-operate to secure proper training and permanent employment for all who served the country in the great war.

KING OF THE BELGIANS TO VISIT AMERICA.

The King of the Belgians, accompanied by the Queen and their children, are expected to land in New York in October, and to proceed immediately to Washington to pay a formal visit to the White House. They will make an extensive tour of the United States, going as far west as the Pacific coast.

LABOUR TROUBLES IN JAPAN.

Notwithstanding the fact that the existence of trade unions is forbidden under Japanese law, the workers in practically every industry in Japan have recently combined to present claims for increased wages and shorter hours, and almost universally their claims have been conceded without any strike resulting. The increase of wages ranges from 20 to 60 per cent., and there has been a general reduction in the number of hours worked, the general effect being to increase the cost of labour to twice, and in some cases thrice, the pre-war level.

NORTH RUSSIA INDUCEMENTS.

The personnel composing the forces about to be sent to North Russia will be paid a special allowance from the date of embarkation at the rate of 4s. a day for officers and 2s. 6d for other ranks, in addition to ordinary pay, allowances and bonus. Two months special furlough with full pay and allowances will be granted immediately on their return to England.

THE NICE, CLEAN CADET.

"Your hair is short and you all look nice and clean," said General Sir Charles Woollcombe, Inspector-General of Cadets, in complimenting the Cadets at the Marlborough Secondary Schools Camp yesterday on their appearance on parade.

NEW RANKS IN R.A.F.

BIG RECRUITING CAMPAIGN STARTING.

It is announced by the Air Ministry that under the scheme of re-organization of the Royal Air Force the following distinctive titles will be adopted. The highest rank will be Marshal of the Air, then in succession: Air Marshal, Air vice-Marshal (Equivalent to Major-General); Air Commodore (Equivalent to Lieutenant Colonel); Group-Captain (same as Colonel); Wing Commander (Major); Squadron-Leader (Captain); Flight Lieutenant (Lieutenant); Flying Officer or Observer (Second Lieutenant); Pilot Officer (Midshipman or Cadet).

Prospects In The Force.

Within the next three months the Royal Air Force want 15,000 men, of whom 12,000 are required to be skilled workmen, and in order to fill up the ranks a recruiting campaign is being opened. The appeal is specially directed to ex-Service men—men who have served during the war in the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service. Men between the ages of 18 and 26 are eligible, but there are vacancies for a certain number of men over 26 provided they are skilled. The term of service is four years. Pay and prospects are good, and in the next five or six years, when the aircraft industry has developed, men who have served in the Royal Air Force should find abundant opportunities for making good in civil employment. Skilled men are urgently needed, but the youth of 18 or so will be welcomed, and he will receive a sound training in all branches of aircraft production, while at the same time enjoying good pay and conditions. There are Royal Air Force depots in the principal cities, and altogether something like 200 units throughout the country where men can join up. A special staff is being appointed to deal with recruiting. Promotion to the skilled man will come quickly, and men who desire to fly will have opportunities of doing so.

MUNICIPAL STRIKE.

MEN NOT SATISFIED WITH GREAT CONCESSIONS.

Kensington Borough Council met last night to try to settle the strike of 600 Borough employees. The Council have agreed to the demand for a 47-hour week and an extra week's holiday, with full pay, but refuse a further claim of back pay. The men, however, decline to return to work until this is granted.

The Council gave notice that they were willing to keep their situations open until Wednesday, August 6. Any employee who fails to resume duty then will be regarded as having resigned from the service of the Council, and forfeited all claims to the Borough Superannuation Fund.

As a result of the strike, the streets have not been swept for a week, and look dirty and neglected. Householders are suffering inconvenience from accumulations of refuse. Officials of the Town Hall are acting as lamp-lighters.

GERMAN PRISONERS SUBDUED.

The stern warning addressed to German officers by the military authorities at Park Hall Camp, Oswestry, has produced the desired effect. Prisoners are now quite amenable to orders and give no cause for anxiety.

The week-end has seen the departure of the first batch of 170 German prisoners from Park Hall to their Fatherland. More prisoners are constantly arriving from other camps, which are closing. One prisoner, who was warned to get ready to go with the first batch, died on the same day. Parties will leave every week. No Scapa prisoners are yet being returned.

FAMOUS BUFFET CLOSED.

A pretty little ceremony marked the closing of the Countess of Limerick's free buffet for sailors and soldiers at London Bridge Station yesterday afternoon. This is the last of the free buffets at the great London termini to close its doors. It has distributed during four and a half years over 7,000,000 cups of tea and other refreshment to outgoing and homecoming soldiers. The Countess was presented with a George II. silver salver subscribed for by the members of the staff and helpers at the buffet. The depot, she said, had a fine record, and they had never had a rude man there.

GHOULISH HOUSE HUNTERS.

The house shortage at Ashford, Kent, is so acute that when a man dies his widow is immediately besieged by callers inquiring whether she intends to give up the house and also offering to buy the furniture. One widow found it necessary this week to give public notice that she "still requires a roof over her head," and that she has no intention of giving up her house or selling her furniture.

The Executive Committee of the Navy League has resolved to endow a Chair of Naval History at the University of London.

Madame Tetrazzini, who has not been heard in England for over five years, will make her reappearance at the Albert Hall on Sept. 20. She will later make a tour of Great Britain.

POLICE STRIKE.

COMMON SENSE ATTITUDE OF MAJORITY.

Late on Friday afternoon the number of Metropolitan police on strike was 568 out of a total force of 22,000. The Home Secretary told the House of Commons that the strike, except at Liverpool, where 310 men out of 2,000 where out, was a failure. An official notice was issued yesterday dismissing all strikers from the Force.

The strikers held a meeting at Tower Hill during the morning, but the majority present were loafers. The method of picketing the stations was discussed and men were afterwards marched off for that purpose but their efforts only resulted in thirty-two other constables coming out during the afternoon. The provinces so far are unaffected with the exception of Liverpool.

When the Police Bill came before Parliament for the report stage, general regret was expresed at the ill-advised action of the men in withdrawing from duty. Labour members moved to delete the clause preventing the Police Federation from associating with other associations, also the clause prohibiting a policeman from being a member of a trade union. The report stage was passed and on the third reading Mr. Shortt declared that the measure was not intended to be an attack on Trade Unions but was designed for the welfare and efficiency of the Force and he thought the majority of the police realised that. The Bill was read a third time.

Sir Nevil Macready states that at eleven o'clock on Friday night, 854 men were out. He regards the position as very satisfactory and has no intention of suspending leave or calling up the specials.

LOST "N.S. 11."

THEORY OF DISASTER.

Only one body has so far been washed ashore from the wrecked British airship "N.S. 11," that of Sergeant Charles H. Lewry, of Gosport.

At the inquest at Cromer no fresh evidence was forthcoming as to the cause of the accident. An officer of the R.A.F. said all that was known officially was that the cause was fire, the origin of which was a mystery. Lewry was second coxswain. He was believed to be steering the airship when the fire occurred. If he were he would be in the forepart of the car, and it was possible that the latter was broken when it reached the water and released his body, as well as two seats which would be near him for the use of the pilot, and were found among the wreckage washed up. It was probable that the body of the car broke down by the two heavy engines sinking with the remainder of the crew imprisoned inside.

A witness from the Pulham Aerodrome said when the airship "N.S. 3" was lost in the sea some time ago five of the crew were rescued. They were able to escape from the car on to the floating envelope, but in that case there was no fire such as occurred in the wreck of the "N.S. 11."

The Coroner recorded a verdict of "Found dead on the beach after being washed ashore from the wrecked airship."

DERBYSHIRE OIL BORINGS.

An interesting experiment is being made at one of the Derbyshire oil wells at Heath. A considerable volume of gas is escaping from the shaft, and opportunity has been taken by the American staff of Viscount Cowdray to use this waste force for drilling machinery. A boiler has been put down, and this is fired by natural gas, which generates the steam to run the engine. Drilling has been suspended at Hardstoft, on the Marquis of Hartington's estate, pending the installation of a powerful pump to increase the flow, which has slightly increased to 540 gallons per twenty-four hours.

BRIG.-GENERAL'S FOURTH D.S.O.

One of the longest lists of D.S.O. awards ever published was issued last night as a supplement to the "London Gazette." Brigadier-General Denman Craft has won a third bar to the D.S.O. for great gallantry at the crossing of the Lys in October last. He was gazetted D.S.O. on January 1, 1917; 1st bar, January 10; 2nd bar, July 26, 1918.

It will be recalled that another Brigadier-General, Arthur Melland Asquith, Mr. Asquith's third son, won the D.S.O. three times.

GURKHA TACTICS.

Wiring from Dakka a Calcutta correspondent details a stirring episode when a company of Gurkhas picketting a hill surprised a body of Mohmands lying in ambush for a cavalry reconnaissance. The Mohmands, intent on watching the cavalry, never noticed the Gurkhas till the latter were almost on top of them. Then they fled to a ravine over the crest of the hill. Finding that they largely outnumbered the Gurkhas, the Mohmands returned, and firing at short range took place. Our riflemen were certainly in great peril at one time, but one platoon worked round the side of the hill, and took the Mohmands by surprise a second time and they fled.

Brig.-General Guggisberg has been appointed Governor and officer in charge of the Gold Coast in succession to Sir Hugh Clifford.

COAL DEADLOCK.

STRIKERS LIKELY TO DISOWN LEADERS.

A complete deadlock prevails in the Yorkshire Coal dispute. The failure to open the door to a settlement is almost as disheartening to the miners as to the public, the miners having cherished a hope that they would be back at work next week.

The situation is somewhat perplexing, as no one seems to know which side will make the next move.

The second week's strike pay, amounting to £77,000, was paid out yesterday.

There is evidence of a groning antagonism against the miners among the workers in large industrial centres, who have been displaced by the coal strike, and the miners themselves are tired of the strike.

It is quite likely that within the next few days the men will take matters more or less into their own hands and hold mass meetings, at which there will be some plain speaking.

R.A.F. OFFICERS KILLED.

SIDE-SLIP CAUSES CRASH AND TWO DEATHS.

A side-slip of a Bristol fighter (250 h.p.) aeroplane was responsible for the deaths of two R.A.F. officers at Cranwell aerodrome, Lincolnshire, on Thursday.

They were Second-Lieut. W. A. Roberts, of Shirebrook, Derbyshire, the pilot, and Second-Lieut. Edward Ireland, of Liverpool, the passenger.

They ascended for a flight to Liverpool, taking off against a slight head wind. When about 200 feet up the pilot banked at a steep angle, and before the machine recovered it, side-slipped, crashed to the ground, and immediately burst into flames.

A squad of men immediately went to help of the airmen, but it was impossible to extricate them. The machine was a complete wreck, and the two occupants must have been killed instantaneously.

SABOTAGE.

WORLD'S BIGGEST SILVER MINE WRECKED.

The most disastrous fire in the history of the minefield has occurred at Broken Hill South, causing damage estimated at £200,000 and throwing 1,000 men out of work.

This conflagration was the climax of a succession of suspicious fires, and is believed to have been brought about by the "Industrial Workers of the World" because the mine was being partially worked despite the strike. The main shaft is charred to a depth of 30ft., and the plant above ground has been reduced to ashes.

"DIRECT ACTION" BALLOT.

The Parliamentary Labour party met at the House of Commons yesterday to consider a motion on tha question of "direct action" — the policy of industrial strikes on purely political questions — but in view of the fact that in accordance with the resolution carried at the Southport conference of the Labour party, the national Labour organizations are at present considering the whole matter, the discussion was adjourned.

Mr. Frank Rose moved a resolution stating that the Labour party emphatically dissociated itself from "direct action" policy upon which a ballot is now being taken by the Triple Alliance, and also from those who have been active in pushing this policy forward.

ROYAL WATER PAGEANT.

The Royal barge in which their Majesties will make their river progress on Monday has been brought down from Staines to London.

The barge, which is about 40ft. long, is enamelled in white, with red and gold relief work. It was built in 1688 to the order of William III., who gave it as a present to his consort at their proclamation. It has not been seen on the Thames since the King and Queen and Princess Mary visited Henley regatta seven years ago. The crew of eight King's watermen will be in charge of Mr. W. G. East, King's bargemaster (an ex-champion sculler), and will be stroked by Ernest Barry, the world's champion sculler.

RENTING A PRISON.

Chelmsford Town Council are applying to the authorities for permission to utilize H.M. Prison, Springfield, used during the war as a military detention barracks and now vacant, for the purpose of providing accommodation for people unable to get houses.

BELATED NEWS.

It was not till Feb. 27 that the news of the armistice reached part of Labrador. The good news was brought to the Moravian Mission station by three dog sledges with flags flying. The Eskimos brought out all the bunting they find, and had a bonfire on the ice, around which the National Anthem was sung, and cheers given for King George.

GALLANT CONSTABLE

RESCUED WOMAN FROM BURNING BED.

An inquest was held at Lewisham yesterday on Harrietta Phyllis Thorn, thirty-seven, and Phyllis Ivy Thorn, seven, the wife and daughter of an engineer living in Manor-lane, Lee. The child was found in flames in the street, and when the house was entered her mother's body was discovered on a burning bed. The child died in hospital.

Evidence showed that Police-constable Pulham entered the room on three occasions—the third time with a wet towel wrapped round his head—before he succeeded in pulling the woman from off the burning bed. A bottle of paraffin was found in the bed-room, and the woman's clothing smelt strongly of the oil.

Dora Flower, sister at Miller Hospital, stated that although she could not give the child's exact words, she understood her to say that her mother had said that "God wanted them," and set alight to her clothes.

The jury found that Mrs. Thorn had set herself and the child alight while in a state of temporary insanity, and the Coroner recorded verdicts of murder and Suicide.

NEW FOOD ORDERS.

BUTTER RATION FURTHER REDUCED.

Three important Food Orders were issued on Friday. As a result of the partial failure in supplies of imported butter, retailers and catering establishments and institutions buying wholesale will receive during the ensuing week, and until further notice, only 75 per cent. of the amount to which they have hitherto been entitled by their permits. The maximum amount which individual customers can obtain from their retailers will be reduced, on and after August 11, from 2oz. per head per week to 1½oz.

Until further notice pickled herrings, filleted smoked herrings, filleted pickled herrings, and cured or spiced herrings, may be bought and sold free from restrictions.

In view of the continued excessive slaughter of calves during the past few months, an Order has been made prohibiting the sale of veal except to manufacturers, or as part of the contents of sausages, meat pies, and similar articles. A retail butcher or caterer must not sell veal except as an ingredient of sausages, meat pies, or similar articles. The Order comes into force on Monday.

DUBLIN POLICE SERGEANT SHOT.

Detective-sergeant Patrick Smith was shot by a band of armed men in Dublin on Wednesday night, and his condition is very grave. He was actually riddled with bullets. Ten shots were fired at him at close range, and five of them took effect.

He was only a few yards from his house when five or six men appeared at the corner of the road behind him and fired at him. A policeman, who was attracted to the place by the shooting, carried the sergeant to his home and called an ambulance.

The sergeant is a married man, 48 years of age. In consequence of attacks on two other members of the detective force who live in the same neighbourhood, houses have been guarded at night by policemen, but recently the guard was withdrawn. There have been no arrests.

"GROGGING" OR "BULLING."

Percy Gillings, cooper, of Romford-road, Forest Gate, at West Ham Police Court, was fined £50 or in default two months' imprisonment, for having in his possession twelve casks which were being subjected to a process for the purpose of extracting spirits absorbed in the wood.

It was stated that on the defendant's premises rum casks were found which contained water, and the prosecution contended that the process of "grogging" or "bulling" was in operation, with the spirit absorbed in the wood, on which no duty had been paid. In the various samples taken from the casks four proof gallons of spirit were found, the duty on which would be £10.

INCOME TAX CLAIMS.

The Commissioners of Inland Revenue announce that income tax paid on wound, disability and disablement pensions, also on War Gratuity, is being repaid to officers and men direct. Anyone not receiving payment by August 16th should in the case of officers communicate with the Paymaster General's Department and in the case of N.C.O.'s and men with H.M. Inspector of Taxes for the district in which they were assessed.

HAIG'S NEW COLONELCY.

The King has approved the appointment of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig to be Colonel of the Royal Horse Guards in succession to Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, who has resigned.

Major General Sir C. Bingham succeeds Earl Dundonald in the Colonelcy of the 2nd Life Guards.

The French Cabinet has decided on the suspension of the custom duties on raw and refined sugar.

THE SPORTING CHANCE.

When undue risks are taken and money is chanced that could be more wisely employed otherwise, then gambling becomes a curse and should be strongly discouraged.

The love of a sporting chance is, however, a natural human instinct which in some form or another will always assert itself.

Just now a spirit of gambling is undoubtedly in evidence everywhere. Partly it is the outcome of five years war and the desire for relaxation and excitement which is affecting the world generally. But whatever the reason is, it exists.

Countries like France and Italy which found the lottery was becoming a national danger and rigorously suppressed it some years ago, are reviving it under the stress of financial needs. Money is needed for war debts and it is easier to get the people to chance small sums in the hope of big gain than to entice money from them for legitimate investment.

Although we have not gone as far and the suggestions to adopt premium bonds in England has been vetoed, the Government made a slight concession to the new spirit when it launched the recent Victory Loan. There is no doubt that much of its attractiveness to many was due to the sporting chance offered of redeeming at intervals a certain number of bonds at a figure in excess of the subscription price. Thus a new factor has been introduced into British finance and we have in the Victory Loan a modified form of premium bond.

There is no gainsaying the fact that this year has been remarkable for the number and high value of the sweepstakes organized for many purposes. Never before have there been so many "sweeps" on big racing events or such huge prizes to be won. The famous Calcutta Sweepstake scored a record number of entries.

Here in Rhineland the popularity of the "sweep" organized by the VI Corps on Derby Day was phenomenal, with the result that the lucky winner walked off with as much as £750.

Then the Leave Club officials conceived the brilliant notion of holding a similar event to encourage the purchase of Victory Bonds and in a few days so many tickets were bought that a soldier in the Rhine Army became the proud owner of £870 worth of the Loan.

These are but a few instances of the prevailing taste for the joys of chance. We are not pointing any particular moral from the facts. The phase will probably pass. It may not be a very healthy sign of the times, but there are worse things to tackle in the complex problems of to-day.

THE PALACE OF DELIGHT

I passed throught the crowded streets of this city by the Rhine with a strange feeling of loneliness. At times my heart was heavy within me. In many a gilded room I heard the sound of music and saw the sons and daughters of Rhineland making merry, but this had no charm for me.

At last I came to the portals of a huge building through which men in khaki were ever streaming. Their faces were lighted up with the joy of anticipation and I passed in with them, and stood upon the threshold of the Palace of Delight.

My loneliness vanished as if by magic and I felt at peace with the world.

To the left I entered a hall that is called the Loreley; here were many cosy corners with luxurious couches. How restful it seemed to be! The divine enchantress of long long ago whose name it bears could not have longed for a sweeter bower. It was crowded with men who were enraptured with the music of a master violonist.

Nearby was a music corner called "Elgar" and in it were all kinds of instruments upon which men could practise to their hearts' content. Here, too, was a musical director, a great master, whose time and skill is given to all who need it.

I passed into a great hall and gathered there were two thousand men listening to the daughters of our far off island home. Soft rays of light surrounded their graceful forms revealing their charms. The men gazed with intense pleasure at the perfect picture on the platform.

One of the party—which is known by the name "Lena Ashwell"—sang a song which thrilled through the silence, soft and plaintive, like the sweet notes of a nightingale on a still summer evening.

The song finished and the silence was broken by a shout such as I have never heard before, and once more we heard the song:

"It flooded the crimson twilight,
Like the sound of an angel's psalm"

and those men rejoiced in that hour.

Oh! the pure delight of it all as singer followed singer. Sometimes their voices mingled in a part song, and one told us stories which made us laugh and weep.

I passed through the outer door into a yard where men can play cricket under the guidance of a real wizard of the game, and thence to a fairy: like chamber of huge dimensions.

The walls were all painted with mounttac scenery and there were numerous rusini tables and chairs.

Here were charming ladies serving out with smiling faces, choice dishes such as my soul loveth—fish and chips, puddings and tarts, and fizzy drinks to quench one's thirst, and ices of melting sweetness.

Many other wonderful rooms I saw where men can read and write, and can also receive instruction in strange languages and dancing.

On God's own day they sing and worship, for men's spiritual needs are not forgotten—the earthly pleasures light up those which point to heaven. To this Palace of Delight none are ever denied. Its doors are opened wide to all that come.

The guiding hand, the life and soul of all its joys is that Greatheart Doctor Francis, and the flag that waves over its portals is that of the Red Triangle. A boon to thousands, a home from home is the Central Y.M.C.A. G.K.

"MAC."

One "enjoys" the society of a variety of comrades in the Army, but one of the best I ever met is just a dog who rejoices and is exceeding glad in the name of "Mac."

Englishmen often say that there is no bad beer, but that some kinds are better than others. I think there are no nasty dogs, but the nicest dog of all is the one that you know and love — in my case that is "Mac."

The man who has never loved a dog has missed a great deal in life — almost as much as the man who has never loved a woman. A healthy minded man should love all women and all dogs, but one woman and one dog the best of all.

"Mac" is dear to me for many reasons — one is that he always enters into and sympathises with my moods. If I feel happy and vigorous enough to go a'walking, then happiness shines in Mac's eyes and he runs ahead of me, vigorous and noisy.

When I feel miserable and sit moping in my billet, Mac sits and mopes too, probably ruminating with regret on the time thus wasted, which might so profitably be spent in chasing cats and rabbits, or fighting some other dog.

One thing that appeals to me tremendously is that when he is glad he is so very glad and when he is sorry he is so very sorry.

It is a fairly safe rule in life to beware of the man who always meets your gaze tranquilly and readily. Whether the same principle applies to dogs I do not know, but "Mac" never looks me straight in the eyes for he has a slight squint.

Mac's parents were both employed in the French Army, and he appears to have inherited soldierly qualities. Twice he has been wounded by shells, once he was buried under fallen debris caused by a bomb and once he was gassed. Yet his happiest moments appeared to be when the guns were in action.

When we where "resting" in a French village, one morning "Mac" rose up early and went out seeking trouble. He saw a cat and rushed at it. Had pussy run away in accordance with precedent, all might have been well, but, alas, she showed fight and her funeral took place the same day.

Not a bell was "tolled" as we bore her to her last resting place, but a local belle was told of the death of her cat. It cost me ten francs to wipe away her tears. Afterwards I explained to "Mac" that it is very wrong to kill cats.

Since coming to Germany, Mac, like me, has enjoyed a civilian billet. Apart from slaughtering eight tame rabbits in the back garden, he has never abused this privilege.

After two years of Siege Battery work in France, "Mac" finds Germany quiet, but he likes the Light Divisional M. T. Company, just as much as the said Company likes him. He is a worthy comrade of the Great War. A. H. B.

EPISTLES OF PETER BIRSE, JUNIOR.

A Centenary Dinner.

Dear Maister Editor,

Accoardin' t' that feleesitus as weel as feseeshyus vreeter, "St." Augustine Birrell, there was aince a Bond Street dandy fa replied on hearin' menshun o' the Hoose o' Commons, "What! Does that go on still?" Weel, aw suppoas a seemilar refleckshun 'll maybe croass yer ackademic min' on seein' anither epeesil frae yer Scoatch contreebiter, Peter Birse, Junior, fa's been unco silen' for a curran ouks back. Aye, mon, aw'm still karryin' on, tho fat wi' lossin' bawbees on hoorsracin', plunging heavy t' the' extent o' 10 marks in a Victory Loan Sweepsteak, an' workin' a' oors o' the day an' nicht tryin' t' mak' up the grievus loass, aw've had naither the frame o' min', nor the naisesery amoont o' time t' drap ye even a pickter poast-caird. M' bonnie turtledoo's had t' gang a hale fortnicht withoot a letter.

This regraitabel feenanshal streengency on the paart o' the Birse Exchecker, 'at was refleckit daily i' the stock markits o' the warld, was naitrally condusiv' t' by-ordnar eckonomy i' the conduck o' m' preevat affairs. Hearin' a fusper 'at you an' yer estimawbel colleegs were contemplawtin' a denner t' celebrawt the sentenary o' yer peyper, aw begood t' mak' polite an 'judeeshyus enqueeries. Wi' mair luck nor eeswally comes my wye aw discover'd 'at withoot me 13 wid reluckantly sit down at the tabel, but hoo far that enter'd into yer cogitawshuns fan eeshuin' invitawshuns is nae for me t' say. Suffees it 'at aw was there, an' 'at the Scootch fusky, in fack the hale "moist joy," as an American "bar-keep" ca's it was baith plentifu' an' gweed.

Aince or twice some o' m' neibers speer'd gin aw wid pass alang the fusky bottels 'at surroondit me, but the Birse motto in a case like that is the same as Mairshal Foch's under raither deeferent sirkumstawnces— "Ils ne passeront pas."

M' only scroopel was the day o' th' ouk — Sindanicht — for aw'm nae sue braidmindit as a Wee Free, an' Kirsty laid doon the law on the pint thirty-sax 'eer ago. But if a padre can sup in publick on the Loard's Day, shurely yours truly can dae the same? The fourmer daes naething wrang excep' gowf withoot swearing. So aw risk'd the denner come fat may.

At the feast as ye're weel aware, auld Scotia was lamaintably raipresentit in pint o' num'ers, but as eeswal fat she lackit in kwantity she made up for in kwality. For desert there was nane o' that eloosiv' slithery, pottit-heid stuff 'at the inglish ca' "trifle" or blank-mansh or something, an' richt gled aw was, for the rubbitch has let me doon badly time an' agin in ginteel sosecty. At an Oddfella's Ball ae Hogmanay nicht it ran doon m' fite weskit like a shoo'r o' weety sna, an' afore aw was dune aw' micht hae been tane for ane o' the big offeeshils in full regallia!

Anither stroke o' luck aw had at yer Lucullan bankwit was m' gweed fortyune t' sit neist till a denty, obleedgin' offisher i' the Scoatch Fussileers, fa keepit me richt wi' the kutlery. N'yod, aw begood wi' a perfeck ironmonger's shoppie, but b' the time aw feenish'd a'thing i' the steel-yaird tallied exack. The Padre verra conseederat' ly kennel'd his widden pipe for me t' folla, an' oot o' respeck for th' august company aw left m' clay pipe in m' billit an' brocht m' cherry. Ye canna be ower parteeklar in a big ceety hottel.

Richt weel dae ye deserve the coamplimen's bestow'd upon ye b' the Commander-in-Chief an' the Military Governor, for aw've kent ye sin ever the frageel bark left the hairber moo wi' a willin' but skeleton crew at the backend o' Mairch Sin that misty nicht ye've discairdit sails an' gaun into steam: ye've left the reejun o' unchairtit seas an' advers currents for safer depths an' ba'mier laitityouds. Here's t' the conteenit suckseess o' the S.S. "Cologne Post", its owners, its skipper, an a' conneckit wi't.

Yours respeckfully
Peter Birse, Junior.

OUR PART.

The Dawn of Peace is here;
But Clouds obscure the Sun:
Arise! O Wind of Patriot Pride
And sweep the Evil Mists aside
That o'er our Nation, far and wide
Light shed its Benison.

Our Best and our Most Dear,
They heard the Nation's call:
For us They fought, for us They died,
Their Youth and Hopes they crucified;
And so They passed, our Glorified,
And gave Their Land — Their All.

All that we have, each year,
Is ours, since They did give:
Shall Grasp and Greed our actions guide
And shame their Mem'ries sanctified?
They gave, and passed: but we abide,
O live for England, live!

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

ESTAMINET SIGNS.

Sir:—In Northern France and Belgium are many small inns or estaminets and to our men they were a welcome change from the mud of trench and cheerless draughty billet in the rest area. The curious signs attracted me more than a little. Here for example are some of them.

"A La Tranquilité," well known near Sailly La Bourse. By no means tranquil, clean or peaceful. At Philosophe near Vermelles was "Aujourdhui pour d'argent demain pour rien"; alas nothing was to be obtained even for money.

It was not far away that another estaminet bore the sign "A L'assurance contre la soif". Here indeed thirst could be quenched, but only on small beer.

A wide and pungent open sewer ran opposite to an estaminet with the sign, "Il vaut mieux boire ici qu'en face." A self evident truth. "A La Capelle" in Belgium made the path of "Monsieur" easy on Sundays. He could truthfully say "I am going to chapel" and it would be showing lack of confidence in "Madame" if she asked which?

Not far from Bailleul a sign bore, to me, the mystic symbol K with a stroke through the centre horizontally. This bothered me for a month and then I asked the Interpreter. Oh "Cabaret" don't you see? K, or as we pronounce it, Kar. Barré. Quite simple when you know how.

In Sailly was another cryptic sign. O.Bon.20.100.O. Think this out. It is not hard. Perhaps the Editor will give the solution to-morrow. C.F.

GYMNASIUMS IN GERMANY.

Sir,— One of the most striking features about German towns is the fact that almost without exception they possess an excellently equipped gymnasium.

At a time when physique of the people is of greater importance than ever, the provision of increased facilities for healthy exercise in Great Britain becomes a national duty. ATHLETE.

RECOGNITION FOR INTERPRETERS.

Sir,—I disagree with your correspondent who suggests that N. C. O's and men who have taken up German and who act as interpreters should receive special remuneration.

Interpreting is not the only specialist work in the Army, and it is difficult to see why an interpreter should receive extra pay when officers and other ranks who are specially employed—accountants for instance—do not. Most of those who have learnt German did so, I feel sure, for their own benefit, and not with the idea of becoming Army interpreters.

ANOTHER LINGUIST.

Sir,—I have read with interest "Acting Interpreter's" letter and heartily agree that recognition should be given to those who have taken the trouble to learn the language since their arrival in Germany.

But what about recognition for the regular established interpreter? In my opinion, there should be no question of an interpreter having to apply for rank and extra pay — the work he does and his all-round value to the Army should warrant voluntary recognition and reward.

REGULAR INTERPRETER.

IN PRAISE OF CONCERTINAS.

Sir,—I would like to enlighten a few of your readers who may have read L.W.H.'s recent article.

L.W.H. calmly discusses the pain he suffers from same, also without any apparent idea as to the vast difference between the two, therefore, with your permission, I will now attempt to illustrate same.

The "English Concertina" was first thought of by an officer in the British Army in the year 1830, but has since then been so improved upon, having attained such perfection as it possesses at present.

Should L.W.H. have any doubt whatever about my statement I invite him any afternoon to take a run on the train to Rommerskirchen station, and in a billet, not two minutes walk from there he may come in and listen to a real English concertina being performed on and "no restoratives will be necessary."

PLAYER.

LEAVE CLUB HOURS.

Sir,—I read with great pleasure the letter by "Interested" with regard to the altered hours at the B.E.L.C.

For the people stationed in or near Cologne the new arrangement is admirable, but for the more unfortunate fellows who are stationed some considerable distance from the city, it has its disadvantages.

In most cases the last train leaving Cologne for the outlying districts is between 9 and 9—30 p.m. which means that many of the "boys" have to leave while dancing is still in progress.

To enable them to be in their quarters at an irreproachable hour, members of the W.R.A.F. and of other similar organiations are now able to spend very little time in the ball-room.

A LOVER OF DANCING.

Sir:—In view of the later hours of the Leave Club dances making it difficult for the men from the outlying districts to attend, it has been decided that from Monday 4th August, the men's dances will commence on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7 o'clock instead of 7.30. and end at 9.30 instead of 10 o'clock.

THE SECRETARY.

FAVOURED AND UNFAVOURED.

Sir,—Replying to your correspondents, "Onlooker" and "Miriam," as "Onlooker" says, it is indeed noticeable that some of the ladies at the British Empire Leave Club dances have a favoured few to whom they give dances. I freely admit that others are very impartial in this respect, and sorry though I am to chide the charming members of the W.R.A.F, I must state that they are the chief offenders in this respect.

Although I follow dancing closely I had not heard that it had become the fashion to dance exclusively with one partner. I understood that the American fashion of changing partners constantly had begun to catch on.

I would also point out that there are no really new steps danced at these informal dances, the most recent probably being the "On Leave Fox-trot."

HAWKEYE.

1/4 MILE CHAMPION.

Cavalry Division Athletic Sports and Races.

In conjunction with the Horse Show, the Cavalry Division held a successful Athletic Meeting at Merheim on Friday, when a large number of spectators witnessed excellent sport. Among the competitors were several members of the Allied Forces. Lieut.-Col. Harrison won the 1/4 mile championship of the Rhine. Details of yesterday's races appear below.

YESTERDAY'S RACE RESULTS.

Large fields and exciting finishes were features of yesterday's races at Merheim, when there was a large attendance of spectators. The going was excellent. The Subalterns Cup was a remarkably fine race, the field including half a dozen previous winners of similar races. Late Report led the way practically from the start until half a mile from home when he was challenged by Naboth and others. Three hundred yards from the post, the horse slowed down considerably and Yes Uncle slipped past for third place.

Reynards Comet won the Rhine Nursery Sprint by a short head after an exciting race. Considerable dissatisfaction was freely expressed about this race on account of the "Toto" refusing to accept money for the winner on the ground that he would not run.

Events and Winners.

Maiden Sprint (For Cav. Div. horses that have never been placed in a race of any description, to be ridden by Officers who have never ridden a winner). Five Furlongs, Straight: 1, Display (Brig. Gen. T. T. Pitman, Hussar Bde.); 2, Josephine (Lieut. F. Gaskall, 10th Hussars); 3, Torpedo (Capt. C. O'Callagan, Ryl. Dgns.) 17 ran.

Cavalry Division Maiden Steeplechase (Similar conditions) About 2 miles: — 1, Coeur de Lion (Lt. J. Paton, 6th Dragoon Guards); 2, Montava (Lt. T. Meyrick, 15th Hussars); 3, Francois (Lt. E. Swayne, R.A.S.C.) 13 ran.

Rhine Army Stakes (For horses and Officers of the Rhine Army) 1st Division 1 mile:—1, Madeline (Maj. H. Tomkinson, Ryl. Dgns.); 2, Jingling Geordie (Lt. W. Kemmis, Inniskillings); 3, Jimcrack (Lt. S. Reid). 12 ran.

Subalterns Cup. (For bona-fide chargers of subalterns of Cav. Div.) 2 mile steeplechase course: 1, Naboth, Lt. S. Spicer, 12th Lancers); 2, Carmencita (2nd Lt. K. Murray, 1st M.G. Sqadn.); 3, Yes Uncle (Lt. Kelly, 9th Lancers). 13 ran.

Anniversary Cup (For horses and Officers of the Allied Armies) About 2½ miles: 1, Anthony (2nd. Lt. Rogers, R.W.K.); 2, Polish Banker (Maj. A. Needham, London Div.); 3, Waterfern (Maj. A. Tomkinson). 18 ran.

Rhine Nursery Sprint (Conditions as for 1st and 2nd races) 6 furlongs: 1, Reynards Comet. (Lt. D. Clarke, 15th Hussars); 2, Byron (Capt. E. Ford, R.A.S.C.); 3, Norah (Lt. W. Whynn, Ryl. Dgns). 17 ran.

Rhine Army Stakes:—2nd Div. 1, Johnnie Walker (Maj. C. Heydeman, 2nd Dg. Gds.); 2, Winamere (Maj. Sinclair R.A.V.C.); 3, Ballyhooley (Lt. W. Fennelly, R.A.V.C.)

Rhine Nursery Sprint: 2nd Div.:—1, Montreal (Capt. J. Richardson, R.H.A.); 2, Melody (Lt. H. Stocker, R.A.V.C.); 3, Beauty (Brig. Gen. J. Rotton, R.A.)

SPORTS PRIZE-WINNERS.

THE DAVIS CUP.

Davson and Turnbull in British Isles Team.

LOWE STANDS DOWN.

The team to represent the British Isles in the match against the winners of the French and Belgian tie for the right to challenge Australasia for the Davis Cup was chosen on Friday.

The match is to be played on hard courts at Deauville on August 25, 26 and 27, and this has evidently influenced the L.T.A. committee's selection.

As is natural after their good display against South Africa at Eastbourne, H. Roper Barrett and Lieut. A. R. F. Kingscote, M.C., have been again chosen, but T. M. Mavrogordato and A. H. Lowe stand down for P. M. Davson and O. G. N. Turnbull.

ENGLISH RACING.

Best Two-Year-Old At Goodwood Meeting.

By the fine style in which he won the Molecombe Stakes at Goodwood on Friday, Tetratema proved himself to be probably the best two-year-old of the season so far. Carslake hardly had to move on him, and Major McCalmont's colt won in brilliant fashion by four lengths.

The following were the results at Goodwood on Friday:—

NASSAU STAKES:—1, Keysoe (13-8); 2, Flying Spear (13-8); 3, Kaboodles (4-1).

CHESTERFIELD CUP:—1, Tangiers (100-15); 2, The Vizier (5-1); 3, African Star (4-1).

CHICHESTER PLATE:—1, Little Vic (6-1); 2, Dumb Waiter (100-8); 3, Pandion (2-1).

OPTIONAL SELLING PLATE:—1, Spean Bridge (5-4); 2, Brome Daisy (3-1); 3, Golden Gain (100-7).

GORDON STAKES:—Sir Douglas (7-4); Chat Tor, Two ran.

MOLECOMBE STAKES:—1, Tetratema (2-1 on); 2, Orpheus (2-1); 3, Marromeo (25-1).

CATTERICK RESULTS.

SWALEDALE PLATE:—1, Glorette (5-2); 2, Lovely Nightie (7-2); 3, Bepani (2-1).

COLBURN HANDICAP:—1, Theodosius (6-1); 2, Marcato (3-1); 3, Alligan (10-1).

RICHMOND HANDICAP:—1, Daylight Saving (4-1); 2, Lady Craigie (9-4); 3, Moaning Minnie (4-1).

CATTERICK HANDICAP: — 1, Attention (10-1); 2, White Sand (5-1); 3, Stars and Stripes (7—2) and Trovatore (5-1) Dead Heat.

TUNSTALL HANDICAP:— 1, Chelsho (11-10); Alobam (6-1); 2, Skookum Joe (2-1).

APPRENTICE PLATE: — 1, Jew (4-1); 2, Friar Denis (2-1 on); 3, Chuseuji (5-1).

11th SCOTS SPORTS WEEK.

"B" Company Win A Novel Competition.

The sports week of the 11th Royal Scots proceeds apace. Wednesday's proceedings opened with a cross country run which "D" Company won. Then followed inter-company cricket. This was continued on Thursday, when "C" Coy met "D" Coy. The former batted well and compiled 85, afterwards disposing of their opponents for 20. Pte. Heap was in good bowling form, taking eight of "D" Coy.'s wickets for 13.

Among other items on the programme, great amusement was provided on Thursday by an "Alert" Competition. A team of four men from each Company had to harness and load a mule with two boxes of ammunition, blankets, etc. The men were ensconced in a bivouac, and, on a given signal, packed up their "house," loaded the mule, donned full marching order and stood ready to advance. "C" Coy. was successful in gaining first place.

In the Challenge Cup Tournament at Cowdray Park on Thursday the Cavalry beat Aldershot by 7 goals to 6.

DRAMATIC CRICKET.

Half of The Surrey Team Out For 26.

CRAWFORD IN FORM.

Cricket of a dramatic character was witnessed at the Oval on Friday. Surrey, on going in, fared so badly that in half an hour they lost half their wickets for 26 runs, some of the most reliable batsmen on the side failing in an unaccountable fashion. Gregory was bowling at a tremendous pace, and with Collins at the other end keeping a perfect length little surprise would have been occasioned had Surrey found recovery impossible.

As it was, however, Surrey pulled the game round so well that when an innings on each side had been completed they were only 114 runs behind. To Wilkinson and Crawford belonged the chief honours.

Scores: —
Australians 436 and 8 for one.
Surrey 322.

YORKS v. SUSSEX.

In a very fine innings of 65 in the Yorkshire-Sussex match at Old Trafford on Friday, Rhodes gave no chance and but for his resistance Yorkshire would have been in a bad way. Bowling with excellent judgment, Albert Relf took six wickets for just under 11 runs apiece.

Scores: —
Yorkshire 187 and 5 for no wkt.
Sussex 271.

Schools At Lords.

Haileybury 119 and 23 for no wicket.
Cheltenham 316. (R.C. Swain 143, A.C. Keel 74).

AWARD OF PRIZES.

At the close of the proceedings Major-General Sir E. V. Strickland, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., (Commanding 9th Corps) awarded the prizes. The chief prizes were those awarded to the 53rd Bn. S.W.B. for winning the Brigade Athletic Sports Championship (a silver cup presented by Brigadier-General F. G. M. Rowley, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.) and a special prize of two silver trumpets presented by Major-General T. A. Cubitt, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., to 104 Bde. R.F.A. for winning Event 6 in the Horse Show.

An impromptu competitive concert was then organized by Lieut. Bromham and the prize (a silver cup) was awarded to Pte. Shaw (Western Division Orchestra) for his baritone song "When You Come Home." The musical element was supplied by the bands of the 51st Leicesters and the 52nd S.W.B., and the Western Division Orchestra. One must not forget to mention the 51st S.W.B. Jazz Band, who with their "impossible" costumes, antics, and "music" kept the attendance in the best of good humour for two whole days. The visit of the troupe of Morris dancers from Euskirchen also contributed very largely to the success of the proceedings.

CRICKET FRIENDLY.

"X" CORPS SIEGE PARK (47) v. 5th SQ., R.A.F. (29) at Hangelar. The R.A.S.C. batted first, Pte. Maudsley (3) and Cpl. Gee (7) were top scorers. The R.A.F. could do nothing with the bowling of Maudsley and Gee, who took 6 wickets for 10 runs and 3 for 4 respectively. Lieut. Ring batted well, carrying his bat through the innings and scoring 15 runs.

BIG FIGHT POSTPONED.

Carpentier-Beckett Match Off For The Present.

The eagerly awaited boxing match between Georges Carpentier and Joe Beckett, it is now definitely stated, will not take place on September 2nd. as arranged. As the circumstances are unavoidable, Mr. C. B. Cochran, who has just returned from a visit to Carpentier and his Manager M. Descamps, has agreed to postponement, and hopes to secure a date towards the end of the year.

Mr. Cochran is desirous of disposing of the rumours about Carpentier's health, and that he wishes to evade a match with Beckett. The plain fact is that the Frenchman will not be demobilized until the end of this month, and consequently will not have sufficient time for training.

Descamps, on behalf of Carpentier, has agreed to meet Beckett at any time after November 1 next, subject to two months' notice being given by Mr. Cochran, and has deposited £1,000 as evidence of good will. Moreover, he is prepared to quote a side wager of from £500 to £1,000 that Carpentier will beat Beckett.

He undertakes not to box in England prior to his match with Beckett.

Descamps and Carpentier have also agreed that they will meet Dempsey under Mr. Cochran's auspices, and will not enter into any negotiations with Dempsey or any other promoter.

WHO WILL MEET BECKETT?

The question now is who will meet Beckett on September 2. Mr. Cochran intends to stage a programme on that date which will excel in interest even the original fixture. McGoorty and Fred Fulton will be offered to Beckett, and the one not chosen by Beckett will be matched on the same night to meet either Wells, Townly, Curphey, Goddard, or Dick Smith!

Not content with these two bouts, Mr. Cochran will also offer a purse for either Wilde v. Moore, Wilde v. Ledoux, or Moore v. Ledoux.

Mr. Cochran has immediately commenced negotiations with several promoters of exhibitions at Olympia, and hopes to secure a date for Carpentier and Beckett towards the end of this year.

NOBLE V. LEDOUX.

Englishman "Loses" to French Bantam Champion.

In the boxing contest between Charles Ledoux, French bantam-weight champion, and Tommy Noble, ex-bantam-weight champion of England, in Paris on Friday night, the latter was knocked out in the tenth round. The Englishman has entered a protest against the decision, declaring that he rose on the count of nine.

The Frenchman had all the best of the first five rounds. He punched Noble all round the ring, and the Englishman aroused much hissing by adopting "stalling" tactics.

So far did he carry these methods, that, at the end of the fourth round he was warned by the referee for showing lack of fight.

Beginning with the sixth round, however, Noble got in several telling punches, and the seventh was very much to his advantage.

From here to the end there was a lot of clinching, and both men seemed tired. Almost immediately after the opening of the tenth round, Noble was down for a count of nine, and had hardly time to regain his feet when he was again sent to the floor. It was, however, in no way a knock-out blow, and at the moment that the referee gave his hurried decision, the Englishman was semi-erect and about to rise, with a confident smile on his face, while Ledoux was obviously groggy.

Inspection of the timekeeper's stopwatch showed that only nine and a half seconds had elapsed, but the decision of the referee was final.

The French papers, in their comments on the match, consider that the decision was unsatisfactory.

EVENTS AND WINNERS.

420 Siege Battery R.G.A. at Schlebusch Sports.

The Sports of the 420 Siege Battery R.G.A., held on Thursday last, were blessed with good weather. Racing was very good and keen. The Aggregate Cup (presented by the O.C., Major A.J.C. Pollock O.B.E.) was won by the Right Section with 60 points, closely followed by the Centre Section with 51 points.

A band was in attendance and much amusement was caused by a quaintly dressed-up party led by Cpl. Newham.

CIRCUS ITEMS.

Owing to the great success of the First Division American Circus in Cologne, arrangements have been made for additional performances to be given on Monday.

Notwithstanding the fact that there is accommodation for over 7,000 spectators at the big show, at both performances yesterday and on Friday evening, crowds of would-be patrons had to be turned away.

The accident to one of the artistes on Friday has happily turned out to be less serious than at first supposed and he has been able to resume his performance.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

A Splendid Entertainment.

The entertainment at the British Empire Leave Club on Friday night was on an entirely different plane from anything held before, and a great artistic treat to all lovers of music and dancing. Mlle. Laure Aman and Mlle. Marte Brantzkii, the two French dancers from the Cologne Opera, most generously gave a series of classical dances. Their performance was perfectly wonderful and charming. The first dance was the "Valse des Roses" to Schubert's music; then came "Les Deux Pierrots" in which Mlle. Aman and Mlle. Brantzkii wore white pierrot clothes, and pointed caps. Mlle. Laure Aman then gave a perfectly delightful "Valse de Paysanne" to Krauss' "Morgen Blätter," and Mlle. Marte Brantzkii's "Reveille de Printemps" was the impersonation of the spirit of poetry and rhythm. A different note was struck in their next exhibition, "The Scottish Dance." It was followed by the "Idyll Moment Musicale." Mlle. Marte Brantzkii gave two more solo dances, "The Valse des Fleurs" to Tchaikowski's Casse Noisette Ballet, and "Pantomine" to Schubert's Scherzo, and Mlle. Aman gave the "Danse Hongroise" to Brahms' music and "Grotesque" to Chopin's Valse in A—both charming. The programme ended by a Slavonic dance to Dvorak's music, and was full of fire and the bold spirit of the Slav.

Other Attractions.

Between the dances, songs were given by Pte. Moyes, who has a delightful voice of charming quality, Miss Ada Moore, whose appearance always evokes much enthusiasm, and Major Greenlees, whose splendid voice filled the hall. He was encored again and again; we still wanted more. The music throughout the evening was delightfully played, and it was no simple task, by Miss Hester Clark, Miss Smythe, Miss Lavie and Miss Somers Cocks (the Ladies' Leave Club Orchestra). When do these ladies find time to practise to such perfection? They always appear to be active on more everyday duties. During the interval a Foursome Reel was given by the Dancers of the 4th Bn. Gordon Highlanders, who marched up the hall with the regimental piper at their head. Among the distinguished visitors present were Lt.-Gen. Sir A. Haldane, VIth Corps Commander, Colonel Biddle (American Liason Officer), Commandant Comte de Massignac (Mission Francaise), General Cappelle (italian Liason Officer), Brig.-General Guggisberg, Colonel Dillon, Colonel and Mrs. Fane, and Col. and Mrs. Bruce and many others.

Whist Drive.

The popular weekly whist drive was held at the Club on Thursday evening. As well as the regular weekly competitors, some of whom have attended the games every Thursday since they started, there were a lot of fresh players, who thoroughly enjoyed the evenings entertainment. Prizes were won by the following:—1st. Cpl. Frost (gentleman) 2nd. Pte. F. Nennothy 3rd. Pte. Etellan. Ladies, 1st. Pte. A. E. Tomlin 2nd. Gnr. W. H. Penellium 3rd. Sgr. F. S. Butters.

Y.M.C.A. Future Events.

At the Loreley Hall to-day there will be a discussion at 2.30 p.m. on "Things that matter most." On Monday at the Central Y.M.C.A. there will be a Concert-Lecture at 7 p.m. by Mr. Arnold F. Jones with vocal and instrumental illustrations and from 6.30 to 9.30 cinema and orchestra. On Tuesday at 7 p.m. there will be a discussion on "Modern thought and missions," "The Tonics" concert party showing at the same hour.

In Few Words.

The Western Divisional Orchestra will play at the Deutsches Theatre to-night. Their repertoire ought to be worth hearing.

JACQUES.

GOING ON APACE.

Another Big Batch Of "C.P.C." Results.

MIDLAND D.A.C. v. 73rd BDE. R.G.A. The wizard bowler in this match reported yesterday—Gunner Darvel—as was stated in the detailed account of the game, was a member of the Midland D.A.C. club and not of the 73rd Bde. R.G.A. His analyses 8 for 0 constitutes a bowling record for the Competition.

2nd M.G.BN. (77 for 2) v. 12th R.I.R. (11) at Haan. The Rifles went to the wicket first but were dismissed for 11 runs, through wonderful bowling by Sgt. Mitchell and Pte. Pickles who hit the stumps on eight occasions. The Machine Gunners had no difficulty in knocking off the runs, Sgt. Mitchell being 37 not out, and Lieut. McMahon 24 not out. Mitchell took 6 wickets for 2 runs.

77th SIEGE BTY. R.G.A. (147) v. 18th FIELD AMB. (33) at Godesberg. For 77th S.B. Bdr. Hays scored 71; Gnr. Taylor 24 and Hirst 22 not out. Sgt. Garmonsway and Cpl. Fenton bowled exceedingly well. Serg. Garmonsway took 5 wickets for 8 runs and Cpl. Fenton 5 for 21. For 18th F.A., R.S.M. Green had 7 wickets for 55 runs.

90th FIELD COY R.E. (65) v. 63rd FIELD COY. R.E. (38) at Harff. For the winners Spr. Vino took 7 wickets for 15; Sgt. Smoker scored 19 and Cpl. Sharp 11. Spr. Webster made 13 for the 63rd.

29th BN. M.G.C. (102) v. 1/6th WEST YORKS (30). For the M.G.C. Major Harding made top score, 49. Bowling unchanged, Lieut. Astill took 5 wickets for 7 runs, and Cpl. Saddler 4 wickets for 16 runs.

41st M.G.C. (138 for 6) v. M.G.C. (129) at Heumar. The successful batsmen of the 41th were Lieut. Wandle (36), Pte. Lawler (24), Pte. Whybrow (34), and Capt. (Rev.) Scot (19). Lieut. Cane bowled well. For 41st M.G.C. Major Bourphrey scored 56. Pte. Blurton made 20 (not out) and Pte. Wood 29 (nots out). Special mention must be made regarding Pte. Wood, who played a splendid and consistent game, and was carried shoulder high off the field by supporters of both sides.

53rd NORTHUMBERLAND FUS. (199 for 5) v. 51st AUX. BUS. CO. (52) at Marienburg. Lieut. Worthington scored 72 and Pte. Crompton 50 and also took 5 wickets for 18 runs for the N.F.

121st HEAVY BTY. (134 for 7) v. 69th SIEGE BTY. (27) at Bonn. The Heavies continued their run of successes, Bdr. Cotterill (4 for 4) and Bdr. Harfield (4 for 6) being in great form with the ball. Bdr. Hopewell scored 60 and Capt. Huxford 23.

51st AUX. BUS. COY. (44) v. BAKERIES SPORTS CLUB (30) at Kalk. For the Bus. Coy. Pte. Tudor scored 14; Pte. Garlisk also batted well, while Pte. Tudor took 8 wickets for 10 runs. Andrews bowled well for the Bakeries taking 8 wickets.

51st ROYAL SUSSEX REGT. (113) v. EASTERN DIV. SIG. COY. (35) at Siegburg. For the winners C. Sgt. Evans (31), C.S.M. Bell (25 not out) were chief scorers and Pte. Edden took 6 wickets for 36 runs.

LONDON D.M.T. COY. (100), 31. LABOUR GROUP (40) at Merheim yesterday. The Labour Coy. won the toss and decided to bat first. The batting was not strong; the first 6 wickets only compiling 18, the whole side being out for 40. The best score was Pte. Colman not out 9. The D.M.T. Coy. soon reached the required number of runs at the cost of 3 wickets, the best scores being Lieut. Barlee (22), L/Cpl. Davis (18), Pte. Jacobs (not out 15), Lieut. Howard (15), Lieut. Wright (15). Pte. Jacobs took 6 wickets for 18, and Lieut. Wright 4 for 18

1/5th SOUTH STAFFS (150 for 9 declared). v 458th SIEGE BTY. (58) at Commern. The feature of this match was the batting of Parsons and Norman, the first named making 50 and the latter 52 not out while Burton took 5 for 28.

75th BDE. R.F.A. (117) v 237th FIELD COY. R.E. (45). For the Gunners, 2/Lieut. Chilman scored 24 and Dvr. Evans 20, while Capt. Emberton took 6 wickets for 20 and Bdr. Mitchell 4 for 14.

170 SIEGE BTY. (48) v D/190 BDE. RFA. (38) at Poll. Sergt. Everett scored 14, while Lieut. Barnes took 4 wickets for 18 and Dvr. Bingham 6 for 18 for D/190 R.F.A. For 170th S.B. Gnr. Nicholls took 5 for 27 and Gnr. Hollings 4 for 10.

174 S.B. (70 for 4) v MIDLAND DIV. H.Q. (67) at Brühl. For the H.Q. Pte. Blackwell scored 24. The fielding of Major W. Edwards C.F. was very smart while L/Cpl. Bailey took 3 wickets for 27 runs and Capt. Allerton one for 6. The Gunners declared for 70 for 4 wickets, Sergt. Street scoring 32 not out, Bdr. Graham took 6 wickets for 15 runs and Bdr. Frist 4 for 25.

29th BN. M.G.C. (219 for 4 declared) v 1/5th West Yorks (28) at Dabringhausen. For M.G.C. Lieut. Astill scored 97 runs not out, Cpl. Knight 37, Pte. James 36, and L/Cpl. Saddler 14 not out. Lieut. Astill took 7 wickets for 8 runs and Saddler 3 for 16.

1/4th YORK AND LANCS REGT. (150) v 31st LABOUR GROUP (44) at Blücher Park on Friday. Chief scores of the match: York and Lancs:—Pte. Senior, 48; Capt. Dixon, 22; Col. Headlam, 16. For 31st Labour Group, Pte. Spencer, 16. Good batting and keen play prevailed throughout the game.

185 SIEGE BTY. R.G.A. (39) v 104 BDE. R.F.A. (19) at Miel. For 185 S.B. Green and Yewdall took 5 wickets for 6 runs and 4 wickets for 4 runs respectively. For 104 Bde. Williams took 4 wickets for 16 runs and Brooke 6 for 18.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Public School Cricket.
In the first of the public school matches at Lord's this week Tonbridge beat Clifton by nine wickets.

Leg-Weary.
Silvester pulled up so leg-weary at the finish of the Goodwood Plate that after passing the post he stumbled and all but fell with his jockey.

Wilde and Moore again.
If Jimmy Wilde is prepared to meet "Pal" Moore again under the same conditions as in the last contest at Olympia, there will be no difficulty in the way of promoting the contest.

Rifle Competition.
Arrangements for the international miniature competition between this country and America are now complete. The British team has been selected, and will shoot on the Humber Bank Range, Grimsby, to-morrow.

Aston Villa F.C.
Aston Villa have booked the following men for next season:—Hardy, goal; Weston, Blackburn, and Maiden, backs; Ducat, Harrop, Leach, Moss, Worrall, and Hadley, half-backs; Wallace, Hampton, Stephenson, Humphries, Edgley, Walker, York, Bourne, Smart, Davis, and Robinson, forwards. Joe Bache, as already announced, has been transferred to Mid-Rhondda.

Veterans to the fore.
One of the outstanding features of the present cricket season is the success of the veteran players.

Charity Football.
The Cardiff Rugby F.C. charity committee raised £1,930 for charities last season, and also handed £1,000 over to the funds of the Cardiff Rugby F.C.

A Golf Record.
Ernest Jones, the Chislehurst professional, has not allowed his own record of 63 for the course to stand very long. He has now gone round in 32 strokes. The bogey for the course is 74.

Harold Rolph to Light Heavy-weights.
Having decided to take his discharge from the Canadian Forces, and remain in England, Rolph, who has now recovered from the injury to his left hand, is prepared to meet any of the light heavy-weights in Great Britain at the 12st 7lb limit for any part of £100 a side.

"Plums XI."
P. F. Warner's XI. against the Public Schools XI., at Lord's, on August 6, 7, has been chosen thus: P. F. Warner, R. H. Spooner, D. J. Knight, C. J. Hambro, Hon. R. Anson, R. H. Twining, S. H. Day, P. W. Sherwell, E. R. Wilson, H. W. Taylor, and Another. Play begins at 11.30 on the first day.

High Price Offered for a Two-Year-Old.
Mr. G. Marsh has been offered 10,000gs. for Bruce Lodge, who beat the Comtessine colt at Hurst Park.

New Athletic Record.
A new Finnish record has been made in the hop, step, and jump by F. Tuulos, who has jumped 15 metres 30 centimetres. He is the first European to jump more than 15 metres.

The Prince and The Girls.
A number of girls, who were about to take part in a tug-of-war at Woolwich Arsenal sports, crowded around Prince Albert, who shook hands with them all. Led by Mr. Will Crooks, cheers were given for the Prince.

45 Runners.
When Croagh Patrick won the Stewards' Cup in 1861 there were 45 runners. The next best field was the 39 that Doncaster's dam, Marigold, beat three years later, and there have been 31 or more on several other occasions.

Aldershot Trials.
Aldershot, always to the fore in athletic matters, has been first again among the commands in holding its trials for the Army championships, which take place on August 28 and 29. The results suggest that the home of the British Army will be well represented in the greater events.

Another Strike.
Forty hands employed at the Ballykisteen Stud, Limerick Junction, have gone on strike for increased wages.

Officer Sportsmen.
It has been decided to hold in the near future a memorial service to the officers and men of the 3rd Sportsman's Battalion of the Royal Fusiliers who fell in the war.

English Bowls Champion.
E. E. Moore, of Bellingham, won the championship of the English Bowling Association at Balham this week. In the final he beat E. Dean, of Bournemouth, by 21 shots to 16.

Welsh International Honoured.
Walter J. Martin, the Newport and Welsh International outside half, has been awarded the Medal of Honour, with Silver Palm, by the President of the French Republic, for "gallant and distinguished sevices" in the Salonika campaign.

A.F.A. Leaders.
At a meeting of the Amateur Football Association all the vice-presidents were re-elected with the exception of Mr. J. C. Coode, retired, and in the latter's place Mr. E. V. Speller was chosen. Mr. H. Hughes Onslow was elected to fill the place vacant by the death of Sir George Pragnell.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Army Newspapers.

An indirect allusion is made to "The Cologne Post" in an article which Lord Beanerbrool contributes to the "Canadian Daily Record," a journal published for Canadian troops during the war. The writer claims that the publishing of that paper broke new ground in journalism and established a precedent which was followed by the army authorities in publishing a news-sheet for the Army of the Rhine.

A Model Totalisator.

By way of adding interest to the 79th Brigade R.G.A. Sports, recently held at Cuchenheim, a totalisator on a small scale was introduced and bets were taken on every event, inclusive of heats. On the whole the betting was small and the odds paid out were nothing great except in one instance where a rank outsider, "backed" only by one man, romped home first. His fortunate "Backer" is said to have picked up at the rate of 60 to one. As is usual under this system, favourites picked up very short money, and it was found impossible to take place bets. Owing to the small number of betters there was none of the inconvenience and delay which characterises the larger concerns, but even with this improvement the experiment did not seem to increase sporting soldier's liking for the whole totalisation system. The English betting man likes to know the odds he is starting at even if the totalisator is the fairer system.

A Musical Bagman.

The men of a Highland battery in Rhineland were sitting down to dinner the other day, when a civilian entered, carrying a portmanteau, and with a mandoline slung across his back. Depositing his bag on the floor, he proceeded to give several selections on the instrument. Having concluded his musical programme it was quite expected that the usual proceeding of handing round the hat would happen and so the Jocks were sorting out their small change in anticipation. Instead of this, he put away his mandoline, opened his bag, and invited everyone to inspect his wares, consisting of razors, knives, watches and other articles, with a view to ultimate sale.

The Missing Bell.

Anyone who has traversed the dark and winding passages, through which one passes when ascending, the Cathedral Tower at Cologne, must have been impressed by the air of desolation and incompleteness of the room in the belfry tower, caused by the absence of the largest and most central of its occupants. The largest bell, known as the "Kaiser Glocke," which weighed one ton, and took 25 men to swing it, was removed early in 1918 to serve another and more pressing purpose, and its fragments probably, now lie scattered over some part of France, Italy, or Russia. Only the huge striker, and some skeleton ironwork upon which it was supported, remain, to emphasize its absence. Many bells must have earned the same "fate" in the last four years, and there are, no doubt, other incomplete belfries in many parts of the country.

Folding Trucks.

An instance of German ingenuity was witnessed the other day in a Cologne thoroughfare. A youth, wheeling a large truck pulled it into the gutter outside a shop. It obviously impeded the traffic and very shortly a limb of the law approached and majestically ordered the lad to remove the obstruction. Here was a problem. How was the barrow, which was of ample size, to be got through the narrow shop door? The lad solved the problem in a few minutes. He simply pulled out three bolts, pressed on the front of the truck and the whole contraption folded flat after the manner of a portable baby carriage. The mechanism was simple, consisting of three "W" springs. This leaves one thinking. If trucks and barrows, why not carts etc? The advantage is obvious.

Not Pairs.

In very few instances do the horns of the oxen employed by the Germans form perfect pairs. This irregularity gives the animals queer expressions and it is amusing to watch them. One was recently observed with one horn curled and pointing downward and the other well formed and perfectly normal. Another was peculiar for the fact that its horns pointed one forward and the other backward.

To-Day's Jape.

Be careful about your labels when you send parcels—"Surplus Kit" or otherwise. Bill Smith went to town to buy a number of things and sent them straight home in a big wooden case, while he remained to finish other business. A neighbour coming to call on Mrs. Smith found her in a swoon beside the big packing case. When she was brought round, she saw the case, shrieked, and swooned again. The puzzled good Samaritan gazed at the case to see what was so frightful about it, and discovered a label nailed thereon, with the words, "Bill Inside".

Lesser Echoes.

Because of the prevalence of rabies, all unmuzzled dogs in Cologne are collected daily and removed to a place of confinement till claimed.

There has been quite a large influx of N.A.C.B. girls into Cologne. Dressed like W.A.A.C's, many supposed at first that they belonged to that corps.

Many people who have been disappointed in finding the W.R.A.F. bookstore in Cologne closed, and like to know the official hours when business is conducted there.

The American Circus has achieved the unique distinction of being mentioned in Army G.R.O's.

The total amount subscribed towards the expenses of the Rhine Army "Eight" at Henley is 10,680 marks. This sum will suffice.

PRIZES FOR ECHOES.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to Rev. W. R. Lawson C.F. C./O.asst. ChapeainGeneral, G.H.Q.; L./Cpl. T. G. Robertson, Wireless Section, Rhine Army Signal Coy., Rhine Army; and Gnr. H. P. Newland, 174 Siege Bty. R.G.A. Rhine Army.

TRUE FORCE.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

"Alexandria, Caesar, Charlemagne, and I myself have founded great Empires, upon what did these creation of our genius depend? Upon force. Jesus alone founded his Empire upon Love."

These are the worlds of that great genius, who shaped the destiny of Europe, more than a hundred years ago. To-day he lives only in name, and his influence has passed, while the influence of Christ lives on.

The birth of the present century has seen the fall of mighty monarchies, and men have learned that the words "Might is Right" are not true, and the future of our Empire depends upon how well that lesson has been understood.

True liberty is found in that community which puts fellow men and their betterment in the first place, and the only way to teach that community is by the mighty force of love.

Through all the chaos of present life men can still learn the lesson of love, which is so vividly given in the words of Christ:—"As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also unto them." This motto for masters and men alike, if applied in practical life, as it could be done, would see the end of all industrial strife at home, and our nation would then be near that ideal time of which we speak in the Lord's Prayer; "Thy will be done; The Kingdom come."

There can be no modern Utopia which has not the influence of love bearing upon its national life, and turning the hearts of men to higher ideals, and nobler aims, than climbing to an easier life over the bodies of weaker brothers and sisters.

The enemy of love is selfishness, and until this evil is rooted out of our lives our nation will never obtain true liberty, but will gradually drift into a state of coma, which deprives a nation of the power to become great.

What else but selfishness is the cause of the shameless profiteering, which is seen on all sides; what else but selfishness on the part of those who hold the wealth makes the need to strike on the part of the workers.

That a whole nation will ever forget self, and think only of fellowmen, seems at first sight an ideal which is unobtainable, but an ideal to be good must be high.

Emerson said:—"Hitch your waggon to a star."

The ideal of love can grow in the hearts of men when the love of God is planted there.

"The love of God is broader Than the measure of man's mind."

Out of the love of God can emanate that love for fellow men, and when that love is the vital part of a man's life, there can be no room for selfishness.

As the rising sun brings light to the dark places of the world so can that true love shed its beneficent ray into the dark corners of a nation's life, and guide men to that kingdom founded upon true force—the kingdom of Love.

The return of summer weather has given a fillip to the business of the al fresco mineral water kiosks in Germany. At Bonn, on Thursday, the owner of one of these disposed of three hundred bottles.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

WILL WAGES FALL?

Mr. Arthur Balfour, a leading Sheffield steel manufacturer, on the burning question of work and wages, says: There is no need for despondency. After the Franco-Prussian war we had eighteen months of continuous strikes in this country. Miners' wages had gone up during hostilities by 70 or 80 per cent. They indulged in all sorts of luxuries. But the time came when they had to accept 11 per cent. above pre-war rates. That happened at a period when England had no serious trade rivals; now we have America, Japan, and other countries in keen competition. Whatever causes compelled the men to be reasonable in regard to wages in 1871 are present in vastly greater force at present.

REASONS FOR BIGAMY.

Mr. Andrew Playfair, author of "Without Prejudice," asks: What is the reason for the present epidemic of bigamy? Propound this question in a club smoking-room, a bar parlour, or a Dorcas meeting, and you will receive as many answers as there are men or women present, none wholly satisfactory, some palpably absurd. Has the war undermined our notions of morality? Has the average male Britisher lost the habit of conjugal fidelity? Is the hallowed institution of monogamous marriage unsuited to the needs of the times? In due course the question may perhaps be referred to a Royal Commission.

GOOD-BYE, SEASIDE PIERROTS.

Mr. Vaughan Dryden was walking the other afternoon along the front of a popular English seaside resort and saw but one solitary group of singers. He says: How different from the ante bellum sands! In those days before the war the entertainers regularly jostled one another. The rattle of the bones drowned the adjacent ventriloquist's patter, and the concert party tenor had to squall his loudest to be heard above the squeak of the too-near Punch. It looks very much as if the concert party were among the victims of the war.

ARE THE DEAD FAR OFF?

The Bishop of London, speaking at a memorial service to those who have fallen in the war, said: Are the dead far from us? No. I know the case of a boy of nineteen who was killed by falling 13,000 feet from a shattered aeroplane. Shortly afterwards his mother saw his form, wondrously bright, come up to her, and she felt his arms around her, and his lips on hers. And then in a voice of indescribable tenderness the boy said, "No, mummy, I am not allowed to come back to you on earth again," and vanished. Our faith does not depend on these visions, but they enforce what we are promised.

THE ONLY HOPE.

Mr. Frank Morris, writing on the economic crisis and the industrial situation at home, says: Ca' canny and uneconomic wages may lead to the social revolution, but will certainly not fill empty stomachs and set the mills going. The resumption of the gold standard, the "right to work," and an economic wage, offer the only hope of social and industrial reconstruction.

THOSE MONDAY MORNINGS.

Prof. Stanley Kent, who has been investigating the cause of poor working results and the many accidents in factories on Monday mornings, says: I ascribe the cause of inefficient work on Monday and the first working period of any day "to abstention from work, resulting in operations which are ordinarily performed quickly and well, being to some extent forgotten, and to that extent having to be relearnt before the old efficiency can be regained."

UNIFORM TRAINING.

General Sir John Monash, Australia's Commander-in-Chief lays emphasis on the need for co-ordinated trainings in the Armies of the Empire. He says: Australia's future army will no doubt be mainly on the lines of our old system of universal training which has proved of incalculable value and service during the war. Its training must strictly conform to that of the British Home Army, and every unit of British overseas forces must be interchangeable. Uniformity of training throughout the Empire must be established. Soldiers trained in England or Canada must be able to go into action without the slightest prepraratory training as a whole.

LOSING AIR SUPREMACY.

Mr. Leslie Guyer, Editor of "Aircraft", paints a glowing picture of the present condition of the aircraft industry in England, which he says is dying of atrophy. He adds: While the industry here is waiting, and vainly, for one word as to the intentions of the Government, the Americans have a State Commission now in Europe to study the best way in which Government help can be given to the U.S.A. constructors, with the object of placing the industry on a firm basis. Further, America has aerial mail services which have been working for over a year past, at a profit! Germany has several regular aerial services in existence. We have none. So far from leading in the race for air supremacy we have been left at the post.

The fact to be hammered home is that it is going to be every bit as difficult to win the peace supremacy in the air as it was to win the war supremacy. And both commercially and militarily it is vital for us to do so.

IS WILLIAM SANE?

Mr. Arnold White whose powerful contributions over the signature "Vanoc" are a feature of the "Referee" discussing the question "Is William sane?" says: If reasons exist for believing that the ex-Kaiser in of unsound mind and valid evidence is forthcoming, a strong case is established for scientific—that is, absolutely impartial—examination into his mentality. If he is found to be of unbalanced or of diseased mentality, he is irresponsible to the extent of his malady. Even if he is a "borderland case" and fit for an asylum, he is not in a state fit for criminal trial. If mentally competent to stand his trial, he is eligible for the gallows, from which he is implicitly exempted, by the terms of the Peace Treaty. If William is not sane, he should be immured after certification by competent and neutral alienists. If sane he should be hanged.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Straight Talk.—A Berlin socialist paper describes the ex-Kaiser as a knave.

Why Is it?—It has been found that squinting is twice as common among girls as in boys.

"Permanents".—The first list of officers granted permanent commissions in the R.A.F. has just appeared.

Is Its Day Over?—Lord Rothermere considers that the Coalition Government has outlived its usefulness.

Women Barred.—By the terms of her will the Countess of Harrington forbade any of her own sex to attend her funeral.

Prolific.—The King's vine at Windsor, which is 150 years old, is bearing nearly 500 fine bunches of grapes.

Dumping Pianos.—In Germany to-day there are 43,000 pianos ready to be dumped on the world's markets at cut prices.

The Daily Murder.—In Barcelona where one murder a week used to be the average it is now one each day.

Still Heavy.—The daily national expenditure from April 1 to July 26, averaged £4,442,000.

Germany Solvent.—Of the four responsible enemies of the Allies in the war, Germany is staded to be the only one who is solvent.

As Liberal Leader.—In Canada there are many candidates for the succession to the late Sir Wilfred Laurier as leader of the National Liberal Party.

For Sailors.—The King has granted the British War Medal to the British Dominion, Colonial and Indian Mercantile Marine.

Like Old Times.—So great is the rush to the Continent that the boat train from Victoria has had to be run in triplicate this week.

Landmark Gone.—One of the oldest historic hotels in England—the "George" at Northampton—has been sold to a cinema company.

A World-Famed Yacht.—The famous yacht "Sunbeam" has been presented by Lord Brassey to the Nautical College, Pangbourne, for training cadets.

A Possibility.—An American physicist has discovered a method of growing crystals. It may be possible to apply the principle to producing diamonds.

Farmer Heavily Fined.—At Rugby a farmer was fined £110 for illegally slaughtering two lambs and selling them at prices in excess of the correct charges.

Dear Milk.—At Berne the high price of milk has been the cause of agitation among the socialists.

Grasshoppers stop train.—Great inconvenience is being caused in Italy by a plague of grasshoppers. A railway train has even been brought to a standstill by them.

Not till then.—German newspapers state that the sum Germany will have to pay to the Allies will be fixed in May 1921.

King's New Title.—The King has been pleased to assume the title of Chief of the Royal Air Force.

Lords and Squirrels.—It is unusual for Parliament to discuss natural history subjects, but recently the House of Lords debated the merits and demerits of the squirrel.

Bakers' Strike.—Resumption of work on Tuesday will depend on the decision of the men over the weekend.

Tearcherless Schools.—About 1600 school teachers are on strike in the North Riding of Yorkshire.

Home Grown Sugar.—A serious attempt is at last to be made to establish the sugar-beet industry in England.

The Nation's Thanks.'— A vote of thanks to the fighting force will be moved in the House of Commons next Wednesday.

Bitter Better.—There is to be no reduction in the price of beer in England, but, for the same money as before, the consumer is promised better quality.

Huts as Homes.—Good progress is being made with the scheme of Hammersmith Council to convert army huts into temporary residences for demobilized soldiers.

Seamen's Memorial.—An appeal is being issued to the public for aid in the establishment at Dunkirk of a war memorial, for the benefit of merchant seamen.

To Teach Women.—Viscountess Rhondda is giving £5000 to the Merthyr Technical School, and wishes provision to be made for female teaching.

A Young Soldier.—The fact that a Blackburn boy enlisted at fifteen and fought through the war was pleaded in extenuation of a crime.

Grief and Suicide.—Grief caused by the loss of his son in France was said to have been the cause of the suicide of an ex-sergeant of the London police.

Fruit Picking Record.—Eighteen and a half stones of black currants in ten and a half hours is a new fruit picking record set up at Hickling.

Seaside Overcrowding.—During Glasgow Fair week, the rush of visitors has been so great that many had to snatch a night's repose on the sands.

Sex Equality.—Boys and girls are to compete at the entrance examination of all government appointments on terms of complete equality.

Bairnsfather's Humour.—The first number of "Fragments", the journal of "Ole Bill" offers £5000 to anyone found grasping the week before last's issue between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand, when run over by a steam roller.

Belgian Birth Rate.—In Liège the birth rate has dropped to half of what it was before the war, and it is believed that the population of the whole of Belgium has decreased to the figure of ten years ago.

Many Girl Students. — At both Girton and Newnham Colleges at Cambridge there are over 100 applications for entry in October in excess of the places available.

Joy rides for soldiers. — Twice this week the King sent his brake to the Church Army hostel for limbless men at Queen's-gate, to convey a party of the inmates to inspect the Royal mews.

Not for Theology. — Welsh University authorities have resolved that no money from rates or Treasury grants should be expended on the teaching of dogmatic theology.

THE LION LEADS in CURING

Trade Mark — Established 1847

During the strenuous times of the past few years

has more than maintained its reputation, it has gained increased commendation for its marvellous efficacy in removing pieces of shrapnel, splinters of bone, etc., from old wounds, healing them permanently from underneath.

Nature will always assert itself

It is useless healing a wound until it is thoroughly cleansed; it must break out again worse than before. The great success of

is that it will not heal till it has thoroughly cleared away all morbid matter. There is no danger to life in curing a bad leg by this remedy, as it does not throw back humour into the system. It cures without lancing or cutting, bringing all disease to the surface and healing from underneath in all cases of Ulcers, Abscesses, Whitlows, Boils, Carbuncles, Fatty or Cystic Tumours, Piles, Fistula, Polypus, Poisoned Wounds, and all forms of Skin Disease, Eczema, Ringworm, etc.

Unequalled as a General Household Remedy for Cuts, Burns, Stings, &c.

Proof. At 59, Gray's Inn Road, E. BURGESS has a Museum of Extractions, consisting of Tumours, Polypi, and diseased Bone; also numerous Photographs of most serious cases, which have all been cured by the Lion Ointment. E. B. invites the fullest inquiry into each case published by him, and is confident that no other remedy can show a tithe of such results. Of Chemists 9d, 1/3, etc. per box; or a SAMPLE BOX post free 9d, from the proprietor—

"WAKE UP, ENGLAND."

Chamber of Commerce Efforts to Improve British Trade With Germany.

NEW REGIME IN HUNGARY.

BRITISH TRADE

COLOGNE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING.

A meeting of the Council of the British Chamber of Commerce in Germany, was held at the Hotel Disch on Friday for discussion of various points in connection with British trade in Germany. Mr. Stockdale, of Cox's Bank, presided. Mr. Sullivan, Chairman of the Sub-Committee, submitted a report recommending the taking of new offices at 133 Hohestrasse, in the centre of the city, and Mr. C. Knott said that the British Chamber of Commerce in Germany had been formally affiliated to the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom and the Registration Certificate of Incorporation is expected daily.

The business of the Chamber is, he said, being pushed forward with all possible speed. Departments are being opened for dealing with bills of lading, certificates of origin for goods exported, and an information office is already in being, where much valuable help is given to newly arriving British subjects in the German occupied territories.

The Military and Civil Authorities are heartily supporting the efforts of the British business community in Rhineland, Many difficulties have been dealt with, amongst others, fiscal questions new and varied, which are continually being raised and are handled by the Chamber in the best interest of the members.

Great inconvenience and even serious losses have been suffered by British merchants in Germany owing to the delay in delivery of goods, due to various causes. The matter has been engaging the serious attention of the Chamber; it is hoped that as a result things will straighten themselves out very shortly. This will be a boon to British trade interests. Efforts also are being made to expedite telegrams and letters as well as samples between London and Cologne and regular courier services have been established.

In the course of an interesting speech returning thanks to the assembled traders for electing him as Honorary President, Mr. Knott remarked that as a patriotic Briton he felt that Britishers abroad should stick together, pull together and win together.

A Chamber of Commerce is a serious matter and an official organisation; America has at present over 1700 Chambers of Commerce established throughout the world. These recently held meetings and decided to send a deputation of representatives to Europe. They came some few days ago to Germany, visited Cologne and Berlin, and arrangements have been made by them in connection with their various trade corporations in America, to take orders from Germany for fabulous amounts.

The goods are to be supplied immediately from America on the basis of three years' credit, thus securing to the States for the moment the lion's share of German import trade. This is due to unity between Chambers of Commerce, and shows the importance of combined effort.

There seems no reason why British Chambers should not act similarly. If Great Britain would give similar credits and facilitate business, it would be a great national advantage and the Cologne Chamber is doing its utmost to effect such action.

Altogether it is apparent that British trade interests are safe in the hands of this well-organized and pushful Chamber of Commerce and it merits the support of everyone who wishes to see our trade supreme in German territory.

SALE OF GERMAN SHIPS FORBIDDEN.

Sir Owen Phillips inquired in the Parliamentary Papers into the case of two vessels formerly belonging to the Hamburg-American Line, namely, Johann Heinrich Burchard and William Oswald each of 20,000 gross register tons, stated to have been sold to the Royal Holland-Lloyd.

Colonel Wilson (for the Ministry of Shipping) replied: The Dutch Government have been informed that we cannot recognise the reported sale by Germany of the two vessels, and the German Government has been instructed that, as these vessels fall within the terms of the Armistice, they are to be dispatched to a United Kingdom port for delivery to British management.

POINCARÉ'S FUTURE.

It is definitely stated that President Poincaré, after the expiration of his term of office in February next, will live as a lawyer, journalist and politician. The suggestion is made that Clemenceau shall be the next President of France.

PENITENT HUNGARY.

NEW GOVERNMENT SUES FOR PEACE.

A wireless message from Buda-Pesth gives the terms of a telegram to M. Clemenceau from the new Hungarian Government, which is suing for peace. While awaiting the decisions of the Supreme Council of the Allies it asks for a suspension of hostilities and that lines of occupation be fixed provisionally until the Council decision on the subject is made known. The line of the river Theiss is suggested. Rumanian troops are now only thirty miles from Buda-Pesth.

Red Flag Lowered.

A despatch from Buda-Pesth announces that Martial-law has been proclaimed by the new Government. Complete order and quietude prevail in the capital. The Bolshevist Red flag has been hauled down and the national flag hoisted on all public buildings, the change being hailed with great delight by the citizens. The Bolshevist leader Szamuelly has disappeared. According to one report he has been shot, but it is also asserted that he has escaped to the Ukraine.

Orders from Paris.

The full text of the telegram addressed by the Council of Five to Lieut-Colonel Romanelli, Chief of the Italian delegation at Buda-Pesth, who is the sole remaining member of the Inter-Allied Mission to the Hungarian capital, will probably be published tomorrow. The telegram requests Lieut.-Colonel Romanelli to intimate to the new Hungarian Government that the Allies hail with satisfaction the establishment of a stable Government which they call upon immediately to execute those clauses of the armistice calling for prompt demobilization of the Hungarian Army and the observance of the frontier lines fixed by the Convention of June 13th. The telegram adds that the Rumanian forces will be required to remain in the positions they now occupy.

SUPREME COUNCIL.

REVIEWS EUROPEAN COAL PRODUCTION.

It is understood that at the meeting of the Supreme Economic Council which was held in London during the week end, problems were discussed arising out of the present economic conditions in Europe, particularly in relation to the securing of adequate supplies of coal, food and raw material. As regards coal the Council held that the situation is one of the utmost gravity, production in Europe having fallen to a dangerously low figure as compared with prewar production. The deficit can only be met by increased production and improved methods of organization and distribution. Various questions were referred to a special sub-committee meeting at Paris. The Council further decided to urge upon the various Governments the vital necessity for increasing production and reducing the consumption of coal in Europe during the present period of short supplies.

THE "TIN KETTLING" CASE.

A woman who was "drummed out" of Hare Street, near Buntingford, Hertfordshire, on Whit Monday was yesterday sent to prison for two months, without hard labour, for committing an act "likely to prejudice the discipline of a prisoner of war."

She is Mrs. Alice Rebecca Baker, 32. and she pleaded guilty. A policeman said that about midnight on June 6th he found a German prisoner of war, Franz Rohman, and Mrs. Baker, together in Mrs. Baker's cottage, while her paralysed husband was upstairs in bed. The "tin-kettling" by the villagers followed this.

The German has been sentenced to 28 days' detention by the military authorities. Since Mrs. Baker, her husband, and two children were thus shamed out of their home, the woman has been working at Histon, Cambridgeshire.

INDIAN TROOPS IN LONDON.

The contingent of Indian troops which failed to reach England in time for the official Peace celebrations, marched through London on Saturday. They were enthusiastically welcomed by large crowds who at various points on the route showered flowers upon them. The men afterwards lined up in mass formation in front of Buckingham Palace, and were received by His Majesty the King. A distinguished company witnessed the proceedings, including the Soudanese chiefs who lately renewed their vows of fealty.

POLICE TROUBLE.

LOYALTY IN LONDON; LOOTING AT LIVERPOOL.

Only fifty-two additional constables absented themselves from duty in London on Saturday, bringing the total up to 1,012. The strike may thus be said to have fizzled out so far as the Metropolis is concerned but while the London force is merely purged of its discontented elements, the greater extent of the strike in Liverpool enabled the hooligans to get the upper hand. Looting became so serious that troops were despatched to the city, also three warships to guard the docks. The loyal members of the Liverpool police, who are fortunately in a majority, made frequent baton charges against the crowd which was looting the jewellers' shops. Despite this it is estimated that several thousands of pounds worth of goods are missing.

On Sunday night the riot act was read and the troops which were called to the Scotland-road district fired over the heads of the crowds. These dispersed temporarily but as soon as the soldiers moved they returned, breaking the windows and rifling shops. Several looters were arrested and removed in an army lorry, the crowd following and throwing stones. Shots were again fired over their heads. The Magistrates sat throughout the day, swearing in special constables as volunteer guards. The staffs of the banks and large city warehouses are policing their own premises. Approximately half the Liverpool force is on strike.

Chief Commissioner Sir Nevil Macready states that the number of Metropolitan police now on strike is 1,041 and that so far as he is concerned the strike is over. A few men have written asking to be allowed to return but he could not permit that. He had found it necessary, in order to reduce the hours of extra duty entailed by the dismissals, to cancel all annual leave. Enquiries showed that there was a small amount of hooliganism in a few East-end districts on Saturday night, otherwise everything is normal.

Sheffield police have decided not to strike, intimation having been received that the Home Secretary has consented to receive a deputation from the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress.

TREASONABLE WOMEN.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD TRAITRESS.

The trial has begun at Lille of five Frenchwomen charged with treason. The youngest is twenty, and the oldest fifty-two.

It is alleged that they wrote a letter to the Commandatur at Flines Nord, saying: "We will do everything for you. All those you want us to denounce we will denounce. Long live Germany. Down with France."

One woman, Germaine Demory, was only fifteen when she began denouncing people; another was the mother of six children. Four out of the five acknowledge that they committed the crimes with which they are charged.

EPSOM RIOT FUND.

The fund opened by the Earl of Rosebery, Sir Rowland Blades, M.P., and Mr. Longley (Chairman of the Epsom Urban Council) to supplement, if necessary, the provision made for the widow of Station Sergeant Green, the police officer killed during the raid by Canadian soldiers on the Epsom Police Station, and to make a presentation to each of the Epsom police, who put up such a splendid fight against great odds, has resulted in £558 14s 1d being subscribed. Of this amount £243 0s 6d has been expressly given for the widow, and the sum includes £172 10s 6d subscribed by the staff and men at the Canadian Camp, Epsom. Since the riot this Canadian Camp has been disbanded.

SWISS LABOUR TROUBLE.

Labour discontent in Switzerland is becoming serious and the general strike seems to be spreading. At Basle on Saturday Federal troops were in conflict with the strikers, guns being brought into action and several persons killed. All public buildings and banks are guarded by soldiers. There are no workers on the newspapers or trams. A sympathetic strike began at Zürich and it is reported that a general strike would be begun throughout Switzerland on Monday.

The main grievances are the cost of living and scarcity of houses. In connection with the latter a demand is being made for houses to be rationed. The Federal Council refuses to take any action in the matter until the strikes cease.

TRAFFIC DIFFICULTIES.

The congestion on the railways and at the docks in Great Britain is becoming so serious that the Government has decided to employ almost immediately a fleet of a thousand fast army lorries for the transport of goods.

KILLED BY LIVE BOMB.

George Briscoe, a Liverpool boy, was killed by the explosion of a bomb which he had found in the Tournament Hall.

The jury recommended at the inquest yesterday that such explosives should be kept under lock and key

DOMINION TRUANTS.

ROUNDING UP THE STRAGGLERS.

The Record Offices in London of the various overseas forces are making a last grand tally and using all endeavours to trace every man who has appeared on their books. Up to the present 7,000 men — about one per cent of the total — cannot be accounted for.

Not all these men are considered to be definitely lost. Some have gone on furlough and have started work without the formality of communicating with the authorities. Others have married and settled down in preference to returning to camp and telling their colonel. Many are restless irresponsibles who have neglected to apply for an authorised discharge in England, although they might have had it by the exercise of a little patience. Many of these, it is thought, will trickle back.

The South Africans have but twenty-five absentees, every other man of the 26,000 who came over being accounted for. The New Zealanders are three hundred short but they expect to see this figure reduced. Most of the missing Australians and Canadians are wandering about without authority and it will take a long time for the military police to round them up and shepherd them into concentration camps.

Some of the Dominion Governments are publishing advertisements warning these men to return by a certain date unless they wish to forego their gratuity and a free passage home.

ALLEGED ANARCHIST.

MASQUERADING IN OFFICER'S UNIFORM.

A remarkable story was told at Bow-street police Court on Saturday of a self styled "Anarchist" who wore officer's uniform for the purpose of spreading a movement to form a secret society amongst the troops.

Defendant, who gave his name as Thomas Webb, was charged with unlawfully wearing uniform.

Detective Collins stated that he interviewed the accused on the Horse Guards parade, where he was detained by the military. He represented himself to be Captain Lewis, of the Durham Light Infantry. He said his parents were Spanish and declared he was an anarchist under the influence of the secret society and that he was specially engaged in his capacity as an army officer at a Staffordshire camp spreading the movement among the troops. Various other statements he made were found to be untrue when enquired into. Later it was stated that no officer was discharged from the Labour Camps last June.

A week's remand was ordered.

LONDON GETTING HUNGRY.

About a thousand bakers attended a mass meeting in Trafalgar Square on Sunday and passed a resolution that they would refuse to return to work until their demands are met. These include the abolition of night work, a £4 weekly minimum wage and the forty-four hour week. No hope is now held out of a resumption until Tuesday.

The men offered to bake specially for hospitals and similar institutions if the employers would allow their premises to be used.

STOLE THE CLUB MONEY.

Charged with converting £160 to his own use Arthur Beesley, of Dorset-street, Hulme, Manchester, honorary secretary of the Rolls-Royce Workers' Holiday Club at Derby, was committed for trial by the Derby magistrates. Prisoner said that after drawing money from the bank he suddenly decided to go to Birmingham races, and was jostled when getting on a tramcar there and the money was stolen. He went to Newcastle races in an endeavour to make it good. He denied stealing the money.

REGULAR COMMISSIONS.

The War Office states that with regard to applications from non-regular officers for permanent commissions in the regular army it is impossible to make a definite announcement as to how many commissions will be granted until the future establishment of the regular army is definitely decided. Demobilization of an officer, however, will not prejudice his subsequent chance of selection.

BOTH SERVED ALIKE.

An order has been issued by the Council of Five to Austria and Serbia to evacuate the Klagenfurth Basin, which both countries claim. The evacuation is to remain in force until the future of the Basin is decided. The Council also decided to take temporary measures to prevent devastation by the Austrians of the territory they will have to hand over to the Jugo-Slavs.

YORKSHIRE PROSPECTS.

Prospects in the Yorkshire coalfields are improving. At a Miners' Council on Saturday it was decided to ask the branches to ballot whether the strike shall continue further.

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

ANOTHER CHANGE IN THE UNIFORM.

General Seely, the Air Minister, in a statement regarding the future of the R.A.F. says there has been a great deal of misunderstanding about what the Government could do with regard to civil aviation but there has not been time for what has actually been done to bear fruit. A large number of old Air Force officers have been demobilized and gone back to civil life.

An officers cadet college is being formed and it is hoped to start the first course in January next. Entrance will be by competitive examination similar to those for the Army and Navy but if better methods are thought of entrance will not be confined to this method. An Air Staff College is also in course of preparation and in future all officers, with few exceptions, will have to learn to fly.

Regarding uniform, a change is being made in favour of a less brilliant and more durable cloth but officers will not be put to any extra expense. It is also hoped to form a Territorial Air Force but many difficulties have to be overcome and it is too early to say anything more precise.

NEW CONVENTIONS.

REGULATION OF TRAFFIC IN ARMS AND ALCOHOL.

The Commission entrusted with the drafting of the International Conventions relative to the traffic with arms and alcohol and the revision of the Act of Berlin (1885) and the Act of Brussels (1890) has completed its labours.

The new Conventions lay down strict regulations for preventing the importation of inferior spirits to the colonies and the controlling of traffic in arms. Private traffic in arms for war purposes is prohibited throughout the world henceforth. Traffic in other than arms is subject to a rigorous system of licences. The revisions specify rules guaranteeing the suppression of slavery and the establishment of equality in the Congo Basin.

SERIOUS FLYING ACCIDENT.

A serious flying accident occurred during the weekend at Oranmore, County Galway. Lieutenant Jones and Lieutenant Lawrie started on a flight to Galway but they had only been up a short time when the machine took fire.

The aviators descended in haste and landed the machine which was enveloped in flames. They were seriously burned about the face, hands and body and were taken to a hospital at Dublin.

UNSWEPT LONDON STREETS.

The decision of the Kensington Borough Council to dismiss any of their employees now on strike who fail to resume work by Wednesday has had no effect, and the men are still firm in their determination to stand for their full demands. In the meantime conditions in the borough grow steadily worse. The streets are in some places beginning to present an absolutely filthy appearance. Householders are faced with the alternative of destroying their own house refuse or leaving it to rot in the sun.

TUNNEL MYSTERY.

Gunner Doyle R.F.A., who was arrested as he was about to embark for Russia, was present at the re-opened inquest on Gunner George White, whose body was found on the Great Western Railway in Box tunnel by a travelling ticket collector. Two guards stated that they knew nothing about any disturbance on the train. One Gunner said he knew nothing until he saw the cases reported in the papers.

The Coroner said there were many points which required clearing up and he adjourned the inquiry to August 13th.

MIXED BATHING RISKS.

The secretary of the Ealing Wesleyan Church has written to the Ealing Baths Committee, calling attention to the "undesirable stipulation" that geutlemen wishing to bathe on days set apart for mixed bathing must be accompanied by a lady, and alleging that it tends to promiscuous meeting of the sexes, and encourages young persons to make chance acquaintances, a practice which, n their opinion, is detrimental to the good of young people.

DOVER PATROL MEMORIAL.

The highest point of the cliffs, seven miles West of Calais, is the chosen site on the French side of the English channel for the memorial to the Dover patrol. The Mayors of Dover and Calais, the Governor of Calais, the Presidents of the Dover and Calais Chambers of Commerce, and Brig-General Logan, Base-Commandant at Calais visited the place yesterday and placed stones to mark the exact spot.

General Rawlinson was received in audience by the King on Saturday prior to his departure for North Russia.

FEEDING EUROPE.

WHAT THE ALLIES HAVE DONE.

Lord Robert Cecil presided on Saturday night at a dinner given by the British Government at the Carlton hotel to members of the Supreme Economic Council of the Allies. M. Clementel (France), Mr. Hoover (America) and Signor Orlando (Italy) were among the guests.

In proposing the toast of the guests Lord Robert said this was the first time the Supreme Economic Council had met in London and it was the last time he would meet the Council as one of its members. He felt that the British representatives should now be Ministers of the Crown because they could then speak with greater authority and be held directly responsible to Parliament for their actions. These reasons he had submitted to the Prime Minister, who agreed that they were sound.

Mr. Hoover ascribed to the Council the fact that we still have stability of Government in Europe. Through the activities of the Council they were able to feed the additional 200 millions thrust upon them until the arrival of the next harvest. It had been a costly undertaking. They had spent over eight hundred million pounds. They had restored railway communication throughout Europe and had also done something to stimulate the coal industry. They had to face new problems, probably as terrible as those faced during the war.

He was returning to America on September 1st and he intended to go back to his home in California for the first time in five years. He took pride in the fact that he had outlived three successive generations of Food Controllers in Allied countries and five generations in Germany.

STABBED IN FRANCE.

FATALITY TO AN ONLOOKER.

An open verdict was returned at a Hampstead inquest relative to the death of Liberty James, 25, a driver in the Royal Field Artillery, whose family reside at Abshot, Titchfield, Hants. It was stated that while on his way to England the man reached Moritz, near Candary, in France, and while staying there a riot took place between French soldiers, civilians, and British soldiers.

During the mêlée a French soldier, it was alleged, rushed past James, who was looking on, and stabbed him with a knife in the left chest, inflicting a deep wound. He was removed to the local British military hospital, where he was operated on, and the wound stitched up. At first his condition improved, but later he did not appear to be making progress, and was brought to England. He was admitted to the West Hampstead Military Hospital on June 20, where he was again operated upon.

Miss Sims, pathologist at the Hampstead Military Hospital, stated that death was due to coma from septic meningitis, which probably followed the wound. She was not prepared to state definitely that it was produced by the wound, for the blood poisoning might have arisen from other causes.

An open verdict was returned.

WHAT WILL GERMANY PAY?

Mr. Baruch, the United States representative on the Supreme Economic Council, continuing his declarations to-day before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which is considering the Peace Treaty, stated that in his opinion Germany could never pay the indemnity assessed. The Reparations Commission, he said, would not attempt to collect more than Germany could pay, regardless of the amount which it was decided Germany owed.

POLICE BARRACKS BESIEGED.

News reached Ennis, Ireland on Sunday afternoon of a determined attack made on the Broadford police barracks in East Clare, by a party of twenty or thirty men who kept up a brisk fire. It is stated that one constable received a slight wound but it has not transpired whether any of the attacking party were hit.

CERTIFICATES FOR VOLUNTEERS.

The work done by volunteers during the war is to be commemorated by the War Office. Certificates bearing the signature of Mr. Churchill are now being given to all ranks who joined the various units as a record of their service in the force.

NOTORIOUS FAILURE RECALLED.

News has been received from New York of the death of Oscar Hammerstein, the famous impresario.

Londoners will remember his great fiasco in London, as the builder of the London Opera House, the largest and best equipped theatre of its time. It was a failure and became successively music-hall, theatre and cinema.

THE INDUSTRIAL SITUATION.

It was evident during the War that the return from war conditions to peace conditions would inevitably involve great difficulties which might result if not carefully and skilfully handled in a grave outbreak of industrial disorder at home. Disorder has broken out, grave but not yet sufficiently serious as to mean an irretrievable loss of industrial power we hope.

The means of recovering this loss of industrial power and prevention of further disorder is, economy and hard work on the part of everyone; so our leading statesmen tell us. No doubt this fact is perfectly true but is the utterance of the fact sufficient to make us fully realize the position?

Surely it is of paramount importance that we ourselves and not only our advisers should be fully cognizant of the causes of industrial friction and inefficiency in order for us to fully realize the position and the significance of our statesmen's advice.

We are possessed of the right to a Parliamentary vote and yet, how many of us have sufficient knowledge of the industrial questions and social problems to really base our vote on.

The means of acquiring the necessary knowledge is within our reach and it is imperative that we should take full advantage of them. We can study the newspapers; books, dealing with the subjects fully are available, we can discuss the questions between ourselves and exchange our views on the various matters. It is not necessary that we should enter into details.

Fully realizing the meaning of Citizenship would materially help us. We can study the elements of public finance, the development of national resources in agriculture, trade, industry and education.

The housing problem the simple laws of supply and demand, the meaning of Tariff Reform and Free Trade and the human side of industry all need our urgent attention. This is a varied group of problems and questions but it plainly shows to what an extent we should study before registering an honest and not a one sided vote.

In many units books fully dealing with industrial questions, social problems and Citizenship are available for reading and can be borrowed on application to the Education Officer. All ranks should avail themselves of these and thus become better acquainted with the causes underlying the present industrial situation.

FINDING A HOME.

By Dr. J. C. CARLILE.

The English papers gave long accounts of a demobilized officer trying to find a little house in which to live with his family. He obtained employment, but could not get anywhere in which to live. Finally he hit upon the novel idea of parading the road, carrying a board on which was the announcement that he would pay £1 a week for a little house. A picture was published of the man with the announcement, and now he has secured a dwelling.

The number of houses required in England to enable people to live without overcrowding, is very considerable. It has been estimated by the Labour Party that 1,000,000 cottages are required: probably the number is not less than 600,000.

The difficulty is that private enterprise will not touch them. Municipalities, tempted by the facilities offered by the Board of Trade, are undertaking large schemes; but the ugly fact remains that the private builder will not look at the enterprise.

Why is that? There is the market; thousands of people are wanting small property. It is sold as soon as it is ready. Large numbers of men in the building trade are walking the streets, receiving the out-of-work donation; and yet capitalists, who are always keen to make a profit, will not build.

The reason is not far to seek. Material costs very much more than in pre-war times. It is impossible to purchase many things required in building construction under three times the cost in 1914 and labour is so much more expensive, that a cottage which could be erected for £220 in 1913, now costs a fraction over £500. At the same time there is an outcry all over the country, for cheaper rents.

We have to learn that the increased cost of production ultimately rests upon the consumers. High wages, lessened production, dearer material, always means increased rents. Our hope is in Government repression of profiteering, and the good sense of the working-man to facilitate production.

As long as trade customs belonging to a by-gone day, are allowed to restrict the fair output of a man's labour, there will be dearness, and the housewife will know that £2 a week under the new conditions, may not be a penny better than 25/- a week in the old days. As a matter of fact, it is not quite so good.

To secure the means to live comfortably there must be closer co-operation between the State, Capital and Labour. Wages is not simply an affair between the employer and the employee; it concerns the community. Industry is a phase of the nation's life; a wage dispute resulting in a strike or a lock-out, has disastrous effects upon the nation.

The home problem is how to secure harmony between the rival interests without any sacrifice of justice. One way is the creation of Wage Boards, in which questions in dispute shall be arbitrated by representatives of those employed, and the larger community; for, after all, as in the case of Housing, it is not simply a question between the builder and the workman, but the State.

There are the people who want homes, and cannot find them, because capitalists cannot get a reasonable interest on their outlay; and an assurance that the whole thing will not be wrecked by an industrial war.

Taxation will necessarily bear heavily upon us to meet our annual liabilites, and commercial enterprise must correpondingly increase, unless we are to go at quickened speed along the road to national bankruptcy.

Following the war of destruction, there are the tasks of Reconstruction; energies which saved us from defeat in the field, must be concentrated upon the restoration of our national work; for it is certain that unless our national productiveness is more than maintained, and our Empire trade conserved, we shall slip back into the position of a second-rate nation.

The future of Britain depends upon efficiency and commonsense; as this is seen, the outlook will become clearer.

WHAT TO SEE IN RHINELAND.

III. Godesberg.

In Rhineland there is surely no place more worthy of a visit than Godesberg, a little town in Bonnland nestled under a protecting hill and hugging closely the left bank of the Rhine.

The very quietness and tranquility suggests something unexplored by the average individual who is out to see the best Rhineland can offer.

Perhaps the nearness of the place to the edge of our army zone accounts, in part, for the restful atmosphere surrounding the place. Perhaps a more restless temperament than mine own would find no appealing or sympathetic characteristics in the town but, be that as it may, the fact remains that I was struck very forcibly by the atmosphere reigning there.

The most fashionable quarters of Bonn cannot vie with Godesberg in unassuming luxury and ideal environment. The maximum of life and bustle is to be found near the water edge and naturally this is the more ancient part of the town. One can imagine what the winding Rhein Strasse was like fifty years ago when it was probably skirted by houses with the oaken framework, a type so dear to the hearts of many English county gentlemen, samples of which are so numerous and varied in design and to be seen in any village in the neighbourhood.

The real Godesberg, however, is only found on plunging into the maze of avenues which lie at the foot of the hill. The latter rises at the back of the town and is crowned by the Godesberg Castle looking stern and sentinel like in it, wooded surroundings.

The impression made here is that of a fine modern suburban area laid out in a forest, for each road is lined with numerous trees. No trams disturb the quiet, few shops are to be seen and even the streets are grown with grass in some places.

It is here that one finds the elegant villa, the occupants of which are enjoying tea out of doors, on the lawn or beneath the green foliage of some drooping tree.

The sun's not rays are mellowed by the latter and an April shower would not seriously inconvenience the party enjoying such ideal environment.

With little difficulty the castle steps, built apparently with stones from the ruins are found and a stiff ascent brings one to the top and only remaining tower.

One thing mars the complete antiquity of the castle ruins however, this being the introduction of new work, necessitated by the indispensable hotel. In the immediate vicinity of the hotel is the beer-garden, which at one time was undoubtedly the courtyard.

But ascending the tower (a charge of 10 pfs. is made) a view is obtainable such as seldom can be seen. A fine bird's eye view of the town itself with long stretches of the Rhine, the Bonn bridge, the Seven Mountains with Drachenfels and Königswinter (alas! verboten ground) all present a striking panorama. Godesberg is worthy of a visit from a considerable distance and no trouble, still less expense, is encountered in reaching it. The most luxurious of electric car services connects it with Bonn and Mehlem.

The Bonn terminus is in Kaiser Str. beneath the Deutsche Bank off Kaiser Wilhelm Platz and I am convinced that a visit to Godesberg will be a pleasure to any who appreciate and possess an artistic temperament.

ON SUPERSTITION.

Through the ring of my watch is a ragged, faded ribbon to which is tied what looks like a crouching Bhudda trying to climb up a stick, but which is really the leaden figure of a Zulu, armed with a spear; originally, I fancy, from a child's box of soldiers.

I found it during the war, under circumstances which do not matter, but at the time I adopted it as a mascot. Why, I do not know, for I'm positive I'm not superstitious.

I'm from the "witch-country" of North East Lancashire, it is true, and have a pretty knowledge of local superstitions, but nary a belief in them. To me they are all most ridiculous.

And yet, whenever I pass beneath a ladder, or spill the salt, or give away a knife, or hear a splash behind, or see the new moon through a window, or lift a babe to the mirror, I am conscious of the superstitions connected therewith; and feel that I have done an evil thing.

The other evening I put on a fresh tunic. I forgot to slip my watch from the pocket of the old one. I was away up the street, on the cycle, when I bethought myself. I did not worry, until I remembered the mascot attached to the watch-ribbon.

I felt like turning back, but cursed myself for an idiot. I continued my ride, and when about three miles from billets had the first puncture for months.

Instantly, I hitched on the missing mascot. I hurried into my bag for the repairing outfit. It was missing, too. I was then in doubt as to which was the greater deficit, the missing Zulu, or the missing outfit.

Back I sallied. Nobody ever has a repairing outfit to lend, when you need one the road. Secretly, I bemoaned having not returned for friend-mascot; openly, I repeated the idiot formula; beaded all with dark drops from the north country.

There are plausible reasons, I said, for some superstitions. Does anyone know why mother takes a knife and draws it across the bowl of kneaded dough, once this way, once that?

There are others. A red head is unlucky. The Danes had red heads. They were invaders. Invasion meant rapine, famine. Hence the red head superstition.

Thus I went on, justifying, vilifying, marking neither the poppies in the corn, nor the tender lindens bending over me.

When I reached my billet I went first for my watch. The Zulu was not on the ribbon! My first thought was a windy one — seven years' bad luck — born, I suppose, of that old superstition respecting a broken mirror. My next thought was to go and have a drink.

I sought around for the leaden mascot, and lo! I found it in the pocket of the trousers I had on all the time. How it got there, the deuce only knows, I don't!

So I conclude that the blinking idiot formula is the only one possible — but what about all the other rot?

COLOGNE RIDING SCHOOL.

Sir,— The emphasis very rightly laid by the Military Authorities on the importance of recreation and training emboldens me to suggest to them through your intermediacy the establishment of a Riding School in Cologne.

While formations have no doubt small manèges of their own, what is wanted is some central place where officers who are fairly good riders, but who are not entitled to horses, can get further instruction.

There are a large number of officers in this category who would revel in the opportunity that such a school affords, there are any number of horses which in the present shortage of personnel do not get sufficient exercise, there are many good instructors who would be delighted to give their service and there are plenty of suitable open spaces in the neighbourhood of this town which could readily be converted into a school.

Thus all the factors are here; it only remains to bring them together in order to organise an institution that should be at once popular, healthful, and of distinct military utility. "JORROCKS."

THE CONCERTINA.

Sir,—Having read L.W.H.'s "Resolution" in Tuesday's Post concerning the mouth organ and concertina, I have wondered if he has ever heard a concertina played and if so whether it was a German or an English make.

He certainly gives reasons for his antipathy to the mouth-organ in the form of an exponent who possibly may not be able to render all of what it is capable, but no reasons are given for the condemnation of the concertina.

In my billet an English concertina can be heard played almost every night and after an hour or two of music nobody requires "bringing round."

I would like L.W.H. to hear it. Perhaps it would dispel all murderous thoughts, concerning the inventor of the "Teenie." TEENIE ADMIRER.

A CALL FOR PIGS.

Sir,— We all know that there are scraps left in all our messes and dining halls, and these as a rule are given to the nearest civilian who can make use of them.

Well, how about using them to our own benefit? I would suggest that every unit should be supplied with, say eight or ten young pigs, which would be little enough for the amount of scraps. They would keep the pigs for a pretty long time, and as they developed the number would be lessened according.

Room could be found in any village, and there is sure to be somebody who could deal with the pigs and look after them, thus saving a good deal of waste.

ONE WHO WOULD.

COSTUME DANCES.

Sir,—The idea of having fancy dress dances weekly is an excellent one. Apart from the pleasure afforded to the dancers, costume dances provide amusement for the spectators, and I agree with your correspondent that there would be no difficulty in finding an audience willing to pay a small entrance charge.

The argument of cost really does not apply, as with the assistance of a little ingenuity much can be done in the way of costumes with very simple materials. I believe, too, that they can be hired for quite a nominal fee. PIERROT.

TAXIS IN COLOGNE.

Sir,— Some note in your valuable daily might be helpful to new-comers in reference to taxi-cab fares. These are duly registered but the drivers within my experience state that they are entitled to charge more. —. which is reasonable, within limits — but they produce no police authority and the cabs display no notice. Would anyone kindly state what exact excess, if any, is authorized? NEW-COMER.

FORBIDDEN COFFEE.

Sir,— Can anyone explain why British troops cannot be served with coffee at the Restaurant in the Zoological Gardens between 3.30—4 p. m.

Yesterday afternoon I went there with some friends and ordered coffee and cakes. We were informed that we could not be served.

Considering that coffee etc. can be had anywhere at any time this regulation seems to serve no useful purpose, except to annoy people. SAPPER.

SOLDIERS.

1914—1918.

Soldiers, sing that song again;
Ye who quit yourselves like men
While the Enemy's aeroplanes are soaring
And his gunners right and left and centre pouring
Shell and shrapnel on the battle field.
Yea, but ye are strong, ye will not yield;
Valiant ones, how sternly ye are made —
Dauntless though the earth and sky are rocking in the cannonade!

Soldiers, sing that song again;
Ye who quit yourselves like men
On the maddened fields of France
When down the line the order comes "Advance"!
Though liquid fire and poison gas
Scatter convulsion through the battle mass,
In whirlwind of the guns are men and horses mixed
And yet ye leap from out the trenches with the bayonet fixed!

What song, soldiers, do ye sing
Ye who all your manhood bring
Steadfast keep Old Freedom's gate
And bivouac on the Field of Fate? —
Perchance some song as of the daylight breaking
Across a world out of the darkness waking
Comes strangely to your lips amid the raging battle, and ye see
The vision of the things ye fight for, and of the Peace to be!

4th CORPS "SIGS" SPORTS.

(By Pigeon Post.)

The 4th Corps Signal Coy. held a very successful Sports Meeting yesterday. Lieut. Sewell won the prize for the Victor Ludorum, coming in first in the 100 yds., hurdles, 440 yds., 220 yds., and the officers race. The hill-climbing contest was won by Cpl. Hill.

SPORT TRIALS.

9th Corps Eliminating Contests at Euskirchen.

A most successful athletic meeting was held on the Euskirchen Cricket Ground on Tuesday July 28th with a view to selecting representatives to compete in the Rhine Army trials on August 7th. Many of the performances were extremely creditable, all the more so in view of the rain that fell during the first half of the meeting. Events that call for special notice were the 100 yards for which the time was 11 seconds; the mile with the time of 4 mins. 35⅘ secs, and the three miles with the time of 15 mins. 48 secs. The three mile race was a particularly interesting event, Corpl. Dutton only taking the lead in the last 100 yards. It is interesting to note that first and second places were both taken by the same platoon of the Battalion. Gunner Sheppard who had already competed in the mile, made a good third and set the pace for a large part of the course though falling behind in the last lap.

The musical selections provided by the band of the 1/5th South Stafford Regt. during the afternoon were much appreciated. At the conclusion of the meeting the prizes were distributed by Brigadier General de F. Montgomery, C.B., C.M.G., in the unavoidable absence of the Corps Commander, Lieutenant General Sir Walter Braithwaite, K.C.B.

Relay Race:—1, 1/5th South Stafford Regt.; 2, 5th K.O.Y.L.I.; Time, 3 mins. 42 secs.

ARMY FENCING SCHOOL.

An Army Fencing School was recently formed with the object of improving skill at arms in the British Army by establishing all forms of fencing as a sport throughout the Army. Lieut.-General Sir A. E. Codrington was elected President, and Col. Campbell and Brig.-General Kentish Vice-Presidents.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Tuesday, August 5, 1919.

Wind West to South-West, 10 to 15 m.p.h., becoming squally. Fine at first becoming overcast with rain later. Moderate temperature; Good visibility.

A SILK FLAG.

1/4 Royal Scots Fusiliers Sports at Bedburg.

The sports of the above mentioned battalion were held on Wednesday. The events were keenly contested and some extremely good timing was made in several of the events. As was generally anticipated "C" Coy won the Silk Flag given for the highest number of points, and nobody grudged them this well merited success. At the conclusion of the events, Miss Matheson, (Scottish Churches Hut) presented the prizes. This concluded a very enjoyable afternoon's sport. Great credit for the success of the undertaking was undoubtedly due to Lieut. Fancett M. M., the battalion sports officer, who was untiring in his efforts to make the affair a success.

Australians (436 and 260 for four, declared) v. Surrey (322 and 121 for one) match drawn.

HIS LAST CHUKKA.

Polo Pony Drops Dead After Match at Kalk.

An unfortunate incident marked the concluding stages of a polo match between the 17th and 19th Lancers at Kalk on Thursday. At the end of a vigorous chukka, a pony ridden by one of the 12th Lancers players staggered and then dropped dead.

There was a large crowd present at the polo ground and the play was keen and exciting. The 12th Lancers won a hard game against 9th Corps Headquarters and the 17th beat the 9th Lancers. Capt. Boles was referee.

THE CHANNEL SWIM.

Having completed his training at Brighton, Jabez Wolffe is now only waiting for suitable weather to make his twenty-second attempt to swim from England to France. The new course from Dungeness which he had decided to use this year has now been abandoned, as, after a test by Wolffe, it was found that the tides were unfavourable. He has now fixed upon a starting point east of Folkestone. He declares himself fit and confident of success. He is however, determined this time not to be stampeded into a premature start in uncongenial conditions.

180 Siege Bty. (31 and 37) v. 267 S.B. (47 and 33) at Frechen. 267 S.B. gained a lead of 17 runs on the first innings and although they were dismissed for 33 in their second innings their opponents were unable to get the 50 runs necessary to win. For the winners, Gnr. King took 6 for 10 in the second, while for the losers Gnr. Hollings got 13 for 80 and Nicholls 7 for 31.

II Corps H.Q. (123) v. IX Corps H.Q. (116) at Lindenthal. For II Corps, Major Farrell scored 35, Capt. Harrison 30, Lieut. Lodge 22, and Lieut.-Col. Haining 10, while Capt. Harrison took 4 wickets for 57 runs. For IX Corps, Capt. Duncan scored 37, Rev. W. Caldwell 21, and Major Moffat 19, while Capt. Barlow took 4 wickets for 52 runs, Sergt. Pring 3 for 38 and Pte. Lomas 2 for 5.

53rd. Bn. The Rifle Brigade (96 for 8) v. A/246th Bty. R.F.A. (42) at Benrath. For 53rd R.B. Lieut. G.B. Everest scored 39 not out, L.Cpl. Gore 19, Rfn. Burgess 12, and Cpl. Saddler 10, while Rfn. Gore took 7 wickets for 27 runs. Mills scored 28 for A/246 Bty. R.F.A.

2/1 W.R. FIELD AMB. (55 for 9) v. HIGHLAND DIVISION H.Q. (54) at Heimbach. The Field Ambulance started badly and 8 wickets went down for 30. The ninth wicket fell at 41, but Cpl. Brown and McKean saved the situation by hitting off the required number of runs. Walkling bowled well for the Field Ambulance taking 7 wickets for 25 runs. Bourne of D.H.Q (23) and Watson of the F. A. were the only men to reach double figures.

53rd BATTALION BEDFORDSHIRE REGIMENT B COY. (33) v. D COY. (71) at Wahn on Friday. Batting first, D Coy. started poorly, but made amends, L/Cpl. Bull (18) and L/Cpl. Serne (13) batted well. B Coy. succumbed to the excellent bowling of L/Cpls. Smith and Bull, the former obtaining 6 wickets for 13 and the latter 4 for 1. For B Coy., Dmr. Lovell took 3 wickets for 5 runs.

498 SIEGE BTY. R.G.A. (58) maintained their unbeaten record for the season in beating 14 S. BTY. R.G.A. (29) on Saturday at Rondorf. For 14th S. Bty., Lieut. Honey took 7 wickets for 19 runs and for 498 S. Bty., Sergt. Smailes 5 wickets for 9 runs. Gunner Wood played a fine innings for the winners, his score being 28.

2nd N. BDE. H.Q. (144 for 5) v. N. DIV. M.T. COY. (36) at Stadtwald on Saturday. This total the 2nd Bde. passed for the loss of one wicket, Kelly and Patchett batting well for 38 and 35 not out respectively. Going in a second time, the M.T. did better, putting together a total of 68, 2nd Bde. thus winning by an innings and 40 runs.

HIGHLANDERS AT SPORT.

51st Battalion H.L.I.'s Enjoyable Meeting at Worringen

The 51st Battalion Highland L. I., held a very successful sports meeting on Tuesday, at Worringen. All events were very keenly contested, especially the long distance track race of three miles. The five-a-side football match was also very interesting, extra time having to be played owing to a draw.

By kind permission of Lt. Col. A. B. Thorburn, the 15th H. L. I. pipe band played strathspeys and marches, and were ably assisted by the brass and bugle band of the 165e. Regiment d'Infanterie.

Tea and refreshments were served on the ground.

At the close, Major D. M. Murray-Lyon, D.S.O., M.C., called upon Miss Grant of the Scottish Churches to present the prizes to the successful competitors.

11th ROYAL SCOTS SPORTS.

ATHLETIC MACHINE GUNNERS

6th Battalion's Sports Meeting at Mechernich.

These sports were held at Mechernich on Wednesday, the heats having been run on the previous day. In the open events. Driver Hulse of the D.A.C., Highland Division, ran finely. The cross country race which took place on July 25th resulted in an easy victory for B Coy., with D Coy. second. Pte. Garlick, B Coy., Capt. Mavice, B Coy., and L/Cpl. Robertson, D Coy., ran first, second, and third respectively. The championship for the best individual athlete produced a close fight, the winner, L/Cpl. Robertson, D Coy., only beating Pte. Garlick, B Coy., by one point. The inter-company championship was won by B Coy. with 74 points. D Coy., with 50 points, were second Many humourous side shows appeared on the ground, and much ingenuity was displayed in the fancy dress competition.

2/Lieut. T.A. Hile, the battalion sports officer, and the other officials were most successful in organising the meeting, and C.S.M. Hart is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the course was laid out.

Lieut.-Col. O.H. North, D.S.O., kindly acted as referee, and at the close of the meeting distributed the prizes.

CRICKET AT LÜLSDORF.

An interesting cricket match was played at the above camp on Wednesday between Nos. 1 and 2 Sections of the D.A.C. Eastern Division. No. 2 Section had the first innings and made a weak stand against the bowling of Kirk and Clancy. Their score only totalled 33, Ferguson's 15 being the only double figure. No. 1 Section, although opening poorly, thereafter set led down to some steady and clever batting and Gray carried out his bat with a carefully played 85 to his credit. Result:—

No. 1 Section 141; No. 2 Section 33.

HERNE SPORTS.

The feature of the opening day of the two days' meeting of the Allied Sports League at Herne Hill was the running of R. L. Woodman, Kent A.C., who after being put back for overstepping the mark in both sprints secured the 100 yards from 10 yards in 9 9/10 secs, and the 300 yards from 28 yards in 31 secs.

Crewe Sports.

Howard Baker won the High Jump with 6 ft 3 ins.

MINDEN DAY.

5th K.O.S.B. Officers and Sergeants' at Football.

LIVELY GAME.

Lively football was to be seen at a match between Officers and sergeants of the 5th K.O.S.B. played at Zons on Friday. The sergeants won the toss and the officers kicked off against a stiff breeze. Despite this they strongly attacked their opponent's goal in the first few minutes. Before long the sergeants gained the upper hand, Halliday scoring the opening goal. Before half-time, they had added three more to their score against one for the officers.

In the second half, the officers equalized, their fourth goal being the result of a beautiful cross by 2/Lieut. Barrowcliffe, which was headed through by 2/Lieut. Allison, this being his third goal. With ten minutes to go, Halliday, scored his fourth goal for the sergeants, making the score now five. This was shortly followed by another from Cockburn. Final: Sergeants 6, Officers 4.

C/Sgt. Fergusson played a brilliant game as left back. Other players of note were Sgt. Halliday, Sgt. Cockburn, 2/Lieut. Allison, 2/Lieut. Shanks, and 2/Lieut. Robertson, Capt. Wynne made some magnificent saves in goal.

SUFFOLKS' GYMKHANA.

Minden Anniversary Celebrated At Troisdorf.

The anniversary of the famous battle of Minden was celebrated by the 6th Battalion Suffolk Regt. at Troisdorf on Friday. In accordance with regimental custom all ranks wore red and white roses in heir caps, an appropriate reminder of the famous battle that ended in a rose garden, in which the gallant 12th Foot (Suffolk Regt.) played such a glorious part.

In the afternoon, an admirably arranged gymkhana was held on the battalion sports ground in the presence of a large crowd, which included many visitors, civil and military. The events, for which prizes to the value of 960 marks were given, included blindfold sack race, greasy pole, pillow fighting, all fours race, wrestling on mules, best fancy dress, fancy dress handicap (100 yards), tug-of-war on mules, tilting the bucket, limber driving, blindfold boxing, blindfold squad drill, mop fighting, V.C. race on mules, obstacle race, dismounted V.C. race, treacle and bun race, sack fighting, Minden mule scurry. During the afternoon the Drums of the Batt. played selections, which were greatly appreciated.

In the evening a delightful concert was given in the men's dining hall by the "Don Cees," the Suffolk concert party, whose admirable programme gave the finishing touches to a most enjoyable day. The thanks of all ranks are due to the untiring efforts of the officials, whose excellent arrangements made the gymkhana the success it was.

The officials were:—President—Lt. Col. Stubbs D.S.O., Judges—Capt. Rodding M.C., Capt. Adams M.C., Lieut. Hoyland. Recorder—Capt. Parsley. Starter—Lieut. Bailey, D.S.O., M.C. Stewards—Lieut. Hope, Sgt. Gostling, Cpl. Haycock. Clerk of the Course—R.S.M. Read. Committee—Lt. Kirby, Sgt. Cooper, L/C Stirling, L/Cpl. Sewell, Pte. Pither, Pte. Smith, Pte. Clark.

UNSEASONABLE "SOCCER."

Gunners indulge in keen game at Solingen.

At a result of challenges which have been made in certain quarters at Solingen, D Battery and C Battery of the 25th Bde. (W.R.) R.F.A. (T.) have placed representative football teams in the field. Two games have taken place, the first resulting in a draw—one goal each. The teams again met on Wednesday afternoon, when the deciding game was played. It was keenly contested, and excitement rose before the interval, when Gnr. Foley, C Bty., scored the only goal of the game from a finely placed corner kick by Cpl. Gillson. The D Battery vanguard, led by Capt. Dunlop, made strenuous efforts to break through the opposing defence, which was found to be impregnable. Conspicuous in C Battery's defence were Evans, Axford and Foley.

COMPANY CHAMPIONSHIP.

53rd Manchesters' Successful Meeting At Birlinghoven.

Favoured by dry though dull weather, the 53rd Battalion Manchester Regt. held a very successful sports meeting at Birlinghoven on Thursday. The inter-company championship was keenly contested, and was won by "D" Coy. with 21 points.

Lieut.-Col. W. N. Traill, C.M.G., D.S.O., presented the prizes.

440 yards:—1, Pte Abbott; 2, Pte Chadwick; 3, Sgt. Iredale.

Prices Still Rising.

It is with considerable dismay that motorists observe that the prices of motor-cars and motor-cycles are still rising.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Düren Diversion.

Mr. Hugh Harring, the popular Y.M.C.A illusionist, gave a delightful entertainment at Düren on Tuesday evening before a large and appreciative audience. On the following evening a very successful dance was promoted by the lady workers, which was equally enjoyable, a large and enthusiastic company of "jazzers", "fox-trotters", etc., etc.. "toeing the light fantastic" very skilfully.

The Wasps Again.

After their successful show at the Central Y.M.C.A., "The Wasps" gave another excellent performance at Durham House the other evening. Bert Evans, the "girl" scored his usual success, and Vic Jaxon, Hall Treherne, James Garlich and Harry Mountford were in fine form. The programme concluded with that laughable skit "The R.T.O." Lieut. Cheney, who is in charge of the party, wishes it to be known that "The Wasps" reserve exclusive rights for this sketch.

Home On Leave.

The "Merry Micks," the excellent little band of entertainers of the 5th Royal Irish Regiment gave an enjoyable concert a few nights ago. The programme was enthusiastically received by a large audience. Among the outstanding items, Cpl. Heworth was in splendid voice, and Cpl. Livingstone and Pte. Armes worked hard and successfully to produce laughs. The party has now gone on leave and will re-open in Rhineland on August 18.

"The Crumps."

The 41st London Division Concert Party known as the "Crumps" entertained the officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the 17th Royal Fusiliers at Hoffnungsthal the other evening. Excellent songs were rendered by L/C Moodey, Ptes. Lamb, Watkins, Fennick and Fryer, Dvrs. Welsh, Wetton, and Harris, and Cpl. Coole. Variety was lent to the programme by a humorous sketch entitled "The Unbelievable Wife," produced by Messrs Wetton, Coole, Harris, and Fennick. Dvrs. Welsh and Harris ably impersonated the "Flappers," and Cpl. Coole kept the audience in fits of laughter with his witty jokes and songs. Lieut. Knight acted as stage manager for the party.

Gaiety at Poll.

"D" Battery, 190th Brigade R.F.A., held an enjoyable concert the other night in the Cinema Hall at Poll. The talent in the Battery was ably augmented by an excellent band provided for the evening by the Salvation Army, through the kindness of Capt. Peek and Miss Haynes. A high-class and well-varied programme was given by the Battery Concert Party. Bdr. Milson sang "Nirwana," and "The Gay Cavalier" in a splendid manner. Bdr. J. Smith, who appeared in a beard of Russian extraction and the character of a peaceful and philosophic Bolshevik, recited his grievances in ludicrous manner. Major Barter thanked the artistes and visitors.

A Popular O.C.

The evening of July 28th marked an epoch in the history of No. 1 Section, Lowland D.A.C. at Kirchtroisdorf, when that unit held a "smoker" on the occasion of the well merited retirement, after 28 years service, of the O.C. — Captain W. Townsend. The popularity of this officer, who had commanded the unit for three year, swas fittinglymarked by the presentation of a handsome gold watch by the C.O. Major Bandle. Rarely indeed could any officer be the recipient of such hearty and spontaneous esteem. The men cheered themselves hoarse and all ranks fervidly echoed the Major's eulogy of the "Skipper." The concert, which was a conspicuous success, was warmly appreciated, each turn being received with vociferous applause.

Y.M. Future Events.

To-morrow in the Loreley Hall, Miss M.G. Williamson, M.A., lecturer in History at Edinburgh University, will give a lecture on "Bonnie Prince Charming" at 7 p.m. At the same time in the great Hall, the "Braganzas" will give a concert. On Thursday at 7 "Germany and the Germans," will be discussed by Dr. A. Main, and at 8 p.m., "Literature," by Miss Muriel Smith, M.A. "The Wonders of Science" is the title of the Rev. W.R. Harvey's lecture at 7 p.m. on Friday, and at the same hour on Saturday the Y.M.C.A. staff and others will submit a concert. From 6.30 to 9.0 on Thursday, Friday, and

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Staff Officer's Cigarettes.

A soldier who signs himself "One of the old contemptibles" expresses his surprise at seeing a staff officer standing in the cigarette queue at one of the Y.M.C.A. hostels in Cologne the other day. To the gratification of the other ranks, the officer waited his turn and received the same ration of cigarettes as the others.

That Signal Device.

When the paragraph on the German system of lighting signal lamps on the railways appeared we asked whether anyone knew if the time-saving notion described was peculiar to Germany. This query has brought two responses. One is from a D.L.I. railwayman who says if he is not mistaken the system is working on the Great Northern line at home. A reader in the R.A.S.C. says he has seen an almost similar plan on the French railways but instead of the lamp being pushed up into position, it is pulled up by a long chain, worked, of course from the ground.

Rumours.

Rumours of a pending move have again been playing havoc in one of the Rhine battalions. This time, it is thought that the rumour originated from someone who had overheard the C.O. and the Adjutant exchanging reminiscences of their days in Egypt and from this source the rumour came "absolutely official," that the battalion was moving to Egypt shortly. In fact it was alleged that indents for khaki-drill jackets, and sun-helmets had already been submitted. By the time everyone reached the Mess for tea the rumour had developed like wild-fire and various places were mentioned as "straight from the fountain head," including Egypt, Russia, and Ireland. The climax, however, was reached when the master-cook announced that all were wrong, and that the battalion was going to Roumania, though everyone is yet in doubt as to whether he said "Roumania" or "remain here."

A Bit of their Navy.

At the junction of Eigelstein and Thürmchenswall there is an arch across the road. If anyone takes the trouble to look upwards when passing underneath they will see a queer thing, half a battered ships boat, suspended to the top of the arch, bearing the Cologne coat of arms. One would probably think that this was a relic of some great historical event after the style of our Grace Darling, but as a matter of fact it was one of the boats of a German war vessel named Cologne that was sunk by one of our submarines and the remains of the lifeboat were picked up by a German T.B.D. and sent to Cologne. It would be interesting to know in what naval "scrap" this ship was sunk, but the civilian who told the writer this tale was very reticent on this point.

Timber Transport.

Before the war, a familiar sight on the Rhine were the immense timber rafts, proceeding slowly down the river in tow of a tug. The writer has recently seen one or two moderate sized ones. These rafts which are built of logs felled in the Black Forest dis rict are sometimes hundreds of yards in length and of corresponding width. They have substantial wooden huts built upon them for the accommodation of the "crew" which comprises perhaps a complete family who steer and look after the raft and the complement usually includes a dog or two which greet passing steamers by scampering along the raft and barking vigorously. Their appearance is often enlivened by one or more flags flying from short masts. Thus they make their long journey down the Rhine to their destination which is often Rotterdam where they are broken up for use or shipment.

A Saver of Work.

English housewives might considerably lighten their daily task by adopting the ingenious device which is so labour-saving to the German housewives. Numerous houses in Rhineland have a small engine installed in the basement, from which a pipe radiates to each flat supplying a vacuum. The vacuum cleaner is then fitted to a nozzle in the floor of the house and the room is cleaned quickly and thoroughly with the minimum exertion.

Approaching the All-powerful.

Stealthily, and with many furtive glances the soldier put the finishing touches to his work, which he now regarded with approving eye, like the master artist, who sees his work well done, and is satisfied. Closely he scrutinised the fruits of his genius, noting the effect of the oils and pigments he had used, and a little sigh escaped his lips, for here was his masterpiece. With bright eye, and firm step he strode forth, but not without some inward trepidation, for was he not going to the inner shrine, where sat the all-powerful, he who sat, and gave judgment?

"Rumbled."

His heart beat faster, for were there not many who came there with high hopes and left, sadder, if wiser men? But these thoughts did not daunt him. He approached the silent figure, who seemed to pierce him with his keen searching eyes, which rested only for one disdainful glance on the offering the soldier has brought, and was now holding out supplicatingly. The soldier piteously searched the other's face, but there was no life in that stony visage, save only in the malignant stare. Suddenly, so suddenly as to make the suppliant start, he spoke. "Clean 'em with petrol" he said. The words came like the knell of doom, and stumbling, the soldier crept with bowed head from that unhallowed spot, for then he knew beyond peradventure, that the Quarter-bloke had "rumbled" him, and that he would not get a new pair of slacks to be demobbed in.

A Wonderful Instrument.

The Germans' positive mania for music of every description leads to their inventive genius producing some weird mechanical pianos and organs. The piano that plays popular German airs, and beats drums and produces mandoline effects is pretty familiar to anyone that frequents the larger Gasthauses, but there is one huge mechanical affair in an hotel at Wahn that certainly is a marvel; this being no less than a piano that supplies violin accompinaments by the aid of five violins operated by mechanical fingers. And not as would be expected, the airs played are not all in the same volume of sound, but soft and louder effects are produced giving the exact impression of a high class string orchestra.

War Savings.

Another splendid record in War Savings Certificates has been made by the 53rd Royal Sussex Regt. the total purchased by all ranks during the past month having been as much as 1240. In one week the total reached the fine figure of 738. We shall be pleased to give particulars of the savings achievements of all units in the Rhine Army.

Horse Show Conditions.

A competitor at a recent Horse Show complains that many of the vehicles whose owners won prizes had obviously been treated with an electrical burnisher and varnish. He says that the result was certainly pleasing to the eye, but that the use of such "unregimental facilities" is scarcely fair to those competitors who could not obtain them.

To-days Jape.

The eccentricities of English pronunciation are often a puzzle even to the Briton. To the foreigner they are always a stumbling-block. But the climax was reached the other day when a young German, proud of his increasing mastery of our tongue, received an awful shock which utterly destroyed his growing confidence, when, in a story he was reading, the author mentioned pneumonia, and said that the doctor — presumably a well educated man — pronounced it "fatal!"

Lesser Echoes.

A special pattern of short puttees os now being worn by soldiers of Highland kilted regiments in Rhineland.

One carriage is now reserved each day in the Boulogne-Cologne express for the use of women allowed to travel on the train.

A few copies of "The Cologne Post" through a momentary failure of the printing press got into circulation on Saturday last with no impression of type on the two inside papes. We apologise for any inconvenience caused.

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to:—C.Q.M.S. D.J. Rowett, 51st Gordon Highlanders, Rhine Army; Pte. L. Wilson, M.T., A.S.C. c/o Inter-allied Railway Sub Commission, Rhine Army; and Cpl. E. Fisher, D. of S. and T. G.H.Q. Rhine Army.

SHOULD WE HAVE MEDALS.

TO THE EDITOR, "COLOGNE POST."

Sir,—A perusal of the correspondence colums in the daily press, will prove how real is the spirit of enquiry concerning the existence of medals for various types of War Work and the claims to the honour of pinning these to the breast.

The number and variety of the services called forth by the war would suggest that to satisfy each claimant would be next to impossible. Is it not even time to question the giving of medals?

True the practice is old. I would ask is it good? Is there a sadder sight than the soldier with a breast full of medals. Why sad? Because the ignorance on the part of the Public as to the services which have brought the wearer the distinction is such as to rob the display of all value.

My own little boys have greatly puzzled me by their questions of "What is that ribbon for Daddy?" When I have confessed my ignorance the thought has simultaneously occurred, what did the wearer think of me? Did he pity or blame me and was he angry with a nation which showered ribbons but could not induce its citizens to remember the services he had performed. Then too in connection with the present distribution who shall determine merit?

I confess that the claims of my home and family were so strong that it needed an act of compulsion to put me in the way of having a claim to wear the ribbon. Surely I am guilty of hypocrisy in making an outward show of apparently willing service. Yet how many must be in the same gallery.

The time surely will arrive when the performer of good will be content with the inward knowledge of duty faithfully performed. Unless in the near future such inward satisfaction be sufficient I can see many fathers trying vainly to determine in what part of the home or foreign front and during what years the wearer of numerous medals tried to serve his country.

Recalling the famous poster, "What did you do in the great war daddy?" with its suggestion of difficulty to find any answer, I can let my heart go out in sympathy to the poor mortal called upon to distinguish between the Mons, 1915, general division and other medals which the great war has brought to birth.

NOTES FROM LONDON TOWN.

HISTORIC GUILDHALL SCENE.

It was to mark the City's recognition of the conclusion of peace, according to ancient tradition, that the King and Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Queen Alexandra, drove this week through London to the Guildhall. They were escorted by the Household Cavalry, still in the khaki of France and Flanders, and the King wore his favourite naval uniform, which certainly best suits him. The Queen was in a light grey costume with plumed hat. Both of them looked a little jaded after all the big ceremonies of the present record London season. Princess Mary, who drove in the open landau with their Majesties, was fresh and pink enough, however, and the Prince has obviously got well over his slight illness. His is the most charming figure of all. A real Prince Charming, the ladies unanimously and genuinely declare. The scene in the old Guildhall, which, like all old buildings, seems to rise to the occasion of these historic events very wonderfully, was most brilliant and impressive. The white-haired Premier met with a rousing reception. No one need doubt Mr. Lloyd George's real popularity in these days. It was not always so. The City acclaimed this week the man whom a decade ago Birmingham stoned! The speeches were admirable. But nothing was better cheered than the King's tribute to the Merchant Service. — "No single British crew ever refused to sail."

BRAIN WAVES.

A clever physician has been expounding his views about the violent tendencies now so prevalent among the communities. He naturally attributes it all to the war. Mankind has had its emotions so aroused and its nerves so taxed, and the sensationalism of all sorts encouraged by the war is so widespread that it will take some time for us all to settle down. People tend to become excited over trifles which before the war, says the eminent doctor, would not have stirred them in the least. Strangely enough, the general experience of the layman is precisely opposite. One finds most people agreeing that never before have people as a rule been so good-tempered, so tolerant of small discomforts and irritations, and so much disposed to make a joke of misfortune. Perhaps this tendency is more prevalent among men and women who have been in the way of doing some war service. Surely it seems reasonable to suppose that a man who has been soldiering or a woman who has been a W.A.A.C. is less nervy and exacting than formerly, unless they have had the misfortune to be injured.

THE LATEST SPORT.

When an old warrior retires on his modest pension he usually finds time hang heavy on his hands, and resorts to politics, fishing, or horticulture as an outlet for the energy previously expended on the quarter deck or parade ground. The result is often pathetic, and the old man rapidly breaks up in health and mental vigour. I was talking to a young man recently, whose father is a retired admiral. After a few years enforced inactivity, the old sea-dog had recovered a zest for life by serving on a mine sweeper in the North Sea, but now he has returned to the bosom of his anxious family, who feared a relapse into the old habits of bad temper and gout. I made a discreet inquiry in an appropriately sympathetic tone, and received from his son the following reply:— Oh, he's fine, thanks. The dear old boy has taken a new lease of life. He has got the job of official ratcatcher in our part of the country, and wanders about all day with his dogs. You ought to hear him describe how he caught a big 'un when he comes home with the tails at night. We were getting a bit fed up with Alexandria and the Boxer rising, so it's a great relief. Besides, it keeps him from writing abusive letters to the papers."

COSTER TO THE RESCUE.

One is glad to find that the retail profiteers in London are not now going to have things quite all their own way. The picturesque figure of the London coster is coming to the rescue of the exploited suburbs with his barrow, and housewives are getting a chance to make their housekeeping money go a little further than it has been doing for some time. The street market has long been a popular feature of certain London suburbs of the poorer sort, but it is now rapidly winning popular support in many better-to-do localities. Fruit, meat, groceries, fish, breadstuffs, and all manner of domestic necessities are now being sold in the streets by costers with barrows which offer a great contrast in prices with the shops. And they are finding a great demand. The suburbs are actually queueing up to wait for the coming of these fair dealers. The wealthy shopkeepers assert that their goods are much better than those of the street vendors. At their prices they ought to be all that, but the coster's patrons do not agree with the criticism.

THE MOTOR BOOM.

There is an unprecedented boom in the motor industry. One famous firm, whose engines received an immense advertisement over the first Atlantic flight, is charging £300 for the favour of putting intending clients on their waiting list, which is "miles long." Outside the Alhambra the other night where the Russian ballet is still drawing fashionable London, one counted at least 60 p.c. of the waiting cars as belonging to this particular firm. But the demand is nearly as great for all sorts of cars. One young officer whom I know has spent part of his demobilization gratuity on a motor bike. He did not go in for an expensive or famous make. But he had great difficulty in getting a moderate article by a comparatively unknown firm for 128 guineas, and the firm assured him that they had enough orders now in hand to keep their works going at full speed for two years. From this one may deduce the extent to which the motor habit is likely to spread and develop. Motor-bikes are all the rage among ex-Service men, and quite a large percentage of ex-officers and N.C.O.'s are purchasing these appliances. Apparently the familiar sight out in France of the envied despatch-riders scooting round corners at 60 miles an hour has awakened a longing to try the sport. So our country roads are going to be lively enough in a little while.

A WAR ROMANCE.

Some time ago I mentioned the case of a captain in the war army with a breast full of ribbons whom I found gaily whistling old army songs while engaged in his old civilian occupation, to which he cheerfully returned on being "demobbed," of counting and checking the coppers from automatic telephones. A still more interesting and striking case is the ex-commissionaire and janitor at a famous City office, who re-enlisted for the war, won great distinction, and rose to be a battalion commander. He was offered a better job by his directors on coming back to civvie life, but declined it, merely remarking "Thank you. I will carry on with the old job." Now another case has come to light in London. An officer who lost one arm and was discharged with 35s. a week pension, turned Covent Garden porter, at 25s. a week, in default of anything better available. He had to maintain a wife and family, and showed his manly fortitude by taking the best thing going at the moment. A former brother officer met him, while he was carrying a basket of apples on his head in the market recognised him, and, being a gentleman, "shook." The ex-officer-porter is now in a suitable post in Whitehall.

Fiery Disease Banished By

Zam-Buk

Mr. R. Phillips

"A little spot came on my neck," says Mr. R. Phillips, of Collins Buildings, Woodside, Sacriston, Co. Durham. Mr. Phillips fought with the Northumberland Fusiliers through Mons, the Aisne and the Marne. He continues:— "Other places broke out, and the eruption spread round my throat and to my face. My face and head were soon covered with what the doctor said was eczema. He gave me salve and medicine without, however rooting out my distressing ailment.

"The places discharged terribly, and my face became a mass of unsightly scabs. The disease had got such a hold that my eyebrows were actually falling off and my face was literally on fire.

After months of intense suffering, I decided to try Zam-Buk. Even the first few dressings with the balm eased the burning sensation. Zam-Buk also dried up the discharge and softened the disfiguring scabs. After further dressings with Zam-Buk, new healthy skin grew over all the old sore places and Zam-Buk rid me completely of the terrible disease.

Though it is 3 years since Zam-Buk cured me, I haven't had the slightest return of the eczema.

EVERY SOLDIER NEEDS A BOX

By keeping a box of Zam-Buk always handy you have the equivalent of a Surgery in the familiar green box. Zam-Buk ensures swift and clean healing of Wounds and is unequalled as a complete and lasting cure for Eczema, Ulcers, Scalp, Sores, Piles, etc. Zam-Buk is also splendid for removing stiffness and sprains.

Soldiers prefer Zam-Buk to all other skin remedies because of its unique healing power, its reliability, and its compact and ever-ready character. It is sold in sealed boxes at chemists and Army canteens or from the Zam-Buk Laboratories Leeds.

HISTORIC THAMES PAGEANT.

POLICE STRIKE.

FORCED BY DISGRUNTLED OFFICIALS.

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Clynes asked the Home Secretary whether the police strike was precipitated by the introduction and passage of the Police Bill and whether he would consider the advisability of withdrawing the order of dismissal in the case of the men who went on strike.

Mr. Shortt said that the number of police who had refused duty had increased slightly but there was no material alteration in the situation. On the contrary many of the constabulary forces had held meetings in order to repudiate the policy of the strikers.

Regarding the suggestion that the strike was precipitated by the introduction of the Police Bill, it was only true to the extent that the Union officials, knowing that the Bill would bring the Union to an end, had used every endeavour to persuade the police of the country to be false to their duty and oath. He was informed that the Bill was welcomed by the great majority.

The police strike was not an ordinary industrial dispute to which ordinary methods of conciliation could be applied. It was a definite act of mutiny and for so long as Paliament is responsible for the maintainance of law and order it could not entertain any question of compromise.

COMMISSIONER'S ORDER.

The following Special Police Order has been issued by Sir Nevil Macready Commissioner of Metropolitan Police: —

During the last two days the Force has passed through a crisis from which it has emerged with credit to itself, and with an established position in the confidence of the public. That confidence was shaken by the events of August, 1918, since when grievances have been rectified, and measures have been taken by the Government to ensure that the conditions of pay, of pensions, of redress of grievances, and of the welfare of all ranks shall be in every way commensurate to the importance and responsibilities of the service. That the attempt which has been made to seduce the Metropolitan Police from their duty and their allegiance to the State has failed, is evident from the fact that out of a total of 19,004 all ranks, only one inspector, one station sergeant, 27 sergeants, and 965 police constables have refused duty up to 6 a.m. on Saturday.

"Violated Their Oath."

Whatever motives may have influenced these men, the fact remains that they violated the oath they took on joining the Force, and have brought disgrace upon themselves and ruin on their dependants. The Commissioner feels sure that from this day the Metropolitan Police, purged of these discontented elements, will not only maintain but increase the great reputation which the Force has held in the eyes of the world. Certain divisions have passed through the ordeal without a single police officer withdrawing from his duty, a fact which reflects the greatest credit on all ranks. Other divisions have been less fortunate, but the Commissioner feels deeply that it is in those divisions where a comparatively large number of men withdrew from duty that the loyalty of those who were true to their salt was most sorely tried, and is deserving of the highest praise. The Commissioner wishes to convey to all ranks serving to-day his deep appreciation of their evident determination to uphold their own self-respect, and the reputation of the great Force to which we belong, and he can assure them that they may rely on him to prove that appreciation by an equal determination to further their interests and their welfare.

RUPPRECHT IS READY.

The "Muenchener Zeitung" publishes a letter from Prince Rupprecht, the ex-Crown Prince of Bavaria, to the President of the Bavarian Diet, in which the former declares that he is not willing to recognise a court of justice in which the prosecutor is also the judge. The ex-Crown Prince continues:

"I will not, under any circumstances, voluntarily attend a non-German Court of State, but I declare myself ready to go before a Bavarian Court of State. I give myself into the hands of the Bavarian Diet as being, at present, the only bearer of Bavarian sovereignty. Should the Bavarian Diet, subject to my surrender being demanded by the Inter-Allied Court of Justice, agree to this, then I will comply with this decision."

MARINE PAGEANT.

GREAT SPECTACLE ON THE THAMES.

London was again en fete on Monday (Bank Holiday) on the occasion of the great river pageant from the Tower to Chelsea. Never before have the banks of the Thames presented such a picturesque scene. Every bridge was gay with streamers and heraldic devices, while the warehouses along the banks were transformed from their usual dreary appearance by all kinds of decorative paraphernalia which could possibly be pressed into service. Dense crowds assembled at an early hour.

Their Majesties the King and Queen had a great reception as they drove through the streets to the Tower, where they boarded the Royal Barge. This was the signal for a salute of twenty-one guns to be fired from the Tower. The Barge followed a mile-long procession of boats. In various craft were the Lords of the Admiralty, London civic dignitaries and representatives of the Naval and Merchant Service.

Commons Adjourn.

As the procession of boats passed the Houses of Parliament, the House of Commons adjourned to enable members to view the historic spectacle and there was much cheering on the terrace when their Majesties went by.

On arrival at Cadogan pier the Royal party disembarked and proceeded to a white and gold pavilion from which they reviewed the procession of boats. Members of the W.R.E.N. formed a guard of honour outside the pavilion.

The procession of craft seemed interminable and it was well on towards evening before the last of the boats had passed. Meanwhile bands and choirs stationed at various points on the banks played or sang nautical and patriotic songs. The King and Queen were evidently greatly pleased with the pageant, and were obviously very deeply gratified by their people's reception. After the review they passed through the pavilion and entering their carriage drove back to Buckingham Palace between deep ranks of their cheering subjects.

GERMAN PROTEST.

LABOUR DELEGATES BARRED.

At the most recent sitting of the International Trade Union Congress at Amsterdam, Herr Legien, a German delegate, protested against Russia and Germany being excluded from sending representatives to the International Labour Convention which is to be held at Washington in October. One of his grievances was that all kinds of South American Republics will be represented, together with Liberia and Japan, with its fourteen hour working day for children.

Mr. Gompers explained the American Labour point of view in an energetic reply. The Committee appointed to discuss the attitude of Congress towards the Convention submitted a resolution to the effect that Congress agrees to co-operate with the Washington Convention on condition that representatives of Trade Unions in all countries without exception be invited. The resolution further declares that the delegates sent by Congress shall be required to try to secure the adoption of the Berne programme as the Labour Charter of the world.

JAPAN AND GERMANY.

SECRET NEGOTIATIONS DENIED.

Viscount Uchida, the Japanese Foreign Minister, referred in an interview to the repetition in America of the absurd notion of secret negotiations between Japan and Germany having taken place during the war. The continued circulation of this story, says the Minister, apparently indicates that certain quarters are interested at the present moment in striving to effect an estrangement between Japan and her friends. "I declare once more with a clear conscience that Japan never acted in breach of her plighted faith to her Allies and her Associates in the war," he said.

ANTI-TOBACCO CRUSADE.

It is asserted by the Association which is opposed to prohibition in the United States that the Women's Temperance Union, which will hold its semi-centennial celebration in March 1924, is proposing that Congress should submit an anti-tobacco constitutional amendment to various States. It is said the movement is well under way, being helped by other prohibitionists.

RUSH OF SPECIALS.

LOYAL LIVERPUDLIANS JOIN THE FORCE.

The Chief Constable of Liverpool issued a statement on Monday night declaring that there had been no extension of the strike. On the other hand numerous applications had been received from men asking to be allowed to return to duty and alleging that they had been intimidated into striking against their will. It is understood that individual consideration will be given to such cases by the Watch Committee, though at the same time it must be recognised that the supreme authority in the matter is the Government.

Between one hundred and fifty and two hundred recruits were enrolled in the Liverpool police force yesterday. Ninety per cent. of the applicants are ex-service men, while 720 volunteers registered for duty as special constables in addition to 250 who served in that capacity during the war. Cavalry reinforcements arrived yesterday to help quell any further attempt at looting by the mob.

AERIAL OFFENDERS.

PROSECUTIONS THREATENED.

Though the Air Navigation Regulations have only been in force since May 1, the Air Ministry states that numerous instances of their infringement are being reported. The Ministry has decided to take proceedings in future cases. As the regulations were made with a view to safeguarding the general safety, the public are asked to forward to the authorities particulars of any offences that come under their notice. The most common instances of infringement are:—Dropping leaflets and other advertising matter; taking up and landing passengers as a regular proceeding at places which have not been licensed as aerodromes; low flying over towns and to the danger of the public; neglecting to obliterate military markings when a machine has ceased to be a military machine; obscuring registration marks by means of advertisements or otherwise.

ARREST ON THE GANGWAY.

Charged at Westminster with forging and uttering an application for a passage to Australia as a soldier's dependent, with intent to defraud, Beatrice Brashaw, a married woman, of Hulme, was remanded in custody. She was embarking with a daughter of eighteen on the boat for Australia at Tilbury Docks when she was arrested.

Asked whether she was passing as Mrs. Lambert and had signed a document for passage as the wife of Private Lambert, of the Australian Imperial Force, she admitted that she was not the soldier's wife. It was stated that the husband of the accused was away in Africa, and it was in consequence of the complaint of the wife of Lambert that the deception was found out.

DASTARDLY BOMB OUTRAGE.

Early on Sunday morning an unknown miscreant placed a bomb in the doorway of Mr. Oscar Lawler's residence at Los Angeles, the resultant explosion completely wrecking the house. Mr. Lawler and his wife were terribly injured and are both lying in a very critical condition.

Mr. Lawler was formerly Assistant Attorney General of the United States and in that capacity was the Chief Prosecutor in the trial of the notorious dynamiter McNamara and his associates.

CORRESPONDENTS' MEDALS.

In the name of Marshals Foch and Petain, Gen. Chantilly decorated in Paris the undermentioned war correspondents with the Croix the Guerre:—M. Babin, of the Illustration; M. Eugene Tardieu, of the Echo de Paris; M. Edouard Helsey, of the Journal, and M. Vidal, of the Matin. He delivered a eulogistic speech, concluding with these words: "It is thanks to you that the morale of the nation was maintained during the war."

RUMANIANS ENTER BUDA-PESTH.

It is learned from Paris that the Rumanians have entered Buda-Pesth. Bela Kun has fled to Vienna. The purely Socialist Government which was formed after the fall of the Hungarian Soviet has been reshuffled in order to admit three representatives of the middle classes.

ABSURD WEST INDIAN RUMOUR.

Mr. Lansing, replying to various enquiries, asserts that the despatches which have appeared in sundry newspapers constitute the only information in his possession regarding the reported proposal to cede the West Indies to America in part payment of England's debt to the United States.

BULGARIAN DELEGATES.

The Commission appointed by the Council of Five to examine the bona-fides of the Bulgarian delegates sat at the Quai d'Orsay yesterday under the presidency of M. Cambon. All the credentials were found to be in correct order.

GERMAN ARMY.

EVADING THE PEACE TERMS.

A proposal is being put forward in Germany which if carried into effect will succeed in evading that part of the Peace Treaty which limits the German Army to 100,000 men. The Berlin Correspondent of a Copenhagen paper says that the German Government intends to re-organise the police in such a way that while the communal police will only be equipped with truncheons, the Imperial police will be on a military basis and composed of young unmarried men who will live in barracks under military discipline and be armed with all kinds of weapons. This Imperial police would be used for maintenance of order in more serious circumstances. The plan is already being strongly criticised in Trade Union circles and the question is raised whether it is not in conflict with the peace conditions.

STAND AND DELIVER.

LABOUR CRISES IN THE STATES.

Labour troubles are developing in the United States, where Congress, on the initiative of President Wilson, has postponed its recess in order to deal with the food and wages situations. The heads of four American railway Brotherhoods and representatives of American Labour Federations have issued a statement demanding Government ownership of the railways on the basis of profit sharing with the workers. They declare that the Unions are not in the mood to brook a return to the former lines of control. The reason assigned is the cost of living and the impossibility of wages keeping pace with the depreciation of money. The conditions are serious, as the moving of crops has begun.

A later message states that Mr. Hines, Director General of Railways, has been summoned to Washin ton with the heads of the four big railroad Brotherhoods and the Labour representative of the striking shopmen, to discuss the entire situation, arising out of the men's demands for more pay and their evident unwillingness to wait for the appointment of a Commission to examine the whole question.

WEARING UNIFORM.

An Army Council instruction states that the permission given to demobilized and disembodied officers to wear uniform on the occasions detailed in Army Order 4, of July 7, 1919, is also given to the following:—

Retired officers, those of the unattached list, Territorial Forces, Territorial Force Reserve, Cadet units and Volunteers.

Members of the Reserve of Officers, Militia, Special Reserve, Yeomanry, Volunteer and Territorial Forces who have been granted permission to retain their rank and to wear the prescribed uniform by notification in the "London Gazette";

Ex-officers of the Volunteer Force who, on relinquishing their commissions, were granted honorary rank;

Warrant officers to whom special permission has been given to wear uniform after discharge;

Ex-N.C.O.'s of the old Volunteer Force and of the Territorial Force who have been granted permission to wear uniform after discharge under the Volunteer regulations and under the Territorial Force Regulations are also included.

RAILWAY POLICEWOMEN.

Railway companies are now employing policewomen. One of them, wearing the uniform of the Underground Electric Railways Company, and with the new hat and striped armlet issued to the women police, is on patrol duty in the booking halls at Piccadilly Circus Station, one of the most crowded traffic centres in London.

Policewomen have for some time been on duty in the neighbourhood of the large railway termini, but their direct employment by railway companies is an innovation.

SHIP TURNS TURTLE.

The British steamer "Clan Gordon" (of Glasgow, 3,610 tons) turned turtle in a perfectly calm sea last Wednesday when 140 miles off Cape Hatteras.

The wireless operator, J. Wilson, and three lascars were drowned. C. R. Mc Lean, the master, ten officers, and forty-seven crew were rescued by the United Fruit Company's steamer "Abangarez," and were landed at New York.

FORTHCOMING HONOURS.

It is understood that the last portion of the birthday honours list which was not published on the occasion of the King's birthday in June will probably be issued this week. There is no likelihood of the Peace gazette being issued for some time yet. The birthday list is expected to contain a number of bestowals of particular interest, especially in regard to one or two peerages.

SCHELDT CONTROL.

The Dutch-Belgian Commission held its second sitting at Paris on Monday morning when the views of Belgium regarding the future control of the Scheldt were presented.

BOLSHEVISM.

MENACE TO EXISTENCE OF DEMOCRACY.

Colonel John Ward, the navvy M.P., has been interviewed at Penang while on the voyage home from Siberia aboard the Holt liner Talthybius.

He said he is convinced that there is Bolshevist support behind the cry for direct action in England. The movement, he declared, is a challenge to the State and a complete negation of constitutional authority. Those workers who are concerned about saving society from destruction must seek new bearings to decide what action must be taken to defend themselves against disruptive forces, whose success would mean the death of democracy.

Regarding the situation in Siberia, Colonel Ward asserted that it is not serious. Koltchak's reserves are good and formidable, while his assurances regarding a constituent assembly, land and other questions are satisfactory.

From a Democratic standpoint, Kerensky's views were not worthy of notice. All sections of the Russian people denounced him as the chief cause of their troubles. Since the revolution he has been useless both as adviser and administrator. Colonel Ward is confident that if the Allies continue to assist Koltchak until order is restored, enabling people constitutionally to decide their own future, a speedy improvement is certain.

SUMMER'S DISMAL RECORD.

The month of July was a depressing period from the weather point of view. Though the actual rainfall in the London area was rather less than the normal July ration of 2½in., and only three days were absolutely sunless, the month was generally cold, dull, and cheerless. The total amount of bright sunshine, 100 hours, gave a daily average of barely three and a half hours, and of the thirty-one days there were only five which could be classed as fine. For nearly the whole month the barometer was above normal.

So far this year the London records show a surplus of nearly 2in. of rain—about one month's average—and, thanks to the generous month of May, of eighty hours of sunshine. Of the seven months elapsed, five have been meteorologically bad, and only two—May and June—fine. May, indeed, had a quite exceptionally [illegible] of rain (about 25 per cent. of the May average) and more than double July's total of bright sunshine. Unless August asserts itself, May will stand out in the weather records of 1919 as the only summer month of the year.

THAMES POLLUTION.

Boating men and anglers on the Thames between East Molesey Lock, Hampton Court, and Hampton-on-Thames were amazed to see huge quantities of dead fish floating down the stream. The surface of the river was absolutely white with dead fish, and there were hundreds of thousands of fry, including perch, dace, and roach.

Anxious anglers followed the trail of the floating fish up as far as the Metropolitan Water Board at Hampton, where a big drain on the Middlesex side was emitting some noxious fluid, killing the fish by thousands.

BAKERS REFUSE ARBITRATION.

A ballot took place in London yesterday amongst the members of the Bakers Union on the question of arbitration in the present dispute. The offer was rejected by an overwhelming majority but the men intimated their willingness to meet the employers on Wednesday in order to discuss the situation. There is stated to be no possibility of a resumption of work until this meeting is held.

DELAYED PEACE DAY.

Peace celebrations at Glasgow, which were postponed from the official date on account of the trade general holidays, were commenced yesterday. A great naval and military pageant was held, in which nearly 10,000 sailors and soldiers and nurses participated. Twenty thousand aged ratepayers and 200,000 schoolchildren were entertained and a special fête was held in honour of demobilized men. The celebrations will extend over four days.

A SUCCESSFUL APPEAL.

At the Court of Criminal Appeal, Wm. Jas. Twigg, a motor engineer, appealed against a conviction and sentence of four months in the second division passed upon him at Middlesex Sessions on a charge of receiving certain stolen goods from the Government store at Hurst Park.

The court quashed the conviction and discharged Twigg.

LIVERPOOL ROWDIES.

At Liverpool on Sunday there was another night of hooliganism, but the presence of the military proved a most salutary check. The city magistrates yesterday morning had before them three hundred persons charged with rioting and looting.

They were all remanded for a week.

SKELETON CRIME.

THREE ACCUSED PERSONS IN THE DOCK.

At Willesden Police Court William John Grant, Alice Maud White ("Mrs. Grant") and Maggie Grant were charged together with being concerned in the manslaughter of Connie Grant, the imbecile girl, at West Kilburn. Maggie Grant was further charged with disposing of the dead body at 12 Pembroke Place, Kilburn.

The proceedings were purely formal. Detective Inspector Coggins, who is in charge of the investigations, said the facts had been laid before the Director of Public Prosecutions who would be represented at the next hearing. The Bench remanded the accused until August 12th, bail being refused.

PIDGIN ENGLISH.

CHINAMAN'S QUAINT CONFESSION.

Quaintly-phrased admissions by Djan Djin Sung, a Chinaman, charged with the attempted murder of his fellow-countryman, Kuo Deung Dson, of Shepherd's Bush, by hitting him on the head with a hammer, were quoted at West London police-court.

Sung, who was arrested at Birmingham, was also charged with stealing £7 5s. and a watch and chain from Dson's house. According to a detective, prisoner said, in reply to the charge: "Me happy. Me no miserable. You making mistake."

Later, however, he told the witness: "No good tell you lies. The man owed me 50 dollars. I wrote a letter to him for the money, and he no give it to me. He very skinny man. I come to London and climb in top window to take money from his pocket. He went up and catch my throat and I hit him tap-tap on head with stick. I got frightened and go back to Birmingham."

He was remanded.

POLICEMAN WHO WOULD NOT STRIKE.

There was a sequel to the police strike when Benjamin Hilling, a motor driver, was charged at West London with assaulting a policeman. The latter was on duty outside a cinema hall at Hammersmith, where a meeting of police strikers had been held.

After arresting a woman who tried to put leaflets in his helmet, and who was rescued by the crowd, the constable was assaulted. Accused was arrested by another policeman and charged. Remarking that the assault was a very serious one under the circumstances, the magistrate passed a sentence of twenty-eight days.

GENERAL GOURAUD'S VISIT.

General Gouraud, Commanding the 4th French Army, is paying a short visit to Cologne. At 12.00 noon to-day there will be a parade in the Square opposite the Excelsior Hotel in his honour, the troops on parade consisting of one section of the R.H.A., two troops Cavalry and one Infantry battalion, with colours and band. After the inspection the troops will march past General Gouraud.

STRANGE FATALITY.

A domestic servant of Goole, named Emma Morhan, aged eighteen, was giving a cow some water in a bucket when it suddenly tossed its head, and its horn caught the girl on the cheek.

There was no mark, and no veins were opened, but five days later the girl's face became discoloured, and blood poisoning set in, from which she died.

STRANDED HOLIDAY MAKERS.

Through a "lightning" strike of six hundred engine drivers on the South Western Railway thousands of holiday makers were stranded at various places on the system on Monday.

Ostensibly the men struck out of sympathy with the police malcontents but the strike is absolutely repudiated by the men's own responsible officials. So far no other railways are affected.

ENGLAND CHANGING HANDS.

An auctioneer, in conducting a property sale at Sandbach, said that within five years circumstances would compel the sale of all farms in England.

The lands of Cheshire were breaking up very fast. Within six miles of Chester he had disposed of £1,000,000 worth of property, and there remained only a small portion of Cheshire unsold.

TIN HATS FOR SALE.

Although the Army allowed demobilized soldiers to retain their steel helmets as trophies of war, the supply was far in excess of the demand, and now the Government Disposal Board is seeking a market for the surplus quantity, which numbers many thousands of new and second-hand helmets, with or without leather lining.

The negro quarter of Chicago is now completely surrounded by troops. The presence of six thousand fully armed soldiers has had a salutary effect on the rioters and the town is now much quieter.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

DOES SHE REPENT?

It is to be hoped that the importance of recent events in Germany has not been lost upon our readers, for the significance of the discussions on the revelations of Erzberger has an interest beyond the domestic affairs of Germany.

Without doubt these revelations and the ensuing discussions are widening the breach between the principal parties.

But the essential feature goes beyond the minor antagonisms of party politics. If one assembles the details of the controversy and compares the recent utterances of the German foreign minister with the explanations of the German delegates at Amsterdam, and similar public incidents, the chain of evidence approaches completion.

The whole German nation is uniting in an appeal to the public opinion in foreign countries and is attempting to gain confidence by proving how different is the present regime from that of the Junker.

Before signing the Peace treaty Germany had energetically refused to accept responsibility for the war, and it was this very point which at one time formed the centre of their resistance. As the policy of denial was unsuccessful another had to be developed and it is this which we now see in the unfolding of the proofs of complicity.

It becomes more and more evident as the exposures go on that Germany was at no time during the war seriously contemplating the consideration of a reasonable peace and that her tentative efforts were merely manoeuvres to weaken the resistance of the Allies.

The new regime however much they have sympathized with these views when they were current and popular now seek credit by exposing them under the belief that the exposure may be regarded as symbolical of their horror.

Force or the threat of force is of no practical value to a disarmed country so they adopt a pacific diplomacy and display a righteous horror for the methods of their predecessors. They wish to prepare a situation in the League of Nations for what they claim is a regenerate Germany but if their interest is above suspicion their sincerity is not so.

Germany has furnished gratuitously the proofs of her duplicity and the manner and the moment was so typically German that it inspires no high sentiment in response nor does it prove that the new Germany is any more repentant than the old.

THE SPORTING CHANCE.

THE CASE FOR PREMIUM BONDS.

To the Editor, The Cologne Post.

Premium Bonds have been a topic for a considerable time.

Several attempts have been made to introduce them into England, but Parliament has always rejected the idea. Yet why?

Do they take the views expressed in the opening of your leading article, under the above title, that undue risks would be taken, and money chanced when it could be more wisely employed? The popularity of "sweeps" in Rhineland alone proves that a huge number are attracted with "the sporting chance," but between the "sweep," where all the money subscribed goes in prizes and expenses, and Premium Bonds, there is a wide difference.

The sweep is a gamble pure and simple — Premium Bonds would be a safe investment, and at the same time provide a sporting chance of a little fortune, to the holders once or twice every year. Let us take the man with a five pound note to invest.

Does it really matter to him whether he invests it in a concern that will give him 2½ per cent. per annum or 7½ per cent. return for his outlay. In one case he stands to pick up half a crown a year, or seven and sixpence if he has his money in a 7½ per cent. concern.

A wealthy investor with £500,000 to invest would seriously consider the placing of his money for every ¼ per cent. would mean a difference of £1,250 per annum to him, but the shilling or two difference would not trouble the £5 investor.

Premium Bonds then would not attract the big investor because they would necessarily show only a small rate of interest.

Let us suppose an issue of 1,000,000 Premium Bonds of £1 each was made. It would be safe to assume two hundred thousand persons would easily be found with an average of £5 to invest.

Instead of paying interest of 5 per cent Premium Bonds we will say paid only 2½ per cent and allocated 2½ per cent to a prize fund.

This would mean that every year £ 25,000 interest would be available for distribution, and £ 25,000 for the prize fund.

There could be a drawing every half year, when £ 12,500 of the prize fund could be distributed. Let us jot down a prize list:

1 prize of		£ 1000
4 prizes of £ 500 each		£ 2000
5 prizes of £ 200 each		£ 1000
40 prizes of £ 100 each		£ 4000
50 prizes of £ 50 each		£ 2500
100 prizes of £ 20 each		£ 2000
200 prizes		£ 12,500

Would not such a prize list attract the small investor, and could it be said that undue risks were being taken in investing in such bonds. The investor would still hold his bond, receive a small interest on his money, and every half year have a chance of picking up a little nest egg. Were it necessary for him to realise at any time, he could easily find a customer for his bonds at their full value.

Through the Post Office the Government have an easy means of issuing the bonds, and providing they controlled the drawings to ensure fair play there seems no reason why Premium Bonds should not be given a trial.

A. C. ANDREW.

TOO TAME.

"This is a 'orrible life," remarked a well decorated soldier as he sat in the Canteen apparently without a care in the world.

On hearing this I enquired of him what was wrong with the world at large? "Nothing much," he replied, "except that now-a-days one gets no excitement. Now in the days of the trenches one always had a certain amount of 'wind up' and I was never happy unless my hair was standing on end with my tin hat balanced on top of it, when at night time I saw, or I thought I saw, the outline of a Jerry on the prowl, when the sweat rolled off my forehead at other times as I imagined I heard the faint rustle of a Jerry stalking me, only to find when daylight dawned that it was the stump of an old tree that had been playing tricks with my imagination."

"But," I replied, "the days of the trenches have long since finished. Surely, by now you have got somewhat settled?"

"No," said he, "even after the armistice was signed there was a certain amount of excitement moving up into Jerryland, and just before the peace terms were agreed, I managed to get my hair on end once or twice with the smugglers at the neutral zone, but even that is now finished and all the excitement one gets now-a-days is 'dodging the column,' or coming into barracks after 'lights out.' That, however, is not 'wind up.'"

"But," I said, "it is better that the days of the trenches and smuggling are finished. It will soon be time for you to return to civilian life. What then do you propose to do by way of excitement?"

"Yes, I have thought of that," he said, and the only profession I can think of which would tend to raise one's hair is that of a burglar, though that has its disadvantages.

With that I withdrew thinking deeply.

D.J.R.

ABOVE THE CLOUDS.

A newspaper recorded the fact the other day that the Avo Company are now besieged with applications for flights when the clouds are low. I know why!

Providence decreed as a reward for many good deeds that I should go above the clouds in my very first flight—in a Bristol fighting biplane. For the first thousand feet or so my gaze was on the ground and then my attention was drawn to the clouds.

At first I did not recognise them as such. They presented themselves now as a wavering, billowing wall of drifting smoke driving past on either hand. My gaze went back to earth and when next I noticed the clouds, we were above them.

Only beneath us, as through a rather ragged trapdoor, could I see the earth, as it were the bottom of a valley hundreds of miles below, like some new and unexplored country.

Soon all around was only the new land of clouds and I looked down on a scene such as my strangest dreams had never paralleled.

The clouds rolled along in great grey waves like the sea. Sometimes the top of a wave would be caught up and tossed into space like spray. It was a sea in storm, in noiseless storm, agitated by a mighty wind.

As the pilot twisted and turned in his climb up to the blue, my attention became momentarily preoccupied with strange inner exhilarating sensations to the exclusion of the outward scene.

But I shall never forget the spectacle which met my eyes when the Bristol stopped its upward climb and I looked down again on cloudland, probably two or three thousand feet below.

Long ago, of course, the earth had completely disappeared. The sun had become a well of light in the blue with a very indeterminate outline but more neighbourly.

Below us the billows had ceased to roll. We were so high that they had even ceased to be distinguishable as billows. Beneath, instead, stretched a great smooth land of shining, glittering white, a continent of ice.

The sky, a sky of the most vivid but indescribable blue, had as it were, fallen beneath us and stretched away into unending space from the edge of this white and shining land.

Separated by ribbons of blue from the main continent and from each other, were great and tiny islands of white completing the illusion of a magic continent of ice washed by a motionless blue sea.

And above this new and amazing land flew solitary, the only specimens of our kind, stray visitors from a greyer world.

It was an experience which has never dimmed in my memory. To fly above the clouds is to recapture that vanished feeling of childhood, when fairy tales seem more real than every-day life, when the woods are full of knights in armour riding gaily in their everlasting search for damsels in distress, when just round every corner is a gateway into fairyland.

No wonder the Avro Company is besieged for flights above the clouds.

R.J.P.

OUR JAZZ BAND.

It had an unexpected beginning. We were billeted in the barn of a village inn and the landlord possessed an old mechanical organ. It had delighted the hearts of his numerous patrons for many years before the war, and now its day's work was done and it had met the ignominious fate of a corner in a cow-shed.

Our boys with an eye to a little amusement saw it, and the cute owner wishing to win their favour and patronage dismantled the organ, and so they became the proud possessors of half a kettle drum, one of medium size, a triangle, a cymbal. From these small beginnings our unique band was formed.

The rest was quite easy, a tin lid as a partner to the odd cymbal, a few mouth organs, tin whistles and a wheezy concertina, and the first stage was reached.

During the next few days the men practised secretly and many weird noises were heard coming from a hayloft. It reminded one of the tin can bands of our boyhood's days. One day they emerged into the open, to the astonishment of the whole battalion, as a Jazz band.

It was a proud moment for these Jazzers when they marched for the first time down the village street led by their incomparable drum major Jazzer. They were followed by the whole of "B" Company, their most ardent admirers, and a crowd of delighted German kiddies

To the trains of "Katie", "Swanee River", and other melodies they marched to the concert hall to give their first performance. That night will live long in the memories of the Jazzers and their audience too.

We returned to Cologne and the next step was a visit to a music shop to purchase more instruments, and to a theatrical clothing store to obtain costumes.

The latter place was a revelation. There were thousands of all kinds of fancy dresses and stage properties and we had the time of our lives bargaining.

For the sum of 500 marks we purchased twelve fancy costumes; one, a Chinese robe, another, a Turkish dress, which formerly had adorned some fair one in a harem; two wonderful German uniforms, and several clowns' pantaloons in all the colours of the rainbow.

To complete our rig-out we secured screamingly funny wigs, caps, noses, stockings, and a red, white and blue drum major's staff with a large jester's head as a handle.

The day of our battalion sports was a red letter one, for the band was present in all its glory — niggers, girls, soldiers and clowns. They used a shrubbery as a dressing room and made a grand entry on to the ground much to the amusement of the crowds present. They were the life and soul of the proceedings and we found a treasure of a dancer in Juanita, who would have warmed the heart of any old Sultan.

One evening they played for the officers' mess but their crowning achievement was a special engagement to accompany the river trip of another unit. They returned with joyous hearts and full pockets, for the grateful party had made a collection for their benefit.

All that is required in the Rhine Army to cause untold amusement is a little initiative by the units and a willingness to do one's best. The rest is easy and success is assured.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

Sir,—May I, through your columns, inform "Disappointed," and any others like him, that there are several Elementary Technical Courses running at the VI Corps Area Schools, Lindenthal.

The only qualifications needed for entrance to these is some knowledge of arithmetic.

THE COMMANDANT.

PETTY THEFTS.

Sir,— I have read the complaint made by A.B.C. as regards petty thefts. I have also some cause for a complaint.

My people from home have always been in the habit of sending me cigarettes enclosed in envelopes. But alas for the past two months every letter has been opened and the cigarettes taken out except on one or two occasions when there has been one packet left for me.

SONGS—ENGLISH OR GERMAN?

Sir,—Will you allow me a few words regarding a small controversy over "English or German" songs. I read that in some villages songs are sung such as: "Asleep in the deep;" "Love me and the world is mine" etc.

Now as to the latter, I cannot say if it is of English or German origin, but as to the former it is the song of the one-time German Navy as well as of their mercantile service, although we use it as well.

It would be very interesing to know whether it is of English or German origin.

TAXIS IN COLOGNE.

Sir,—If "New comer" looks on the inside of the roof of the majority of the Cologne taxis, he will find an official notice to the effect that double the fare registered by the taximeter should be paid, with an addition of 2.00 marks if the cab has to proceed outside the boundary of Cologne.

OLD HAND.

OUR WIVES AND FAMILIES.

Sir,—Whilst fully recognising and appreciating the privilege accorded to the A. of O. allowing wives and families to reside here, may I suggest that great though this privilege be, it could be made very much more acceptable if the circumstances of the soldier were taken into consideration.

For instance, any officer or O.R. stationed at Calais or in any base port can enjoy the society of his wife and family with a minimum of trouble, anxiety and expense to all concerned.

On the other hand the journey from England to Cologne besides being expensive is very irksome with its attendant worries of passing through three countries, declaring baggage, changing train, etc., and makes one hesitate before taking advantage of a permit.

Therefore I suggest that the Government extend a helping hand to some reliable passenger agents with the object of making the trip a comfortable through journey, say, from London to Cologne.

It could very easily be worked on the same basis as one of Messrs. Cook's Continental tours, and I am sure that the result would prove a grateful boon that we "exiles" would warmly appreciate.

MISERERE NOBIS.

"THE HELLGATE OF SOISSONS."

Sir,—In reply to your correspondents who wish to know where they can obtain "The Hell-gate of Soissons," and other poems of Herbert Kaufman, I would say that they can be obtained in book form from T. Fisher Unwin Ltd. Adelphi Terrace, London W.C.

"Spottie" and "Napoo" are published by Reynolds and Co., Berners Street, London, W., in musical monologue form, Nos. 122 and 166 respectively.

If they wish to know of poems suitable for rendering by concert parties etc, I would recommend the excellent "Rhymes of a Red Cross Man" by Robert W. Service, an author who is known as the "second Kipling."

HAWKEYE.

CONDUCT ON THE FIELD.

Sir,—A large number of your readers will, I feel sure, agree with me in condemning the attitude of the crowd at some of our big Rhine cricket matches.

When, as was my unfortunate experience the other day, one hears players of one side being openly derided by supporters of the other, missed catches received with derisive laughter, casualties to players greeted by loud cheers, decisions of umpires jeered at, one begins to tremble for the safety of that tradition which is one of the glories of England.

Such tactics are not uncommon among football devotees at home, but they are scarcely ever noticeable on the cricket field.

CAFE PIRACY.

Sir,—With reference to your correspondent's comment on the paying of taxes on wines, in practically every café the wine list states the price and the tax in different columns, so that any soldier has only himself to blame if he pays the tax.

Laughing and chattering; learning a smattering,
Gold, silver scattering; nothing else mattering"

"But 'Death' crouches there — with his dull icy glare,

And with no one aware, he springs from his lair."

"And grasps by the hair; just one of a pair
Not easy to spare: With a pause and a stare,
Quick! As you were! says Vanity Fair."

POLO ITEMS.

Open Handicap Tournament: Semi-final.

The final of the open handicap tournament and the subalterns' tournament will be played on the Kalk-Merheim polo ground on Wednesday commencing with the open tournament at 3 p.m. There will be a band and tea on the ground. The following teams will compete: — Open Handicap: Hussar Bde. H.Q. v. 12th Lancers, the former conceding 6 goals start.

The 17th Lancers subalterns beat the 12th Lancers subalterns in a good galloping game in the semi-final. The skill displayed by both sides augurs well for the polo of the rising generation of players. The winning team comprised: Capt. Fowler, M.C., Capt. Venn, Lt. Gossage, M.C., and Lt. Mcrery. Lt.-Col. Brockelbank, 9th Lancers, was the referee.

BECKETT v. McGOORTY.

Match Fixed Up For September Second.

Mr. C. B. Cochran has arranged a boxing match between Beckett and Eddie McGoorty on September 2nd at Olympia for a purse of £2,000 and a side stake of £1,000.

Other matches decided the same night will be Ledoux v. Walter Ross, and Fred Fulton v. either Dick Smith or Arthur Townley.

TROUT OR FOOD HOG?

An examination of a trout of 1lb. 10½ oz., caught by an angler in the Lambourn, near Newbury, showed that it had partaken of a remarkable bill of fare. In its inside were found a number of caddis grubs, one miller's thumb (or river bullhead), one minnow, two pieces of meat, and two rabbit's eyes. The fish rose at, and was taken with, an olive dun.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Wednesday, August 6, 1919.

Surface wind light, westerly. Weather mainly cloudy, with some drizzle early, but likely to improve. Warmer. Fair visibility.

WATER POLO AT BONN.

Final Results Of 1st Western Inf. Bde. Contests.

BATTALION POINTS.

The last of the series of eliminating contests which are to decide which battalion of the 1st Western Inf. Bde. is to represent the Brigade in the competition for the Divisional Skill-at-all-Sports Cup took place at the Victoria Baths, Bonn, on Saturday, when the polo match between the 52nd and the 1/4th Battalions of the Cheshire Regiment was replayed It being a replay, only a five-minutes each-way game was played and on this occasion the goals were widened to the regulation width. Staff-Sergeant-Major Piggott, A.G.S. officiated as referee. The game ended in a victory for the 52nd Cheshires by 2 goals to 1.

Brigade Contests—Final Results.

The results in figures of the Brigade Sports are as follows:—

Tug-of-War:—1, 1/4 Cheshires, 10 points 2, 52nd Cheshires, 3 points; 3, 9th Cheshires, 1 points.

Boxing:—1, 1/4th Cheshires, 5 points; 2, 9th Cheshires, 3 points; 3, 52nd Cheshires, 2 points.

Athletics:—1, 52nd Cheshires, 5 points; 2, 1/4th Cheshires, 3 points; 3, 9th Cheshires, 2 points.

Aquatic Sports:—1, 1/4th Cheshires, 5 points; 2, 9th Cheshires, 3 points; 3, 52nd Cheshires, 2 points.

Basket Ball:—1, 52nd Cheshires, 5 points 2, 1/4th Cheshires, 3 points; 3, 9th Cheshires, 2 points.

Cross Country Race:—No points were given for this, but the victorious pack became eligible to compete for the Corps Commander's Cup Winners:—The team of the 1/4th Cheshires.

The total number of points gained by the respective battalions are:—1/4th Cheshires, 27 points; 52nd Cheshires, 17 points; 9th Cheshires 13 points.

Having thus amassed the most number of points the 1/4th Cheshires will now represent the Brigade in the Divisional Sports, which, contrary to previous arrangements, will take place as follows:—

August 13th	Boxing	Bonn (Beethoven Hall).
August 14th and 15th	Aquatic Sports	Bonn (Victoria Baths)
August 16th	Athletics	Bornheim.

INTER-ALLIED SPORTS.

159e Reg. d'Infanterie-Alpine —1/8th. Scottish Rifles.

This meeting took place at Konigshoven before a large gathering, including Major-General Tudor C.B., C.M.G., Cmdg. Lowland Division, Brig.-General Girdwood, C.B., C.M.G., Col. Brunet Cmdg. 159e Reg. d'Infanterie-Alpine, and nearly 200 Officers and men of this regiment. The sport was good, especially noteworthy being the excellent running and jumping of the Frenchmen They made the high and long jumps their own also the 100 and 200 yards flat races.

The 1500 metres for which a cup was awarded, was won in fine style by Pte. Ferguson of the Royal Scots. In the Tug-of-war the Scottish Rifles were too strong for the visitors: this event was won by the 8th. Bn. Scottish Rifles Transport Team, who after a severe struggle, beat the R.S.F. Team after an extra pull.

Musical Chairs.

A very interesting event was the Musical Chairs for Mounted Officers. The horses cantered to music rendered by the band of the 159e Regt. d'Infanterie Alpine, which along with the pipers of the 1/4th. Bn. Royal Scots Fusiliers added to the afternoon's enjoyment by excellent selections.

A football match between teams from the Regt. Inf. Alpine and the 8th. Scottish Rifles resulted in a win for the latter by 1—0.

At the close of the afternoon's events, the prizes were distributed by Major-Gen. Tudor. R.Sgt. Major Martinchon of the 159e Regt. came up for prizes six times: Col. Findlay then thanked Gen. Tudor for distributing the prizes, and cheers for him and for Gen. Girdwood and Col. Brunet were heartily given.

In the evening an Inter-Allied Concert took place. The French visitors gave a very bright exhibition of catchy songs. Sgt. Major Searles of the 8th. Scottish Rifles in story, dance, and tongue-twisting song, reaped his usual harvest of laughter. At the close Col. Findlay, D.S.O. addressed the visitors in a short complimentary speech and all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne, The Marseillaise, and God Save the King.

List of winners:

The results were:—

100 yds.:—1, Martichon, 159e Reg. Inf. Alpine; 2, Garino, 159e Reg. Inf. Alpine; 3, Amelon, 159e Reg. Inf. Alpine.

220 yds.:—1, Filliat, 159e R. I. A.; 2, Vaughan, 1/8th Scottish Rifles; 3, Barker, H. L. I.

440 yds.:—1, Hanlon, 11th Royal Scots; 2, Martichon, 159e R. I. A.; 3, Revelle, 159e R. I. A.

1500 metres:—1, Ferguson, 11th Royal Scots; 2, Richardson, H. L. I.; 3. Clark, H. L. I.

Long jump:—1, Martichon, 159e R. I. A.; 2, Sammartin, 159e R. I. A.; 3, Filliat, 159e R. I. A.

High jump:—1, Sammartin, 159e R. I. A; 2, Martichon, 159e R. I. A.; 3, Druelle, 159e R. I. A.

Sack race:—1, Lloyd, 1/8th Scottish Rifles; 2, Barrer, 159e R. I. A.; 3, Mousknot, 159e R. I. A.

Mules scurry:—1, Celsar, 159e R. I. A.; 2, Watson, 9th Scottish Rifles; 3, Gormley, 1/8th Scottish Rifles.

Summer Fish.

All the summer fish are now visiting British inshore waters, and bass, pollack, mackered, dabs, plaice, flounders, tope, whiting, congers, skate, mullet and other fish are being taken.

TORCH-LIGHT TATTOO.

Brilliant Night Spectacle at Lindenthal.

HUGE CROWD.

It would indeed be difficult to estimate the number of people, soldiers and others who assembled to witness the Sixth Corps Tattoo at Lindenthal last night and the night before. It was a huge crowd, who seemed to enjoy the whole proceedings immensely.

The entry of the guards, with their fixed bayonets gleaming wickedly in the glare of the five searchlights, brought a hush amongst the spectators. Their "Present Arms" drew applause from the military section of the audience, and created a most favourable impression amongst the Germans present. To the accompaniment of stirring marches, the torch-bearers carried out evolutions, marching and counter marching, thus producing a most charming effect. Forming up into a large hollow square, they, together with the searchlights, illuminated the bugle and drum and fife bands, who marched across the square.

Coloured Rockets.

In the marching and playing of the bands, one was again impressed with the unison of movement. A shrill blast on a whistle, and one by one the searchlights were dimmed, a slight pause and the sky was rent by thousands of coloured rockets, whilst each torch-bearer lit and placed at his feet a red flare. Much mild excitement was caused by this display, as fragments of burning paper fell in all directions. Many groups were scattered, and one heard the screams of women mingling with the laughter of men. Again the searchlights beamed forth, and a solemn chord was struck by the playing of "Abide with me," the audience singing the second verse. The torch-bearers carried out a few more movements and then formed up in a huge cross. "Last Post" was sounded by the massed bugles, nearly all the spectators, military and otherwise, standing to attention. The massed bands of the Corps played the marches past of the various regiments, then "Lights Out," thus concluding a most interesting and impressive evening.

265 Torch-bearers.

The guards were composed of troops from the London and Northern Divisions, on whom, it may be said, they reflected great credit. The torch-bearers, who numbered two hundred and sixty-five, came from the Northern Division, and were trained by Col. Betts and C.S.M. Nixon, A.G.S. The C.R.E. was responsible for the torches, and the R.G.A. for the fireworks. The Corps Commander, who, by the way, took, the salute, has every reason to be proud of this display.

The N.C.O.'s and men taking part in this event were provided with tea before and beer or mineral water after their duties, a kindly consideration which they well deserved. The torch-bearers were formed by the 3rd Machine Gun Bn., the 9th Bn. D.L.I., and the 51st Bn. D.L.I.

DISMOUNTED SPORTS.

29th Brigade, R.G.A. Meeting at Bonn.

The 29th Brigade, R.G.A. Dismounted Sports were held on the Sports Platz, Cologne Road, Bonn, on Wednesday. The band of the 5th Bn. Border Regt. was in attendance and played selections during the afternoon and evening. The Judges for the events were Major Rowe, D.S.O., R.A., Major Johnson, R.G.A., Major Hicks, D.S.O., M.C., R.G.A., Capt. Formby, M.C., R.A., and Lieut. Tugwell, M.C., R.G.A. to whom many thanks are due for their assistance. The Clerk of the Course was Capt. Deacon, M.C., R.G.A.,—Starter, Capt. Smith, M.C., R.A.S.C.—Recorder, Lieut. Teager, M.C., Suffolk Regt. attached 29th Brigade, R.G.A.

Two cups were competed for. The 29th Brigade, R.G.A. Challenge Cup presented by Lieut. Colonel A.C. Wilkinson, C.M.G., D.S.O., R.G.A., to the Battery obtaining most points, was won by 121st Heavy Battery. R.G.A. with 265 points; 195th Siege Battery, R.G.A. being second with 175 points. The Individual Aggregate Cup, presented by Major F.D. Field, M.C., R.G.A. at present commanding 29th Brigade, R.G.A., was won by Lieut. Laurie M.C. of 121st Heavy Battery, R.G.A. who put up a fine show, winning 80 points for his Battery.

Keen enthusiasm was evinced throughout the day, the most exciting contest being the Inter Battery Tug of War which was won, after two good all-over pulls, by 195th Siege Battery under the coaching of B.S.M. Morgan.

At the conclusion of the programme, Lt. Col. A. C. Wilkinson, C.M.G., D.S.O., R.G.A. of 29th Brigade, R.G.A., at present commanding Xth Corps Heavy Artillery, presented the prizes, and the response to the cheers called for on his behalf, showed how much his interests in the sports of the Brigade are appreciated.

2,000 SPECTATORS.

Record Crowd At "C. P. C." Cricket Match.

93rd DE. R.G.A. UNBEATEN.

At Mülheim, before fully 2,000 spectators the 93rd Bde. R. G. A., one of the few unbeaten clubs in the "Cologne Post" Cup Competition and a hot favourite for the Cup, defeated the 41st M.G.C. by 7 wickets, the latter having also a brilliant record. The 93rd have played 23 matches and won 23. Appended are brief summaries of the latest matches: —

93rd Bde. R.G.A. (157 for 3) v. 41st M.G.C. (156). The four most prominent figures were Bdr. Ellis, Gnr. Weight, and Lieut. Griffiths, of the 93rd, and Major Boumphrey of the 41st M.G.C. Ellis took 4 wickets for 18 and scored 56 not out. Weight took 3 for 44 and scored 46. Lieut. Griffiths made 37 and kept wicket splendidly. Major Boumphrey played well for 56.

16th WEST YORKS (63 for 2) v. 88th FIELD AMB. (58) at Blücher Park. For the West Yorks, Pte. Andrews took 8 wickets for 19 runs and made 41 not out.

2/4 HANTS (128 for 8 declared) v. 237 FIELD COY., R.E. (25). For the Hampshires Sgt. Rowe scored 20, Major Westmoriand 19, and Lieut. Stoner 19. Pte. Yentham again bowled well, taking 6 wickets for 6.

29th M.G.C. (257 for 4) v. 13th M.A.C. (12) at Dabringhausen. Out of 4 wickets two batsmen exceeded their century, namely Lieut. Astill 108 and Pte. Durant 109. Although the wicket was none too good, Lieut. Astill took 7 wickets for 6 runs, and Cpl. Saddler 2 for 5. Few bowlers can boast of such display as that made by Lieut. Astill, the well-known Leicestershire cricketer.

4th YORK AND LANCS (144 for 9) v. 52nd R. WARWICKS (34) at Mülheim. The chief scorers for the Hallamshires were, Col. Headlam 53, Pte. Hubert 26, Cpl. Fletcher 18 not out, and Pte. Nuttall 15 not out. L/Cpl. Allan scored 14 for the Warwicks.

LONDON D.M.T. COY. (82) v C/113 BDE. R.F.A. (45) at B.-Gladbach on Monday. The R.F.A. won the toss and put the D.M.T. Coy. in first. The batting started fairly well, 3 wickets falling for 67. The last 5 wickets absolutely collapsed, thanks to the good bowling of Bdr. Leonard. Lieut. Berlee and Cpl. Wright both played good innings, the former scoring a sporting 28 and the latter 20. The R.F.A. did not make much headway against the bowling of Lieut. Wright and Pte. Jacobs, the whole side being out for 45. The best scores were Gnr. Hughes 17 and Major Maine 12. For the winners Pte. Jacobs took 5 wickets for 16 and Lieut. Wright 4 for 24.

OTHER RESULTS.

1/6 West Yorks, 64 for 5 declared; II Corps, 62 all out.

A cricket match was played on Thursday last, between B 245 Bde. R.F.A. and A/245 Bde R.F.A. The former scored 24 and the latter 48. For "A" Battery, W. P. Thompson took 6 wickets for 10 runs, while R. Hill took 4 for 12.

Billiards At Kalk.

The 91st Labour Coy. visited the R.A.S.C. Bakeries, Kalk, on Monday. The visitors had a powerful team with them and gave the home team a surprise by winning by 45 points. Scores:—

91st Labour Coy 562; R.A.S.C. Bakeries, Kalk 517.

Yacht Racing.

Cowes yachting week opened on Monday under the burgee of the Royal London Yacht Club. Sir Charles Allow's Nyria, a famous old 23 metre cutter, now ketch-rigged, grounded after the start of the first race. It was refloated later but was hopelessly out of the race and retired.

Results:—Handicap Cruisers exceeding 25 tons:—1, J. W. Coop's Thanet; 2, F. S. Hobler's Celia; 3, J. R. Payne's Carlotta.

Handicap Yachts between 15 and 25 tons:—1, Mr. Arbuthnot's Bamba; 2, G. E. Haldenstein's Larry.

Handicap Yachts between 5 and 15 tons:—Mr. Paul Paterton's Alannah.

A RIEHL ATTRACTION.

Selecting Rhine Teams For Army Athletic Competition.

TO-MORROW'S EVENTS.

The Army Athletic Competition which is to be held at Aldershot on the 28th and 29th of this month attracts sportsmen from every branch of the British Army, and we all hope that the Army of the Rhine will show that it is not behind in the matter of sport. Our representative teams are to be selected from a number of entrants at the P. & R.T. school sports ground at Riehl to-morrow, August 7th, and a good day's sport is promised to those fortunate enough to get there. It is expected that the Commander-in-Chief, ever eager to show his interest in the Army's sport, will be present.

The events will include 100, 220, 440 and 880 yds.; 1 and 3 miles; 120 yds. hurdles; long and high jump; putting the weight, 16 lbs. Unit team race, distance 1 mile, comprising following stages: 220, 220, 440, 880 yds.

Admission Free.

The British Army of the Rhine is entitled to send three entrants for each individual event and 1 team for the relay race.

Admission is free to all troops, and there will be canteens on the ground. No 12 tram goes to the ground. No 14 tram from the Deutscher Ring goes to the Zoo and No 12 may be taken from there to the terminus.

The first heats will start at 11.00 hours in the morning and the afternoon session will commence at 15.00 hours, and it is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

11 MINUTES PULL.

168 Bde. R.F.A. Sports Meeting at Kudinghoven.

Held in good weather at Kudinghoven, the sports of the 168 Bde. R.F.A. were a great success. The event of the day was undoubtedly the tug-of-war between "B" and "D" Batteries, "B" winning after an eleven minutes pull. The band of the 13th Battalion King's Liverpool Regt. was in attendance.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Impromptu Concert And Dance.

This afternoon Miss Ada Moore will give an impromptu concert in the music room at the British Empire Leave Club at 5 p.m. and a dance will take place in the theatre at 7 p.m. The 2nd Highland Bde. Jazz Band (by kind permission of the O.C.) will play for the dance. The Pipers will play in the garden at 5 p.m. to-morrow and a whist drive will take place at 6.30 p.m. On Friday, a dancing class will be held in the theatre for beginners and an impromptu concert in the music room at the same time. The Rhine Army Choral Society will give a concert at 8 p.m. in the theatre. On Saturday, there will be an impromptu concert in the music room at 5 p.m. and a dance in the Theatre at 7 p.m.

Tabs Return.

After their two weeks sojourn in England "The Tabs" are appearing at the Palace Theatre, Herzog Strasse, in the musical revue "Well, I'm — !!!." The show is as bright as ever and the fun never relaxes. Several new numbers and many new gags have been introduced and considering the excellence of the production, it is worth a second visit. The crowded houses during the last two evenings augur well for a successful week.

"The Cheerios."

Following an interesting day's sports, the 5/6th Battalion Royal Scots had a most enjoyable and largely attended concert at Nettesheim on Wednesday. The show, given by "The Cheerios," was admirably staged, under the direction of Lieut. Hamilton, who scored a great personal hit during the evening's performance. Lieut. Dougal and Sergt. McKay with their mellow and well trained voices delighted the vast audience present. The elocution of Ptes. Smith and Waller showed ability and the double item entitled, "The Author and the Critic" between Lieut. Hamilton and Pte. Smith was received with the greatest enthusiasm.

JACQUES.

Leave Club Boxing.

The boxing competitions which were to take place at the British Empire Leave Club, Cologne, have had to be abandoned owing to lack of entries. It is hoped to arrange for open competitions at a later date.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

33 for Deauville.

Mr. J. D. Colm has taken a string of no fewer than thirty-three horses to compete at Deauville.

Solent Season.

Cowes week and the Solent yacht racing season, which began yesterday will not bring forth any sailing matches of much importance this year.

All Clothes Race.

Yesterday the All Clothes Race over the 75 yards straight course at the Serpentine was held and each competitor swam in a complete suit of clothing which weighed 6 lb.

Extortionate Prices.

There was much grumbling at Goodwood about the excessive charges made by taxi-drivers. This matter of extortionate prices should certainly be taken up at once by the authorities, otherwise the consequences are likely to be disastrous to racing executives in general.

Modern Boxing.

Modern boxing is the mere shadow and semblance of what it was formerly. Sixty years ago sparring with the gloves was chiefly regarded as a means to an end, ie., teachers instructed their pupils with a view to enabling them to use their fists, and not to use the gloves.—"Old Blue" in "Sporting Life."

A Chess Challenge.

R.E. Signals, 1st Highland Bde., challenge any Brigade chess team to a match at Düren Y.M.C.A.

Gold Cup.

Mr. Arthur H. Gilbey has presented a gold "Victory" Cup to the Croquet Association to be competed for later in the season.

Royal Record.

For the first time in the history of cricket the ruling Sovereign saw an innings of a hundred in a first class match from its beginning to its end in the Navy v. Army match at Lord's last week.

Equine Attendants.

Pretty Polly had her equine attendant on a racecourse. This was a bob-tailed hack. The other day Diadem had as a companion a horse called Seaton Delaval, who has throughout the war been an officer's charger, and has the Army brand marks on his shoulder and quarters.

Football Transfer.

Frank Hodges, forward, of Birmingham Football Club, has signed on for Manchester United. Wounded early in the war, Hodges, recovered in Glasgow Hospital and played for St. Mirren, helping them to win the Scottish Cup by scoring one of the goals during extra time.

Rent Remitted.

Lord Tredegar has remitted £165, the rent of the Newport Rugby football ground, which has been dormant during the war.

Weight-lifting Champion.

Pte. Arthur Thompson, 715 Labour Coy., who claims to be junior weight-lifting Champion of Great Britain asks where he can practise his art.

Pal Moore and Walter Ross.

There is a great probability of a match between Pal Moore and Walter Ross, the bantam-weight champion, and this will probably take place at Olympia in the middle of September.

The Stage Golfing Society.

The Stage Golfing Society has arranged some interesting competitions at Stoke Poges on September 12. In the morning there will be medal play over 18 holes, under handicap, for the challenge cup presented by Messrs George Grossmith and Edward Laurillard.

A Curious Coincidence.

When Batho's horses arrived at the Richmond Arms late on Monday night, King Sol was led into the first box and it was not until a little time after that his trainer noticed that he was in the same quarters as Northern Farmer occupied when that horse won the Stewards' Cup in 1899.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

The Missing Bell.

Apropos our parapraph on the missing bell of Cologne cathedral, "Bellringer" says that if it weighed a ton he cannot understand why it should have taken as many as twenty-five men to swing it. Before joining the army, he says he rang one of that weight with a team of six, and a "tenor" bell, weighing 12½ cwts., which he rang single-handed. There are, he adds, heavier bells than that, rung by one man. Not having seen the hangings of the famous Cologne bell, he says he does not know its position, though he expects it would be hung in the ordinary way.

All "Dressed Up."

Many visitors to Bonn and Cologne get the impression that these places are almost the last word in German town planning. But a journey up the river to Mannheim would reveal a town, whose population is 200,000, laid out with a "regularity" unsurpassed anywhere in the Fatherland. From an aeroplane it has the resemblance of a chess-board, being divided into 136 square sections, nearly all the same size. The blocks of houses are distinguished by letters and figures (the Market Place is G 1,) only a few buildings on the outskirts having names. Still further up the river is Karlsruhe with 140,000 inhabitants where the "lay-out" of the town resembles a fan, most of the streets radiating from the palace.

A Later Train Wanted.

The case of troops billeted in the small areas of Luftelberg, Fiergheim etc. about fifteen or sixteen kilometres behind Bonn has been brought to our notice. It seems that they see few amusements there, perhaps a cinema once a week, so they have to travel to Bonn if they want further distraction. They find however when they get there, that they have to return very early, the last train leaving Bonn at 7.42 p.m. so the evening's enjoyment is spoilt. It is suggested that a later hour train might be run from Bonn.

Embarrassing.

It happened in a tramcar proceeding from Ohligs to Solingen. A junior N.C.O. of a somewhat shy appearance sat down next to a frau with a sleeping baby in her arms. Suddenly the kiddy awoke and commenced to yell as only babies can. The mother failed to soothe it and it continued its nerve-racking roars. It suddenly occurred to the N.C.O. that a bit of chocolate might relieve the situation somewhat and feeling in his haversack, surreptitiously handed a stick of 'Kohlers' to the frau, quietly remarking "Dein kinder essen shokolade?" "Ya! ya!" loudly exclaimed the worried frau, seizing at this totally unexpected solution of her difficulty, and thrust the chocolate into the baby's hand. It had the desired effect. Baby was quiet and all was serene. Turning to the N.C.O., the frau, in broken English gratefully remarked "Dank you. You is goot." Unheeding the N.C.O's blushes, she continued, "You liebe kinder, ya? You ist ein vater, eh??—this in a questioning voice. "No, No!" said the now thoroughly embarrassed N.C.O. To add to his confusion, the baby sat up, smiled, and looking at him said "Papa."

Using Every Yard.

Most people must have noticed during their walks in Rhineland, the very small areas of grassland used for haymaking as compared with other crops. At the same time, the farmers manage to make up for this by various economic devices, by means of which every bit of land, however small, is utilised. The farmers in Rhineland have no use for hedges or fences, but intersect their land with a cart track some ten to twelve feet wide. These are only used in early spring for sowing and ploughing, and in the Autumn for harvesting. During the summer months, grass is allowed to grow on these roads, which contribute quite a quantity of hay, at least two crops being gathered. Instead of the usual hedgrows and ditches along the roadsides, a broad well made ditch will be seen, in which the grass is allowed to grow. This also is cut and helps out the hay harvest. By such devices, the farmer manages to get a good proportion of his hay crop from what otherwise would be waste ground.

Fishing.

He was just an ordinary Tommy, who had seen three years of hard fighting, and was now stationed just outside Cologne. Hearing that there were plenty of fish to be caught in a stream close by, he procured the necessary tackle, and sallied forth for a day's good sports. Baiting the hook with a nice fat worm, he sat down with all the angler's usual patience, when suddenly his float dissappeared, and he gave a mighty jerk, only to find the end of the worm had been taken clean off the hook. Nothing daunted, he tried again, with the same result. At last, however, he succeeded in landing the tormentor, and imagine his surprise when he saw a large frog dangling at the end of the line. Two minutes later a complete fishing outfit might have been seen floating down the stream.

The New Democracy.

It is not an uncommon sight in Cologne to see a city man enquiring of a police man his direction. It is not an uncommon sight in London. But the procedure in Germany is remarkable. To begin with the gentleman bows and raises his hat with elaborate politeness, then asks the question. The policeman listens indifferently and answers brusquely. Having expressed his thanks, again raising his hat, the business man retires. If this is the new spirit of democracy, it possesses rather a Gilbertian atmosphere.

The Pied Piper of Bonn.

Many civilians resident in Bonn, as well as English soldiers, must have thought that the legendary "Piper of Hamelin" was brought to life one afternoon of the week, for all the children in the "stadt" were to be seen following a curious figure through the streets. His clothes were mere travesties, comprising wide, baggy trousers, a morning coat very short in front, and with long swallow tails behind, ornamented with huge cloth buttons of brilliant hue. His hat was an original creation, red in colour, and with a neat tuft of pheasant's feathers standing up in the rear, bowing gracefully at every movement of the wearer's head. His face was like nothing on earth, a long, thin nose being its main feature, together with eye-brows of the Robey type, and his red locks made one feel warm to see them. How came he to have two such nice girls walking with him, as he had, one on either arm? The question was only solved when one of the "young ladies" produced a pipe, and lighting up, puffed away with great satisfaction. Then the English part of the onlookers knew that they were just three "costumes" walking home from the sports ground, but what the Germans thought would probably surprise us—if we could find out.

A Country Club.

A corespondent writes that while the British Empire Leave Club provides excellent facilities for soldiers visiting Cologne, similar facilities might be provided outside the city, somewhere on the Rhine, for instance, for the benefit of those who are stationed in Cologne and who want to spend a short leave in the country.

Lesser Echoes.

Cologne is said to be full of shady characters with vague British and American labels and connections trying to do any kind of business likely to prove profitable. British firms should employ real reliable Britishers.

Have you noticed the hugeness of the coffins exhibited in the local undertaker's establishments? They must be nearly twice the size of the English models.

A style of semi-military suit, closely resembling the garb worn by the British officers, with open collar and pouch-pockets, is coming into vogue among the German male population.

It is suggested that in addition to the proposed dinner for officers of the 56th Division another should be arranged for other ranks.

The yellow cross and ring, worn at the moment by the 3rd. Battalion M.G.C., was as many of our readers will be aware the old sign of the 3rd. Division. It is now being worn by that division's Machine Gunners by express permission of Major-General Deverell, C.B., who until lately commanded that division.

Fishing in the Rhine becomes an increasingly popular pastime, and numbers of enthusiastic anglers are to be seen in the neigabourhood of Rodenkirchen almost every evening.

A curious effort at English was placarded up by the swinging boats at the fair at Riehl. It says: "It is forbidden to stay in the boats during the drive."

The rates of exchange fixed for August are: 5 Francs (French) 3s 3d; 5 Francs (Belgian) 3s 1d; 10 marks (German) 2s 10d.

Now that the Officers' Club at Coblenz is closed, British officers visiting Coblenz are invited by the officers of the American G.H.Q. to make use of their mess.

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: Sgnlr. J. B. Mc.Donnell R.G.A., R.A. Reception Camp, Rhine Army; Gnr. G. Johnson, 303 Siege Bty. R.G.A. Rhine Army, and Sgnlr. A. E. Legg, C/161 Bde. R.F.A. Rhine Army.

HONOURS — AWARDS.

Titles and Grants of Money to great Leaders of Navy and Army.

ROUMANIA AND HUNGARY.

THE NATION'S THANKS.

MONEY GRANTS TO WAR CHIEFS.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, appeared at the bar of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon and announced that he was the bearer of a message from the King.

Advancing to the table he handed the Royal message to the Speaker, who read it in the following terms:

"His Majesty, taking into consideration the eminent services rendered during the late war by those who commanded and directed the forces on sea and land and in the air, and being desirous, in recognition of such services, to confer upon them some mark of favour, recommends to his faithful Commons that he should be enabled to make the following grants:

£ 100,000

Admiral Sir David Beatty, G.C.B.
FieldMarshal Sir Douglas Haig, K.T., G.C.B., G.C.V.O., K.C.I.E.

£ 50,000.

Admiral Viscount Jellicoe, O.M., G.C.B. etc.
Field Marshal Viscount French, K.P., G.C.B., O.M., G.C.V.O.
Field Marshal Sir H. H. Allenby, G.C.B., G.C.M.G.

£ 30,000.

Field Marshal Sir H. C. O. Plumer, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O.
General Sir H. S. Rawlinson G.C.B., G.C.V.O.
General the Hon. Sir J. H. G. Byng, G.C.B., K.C.M.G., M.V.O.
General Sir H. S. Horne, K.C.B., K.C.M.G.

£ 25,000.

Lieut. Colonel Sir M. P. A. Hankey, K.C.B.

£ 10,000.

Admiral Sir C. E. Madden, K.C.B.
Admiral Sir F. C. D. Sturdee, K.C.B. etc.
Admiral Sir R. J. B. Keyes, K.C.B. etc.
Vice-Admiral Sir J. M. de Robeck, K.C.B.
Comodore Tyrwhitt, K.C.B. etc.
Field Marshal Sir H. S. Wilson K.C.B., K.C.M.G.
General Sir W. R. Robertson, G.C.B., K.C.V.O., D.S.O.
General Sir W. R. Birdwood, G.C.M.G., K.C.B. etc.
Major General Sir H. M. Trenchard K.C.B., D.S.O.

The Premier moved that the King's message be referred to the Committee of Supply and this was agreed to without discussion.

THE HOUSING CHARTER.

COMPULSORY TENEMENTS.

"A veritable 'Magna Charta' of housing," is the description given by Sir Kingsley Wood, M.P., Parliamentary Private Secretary to the Ministry of Health, to the Housing and Town Planning Act now on the Statute Book. In an interview he emphasised the gravity of the house shortage, and mentioned a case, typical of many, which was brought to his notice before the war of a mother and six children who had been refused either a house or a flat or rooms by no fewer than 52 landlords in London, on account of her family.

"The Act does not lay down any hard and fast definition of what the term "working classes" means. Dr. Addison has definitely stated that the houses will only be occupied by manual workers. I venture to think the clerk has just as much title as the labourer. The housing famine, in fact, affects the whole community. Ex-soldiers and persons with large families should be especially considered.

"An important provision, especially affecting London, is the power given to local authorities to apply to the County Court to vary the terms of leases in order that such houses may be converted into two or more tenements. There are quite a large number of such houses which should be made available for our housing scheme.

LABOUR TROUBLE IN THE STATES.

Representatives of the railway shipmen have informed President Wilson that it is impossible to accede to his proposal for arbitration. Nothing, they say, will be satisfactory to them short of a twenty-five per cent. increase of wages.

This demand is reflected by similar action being taken by other classes of railway workers who are directly concerned in the present trouble.

THE 1917 PEACE OFFER.

Yesterday, in the House of Commons, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth informed Commander Kenworthy that it is the intention of the Government to lay papers before Parliament as soon as possible with reference to the statements made by Erzberger and Painlevé regarding the peace offer alleged to have been made to Germany by the Allies in August 1917.

TITLES.

KING HONOURS THE SERVICES.

His Majesty the King has bestowed the following honours for War Services:

EARLDOMS.

Admiral Sir David Beatty.
Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig.

BARONETCIES.

Admiral Sir C. E. Madden.
Admiral Sir R. J. B. Keyes.
Vice-Admiral Sir J. M. de Robeck.
Admiral Tyrwhitt.
Field Marshal Sir H. S. Wilson.
General Sir W. R. Robertson.
General Sir W. R. Birdwood.
Major General Sir H. M. Trenchard.

VISCOUNTY.

Field Marshal Sir H. H. Allenby.

BARONIES.

Field Marshal Sir H. C. O. Plumer.
General Sir H. S. Rawlinson.
General the Hon. Sir J. H. G. Byng.
General Sir H. S. Horne.
Lieut. Colonel Sir M. P. A. Hankey.

TERRIBLE AIR CRASH.

FOURTEEN PERSONS KILLED.

Fourteen persons, including several representatives of leading Italian newspapers, have been killed as the result of an aeroplane disaster near Verona. The machine, a Caproni, crashed from an altitude of 3,000 feet just after passing Verona on a flight from Venice to Milan.

The dead journalists include the correspondents of the "Corriere della Sera," the "Secolo" and the "Sera."

The fall of the aeroplane was a terrible sight. The machine suddenly nose dived and crashed within a few seconds.

Some of the passengers, realising there was no hope of salvation by remaining in their places, leaped out while the aeroplane was still at a considerable height. The bodies are unrecognisable.

The disaster has created an especially painful impression in Milan, as both passengers and airmen were well known there. One of the airmen was Lieutenant Rudolfi, who had been decorated for bravery three times, and who had made about 6,000 flights.

BELGIUM BUYS U.S. STORES.

The Ministry of Food has bought all the stores deposited in Belgium by the Americans, to the value of £4,000,000. These stores, which consist of various products, will be retailed under the control of the Government.

ROUMANIA AND HUNGARY.

The Supreme Council has considered the question of Hungary and the situation created by the entry of Roumanian troops into Buda-Pesth. The representatives of the Great Powers took no decision in view of the entry being an accomplished fact.

There is no question of requesting Roumania to withdraw her troops. It was thought that it would have been preferable that order should have been secured by the Allies acting in combination but since that was impossible there is some satisfaction that Roumania has been able to sustain that role. It is generally hoped that the Allies will give a mission to Roumania to act in their name.

SERB WOMEN'S GRATITUDE.

An expression of the gratitude of Serbian ladies towards their British sisters for the assistance rendered them during the war has been forwarded to Mrs. Lloyd George by Frau Telisava Borata, President of the Committee of Serbian Women.

The communication is addressed to "Dear Sisters, noble English women," and states that the hearts of Serb women are full of gratitude to the glorious British nation, who mothered the Serbian soldiers when their own women could do nothing for them.

AUSTRIAN STUD FOR ITALY.

The Austrian authorities, after long negotiations, have delivered to the Italian Mission the stallions, brood mares, and colts belonging to the ex-Imperial stud at Lapizzi, near Trieste, famous all over the world for its fine breed of horses. The stud dates back to 1578.

PROFITEERING.

DRASTIC ACTION TO BE TAKEN.

The House of Commons Select Committee of Enquiry into high prices and profiteering opened its proceedings yesterday morning.

Mr. Roberts, the Food Controller, who was the first witness, said that practically all foods had been controlled. He estimated that ninety-four per cent of all the food consumed in England was subject to maximum prices. The recent policy of the Government was to demobilize the Ministry of Food with other wartime departments as rapidly as possible, but this question was being reconsidered. The Government now had in view a continuance of the Ministry for another year.

Where gross profiteering was proved he was prepared to take drastic action even to the extent of imprisonment and depriving the profiteer of the power of again engaging in trade. The Board of Trade was now enquiring into the question of the American Meat Trust with a view to devising means to protect the country against that organisation.

The enquiry is proceeding.

MUNICIPAL MARKET.

MOVEMENT GAINING GROUND.

Ilford's municipal street market has been so successful that the Urban Council will shortly open a similar institution for Goodmayes and Chadwell Heath at Seven Kings.

At last Saturday's market stall holders were unable to cope with the demands of the crowds of customers, many of whom came from East Ham, Barking, and Romford. New laid eggs were sold at 3d. each, English tomatoes at 9d., green peas and new potatoes at 1½d. a lb. One stall was laden with sides of smoked bacon, and the demand was so brisk that the trader had to secure the services of a professional cutter from one of the City meat markets.

Two millinery stalls were added, and did a rare trade. To prevent any profiteering by stall holders the Council committee concerned obtain the current prices from the wholesale market every morning and only allow retailers to charge sufficient to give them a reasonable profit. It is the Council's intention, if possible, to provide a covered market before the winter arrives.

KING'S SONS AT CAMBRIDGE.

Prince Henry and Prince Albert will take up residence at Cambridge, at Trinity College, next term, which commences in October, the latter on a special course, and the former as an ordinary undergraduate. They will thus keep up the Royal Family associations with Trinity College.

Prince Henry will follow the customary University course, but Prince Albert will work on special lines. He will make a particular study of history, economics, and civics, and will also keep up his studies of French, of which he is a good scholar. Prince Albert, who has passed his final flying test, and gained his "wings" has been presented with an aeroplane, and during his visit to Cambridge made inquiries about an aerodrome.

PAYING WAR GRATUITIES.

The period within which service may be reckoned in the assessment of the gratuities earned by temporary officers and of the war gratuities granted to officers on the active list of the permanent Regular Army, to members of the Military Nursing Services, and to warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men terminated on Tuesday.

Although the gratuities are due for payment to-day, some time must necessarily elapse, it is announced, before their issue is completed, as payment cannot be made until officers for themselves, and commanding officers on behalf of their men, have furnished the particulars of service and other details required to enable the gratuities to be assessed and the claimants to be located.

Officers are recommended to invest their gratuities in Victory Bonds or Funding Loan, the lists having been specially kept open for this purpose up to the 15th inst.

FIFTY FACTORIES CLOSE.

Sir Robert Horne states in Parliamentary papers that the Lord Mayor of Bradford has written the Prime Minister stating that, owing to the Yorkshire coal strike, fifty Bradford factories have been compelled to close and 25,000 people are out of work. The Government are, he states, keeping closely in touch with the situation, and are taking advantage of every opportunity to bring about a settlement.

LONDON TUBEMEN STRIKE.

The sympathetic strike of engine drivers on the London and South Western Railway spread yesterday to the City and South London Electric Railway. Owing to the action of the motormen, who ceased work during the busiest hours of the morning rush to the city, the service was entirely suspended. Later in the day a limited service was established.

Mr. J.H. Thomas described the strike as a grave mistake and says he will bring the matter before the Executive of the National Union of Railwaymen to-morrow.

OFF TO CANADA.

PRINCE OF WALES LEAVES FOR TOUR.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, wearing the uniform of his new rank as a Naval Captain, left London yesterday morning for Portsmouth and embarked on the battleship Renown for his Canadian and American tour.

The King and Queen and other members of the Royal family went down and lunched aboard the Renown. Large crowds assembled at the Dockyard to watch the sailing at six p.m. and lustily cheered the Prince's departure. The dockyard was gaily decorated and all warships in harbour, including the old Victory, were dressed.

"A GRAVE MISTAKE."

WARNING TO RAILWAY WORKERS.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, M. P., general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, stated yesterday:—

"I am submitting the whole matter of the railwaymen's attitude in connection with the police dispute to the executive committee, who are meeting to-morrow. The action of certain men in already striking is not only a grave mistake, but one for which the union is not, and cannot in any way be, responsible. I have acquainted them exactly with the position, and they quite frankly have informed me that they acted on their own responsibility.

"I therefore desire to inform all members that the matter is one in which under no consideration ought they to be influenced by local circumstances, passion or prejudice, but to go on with their work till they receive the instructions of their executive committee."

ATLANTIC TRAFFIC.

SOUTHAMPTON GETTING BUSY.

It is announced by the White Star Line that they are resuming in the course of the present month their Southampton-New York service as in the days before the war. The ships to be employed at Southampton in this service at first are the Adriatic and the Lapland. Both vessels will call at Cherbourg on the outward journey, and at Plymouth and Cherbourg on the return trip.

The Olympic, at present at Liverpool, will shortly go to Belfast for overhauling, and will resume her sailings from Southampton about the end of February or the beginning of March. The White Star are building new vessels for the Transatlantic trade.

The American Line will also shortly resume operations at Southampton. The s.s. St. Paul, it is expected, will be ready for the ordinary service from Southampton to New York some time in October, and the other three American liners will be available in November or December.

UNION AND EX-SOLDIER.

Returning to Preston after five years' Army service, including eighteen months in France with the Loyal North Lancashire Regiment, George Crimmings, a married man with five children, presented himself last week at Atherton Brothers' engineering works, where he had formerly worked for twentyfive years, but was prevented by a shop steward from starting at a lathe on the ground that he was not a trade unionist. His job was waiting and he was willing to join the union, but, as he could not produce a working card, the shop stewards caused a stoppage of the lathes, and work was at a standstill until Crimmings left the premises. The shop stewards, however, have reversed their decision, and have expressed their willingness that Crimmings should be allowed to return to work.

GENERAL GOURAUD'S VISIT.

General Gouraud, Commanding the 4th (French) Army, paid a visit to the Commander-in-Chief at Cologne yesterday. In connection with his reception, there was an imposing parade in which a detachment of the Royal Navy, two sections of "G" Battery, R.H.A.; two contingents of the 12th Lancers, and the 1/4th Bn. York and Lancs. Regt. took part.

The General inspected the troops, after which he watched the March Past from the Cathedral steps. Col. Hedlam, commanding the 1/4th Yorks and Lancs., was in charge of the Parade. The Battalion Band played appropriate music during the proceedings.

PRESENT FROM A FIEND.

While smoking a cigar in a silver-capped holder given to his son by a German prisoner, Mr. Joseph Hooper, of Boney Hay, Lichfield, noticed fumes issuing from under the cap, and on taking it from his mouth it exploded, filling the room with smoke.

PROFIT ON GUINNESS.

The fact that high taxation does not necessarily spell financial ruin is shown by the report of Guinness's Brewery. The firm paid over four and a half million pounds in taxes last year and has yet been able to declare a dividend of sixteen per cent.

BOAT DISASTER.

FERRY BOAT UPSET BY PASSING STEAMER.

As the result of the capsizing of a ferry boat playing at Hampstall Ferry, about two miles from Stourport, yesterday, eleven persons were drowned. Nine bodies have been recovered, all of which have been identified as natives of Smethwick.

There are conflicting reports as to the cause of the disaster. Some eye-witnesses attribute it to a collision with a passing steamer, others merely to the wash of a vessel which passed quite close. People who were on the bank at the time saw the accident but were practically powerless to help. Some, however, waded into the water as far as possible, and in this way several lives were saved.

NEW RATION CARDS.

REGISTRATION SCHEME.

The Food Controller announces that in order to ensure a more rigorous control of distribution of meat, butter and sugar during the coming months there will be a general re-registration of customers with retailers next month. With this object in view "Ration Cards" will be issued through the local food offices to replace the present ration book.

The card will contain spaces for the name and address of the holder, and the names and addresses of his retailers, and will have three detachable counterfoils for meat, butter and sugar, which the holder will be required to give to the retailers from whom he wishes to deal during the autumn and winter. To obtain the card the public will be required to return the grey reference leaf (leaf 8a) of the current ration book to their Food office when called upon to do so. The Food Office in each district will announce when the reference leaves should be sent in. Till this announcement is made the public should keep their ration book and the reference leaves carefully. Any person who has lost his ration book should immediately inform his local Food Office.

Persons who fail to apply for a ration card when required to do so, and who are, therefore, unable to register at the required time, will find themselves unable to obtain regular supplies when distribution of rationed foods on the new basis begins.

GERMAN AEROPLANE DISASTER.

Berlin telegrams state that a giant flying machine belonging to the Ukrainian Government has fallen in the Forest of Routen. Ten dead bodies have been found under the wreckage, including that of M. Vitovsky, formerly the West Ukrainian Minister of War.

The pilot was a well-known German aviator, Bendereich, and the machine carried a crew of five, as well as four passengers. M. Vitovsky recently visited Berlin on his way home from Paris. The machine was on its way from Breslau to the Ukraine when the accident occurred.

Besides the dead bodies there were found scattered about round the spot where the machine fell several bags and quantities of Russian gold coin and currency notes.

POLICE PROGRESS.

The police and military now have the situation at Liverpool so well in hand that there has been no open attempt at a resumption of hooliganism since the early hours of Tuesday morning. This is the result of the presence of over 3,000 troops, who are constantly patrolling the city.

Members of the Manchester Branch of the Police Union met yesterday to discuss the attitude to be adopted towards the present strike. It was unanimously decided that they should remain at their posts. At the same time they expressed the hope that the Government would either withdraw or amend certain clauses in the Police Bill and meet duly accredited representatives of the forces to agree upon any amendment in the consitution of the present Union so that it may be duly recognised by the Government and local police authorities.

TEMPTING FATE.

A German commercial representative, named Levy, was arrested at the Gare de l'Est, Paris, as he was leaving the station, on the denunciation of a poilu. The poilu had recognised in Levy a feldwebel who ill treated prisoners of war and stole their parcels.

NEW G.W.R. MANAGER.

Mr. Charles Aldington has been appointed general manager of the Great Western Railway. He entered the service of the company as a boy of thirteen and has worked his way up to his present position.

A LEAD TO ENGLISH LABOUR.

The railwaymen at Lecce (Italy) have sent a telegram to the Prime Minister stating that they are prepared to give the State an additional hour's work a day in order to help to increase the production of the country.

'FACING-BOTH-WAYS

GOVERNMENT INTENDS TO DO ITS DUTY.

Lord Robert Cecil asked in the House of Commons yesterday whether the Prime Minister's attention had been called to the proposal to bring about a general strike of all those engaged in the coal mining, railway, and other transport industries, so as to force the Government by the dislocation of those industries, to adopt certain polices in connection with Russia, military service, and conscientious objectors; and whether the House could be assured that the Government would resist with all the resources at its disposal this revolutionary attempt to set aside the constitutional authorities of this country by the action of sectional organisations of its citizens.

Mr. Bonar Law, in reply, said any attempt to force a decision on political questions which affected the whole of the community by the methods suggested in the question, would if successful, mean an end to democratic and constitutional government in this country. It would be the duty of the Government to resist such an attempt with all the resources at its disposal. (Hear hear.)

Mr. J. Jones: Will equal treatment be served out to all who disobey the law?

Mr. Bonar Law: Certainly.

Mr. Rose: In view of the momentous issue developed by this agitation, and in view of the fact that the Labour party has chosen to play the role of Mr. Facing-both-ways in reference to it, will the right hon. gentleman give facilities to the House for discussing this question and coming to an opinion?

Mr. Bonar Law: I really do not think there is any doubt as to the opinion of the House upon this question.

PLANES FOR U.S.A.

CANADIAN R.A.F. BOUGHT COMPLETE.

The United Aircraft Engineering Corporation of New York, through their London agents, have just entered into a contract with the Aircraft Disposal Board for the purchase of 700 aeroplane engines for export to Canada, together with a large number of aeroplanes. They are intended for the development of commercial use of aircraft between Canada and America.

The same concern has purchased from the Imperial Munitions Board the whole of the Canadian R.A.F. equipment, including nearly five hundred aeroplanes.

WIFELY DUTY.

WARM SUPPER INSUFFICIENT.

A little homily on the whole duty of a wife was delivered by Mr. Symmons, the North London magistrate, to a woman who was charged before him with drunkenness in the streets.

"Why were you not at home looking after your husband?" asked the magistrate.

The woman replied that she had prepared her husband's supper and left it on the gas-stove to keep warm. As she had done her duty she thought she was entitled to go out.

Mr. Symmons: But you had not done your whole duty. You ought to have been at home when your husband arrived and given him his supper, to have talked to him, and to have listened to what he had to say. He would want to tell you what he had done during the day, how he had scored off the foreman, and done other things. (Laughter.) Don't tell me that you did your duty as a wife by simply keeping his supper warm.

BISHOP AND LABOUR PROBLEM.

The Bishop of Peterborough, writing in the diocesan magazine, says: "There is need for substituting a will to fellowship for that suspicion which now hovers like poisonous gas over our industrial trenches. There is a tendency in some quarters to force political decisions at the point of the industrial bayonet. This I cannot but think has been encouraged by the amazing failure of the Government to produce any industrial policy except that of living from hand to mouth since the armistice was signed. The country's deepest need at the present time is a large inoculation of the doctrine and discipline of Christ. An ounce of Christianity would solve all our industrial troubles."

STRUGGLE DOWN A WELL.

After struggling to keep his head above water till help came, Mr. Fisher, of Chester-le-Street, was rescued from a disused well at Lumley Castle, one of Lord Scarborough's estates. He was being shown the spot because of its historical interest, which dates back to the Middle Ages, when, according to legend, one of the Lumley family was murdered down the well.

DOUBLE PUNISHMENT.

When a small boy was charged at Brentford with stealing unripe gooseberries, his mother volunteered to give him a flogging. The bench agreed to this course, and from the noise which proceeded from an adjoining room it would seem that the castigation was very effective.

PEACE REVELATIONS—AND AFTER.

The revelations which have been pouring in during the past week as a result of Erzberger's bombshell, are gradually enabling us to gain a clearer view of the whole matter.

Ludendorff and Hindenburg, Michaelis and Kuhlmann, have rushed into print in order to point out how meaningless was the alleged offer of peace in 1917, and how guiltless they all were in the matter. The ex-Chancellor and Hindenburg especially reveal themselves as simple hearted annexationists. The latter lays particular stress upon the retention of Liége, and recommends an occupation of Belgium extending over several years. How much importance we should attach to all this, as well as to the alleged peace offers, may be a matter of opinion.

Probably the whole affair was never intended to be anything more than a ballon d'essai in the shape of a peace feeler, put out by Great Britain through the medium of the Papal diplomacy. We remember how close was the connection between the Papacy and the Austrian Court, and it is therefore not surprising if the Papal Nuncio at Munich was selected as the intermediary. In this connection Count Czernin's confidential report on the situation to the Kaiser Karl is not without significance when we bear in mind that it is dated April 12th, 1917.

What is far more important is the fact, brought out with great clearness, (a) that a definite peace feeler was put forward by Great Britain at the end of August of that year, the position of Belgium forming the acid test of Germany's sincerity, and (b) that Michaelis's Government concealed this point from the Reichstag, and kept the party leaders in ignorance of Pacelli's note for about three weeks, then, instead of the precise information promised as to the position of Belgium the Government returned a vague and misleading reply to the British Note. It becomes increasingly evident that, whilst the Majority Socialists and even the Centre were in favour of a peace move, the Right pursued a gambler's policy of risking everything on a last desperate throw.

This was proved by the statements made by Müller, Minister for Foreign Affairs, as well as by the Premier, Bauer. The former, speaking in the National Assembly, admitted the guilt of the Central Powers in the matter of the Austrian ultimatum to Servia. The latter drew attention to the fact that the British Government declared itself ready to come to an understanding as soon as Germany was prepared to make a clear and definite statement as to her war objects.

This was never done owing to the machinations of the Supreme Command and the Government, led by the Vaterlands Partei and the Right. He also stated quite plainly that the Kaiser was not the innocent man some made him out to be.

It is hardly necessary at this stage to emphasize these points. Without, however, exonerating the Socialist Party and the German people as a whole for their share of responsibility in the matter this at least becomes self-evident.

Those who drew a distinction between the German people and their militarist advisers and Government, who purposely misled them and kept them in ignorance of the true state of affairs, now find complete justification for their point of view.

Nevertheless, the present German Government and people must shoulder the responsibility for the past actions—actions which can not be condoned, and responsibilities which cannot be evaded.

HORTICULTURE IN RHINELAND.

No one interested in horticulture, whether outdoors or under glass, can fail to have noticed the many good things to be seen in this very rich and extremely fertile neighbourhood.

A very noticeable feature to the casual observer is the wonderful wealth of colour in all trees and shrubs. A stroll in any part of the Raine district cannot fail to bring this to one's notice. The atmosphere is very clear indeed: not even in the neighbourhood of Liblar, with scores of factory chimneys, does one see that sticky coating of filth and soot on foliage that are the abomination of our large English towns.

Everything is brightly coloured and quite naturally. I asked a local nurseryman if he ever had to wash his glass, and he was astonished at my question. "No," he said, "I have never cleaned up for fog or soot." To me, this spoke wonders for the grower. I have had the pleasure (or otherwise) of washing glasshouses four times a year in the Leeds district for soot and fog, and with any area of glass this is a big and costly job both for labour and breakage of glass.

The German nurseryman has not been so short of artificial fertilizer as we have been led to believe either. A careful study of the excellent colour and finish to all pot plants in the shops windows convinces one that pretty liberal use of the feed pot has been made. It is not, perhaps, generally known that some of the natural waters in the Rhine district are very fertilizing. I questioned a grower recently on some remarkably well finished asparagus sprengeri; and elicited the statement that the water of the district was very rich in chemical food and a great asset to the nurseryman.

One notices a tendency to grow choicer varieties of greenhouse plants for shop sale in the Rhine towns. I recently saw some very fine flowering specimens of gloxinias in a Cologne shop. "Rex" begonias, too, are very popular. But to my mind, the absolute tit-bit in cultivation is the large quantity of that charming little plant—Nertera Depressa—one sees in all the shops. I have tried to find the nursery where this is grown, but without success.

To anyone who has had any experience in stove plants, and the difficulties attending this little coral plant to get it well berried and at the same time well coloured knows full well it is not an easy matter. Personally, I think we English growers coddle this plant too much.

I was much disappointed at a recent visit to the Botanical Gardens. They were not at all up to the usual standard in cultivation. In fact, the palm houses and fernery were not at all a credit to the custodian. It was plain to see that the whole place had been very sadly neglected for much sterner business during recent years. Roses were passable, but herbaceous stuff was a failure; also alpines.

The Zoological Gardens are rather better done—and the bed immediately facing the entrance gates is very well kept. The favourite bedding geranium appears to be Paul Crampel, and its stable companion—Salmon Paul Crampel. Some very fine ivy-leaf geraniums, also fuchsias, are to be seen in window box decoration everywhere.

I wonder if any enthusiast has noticed the very fine coloured ageratum to be seen in all shops. It is a remarkably good strain and the raiser is to be congratulated on such a rich blue.

R.F.C.

ABBREVIATIONS.

Those whose policy is to deride the Army and all that therein is, will perhaps feel that to accuse our military organisation of "Americanism" is absurd. They, however, will be wrong, for one of the chief characteristics of the administrative side of the Army is its tendency to use extensively abbreviations.

The old story of the American, who in Trafalgar Square said to an English policeman "Say, Cop, wat's' that stat . .?" and the policeman's subsequent reply, is told as an extreme example of this art, but every day in our life as soldiers, we could find cases as extreme, or even more so, for often the abbreviation is longer than the word it stands for.

For instance, one battalion always refers to its second-in-command as the "2 I Big stroke C," which is hardly a short phrase.

A perusal of the Rhine Army Telephone Directory is an eye-opener to some of the weird and wonderful initials which serve to identify the various departments.

To the uninitiated, O.M.W. and H.M.W. does not convey much. A.D.E.S., too, is rather vague, though even to the lay mind it might have its significance if pronounced en bloc.

During active operations, how much some of these little combinations of letters meant—for one S.R.D., translated by the cynic into Supply Rarely Delivered.

At home, how anxiously they looked for an envelope bearing the mystic O.A.S., to those who watched and waited, a veritable "Oasis." To the too venturesome "Tommy" C.B. is perhaps an abbreviation painfully familiar, whilst a number of our younger and more reckless subs are well acquainted with the significance of R.D.

A rather good story is told of an officer, who was writing a report of a battalion dinner for the press, in the course of which he referred to the honour conferred on them by the presence of Major Blank G.K.W.

This was handed to a typist. and all went well until the initials were reached. Enquiries were made as to the meaning of these letters, but none of the clerks seemed to know. Grand Knight of the Waac's was the ribald suggestion made by someone.

Not finding any aid from his comrades, the poor clerk thought the wisest plan was to complete the copy as the draft was given him.

Imagine his feelings when he was subsequently summoned and it was explained to him that as the officer who wrote the report was not quite sure of the distinctions conferred upon the General in question he had put G.K.W., meaning "God knows what."

H.V. WALLACE KING.

BACK TO THE LAND.

TO THE EDITOR.

Sir,—I have read with appreciation your recent "artikle" under this heading.

I was interested enough to look up the Ministry of Reconstruction pamphlet on the subject of Land Settlement. I regret to find that admirable though the scheme is, it does not touch the vital point, nor does the Land Settlement Bill in any way tend to meet the desires of the prospective small holders.

The pamphlet says "Opportunity is the great attraction held out by new countries to the children of the older countries." But the new countries add to this offer of opportunity the greater attraction of incentive which the British Board of Agriculture utterly fails to do.

The great ambition of the Englishman is to make a home for himself and to make that home secure. His work is sustained by the possibility of the attainment of that object. He wants to feel that at the end of some known period, by systematic work and payment his small holding and his house will become his own property from which no man will have the power to eject him. This is the incentive that the "new countries" offer.

What does England propose? The pamphlet I have mentioned says that ". . . the greater number of small holdings will no doubt continue to be held, upon lease." That is the very thing that is frightening away small holders from the land.

Again, Sir Arthur Boscawen (Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Agriculture) in the Commons on 22nd July refused to accept an amendment to the "Land Settlement Bill" which would have enabled small holders to obtain possession of their holdings during tenancy "by means of a purchase annuity." It is not sufficient that he undertook to re-consider the question, for his prompt refusal can only be taken as indicative of the Government attitude.

The Government cannot expect men to throw away years of labour on land which may eventually be claimed from them by the lessors.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

ADVOCATES SWIMMING CONTESTS.

Sir,—As a sport and pastime I think swimming beats the rest. Many pre-war swimming champions have become stale through lack of practice, but now that peaceful conditions have arrived there is no reason why this sport should not be brought to the fore.

The Rhine is only suitable at few places for swimming, the current being too swift for the majority of swimmers. Wherever there is an inland stream suitable for bathing, it is used by odd batches of soldiers. There are always the onlookers or those who paddle about in the shallower portions, who express a desire to learn how to swim.

I noticed a paragraph in this paper a few days ago stating the result of a factory vote upon the employees' tastes in pastimes. Swimming took first place. The desire, in all quarters is there, but often the participation is not practicable owing to lack of organisation.

Could not battalions organise parties to visit either Cologne or Euskirchen for the express purpose of having a swim. To foster this why not have an inter-battalion competition in relay racing.

AQUAGES.

HIGH SPIRITS IN PUBLIC.

Sir,—I know one must make allowance for the exuberant spirits of youth, yet I must say I couldn't see the joke when the other evening at the Deutsches Theatre paper darts were sent flying into the auditorium and on to the stage from the balcony, amid laughter and shell-scream mimicry.

Such antics seem more in keeping with the atmosphere of a country fair, and disturb those who go to hear good music and singing.

ESPANOL.

KEEP GOATS AND RABBITS.

Sir,—One thing this war will have brought about with undoubtedly good results, is a revolution of ideas, so far as profitable hobbies are concerned.

Before the war beyond poultry keeping and in a smaller way beekeeping, the average Briton, rarely thought of goats or rabbit breeding as a means of augmenting his income, and providing an interesting hobby.

The practice of the natives of Rhineland of keeping goats and rabbits has appealed to me as a wrinkle we could adopt with profit.

No large tract of land is necessary for their upkeep, and is quite possible to the man who is lucky enough to possess a medium sized garden.

With the present meat shortage and its high price, the flesh of both rabbits and goats is very valuable, and would provide a welcome change of diet to many. Also the milk of goats is greatly esteemed by prominent medical men, on account of its immunity from tuberculosis germs, and is therefore an eminently suitable food for young children.

MORE ON SERIOUS READING.

Sir,—When I wrote my letter under the above heading to "The Cologne Post," I did not expect so much interest would be taken in it as has been shown by the amount of correspondence received.

My message to our young troops was short and intended to encourage serious reading. I advised but two books — among those which I love — "Ivanhoe" and "Westward Ho!" I said that I had conversed with many of our young English troops here and had discovered that the majority of them had never even heard of many of the real wholesome English works I mentioned.

But we must realise that most of the young fellows have probably had no one to advise them. It is, therefore, useless to introduce them to Greek and Latin classics at the beginning, or to those of other foreign nations.

Let them rather read and appreciate first the best that has been written in the English language. Now, what should a young fellow without much previous reading attempt as a beginning? I would like to suggest a few more works which might be read with profit.

The Ingoldsby Legends; Tales of Mystery and Imagination (Poe); Adam Bede (George Eliot); Rip van Winkle (Irving); The Scarlet Letter (Hawthorne); The poems of Robert Burns; Christmas Tales (Dickens); Romany Rye (Borrow); Windsor Castle; The Tower of London (Ainsworth); Old Saint Paul's (Ainsworth); The Crusaders (Scott); Vanity Fair (Thackeray); The Vicar of Wakefield (Goldsmith); The Happy Prince etc. (Oscar Wilde); Julius Caesar (Shakespeare); and Macbeth (Shakespeare).

I think the above would do very well to begin with. What do our readers say?

W. R. PATERSON, Lieut.

IMPRISONED BY BOLSHEVISTS.

An interesting letter from a British soldier.

Sir,—Being for a few days in Cologne I noticed a good many R.S. and R.E. troops, and think the following information may be of interest to some of them. I was for nine months in Bolshevist prisons in Russia — 3 months in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, one month in the city prison at Petrograd, and five months in the Butinsky prison at Moscow having been arrested when the British Embassy at Petrograd was raided in August 1918, and just before leaving Moscow for Finland. I got a list of officers and men who were still interned at Moscow.

Notwithstanding that I was stripped to the skin before passing the Finnish frontier, I succeeded in getting several notes through.

The names were as follows: Captain Wilson, R.E.; Lieut. Tatham R.A.F.; Corpl. Hopton; Privates Tickle, Holley, Jones, Laing, Carr, Patterson, Dingwall, Rose, H. McIntosh, Farden, Young, Roberts, G. Robertson, J. Robertson, McIntosh, McGaffaney, Denwordie, Pennyworth, Dawson, Forsythe, Stanley, Bendieg, Stevenson, Watt, Yorkston, all R.S.; Clayton, Dunmow, M.G.C.; Gaiy 13th Yorks, Brassil A.S.C.; Lapham, Lambert, 17th King's Liverpools, Stringfellow K. L. attached R.E., Sergt. Alexander R.E., Stoker G. West, A.B., K. Mellett, O.S.A., Frost R.N. (late H.M.S. "Attentive").

All the above are from the Archangel front. All were then in good health. They live in an internment camp and were free to move about the city as they desired.

The food received from the Bolshevists was very poor, but parcels were sent regularly by the Danish Red Cross Mission.

The following men were in hospital at Wologda and were well on the way to recovery: Privates O'Brien, Donolly R.S., Richards, Pickard 13th Yorks, Davidson 6th Yorks.

At the time I left Moscow there was a report that some of our men were to be exchanged at Wologda, but I have not heard whether this was carried out. Moscow (also Petrograd) is in a fearful condition. When we left the food prices were about as follows: Bread 40rs, butter 150rs, veal 90rs, pork 120rs, sugar 130rs, rice 65rs, coffee 170rs, tea 600rs (and difficult to obtain at that), and one herring 35rs (usual pre-war price equal to twopence.

The rouble is nominally 10 to the £ — at the outbreak of war it stood at 9.45. I had many good friends in Russia but several of them have been shot by the Bolshies and others have died of starvation.

Many thousands of men, women and children died during the past winter of starvation and no doubt thousands more are still dying daily in that part of the country which is occupied by the Bolshevists.

CAVALRY DIVISION RACES

Complete Details of Second Day's Proceedings.

To provide a permanent record of Tuesday's results in the Cavalry Division Races, the appended complete details are given. Yesterday, owing to lack of space, the bare results only were published. The Cologne Race Course, at Merheim, attracted a very large crowd for the 2nd day's racing. Details:—

Niehl Stakes—12.45 p.m.

WEEPING SKIES.

Tattoo Spectators Drenched To The Skin.

IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE.

Thousands of soldiers and civilians who, on Tuesday, proceeded to Lindenthal to witness the 6th Corps Torchlight Tattoo, received a drenching as surprising as it was thorough.

From 9 p.m. onwards crowds of people flocked towards the delightful Stadtwald grounds, many females considering light, filmy, summer frocks and Nature's headgear sufficient protection against the pleasantly mild elements that prevailed. By 10 p.m., at which hour the proceedings were timed to commence, a great mass of humanity occupied every possible view point. There was a string of motor-cars and lorries over a mile long.

Then, without the slightest warning, there commenced a fall or deluge of rain which, in point of intensity, will long be remembered. Many of the spectators scrambled in all directions in search of protection, but the skies were pitiless, and drenched the multitude to the skin in a very few moments. Many others, realising the futility of attempting to escape their fate remained to brave the conditions.

The Grand Finale:

With uniforms, equipment, and rifles dripping in the torrential downpour, all directly concerned in the ceremony acquitted themselves admirably. The grand finale was a sight not readily to be forgotten. In the centre of a hollow square, formed by the troops, the walls of which were ablaze with hundreds of red flares, the evolutions of the previous evening were repeated. On the knees, and with bowed heads, those taking part joined the great massed bands in singing "Abide with me", a proceeding that was thoroughly impressive.

The switching off of the great searchlights was a signal for the firing of a huge number of Verey lights. The picturesque result emphasised the vigour with which the rain fell. The searchlights, trained on to one spot, suddenly threw forth their powerful rays once more and revealed a large French flag, the band meanwhile playing the French National Anthem. A moment's cessation and they re-appeared displaying the Union Jack to the accompaniment of "God save the King" which served as an appropriate conclusion to a truly wonderful show.

A WORLD'S RECORD.

Remarkable Golf — 278 for 72 Holes.

YOUTHFUL CHAMPION.

J. Douglas Edgar, professional to the Druid Hills Club, Atlanta, Georgia, won the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Hamilton, Ontario with the remarkable score of 278 for 72 holes. He played sensational golf, and his score was 16 strokes better than his nearest rivals, three of whom tied for second place. These were James Barnes, the Western Open Champion; Karl Keffer, of Toronto, who won the Canadian Championship when it was last played for at Toronto in 1914, and Master Dobbie Jones, the Atlanta amateur, who as a boy of 14, reached the third round of the American Amateur Championship at Haverford, Pa., three years ago.

Edgar's score creates a world's record for a 72 holes' championship. Harry Vardon returned a score of 279 when he won the German Oden Championship at Baden-Baden in 1911, while the lowest score in the British event was that of James Braid at Prestwick in 1908, when he recorded 291. Edgar, before leaving England this year, was professional to the Northumberland Club, at Gosforth. He won the French Open Championship at Le Touquet in 1914, the last occasion it was played for, with a score of 288. In the same year he also won the Northumberland and Durham Championship. He is only 24 years of age, and has a great future as a golf professional.

BLACK WATCH SPORTS.

6th (Perthshire) Battalion Regimental Games at Nideggen.

The sports of the 6th Battalion Black Watch were held at Nideggen on Friday and Saturday, in splendid weather before a large attendance of spectators. During Saturday afternoon the Band of the 3rd King's Own Hussars rendered a most enjoyable programme of music.

There was keen competition between Headquarter Company, A Coy. and C Coy. for the battalion championship, which was not decided until the last event, when Headquarter Coy. emerged victorious with a total of 35 points, winning the clock presented by Lieut.-Colonel W. Green, D.S.O.

A Company were second with 31 points and C Company third with 30 points.

There was a splendid finish to the quarter-mile race, when L/Cpl. Haig of A Coy., who was running third, made a spurt in the last twenty yards and obtained first place. The best individual effort was that of Lieutenant S.E. Masson with one first, four seconds, and a third.

A very successful and enjoyable meeting was concluded by the presentation of prizes by Mrs. Marinden.

CRICKET FRIENDLIES.

2nd Midland Bde. Final.

The Inter-Company Final was played at Commern on Monday between 459th Field Coy. R.E. (34) and H.Q. 52nd Leicesters (24). The Sappers batted first and could raise only 34 runs against the bowling of Lieut. Ruscoe and Cpl. Sheard, the former of whom captured 7 wickets for 11 runs. Top scores were Cpl. Bailey and Spr. Sedgwick with 9 and 8 respectively. The Leicesters, on going in to bat, collapsed utterly and could only obtain 24 runs against the bowling of Sprs. Cole and Hewitt. Their top scorer was Cpl. Sheard with 13, whilst for the Sappers, Cole took 6 wickets for 9 runs.

A/245 Bde. R.F.A.

A keen cricket match was played at Hölscheid on Sunday between the Right and Left Sections of A/245 Bde. R.F.A. resulting in a splendid win for the former. Sergt. Stubbs (1), Lister (21) and Severs (15) greatly helped the winners out the stamping of Cpl. Tanner and the batting of Bdr. Hill (21) were the outstanding features of the match without which the Right Section would have been hopelessly outclassed.

354 S.B. (74 for 5) v. "E" CORPS SIEGE PARK R.A.S.C. (21) at Grossbülleshcim.

ARTILLERY CRICKET.

London Division v. Northern Division at Lindenthal.

This match was played at Lindenthal and resulted in a win for the London D.A. by 45 runs. For the winners Major Hewer played a delightful innings of 76, giving one difficult chance behind the wicket at 52, and Lieut. Baines captured 7 of the Northern D.A. wickets for 33. For the losers, Capt. Durbar (37) and Lieut. Cross (20) were the only batsmen to reach double figures. Scores:—

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

152nd Bde. R.F.A. Dinner.

By kind permission of Col. Kinnear D.S.O., Warrant Officers and Sergeants of 152nd Bde. R.F.A. held their first brigade dinner since the Armistice at Siegburg on Saturday.

The gathering was a complete success, numerous friends were invited from R.A.S.C., R.A.O.C., A. O. Dept., I.O.M., 106 Bde. R.F.A., and R.A.V.C. A talented orchestra played selections during the evening. The decorations and catering were admirably carried out by Capt. Ibbetson, M.C.

During the intervals the guests were entertained by local artistes, B.S.M. Parkes' "falsetto" being particularly good in "Thora." Other artistes were B.S.M. Taylor, "Asleep in the Deep"; Sergt. Faincloth, recitation; B.Q.M.S. Baguley, "Delineator"; R.S.M. Smith, ventriloquist; Sergt. James A.V.C., "My old Shacko"; Sergt. Hall and Sergt. Bragg, "patter."

A vote of thanks was accorded the organisers.

The Humour Of Lamb.

The Euskirchen Reading Circle (Y.M.C.A.) on Monday evening added another leaf to its laurels when Miss Wehatley with admirable taste and apt quotation introduced "The Humour of Charles Lamb." The rollicking wisdom of the loveable Londoner, his engaging fun, his capricious and fantastic merriment, were finely contrasted with the tragedy of his domestic life. Quaint, curious, gifted, even the pungency of his satire had a mellowness and sweetness born of his love of life and men, and the gentleness of his disposition. Appreciative comment on the lecture followed. It is announced that next Monday evening, the 11th, will be spent with Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha."

"The Fancies."

The Fancies Concert Party, presented by Lt. L. H. Moore (by kind permission of G.O.C. Midland Division) gave a very pleasing show at the British Empire Leave Club on Tuesday night. The singing of J. Peters was delightful, and Bradbury and his witty duologues were much appreciated. The costumes worn by the "Ladies" of the party were exceedingly pretty and Peters the designer is to be congratulated. Pte Davis gave a clever exhibition of dancing while Watson's Song "I do pity myself" provoked much laughter and mirth, and an encore was demanded. Lt. L. H. Moore has every reason to be proud of his Party.

Pedlars' Pianist.

This is an impression of Howard Rudd, the dainty pierette at the piano. He is at present with "The Pedlars" Formerly with "The Merry Mascots," he will be remembered for his comedy acts. Rudd is a pianist of some accomplishment. Before joining the army he studied under Prof. S.W.G. Barfoot, L.R.A.M., Speaker, Royal College of Music, London. He is well-known in musical circles in Lancashire, being one of the noted Rudd family. Quite a big favourite at Bonn, he will be greatly missed by the boys when his turn for demob comes.

Goodbye Muffins!

"Ye Merry Muffins," the Highland Division Concert Party, one of the brightest companies in Rhineland, are going to England. They will leave a big void in the world of entertainment here. They will leave also memories of many successes. For who has not seen and enjoyed their excellent show? "The Muffin's" performances rank among the super-productions in Army theatrical spheres. This evening they give their last show in Germany at Kreuzau, the Highland Division H.Q.

Prospects in England.

"The Muffins" will move with the Highland Division as a party and will carry on in England. They contemplate holding together as a party after "demob." The "Rouges et Noirs" made good; so would "Ye Merry Muffins." Their show would be something unique on the English stage. Mr. Reg Matthews is a comedian with an individual style that would "take" in London. Teddy, too, is a "girl" who has few equals on the Army stage. And the others — well, such a party of all round excellence could not fail to appeal to those at home.

Victory Marches Filmed.

A unique opportunity is offered at the next week's Cinema performance at the British Empire Leave Club when those who were unable actually to witness the historic Victory Marches in Paris and London will be given a marvellous series of moving photographs. Two performances daily will be given at 2-3.30 and 3.45-5.15.

Deutsches Theatre.

The qualtity of an entertainment in Cologne spreads with the rapidity of a sensational rumour. For this reason, the goodness, badness, or indifference of a performance is generally reflected in the size of the audience watching it. One can scarcely pay a higher compliment, therefore, to Miss Doris Cloud's Concert Company than to point out that the efforts of its members attract full houses to the Deutsches Theatre each night. Variety and excellence are the keynotes of the programme submitted. The artistes include Misses Lottie Hilliard, Dorothy Trenamen, Stella Hackman, Doris Cloud, Edith Bingham Hult and Mr. Morland Hay.

The "New Bing Boys".

The "New Bing Boys" are moving swiftly from success to success. On Wednesday at Leichlingen they achieved the proud distinction of having every item on their programme encored, and on Thursday at Burscheid they created a record in the way of attendances for that village. New additions to the party include Geo Rae, the Scotch tenor from "Ye Merry Muffins," and Geo Mason, a clever light show comedian. There is every probability of the party visiting Cologne in the near future.

Something New

The Wood-Milne Service Soles and Heels are the newest and most successful type of Rubber Sole and Heel. They are light in weight, unobtrusive yet give the maximum of wear. This lightness makes them extremely comfortable, and they have a particulary neat appearance when fitted. Wood-Milne Service Soles and Heels give increased life to the footwear, are non-slipping and do not tire the feet.

Service men and civilians find them invaluable.

WOOD-MILNE Service Soles & Heels

Made in all sizes, shapes and qualities to suit all kinds of footwear. Look for the name "Wood-Milne" on every pair.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Where to Wear Ribbons.

Queries have been received as to the proper precedence of medals and decorations, particularly with regard to the new War Medal. The Victoria Cross, of course, takes first place, and is followed by British orders according to their grade, including the D.S.O. Then come active service medals, such as the Distinguished Conduct Medal, and the Military Medal according to the date of this creation. These are followed by foreign orders, the wearing of which has been authorized by the King. This means that the new ribbon is worn last, and is only followed by foreign orders. It is a theme of constant criticism that certain "civilian" orders are worn in accordance with regulation, in front of military honours won in the field. We hope to publish soon an article dealing with the whole subject of medals and decorations.

Posters and Hoardings.

German art is peculiarly suitable for outdoor publicity purposes, being always strong and forceful, sometimes almost brutal and with big flat masses of well harmonised or contrasted colour, the elementary points aimed at by the expert poster designer. Some of the posters are things of beauty though not by any means joy for ever, as it seems no sooner are they flung on to the bill-boards than they are immediately half or wholly obliterated by the next bill poster who happens along. So are beautiful and effective posters killed at birth and robbed of any effectiveness they may possess. When will German professional bill posters adopt the owned and rented and controlled hoarding system for so long adopted in the United Kingdom? It should be a crime to obliterate or even overlap another man's poster, as he pays a definite rental to have it exhibited for so long.

And Larger Posters.

It is noticeable also that German bills are never larger than what is technically known as Double Crowns and there seems to be no definite standards of size. Any odd sizes and shapes will do, and thus we have the ugly untidy displays that are often an eyesore instead of what is known in England as "The poor man's picture gallery." Perhaps the reason why there are no large 8, 16 and 32 sheet posters in Germany is because ordinary commercial houses and manufacturers of proprietory articles do not apparently use the hoardings at all, and it would not pay cabarets, wine houses, and organisers of concerts, sports events and so on to print such large announcements. German advertising is fifty years behind the times, both in the press and on the hoardings.

Sartorial Criticisms.

One of the outstanding features of the suits and raincoats worn by civilians both at Bonn and Cologne is the good quality of material, and choice colourings nicely blended. The fawn covert coatings and fine worsted suitings are similar to those retailed by the first class British houses in Bond Street. The thought that strikes one, is that great care must have been taken of their pre-war garments or else the condition of supplies of woollen goods during the war has been misrepresented to us. One thing that appears to spoil the appearance of the men's trousers is the bell-bottomed shape, which is antiquated now, and only worn by very few of a certain class in England. The press-turn-up so much in vogue at home does not appeal to the people here evidently. Although the press-turn-up in trousers collects dust and has been dubbed insanitary by some, there is no doubt it smartens the appearance and lengthens the life of trousers, as it lessens the chance of frayed bottoms.

Losing no Time.

Now that the German farmers are busily engaged gathering in the crops of corn and wheat, which are so abundant in many parts of the country, it is interesting to note, that one never sees a field full of "stooks," and lying idle, until they have been gathered in, a sight which is very familiar in England. The "stooks" are there certainly, but are all placed close together, on a strip of land, just large enough to hold them, and no more. As soon as they have been thus collected, the remainder of the land is ploughed up and utilized for the growing of another crop, without waste of time.

Fallen Heroes.

The hero worship which the average German paid to the late Emperor of Germany and Prince Bismarck, the man who made modern Germany, is to us Britons a trifle overdone. That hero worship has of course received a rude shock, but the name of Bismarck and the Kaiser are still in evidence in every town. Nearly every community of any size has its Bismarck Strasse, its Kaiser Wilhelm Strasse or Platz. Probably the names will remain, but just as probably they have already lost their glamour and greatness, for both men are splendid illustrations of that "vaulting ambition which o'erleaps itself."

Shutterless Shops.

Evidently Cologne and other Rhineland towns are singularly free from the kind of thefts summarised under the "Break the window and run" type, as shutters are almost extinct, the shops of the more expensive type being dependant on a small iron grating after closing hours. One cannot help noticing that the effect of these shutterless shops considerably brightens the aspect of the thoroughfare and materially adds to the pleasures of strolling about town. For you can look in the windows and mentally take stock of the souvenirs you will purchase for the old folks at home (when that credit comes through) without being tempted to rush into extravagance forthwith. Contrasting these bright windows after closing hours with our own gloomy shuttered ones, one feels instinctively that we lose by comparison.

Ancient Methods of Bread Baking.

It is perhaps not generally know that bread is made, and baked, in German villages as in England in olden days. Leaven or balm, which is a portion of dough saved from the last baking, is used instead of yeast. The dough, when kneaded, is placed in oval baskets to rise, instead of tins. A wood fire is lighted in an oven made entirely of bricks and allowed to burn till the required heat is attained. The embers are then raked out, and the loaves, turned out of the baskets, are placed by means of a wooden spade on the floor of the oven, and the door closed till sufficiently cooked. Pastries, besides bread, are baked the same way, and make good eating too. All who have seen an Aldershot Oven in use will understand the method.

Train Starters.

Have you ever noticed that the guards on German trains do not possess full control of the trains as in Blighty? Instead of the waving of the familiar green flag a specially appointed official stands on the platform and simply holds up a small white disc about six inches in diameter attached to a short stick, when it is time for the train to start. At night time a small electric torch with a green light is shown from the disc.

Lesser Echoes.

There is great dismay among the troops at Bensberg at the removal of the Y.M.C.A. which has been such a boon since the first days of occupation.

Complaints reach us of the high prices charged for walking-out canes in certain regimental canteens.

It is a sign of the approaching fall of the year that dahlias are now being offered for sale by the Cologne street-sellers.

An acute shortage of coal is anticipated in Cologne and throughout Rhineland generally during the coming winter.

The unique sight of a staff officer waiting in the canteen queue for cigarettes was recently commented on. But one has since been seen walking in the American circus procession. Next please!

The British court-martial makes a difference in the fines imposed on people found in the Rhineland streets after 11 p.m. without night-pass; men have to pay 30 marks, women only 20 marks.

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: Pioneer F.C. Diggins, 209th Field Coy. R.E. Impressions of a Leave Club Dance.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

WAR AND MORALS.

Mr. R. Best K.C., says: One of the greatest tragedies of the war lies not in the number of men killed, but in the number of women who have been degraded and demoralized and ruined by the wave of looseness and vice which is passing over the land. Probably the men are not so much to be blamed as the women of the country, who seem to go mad at the sight of a uniform.

WORKING TOGETHER.

M. Pierre Duduis, the French Shipping Controller, dealing with the problem of economic reconstruction, says: In framing their policy in regard to many matters which used to be regarded as of purely local and national concern the new conditions require that the Allied nations should adopt a new way of thought and forget the existence of the political boundaries separating them. They must act as one economic whole. Mutual help and support will alone overcome the difficulties with which each and all of the Allies are called upon to contend.

TO CHECK BIGAMY.

The Bishop of Norwich, writing on the great increase of bigamous marriages, says: It would certainly tend to the decrease of bigamous unions if each party were required before marrige to produce some form of registration and identification. Neither marriage after banns nor marriage by license really provides for the identification of the parties, nor for the requirements of full publicity. In the case of marriage after banns no formal declaration is demanded from the parties concerned, and, leaving aside the charge addressed to the bride and bridegroom when they are already in the church, they are not required to sign any form which might disclose an impediment to to the marriage. In the case of marriage by license there is no publicity. A declaration is, indeed, required to be made by one of the parties that all is in order. But nothing is easier than for a married man who has deceived a girl to see that she, not he, applies for the license and makes the necessary affidavit, which, though false, she may honestly believe to be true.

IN PLACE OF THE COALITION.

Lord Rothermere has contributed a striking article to his own Sunday paper. Should the present combination of parties continue? he asks. The Coalition as at present constituted has outlived its usefulness. It has reduced the House of Commons to a pale shadow of its former self. I consider that the time has come for the creation of a new "bloc," a combination pledged primarily to economy in administration and to the rehabilitation of the nation's finances on a sound footing. We want a progressive party, which will take real reconstruction for its watchword, and will prove that it is possible to make a new Britain without dissipating such resources as are left to us, We want, in short a party which will do for this country what Lord Cromer did for Egypt when he found it bankrupt and derelict, and made a little money go a long way. The present Coalition will never practise economy.

LONDON'S SADDEST SIGHT.

Sir John Monash, the Australian Commander-in-Chief, says: "Perhaps the saddest sight in London to-day is the long queues of ex-officers and men with splendid records of heroic service to their country unable to secure employment and in dire necessity. Is this the reward of a grateful country in her hour of victory and peace? It is a deplorable shame that many of these brave fellows, when they return from the trenches after all they have gone through, should have such a ghastly struggle to live."

BERNHARDI, PESSIMIST.

General Bernhardi whose book forecasting the Great War had such an enormous sale in Great Britain says: I do not believe in the League of Nations. It is an utter mistake to believe the progress of humanity is possible in an eternal peace. Freedom alone engenders progress, and only by fighting is freedom to be won and maintained. Germany is not actually conquered, and may have to withdraw from her obligations." The present peace, is the product of hate and the spirit of revenge, and will bear fruit accordingly.

HOW THE MONEY GOES.

Mr. Lovat Fraser who has expressed very strong views on many of the great questions that arose during the war, discussing the present squandering of public money, says: Ministers fling the nation's money about broadcast. They acquired the spending habit during the war and cannot drop it. The shadow of irreparable financial disaster lies over these islands, but not one big act of retrenchment stands to the credit of the Ministry since the armistice. On the contrary, they are constantly devising new openings for expenditure, as though they had discovered some payable method of extracting gold from seawater.

THEY ARE NOT DEAD.

Miss Marie Corelli writing of the West", says: Let us not imagine for a moment that our Silent Victors are not with us in our celebrations of Peace. They are removed but a step; some of our advanced psychologists would say by merely a film of atmosphere. They see us; they read the thoughts of kings, statesmen, and commoners; they know, far better than we do, why it was deemed necessary that they, dear to us all, should die to us all for the moment. But they are not dead. A haze of glory hides them from our earthly sight, nevertheless there are some of us who feel their presence, close and intimate. From windows in heaven they watch the triumphal march of their worldbound comrades, and the strong overflowing spirit of their dauntless heroism should be with us all to-day as we praise God who hath given them—and us—the victory.

VOTES OF THANKS.

Parliamentary gratitude to everybody who helped win the war.

O.M. FOR MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

COMMONS' THANKS.

TRIBUTES TO THE LIVING AND THE DEAD.

Last night amid the loud cheers of a crowded house, Mr. Lloyd George moved the resolutions according the nation's thanks to the Navy, Army and Air Force and our appreciation of Marshal Foch. In reference to the latter, the Premier said that the world had been saved by the genius of Foch. The war would have been won by the valour, endurance and resources of the Allies without Foch's leadership, but the Premier was convinced that it would not have been won in 1918. Mr. Lloyd George paid a tribute to Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Grey for making the decision they did in August 1914. At that date the nation was by common assumption the most unwarlike people in Europe. Then came the great challenge and millions who had never even thought of war rallied to the flag in such numbers that even a great manufacturing country like our own could not manufacture the necessaries of war fast enough. It was one of the most thrilling and inspiring episodes in the history of the world, one which would always be most honourably associated with the name of Lord Kitchener. He doubted whether in the whole history of war such multitudes of men ever displayed such sustained courage. War had never witnessed such a trial of manhood as British soldiers and seamen engaged in. What was true of the battlefield was equally true of the sea.

Daring Unseen Perils.

It was difficult to estimate the strain on the courage of seamen in the old days when the enemy was visible. In this war the enemy was underground and out of sight and sailors of the Mercantile Marine faced horrors worse than those of the battlefield. Ships were torpedoed scores of miles from any shore, with only frail boats to take to and cruel waves playing like beasts play with victims before devouring them. They often faced worse terrors of thirst and hunger. No wonder 15,000 of them fell victims to the cruellest and most ghastly piracy ever perpetrated. Everywhere on land and sea and in the air the strain on heart, nerve, will and courage of the men had been beyond anything ever described in the story of the world. Through such trials, Britain fought better in the last year of the war than ever before. Nor must the nation forget the women and nurses who braved like perils and saved thousands of lives by their tender care.

Dreading the Postman.

Turning to the powerful aid of the Dominions and Dependencies, the Premier said that through the valour of their sons they had won a permanent place among the posterity of nations. Regarding the workers it was due to their skill that we owed the celerity, efficiency, and completeness with which the armies were equipped. Never had the skill of experts, leaders of organised industry or the mechanics shown to greater advantage. One word about the multitude of private people, men and women who bore the strain and anxiety, and only too often grief, in their homes. In millions of homes every knock on the street door sent a shudder of fear through anxious hearts; it would only be known in the last great day what agony of war was brought to millions of homes; only then would be known the measure of the silent heroism displayed. All classes had suffered alike. No class could point the finger of reproach to another. The glory of common achievement shone on all ranks in the land and the shadow of a common grief alone dimmed the lustre of triumph. "The men and women," concluded the Premier, "who showed such qualities in the hour of their country's need will show them yet again, if need come, with subtler and more formidable perils, to save the Motherland from danger."

Sir Donald Maclean thanked the Premier for his references to Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Grey and added that the rally made to the colours during the war was beyond all words of praise and in that respect we proudly acclaimed all those who served as being true gentlemen at arms. There could only be one verdict, which would gather strength as the years rolled on — "the men were magnificent."

Mr. Adamson said he desired to associate himself and the Labour party with the speeches of the Premier and Sir Donald Maclean.

The votes of thanks were agreed to.

Similar resolutions of thanks were carried in the House of Lords, where members stood while the motion was put.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The Prime Minister moved a resolution in the Commons yesterday that the thanks of the House be given to all ranks of the services as follows:—

To the Navy and the Royal Marines for their sleepless watch over the seas and for the courage, resource and devotion with which during four years of constant peril they have maintained the blockade of the enemy's coast, convoyed armies drawn from the most distant lands, and defended the commerce of the world against the craft and subtlety of a ruthless foe.

To armies in the field for the matchless valour and endurance with which amid circumstances of unexampled hardship they have sustained the shock of war in many climes, for the good humour, clemency and patience of their bearing, and for the undaunted spirit which has carried them through four years of strenuous trial to a complete and splendid victory.

To the Air Force for their brilliant daring and for their conspicuous services over seas and land.

To the gallant troops from the dominions overseas, from India and from the Crown Colonies for the promptitude with which they responded to the call for justice and freedom and for the noble part they have played in conjunction with their comrades of the British Islands in securing the triumph of right over wrong.

Heroines of the Empire.

To the women of the medical and of the auxiliary services for their devotion in tending the sick and wounded and for their duties faithfully and bravely discharged.

To the Mercantile Marine for the fine and fearless seamanship by which our people have been preserved from want and our cause from disaster.

That this House doth acknowledge with deep submission and reverence the heroism of those who have fallen in the service of their country, and tenders its sympathy to their relatives in the hour of their sorrow and their pride.

Mr. Lloyd George also moved:—

Foch's Supreme Service.

That this House records its profound sense of admiration and gratitude for the supreme service rendered to the British nation by Field Marshal Foch, Marshal of France, as Generalissimo of the Allied Armies, in which great position he displayed a military genius worthy of the foremost captains in history.

Lord Curzon moved a similar series of resolutions in the Upper House.

LLOYD GEORGE.

ORDER OF MERIT FROM THE KING.

The King has conferred the Order of Merit upon Mr. Lloyd George in recognition of his services during the war. The letter in which this distinction was announced is as follows:

Buckingham Palace, August 5, 1919.

My Dear Prime Minister,

The honours and rewards to the officers of the Navy, Army and Air Force having now been submitted to Parliament, I feel that my people will share with me the regret that it is not possible to express the nation's grateful recognition of the pre-eminent services rendered by the Prime Minister both in carrying the war to a victorious end, and in securing an honourable peace.

To rectify somewhat this omission, and personally to mark my high appreciation of these services, it gives me great pleasure to confer upon you the Order of Merit.

Believe me,
Yours very sincerely,
GEORGE R.I.

The Order of Merit is the only decoration which the King can confer without consulting his Prime Minister.

GRANTS IN OTHER DAYS.

It is interesting to recall some of the more outstanding occasions in the history of the fighting forces on which their leaders received grants from the public funds:

Marlborough, after the War of Succession.—£5,000 a year during the Queen's life. Marlborough, after Blenheim—Woodstock. Hawke, after Quiberon Bay—£2,000 pension. Jervis, after St. Vincent—£3,000 pension. Nelson, after the Nile—£2,000 pension. Wellington, after Salamanca—£100,000. Wellington, after peace in 1814—£400,000. Wellington, after Waterloo—£200,000 and Strathfieldsaye. Sir Colin Campbell, after the Mutiny—£2,000 pension. Napier, after Magdala—£2,000 pension. Wolseley, after Ashanti—£25,000. Wolseley, after Egyptian War £30,000. Roberts, after Boer War—£100,000. Kitchener, after Nile Expedition—£30,000. Kitchener, after Boer War—£50,000.

POLICE TROUBLE.

COMMISSIONER ON THREAT OF FORCE.

The total number of Metropolitan policemen on strike at six a.m. yesterday was 1,075.

Sir Nevil Macready, Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, in an interview said: "A certain amount of intimidation, either physical or moral, is going on. Last night Mr. Hayes, the secretary of the union, held a meeting at Commercial-road, where he said that if the remainder of the police were not out to-day measures would be taken to force them out. I have taken steps to see that anything in the shape of force will be adequately met."

"Some men are talking about loyalty to their pals and to their trade union," he said. "It seems to me that the point is this: that before they ever joined a trade union, and before they ever had a pal in the police, they took an oath to the Government, and if it is a question of loyalty, the priority must be given to the Government. That is a point which many of them seem to overlook.

"No man who has gone out on strike could possibly have been swept off his feet or taken unawares unless his intellect is such that he is quite unfit to hold any position. The order of May 30 not only said that strikers would be dismissed and not reinstated, but that the Commissioner could not accept the excuse of intimidation, because it was up to every man to use all the means at his disposal to defend himself and carry on his duty. To tell me that reasonable men can be carried off their legs after thinking of that Order for sixty days—it won't wash!"

The force will be put on the new rates of pay on Aug. 13, but the settlement of the arrears, in view of the large number of accounts involved, will occupy some time.

POLICE BILL IN THE LORDS.

SECOND READING CARRIED.

Late on Tuesday night, the Police Bill came before the House of Lords.

The Earl of Jersey, in moving the second reading, said that recent events had proved the necessity for this measure and showed the necessity of passing it into law as soon possible. He expressed the gratification of the Government and the country at the way in which the police generally had withstood the assault which had been made on their loyalty by the officials of the Police Union, supported by a limited number of extremists among the police themselves. (Cheers.) Only seven forces out of a total of 250 forces in Great Britain had been affected. And altogether there were only 2,360 men on strike out of a total of 54,000 in England and Wales. In one respect the strike was significant and had had a beneficial result. The failure of the strike had shown that the police really valued the high traditions which had been handed down to them and which they were proud to maintain. They appreciated generally that the Government were anxious to redress any legitimate grievances which might be brought to their notice, and were satisfied that their grievances had been fairly considered. They were prepared to trust the responsible authorities rather than be misled by professional agitators.

The bill was read a second time.

PLAIN CLOTHES ORDER.

An Army Order just issued announces that the war-time prohibition of the wearing of plain clothes by officers and men is now removed, and that permission to wear plain clothes may now be given, as usual before the war, in accordance with paragraph 1,694 of the King's Regulations. Officers of the Regular Army, the Special Reserve, and the Territorial Force will not provide or renew any articles of uniform other than service dress until a further order on the subject is issued.

BABY FARM CASE.

Henry Hatchard and his wife Beatrice were again charged at Stratford yesterday with the manslaughter of a seven months old infant named Daisy Mayers by wilfully withholding food. No further evidence was offered and prisoners were again remanded.

This is the case in which nine neglected infants were found in a room. A police officer afterwards told a press representative that several of the children would not have lived another week. They looked like little old men. Two are now going on well, but others are still very ill. The police are of the opinion that the bones discovered at the back of the premises are those of animals.

SINN FEIN FLAG INCIDENT.

When de Valera, the Irish agitator who has recently been "stumping" the United States to his discomfiture, was at San Francisco, the Sinn Fein flag was hoisted at his hotel.

Capt. Arthur L. Snagge, the British naval attaché, promptly said that no British official would ever visit the Hotel St. Francis again unless the Sinn Fein flag were hauled down from the flagstaff. The manager removed the flag, to de Valera's great annoyance.

"PEACE" IN 1917.

OFFICIAL CONTRADICTION OF ERZBERGER.

Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in a written answer concerning the statements by Herr Erzberger as to the alleged peace offer made to Germany in August, 1917, says:—

It is the intention of his Majesty's Government to lay papers on this question before Parliament as soon as possible. Meanwhile I may inform the hon. and gallant member (Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy) that the statements made by Herr Erzberger at Weimar are not an accurate presentment of the facts.

On August 21, 1917, his Majesty's Minister to the Vatican was instructed to inform the Cardinal Secretary of State that his Majesty's Government could not say what reply, if any, would be made to the Pope's peace proposals, as his Majesty's Government had not had time to consult their Allies; and in any case it appeared to be hopeless to try to bring the belligerents into agreement until the Central Powers had given some indication of the objects for which they were prosecuting the war. Cardinal Gasparry, in his answer, narrowed the issue by stating that the German Government had declared their intention to restore independence to Belgium, pointing to the Reichstag resolution in favour of peace without annexations.

Count de Salis (British Minister to the Vatican) observed that his Majesty's Government had no authoritative text of this document and that it was not satisfactory, as the decision did not rest with the Reichstag. On August 24 the Cardinal asked that the following reply should be sent to the message from his Majesty's Government:—

"The Cardinal Secretary of State reserves to himself to answer the telegram after having received from the German Government an official declaration relative to Belgium, for which he has asked."

The Cardinal asked Count de Salis for his opinion on this reply, and the latter, thinking that there would be no objection to his expressing a personal opinion, stated that a declaration regarding Belgium seemed desirable, as the point was important, especially for Great Britain, but that the Cardinal would remember that it was only one of many issues between the belligerents.

On receiving Count de Salis's report of this conversation, his Majesty's Government thought that it was undesirable to be drawn into a piecemeal discussion of this question, and that, if the Central Powers wished to negotiate, they should state their terms in full. Count de Salis was, therefore, instructed not to intervene in any way in the negotiations between the Vatican and Germany, and that if he were again asked for his opinion he should decline to give it. The matter then dropped, as the German Government made no declaration regarding Belgium.

It is thus clear that his Majesty's Government made no advance towards Germany at this time, but they were of course ready to examine, in conjunction with the Allies, any genuine proposals tending to peace which they might receive from the German Government.

STRIKE TYRANNY.

At the North London Police court a demobilized soldier with six children asked stay of an ejectment order as he could not get other accommodation. In telling him that he could not, Mr. Symmons said that Demos held sway, and under his tyranny everything seemed to stop at will.

"He will not let you have bricks, so the housing shortage is acute. He will not let you have bread, so you can go hungry. He will not let you travel, so holidays have to be abandoned. He will not let you have cloth and leather, so you can go without clothing and boots. He will not let you have coal, so the life's blood of the country's industry is stopped.

"This is the result of the tyranny of the comparative few," added his worship, "and so long as you working men sympathize with those who go on strike it will continue."

Eventually the magistrate granted a summons calling upon the landlord to show cause why the order should not be varied.

RIOT INSURANCES.

A large number of insurances have been effected day at Lloyd's to cover merchants and all owners of property in London and large manufacturing towns and ports, against loss or damage to their property such as occurred last week at Liverpool, especially such property as food. The rates vary from 3s to 6s. These rates do not apply to Ireland, for which special terms are quoted.

HOME SERVICE MEDAL.

Mr. Churchill in Parliament yesterday said the question whether a medal would be issued for home service has not yet been settled, but in any case the ribbon would be a distinct one.

An Army Council Instruction states that the sum of £7 10s. (which can be refunded by the Ministry of Pensions) is now allowed in respect of the expenses of a civil funeral for a discharged soldier whose death was attributable to a disability due to or aggravated by service during the present war

COAL STRIKE.

YORKSHIRE UNION FUNDS RUNNING OUT.

To-day the third weekly instalment of strike pay will be disbursed, and as apparently a settlement of the trouble is as far off as ever, some anxiety prevails in the strike areas as to how long the unions can stand the heavy drain on their resources. At Birksworth Colliery, already, it is significant that other resources are being tapped. They have what is known as a "Death Fund," with a credit balance of £3,000, and this, it has been decided, shall now be utilised for augmenting the union strike pay. As there are nearly 2,000 miners to participate, this money can only slightly ease the situation for a very short time. In other districts the strikers and their families are learning at first hand the inconvenient effects of their actions. In the urban district of Wombwell, for instance, where the population of 30,000 is made up principally of miners and their families, notice is given that until supplies of coal are available, gas will be cut off daily after 11.30 a.m.

CIVIL AVIATION STAFF.

SALARIES OF OFFICERS.

General Seely, in a written reply to Mr. Johnson-Hicks says the following members of the staff of the Civil Aviation Department are being paid the civil rates shown:—

Major-General Sir F. H. Sykes.—£2,000, plus £500 retired pay.

Major-General E. D. Swinton.—£1,800, less 10 per cent. deduction on account of pension.

Lieutenant-Colonel W.O. Raikes.—£1,000.

Mr. G. B. Cockburn.—£800.

Mr. J. N. Pearson.—£280, plus bonus.

Other gentlemen are serving in the Civil Aviation Department as officers and these are in receipt of staff rates of pay or pay and allowances of their rank. Letters offering civil appointments in those cases agreed by the Treasury have been sent.

TRANSPORT OF TROOPS.

The War Office announces that from the beginning of the war to June 30 last 5,680,078 officers and other ranks were conveyed in transports on other than cross-Channel voyages. This total comprised 250,635 officers, 3,763,437 British troops, and 1,666,006 native troops. The largest number carried in any one period of six months was 27,714 officers, 726,054 British troops, and 113,391 native troops from January to June, 1916.

The number of animals transported on other than cross-Channel voyages during the same period was 631,723.

COST OF THE WORLD WAR.

Official estimates of the cost of the world war made by officials of the State Department attached to the Peace Conference before the United States Senate Committee place it as between 200 and 250 billion dollars (£40,000,000,000 and £50,000,000,000), of which Great Britain has spent 50 billions (£10,000,000,000). This does not include the value of the property destroyed during the war.

CAPT. FRYATT'S SHIP RAISED.

The British Admiralty has refloated the steamer Brussels at Zeebrugge.

After capturing Captain Fryatt and his ship, the Brussels, on her way from England to Holland, the Germans took her to Zeebrugge. There they kept her until compelled to evacuate the place, when they sank her in the harbour.

PRINCE LOSES ESTATES.

News from Zurich states that the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha having refused the indemnification of about fifteen millions of marks which the Diet of the principality offered to him, a law has been voted by a considerable majority ordering the confiscation of the property of the princely crown for the benefit of this little State.

AMMONIA CAUSES PANIC.

A wild panic was caused on Saturday night in Hildreth-street, Balham, a busy shopping centre, by the bursting of a pipe leading to an ammonia tank at the premises of a local shopkeeper. The explosion was followed by clouds of smoke, and people with tears in their eyes fled in all directions. There were no casualties, but one horse was overcome by the fumes and collapsed.

GERMAN'S DETERMINED SUICIDE.

A German named Harry Poincilet, aged twenty-eight, lately residing at St. John's Wood, threw himself over Beachy Head on Monday night.

The body lodged on a projecting rock half way down, and was recovered by coastguards.

Letters found on the body showed that Poincilet had suffered from depression and that he contemplated suicide.

An urgent message has been despatched to Mr. Arthur Henderson at Lucerne asking him to return immediately to London.

NORTH RUSSIA.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION ON LAKE ONEGA.

The War Office issued the following statement last night:—

General Maynard reports that a successful raid was carried out on August 2 by combined forces of land, sea, and air, with the object of striking a surprise blow at the enemy's lake flotilla on Lake Onega, and of capturing the port of Talvuiski, 40 miles south-east of Medvyejya Gora (which is at the north-west corner of the lake).

The operation proved entirely successful. Two of the enemy's steamers were captured in good condition and a third was run ashore. Talvuiski was captured and 20 prisoners, including two officers, were taken. The captured ships were armed with 3in. guns and many Colt guns.

The newly-formed Russian flotilla co-operated with the British flotilla in this operation.

There is no news of any operations on the Archangel front.

FIZZLING OUT.

DELIBERATE STRIKE CONSPIRACY.

The police strike has practically fizzled out and that of the railwaymen in sympathy is collapsing. The Executive of the National Union of Railwaymen met yesterday and after a two hours session issued a statement to the effect that having discussed the whole situation in connection with the police dispute, also the request from certain branches in different parts of the country to recommend an immediate stoppage in support thereof, they had decided that the Committee could not undertake any responsibility for sanctioning a strike on this matter and urging any members now striking to return to work immediately.

Dealing with the situation in Parliament yesterday afternoon, the Home Secretary said the Government is aware that certain persons had attempted to bring about a complete stoppage of work and hand over the country to the criminal classes. They were far from being irresponsible persons. Fortunately their plans had failed. The Government was prepared to render every assistance to local authorities in the matter.

REPATRIATING NEGROES.

The 1,200 blacks who have been interned at Liverpool and in other parts of the country since June are still awaiting repatriation.

It will be remembered that, owing to the recent racial riots at Cardiff and Liverpool, the blacks had to be interned for their own safety.

Repatriation officers in every port throughout the country, are making arrangements to send all coloured aliens back to their native lands as soon as boats are available. Coloured men who are British subjects cannot be sent out of the country against their will.

SALVATION ARMY IN GERMANY.

General Booth has appointed Commander John Ogrin to take charge of the Salvation Army's operations in Germany, in place of Lieut.-Colonel Carl Treite, who has received a long furlough after the great strain caused by the war.

WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

The National War Savings Committee notify that the number of War Savings Certificates sold during the week ended July 26 was 2,199,385, bringing the total to that date up to 343,227,219.

Three hundred and sixty-nine new War Savings Associations were formed during the month ended July 31.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S SILENCE.

Senator Lodge announced on Tuesday that President Wilson had refused to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to give personal explanations regarding certain features of the Peace Treaty, despite repeated invitations.

He added that the President had not sent any documents bearing on the Treaty for the consideration of the Committee.

FINSBURY PARK MURDER.

In connection with the murder of Lucy Nightingale at Prah-road, Finsbury Park, the police in their quest for "Harry," mentioned as having been a visitor to the house, have detained a man at Limehouse pending inquiries. Henry Ball, retired butcher, the occupier of the house, is in custody, charged with being an accessory after the fact.

SKELETON CRIME.

At the adjourned inquest on Connie Grant, whose skeleton was found under the floor of a house in Kilburn, a verdict of manslaughter through neglect was returned against William Grant and Alice White.

DO SOMETHING!

Have we in our admiration for our heroes of war forgotten our heroes of peace? Possibly we have. Peace, remember, hath her victories no less renowned than war; someone must therefore win them.

More often than not there stands in the front rank of public esteem an individual. Usually the popular peace hero is the soul of endeavour in some enterprise requiring just those forceful attributes he alone possesses.

For the man having as his motto—"Do Something," the moment always comes; he never loses the opportunities each moment brings, and always out of the complexities of human affairs he sees a need arise while yet it lies upon the horizon unseen by others.

A short time ago two valiant Britishers achieved the most wonderful voyage on record; they crossed the Atlantic Ocean by air in one unbroken flight, and this pioneering of the bird-path was in the interest of future pilots who out of the East will rise and carry to the West our messages and merchandise of peace. Both were heroes in the truest sense and deserved the enthusiastic welcome accorded.

At the present time there is an unprecedented demand for men of action. The world is in chaos and confusion. Who will stand forth as the great reconstructor?

Peace is lethargic; the war has proved it a sluggard requiring constant revolutions to bestir it. Complacency is the enemy of the really living, and equanimity the devil to progress.

The man with "Do Something" as his motto is never content; always he sees a Jacob's ladder before him and climbing sees not the topmost rung. It is well, for men will ever crave in their ambition for the highest.

So we go on, but it is the steady hearts and hands of our "Do Something" men which keep us on the track.

"Do Something!" These words were once uttered in his military career by one of our noblest heroes of peace, Captain Oates of Antarctic fame, that true and very gallant English gentleman.

Never did a hero do more or with such purpose. He was a man with the world at his feet yet he preferred to go out, and going, wrote the noblest page in his life's history. Opportunity may not come to us every day and we may never win immortal fame, but we can make the effort when we can. Do Something

MY NEW FRIEND.

Everyone could see, the first time he was noticed in our midst, that he would soon be favourite with all. He carried himself so well, never hanging behind, but always keeping in the front.

His contempt for class distinction was another thing in his favour, he gave the humble "Tommy" the same privilege of his company as the wearer of the "Sam Browne" belt received.

I looked at him from a distance, but with secret hopes of becoming one of his firm friends.

A pal, who checked the clothing in the quartermaster's store had confided to me that I would soon have the chance of a personal introduction — just a few more days of anxious longing, of trembling hopes, and I would have realised my ambition of clasping him to my breast.

Once that was attained, I swore that nothing should part us not even the fairest maiden in Cologne; his way should be my way, always.

And the yarns I would tell him, those hours of dread on the Somme, when each night's arrival set you wondering whether you would see another dawn. I can almost imagine him saying "Now, you have your reward, I shall remain with you; whoever fails you I will be true" He must also hear of those glimpses of heaven, when with that small green pass in my hand, I entrained for the coast. I shall say nothing about the French trains for fear he has sympathetic leanings towards France. The first time I went out with him, I decided I should honour him by wearing my new tunic, the one which I had reserved for my coming leave.

It would be worth it, just to see the the envious eyes that followed us down the Hohe Strasse.

The only thing that worries me is, how will he get on with my old pal. I feel rather afraid there will be trouble, at having to share me with another. Anyhow I shall place them close together and may be after a few days of close proximity they will become firm friends.

I feel almost sorry for some of the "young uns," whom he cannot become acquainted with, just a few months and he would have been theirs for life. At last, the day arrives; he is coming today, see what a reception he gets, everyone bustling about, now on one breast, now on another, and then our eyes met, how gladly I greeted him, and as he lay upon my breast, I thought how well my General Service ribbon looked alongside the 1915 one.

MY DREAMS.

It was a warm afternoon, one of those drowsy afternoons when one feels too languid to do anything except doze. After an unusually heavy dinner I made my way to the Orderly Room.

I leaned back in the C.O's chair, feeling more drowsy than ever. I closed my eyes and wondered if I should get another leave, wondered when I should be demobilized, wondered if—

Suddenly I found myself back in my old office in Cheapside, shaking hands with my chief and the other fellows. "Well," said my chief, after a few words of greeting, "I suppose you may as well resume your old duties. Here's a batch of letters you can answer. Just send the usual replies."

I took the papers he held out and sat down in my old place. Feeling there was something missing. I looked round the office and found some old cardboard box lids which I labelled respectively "In," "Out," "For Signature" and "Pending." Then I felt I could make a start.

The first two letters I read through were on subjects which were quite new to me; they went into the "Pending" file. The next thing I came to was a big batch of invoices made out in rupees and annas.

Vaguely recollecting that these had to be transcribed into English currency, but without having the faintest remembrance as to how it was done, I murmured "These will have to be sent away somewhere; the further the better."

I reached for a sheet of the firm's letter-paper, and tearing off a piece which looked like a camouflaged battleship, wrote on it the address of our agents in Australia and "Passed to you, please." "It will be at least three months before they come back," I thought, "and in any case they're a lower formation so they won't be able to strafe us."

As I tossed it into the "Signature" tray I pulled out my cigarette case and lit a Kingfisher. A cough and a surprised "I say, old man" from a colleague reminded me that smoking was verboten in the office, so I hastily extinguished my cigarette and resumed my perusal of the correspondence.

After several more letters had gone into the "Pending" tray I came to an enquiry which appeared quite straightforward, so decided to attempt a reply. The printed heading to the letter-paper rather upset me, but I managed to write a satisfactory answer. True, I omitted "Dear Sir" and "Yours faithfully," but this was soon amended.

Then the telephone bell rang. My reply to "Who's speaking please?" I hurriedly corrected from "Orderly Room, 6th—" to "John Baxter and Co." The next few words I failed to hear, so asked the speaker to "Shake up." Once more "Who's that speaking?" and I yelled "John Baxter, beer, ack, x, tok, e, r." I heard a murmur about "I must be on to Colney Hatch," and found myself cut off.

Again I settled down to my letters. I administered a gentle snub to a complaining customer by starting "Reference your letter (unnumbered) of the 11th inst.", and then came to a note from a traveller asking for permission to remain in Glasgow for another week. I turned it over and wrote on the back, "Reference reverse. No."

I had by now several letters ready for signature so took them in to my chief's sanctum. A few minutes later he called me into his room. His face was very red, and he said things. I won't repeat his words, but I felt sure that he must have been in the Army at some time or other.

Then the telephone bell at my elbow rang again. I rubbed my eyes as I answered it and gave a negative reply to the C.O's enquiry whether any stuff had come in.

I settled myself in the armchair once more, had a good stretch, and then reached for the file labelled "Re-engagements for 2, 3 and 4 years."

"I wonder if one can still sign on," I thought. "After all ....."

ORDERLY ROOM SERGEANT.

WHAT DO YOU WANT?

It has been said that what a man wants he can get if he wants it enough, and wills to get it.

As a general proposition this is true, even of individuals. Deliberate continuous concentration on any reasonably attainable purpose usually succeeds. The trouble with most of us is that we wish instead of will one, that we dissipate our energies and attention in various digressions and side-issues instead of concentrating and persevering; and then we grumble at our non-attainment of the desired goal.

As a law governing communities it is undeniable unless the common desire and intent clash with the general sentiment and instinct of humanity. Then you are against the eternal verities; and disaster is inevitable. (The ruin of Germany, prepared and organized effort to dominate the world by aggressive, unsympathetic force is the latest and most convincing evidence of this).

The form of Government, the ideals of society, the manner of life, the objects of public action which are really wanted earnestly desired, by a nation—these and these only it will have. Hindrances there may be, false trails, mistaken attempts; but the will of a community is as sure of securing its end as is the law of gravity to bring down, eventually, a weight upheld by a resisting arm.

What them do we want? What does our country really desire as the form of its future? To-day our nation is a fluid, a saturated solution which like all saturated solutions will presently crystallise. The form that crystals will take is determined by the ingredients in the solution, by their relative quantities, by their powers of mutual assistance in the creation of this or that shape. Your mind and mine, those of our friends and acquaintances, are atoms in those ingredients, each influencing the future forms directing even now the shapes of the coming crystallization.

Then let us make up our minds, clearly, impartially and with knowledge what it is that we, as part of the nation, shall will into being.

With knowledge: that is the first step. Our judgments are our own, and not to be lent to another. Slavery of mind is more ignoble than slavery of body. Therefore, first of all we must examine the truth or falsity of contradictory assertions, we must be on our guard against plausible superficialities. Better is delay in the interests of further knowledge leading to right action, than ignorant haste towards a remedy that may be worse than the disease.

Here history — the story of man's experiments and their results — is the foundation of our study. The most recent history, too, is illuminating. Whither has the policy of an arrogant autocracy and an intensive national materialism carried Germany? Into how profound and hideous a gulf has the insanity of unbridled Bolshevism plunged ruined Russia! Those danger posts, at least, are too freshly painted with the red of blood and the black of disaster for any eyes to miss them.

But this does not mean that we are to stand still; only that we must examine wisely and choose deliberately our future path. Changes come rapidly to-day; therefore, it is every man's duty to avoid putting off his share in the national will-power, and to lose no time in making up his part of the national mind, unfluenced by aught except proven truth and reasoned prudence; insisting, for his self-respect's sake, on hearing both sides of every question before forming his own decision.

There are two sets of verdicts for each to give:—

(i) What are the real pressing needs of the country as a whole and in main details? And what are the best methods to meet those needs in a permanent and advantageous fashion? For such must be found and at once.

(ii) What that has proved worthy and valuable in the past shall we decide to retain at all costs? Jettison what you know to be useless and unworthy: but remember that it is a thousandfold easier to throw things over-board than to recover them when they have sunk. Things which are on board had a reason for being shipped. That need may recur.

And throughout let us aim not alone at material prosperity (though it will take much time and hard, wisely-directed work to get back even to that). Life contains other things—art, taste, health, enjoyment, character, appreciation, happiness — these are more than goods and cash. "I am come", said the greatest and noblest of teachers, "that they may have life, and that they may have it more abundantly". We can seek no better ideal than that.

But remember; the times are big with fate: you and I cannot refuse the duty and the privilege of our part in the future of that fate — ours and our children's. We must examine and decide, will the best and attain it.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

CALVARIES AS MEMORIALS.

Sir,—I have been very much interested in the views put forward by some of your correspondents reference the erection of monuments, Calvaries, etc., as reminders of the awful carnage that has blotted the face of the world during the past five years.

To my way of thinking there has not been a single really good suggestion put forward, good in the sense that whatever is erected shall be a permanent memorial of some material benefit to the community at large — who, when all is done and said, will be expected to pay for such memorials whether of practical or impractical purpose.

There is a vast hue and cry throughout the country for houses, about unemployment, of the enormous cost of everything.

Why then, to use a North Country expression, "throw good money down the beck", in erecting such useless memorials as Calvaries and monuments, when equally permanent and vastly more serviceable memorials in the form of houses can be built with the money.

A terrace of useful, up-to-date workingmen's cottages can be called "Victory Terrace" or some other name, have a small tablet in a prominent position on one of the front walls (and which of those lads who have given all for the sake of those they loved would ask for more), and at one and the same time, three objects are achieved— a memorial, reduction of unemployment and more houses.

GERMAN BOXERS.

Sir,—We have recently visited many German places of amusement, especially the Kristal Palast, at Cologne. For a few nights in sucession, we saw the German Boxers, known as champions of the German Fleet, Army, etc. Two contests took place each night. We are now wondering if there would be any chance of British Tommies, having some fixtures with the German Boxers, in the near future.

BRITISH BOXERS.

CIVILIAN TEACHERS.

Sir,—Why should not civilian teachers in the Rhine Army have uniforms? The fact is being in civilian attire places us teachers in awkward positions at all times.

Do we enter a Canteen, a Y.M.C.A. or a military club we are an object of curiosity, in fact we can hardly get served. In a tramcar we have to show our pass. Some shops take off the luxury tax to soldiers, but we seldom get the benefit. Nobody seems to know who or what we are. I, for one, have been taken for an Interpreter, a Secret Service Agent, a museum attendant, a special constable and a commercial traveller.

According to instructions (section 176/9 of the Army Act) we are soldiers and are liable to Court Martial. We have the status of officers, so why not have the dress as well, with suitable modifications to avoid confusion or jealousy?

I may add that a good many of us are ex-soldiers and ex-officers, some with medals and wound stripes.

A. B. C.

CIVILIAN MUNIFICENCE.

Sir,—As an example of unparalleled munificence that would stagger even a Carnegie the following stands alone.

A member of H. M. forces, wishing to return to his old employers, one of the biggest banking concerns in the British Isles, is informed that they are prepared to offer him the princely salary of £55 per annum with a temporary bonus which terminates in November, of £30!

They seem to have hit on the only solution of the present labour situation — that of starving the worker into submission.

POOR BANK CLERK.

A RACE MEETING PLAINT.

Sir,—With reference to the catering by the E. F. C. on the Cologne Race-Course, would it be possible for alterations to be made regarding the canteen in the 5-Mark enclosure? A private who wishes to buy certain refreshments is refused, and meets with the reply "W. O's. & N.C.Os. only." This canteen is twice as large as the one in the 3-Mark ring.

In view of the preponderance of privates in this enclosure, this state of affairs obviously recommends itself for adjustment by the managing committee.

PRIVATE.

CINEMAS CRITICISED.

Sir,—May I lodge a complaint re the Cinema programmes? The E. F. C. Cinema Supply has certainly earned the gratitude of Tommies by helping them pass many weary hours away during the war, but why do they keep re-showing the same old films again and again?

Even in Cologne, frequently the same programmes re-appear in one of the three cinemas. Surely there are plenty of films in Blighty to replace the old ones? Can one wonder that the Tommies patronise the German shows?

ANXIOUS.

"FOR HOME."

I know a place —
There's none so fair
In all the world
That can compare,
With Home.

I had a pal
He's not here now, —
"Gone West" out yon.
Whisp'ring me low,
Of Home.

In days to come
When we're all old,
And deeds men did
"Out there," are told
At Home:—
Let's breathe a prayer for absent pals,
"The Glorious Dead."

1 Mile Relay.—1, W Coy.; 2. X Coy.; 3, Y Coy.

2 Furlong Mule Scurry (for Transport only):—1, Pte. Burgin; 2, Pte. Crassell; 3, Pte. Terry.

In the Rhine Army Relay Race, the 52nd Bedfords had exceedingly bad luck in handing over flags, otherwise they were well in the running. In connection with the inter-Company Challenge Cup the aggregate of points were as follows:—W Coy. 32; X Coy. 22; Y Coy. 13.

The Mile scratch race produced some excellent running by Lieut. Castle, X Coy., who after leading all the way, finished up with a sprint and won by 50 yards. At the conclusion of the sports, Brigadier-General H. W. Higgins, C.B., D.S.O., presented the prizes.

During the afternoon the battalion orchestra under the direction of R. S. M. Blake rendered some excellent music.

ENGLAND FIRST.

There was a great assemblage at Stamford Bridge on Tuesday on the occasion of the Molinari Meeting. Much interest centred in the series of five races, 100 yards, 300 yards, halfmile, mile, and three miles, in which England was first, Australia second, and France third, single points only dividing them.

G. M. Butler ran splendidly for England in the 300 yards and H. F. Thomas in the mile, but the best form was shown by Guillemot, France, in three miles.

Two distance races were decided over the same course, about 13 miles, as a marathon, W. Heber, Surrey A.C. and R.A.F. winning the former, a walk, in 2 hours 8 min. 29 secs. and Djibelia the latter in 1 hour 20 min. 57 secs.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Friday, August 8, 1919.

Surface wind Northwesterly 5—10 M. P. h. Generally cloudy but fairer at times. Visibility fair. Rather warm in the day.

A FAMOUS HORSE.

Brown Gelding's Notable Record On Western Front.

REFUSED TO GO SICK.

For the Aldershot Show which is to be held on Aug. 13 and 14 there is a good entry in the class for military horses that have seen War Service Overseas, some of the competitors having more than four years' war work behind them. Many of these horses have wonderful records, and mention may be made of "B 30," who is a brown gelding.

His Army service began in 1912, when he was purchased by Colonel D. E. Wood, C.B., of the Remount Department, and issued as a troop horse to the 5th Dragoon Guards. He took part in the International Horse Show long distance ride (from London to Aldershot) in 1914, and proceeded to France in the fateful August of that tragic year. He was at Mons, took part in the Great Retreat, and was in every action in which the cavalry was engaged, including the Battles of the Marne, Aisne, Ypres, Loos, the Somme, Cambrai, and Arras. He is also said to have been the first horse to jump the Hindenburg Line, in full marching order, after the infantry had broken through. Although wounded on several occasions he never went into the sick lines, and was never "excused duty." B 30 took the first prize for light-weight chargers at the First Cavalry Brigade Horse Show in Flanders, 1915, and first prize in a similar class at the Dieppe Horse Show in 1918; he came back to England in April, 1919. The horse was ridden throughout the war by Lieut.-Colonel W. Q. Winwood, C.M.G., D.S.O., O.B.E., commanding the 5th Dragoon Guards, in whose name he is entered at the Aldershot Show. It is interesting to know that this veteran horse was looked after throughout the war by the same groom, Private Glare, 5th Dragoon Guards.

SPORTS AT NOTHBERG.

111 Siege Battery R.G.A. Successful Meeting.

Everybody connected with the 111th Siege Battery R.G.A. stationed at Nothberg, near Düren, allowed their thoughts to deviate on Monday from the ubiquitious question of demobilization and the ordinary routine of the unit's work to far lighter channels, the occasion being the battery sports. A strong and varied programme had been arranged by a committee under the presidency of the Officer Commanding, Major S. L. Mchatt, D.S.O., M.C., who is always willing to use his best endeavours in the cultivation of sport. All ranks showed the keenest possible enthusiasm, and consequently the day was highly successful. Bdr. Barker exhibited amazing prowess in throwing the cricket ball, the distance being 105 yards 2 ft. 4 ins., whilst in the mile flat race Gnr. Hirst ran exceptionally well, and finished first with ease.

Results.

The results were as follows:—

100 yards flat race:—1, Bdr. Marsh; 2, Gnr. Leslie; 3, Bdr. Fowler.

Long jump:—1, Bdr. Barker (16 ft. 3 1/8 ins.); 2, Bdr. Fowler; 3, Gnr. Le Bo.

¼ mile flat race;—1, Gnr. Geeson; 2, Gnr. Taylor; 3, Sig. Trotman.

Throwing the cricket ball:—1, Bdr. Barker; 2, Gnr Dean; 3, Gnr. Smith.

One mile flat race:—1, Gnr. Hirst; 2, Gnr. Allwood; 3, Gnr. Taylor.

½ mile:—1, Gnr. Geeson; 2, Gnr. Taylor; 3, Sig. Trotman.

Throwing the hammer:—1, B.S.M. Conby; 2, Gnr. Dean.

Tug-of-war:—B sub section, (coach Sgt. Murphy), beat A sub section, (coach B.S.M. Conby), after a good pull.

Dribbling football:—1, Gnr. Leslie.

Egg and spoon race:—1, Gnr. Taylor; 2, Gnr. Geeson; 3, Cpl. Harris.

Blindfold race:—1, Sgt. Bicknell and Pte. Gardner R.A.S.C.

Boot race:—1, Gnr. Evans; 2, Gnr. Clark; 3, Gnr. Watson.

Three legged race:—1, Sgt. Bicknell and Pte. Gardner (R.A.S.C.).

V.C. race:—1, Cpl. Eccott; 2, Gnr. Hirst.

Potato race:—1, Gnr. Evans; 2, Gnr. Gardner; 3, Gnr. Geeson.

Sack race: 1, Sgt. Bicknell; 2, Gnr. Gardner; 3, Sig. Trotman.

Obstacle race:—1, Sgt. Bicknell; 2, Sig. Trotman; 3, Gnr. Peters.

Tilting the bucket:—1, Br. Croft and Bdr. Shilton.

Wheelbarrow race:—1, S/Sgt. Arfman and Sgt. Davis.

Pillow fight:—1, Cpl. Eccott; 2, Gnr. Geeson.

A very enjoyable day culminated with a show given by the talented concert party "The Recuperators," in which they maintained their splendid reputation as the Dispersers of Dullness. The prizes were distributed by Major Mc Watt.

Midland Div. Sports Week.

Römerhof Race-course, from 11th to 16th August (both days inclusive) will be the venue of what promises to be an excellent sports week on the part of the Midland Division. Among the events are polo, boxing, cricket, gymknana, athletics, and sports. The events open to the British Army of the Rhine include a polo pony scurry, officers half-section tent pegging, and 220 yds. and 1 mile races.

Monteith 14, while for the losers Lieut. Benson played well for 40 and Spr. Head made 22. Lieut. Monteith took 4 wickets for 13 runs and Spr. Dunning also bowled well, taking 5 wickets for 23 runs.

ALLIES SPORTS LEAGUE.

No Records Broken After Strenuous Attempts.

The Peace Meeting of the Allies Sports League was brought to a close at Herne Hill on Tuesday. In the cycle races T. Hall, motor-paced by S. B. White, made three attempts to establish records but in no case was the record broken. The time for the flying mile was 1 minute 36 2/5 secs.; for the standing start two miles, 3 min. 29 1/5 secs., standing, five miles, 6 min. 20 secs.

Is this the Record?

A correspondent who has recently returned from a long sojourn in the East writes to the "Daily Express" to claim a record for a certain course of the Sepoy Lines Golf Club in Singapore. He says:—

"The course has four holes.

"The start is at the maternity hospital.

"The course then runs to the gaol, then to the inebriates' home, and winds up at the insane asylum.

"The bunkers and hazards are Chinese graves."

If it is not a record, it reads like one.

ARMY FOOTBALL CUP.

Proposed Alterations in the Rules Defeated.

FIXTURE LIST.

The largest-attended annual meeting of the Army Football Association since its inception in 1888 was held at the Union Jack Club on Wednesday. General Newenham presiding, supported by Lieut.-General Sir Victor Cooper, Col. R. McCalmont, and Brig.-General Kentish, the hon. secretary. The accounts showed the Association to be in a most flourishing condition, there being a credit balance in the hands of the treasurer of £2,179. Owing to the formation of the Royal Navy F.A., the Royal Marines naturally withdrew their entries from the Army Cup, as they are now affiliated to the new Association.

It was decided to run a series of Army matches, and arrangements with the following clubs have already been made: Oct. 23, v. Cambridge University (a); Nov. 15, v. R.M.C., Sandhurst (a); Nov. 22, v. Oxford University (a); Dec. 27, v. Corinthians (h); Feb. 11, v. R.M.A., Woolwich (a); Feb. 14, v. Corinthians (a). Other opponents to be met are the Royal Navy F.A. and the Royal Air Force F.A., Vivian J. Woodward's XI., Swindon and probably Chelsea and Queen's Park (Glasgow). The home games are to be played at Aldershot. Capt. F. Martin, of the Grenadier Guards, who for many years was hon. sec. of the Household Brigade Cup, will be in charge of the Army team.

Army Cup Ties.

The following are the dates for the Army Cup ties: First round, Nov. 15; second round, Dec. 13; third round, Jan 31; fourth round, Feb 21; fifth round, March 6; semi-final s, March 20 final, April 5. The following new vice presidents were elected: Major-Gen. Sir H. C. Lowthe; Major-Gen. Sir R. Ford, and Major-Gen. Sir H. Harington.

There was considerable discussion over one proposition. It arose over a resolution submitted by the Aldershot Command that a committee, composed of three members of the council and two members from each of the eight commands be appointed "to draw up a report on the changes, if any, that are necessary in the rules of the association and rules of the challenge cup competition."

A controversy has been going on for some time over the methods of organising the Army Cup competition, and the resolution submitted had for its object the "radical change" of holding eliminating competitions in each command until the winning unit team was discovered.

Strong speeches were made for and against the proposal, which on a vote in a crowded assembly was lost, the necessary two-thirds majority not being secured.

The home team started their innings badly but made amends, Pte Cunnington (22), Pte. Moorhouse (24), Sergt. Walker (21 not out) contributing to the creditable total of 100 runs.

120 PICKED RUNNERS.

Southern Division Championship Cross Country Run.

The cross country run for the championship of the Southern Division took place recently at Odenthal under arrangements made by the 1st Southern Infantry Brigade, the 3rd Southern Infantry Brigade being responsible for the general organization. The conditions were that the teams nominated by competing units should consist of 20, the first 15 to finish counting for their side. Each battalion in the Division and the 29th Battalion M.G.C. entered a team and on the day of the race there were ten teams comprising 120 picked runners at the starting point.

The course lay for the most part through woods, and was about 4 miles long.

There was a keen contest for the first place, which was won by Pte. Orr of the 29th M.G.C., a runner who has achieved many successes in various long distance events. In the team race the 15th Hampshire Regiment ran strongly, and kept well together. Their last representative finished 35th, and they won by a large margin of points. An equally wide margin separated the 51st Hampshire team, who ran second, from the team of the 15th Devon Regt., who where third. The 3rd Southern Infantry Brigade team secured both the first and second places in the team event. The particulars of the winners and the winning teams are as follows:—

Individuals.

1, Pte. Orr, 29th M. G. C.; 2, Lieut. Lumsden, 53rd R. War. R.; 3, Pte. Massey, 52nd R. War. R.

Teams.

1. 15th Hampshire Regt., 278 points.
2. 51st Hampshire Regt., 683 points.
3. 15th Devon Regt., 1,004 points.

Brighton Results.

There are said to be 250,000 visitors at Brighton, and they seemed to be all on the racecourse, or at least on White Hill, overlooking the racing track. The following were the results on Wednesday:—

Sussex Plate:—1, Golly Eyes (4—1); 2, Kashmir (10—1); 3, Golden Quiver (7—1).

Juvenile Selling Plate:—1, Mother Shipton (11—8); 2, Anthony (4—1); 3, Buzzie (7—1).

Brighton Cup:—1, African Star (6—4 on); 2, Wison. Two ran.

Stanmer Obstacle:—1, Lady Randy (5—2); 2, Promoter (7—1); 3, Camp Kettle (100—8).

Berwick Handicap:—1, Neurotic (3—1); 2, Daniel (evens); 3, Latch (20—1).

Rottingdean Plate:—1, Pelops (4—1 on); 2, Cold Steel (20—1); 3, Mariana (8—1).

Apprentices Plate:—1, Mindeat (11—4); 2, Sir Desmond (100—8); 3, Gay Goshawk (3—1).

CAVALRY DIVISION HORSE SHOW.

152 Heavy Battery of the 84th Bde. R.G.A. succeeded in winning the open event for Heavy Artillery at the Cavalry Division Horse Show this week. There was a total of ten entries. The team was the same as that which won the Inter-Allied Competition at Wiesbaden. In winning this event against such a large field of splendid horses and guns, Sergt. Frith as Number 1, his drivers and the limber gunners are to be heartily congratulated. The driving of the team was particulary good, and the turn out of the horses and the gun left nothing to be desired. The appearance of the horses was generally admired by the large crowd.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Grand Concert At The Zoo.

A most interesting "Sommerfest" is promised by the Cologne Society for Dramatic Art at the Zoo on Saturday next, Aug. 9th. The following soloists are to appear:—Gerta Rings of the Elberfelder Opera Minnie Wolter, Kaspar Koch, and Hubert Mertens of the Cologne Opera, and Berthold Pütz of the Düsseldorf Opera. Paul Mania will be the accompanist and Kapellmeister Joseph Itsch will conduct the large orchestra. The performance will commence at 6 p.m. and ordinary subscription tickets for the gardens are suspended. Special tickets cost 5.50 marks each.

"The Dons."

There was a sound of revelry by night at Wahlscheid on Monday when "The Dons" (D Coy, 26th R.F. Concert Party) entertained the officers and men of the 3rd London Infantry Bde T.M.B. The party, which has only been in existence some four weeks, gave a capital show which went with a swing from start to finish. Among the most successful items was a concerted number entitled "Llai," whilst the chief comedian, L/Cpl. Coleman, made a great hit with his three contributions "Flower Song," "The Military Representative," and "My Decorations." 2/Lieut. H.L. Ditchfield and Sergt. O. R. Surita, (who made a most bewitching comedienne) were warmly applauded for their rendering of the duet "If you could care" from the revue "As You Were." The party's future engagements include visits to the 23rd R.F., and the 190th Battery, R.F.A.

Ye Olde Greene Diamondes.

The concert party of the 9th D.L.I., the "Green Diamonds," are experiencing a crescendo of successes. Fresh from their tour in the Light Division, they are now visiting the chief centres in the IX Corps area. On Monday night, at the Casino, Euskirchen, they drew a full house, and if the show was slightly lacking in finish, due possibly to the disintegrating effects of leave, it was well received. On Tuesday night the party played at Kommern and reached the top of their form. The "ladies" were more charming and coquettish than before, and greater attention was paid to gesture and movement. Fresh gags were introduced into Tate's "Motoring," whilst the castle had been overhauled with good effect. New songs were sung and topical patter used, whilst novel features enlivened the burlesque conjuring.

A Pleasant Interlude.

The interval was the occasion for a pleasant interlude, when the Commanding Officer of the 1/5th South Staffords presented medals to the successful competitors in the battalion cross-country running championship. In a short speech the R.S.M. voiced the general regret at the C.O's impending departure, and called for cheers, which were given with great warmth of feeling. The C.O. was too overcome to do more than express his thanks and say "Adieu." After this the programme proceeded more merrily than ever. Special mention might be made of the very pretty tableau in "Oriental Rose," in which Donald Chapman ("Dolly") was a lovely "Rose," not to say "Peach." The tour was continued at Walberberg on Wednesday, when the large concert Hall of the Leicesters was packed with an audience who were well entertained from beginning to end, and who shewed their enthusiastic appreciation by the cordial reception they accorded the artistes in their finale. At the conclusion of their tour, the "Green Diamonds" are visiting the 4th Corps Tattoo Camp for part of next week.

A Youthful Belle.

Donald F. Chapman ("Dolly") of the 9th D.L.I. "Green Diamonds," is the son of a Sheffield solicitor. In civil life he is an engineering draughtsman, and if he "draws" as effectively in the office as he does on the stage, his services are valuable. He has the advantages of a good build and figure, and possesses a a grace and ease of movement and charm of manner that captivate every audience. Feelers have been put forward for his "abduction," but the "Green Diamonds" will not hear of it and "Dolly" remains loyal to his party.

"The Fancies."

"The Fancies" are now back in their usual form after being depleted in numbers by demobilization. They have included first class artistes who have served well with disbanded companies. One of these is Jimmy Greenwood, late of the "Pelicans," who plays "Phyllis" the girl of the company. His main success is in his versatility. Happy as dame comedian, baritone vocalist or straight girl he is notorious for his burlesque characters. One of the "Cranks" company is included in the name of Jack Peters, a dashing light comedian who hails from the London "Palace." The latest addition is Jimmy Watson, a little comedian, who certainly proved his worth. The producer is Pete Davies who has been in this role for the "Fancies" since 1916.

Leave Club's New Time Table.

The following changes in the hours of the British Empire Leave Club are notified:—Monday's Dance 7 to 9.30; Tuesday's Concert Parties 7.30 to 9.15; Wednesday's Dance 7 to 9.30; Thursday's Whist Drive 6.30; Friday's Concerts 7.30 to 9.15; Saturday's Dance 7 to 9.15; Sunday's Concerts 7 to 9.15.

In Few Words.

On Minden Day the Midland Divisional company presented a special programme at Bruhl. The hall was packed and roses were seen in gay profusion.

OLD SCOUTS' CORNER.

Last Saturday, by kind permission of the A.D.L.W.T. the Old Scouts had a very enjoyable trip up the Rhine in a motor launch and all got a good appetite for tea which was partaken of at Lindenthal Y.M.C.A.

On Wednesday the Circle met in the garden at Lindenthal and listened to a very interesting and instructive lecture on elementary map reading by Sgt. Walker.

OLD SCOUT.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Winter Hurdles.

F. Davies, who has been riding with such marked success for Godfrey's stable, will ride over hurdles during the winter.

Carpentier-Beckett Match.

Arrangements have so far progressed that there is every likelihood of the postponed Carpentier-Beckett boxing match taking place during November.

A Greasy Pig.

A woman inmate of Rye Workhouse won £4 by catching a greasy pig at the local Peace Celebration Sports meeting. The Guardians have decided to allow her to spend the money at the rate of 1s. a week.

Champion in Form.

Starting from scratch in the half-mile at Glasgow, A. G. Hill gave the New Zealand athlete, D. L. Mason, 8yds. start, and a 2yds. beating, in the fast time of 1min. 57 4-5sec.—and the running was mostly against the wind.

Too Light Rifles.

All true sportsmen will be glad to note that Major Whelen condemns the use of too light rifles against any sort of game, even the smallest. For instance, he considers the .22 Long Rifle R.F. cartridge as unsurpassed for miniature range work, but quite unfit for any kind of "game" larger than "English sparrows."

Tommy Edge.

Red Flyer, who won at A.P., belongs to Tommy Edge, a well-known sporting journalist. He bought in his horse cheaply at 135 guineas.

An open affair.

The unexpected defeat of Yorkshire, made possible to a large extent by the welcome return of Albert Relf to the Sussex team, leaves the championship an extremely open affair.

"Welshing."

For "welshing" at Hurst Park races Sydney Clarke, 33, described as a tunnelman, of Bevan-street, Islington, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment at Kingston Police Court.

Boxing Move.

Arising out of the easy defeat of "old man" Willard by "boy" Dempsey, a movement has been started in the United States to prohibit boxers of over thirty-five years of age from appearing in public contests for purses.

Youthful Crop.

France is apparently raising a crop of youthful lawn tennis champions. Following in the footsteps of Mlle. Lenglen comes O. Deluze, who is practising at Queen's Club. Much is expected of this young Frenchman, who is said to have a wonderful service, and possesses all the "shots."

And Very Nice Too.

W. A. Pullum, the weight-lifting champion, who has won innumerable gold medals, has had some of his trophies made into a bracelet for his wife.

Kentish Totals.

The reason why Kent takes part in so few unfinished matches is that they don't waste time making unnecessary huge totals. In fact, Kent players have scored only three centuries this season.

"Digger" Evans.

"Digger" Evans, the popular Australian bantam, is being treated by a specialist for blood poisoning brought on by teeth troubles. He will be under treatment for three months, and when restored to health will return to Australia.

Altitude Record.

A New York message states that an American aviator has beaten altitude records by climbing to a height of 30,700f. The thermometer then recorded 25 deg. below zero, and the motor became chilled, forcing the aviator to descend.

The Tyldesley's.

The relationship of the Tyldesleys has confused all supporters of cricket outside Lancashire. J. Tyldesley, the fast bowler, is a brother of W., K., H., and R. Tyldesley, but no relation to the celebrated J. T. and that coming batsman Ernest.

Good Season Wanted.

The Sunderland football team reported for training last week. Sunderland want a good season to make them financially strong again. Their bank balance was nearly nil when the armistice was signed.

Rugbyites Memorial.

The London Scottish Rugby Football Club has decided to place a tablet in St. Columba's Church, Pont-st, as a memorial to its members who fell in action. Of those who lost their lives, forty-four were playing in the four teams on the last Saturday of the season before the war.

The Big Four.

A correspondent of the "Sunday Express" asks the relative importance of the four games—football, cricket, golf, and lawn tennis. Football leads, of course, with cricket a good second. The number of golfers and lawn tennis players is hard to get at, but probably lawn tennis is entitled to third place.

"Golden" Luck.

Goodwood would appear to be a happy hunting ground for horses in whose names the word "Golden" occurs. In the past Golden Rod took two Stewards' Cups, Golden Sun another, and Gold Rioch and Golden Gate also won events. Last week Golden Guinea and Golden Melody were to the

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

A Busy Morning Scene.

We wonder how many troops in Rhineland think of rising very early and taking a stroll to the Heumarkt, to view the Market which is held there. It is a striking picture of activity, and tremendous business is to be seen in full swing. One will find on sale practically all farmers' produce, and a remarkably, large supply too. The whole square in Heumarkt is a hive of bustle and the Markt Halle is crammed with the citizens of Cologne trading with the farmers who come from the surrounding country. One remarkable feature of this early morning scene is the bullock-drawn vehicles which bring the produce to market. But amid all this picturesque bustle it is rare to see a single British soldier as an eye-witness.

The Old Scouts.

We have been asked to give some information about the Rhine Army Old Scouts Circle. The object of the society is to give all Old Scouts opportunities of meeting together for excursions, pow-wows and demonstrations on all sorts of useful and interesting subjects. All who have been Scouts are, we understand, welcome to participate in the fixtures arranged, and every Wednesday evening at 6 p. m. there is a meeting at the Sixth Corps Soldiers' Club Lindenthal, while outings are held every Saturday.

A Rhine Fairy Town.

The military tattoo at Lindenthal a couple of nights ago was a spectacle which will long remain impressed upon the memories of the thousands of civilians, as well as soldiers who witnessed it. Yet effective as that scene was, it is nightly eclipsed by the searchlights stationed along the banks of the Rhine at Godesberg. At nightfall these beams of light sweep the river, throwing up in magnificent relief, the wooded banks and the scattered mansions in the hills opposite. Königswinter every few minutes appears in the circle of light as a veritable fairy town, its houses standing out snow white in a framework of the most translucent green. The sight is such that people from Cologne are making the pilgrimage to Godesberg to witness it.

A Hymn's Effect.

A book could almost be written on the emotions awakened in individuals and large gatherings of people by the well-known hymn "Abide with me," but perhaps the most remarkable and impressive instance of the wonderful power on the old tune was witnessed at the recent military tattoo at Lindenthal. Towards the close of the spectacles, bands played the hymn whilst the soldier taking part bent the knee. Germans know the tune well and with the first chords all voices were hushed in reverence. Then soldiers commenced singing the familiar words whilst the civilians took it up in their tongue. Thus for a few moments "Abide with me" united the sentiments of the two nationalities.

Ware Scotties.

At a fair in Duren there is a set of swing boats largely patronised by British troops. Evidently when the "Kilties" use the boats the native sense of decorum received a shock, and a notice was put up:— "Attention," "Soldiers without breeches have not admittance." Then to crown the humour of the situation two boats at the end of the line were provided with a discreet screen of canvas and labelled: "For Scottish Troops."

Kiddies' "Seasons."

A thing that is very noticeable in Rhineland is the whole hearted way in which the school children make use of the trams. Nearly every small child, from the youngest upwards, is provided with a season ticket on the Tramway between its school and his home, and this is hung round its neck by a string. The children gravely display their seasons to the conductor who as gravely inspects them, and passes on. These tickets also have the name and address of the child written on them and can be used as labels in case the little one gets "mislaid."

That Missing Bell.

A reader signing himself "Ropesend" writes:—The missing bell mentioned in this column weighed twenty-eight tons, and not one ton as stated in the first paragraph. The mere thought of twentyfive men ringing a one-ton bell is absolutely absurd. Further, the bells of Cologne Cathedral have not the same hangings as those in England and it would be impossible for a swung peal to be rung. The peal of which "Bellringer" is a member is a very light one if the tenor only weighs 12½ cwt. The writer, has, before the war, frequently rung a 1½ tons tenor and found no particular difficulty in so doing. The tenor of Exeter Cathedral weighs four tons and was rung, singlehanded through a peal of Steadman, 5040 changes, by Mr. Bertram Prewett. He is the only man who has been allowed to tackle this bell singlehanded through a three hours peal.

An Excusable Error.

The other day when a signaller was engaged as clerk in a totalizator at some regimental sports, he was calling out the numbers and letters of some tickets, using such signal letters as "beer" for B, "Don" for "D," and so on, as these letters occurred. A passer-by, evidently overhearing "six beer" being called, came up and asked "Do you sell drinks here?" "No," replied the sergeant in the totalizator, "this is a tee-totalizator."

Pronunciation Points.

A reader who signs himself "Fastidious" points out that the words "Frau" and "Fräulein" invariably have the initial letter as a capital. With regard to pronunciation he adds that "Fräulein" is pronounced as if it were spelt "Froyline." One hears very often "Frawleen"—a most hideous sound. "Frau" is pronounced "Frow" (like "ow" in "Bow.") To hear it miscalled "Fraw" reminds one of the word "squaw," he remarks.

The Leave Club Library.

The opening of the new Library at the Leave Club is a further proof that Miss Decima Moore has the interests of all tastes at heart. In it there are about 1,500 volumes ranging from the most profound text book on such subjects as higher mathematics, engineering etc. to the latest novel just published. On taking out a book two marks is deposited which amount is refunded on the return of the volume. Miss Murray, the librarian, ably assisted by Miss Richmond, has all the books catalogued in beautiful order and a man has only to walk in and his wants on almost every subject can be supplied. Full use is being made of this great opportunity. Donations both in kind and money have been received from Sir Montague Barlowe M.P., General Sir W. Braithwaite, K.C.B., Judge Granger, Mr. Frederick Browning and Mr. F. Balfour. The Library itself is tastefully decorated with blue and white curtains and book shelves adorn the walls. It is a real pleasure to be able to walk in and select one's volume at leisure with the advice of the fair librarians.

The "Buckshee" side show.

Outside the temporary wooden palisade which was erected round the "American Circus" ground, there was a small wooden hut, where everyone paid entrance money. The hour was 6.30 p. m. and everybody who intended seeing the show was inside. In the ticket office sat a typical keen featured "Sammie," his teeth clenched upon a number of india rubber bands, which hung from his mouth like a row of small tongues. In front of him lay a mass of five mark notes, which he was counting into bundles of a hundred and securing them, one by one, with the elastic bands, with an energy and intensity only equalled by that of the acrobats and cow-boys performing in the ring. To the crowd of open mouthed "Innocents," who surrounded him, the ticket office must have seemed a veritable cave of treasure.

Lesser Echoes.

The boat under the archway at Cologne referred to in a recent "Echo" was sunk in the Naval Engangement at the Bight of Heligoland in August 1914. An inscription on the arch records this fact.

CINEMA ETIQUETTE.

The "big" picture is unfolding its tale at the Army cinema accompanied by a small but efficient orchestra, both greatly appreciated by the khaki audience — to whom, after the exhausting efforts of the day "on the square", on guard, or perhaps in the brain-fatiguing office, this quiet form of amusement proves a welcome respite.

Suddenly, however, we are aware of an exceptionally great personage in our midst — the man who has seen this particular film before!!!

We are in luck; for immediately he recognizes a certain scene in the play he, uninvited, takes up the thread of the story and continues it in a loud voice. Moreover, the action on the screen is much too slow to his idea.

He hastily banishes our uncertainties and describes exultantly the culminating episode upon which the interest in the picture depends. Then he finds it necessary to supply the intermediate incidents for the special benefit of everyone within a twenty-yard radius.

His oratorial ability is splendid!

"Ah, yes, that's right" he begins "Saw it in Blighty when I was on leave."

That he has been on furlough creates an impression.

"See that bloke on the right?" he continues "He's not a footman really; he's a detective."

"He arrests the other chap, and the old girl tries to commit suicide. But they stop 'er! You'll see in a minute."

"But Sweeney — that merchant with the black mustosh — it was 'im wot pinched the di'mond. He gets caught in the end ——!"

And so he goes on, much to the pleasure of his admiring hearers who eagerly divert their eyes from the screen to listen, with breathless wonder, to this phenomenon.

How much better to pay your money simply for a cinematograph entertainment and to be presented with, instead a high grade descriptive lecture by an unselfish elocutionist — a chin-music philanthropist — a philological artist!

But, of course, some individuals can neither recognize not appreciate real art.

There is still another asset to the cinema hall; and this fellow should certainly receive monetary compensation from the management!

This is the gentleman of Padrewskian and Beethovenic tendencies who is not only conversant with every melody discoursed by the orchestra, but is an expert at rhythm! He makes himself felt in both senses of the word!

His modus operandi is simple and peculiar; merely a succession of kicks on the support of the seat in front of him.

He does this to satisfy his aesthetic ear that the musicians are keeping correct time; and his efforts are the source of great gratification to all, and especially to the fortunate man upon whose chair he is operating.

PHOTOGRAPHY.
(XVII).

By Lieut. William R. Patterson, F.R.G.S.

Some of the aspects of photography are most instructive, in that they may teach us much with reference to science which is not always apparent to the naked eye.

On a starlight night you may leave your camera with open lens directed upwards upon the window-sill (outside the window) or upon the roof or the lawn for half-an-hour, more or less, and, in your negative or print, study the direction and distance travelled by the stars as the earth revolves. You will discover, by this experiment, a series of parallel lines, showing the progress, according to the length of exposure, of the celestial bodies. The result is fascinating and leads one to desire to know more.

By the way, sun-spots and eclipses of the sun can be conveniently viewed, without strain to the eyes, by viewing them through two or three old negatives placed together.

Another interesting experiment is that of photographing a drop of water firstly in the act of falling, secondly, as it touches a water-surface, and, thirdly, the commotion and spout that it creates. Most fantastic forms may be thus obtained, and even the beginner may make a discovery. Try also oil, spirit, etc., and compare the pictures, for they all may produce some new result worthy of attention. Then, you may also study, by the same means, the growth of plant life, by leaving your camera in the same position and by taking a series of photographs extending over a period of several days. The camera will give you a far better record than you might obtain by observation.

There is the question, too, of clouds, of such great importance to the science of meteorology and, of course, to aviation. Each kind of cloud has a scientific name, and any photograph of some unique formation will always be welcomed by the Meteorological Office.

Again, there is the subject of photography from aeroplanes, and of pictures of the earth's surface taken by means of kites.

Photographs may be taken, also, many fathoms below the surface of the ocean by submerging one's apparatus and by using arc-lights and an attractive bait. Thus natural history profits. Of course, the camera is enclosed, rendering it impervious to water.

There are, too, most instructive snapshots to be taken illustrating the flight of birds and the relative position of the limbs of animals running at high speed. All these things can teach us something. Let us consider our cameras, then, as scientific instruments!

LOOKING BACKWARD.

More than six months have now elapsed since the memorable day of the signing of the armistice.

Few of us who were privileged to be in at the finish will ever forget that day.

For weeks the ding-dong pushing had gone on for us from Hooge through Courtrai, across the Lys to the Scheldt and across the now famous river by the pontoon that had cost England some of its bravest and best, and now at last the Germans had "thrown in the sponge".

And so one to Oudenarde, a name that brings forth memories of those toughened old warriors of other days. What would they think of it all to see whole nations at war, armies equipped with all the modern implements of destruction, and where the combatants were in their millions?

Now to Waterloo and across ground teeming with history. Quatre Bras. The name itself has some undefinable sound about it suggesting great deeds, more so than the tiny collection of houses now comprising the village. And so on to Germany itself. And now peace.

As one looks around and sees the new faces, one cannot help wondering exactly what has become of the old "boys."

Rough on the surface some of them may have been, but after going through the bad old days together with them one cannot but help thinking of them as jolly good sportsmen.

It needed very little insight to tell the civil occupation of some. That lusty yell of "Ripe tomatoes!" by the squat little driver was not acquired in a day.

I can picture him now "down Camberwell way" proclaiming his wares as he was wont to do during some of those trying times on the Somme and in Italy when the Sergeant Major had been particularly ruffled.

Then there was the tall gunner whose face was burnt the colour of a Red Indian's. Probably the most stoical man I have ever met. He had helped to rout the Germans in German South West, and had come across to lend a further hand. What a grip he gave when he finally went back "repatriated".

Nothing ever seemed to ruffle the even tenor of his way. Come rain, come fine, he "carried on" with that evenness of temper that only those who have roughed it in out of the way spots can command.

Who would think, too that the tall Bombardier had a thriving tobacconist's business in the West End?

His attempts to obtain a commission after joining up in the ranks had somewhat embittered him to the Army, he confided in me. Many and varied were the forms he had filled in without avail, for he finally left us as one "other rank."

And now they are scattered far and wide. May good fortune attend them, for they played the man's part in the Great Adventure.

HORRORS OF KUT.

Court Martial on Half-caste for Cruelty to British Prisoners.

EARL HAIG'S NEW TITLE.

A NIGGER FIEND.

GHASTLY TORTURES OF KUT PRISONERS.

Colonel J. Steele, Coldstream Guards, presided at the resumption of the trial by Court-martial of Class One Assistant Surgeon William Fratel, Indian Medical Department, a Eurasian, and a soldier of his Majesty's Indian Forces The Court-martial was held at the Middlesex Guildhall. Captain Eastwood prosecuted, the Judge Advocate was Mr. Sutherland Graeme, and Fratel was represented by Mr. Herbert S. Baron, solicitor. Fratel was medical officer to a battery of artillery in Kut-el-Amara. After the surrender of Kut to the Turks on April 29, 1916, he accompanied the British prisoners into captivity and the prosecution alleged that from that time onwards he was guilty of cruel conduct towards and neglect of men who came to him for medical treatment in failing to admit them to hospital or taking any steps to alleviate their condition, whereby a number of men died. There are 19 charges against him, and the prosecution suggest that he acted as alleged because he thought the British Army was beaten and that by so acting he would ingratiate himself with the Turks. The case for the prosecution was opened by Captain Eastwood on July 14.

Colonel Brown Mason, A.D.M.S., London District, explained that Fratel, as an assistant surgeon in the Indian Medical Service, was as nearly as possible in the position of a sergeant-major of the R.A.M.C., but having medical trained knowledge made his position a little more responsible.

Lieutenant-Quartermaster Hardy, 2nd. Dorsets, said he was one the Kut prisoners, After the surrender they travelled, partly on foot and partly by rail, to Bagtsche. They started 300 strong and arrived at their destination 140 strong. Fratel on arrival went into the hospital as medical officer. Witness was put in charge of a gang of 139 men, all weak and sick. They worked on the railway from five in the morning till six at night. On July 15th 1916 he sent Corporal Penny, Somerset Light Infantry to hospital in a dying condition. He had to be partly carried by two others. He returned on the following morning without medicine in a state of collapse and died the same morning.

Witness, who kept a diary at the time, added that Pte. Erscott 1,6 Devons, was sent to hospital suffering from dysentry and malaria but, like Penny, was sent back without treatment.

From June 25th to September 6th, when they left Bagtsche, fifty-eight died out of one hundred and thirty-nine.

M.S. Maidment, 2nd Dorsets, said that when the British prisoners left Bagtsche on September 6th they were crowded into railway trucks where there was no accommodation for wounded. Twenty died on the way.

Witness added that accused "evidently had a good job. He lived well in comfortable quarters whereas our men were dressed in cement sacks with holes for the heads and arms. Fratel had his food properly while we had nothing but wheat with water."

Gunner Austin R. F. A., stated that he helped to hospital a soldier named Nebe who was practically dying. Accused said "There is not much the matter with you. Go back to camp and get to work." Nebe said he was unable to walk. Fratel then pushed him with his foot and called him "a white livered——."

Terrible stories of the lot of British prisoners at Kut in April 1916 were told. Gunner S. G. Smith R.F.A., now demobilized, gave a description of a big Arab tent, attached to the hospital where British soldiers were placed. The interior was appallingly filthy and verminous and the men, all suffering from dysentry, were lying about in filth unable to help themselves.

Sergeant B. Trice R.F.A., told of the terrible journey he and Sergeant Bocher had in crawling to the hospital. Bocher was ill with beri-beri and dysentry and it took them over three hours to go a distance of half a mile, both being so weak that they had to rest every yard. Bocher was dropping away and constantly fell on his knees to rest. At the hospital accused saw them and gave them each a dose of medicine, after which they had to drag themselves back to camp where Bocher died the following morning.

Corporal Shoeing Smith Taylor, Ammunition Corps, who is now totally blind, said he took a sergeant named Dye to the hospital in August. The sergeant was delirious and witness laid him down while he went to look for Fratel, whom he found lying in his bunk smoking and reading. He said he would be out in a second but as he had not come out at the end of half an hour Taylor went back and saw accused still lying on his bed. He told witness to be careful or he would get a dose of the "dyak", a raw hide thong with which men were flogged. Sergeant Dye was left lying outside the hospital. Witness took Bocher's body to the deadhouse where he saw several other bodies of Britishers heaped up. Taylor added that he lost his sight in December 1917 while still a prisoner in Turkey.

Bombardier Connor, R.F.A., said he took several sick men to hospital. One named Nichol, was left untended for several hours although Fratel was informed that the man was dying. Connor said that the idea of the Turks and Germans at Bagtsche was to get as much work as possible out of British prisoners whether they were fit or not. If they did not work they were thrashed across the back and on the soles of the feet and were deprived of food.

Gunner Harper, R.F.A., having described the appalling conditions prevailing in the tent known as the "death trap", B. S. M. Letchford, R.F.A., mentioned an occasion when an Armenian doctor visited Bagtsche and divided two quinine pills among twenty sick and told witness that the British medical officer would give more. Fratel said he did not think it right to ask for quinine pills, because it was taking advantage of the goodwill of the Turks.

In cross examination witness said he did not complain to the Armenian doctor that Fratel had not sent any medicine because the Armenian was as much under the Turks as witness was.

Counsel: And wasn't accused?—No. He had a pass to go where he liked.

How do you know that?—Because I could see it. If I went anywhere a soldier with a rifle and bayonet went too. He used to go free. I saw him knocking about with a German nurse.

You were angry with accused?—Yes, and so would you be if you had entered Bagtsche with sixty-eight men and buried forty of them, as i did.

The hearing was adjourned.

MURMANSK SUCCESS.

The following communiqué was issued by the War Office last evening:

G.O.C. Murmansk reports that two successful raids were carried out on August 4. The first, by detachments of the Middlesex and Olonetz Regiments, took place on the railway eight miles south of Kyapeselga, where the enemy was driven out of two successive positions with loss, and a machine-gun was captured. The second, eight miles south-east of Kyapeselga, was carried out by Serbian and Karelian troops, who, besides inflicting casualties on the enemy, captured five prisoners.

With regard to the enemy's ship which was reported in yesterday's communiqué to have been run ashore, General Maynard now reports that she has been refloated by our troops, and has joined the other captured vessels.

A wire from G.O.C. Archangel, states that the military situation is quiet. The Bolshevists hold Onega strongly, but are showing no activity in this neighbourhood.

An American Y.M.C.A. representative who has returned on parole states that all British personnel captured in the mutiny have been well treated, and are at present at Valogda.

CAUSE OF ITALIAN DEBACLE.

The Committee appointed by Signor Nitti, the Prime Minister, to inquire into the circumstances attending the Italian debacle at Caporetto in 1918 finds that the chief causes of the destruction of the morale of the army were Cadorna's system of sacrificing thousands of lives in vain frontal attacks and the brutal measures taken to maintain discipline.

A contributory factor was the total lack of second and third line reserves. Once the enemy had pierced the front line there was nobody to oppose his advance. The report also deals with the strained relations existing between the Government and Cadorna, who at one time actually dreamed of becoming Dictator.

MEA CULPA — FALKENHAYN.

Von Lersner, the German Ambassador to France, has fowarded to the secretariat of the Peace Conference a letter from General von Falkenhayn declaring that he considers himself solely responsible for everything done by the army during the time he was Minister for War and Chief of General Staff.

HAIG OF BEMERSYDE.

Field Marshal Haig has decided to take the title of Earl Haig of Bemersyde. This is the name of a Berwickshire hamlet near Melrose where the head branch of the great soldier's family has been resident from time immemorial.

A SOLDIER SPEAKS.

REFUTATION OF PAID AGITATORS.

A new orator appeared on Tower Hill yesterday, when a soldier spoke the truth in refutation of the lies uttered by the loud mouthed vulgar agitators who preach sedition — at a price.

Sergeant Skilleter, of the Machine Gun Corps, the soldier in question, had been at Tower Hill before as a listener. On that occasion he heard another speaker, who described himself as "an international, social, revolutionary anarchist," make a statement that soldiers had been detailed to do the work of men who had gone on strike at Canterbury.

At his own expense Sergeant Skilleter went to Canterbury to investigate, and at Tower Hill yesterday he told an audience of several hundreds that he had been unable to find any truth in the allegation. He blamed agitators for giving young soldiers drink and inciting them to mutiny, afterwards leaving them to bear the brunt when they got into trouble. The soldier of the war who wore three wound stripes was, he said, every inch a gentleman, as his actions in France proved beyond a doubt. The man in the Service to-day was just as good, and he was well looked after from every point of view. He had excellent recreational and instructional facilities, and the things he was taught in the ordinary course of his training would otherwise cost him a large premium.

Sergeant Skilleter received many handshakes and congratulations from people in the audience. "I am quite against that class of man," he said, referring to a certain type of Army critic. "If I have to spend every penny I have, I'll do it to down 'em."

BRAVE POLICEMEN.

General Sir Nevil Macready, Commissioner of Police, presented certificates and medals yesterday afternoon at Walton-street Station to ten officers of the Metropolitan Police for certain police and Army services. The military awards included one Military Medal, one Distinguished Conduct Medal, two Meritorionus Service Medals, and two 1914-15 Stars. For bravery in entering Battersea premises in which a cylinder of chlorine gas had been broken and rescuing two women employees who had been overcome by the gas, Constables Sams and Hill were presented with the Carnegie Certificate and a book of ten War Savings Certificates. Inspector Avery and Sergeant Harper, who also rendered assistance but arrived later on the scene than the two constables, received the Carnegie Certificate and War Savings Certificates to the value of £5.

Repling to a speech of thanks made by Major Tomlin, Chief Inspector No. 1 District, who assured the Commissioner he could rely on the same devotion to duty on the part of the rest of the force as that shown by the men decorated, Sir Nevil Macready said he thought the bottom of the pot of the Police Strike had been reached, and jolly good care would be taken to fill it up again with the right stuff.

BABY FARM CASE.

The Leytonstone baby-farming inquest was resumed yesterday when a verdict of manslaughter was returned against Henry Hatchard and his wife for causing the death of the infant Kayes. The jury severely censured the father of the dead child.

Dr. Bailey said the child was so emaciated that it only weighed 6¾ pounds whereas the normal weight was over fifteen pounds. Death was due to starvation and neglect. Three other of the children in the house were in a moribund condition, having been very badly neglected.

Annie Hatchard, the thirteen year old daughter of the prisoners said there were ten nurse-children in the house, which contained six rooms, and was also occupied by the father, mother and seven brothers and sisters. The total milk supply was five pints daily.

The father of the dead child said that on separation from his wife he paid £10 to the prisoners and handed over the ch ld, relinquishing all cla m to it.

BEACHY HEAD SUICIDE.

An inquiry was held at Eastbourne into the circumstances of the death of Harry Poincilit, 28, a visitor, who committed suicide by throwing himself over Beachy Head on Saturday. A motive was found in the fact that the deceased's health was bad, and his income, derived from foreign bonds, considerably diminished. Though described in his identity book as a German, born at Wiesbaden, his father was French and his mother a Russian. A letter found at the top of the cliff in the deceased's handwriting stated: "I have no courage to struggle any longer."

The jury commended the Coastguards, who climbed up the cliff and brought the body 300ft. in semi-darkness.

TRIAL OF THE EX-KAISER.

Mr. Houston inquired in the House of Commons yesterday whether it was definitely decided that the trial of the Kaiser should take place in London.

Mr. Bonar Law said that the Allies had not altered their decision with regard to the matter, but no action could be taken until the Peace Treaty had been ratified.

The miners and ironworkers at Bargoed, Wales have decided on a "No beer—no work" policy.

FOOD CONTROL.

PROFIT ON ONE YEAR'S TRADING.

A profit of £13,446,429 in a year's trading was made by the Food Controller's operations for the financial year ended March 31 last.

This is shown in the Food Ministry's Provisional Trading Account, issued as a White Paper, from which it is seen that the Food Controller made large profits on all commodities dealt with except one. The only loss was on vegetable supplies and preservation, and the loss under this head was £13,539.

The largest profit was made in oils and fats, and amounted to £4,032,969.

The profits under the remaining services are as follows:

Bacon, hams, and lard	£2,892,561
Butter and cheese imports	1,836,806
Oils and oil seeds supply	1,297,121
Milk products	1,274,098
Tea	1,009,000
Margarine Clearing House	578,668
Fish, game, poultry, and miscellaneous	278,033
Cattle-feeding stuffs	141,147
Fruit supplies and preservation	33,100
Meat supplies	18,497
Central Live Stock Fund	10,446
Dried fruits and sundries	6,522

The period of the account is the first complete year of the trading in foodstuffs.

DISMISSED DUSTMEN.

The 500 Kensington municipal employees who are on strike did not return to work yesterday and by the terms of the resolution passed by the Borough Council last week are dismissed.

The Kensington authorities are already taking steps to find other workmen to fill the vacancies. Notices are being sent to the Labour Exchanges and elsewhere stating that the Borough Council are prepared to engage men at the following rates of pay:—Carmen, about 57s. per week: dustmen, about 52s.; sweepers, about 55s. The figures include a war bonus of 25s.

Other grades of workmen at varying rates, also with war bonus, are asked for. It is intended that the new workmen shall have a working week of 47 hours, exclusive of meals, with special rates of pay for overtime, and 12 days' holiday, including bank holidays, after 12 months' service.

The 300 employees of the Paddington Borough Council also failed to return to work and are regarded as having been dismissed. Both in Paddington and Kensington the streets are littered with dust and rubbish.

MARRIED AT 15.

At Greenwich Police-Court on Wednesday, before Mr. Disney, Charles Edward Wright, aged 15, living at Rotherhithe, was charged with stealing four bottles of whisky. The defendant, who had the appearance of a man of about 25 years of age, was asked by the magistrate if he was only 15. He said that was so.

Detective McTaggart said that Wright was 15 on April 9. During the war he had been approached several times by recruiting officers about why he was not in the Army.

Mr. Disney. — I understand you are are married.

Wright. — Yes. (Laughter.)

In giving evidence of arrest, Detective McTaggart said that Wright admitted the theft, and said, "I wanted a few snillings, as my wife will soon be confined, and I'm very hard up."

Wright and a man named Harold Robinson, who was charged with receiving the whisky, were remanded.

FLIGHT TO INDIA.

The R.33, sister airship to the R.34, is stated to be leaving for India in about a week's time. The chosen crew are now on leave. The first stage of the flight will be over France and Switzerland to Rome, where the first landing will be made, then across the Mediterranean to Cairo. It will land there as the halfway house.

Alternative routes are under consideration for the remainder of the voyage. One is across the Red Sea to Aden and thence across the Arabian Sea to Madras, the other being across Arabia to Bombay. The latter route would lengthen the journey by several hundred miles and make the voyage practically an overland one.

STRIKERS AND UNIFORMS.

Four police strikers were summoned at West London Police Court for "unlawfully failing to deliver over all the clothing, accoutrements, and appointments supplied to them for the execution of their duty."

Mr. Barker, for the Commissioner of Police, said that the defendants were ex-policemen, and had failed to report for duty. They had since returned their accoutrements, and he asked for a withdrawal of the summons on the payment by defendants of 2s. costs in each case.

The defendants agreed to this.

PROFITEERING BILL.

The Government Bill to check profiteering was introduced in the House of Commons last night and read for the first time.

Mr. Bonar Law said he hoped it would be passed through its reading stages next week.

CANTEEN FUNDS.

LORD BYNG'S PLANS FOR DISPOSAL.

General Lord Byng who was recently appointed Chairman of the Executive Committee of the United Services Fund, in which is vested the profits accumulated by the Army and Navy Canteens, explained yesterday how he proposed to deal with the money. The amount in hand is between six and seven million pounds.

Lord Byng said he had accepted the Chairmanship on the condition that the fund was absolutely free from Government control. He felt it to be impossible as a soldier to run it, so he resigned his commission. The second condition he made was that of absolute publicity with regard to all dealings. He wanted serving and ex-serving men to know exactly what was being done with the money. Considering the whole question, he said, it seems to resolve itself into four heads. The first is the care and help of ex-service officers and men, in which they are up against the overlapping of a variety of associations. The second is that of the wives, widows and orphans, which is a fairly easy one to handle because practically only one body is governing this class of case, viz the Soldiers and Sailors Families Association. The third is the social welfare of ex-service men and the fourth is the help of serving men.

GERMAN ILL-TREATMENT.

Mr. Oddie held an inquiry at Westminster, into the death of Private Percy Cyril Durrant, 27, East Surrey Regiment, lately residing at Clapham Junction, who was found dead on the South-Eastern and Chatham Railway, near Charing-cross Station.

The widow stated that her husband joined the Army in October, 1914, and went to France in November, 1916. Taken prisoner in the following year, he was compelled to work in the German coal mines, where he was badly treated. He was repatriated and discharged, but re-enlisted last May. She last saw him on Peace Day.

The Coroner said he was of opinion that the bad treatment Durrant received while in the hands of the Germans affected his mind and made him irresponsible for his actions. He recorded a verdict of "Suicide while of unsound mind."

KING'S ARABIAN SWORD.

The King received at Buckingham Palace yesterday Sheikh Abdulla bin Isa al Khalifah and Sheikh Muhammad bin Abdulla, son and grandson of the ruling Chief of Bahrain (on the Persian Golf), Sir Sheikh Isa bin Ali al Khalifah.

Their object was to present to his Majesty a wonderful sword, which has been in their family for generations, and which they offered as a memento of the recent victory of the Allies. The weapon was encased in a modern gold scabbard studded with pearls.

His Majesty received his visitors most cordially, accepted the sword with pleasure, and gave them in return a signed portrait of himself in a handsome silver frame, a gift which delighted them. The Chief and people of Bahrain are under British protection, and were absolutely loyal to us throughout the war.

BOMBS AT BARCELONA.

As the result of a bomb explosion at Barcelona seven persons were wounded, three of them seriously. One of the wounded men is believed to be the author of the outrage. The police engaged in enquiring into the affair have reported that several syndicalists, expelled from Havana, recently arrived at the city, where the terrorist regime is having a damaging effect on Catalan interests generally. A body of strikers attacked the docks at Valencia and three workmen were killed. Great indignation prevails amongst the inhabitants, who are demanding that the guilty be brought to justice.

CORPSE IN THEATRE BOX.

Cleaners at work in the King's Theatre, Greenock, on Wednesday found in one of the boxes the dead body of an attendant named Jeannie Crignton. The girl was fully dressed. A man named David Gilchrist was found lying on the floor, and was taken to the infirmary in a serious condition. A revolver with a discharged cartridge, an empty cup, and a bottle which contained laudanum were found in the box. It is stated that the couple had been keeping company.

LOST THROUGH STRIKES.

It is estimated that the loss to Sheffield owing to the Yorkshire miners' strike is now between £180,000 and £200,000 per week. A leading manufacturer stated that the workers are losing at least £50,000 per week, exclusive of the colliers. There are now over 15,000 workers on the donation list, and many more waiting for a date when they will come into benefit.

All brewery workers in Copenhagen have gone on strike and it is feared that in a few days there will be no beer in the city.

HOOVER'S WARNING.

WHY THE WORLD MUST HAVE MORE COAL.

Mr. Hoover's report on the coal situation presented to the Supreme Economic Council shows that the annual production in the principal countries of Europe, excluding Russia, has fallen to 443 million tons against 679 millions before the war.

The report recommends the immediate creation of a system of control in Europe in order to stimulate production and organise distribution. Mr. Hoover adds "I fear Europe and the world are faced with the gravest danger humanity has ever undergone. It is useless to gloss over the truth. Workers and masters have all got to do their duty. It is no good harping on the eight hour rule, although experience shows that is the maximum to expect from workers, but they must work a full eight hours. I say to producers and workers, 'You have in your hands the fate of your country, your fellow citizens, and the whole world. You are not asked to do more than you can, but all that you should'."

COMRADES OF GREAT WAR.

STIRRING MANIFESTO.

The Comrades of the Great War, through Captain E. B. Towse, V.C., chairman of the Grand Council, have issued the following manifesto:—

Comrades! The country is in danger! At a time when every nerve should be strained by all sections of the community to re-establish our industries, to increase our output, and to inspire that spirit of confidence so necessary to development, we find on all sides sectional interest being advanced, unconstitutional methods adopted, and the benefit of individuals being substituted for that of the State. Before us lies bankruptcy and revolution. Was it for the benefit of any particular section of the community that our comrades have given their lives, that many of us have suffered disablement, and many more have endured hardships unthinkable? Most assuredly it was not. Our sacrifice was for the State, and our way is clear. It is we who have saved the country in war, and it is we who must now save her in peace. Let us show that we are prepared to work, now, in order to re-establish our trade. On the re-establishment of our trade depends the Old Country's ability to purchase imported foodstuffs and the raw materials of industry and to pay our pensions and those of our dependents. As trade expands our circumstances will improve automatically. The greater the output the greater the work for all. Let us, therefore, do all we can to stimulate production. Let us declare definitely that we are on the side of law and order, that we will uphold the Government of the day, and that we will actively support the civil authorities. Let our badge be the symbol to which all law-abiding citizens and those that have the good of the country at heart, can rally. By this means we shall win the peace.

SURPLUS ARMY STORES.

According to the latest official return the value of sales of surplus Government property is now £151,000,000. This includes £81,443,505 for sales on trading account ,and £55,197,582 for other surplus stores at home, and £14,401,349 abroad. Among noteworthy amounts received in one week are £244,018 for mechanical transport, and £730,290 for non-ferrous metals. The main items to date of surplus property disposed of are: £4,058,217, for horses and animals in the United Kingdom; £2,970,710 for textiles, leather, and equipment; £1,983,018, for mechanical transport; £2,593,408, for food; £2,664,333, for ferrous metals; £13,675,339, for non-ferrous metals; £14,720,388 for chemicals and explosives; and £3,660,845 for sales to contractors.

WORKMAN'S LUXURIES.

A mother of ten told Mr. Rooth, the Thames Police Court magistrate, yesterday that for breakfast she gave her husband smoked salmon and boiled eggs, and for dinner, roast lamb, peas and potatoes; yet he kept late hours and called her bad names.

Magistrate: I don't believe there is anybody but you who has such luxuries at home. He ought to be very grateful to you. I will send an officer to tell him to eat his salmon and lamb, peas and potatoes like a respectable man, and, when he gets smoked salmon for breakfast, to go down on his knees and thank Almighty God that he has got it.

AVIATOR'S DARING FEAT.

Sergeant Godefroy, a Military aviator, accomplished on Wednesday a remarkable feat by flying an aeroplane at full speed through the Arc de Triomphe. The daring nature of the exploit can be realised when it is stated that the wings of the biplane he used have a spread of eight and one quarter metres whilst the opening of the arch is only fourteen and a half metres wide and twenty-nine and a half metres high.

The senior Naval officer in the Baltic reported to the Admiralty yesterday the sinking of a Bolshevist submarine near Ersk by the British destroyers Valorous and Vancouver.

AS BROTHERS.

The world has had proof that it is easier to embark on war than to reach the haven of peace. There were weary months of armistice before the Treaty of Paris arranged terms with our principal enemy, and even yet in the outlying parts of Christendom there are wars and rumours of war.

The passions of mankind have not lightly been stilled, and the old order gives place to the new with reluctance and foreboding. Nations that have fought to the death do not quickly forget their sorrows and their bitterness.

The harvest of war is pitiful and inevitable. Even in Britain, a peace-loving country, the aftermath is being painfully gathered. Though we and our gallant allies have spoken our conditions and won for them the obedience of our foes we have yet to gain in our own country the fruits of victory.

These cannot be reaped unless the men and women of England pay heed to the gospel of discipline and conciliation. It is an irony of the times that in the very days when a League of Nations has been offered to a stricken world our country has been slow to welcome its spirit and to respond to its appeal.

There have been, and there are, disputes in industrial Britain. These must be speedily settled if we are to keep our place in the vanguard of nations and no worthy Briton contemplates any position which shames the traditions of his race.

Undoubtedly there are petty irritations, labour jealousies, alleged injustices, which fret the temper of English mankind so sorely tried in the years of warfare. These cannot be removed by the wand of some fairy sprite that wishes us well, for there are no short-cut roads to civic welfare. They will disappear when a policy of bear and forbear commands the respect of our people.

Conciliation, fair-play, unselfishness are the only cures for a nation in its troublesome passage from war to peace. And these are historic traits of British character. Let them win their victory now, and as a people we shall emerge triumphantly from the difficulties and trials that haunt our footsteps.

There are in England many classes—there are men who have prospered in the national uprising against a vaunting militarism that was abhorrent and now lies in the dust; there are men who have suffered the sorest losses in that campaign, for all that they held dear has gone; there are masters who can employ and there are men who must work; there are some whose future is rosy-coloured and there are others who see but little of light and hope. Brotherhood must be our motto. Let men treat each as brothers, let them cast aside all arrogance and selfishness and work together for a common good. Then the fruits of victory will be gathered and the delights of peace enjoyed.

BOOKS THAT INTEREST.

I have kept the one word "interesting" in mind in recommending these books, and to the finer qualities of literary art paid little attention. A large number of them I have read in the line; as good a test of their grip on the reader as one could apply.

The young reader should note the name of the author of any book he particularly likes; in most cases he will find others equally interesting by the same writer.

"Treasure Island" by Robert Louis Stevenson I mention first, because if there is a person who is not interested by this hunt-for-treasure story he need not try the rest. "Kidnapped" — as good as it sounds — "Catriona" and "The Black Arrow" are other excellent romances by R.L.S.

Scott is the king of romance writers; his heroes are all live men. "Guy Mannering," "Rob Roy" and "Redgauntlet" are his best. "Ivanhoe" and "The Talisman" are tales of the Crusades.

"Monte-Cristo" by Dumas is the world's most famous treasure story. His "Three Musketeers" is a very fine book of adventure. Stanley Weyman's stories are of Dumas' type. "A Gentleman of France," "Under the Red Robe," "The Red Cockade" are historical with plenty of "go." Conan Doyle, besides his world-famous "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes", has given us "Micah Clarke" and "The White Company," both historical romances. "Westward Ho!" an Elizabethan tale of the Spanish Armada and Inquisition, is Kingsley's best. His "Hereward the Wake" tells of early struggles with Danish invaders.

Kipling really needs no introduction; his "Plain Tales from the Hills," and "Soldiers Three" make one ask for more.

Rider Haggard writes highly sensational stories; "King Solomon's Mines," "Allan Quatermain" and others exciting and thrilling. Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and "A Journey to the Centre of the Earth" are of course tales of imagination.

Captain Marryat tells rattling yarns of his own experiences — sea chases and hair-breadth escapes. "Peter Simple," "Jacob Faithful" and "Midshipman Easy" are his best. Fennimore Cooper wrote of Red Indians in "The Pathfinder" and "Deerslayer," and Captain Mayne Reid gives us similar daring deeds and perils in his "Scalp Hunters." Ballantyne's "The Young Fur Traders" and "Ungava" record his own adventures with the Hudson Bay Company. "Coral Island" and "Martin Rattler" are also his.

Charles Dickens did not write the hair raising variety, but many will enjoy "David Copperfield," "Pickwick Papers" which is very, very funny, and "The Tale of Two Cities" about events in London and Paris during the French Revolution, with a very dramatic end.

Those whose taste calls for stories of the Great War should try Ian Hay's "First Hundred Thousand"; Sapper's "No Man's Land," and "The Lieutenant and Others"; Patrick Macgill's "The Great Push"; Boyd Cable's "Action Front"; and "Naval Occasions" and "A Tall Ship" by Bartimeus.

Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn"; Anthony Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda" and "Rupert of Hentzau"; E. W. Hornung's "Raffles" and "Stingaree Tales"; F. Anstey's "Vice Versa"; Edgar Allan Poe's "Murders of the Rue Morgue"; Bret Harte's "Luck of Roaring Camp"; O. Henry's "Cabbages and Kings" and "The Four Million"; Mrs. Craik's "John Halifax Gentleman"; James Morier's "Hajji Baba of Ispahan"; Charles Reade's "Cloister and the Hearth"; Baroness Orczy's "Scarlet Pimpernel"; Charles Lever's "O'Malley"; Kingston's "Manco the Peruvian Chief"; D. H. Dana's "Two Years before the Mast" and Harrison Ainsworth's "Old St. Paul's"; and "Windsor Castle" make up an excellent mixture.

OWEN OLIVER.

MORE PAY!

As I entered the room I realised that a new subject for debate had superseded demobilization, for instead of the listless statements, punctuated by intimate references to Those In Authority, which we associate with "demob" arguments, there was an appearance of strained attention — even expectancy; in fact one could almost see a huge mark of interrogation hovering over the company.

My entrance was greeted with a chorus of inquiries which an unknowing person might have taken as a sign of the high value which my friends place upon my judgment, but modesty forced me to believe that they had failed to extract any satisfaction from each other, and would have welcomed any fool in the same manner.

Of course I knew what it was all about; nothing but a rumour of increased pay could raise such excitement, so I prepared to justify the temporary trust which had been accorded me.

"Will it benefit us?" was the most insistent question, and I endeavoured to answer it.

"Well it seems to affect us, although it may not benefit us."

In military parlance, my remark "caused it," but when the chorus died down I could hear the end of the corporal's soliloquoy —

"I know it will not affect us, an' if it does it'll be an 'Irishman's rise'; but not for me, mind you, for I'll get the four-bob rate, but some of the Young Soldiers will cheer when they find that their perisain' increase is antedated — they're getting three-bob-a-day just now, but they'll only get two-and-nine when the 'increase' comes — huh! they'll be about umpteen quid in debt."

An immediate protesting crescendo rose from the junior element of the chorus, above which could be heard sarcastic remarks regarding the personal appearance of a certain corporal whose self-esteem immeasurably exceeded his true value.

From this point the conversation assumed an entirely new aspect, the company separating into three parties, Neutrals, the Corporal, and the Juniors, and the subjects of discussion covered a wide area, comprising unmerited promotions, unwarranted sizes in hats, the ultra-alcoholic tendencies of the natives of certain unsavoury districts of London, until the sentiments expressed so far exceeded the license of legitimate argument that the Corporal found it necessary to stop the discussion by stern references to "clink."

His threats proved effective and the noise gave way to brooding silence, while once again our thoughts centred upon increased pay, so that Private Mulligan entered and took advantage of the silence to remark:—

"I suppose ye've heard about this extra pay?"

"I believe I did hear something of it!" admitted the Corporal, breathing hard.

"Well, it doesn't apply to the Rhine Army, at all," said Mulligan with an air of certainty. "I've just been speaking to the Colonel's batman."

Now we know!

RAS.

CHANGES.

The war has been responsible for many changes: that cannot be denied. Changes that when considered from a pre-war standpoint, are appalling. Changes in taste, changes in dress, changes in habit, changes in ways, changes of opinion; in fact changes in everything.

The youth for instance, who before coming to France had scarcely a serious thought, is now a comparatively old man. In many a young man's head resides an elderly and conventional mind.

Before the war we were apt to hesitate before going out into the rain. If through a very urgent necessity we were forced to face the inclement elements, how long did we spend in deciding which were our thickest pair of boots? At the journey's end, a complete change was the immediate consideration.

How differently we look upon a storm now. Perhaps we think of the nights we've spent in utter darkness with a small waterproof sheet as our only protection against the pouring rain. We think perhaps of the occasions when the rain has accumulated to such an extent on our "bivvy" sheets to bring them down on top of us by sheer weight of water.

We may have been "fed up" but it has taught us to disdain mere nature's attempt to daunt us. Who can say that we do not look back upon such nights and not experience a slight tinge of excitement.—Added to the force of nature perhaps were the efforts of H.E., both treated with the same disdain. Shall we ever condescend to carry an umbrella again? I wonder.

I think too there is a change in the way in which the people at home regard us. This was clearly demonstrated at a dance I happened to attend, when last at home on leave.

My friend Jones looked very depressed while the all too vigorous Jazz band was playing. "What's the matter?" I asked. "Don't know quite" he replied "but I suppose I belong to a class. That vast class that although they didn't shirk, for one good reason or another, stayed at home." "My dear chap", I said, "You don't mind what people say do you?" (I knew why Jones had stayed at home).

He ignored my remark and went on. "See that couple over there." I looked. "An engaged couple"? I ventured. "Engaged! No! They've been married eight years. Only, ... he's been to the front." "And he's come back." "Do you think that if I danced with my wife to-night she would wear that same look of ecstacy as in that girl's eyes." "We haven't been separated for four years." "We can't enjoy the reunion — the second honeymoon....." "How I envy them", he murmured as he turned away.

Another vast change, the way in which we receive news. Items that would have caused excitement (and rightly so) in the old days are now quietly received without a movement. We have learned to accept the inevitable. Things that made us feel almost morbid raise a laugh now, An incident that would have from its pathetic side called attention is turned into comedy. This has not however unbalanced our sense of justice.

Consider for one moment how differently we would now accept the words—so dreaded from the employer—"You're discharged"! ..... There has certainly been a change.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

AN IMPROVEMENT.

Sir,—One thing has struck me as to the reading room at the Cologne Officers' Club. There is not a sufficient variety of papers there. Now, without incurring any extra expense this could be remedied.

I notice that of several papers such as "Engineering" and others, there are three or four copies provided. The number is excessive: and if instead of so many of one journal the money was spread over several separate papers there would be a greater variety of reading. Will the management take this well meant hint?

COLONEL X.

MORE ON RHINELAND TRAMS.

Sir,—I cannot agree with "Tramway Engineer" when he says that the L.C.C. bogie tramcars carry more passengers than the three-car services of Cologne. I am not thinking of the larger Pullman cars when I say that most of the cars in Cologne have seating accommodation for twent-yeight and standing room for fifteen more, which makes a total of 129 on the three cars. I don't think that the L.C.C. cars carry more than eighty, thus leaving a good margin for standing assengers allowed during the war. In addition, I think that the Cologne system of allowing passengers to enter and leave the car at either end is a distinct saving of time, and after all what else are trams for, at any rate for most?

EIFELTOR.

A WAYFARER'S WAIL.

Sir,—Not being fortunate enough to belong to a unit entitled to a motor car, I have recently, on more than one occasion, been forced to perform a considerable portion of my journey to and from race meetings, and to-day the polo tournament, on my feet.

On all these occasions my objective was obvious yet not once did any occupant of a partly filled car have the courtesy to offer a lift to me or, as far as I could see, to any other similarly situated pedestrian.

Cars flashed by every few seconds, and many of them were only partly filled. I really do think that those who are fortunate enough to have motor cars at their disposal, might show a little more courtesy and consideration to their less fortunate brethren in other branches of the service.

WAYFARER.

THE TOTALIZATOR.

Sir,—I cannot help feeling that much of the dead-set against this method of betting at races is due to mere prejudice. People oppose the system because it is unusual to them.

There can be no two opinions I should have thought, as to its absolute fairness. You get the exact odds which you never do from a bookie, and the only disadvantage I can see is that you can't know beforehand what those odds are.

But why worry? If you back an outsider which gets home, you generally have a pleasant surprise in the shape of unexpectedly large winnings.

Every country has adopted the totalizator except Great Britain, and to criticise it unfavourably only displays insular prejudice and must I say it?—ignorance.

TOTO.

THAT COUNTRY CLUB.

Sir,—I see it is suggested that a country club should be started outside Cologne. Well, I have no doubt that after getting as many amusements in the town as the Cologne troops have, some of them get 'fed up' but what about those who are stationed in the quiet villages many miles from the railway who seldom get into Cologne at all? It is we who should receive attention in my opinion. Soldiers in the big towns are well enough off already.

H.B.

ON HANDWRITING.

Sir,—As an enthusiast in the study of penmanship, I have frequently admired the splendidly written notices in the German shopwindows.

In comparison with the slovenly eyesores so often seen in shop windows at home, these German notices attract the immediate attention of passers-by and can be read at a glance.

The cause, I am led to believe, lies in the universal teaching of the Italic style, whereas we English have been in this, as in so many of our educational schemes, led and misguided by cranks, who have brought out and thrust into our schools a host of new styles and methods.

By the time one leaves school, especially if moved a few times from school to school, one has picked up a number of styles all totally different and is in the end unable to "write a decent fist!"

The inevitable result is that nineteen people in every twenty can honestly be classified as fair, poor and bad writers.

Cannot our educational authorities do something to establish a standard type based, say, on the beautiful copperplate of a century ago? We should then get a vast improvement which would go far to reducing the grumbles about lost letters in the Post Office, and indecipherable missives in business and private life.

I have no hesitation in saying our grandparents could write: we can't.

J.K.D.

PEACE HATH —

Plant me on the Field of Mars,
The white sword in my hand,
To live, or die — I care not why!
It is my hearth, my Fatherland!

Accoutre me in sheeted steel,
Or, strip me to the raw —
My helm, my spear, my battle-gear,
They are my roof-tree and my law.

My curses on the puling Peace,
The lily-hand, the lilied plea!
For my right hand's a burning brand!
To battle — 'tis the Life of me!

GATHERING OF CLANS.

1/4th Seaforths Win 3rd Highland Brigade Championship.

BRAWN AND MUSCLE.

Thursday was a great day for the 1/4 Seaforth Highlanders. With comparative ease they got ahead of the two other battalions in the 3rd Highland Brigade and won the championship at the Brigade Sports at Duren. Throughout the afternoon, the sport was refreshingly keen and, by virtue of admirable organisation, perfect time was kept for each event. The weather was ideal and the Germania Sports ground gaily beflagged for the occasion.

An unusual, and certainly most agreeable, feature in the programme was the Highland Dancing Competition. There were only four entries for this, but to the accompaniment of the bag-pipes these contestants performed delightfully. Lieut Craik was in capital running form over long distances. Without much apparent effort he was a fairly easy winner of the half mile, the one mile and the three mile races.

The Band of the 12th (Prince of Wales Royal) Lancers and the Brigade Pipers combined to provide enjoyable music. At the conclusion of the events, Lady Godley gracefully presented the prizes. The Committee was composed as follows:—

President, Brigadier-General A. H. Marindin, C.B., D.S.O.; Members, Lt. Col. W. Green, D.S.O., 6th Royal Highlanders; Lt. Col. V. Fortune, D.S.O., 8th Royal Highlanders; Lt. Col. S. Forbes Sharp, M.C., 1/4th Seaforth Highlanders; Capt. R. R. Marshall, M.C., 3rd High. L.T.M. Battery; Capt. D. McCallum, M.C., Brigade Major, 3rd High. Brigade H. Qrs.

AQUATIC SPORTS.

3rd Western Infantry Brigade Programme At Bonn.

These sports were held at Arloff on Tuesday and Wednesday. Two afternoons' excellent sports were witnessed by a large number of men from all the three Batteries in the Brigade. The swimming events were keenly contested, and the water polo games well fought out.

The Relay Race provided a very stiff and exciting finish the 51st S.W.B. just winning by a few feet, from the 53rd S.W.B.

Brig.-General Bowley was an interested spectator on both days, and at the end of the events presented the prizes.

The 53rd S.W.B. by winning the greatest number of points at both the swimming events and the Water polo, put themselves well up on the Brigade Skill at all Sports Champions hip.

Results Of Events.

INTER-LEAGUE MATCHES.

At a meeting of the Irish Football League, held in Belfast, the request of the English League to play the Inter-League match in November in England, preferably at Liverpool or Manchester, instead of in Ireland, was acceded to by the Irish League.

The application of the Southern League to play the Inter-League match in October in Belfast instead of in Dublin was refused.

It was agreed that the Inter-League match with Scotland on Oct. 4 should take place in Ireland instead of in Scotland.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Saturday, August 9, 1919.

Surface wind light and variable. Misty in the early morning; fair and warm in the day with good visibility.

HORSES, MULES AND LIMBERS.

12th Royal Irish Rifles Transport Show And Gymkhana.

A most interesting show was presented to the battalion by their transport last week-end, at the battalion recreation grounds. The meeting was honoured by the attendance of Brig.-General R. A. M. Currie, C.M.G., D.S.O. The large company present was greatly impressed by the fine turn out of the horses, mules and limbers, etc., and highly interested and amused by the gymkhana events. The judges were Major Peatfield, 9th London Regt., and Lieut. Norton, No. 2 Coy A.S.C. Light Division Train, who greatly praised all concerned. At the conclusion of a most successful day, prizes were distributed by Lieut.-Col. W. R. Goodwin, C.M.G., D.S.O.

CRICKET AT ZUNDORF.

An interesting cricket match was played at 31 D.A.C. Headquarters Camp on Tuesday between No. 1 Section D.A.C., Eastern Division, and Headquarters. No. 1 had the first innings and made a weak stand against the bowling of Wahnley and Clothier. Their score only totalled 26. Headquarters made a splendid stand at the beginning, Q.M.S. Edwards making a splendid score of 27 and Clothier 17.

BOXERS AND THEIR PRICE.

The special contest at the Ring the other day was of 20 three-minute rounds between Eddie Feathers, of Haslingden, and Jack Blumenfeld, of Islington. For nine rounds clean deliveries were given by both. It was obvious, however, that neither man displayed his best form, and the referee, Mr. Moss Deyong, ruled both men out, and declared "No contest." It is learned that the management, who desire that boxers should box up to their abilities, have decided not to pay the men any fee other than that of out-of-pocket expenses.

Friendly Football.

"B" Bty 245th Bde (W.R.) R.F.A. (T) gave their neighbours "C" Bty a severe trouncing at Solingen on Sunday afternoon. The former outplayed their opponents from the commencement and during first half they penetrated "C" Battery's defence four times, Scott and Paterson dividing the honours equally between them. The second half was barren of scoring, the result being four goals to nil in favour of "B" Battery.

Templeman to Revisit India.

Arrangements have been made for Fred Templeman to pay another visit to India during the coming winter.

THE SCOOTER MOTOR.

Latest Development Of British Motor Industry.

500 PER WEEK OUTPUT.

The scooter has now been brought to such a stage of practical perfection by the utilisation of a little motor and the installation of a comfortable "pan" seat that thousands of these machines have been ordered and are now in process of manufacture. In an establishment at Cowes the output will soon reach 500 a week, and by the end of 1920 the makers hope to have 20,000 on the road.

One such machine, it may be recalled, accompanied the motor cyclists on the recent test from London to Edinburgh, finishing the journey without mishap. More recently a well-known motorist covered nearly 170 miles on a motor scooter in a 12-hour night run from London to Yorkshire, the average speed being nearly 15 miles an hour. The maximum speed is about 20 miles an hour, and it has proved to be an excellent hill-climber

Fool-Proof.

There are no complicated controls or complex engines to embarrass the rider without mechanical knowledge. And the engine, completely enclosed, is away behind the rider, where smell and oil splashes cannot prove offensive.

Tried on greasy roads, the scooter motor behaves well. The tyres are heavily studded, and, the weight being near the ground, there is no tendency to skid.

On an uneven road, too, the vibration, even at fifteen miles an hour, is taken by rubber buffers under the footboard.

FRIENDLY RIVALRY.

Keen Spirit in "M" Anti-Aircraft Battery Sports.

The sports of "M" Anti-Aircraft Battery were held on Monday on the grounds of the battery camp, Fort Deckstein, Lindenthal. Glorious weather and a keen friendly rivalry between sections resulted in a good afternoon's sport. A totalizator, run by Lieut. Bond, gave great satisfaction, being generously patronized.

The prizes were presented at the close by Lt.-Col. Mortimer, D.S.O. who, in reply to a vote of thanks proposed by Major Martin D.S.O., the O.C. of the Battery, said that the spirit exhibited by the various competitors was well worthy of the spirit that led to the signing of the armistice.

Following are the results:—

100 yds. scratch race:—1, Lt. Garland; 2, Lt. Mitchell.

120 yds. hurdle race:—1, Lt. Mitchell; 2, Gnr. Adams.

220 yds. handicap:—1, Lt. Mitchell; 2, Bdr. Mason.

One mile scratch:—1, Cpl. Evans; 2, Gnr Killick.

High jump:—1, Lt. Mitchell; 2, Gnr. Adams.

Long jump:—1, Gnr. Farrington; 2, Cpl. McLaughlin.

Obstacle race:—1, Lt. Mitchell, 2, Sgt. Walters.

Slow bicycle race:—1, Gnr. Fleet; 2, Pte. Waters.

Sack race:—1, Gnr. Laycock; 2, Gnr. Bouch.

Three-legged race:—1, Gnr. Partridge and Gnr. Bouch; 2, Bdr. Dowrick and Sig. Farrington.

CRICKET FRIENDLIES.

152 Heavy Battery R.G.A.

The first of a series of section matches was played on Tuesday at Godesberg, between the Regt. section and O.P. The former turned out easy winners with a score of 114 against 36. Sgt. Woodcock for the winners scored the useful total of 36, Gnrs. Gott and Schofield 18 and 16 respectively.

267th Siege Bty v O. M. Workshop. O.M.W. batted first and were dismissed for 15 runs, Gnr. King of 267 bowling magnificently and taking 7 wickets for 8 runs. A remarkable innings then followed for 267, 7 of their wickets falling for 1 run. Bdr. Brown and Gnrs. Sells and Time however finished the innings for 27 runs, leaving 267 winners by 12 runs. For the losers Jilberds and Mallard bowled well taking 5 for 14 and 5 for 12 respectively.

5th Labour Coy 69 (Ewen 30, Brown 13 not out) v 69th Aux Steam Coy 53 (Trengrove 13, Thompson 10). Bowling for 5th Fish took 5 wickets for 26 runs, and Hadden 3 for 21. For 69th Lieut. Heaven took 5 wickets for 24, and Tomlinson 3 for 35.

BLACK SEA ATHLETES.

Applegarth in Team for Army Championships.

READY FOR ALDERSHOT.

The team from the Army of the Black Sea for the Army Athletic championship at Aldershot on August 28 and 29 have arrived at Aldershot. They are in charge of Lieut. H. Goad, 10th Devon Regt., and Sgt. W. R. Applegarth, the world's 100 yds champion, is included in the team. He did not however, journey to Aldershot, as he has been granted leave to visit his home.

ALARM RACE.

Interesting Event in 74th Brigade R.F.A. Sports Meeting.

The 74th Bde. R.F.A. sports meeting at Weiden was most ably organized by a committee composed of Major D. R. Macdonald, D.S.O., M.C., Capt. D. A. Charlesworth, Lieut. D. S. Murray, M.C., Lieut. A. O. Knight, 2 Lieut. J. H. Holden, Sgt. Morgan, Sgt. Yates, Cpl. Goldsmith, and Sgt. Smith. Great credit is due to Lieut. Schneider for his most excellent organization of the refreshment arrangements.

The judges were Brig.-General I. G. Rotton, C.B., C.M.G., and Lieut.-Col. H. O. Hutchinson, D.S.O., M.C.

The first day's events were as follows:—

High jump:—1, Gnr. Ringer; 2, Cpl. Salter, 4 ft. 9 ins.

Throwing the cricket ball:—1, Dvr. Taylor; 2, Dvr. Prosser, 93 yds.

V. C. race:—1, Cpl. Fordyce; 2, Sgt. Murray.

W.O. and Sgts. jumping:—1, B.S.M. McGregor; 2, R.S.M. Ford.

Quarter mile:—1, Gnr. Smith; 2, Gnr. Ringer; 3, Gnr. Macdonell. Time 1 min. 6 secs.

Boot race:—1, Dvr. Prosser; 2, Gnr. Gascoigne.

Half section (jumping):—1, B.S.M. Bowman and Farr Sgt. Kirk.

1 mile:—1, Sgt. Yates; 2, Gnr. Macdonell.

Tilting the bucket:—1, Bdr. Morgan; 2, Bdr. Greams.

3 legged race:—1, Cpl. Goldsmith; 2, Dvr. Prosser.

Musical chairs on mules:—1, Sgt. Poole; 2, Dvr. Davey.

Relay race:—1, B/75; 2, D/75; 3, B/74.

Tent pegging:—1, Sgt. Merritt; 2, Bdr. Hugget, 75th Bde.

Old soldiers race:—1, R.S.M. Ford; 2, B.Q.M.S. Harkness.

Alarm race. This proved the most exciting and interesting event on the programme. One gun from each battery in the Brigade drove on to the ground; horses were unhooked, unharnessed, and chained to the wheels. Harness was then placed on the ground and puttees, spurs, and bandoliers were taken off. On the Alarm being sounded, the teams were harnessed up, hooked in, and each gun galloped off, came into action, and fired a blank round on a prearranged target.

The first two guns to fire were A Battery 4 min. 59 secs., and B Battery 5 mins. During the judging there was much speculation as to the winner, however, B Battery's turn-out was so excellent that it won easily.

Second Day's Results.

The second day's events were witnessed by an even larger gathering than that of the previous day.

The visitors included Major-General A. A. Kennedy, C.M.G., Lieut.-Col. Carrington, D.S.O.; Lieut.-Col. Ashwandon, D.S.O.; Lieut.-Col. Oddie, D.S.O., T.D.; Major Ritchie, Major Jacks, M.C., and Major Price Williams, D.S.O., M.C. During the afternoon the band of the 1/6th West Yorks (by kind permission of the Officer Commanding) played popular selections, adding much to the afternoon's enjoyment.

The results of the second day were as follows:—

Long jump:—1, Bdr. Field; 2, Cpl. Goldsmith, 16 ft. 9 3/4 ins.

Wheelbarrow race:—1, Sig. Homer and Gnr. Marlow; 2, Dvr. Jenkins and Dvr. Barns.

Officer's jumping:—1, Lt. Travers C/74; 2, 2/Lt. Potts A 74.

100 yds.:—1, Bdr. Painter B/75; 2, Sig. Bamford D/75; 3, Gnr. Smith C/74. 11 1/5 secs.

Sack race:—1, Dvr. McIrraith; 2, Dvr. Deebanks.

N.C.O.'s and men's jumping:—1, Gnr. Bonsfield; 2, Dvr. Eavers; 3, Dvr. Bunock.

Half mile:—1, Sig. Pant B/75; 2, Gnr. Mathews B/74.

Wrestling on horseback:—D 74.

Pillow fight on greasy pole:—1, Sgt. Yates; 2, Bdr. Morgan.

Driving competition:—1, D/74. (Medals presented by Lieut.-Col. F.G. West, D.S.O.).

Tug-of-war:—C/74.

All ranks relay race:—A/74.

Led horse jumping:—1, Dvr. Pratten; 2, Dvr. Dickson.

Band race:—1, Pte. Butter, 1/6 West Yorks; 2, Cpl. Turner, 1/6 West Yorks.

At the conclusion of the afternoon's programme, the medals and prizes were presented by the Commanding Officer, Lieut.-Col. F.G. West, D.S.O. Three cheers and "God save the King" terminated a most successful meeting.

ENGLISH CRICKET RESULTS.

Warner's XI 141 and 357 for six declared; Public Schools 221 and 215 for six. Match drawn.

Hampshire (387 for eight, declared, and 59) beat Gloster (185 and 257) by ten wickets.

Australians 198; Kent 142 for six.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

"The Crumps" at Bonn.

"The Crumps" are this week presenting a new programme at Bonn to full houses. The song "The Heart of Lancashire", splendidly rendered by Tom Walsh was greatly appreciated by the audience, as also was the Lancashire dialect and gags of Folie de Nache. Other excellent numbers were those of Ted Noody, W. Lamb, T. Fenwick, and A. Watkins, while the character studies of Fred Fryer were much enjoyed. Harry Harris as "Dora" and T. Whetten as "Tina" make two splendid girls while the latter used "her" falsetto voice with great effect in the quartette singing which is a feature of the show. A splendid farce entitled "The green-eyed Lobsters" was well played by T. Fenwick, (the husband), T. Whetten (the wife), Harry Harris, (the maid), and Billy Coole, (the butler). The orchestra under Harry Loveday contributed to the success of the programme, the whole performance being under the direction of Lieut. J. W. Knight. "The Crumps" hope shortly to return to Cologne with an entirely new programme.

"The Rascals".

I went down to Horrem the other evening to see "The Rascals," the new Cavalry Division M. T. Coy Party. Knowing too well the inconvenience and uncommodiousness of provincial concert halls, I was surprised to find the arrangements really tip-top. The staging was good; the lighting effects charming; and — much credit due to the Bandmaster — the 10th Hussars band played excellently throughout the evening. The scenes are all more or less Bohemian. Gnr. Jack Knight (late of the Welsh Wails) as the waiter and as a man about town was a big favourite with the audience, his mannerisms and humour being quite spontaneous. Sgt. Lander, also playing in the caste, superintended the Lmelights.

Some Variety.

Although amateur (with the sole exception of Jack Knight) and obviously new to the glare of the footlights, "The Rascals" are a party of promise. The four "girls" fulfil their parts admirably — 2/Lieut. Dobson and Pte. Patterson being especially good. Pte. Brown scored a distinct success with "Darktown Strutters' Ball", his dancing, in keeping with a suitable voice, calling for much applause. Cpl. Taylor and Pte. Hart are two capable vocalists. Despite a little nervousness which experience will overcome, Rfm. Waller sang well in the tableaux numbers. Pte. Pearce, elocutionist, Pte. Mitchell, a clever ventriloquist; Sergt. Lander (one of the "girls"); and Sergt. Want complete the party. If you are ever in Horrem you should certainly pay "The Rascals" a visit.

Gunners at Song.

The 74th Bde. R.F.A. held a very successful concert at Weiden on Thursday. The Sanct Florian Hall was filled to overflowing and much credit is due to Lieut. Murray and Lieut. Eyre for their excellent advertising and stage management. Sergt. Barker opened the programme by giving a selection of popular airs. Dvr. Marsh then gave "Where did that one go to 'Erbert", followed by "Kashmire Song", and "Less than the Dust" by Dr. Marfield. Bdr. Griffiths of C/75 then gave one of his comic songs, producing a continuous roar of laughter. A duet "The Moon hath Raised" was rendered by Cpl. Moore and Dvr. Hayes, who also gave "Tenor and Baritone". Humorous songs by Cpl. Briggs and Bdr. Ives were very good, as was the rendering of "Take a pair of sparkling eyes" by Fitter S/Sergt. Rice. Dvr. Baldwin sang "Tony the Swiss Mountaineer", and Lieut. Eyre gave "The Cobbler's Song" from Chu Chin Chow. A Comic Interlude by "Griffiths and Waddell" brought to an end a very enjoyable evening. Next Friday, Miss Ada Moore of the British Empire Leave Club is giving the Brigade a concert in the same hall.

"The Dacoits."

A very enjoyable concert heralded the debut of "The Dacoits," a new musical party at Lülsdorf, on Monday evening. The hall was packed by an appreciative audience and the fare served up was of a kind that delighted all. In picturesque garb the party opened with a rollicking musical number and thereafter the entertainment went with a swing which was delightful. Songs by Lieut. Chaldicott, Drivers Kirk and George, and Gunners Winter, Hughes, and Hawkins were rendered with taste. Lieut. Chaldicott was particularly goad in "Maryland" while Gunner Hughes' rendering of "The Waggle o' the Kilt" was like a waft from Scotia's hills. Driver Kirk, as a parson with songs and patter, made a clever character study. Several sketches were submitted, the best of these being "The Burglars," and "A parcel from Blighty." A real Jazz chorus and dance completed a tip-top programme.

Another "Fancies" Troop.

A correspondent signing himself "Pater" writes as follows:— "It may interest the "Fancies" to know that a troupe of talented children played under that name for charitable purposes in London from 1911 to 1916. These children now grown up, have recently reconstituted their party and have come up under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A., beginning their tour at Malmedy on Monday August 4th. Of the party three are students of the Royal Academy of Music, two of them being scholars".

Leave Club Programme.

On Sunday, the Rev. C.E. Wheeler will hold a chat in the writing room from 5-6 and there will be a Concert in the hall at 7.30 by the band of the 5th South Staffords. An impromptu Concert will be held in the music room at 5 p.m. on Monday, followed by a practice Dance in the theatre at 7 p.m. On Tuesday there will be a dancing class in the music room at 5 p.m. and "The Tonics" concert party will give a concert at 7.30 in the theatre. On Wednesday, August 12th there will be an impromptu concert at 5 p.m. followed by a dance at 7 p.m. at which the band of the 9th East Surreys will play.

In few words.

At the weekly whist drive held at the British Empire Leave Club, the room was again very full and every table occupied. Lt. Vernon presided while Pte. Beale and Pte. Duffy again acted as M.Cs.

JACQUES.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Signed Amateur Form.
Chas Hollows, the Lancashire County cricketer, has signed an amateur form for Bury Football Club.

100 Pedal Bikes.
The Disposal Board of the Ministry of Munitions offers 1,000 pedal bicycles for sale, without reserve, at the Agricultural Hall, on yesterday.

"Aussies" v. S. of England.
The Australians' match at Portsmouth on September 4, 5 and 6 will now be against the South of England and not Hampshire, as was previously arranged.

Leading Cricketers.
Hendren, of Middlesex, remains at the head of the first-class batting averages with figures of 85.07 for 19 innings (five not out). Woolley, of Kent, stands first in the bowling averages with 82 wickets at a cost per wicket of 13.26.

Crystal Palace F.C.
Mr. E. Goodman, the Crystal Palace F.C. manager, has engaged the following professionals:—Goal, J. Alderson; backs, J. Grainger (Aston Villa), J. Alcock (Walsall), J. Little, and E. Rhodes; halfbacks, A. Feebury, J. Hughes, R. Cracknell, P. Bates, and S. Isler; forwards, J. Bateman, C. Smith, E. Smith, W. Middleton, J. Whibley, and J. Conner (Sunderland and Belfast Distillery).

Millwall F.C.
All the players of the Millwall Football Club have been called up, and practice began at the Den, New Cross, on Tuesday.

Brighton Record.
Never before has there been such a concourse of people on the Brighton racecourse as assembled this week. All records were smashed.

Golfing Etiquette.
There is hardly any sport so rich in points of etiquette as golf, and many girls—and men—when they begin to play run the risk of getting into great disfavour at their clubs.

Ex-Service Men's Sports.
A sports meeting in connection with the National Federation of Discharged and Demobilized Sailors and Soldiers will be held at Stamford Bridge on Wednesday and Thursday, September 17 and 18.

Plymouth Satisfied.
Much satisfaction is felt in Plymouth at the fact that F. Craig, the Argyle's pre-war goalkeeper, has been signed on. The club will give a trial to a new custodian named Roadley.

Tapes Broken.
Owing to unruly horses, the tapes were twice broken before the real start for the Marine Plate at Brighton. The Plough and Lady Sibell suffered most in these false beginnings.

Saintly Sinner.
Those who backed Saintly Sinner thought him more of a Saint and those who backed the second thought him more of a Sinner.

Dempsey on Himself.
"Believe me, they will have to knock me cold to take my title away from me," said Jack Dempsey to an interviewer last week.

Increasing Weight.
Owing to increasing weight, Percy Allden is unable to ride on the flat, but he will be seen over hurdles next season. His father is a popular member of Tattersalls.

1557 Runs.
Hobbs has scored 1,557 runs in first-class cricket, with an average of 56.32. Ducat, the other Surrey man, stands second to Hendren with 1,407 runs and an average of 67.

A Rhineland Boxer.
Jack Worman, who threw out a challenge to the Rhine Army for the light-weight Boxing Championship is training hard every day still, and is in good form.

Epsom-by-the-Sea.
A miniature Epsom-by-the-Sea! There could be no truer description of Brighton races. The veteran Mr. H. M. Dorling holds autocratic sway at both Epsom and Brighton.

Down Under.
Three runners who fought at Gallipoli filled the places in the first five-mile amateur championship race held in Queensland since the war began. There were a hundred competitors.

Two-Day Cricket.
Another nail was driven on Tuesday into the coffin of two-day cricket. In only one of the seven championship matches which finished on that day was a result obtained.

French Goalkeeper for Hotspur.
Chayriques, the French goalkeeper who aroused so much attention in the international Service matches at the end of last season, has signed on for Tottenham Hotspur as an amateur.

Rising Eight years.
Hukm, who won the Grove Handicap at Catterick Bridge, is rising eight years. It was on the same course that he made a successful debut as a two-year-old. He was bought in on Saturday for 270 guineas.

London to Brighton Walk.
The London to Brighton walking race for the amateur championship, arranged by the Surrey Walking Club, will take place on Saturday, September 13, a start being made from the Clock Tower, Westminster, at 6 a.m.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Race-meeting Accommodation.

We have received a shoal of letters on the subject of the canteens at the recent races for W.O's and N.C.O's and "other ranks" respectively—far too many to publish. The question is a difficult one to settle offhand and though the present system at such fixtures may need some adjustment in future, there is really no need for views to be expressed too forcibly as we are sure the authorities realise the awkardness of the existing position and are considering how best it can be met. It is obvious that if treated proportionately the accommodation for private soldiers should be more extensive than that for N.C.O's and W.O's which we understand has not always been the case.

A Successful Journal.

We have been looking through the July-August issue of the "Illustrated Cologne Bulletin" produced by the Central Y.M.C.A. and have been much impressed by the improvement displayed in the journal. The outstanding feature of the number is an article illustrated by reproductions of old prints, on the street names of Cologne. Then there are gossipy contributions on sport and music, "The Thoughts of a Private," "The Doings and Drawings of Cecilia," and plenty of photographs. One of these in particular is very charming. It shows a sister of the Rev. Prof. Hugh Black, D. D. who sang Scotch songs before and after a lecture by her brother, given recently in Cologne.

Will it Rain.

On Sunday mornings, a continual stream of people can be seen going up to a certain little kiosk that stands in the Hofgarten in Bonn, and after peering earnestly through the glass windows for a minute or two, pass on. This little stone and glass affair, is the public weather prophet, and in each of the four windows is an instrument recording the atmospheric pressure, or temperature, by barometer and thermometer, together with revolving charts which automatically record the fluctuations for the week. By means of this ingenious contrivance, anybody can forecast the weather for the day with practical certainty, and if the signs are bad, mein Herr can put off his jaunt till a more favourable time.

Amid the Roses.

One of the pleasantest little demesnes in Rhineland at present is the rose-garden in the Volksgarten, Cologne, where the scene in very peaceful, very homely, and very sweet. Around the rose-plots sit elderly men and their spouses viewing the lovely surroundings with a calmness and serenity that makes the casual bird of passage himself feel serene. And the roses! Fallen petals tell their own sad tale of life and death, but there are still many buds to greet the eye of the rosarian or chance passer-by. In all their pristine glory may be seen Frau Carl Druschki, George Dickson, Gloire de Dijon, Lady Hillingdon Allen Richardson, Mrs. John Laing, and, General MacArthur, all neatly labelled with their names so that he who runs may read.

A Magnetic Crane.

A short while ago we commented in this column upon the steamless engines used in the ex-munition factory at Siegburg. Has anyone noticed however in connection with this, the crane that unloads the railway trucks? This is not provided with grappling irons or claws for picking up the weight but is simply composed of one huge piece of metal very similar to a road sewer cover. This is lowered on wire hawsers on to the metal apparently; then a magnetic current is turned on, because enormous lumps of heavy metal adhere to the "plate," which is then raised and run to the required position, when the current is turned and the metal drops off. The writer has actually seen this weird crane used for drawing a line of loaded trucks into the position for unloading. But by what magic is it worked that prevents it picking up other bits of metal, such as loose rails, tools etc.?

"FeuerMelder" and "FeuerMeldestelle."

These notices will have been observed by many, but how many know their meaning? The former means "Fire Alarm" and the latter "Fire Alarm Place." The small red notice over the doorway of a house "Feuer Meldestelle" at once acquaints us of the fact that information of a fire can be given and somebody, possibly a fireman, lives there, or an official connected with the fire brigade. The "Feuer Melder" notice is painted on a large red box about the same size as the blue painted letter box that one sees. The working is similar to our own, the only difference being that in England we break the glass, pull the alarm and wait for an engine, but here one waits for a cyclist to arrive, to whom the information of a fire is given. He in turn gives the whereabouts of the fire to the firemen, who follow on.

Just Human Nature.

Youth all over the civilized world seems to revel in the same style of sensational literature. Here in Germany one sees in the newsvendors' shops almost exact counterparts of the cowboy and detective story in the same gaudy covers beloved of our own youngsters. It is the same with the cheap form of novelette for girls. The tastes of the fräulein and our own flapper seem very similar and both are equally well catered for. What may have been noticed also is that Germany publishes an almost exact counterpart of the English "Police Budget" with startling pictures of current crime. It is printed on the same pink-hued paper and the title-heading is almost a facsimile of the London production.

Is the German Impolite?

It has often been stated that the German is impolite, but a correspondent says that his personal experience will not allow him to agree entirely with this statement. "I have noticed that," he adds, "in speaking amongst themselves, the Germans (of decent class anyway) always ask for the repetition of an utterance by saying "bitte" in an interrogatory tone. Though at one time considered an evidence of bad breeding in our country, it is quite common nowadays for people to say "What?" in the circumstances mentioned above. Also, when complete strangers address each other, generally to ask for direction to a place, all of the males in the enquiring party, whether they have spoken or not, lift their hats in acknowledgment of the information given. This is strictly speaking, correct in our own country, but it is not often done. I think the terseness of the German language is largely responsible for the opinion generally held, i.e. that the German is grossly impolite." What have our readers to say on the point?

Not Picturesque.

In all Latin countries the priests have a picturesque appearance as they walk the street, in their long black soutane and beaver hats and wearing white cravats and buckled shoes. But in Germany the priest has none of this distinction. He wears just the ordinary trousers and black frock coat of the British parson cut very high in the neck and on his head the unclerical looking bowler hat.

Detention.

The Commandant of one of the detention barracks was in a dilemma In his opinion, the prisoners under his care were not getting sufficient punishment. They were getting squad drill, musketry, gas drill, and physical jerks but this was not enough. In his difficulty he consulted the Sergeant Major, an old soldier who, perhaps, dates back to the Indian Mutiny. "Punishment, Sir," he replied. "Yes they are getting sufficient they get one hour's Education every day."

Lesser Echoes.

Will the writer of the recent sketch "On Superstition" send his address to the Editor?

* * *

Well done Queen's! Over eighteen thousand marks were subscribed for Savings Certificates by the 24th Queen's last week.

* * *

During June, 1,235 apprentices and 42,045 other Rhine Army students attended classes, exclusive of men at the science and technical colleges.

* * *

A lorry load of merry girls in fancy dress was seen on the Kalk road last night. They were the N.A.C.B. staff off to an Air Force carnival near Eil.

* * *

A solution of the difficulty of our correspondent "Private" in obtaining refreshment at a recent race meeting was suggested by the sight of a party of young soldiers, who had taken both liquid and solid sustenance with them in their haversacks, partaking of an alfresco lunch.

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: Capt. C.E. Johnston, 10th Corps H.Q. Rhine Army; Cpl. Fielden Pearson, 237 A.E.C., Rhine Army; and Cpl. E. Fisher, D of S and T., G.H.Q. Rhine Army.

BOLSHEVIST CASH.

Elaborate conspiracy to sow revolutionary doctrines in England.

DEMOCRATIC ARCH-DUKE.

TAINTED MONEY.

BOLSHEVIST PAY FOR ENGLISH AGITATORS.

It has often been stated that part at least of the sinews of war for the Extremist campaign now being carried on, has been supplied from abroad, and yesterday it was announced that Scotland Yard now has definite information that foreign money has been sent to this country for the financing of agitations with the object of stirring up strife and the overthrow of the existing system of government.

A considerable sum of Russian money, amounting, it is believed, to at least £6,000, was brought over a week or so ago from Hungary by way of Stockholm by a Norwegian journalist who, it is alleged, delivered it to a person who is known as a leader with extreme views. The person in question has denied having received the money.

The man who brought the money over has made a full confession, and a high authority at Scotland Yard stated yesterday that there was no doubt at all about the facts. The authorities got to know of it about five minutes after the money had been delivered, and the man who conveyed it was immediately deported back to Norway.

There is reason to believe that the money came originally from Bela Kun.

The authorities desire to point out the damage which is being caused among the British population as the result of Bolshevist propaganda. Several centres exist for controlling the output of entirely false reading matter, and those responsible are actively in league with the wild men in Russia.

Details are leaking out of the widespread character of this Bolshevist plot to ensnare Europe in general and Great Britain in particular. It is alleged that the Norwegian, Zachariassm, came to London as the agent of Bela Kun and on his own admission was a courier of the Bolshevists, who wished to send money and documents to persons in England. He had in his possession the names and addresses of a number of well-known extremists in England, also the names of persons on the Continent who are suspected of having been connected with the German espionage system during the war. He did not have the name of a single responsible trade union leader or official.

It is now definitely established that the Bolshevists on the continent have a well organised system of sending agents to England with money and propaganda literature. These agents bribe members of foreign crews to stow them away on vessels and they take their chance of escaping the vigilance of the authorities on landing.

WILSON'S ADVICE TO AMERICA.

President Wilson, addressing Congress yesterday, declared that America could not place an embargo on shipments to Europe, which was the nation's greatest customer. America must lend her utmost aid towards restoring normal conditions in Europe, which must be kept going or American industries will suffer. The President strongly deprecated the suggestions of general strikes. He appealed to housekeepers to exercise greater economy and went on to recommend the placing of surplus stocks of food and clothing in the hands of the Government for sale and distribution. He urged the prosecution of profiteers, the regulation of the cold storage industry in order to define the limits within which foodstuffs can be held and also advocated the marking of all goods with the price at which they left the producers' hands.

MINERS' FRUITLESS CONFERENCE.

A meeting took place at the Labour Ministry yesterday between the parties concerned in the Yorkshire coal dispute. The Conference, which lasted three hours, was abortive, agreement being reached on not a solitary point. A special meeting of the Miners' Federation has been called for next week.

NEGROES BARRED.

Yesterday morning Chicago Union officials announced that 4,780 white employers at various packing plants and stockyards had struck work owing to the return of negro workers. Later in the day livestock trading was entirely suspended owing to a general strike in the stockyards. Thirty-three thousand workers are out.

All French troops and ships have left Cattero, which is thus left entirely to the Italians.

HUNGARIAN COUP.

PROBABLE RESTORATION OF MONARCHY.

News from Hungary is of a most conflicting nature, but a Paris report yesterday morning states that in consequence of the refusal of the Roumanian authorities to receive the Allies' Military Mission to Buda-Pesth, the Supreme Council has addressed a note to the Roumanian Government couched in very vigorous terms.

In France it is generally thought that the new Hungarian Government will demand a revision of the Roumanian armistice, which if granted, will only modify the economic clauses. A Paris report also alleged that Mr. Hoover, who is directing the revictualling, has suspended the further despatch of food to Buda-Pesth owing to the fact that the Roumanians are carrying off food from Hungary.

Meanwhile the coup d'état has been temporarily successful. The Archduke Joseph has issued a re-assuring proclamation to the people and formed a provisional Government. It is believed that the elections to the National Assembly are likely to give a large majority for the re-establishment of the Monarchy and the election of the Archduke Joseph as King.

PLAYING AT KINGS.

ROUMANIA AND HUNGARY.

Telegrams from Vienna state that the movement for the re-establishment of the Monarchy in Hungary is steadily gaining ground, both in Buda-Pesth and the provinces. It is considered as practically assured that the forthcoming National Assembly will show a majority favourable to the election of the Archduke Joseph. The formation of a Coalition Government is considered improbable, as the Social Democrats refuse to take office. It is possible that the Archduke will proclaim a military dictatorship.

Certain members of the Peace Conference appear to be dissatisfied at the attitude of the Roumanians in Hungary, but public opinion is undoubtedly on the side of the Roumanians. Emphasis is laid on the fact that military action was undertaken by Roumania and that when she was attacked by the Hungarians and seemed to be in a difficult position, nothing was done to help her. Therefore, it is argued by her supporters, it would be strange to contest her right to exact all the guarantees which appear necessary. It would be even more strange to support the Magyars against the Roumanians when the latter were not supported against the Magyars. Nevertheless, in order to remove any cause of dissatisfaction on the part of the Allied powers, French friends of Roumania advise her to make concessions in economic stipulations. Although it is not believed in France that the restoration of the Monarchy is seriously contemplated, it is certainly regarded as paradoxical for a member of the fallen imperial family to be at the head of an alleged Republican Government.

BELGIUM RATIFIES PEACE TREATY.

The Belgian Parliament to-day ratified the Peace Treaty.

The Socialist Extreme Left accepted the treaty "with regret that it does not give Belgium all the reparation and protection for which she had hoped."

FIRST SURRENDER DEMANDED.

It is reported from Copenhagen that the Allies have already claimed the first enemy prisoners who are to be tried for violation of International Law. The surrender of the German General Kruska, Commander of the prisoners of war camp at Kassel, has been demanded.

This is the camp where an epidemic of typhus caused the death of 3,000 prisoners of war.

A medical writer who visited the camp at Cassel stated that typhus was introduced in the camp by Russian prisoners, and that "by a criminal order sent from Berlin they were mixed with the healthy French." An observation attached to the order said, "They will thus have an opportunity of making the acquaintance of their beloved allies."

PEACE WITH AFGHANISTAN.

The Indian Government has informed the Secretary of State for India that peace with Afghanistan was signed at eleven o'clock on Friday.

KUT ATROCITIES.

PROCEEDINGS OF COURT MARTIAL.

Further disclosures of the ghastly treatment of British prisoners after the fall of Kut were made yesterday, when the Court-martial was resumed on William Fratel, the half-caste medical officer.

The first witness, Arthur Mumford, formerly of the 2nd Dorsets, said he went into hospital as orderly. Dr. Conus, a Greek or German, was in charge and when he was away Fratel took command. He referred to the Arab tent known as the "death trap."

Captain Eastwood, prosecutor, asked who looked after the men in the tent.

Mumford replied: "To tell you the truth there was nobody looking after them at all. They were simply put in there to die."

"Sick men," he added, "were left for hours on the ground outside the hospital until Fratel went to see them. The British patients were kept in a repulsive condition. Two German nurses there complained that it was the most disgusting thing they had ever seen and said that if the British were not shifted they would go back to Constantinople. Fratel had the best food at all meals and plenty of tobacco. He used to lie in his bunk for hours smoking and reading."

Mumford said that his own food consisted of rice and water. When the camp broke up in September 1916 the sick were turned out of the hospital, a German storeman pushing them out of bed with his feet. Fratel saw this, and a few minutes later, when the sick were outside and a German was knocking them about, forcing them to move on to the railway quicker, Fratel said "That's the way. If they won't go by kindness treat them harshly."

William Howlett, demobilized, said that while he was at Bagtsche he was employed as timekeeper in connection with railway construction. This was being carried out by Philip Holzmann and Company, a German firm. The constructing company also ran the hospital, which was not under Turkish control. It was situated on top of a hill round the base of which a stream ran. The sewage from the hospital drained into this stream, from which the British prisoners in surrounding camps had to draw their water. The sanitary conditions were abominable but the medical stores ample. The dead were treated abominably. As soon as a patient died his body was taken to the deadhouse and when a grave had been dug by a burying party the body was taken and thrown in.

This evidence closed the case for the prosecution and the court adjourned until Monday.

TENTH DIVISION ASSOCIATION.

At a private meeting, held in Dublin, of officers and ex-members of the Irish 10th Division, it was decided to form an association, to be known as "The Tenth Division Association," to consist of officers, and ex-officers, non-commissioned officers, and men, and parents or next-of-kin of deceased officers, non-commissioned officers, or men who had served with any unit in the division. The object of the association is to render assistance to and to promote the welfare of the members. A distinctive badge will shortly be issued to each member.

AMMUNITION DUMP EXPLODES.

On Friday afternoon a large ammunition dump between Bailleul and Steenwerk exploded, destroying everything in the neighbourhood. There are three dead and twenty wounded amongst the civilians. The number of victims amongst British soldiers, German prisoners and Chinese workmen has not yet been ascertained.

SOCIALIST CONGRESS.

At yesterday's sitting of the Socialist Congress at Lucerne the French leader Renaudel read the Committee's report on the Peace Treaty. It stated that the majority of the Committee demanded a revision of the Versailles Treaty in such a manner as better to conciliate the peoples of the various nations. They also required that Germany, Austria and Russia be at once admitted to the League of Nations.

The German Majority Socialist Weils advocated the summoning of a Miners Congress representing the nations of the world for the purpose of solving the coal problem.

POET LAUREATE FOR LIFE.

Was the office of Poet Laureate a life appointment, irrespective of inspiration and intellectual output, asked Sir Ernest Wild in the House of Commons.

Mr. Bonar Law: It is a life appointment.

Colonel A Murray: Does it carry any obligations to write poems?

Mr. Bonar Law: I think not. Of all possible obligations that would be the most unreasonable. (Laugther).

JAPANESE ANARCHISTS.

Thirty-seven arrests are reported from Tokyo in connection with the discovery by the police of a plot to smuggle bombs into Japan in furtherance of a scheme similar to that recently reported from America. The censor has allowed no details to appear in print.

POLICE PAY.

COMMISSIONERS ANNOUNCE NEW RATES.

The new rates of pay are announced by the Comissioners of Metropolitan Police. They have received the sanction of the Home Secretary, with effect from March 31. They are as follows.

Superintendent £550 per annum by £25 annually to £700.

Chief Inspectors £8 9s. per week by 6s. per week annually to £9 13s.

Sub-Divisional Inspectors £7 10s. by 4s. to £8 2s.

Inspectors £6 5s. by 4s, to £7 5s.

Station and Clerk Sergeants £5 15s. by 2s.6d. to £6.

Sergeants £5 by 2s.6d. to £5 12s.6d.

Constables £3 10s. by 2s. to £ 4 10s.

Acting Sergeants receive on appointment an addition to the pay of their rank of 2s. per week, and after two years' service as Acting Sergeant 4s. per week.

Existing officers will be placed on the revised scales of pay according to the length of their service in their respective classes.

Constables receive further increments of 2s. 6d. after 17 and 22 years' service subject to good conduct and efficiency.

Effect will also be given in due course to the recommendation of the Police Committee that constables shall receive a special advance of two increments in the scale for good conduct and special proficiency, subject to passing the qualifying examination for promotion.

The allowance to be drawn for boots will be increased to 1s. 6d. per week as from 31st March, and officers attached to the uniform branch when employed in plain clothes will continue to receive allowances under existing sanctions.

In accordance with the recommendation of the committee, the war bonus, including the Children's Bonus, and the allowance for coals, being absorbed in the new rates of pay, will be discontinued as from 31st March. The few remaining Reserve allowances will also, of course, be absorbed.

The Rent Aid Allowance and Lodging Deductions will remain as at present until the future provision under this head, which is now being considered, is determined.

SWINDLER'S AMAZING CAREER.

At Weymouth yesterday Reginald Herbert Heald, who had been staying at the Royal Hotel, where he represented himself as an officer in the Royal Air Force, was remanded on a charge of passing worthless cheques thereby obtaining sums of money under the name of Captain Fortescue.

When arrested accused said "I want to tell you everything. I'm wanted for breaking gaol at Canterbury and am also wanted at Maidenhead, Winchester, Bournemouth and other places. The cheques passed here are 'duds'."

The prosecuting solicitor said that witnesses had come from all parts of the country. According to the evidence prisoner, who claimed to have served overseas, had an amazing career. He had gone under the names of Major Bathurst, Captain Fortescue, Lieutenant Macduff-Fraser and General Percival.

THE WHITEHALL CENOTAPH.

A communication addressed to the Westminster City Council by H.M. Office of Works states that the War Cabinet has decided that the cenotaph in Whitehall shall become a permanent memorial to those fallen in war. The letter added that the police had no objection to the present site and the Council was asked for its consent.

The General Purposes Committee, of which Lord Cheylesmore is Chairman, recommends the Council, however, to inform the Office of Works that owing to the swiftly moving traffic passing along Whitehall, the proposed site is considered somewhat dangerous and recommends Parliament Square as being a more suitable site.

BACK TO THE LAND.

The schemes put forward by various County Councils for the purchase of 11,500 acres of land for the settlement on small holdings of ex-service men was endorsed last week by the Board of Agriculture. Plans for the acquisition of about 105,000 additional acres are now under consideration. The number of ex-service men settling on farm estates is steadily increasing.

BRIGHTER LABOUR OUTLOOK.

A distinct improvement is reported in the labour situation. The master bakers, after a futile meeting yesterday, made new proposals which the men are considering. At the Ministry of Labour a new meeting of the parties concerned in the Yorkshire coal dispute is also being arranged.

Liverpool has again been the scene of collisions between the authorities and strikers but even there the situation has improved generally. An early termination of other strikes is expected.

LIVERPOOL TRAMS RUNNING.

The Liverpool tramway strike has ended in the men returning to work under the old conditions and the promise that their demands will be considered at a committee meeting at the end of the month.

FOR PROFITEERS.

ACT OF PARLIAMENT AS DETERRENT.

The draft of the Bill to check profiteering was issued by the Board of Trade yesterday. The measure stipulates that any person, if called upon must produce any documents and information asked for; gives power to the Board to receive and investigate complaints that an unreasonable profit is being made and power to declare a price which yields a reasonable profit. Where a conviction is made against a trading company every director and officer of it shall be deemed guilty of the offence.

The Bill defines all powers from the establishment of local committees to the appeals tribunal. The Board may, if necessary, authorise local authorities to purchase and sell any article to which the act applies. If the local tribunals think fit, cases may be transferred to courts of summary jurisdiction, where fines up to £200 and (or) imprisonment up to six months may be imposed.

The Act is to continue in force for six months unless Parliament determines otherwise.

SUCCESSFUL RAID IN THE BIRKENHEAD SECTOR.

In the early hours of yesterday morning the Birkenhead police, supported by soldiers and a posse of specials, raided a number of houses in the lower quarters of the town in search of loot stolen during the recent Liverpool riots. The raid was a complete surprise, a number of persons being arrested and a large amount of stolen property recovered. Those arrested were taken to the station in transport wagons under a strong guard and were remanded for a week.

Other looting charges, after being once adjourned, were dealt with at the police court yesterday, when sentences ranging from two to four months imprisonment were imposed. The court was crowded and when the sentences were pronounced there was an outburst of cries and sobs from the women in court.

Such salutary and swift retribution was the last thing they had expected.

AMERICAN ACTORS ON STRIKE.

The strike fever which has spread to the United States has affected even the actors. Owing to the refusal of the managers to meet representatives of the Actors Association the entire companies of twelve leading Broadway theatres have refused to perform. The New York train and street car services are also shut down as the result of the general labour strikes and there has been a record fall on Wall Street.

IRISH POLICE BESIEGED.

A daring outrage is reported from East Clare, where a police hut established at Moynoe for the protection of Dr. Sampson. J. P., was attacked yesterday by a party from thirty to forty strong. They opened a violent fire with rifles and revolvers, the hut being occupied at the time by Sergeant Burke and four constables.

The police replied vigorously to the firing, which was sustained for ninety minutes. One of the police was injured but it is believed that several of the attacking party were wounded.

BRITISH SUBMARINE LOSSES.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Strauss asked the First Lord of the Admiralty whether the percentage of killed was greater in the submarine service than in any other branch of the service. Dr. Macnamara replied that the percentage of killed in the various branches of the Naval services cannot at present be determined, but it may be stated that the percentage of losses in the submarine service was very high, being estimated at about nineteen per cent. of the numbers employed.

REPENTANCE CAME TOO LATE.

The Kensington municipal workers' strike collapsed with dramatic suddenness yesterday. The whole of the strikers offered to return to work, but it was not so simple as all that. The men had been dismissed, and in some cases their places taken by fresh applicants.

The Council have, however, taken back as many of the strikers as were necessary to fill the vacant posts, the pensions of these men to depend on their future conduct whilst in the Council's service.

THE NEW PENSION RATES.

The Ministry of Pensions has issued an explanatory summary of the new pension rates. The chief point to note is that the increases will be subject to readjustment after three years. Any future readjustment will depend on the cost of living, but will not in any case have the effect of lowering the new scale by more than 20 per cent.

The eight British soldiers who were murdered in a train at Deyrut during the disorders of last March were buried in the British cemetery at Cairo on Tuesday with full military honours.

SAD FATALITY.

RHINE ARMY CHAPLAIN DROWNED ON HONEYMOON.

Whilst the Rev. George Waldron Sweet, who has been serving with the 3rd Lowland Division in the Army of the Rhine, was punting on the river Cherwell at Oxford, the puntpole broke. He was thrown into the water and drowned. He was with his wife on their honeymoon tour at the time.

Mr. Sweet was only married on Wednesday to Miss Phyllis Hickson, at St. James' Church, West Hampstead.

TOWNSHEND INVOKES HISTORY.

General Townshend, speaking at Newport (Mon.) yesterday, said he was quite satisfied to leave history to deal with Mesopotamia and he wanted to live long enough to see what history said about the defence of Kut. He was ordered to go forward with a handful of men. He warned the authorities of what would happen if he went on with such limited effectives, and having warned them, his duty was plain and the orders he received had to be carried out. With enough men he would have guaranteed not only to take Baghdad but to hold it. He was able to retrieve somewhat for the loss of Kut by inducing the Turks to make peace earlier than they would have done otherwise, and when he arrived in Paris he was congratulated by M. Clemenceau for shortening the war, thereby saving thousands of lives.

ONE GERMAN RECOGNISES FAILURE.

Herr Baake, formerly Chief of the German Chancery, was interviewed on his arrival at Amsterdam. He declared that he had not come to Holland by order of the German Government, with which he was no longer connected. His intention was to visit several neutral countries in order to obtain impressions concerning their relations witn Germany. Germany's economic situation had the closest possible connection with the political situation, as all strikes had more political than economic character. The Communists efforts had failed, and they could never be successful, as the raising of the blockade would lead to an improvement in trade. The collapse of the Hungarian Republic and the failure of the Lenin system had made a deep impression on German workers.

FAITHFUL STRIKER.

An instance of a policeman on strike assisting in an arrest was narrated at the Guildhall Police Court, when Letty Jeffries, twenty-seven, and Annie Hawthorne, twenty-five, were remanded on a charge of robbing Carl Hanson, captain of the steamer Inhaha.

Thomas Pemberton, a plain clothes officer of the City Police, on strike, gave evidence as to following the women, who went through Hanson's pockets and hurried away. Witness spoke to a uniformed constable, and went after the women and detained them. A boy came up and said he had seen Jeffries throw a wallet away, at the same time handing it to the constable. Witness searched and found dollar notes in the gutter.

Alderman Sir Alfred Bower, on behalf of the Court, thanked Pemberton for bringing the women to justice, remarking that the public were indebted to him for his smartness.

Pemberton: — It was a pleasure and a duty.

BRAVE GERMAN PRISONER.

German prisoners at Dorchester to the number of some thousands attended a ceremonial presentation to one of their number, Private Brückmann, 97th Reserve Regiment, of rewards for an act of gallantry performed on Salisbury Plain. Two British aeroplanes had come into collision, and one fell in flames. Brückmann, who was working near, pluckily extricated two of the officers, one of whom died of his injuries. Brückmann was badly burnt while so doing. As a recognition of his conduct he was presented with a silver watch and chain and a gift of money. He has left for Germany, having been repatriated as part of his reward.

STRIKERS' INGLORIOUS EXIT.

A sharp illustration of London public opinion towards the Police strike was given yesterday morning when about forty dismissed constables in the Tottenham section marched to the station to hand in their uniforms. On the way they shouted observations. A large crowd immediately assembled and began to demonstrate against them. When they had delivered up their uniforms they were afraid to face the hostile public and were let out of the station by the back way.

DOUGLAS-PENNANT INQUIRY.

The Committee of Inquiry which is being set up in the House of Lords to investigate the case of Miss Douglas-Pennant will consist of five members. Four are already chosen, Lord Kintore, who is Chairman of Committees in the House of Lords, Lord Askwith, Lord Bainford, and Lord Denbigh.

It is hoped that the fifth member of the Committee may be a Judge.

PRACTICAL GRATITUDE.

There are signs that the soldier is coming into his kingdom. No longer are his fortunes to be the sport of circumstance they are to be the care of a grateful country.

The attitude of England to her men of war has not always been above reproach. In days of martial enthusiasm the soldier was a patriot and a hero. His virtues and his exploits were matter for the declamation of the pulpit, the moralising of the essayist, and the oratory of the statesman. While war lasted the man who followed the colours was the saviour of his country and the emblem of her glories.

But when war gave place to peace and soldiers returned to the homeland, enthusiasm had waned and in the reaction from the strain of war's campaign the plight of the warrior was little heeded. The nation's memory was short, and the veteran was an uncomfortable reminder of days that most men desired to forget.

In 1914 one felt that this attitude must be changed. There was a great, patriotic uprising against a sinister civilisation and a menacing enemy. A new kind of army arose, an army that represented Britain in a way that was unique in her annals. It was not a professional and regular force, but was recruited from every class, rich and poor, high and low. Even in its ordinary ranks there were many who had gained distinction in the worlds of business, science, and letters.

Our nation could not have lifted its head again if such an army could have been forgotten. Happily there are indications that the men who have fought and suffered are yet to live in the appreciation of their countrymen.

Lord Haig of Bemersyde who led his men to victory is once more leading his men. He has captured the heart of England, for his maimed warriors, and they need not fear that though they were undaunted on the battlefield they shall be daunted by the dread of want.

The War Office, also, is playing its part well. Soldiers are being trained for their future professions even whilst they wear the uniform of their country, and men who have been released from the army are being helped financially and otherwise for the business of life.

Then there is the glad news that Lord Byng has resigned his rank that he may take up the post of Chairman of the Board of Management which will dispose of Canteen profits. These amount to a sum of between six and seven million pounds, and they are to be distributed solely for the benefit of soldiers and ex-soldiers and their dependants. The man who knows Vimy Ridge and Bourlon Wood knows what Britain's debt is to her gallant sons.

Last of all, our gracious sovereign has paid his tribute to the soldier, and it is not a mere formal thanksgiving. King George V. has linked himself too closely to the men who fought and died for his Empire to forget the price of war and the meed of heroism.

THE ARTIST.

Just in front of the main station, at Cologne, close to a small grass plot, and almost in the shadow of the Cathedral, there is a man — an oldish man, by trade, a boot black, by nature an artist, who should have painted pictures and had them hung in the finest galleries of the world.

You wonder why? Go and have your boots cleaned and see.

The massive and stately Cathedral, with its wealth of carving and beautiful spires, took nearly seven hundred years to build. This man, to erect the necessary structure for his trade, probably takes no more than seven hundred seconds.

The odiousness of comparisons does not hold good in this case, and if the artist's soul is revealed in the picture or building he creates, no less is the boot-black's innermost nature discovered in the large umbrella, and what lies beneath it.

On the pavement is a small platform of two wooden boxes, upon which stands a white painted chair, with a green plush cushion in the seat. A throne upon which many a monarch might be glad to sit, now-a-days. In front of it, two small iron pedestals stand, on which the feet are placed, and which are high, so that the boot-black, does not take a lowly position on the ground before you, but stands up to his work, like a man.

On a small box, by his side, the brushes and tins of blacking are displayed, like dentist's instruments, but suggesting no pain. Above all this, and tied to one corner of an ornamental railing, is the canopy umbrella, bearing on the outside the legend "Garten Schirme," and underneath radiating a mellow "old gold" light, in which you sit and bask, while the soft velvets are rubbed over your boots.

As you gaze into the roof above, thinking that under some such umbrella might some dark skinned Indian Prince sit, dispensing wisdom and justice to his people, the buzz of traffic becomes dim in your ears. The things which are nearest seem far away. You feel soothed, and lulled into a sweet dream.

For ten minutes or so you are a king sitting on his throne. The queue waiting to have its boots cleaned, doesn't interest you, in spite of its growing length. You want to go on having your boots cleaned for ever. Then—"Bitte sehr" brings you back to earth with a crash.

You walk down from the "throne" with a polite "Danke schön," wishing you had more command of the German language, and could talk to this man, who made you a king for a few minutes.

As you turn away, the Cathedral in all its grandeur meets your eye. Can it give the sense of satisfaction, and tranquillity which a seat on the white chair, with the green, plush cushion has? Perhaps it can, but at the moment it doesn't and that's why the boot-black is an artist.

TWO PARCELS.

"I've got the sweetest girl in all the world in Maryland. She's got those deep blue —" The melodious music issuing from the lusty lungs of Pte. Johnson was suddenly interrupted by a welcome yell of "Mail up" from half a dozen other members of the platoon.

It was in a broken down old barn just behind the lines way back in July 1918 and the orderly corporal had just brought in a handful of letters and a parcel.

The latter was eagerly seized upon by a dozen pairs of hands but was soon in the possession of its rightful owner — our friend Johnson who before long had the "doings" displayed before the envious eyes of his pals.

That evening the barn was bright with "buckshee" candles. Pte. Johnson and Co. enjoyed a drink of hot "café au lait" (made with the aid of a "Kampite" block) partook of home-made cake, not too fresh but very palatable all the same, and finished up with some Cailler's chocolate.

Later Pte. Johnson lay peacefully dreaming of his "girl" in Maryland, whose parcel had been so welcome.

Once again the mail is up and our friend Johnson is lucky enough to get a parcel.

But it is now July 1919, and thanks to the successful termination of hostilities, demobilization etc. our friend is now a full-blown "Lance-Jack," and has a "posh" job as a clerk in G.H.Q. Cologne. He also lias a "Posh" billet in the "Oojah" Strasse, a "posh" mess, and in fact he's "doing the heavy all round."

"She's a sport" says he to himself busily engaged in undoing her parcel; off comes the lid displaying the once welcome assortment of candles, kampite and the rest. Poor Johnson loses all self-control. "Well I'm — What the — did she send these — things for?"

A GARRISON CHURCH.

It is not an imposing building viewed from the outside, but on entering you are agreeably surprised.

The style of architecture is rather heavy and it is not elaborately decorated, but there is a certain indefinable atmosphere about it.

The high pulpit with the sounding board overhead gives the preacher an air of aloofness.

Here during the years of war, German pastors have supplicated heaven for our defeat, and have thundered forth our doom to their appreciative congregations. The big organ has played hymns of thanksgiving for premature victories, but now it accompanies the singing of those true sons of Britain, who, after years of bloody combat, have saved the world from the destroying forces of arrogant, selfish might. How strange it all is! It is the judgment of God! Is it not written: "Vengeance is mine, I will repay saith the Lord?"

It is Sunday evening and as I enter the building my mind goes back to the old days at home. There in the village church we sang the hymns, and heard the words of comfort and inspiration which have proved an untold blessing through all the years of strife.

We cannot value this lightly. A feeling of loneliness creeps over me, but this is dispelled in the hour of worship. Gulfs are bridged and barriers are pierced, and we are linked by invisible chains to our loved ones, who too at this hour are worshipping. There is no hour so sweet, so impressive! It breaks the monotony of the every-day task.

The preacher is the garrison chaplain, a Presbyterian, for I refer to the church at 6 Filzengraben.

A black gown and white cravat effectually hide his khaki uniform. He has a cultured air and by his natural endowment is an expositor of the Word. His illustrations are of the richest quality and his sudden flashes of thought and phrase are very telling. He speaks with a strong Scotch accent and arrests attention.

The body of the church is crowded with men of all ranks who follow the service reverently, and sing the old hymns with great heartiness. How they ring out the hymn for those at home! Only wanderers with an aching longing can sing it with such feeling and emotion:

"Holy Father, in Thy mercy,
Hear our anxious prayer;
Keep our loved ones, now far absent,
'Neath Thy care."

A Major-General of commanding presence steps forward to the altar platform and reads with a clear voice the scripture lesson.

It is distinctly inspiring and creates a deep impression to see him standing there. Who can measure the power of his influence? Such Generals dignify our army and make it great. They are as lights set upon a hill which cannot be hid; they advance in the highest and best direction and hold aloft the standard of righteousness.

One almost forgets that we are worshipping in a German church, and that is as it should be, for the Kingdom of God is greater than national dislikes and prejudices.

"Where'er we seek Thee Thou art found,
And every place is hallowed ground."

The collection is taken in strange little German bags with tinkling bells attached to them. They are carried round by six soldiers and the church is filled with their music.

After the singing of the National Anthem and the Benediction we pass out into the streets of the city with our spiritual strength renewed and ready to face the cares and toils of the morrow.

OUR FUTURE IN THE AIR.

Some time ago I wrote on the subject of meteorology and its importance in connection with flying. I wish now to impress upon everyone just one point—we must become foremost in the air as well as upon the sea.

There may be, at a later date, as much traffic from continent to continent and from country to country in the air as upon the vast oceans. There will be, I am convinced, cargo-planes and passenger-planes as well as postal-planes; and there will certainly be official-planes for army and navy work. Many private "cars" will also be seen speeding through the air, their owners bent upon business or pleasure.

What a host of new trades and professions does this glimpse of the near future call forth. I wrote of meteorology but now I dare mention engineering, geography, mathematics, languages, chemistry and physics as various parts of the future airman's education.

The salient points, apart from a thorough knowledge of one's machine, will undoubtedly be:—To know as much as possible about weather conditions; to know the sky and the position of its orbs; to be able to use instruments for purposes of obervation (latitude and longitude); and a good knowledge of the geography of the countries over which one may pass.

I assume that the future air-vessels will contain captains, mates, engineers and other members comprising the crew in general, just as do ocean-ships; and airmen will need to study quite as much as our seamen, since the art of air locomotion is still in its infancy. In the atmosphere, just as at sea, there are waves and currents. Clouds menace the aviator just as fogs do the mariner.

We wonder at the extraordinary progress made in aviaton, but there is more, much more, to come. The opportunity is here for our hardy and adventurous young fellows, full of vigour and enterprise, to seize. Ample scope for research-work, which needs earnest study, presents itself, and each year will bring improvements with it. Anyone who is industrious, with his soul in his work, may become an inventor. An idea may arise on the spur of the moment or it may materialize after years of steady application.

Therefore, since we are only just beginning to acknowledge the air as a profitable means of portage, there is a chance for everybody to study the question. By study, the mechanic has as unique an opportunity for discovery as the pilot, the observer, and the constructor. And there is money in it!

W.R.P.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

ON HANDWRITING.

Sir,—Having read J.K.D's letter, I am wondering was the copy typed. Also does J.K.D. really believe that German handwriting is better than English. If he does let him come to my office for a day or two. His statements will be more reasonable and guarded after that experience.

The "Italic" style may be all right as an art; so was the illuminated manuscript of the Psalter, but like the latter, it is no good for twentieth century business use. Our grandmothers used to drum J.K.D.'s advice into us, but heaven keep the man who had to read their script when written in a hurry.

No, it's no use, J.K.D. Be as enthusiastic as you like about penmanship as an art, but let us have a good round running hand for our schools, our works and our offices. I would suggest that these two different subjects be placed in the syllabuses: (1) penmanship, (2) writing.

AWFIST.

MISTAKEN CHIVALRY.

Sir,—As an English girl who was at the Military Tattoo the other night when the deluge of rain suddenly overwhelmed us all, I was not too pleased to see how our soldiers attended to the wants of the German girls by bestowing their coats and waterproofs on fräuleins with whom they were probably hitherto unacquainted.

There were many of their own country-women who were just as unprepared to face the elements. Gallant, our boys' conduct may have been; but many British girls went home sick at heart because of being neglected, as well as soaked to the skin.

W. R. A. F.

MORE ON SERIOUS READING.

Sir,—While being in agreement with the majority of the books mentioned in Lt. Paterson's excellent list I would like to add that masterpiece of English Literature, Dicken's David Copperfield, to his list.

Reading is an acquired art, and before a man can enjoy Carlyle or Darwin, he must first "learn" to read something simpler, and no book is better suited to this purpose than the one I have named with the exception of Scott's "Ivanhoe" given by your correspondent.

1918.

BACK TO THE LAND.

Sir,—Regarding the recent letter on "Small Holdings" the idea is certainly good; but what is the prospect for the average would-be land-worker with no security of tenure, the tied house system and the dull grey life of the countryside?

What is wanted is a guarantee of reaping the fruit of one's labour, a good house built to conform to rules of sanitation which many houses in our villages are not, and the provision of suitable places for recreation or social intercourse when the day's work is done where one could enjoy a pint of good beer and talk over the days's doing with none of the raucous smoky atmosphere of the tap room surrounding one.

The system of private ownership of land lies at the root of many of our troubles. I am no revolutionary, I love my country with a fervent love, but I look forward to the day when that system will be altered with, I trust, the dawn of better, brighter days, a happy prosperous countryside, with the few remaining chains of feudalism swept aside.

R.E.

FROM THE WILDS.

Sir,—The complaints of soldiers in Cologne and other big centres as to their amusements make me and other fellows who are planted out in the wilds with few diversions, very tired. If any of these men are dissatisfied let them change places. Where we are, we get no cinemas, dances, concerts or Rhine trips—just an occasional visit of two or three of us to the B.E.L.C. and then we return very sick to a spot in the wilds with only two trains a day and a journey of three hours to Cologne if you are lucky enough to catch one.

We don't want to see any more letters as to lack of sport in Cologne.

BACKWOODSMAN.

READY FOR "RUGGER."

Sir,—the Rugby Season is fast approaching, and there is no sign of any attempt to organise competitions for Rugby teams. What we would like to know is this:

(1) Are there going to be any leagues or competitions for Rugby teams?

(2) If there is going to be a controlling body, will the members of the elected body consist of past and present players?

Failing to hear of any leagues or competitions, we will commence to arrange our fixtures for the coming season.

AN O.T. FIFTEEN.

OUR ENGINEERING SUPREMACY.

Sir,—For some time past, there have been letters in your paper in which the writers point out things which they have seen for the first time out here, and take it for granted that these do not exist in England, so hold them up to us as an example of our being behind the times.

The latest example is the magnetic crane. For some years this type of crane has been used in most of the rolling mills in England.

The reason why sundry pieces of metal are not lifted at the same time is because the end of the crane, which comes in contact with the weight to be lifted, is in the form of what for the sake of illustration can be called a claw, and it is only when the two ends of the claw are connected by the metal to be lifted that the circuit is made which forms the magnetic attraction.

England can still hold her own in the engineering world, as the example of munition production shows, as well as the fact that before the war, foreign firms had to come to us for many of the larger types of engines and presses. Krupps over seven years ago had from an English firm an hydraulic press for hollow gun forgings, which developed a pressure of 12,000 tons.

In England we can show tit for tat in connection with most of these so called wonderful things found in Rhineland.

R.A.F. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Capt. Pyper Wins 3 Mile Race With Exciting Spurt.

LARGE SPECTATORATE.

Under the most delightful auspices, the Royal Air Force of the Rhine held their Athletic Championships at Poller Wiesen Sports Ground, Cologne, yesterday. Several thousands of spectators reclined on the banks surrounding the ground in brilliant sunshine. The heat was intense, even though tempered by a slight breeze which caused the huge number of tiny flags, with which the ground was decorated, to flutter prettily. An observation balloon swaying gently above, came in for a considerable amount of attention, particularly from the German element, who subsequently crowded round when it was lowered.

From the point of view of organization, the sports were admirable, and the committee is to be heartily congratulated upon the fact that not ing was overlooked that could be calculated to ensure the smooth running of the event as wel as the comfort of the spectators. Those who composed the Committee were: Chairman, Lt.-Col. A. C. H. McLean; Members, Captains C. P. Abbott, A. J. Adams, L. E. Cording, M.C., M.M., H. R. Kavanagh, M.B.E., H. E. Turnley, J. V. Read, and A. M. Waistell, D.S.C.; Lieuts. C. B. Hudson, P. J. Gee, and L. N. W. Woods.

The lady members of the Force also worked energetically in various ways towards the conspicuous success of the event.

The Prizewinners.

The prizewinners were.

100 yards:—1, A. C. Bosbury, 91st Wing; 2, A. C. Bird, 1st A.S.D.; 3, Col. Smith, 91st Wing. Time 10 2/5 secs.

220 yards:—1, Cpl. Cronbury, 91st Wing; 2, A. C. Bird, 1 A.S.D.; 3, Lt. Mason, E.R.S. Time 24 1/5 secs.

880 yards:—1, Lt. C. W. Moorhouse, 11th Wing; 2, Sergt. Budd, 1 A.D.; 3, A. C. Bannatyne, 1 A.D. Time 2.10 1/5.

One mile:—1, Cpl. W. Austen, E.R.S.; 2, A.C. Bannatyne; 3, A. C. Pearce, E.R.S. Time 4.56 1/5.

Putting the shot:—1, Col. Spicer, H.Q. (38 ft. 3 ins.); 2, A. C. Read; 3, Capt. Abbott.

Throwing the hammer:—1, Col. Spicer (92'5"); 2, A.C. Fordyce, H.Q.; 3, Cpl. Garratt, E.R.S.

Two miles walk:—1, Sergt. Miles, 2nd Wing; 2, Cpl. Miles, 91st Wing; 3, L.A.C. Cameron, E.R.S. (17 mins. 11 1/5th secs).

100 yards, open to Forces:—1, Lt. Godfrey, 6th R.W.K.; 2, Sergt. King, 17th Lancers; 3, Sergt. Garmondsay, 84th Bde. R.G.A. Time 10 2/5.

100 yards W.R.A.F.:—1, Member Hugill, 1 A.D.; 2, Member McMahon, E.R.S.; 3, Member Gray, 1 A.D. Time 13 2/5.

High jump:—1, Lt. Bellin, 1 A.S.D.; 2, Lt. C.W. Moorhouse; 3, Lt. C.R. Fenton, 91st Wing. (Winner, 5'2").

Long jump:—1, Lt. Beavon Potts, 11th Wing; 2, Lt. Jenkins, 91st Wing; 3, Lt. Bellin. (Winner, 20' 7 1/2").

Three mile:—1, Capt. H.C. Pyper, H.Q.; 2, Cpl. W. Austin, E.R.S.; 3, A.C. Lee, 91st Wing.

A Great Spurt.

(This was the most exciting race of the afternoon. A good pace was kept up from the start. By the time the first mile had been covered, the runners had tailed off. At the start of the last lap, Austin made a great spurt and looked as though he would be an easy winner. Then Capt. Pyper made a tremendous effort and gradually drew forward. For four hundred yards these two raced abreast, but the Captain managed to get a slight lead and won an excellent race.)

Tug-of-war:—E.R.S. beat 91st Wing in final.

120 yds Hurdle (R.A.F.):—1, Lt. Fenton, 91st Wing; 2, Lt. Bellin, No. 1 A.S.D.; 3, Capt. Cording, H.Q.

Blindfold Chariot Race:—1, Mbr. Nichols and A. C. Morgan; 2, Mbr. Hardman and Sgt. Scott.

Composite Relay Race:—1, E.R.S.; 2, 91st Wing; 3, No. 1 A.S.D.

440 yds. Open:—1, Lt. Cutbush, 9th Corps; 2, Sgt. Gautein, 5th R.I. Regt.; 3, Sgt. King, 17th Lancers.

440 yds. R.A.F.:—1, Cpl. Crosbery, 91st Wing.; 2, Capt. Cording, H.Q.; 3, Cpl. Bignall, E.R.S., Time 54 1/5 secs.

Tug-of-War:—E.R.S. beat 91st Wing in the final.

One mile relay R.A.F.:—1, No. 1 A.D.; 2, E.R.S.; 3, 91st Wing.

Mile Open Relay Race: Winners, 18th K.R.R.C. Band race:—1, Senior, 2, Brockley; 3, Frape, 4, Heffernon.

The Championship Cup presented by the Officers of the Rhine H.Q., R.A.F., was won by 91st Wing with 32 points, E.R.S. being runners up with 30 points.

The handsome prizes were presented by Mrs. Malcolm Spicer, the wife of Colonel Spicer H.Q. R.A.F., who received prizes in some of the events.

Altogether the sports were voted by everyone present to have been wonderfully well organized and carried out. Good sport added to excellent weather conditions and surroundings made the meeting one of the most enjoyable yet provided by and for British troops on the Rhine.

1/5 WEST YORKS SWEEPSTAKE.

The final date for the purchase of tickets for the 1/5th West Yorks Sweepstake is August 16th and the draw will take place on August 18th. The proceeds from tickets purchased will be invested in War Savings Certificates which will be allotted as follows: 50 per cent. to the winner; 20 per cent. to the second; 10 per cent. to the third, and the remainder to the next ten winning numbers.

The sweep opened on Friday and already nearly 5,000 tickets have been sold. The sweepstake is open to all officers and men. Tickets can be purchased from all companies or from the Hon. Treas. 1/5 West Yorks War Savings Association.

Ross and Tancy Lee.

It is quite propable that Walter Ross and Tancy Lee will meet at an early date.

Too Small.

There is hardly a racecourse in England capable of accommodating in comfort the crowds that go racing these days.

Police Tug-of-war.

With a view to meeting the generally expressed wishes of teams intending to compete in the Police tug-of-war at the Army Championship meeting on Friday, Aug. 29, it has been decided to limit the weight of teams to 130 stone (10 to pull).

From the "Harrovian."

"A report has been issued by a committee invited by the Headmaster to consider the present cricket engagements at Harrow and to suggest possible improvements or modifications in them. The report, which advocates, among other things, an alternative game to cricket for the summer term, has been unanimously adopted by the Philathletic Club, and has been submitted to the cricket authorities."

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Sunday, August 10, 1919.

Surface wind light and variable. Fine with mist in the early morning; fair and warm in the day with improving visibility.

DONOGHUE'S TREBLE.

Crack Amateur Rider Wins At Lewes Meeting.

PEER IN THE SADDLE.

The amateur riders in the Welter Handicap at Lewes race meeting on Friday included Lord Porchester and such cracks as Messrs. J. Anthony, F. B. Rees—who rode the penalized Neurotic—Bristowe, F. Hartigan, and Lieut.-Col. Bevis. Mr. Bristowe won on Zuider Zee. Stainton was a warm favourite, but never looked like repeating his Alexandra Park success. Lord Porchester was second on Sir E. Hulton's Silvanite.

Donoghue accomplished his treble on Polismen, Amastris, and Our Stephen. Amastris (Mr. T.A. Edge) started at the unusually liberal price—for a Donoghue mount—of 10 to 1. Details:—

Selling Plate:—1, Polismen (6—4); 2, Gurkha (8—1); 3, Ma Petite (11—8).

Castle Selling Plate:—1, Amastris (10—1); 2, Eau de Vie (3—1); 3, Monody (100—8).

Stanmore Handicap:—1, Dinah Morris (7—2); 2, Win the War (7—2); 3, Irish Fair (7—1).

As ley Stakes:—1, Fiddlededee (5—4 on); 2, Claudette (3—1); 3, Sweet Dorothy (20—1).

Open Welter Handicap:—1, Zuider Zee (6—1); 2, Silvanite (100—7); 3, Monazite (100—7).

De Warenne Handicap:—1, Sentry (6—1); 2, Clipstone (100—6); 3, St Agnes Eve (100—6).

Nevill Maiden Plate:—1, Our Stephen (5—2 on); 2, Kings Own (3—1); 3, Aussie (100—7).

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

Royal Dublin Society: Past And Present.

The Royal Dublin Horse Show, which is to be held on August 26th and 29th, promises to be even more successful this year than previously.

Mr. Bernard Weatherill, who has now a branch in Cologne, will have a particularly interesting stand there at which he will exhibit the evolution in riding kit that has resulted during the war. He has issued an interesting little booklet dealing with the history of the show, past and present. From this one learns that the Royal Dublin Society was founded in 1731, under the title of "The Dublin Society for Improving Husbandry, Manufacture, and other useful Arts and Sciences." In 1750 the Society was granted its first Charter, and became a medium for the administration of premiums and bonuses for the encouragement of agriculture, science, art, and other industries. The prefix "Royal" was added in 1820 by authority of King George IV on his Majesty becoming the patron of the Society.

From 1868 to 1880 the annual horse shows were held on the lawn, in front of Leinster House. Eventually the city's growth gradually encroached on the Society's domain, and necessitated a change of venue. Since 1880 the shows have been held on the Society's permanent show yard at Ball's Bridge, which is one of the finest in Europe. At the outbreak of war the show yard premises were taken over by the military authorities, and after 4 1/2 years occupancy, vacated on March 1st last.

79th BDE. R.G.A. SPORTS,

Dismounted Events at Cuchenheim.

The dismounted sports of 79th Bde. R.G.A. were held at Cuchenheim on Saturday. A Cup, presented by the Brigade Commander for the best individual aggregate, was won by Gnr. Wilcox, of 145 Siege Battery. Gnr. Shepherd, 174 Siege Battery, set and maintained a grand pace for the two mile flat race, and finished up with nearly a lap to spare. Mr. Cutbush, Y.M.C.A., won the open 100 Yards in fine style in 10 4/5 seconds on a very rough track.

Perhaps the best event of the afternoon was the Tug-of-war semi-final between 185 Siege Battery and 145 Siege Battery. The teams were fairly matched for weight, and splendid coaching on the part of Gnr. Wilkes of 185 S. B. was largely responsible for his team's victory. Many thanks are due to Capt. Pocock, of the P. and R. T. School, Euskirchen, and to Mr. Cutbush Y.M.C.A., for their invaluable assistance both on the field and in its preparation. Brig.-Gen. Mackenzie, the G.O.C. Heavy Artillery, IX Corps, kindly distributed the prizes.

New Irish Record.

The Clonliffe Harriers held a sports meeting at Lansdowne, near Dublin. A feature of the meeting was a three miles walk. Bridge, the English champion, beat Campbell, the Irish champion, and created an Irish record (22 min. 2 2-5 sec.), beating the previous best by 2 2-5 sec.

CANTERBURY WEEK.

Kentish Tail Wags To Some Purpose.

GALLANT RECOVERY.

The Kent team, who concluded their first innings at Canterbury for 301, played up with splendid courage yesterday. With only four wickets in hand on resumption, the county team were still 56 runs behind, but thanks to vigorous hitting on the part of Hubble and Fairservice they finished well in front. This pair added 113 runs, and Hubble took out his bat for an innings which included eight 4's. The Colonials, facing a deficit of 103 runs, made a poor start, but before Taylor was beautifully caught low down at cover point, he and F. Pellew had saved the situation. Pellew played a resolute game, and hit a dozen 4's. At the close of play the tourists, with six wickets in hand, claimed a lead of 172 runs. Gregory is again bowling well in this match, and the New South Wales man captured seven Kent wickets for a hundred runs.

The scores in the leading English matches at the close of Friday were as follows:—

ENGLISH CRICKET.

Middlesex 294 v Surrey 221 for four.
Hampshire 114 and 71 v Somerset 142.
Warwick 464 v Gloucester 120 for two.
Australians 198 and 275 for four v Kent 301.
Sussex 523 v Essex 99 for two.
Notts 300 v Lancs 192 for two.
Derbyshire 246 v Northants 243 for five.
Leicester 161 v Yorks 303 for four.

ENGINEERS v. ARTILLERY.

In the annual match at Lord's on Friday the Royal Engineers scored 307, Major E. St. G. Kirke 79, and Lieut.-Col. B. L. Eddis 77. The Royal Artillery replied with 147 for seven wickets, Lieut.-Col. P. G. Robinson contributing 53 not out. Kirke hit nine 4's and Eddis ten.

SCARBOROUGH FESTIVAL.

Three First Class Matches for Next Month.

The Scarborough Festival is to be revived next month on quite the pre-war scale, three first-class matches having been arranged—M.C.C. v. Yorkshire, Gentlemen v. Players, and C. I. Thornton's England XI. v. Australian Imperial Forces team. Mr. Thornton has been fortunate in securing very strong sides. The M.C.C. team on Sept. 1 will be:—

H. D. G. Leveson-Gower (captain), F. T. Mann, G. E. V. Crutchley, R. H. Twining, R. H. Spooner, N. Haig, M. Falcon, D. C. Robinson, Hendren, Hearne (J. W.), and Kennedy. For the Gentlemen v. Players match the eleven will consist of:—

Gentlemen.—H. D. G. Leveson-Gower (captain), P. F. Warner, G. E. V. Crutchley, J. W. H. T. Douglas, D. C. Robinson, M. Falcon, G. T. S. Stevens, R. H. Spooner, D. J. Knight, N. Haig, and the Rev. F. H. Gillingham.

Players.—Hirst (captain), Hendren, J. W. Hearne, Kilner, Dolphin, Rhodes, Kennedy, Hobbs, Hitch, Holmes, and Heaton.

Mr. Thornton's eleven against the Australians will be:—

H. D. G. Leveson-Gower (captain), P. F. Warner, J. W. H. T. Douglas, D. C. Robinson, M. Falcon, G. T. S. Stevens, D. J. Knight, R. H. Spooner, Hobbs, Hitch, and Hirst.

NEW ARMY ATHLETIC EVENTS.

In addition to the standard events in the Army Athletic Championship, to be held at Aldershot on August 28 and 29, the following will also be held:—

Open to Demobilised Officers and Soldiers—220 yards and 880 yards level.

Officers' Training Corps—880 yards relay race (4 to run, each 220 yards).

Territorial Force—Mile relay race (open to one team from each T.F. division at home).

Open to teams from divisions of the Metropolitan or City Police, and to Borough or County Constabulary—(1) Mile relay race; (2) tug-of-war (teams of 10, limit weight 130 stone).

3rd LIGHT BRIGADE CRICKET LEAGUE.

483 FIELD COY. R.E. (49) v. 12th ROYAL IRISH RIFLES (42) at Haan on Wednesday. After a very close match the Sappers won by 1 wicket. In each case it was the tail which did the best. For the winners Spr. Bird made 15 and Lieut. Monteith took 4 wickets for 6 runs. For the R.I.R., Baker made 16 runs and Parsons took 4 wickets for 18.

County Bowls Semi-Final.

In the semi-final for the English county bowls championship on Friday, on the Temple green, Denmark-hill, Surrey lost to Devon, 84—85.

MORE ATHLETICS.

51st Royal Warwicks Interesting Meeting.

"JUMPER" HALL'S FORM.

The sports of this battalion were held on Monday. All events were keenly contested, and the competition between the different Companies for the Championship Cup was exceptionally keen.

FOUR HAT TRICKS.

London Div. M.T. Bowler's Successful Season.

C.P.C. MATCHES.

Cpl. Biles of the London Div. M.T. Coy. has added another hat trick to his list, thus performing four since the opening of the "Cologne Post" Cup Competition. The following are summaries of the latest matches:—

LOWLAND DIV. M.T. COY. (11[illegible]) v. 83rd (DUBLIN) GENERAL HOSP. (21) at Leichlingen. Pte. Robinson made 42 runs for the M. T.'s and Cpl. Biles performed the hat-trick for the fourth time this season.

29th BN. M.G.C. (89 for 7) v. H CORPS H.Q. (24) at Leverkusen. The chief scorers for M.G.C. were L/Cpl. Durant 21, Cpl. Saddler 19 not out, while Lieut. Astill took 7 wickets for 7 runs and Saddler 3 for 12.

77th SIEGE BTY. (120) v. 354 SIEGE BTY. (34) at Godesberg. Fenton was the star performer scoring 49 and taking 7 wickets for 8 runs.

D CORPS SIEGE PARK (34 for 3) v. LIGHT DIVISION H.Q. (23) at Düren. For Siege Park, Sgt. Munford took 3 wickets for 15 and Pte. Lee 5 for 6 while Lieut. Cohen scored 16 and Sgt. Dickenson 11.

SOUTHERN DIV. M.T. COY. (43) v. 237 FIELD COY. (24) at Forsbach. Bowling for Southern Div. M.T. Coy. Sgt. Albery took 6 wickets for 8 runs and Pte. Uttley 4 for 15. For 237 Field Coy., Spr. Roe took 4 wickets for 17 runs and Cpl. Beaney 6 for 24.

CAV. DIV. H.Q. (111 for 8) v. BAKERIES SPORTS CLUB (32) at Kalk. For Cav. Div. H Q. Cpl. Harvey made 35 not out, L/Cpl. Bennett 20, and Lieut. Neil took 7 wickets for 7 runs.

LOWLAND DIV. M.T. COY. (56) v. 1/5 K.O.S.B. (28) at Zons. Pte. Pocock bowled very well for the M.T.'s taking 6 wickets for 11 runs. C.S.M. Mann batted well for the K.O.S.B.

4th SUFFOLK REGT. (260) v. 5th BORDER REGT. (115) at Troisdorf. The Borders batted first, their principal scorers being Pte. Luck 37, Capt. Dove 18, Lieut. Slack 10, Pte. Stevens 10. Lieut. Bailey scored 78, Lieut. Kirby 55, Pte. Pither 49, Lieut. Hopland 18, L/Cpl. Parr 14 Lieut. Bailey took 8 wickets for 31 for 4th Suffolks.

KNOCK-OUT COMPETITION.

18th Field Amb. v. "B" Coy 2/4 West Riding Regt.

The above match was played at Blessem under ideal conditions on Friday. "B" Coy could only register the disappointing total of 26. For the "Medics," Pte. Furness bowled 6 for 12, and R.S.M. Green 4 for 14. The only one to play with anything like confidence was C.Q.M.S. Stead with 8 not out, but the rest of the team failed to give him support. The F.A.'s reply was short and sweet for they passed their opponent's total with 7 wickets in hand, thanks to a steadily played 11 by Cpl. Hawker. For the "Dukes," L/Cpl. Woodward took 1 wicket for nil runs in two overs.

84th Brigade League.

At Mehlem, 270 SIEGE BATTERY (32) v. 84th BDE. R.A.S.C. (28). The R.A.S.C batted first and fared disastrously against the bowling of Walker and Bongiey. Cpl. Joe and Maudsley made a good stand for the ninth wicket the former getting 9 runs and was top scorer, Maudsley carried out his bat for 7 runs. Walker 14 and Mason 10 batted well for the R.G.A. Maudsley took 4 wickets in one over for the R.A.S.C.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

A. A. Dance.

The oppressive weather of Friday evening did not deter a large gathering dancing with spirit at the R., A.A. Battery Hall, Cologne. Members of the W.R.A.F. were present in liberal numbers. The company, under the influence of delightful music (dispensed by the battery orchestra conducted by Lieut. Sims), a well prepared floor and cooling refreshments (arranged by Lieut. Adamson), enjoyed itself hugely. Bdr. Taylor was an efficient M.C., while the decorations were superb.

"Pedlars" Accompanist.

In the paragraph on Howard Rudd, which appeared in Thursday's edition, I was perhaps a little ambiguous. Rudd, although a pianist of talent, only acted as accompanist in the absence of George Haigh, who is the recognised accompanist. Several readers have drawn my attention to this fact. Haigh's pianoforte solos are a great feature on the programmes, and consequently he is well-known. George is a most finished accompanist, and has had many years experience as a concert party pianist.

"The Grenades".

A very successful concert was given on Wednesday, August 6th by the "Grenades", the concert party of the 51st Northumberland Fusiliers at their headquarters. Sgt. Rimmer, who provided the fun was in his best form, whilst Lieut. A. Dick, the popular baritone, added two more songs to his list of successes. Sgt. Little, in his whistling solos, was splendid. These artistes were ably supported by L/Cpl. Sidney Topham, the light comedian, Sgt. J. Muir Smith, whose monologues are very popular, Pte. Goodall, and last, but not least, Pte. Fisher at the piano.

Pleasure or Profit?

I was speaking to an amusements officer the other day. He had a grievance; and the extent of his grievance was this: Concert parties nowadays put financial considerations before their endeavours to provide entertainment for Tommy. All that congenial spirit that characterized our parties in France is gone; remuneration is now the primary object. Before appearing, many parties demand a guaranteed "treasury" which, to units billeted in remote villages, is outrageous. Remuneration, he admits, is necessary, but if the wish to provide entertainment is the party's first thought, why these demands for unreasonable guarantees?

The Normids.

An enjoyable concert was given on Tuesday at Gressenich by the above party. The show, produced by Dvr. Critchley, was excellent throughout. The solos by Dvr. Critchley (Tenor) and Bdr. Barrand (Baritone), who were both in splendid voice, were artistically rendered, but the items which absolutely brought down the house were the duets rendered by these two artistes who excelled themselves. The comic side of the evening was in the very able hands of Cpl. Dewick and Gnr. Hudson, who were screamingly funny in their respective turns, and these artistes were ably supported by Sig. Parkes (Baritone), Gnr. Cope. (ragtime specialist) and Gnr. Richmond (Dame), whilst the various concerted and burlesque items completed the show.

Rhine Army Choral Society.

The Rhine Army Choral Society submitted their last concert this season at the Leave Club Theatre, Cologne, on Friday evening. In the process, the members, and particularly Capt. Sykes, the conductor, added in no small measure to the excellent reputation already made. The technical mistakes of the party's efforts were surprisingly few and they sang with a spirit and an excellence of blending that stirred a large audience to enthusiasm. The programme was also contributed to by Major W. L. Greenless whose finished vocal ability invariably pleases; Miss Elsa West, who extracts wonderful tone from her violin; "Jock" Lomond, a Scotch comedian with a considerable amount of "go," and Cpl. Price, a timid, but promising vocalist. Anent the latter item, the 'cello obligato suffered from lack of rehearsal. More than passing notice, by the way, is due to Miss West's accompanist, who played with a delicacy of touch and a degree of sympathy that constitutes a rara avis.

A Fitting Season's End.

A very pleasing ceremony took place on the stage at the British Empire Leave Club Theatre on Friday evening last at the conclusion of the concert by the British Rhine Army Choral Society. Capt. G. E. Sykes, after expressing his grateful thanks to the members of the Society for their tremendous interest and excellent support, remarked that that concert concluded the second season of the Society, which has, since its formation in January last, given 30 concerts in Cologne and other parts of the occupied area. At the concerts during the last few weeks the Society had had the assistance of Miss Elsa West and her violin, of "Jock" Limond, and of Cpl. Harold Walters (bass), and the success of the concerts was attributable in no small degree to their ready and skilful help. Miss West had shown the greatest interest in the Society and had travelled to outlying areas with the members in army lorries which in itself was deserving of great commendation. He called upon Major B. French to hand to Miss West, "Jock" and Cpl. Walters a small token of the esteem and gratitude of the choir. Major French in a happy little speech presented Miss West with an amber necklet and the others each received a box of cigarettes. Miss West suitably replied as also did the Corporal and "Jock."

In Few Words.

The British Rhine Army Choral Society resumes rehearsals tomorrow, subsequent Wednesdays, Fridays, and Mondays 5.45 p.m. at the Church Army Club, Antoniter Strasse.

Backhaus, the world famous pianist returns to Berlin on Monday. He will visit Cologne again in November to give a series of recitals.

"The Pedlars," who, by the way, have re-equipped themselves in the matter of properties, are due at the Palace Theatre, Cologne to-morrow.

Revivals of the "Mollusc" and "General Post," the former Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, the latter Thursday, Friday, and Saturday are billed for the Deutsches Theatre this week.

JACQUES.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Leg Broken.

Farakabad had the misfortune to break his off hind leg at Brighton this week.

Crooks v. Legge.

Rees Crooks (Aberavon) defeated Gus Legge (Abertillery) in a 15-rounds contest at Port Talbot on points.

Diadem and Donoghue.

Donoghue has received a wire from Lord D'Abernon asking him to ride Diadem in the Curragh Plate in Ireland on the 21st inst.

Coventry City F.C.

Coventry City Football Club are pushing on with their ground alterations. When the improvements are completed it is expected that there will be good accommodation for 40,000 people.

Lord Basil.

The Manton classic disappointment, Lord Basil, has been struck out of all engagements, which looks as though Taylor had given up hopes of training him.

6th Corps Representative.

Lieut. C. G. Fentam, 51st Northumberland Fus. was elected to represent the 6th Corps at the Athletic Eliminating Competitions at Riehl on Thursday to select the team to represent the Army of the Rhine at the Army Athletic Championships to be held at Aldershot on August 28th and 29th.

To be Revived.

Although fourteen of its members fell in action, the Rugby Hockey Club is to be revived this season.

In Training.

McGoorty is going into training at Stanmore, where Ledoux will probably join him. Beckett will train at Maidenhead.

Fishing from Seaplane.

American sportsmen who fly out from Atlantic City in a seaplane, settle on the water, and enjoy a few quiet hours with rod and line.

Scottish Golf Champion.

D. H. Kyle, of St. Andrews University, is the new Scottish amateur champion, as he won the title at Montrose by beating J. C. Jessop (Montrose Mercantile) in the final by 3 up and 2 to play.

The Billiard Tourney.

The Billiard Tournament for second-class professionals which has been in progress for some weeks at Thurston's has been such a conspicuous success that it may be assumed that this competition is merely the first of a series.

Parsons and Boxing.

The Llanelly Nonconformist ministers waited as a deputation on the Mayor, Alderman Daniel Williams, J.P., at the Town Hall, to protest against the Town Council granting the use of the Market Hall for boxing tournaments.

Brighton Cup.

The Brighton Cup was worth the best part of £1,000 to Mr. T. Martin, the owner of African Star.

Seven Bowlers Tried.

Hampshire against Middlessex this week tried seven bowlers, of whom Kennedy, with four 94, was the most successful.

100 to 3 Winner.

Sir Mnemon won the Australian hurdle race of three and half miles, Beltane, the favourite, being second, and Cuffs third. The winner's price was 100 to 3.

Hull City.

In addition to R. Hughes, of Northampton Town, Hull City have signed C. W. Potter, Norwich City, and George Morrell, a junior international from Blackheath Town, Birmingham, both inside forwards.

Killed by Cricket-Ball.

While wicket-keeping in a cricket match at Dulwich College Grounds on Bank Holiday, George Morton Dodman, 37, a G.P.O. porter, late of Somerton-road, Peckham, was struck in the chest by a ball. He shortly afterwards died.

£1,400 Offer Declined.

An offer of £1,400 for a week's show at the Electric Park Kansas City, made to Jack Dempsey by Ernie Young, of Chicago, was turned down by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, says the New York "Variety."

Portsmouth F.C.

Portsmouth Club have signed on George Hunter, formerly captain of Manchester United, and who has also played for Aston Villa and Croydon Common.

Royal Bowls.

A bowls club has been formed in connexion with the Royal Household, and the King has had some rinks set apart for the members at Frogmore.

Popular in Argentine.

The Lawn Tennis Association has been asked by the Argentine Lawn Tennis Association to send a team to that country. Lawn tennis has always been popular in the Argentine.

20 T.Y.O's.

Mr. Martin Maddock has shipped to Brazil to the Jockey Club of Sao Paulo, 20 two-year-old fillies, all by well-known sires, including Great Sport, His Majesty, Fariman, Light Brigade, Galloping Simon, Kroonstad, Glasgerion, Meleager, Balscadden, and King's Proctor.

L.C.C. and Football.

There is considerable disappointment among those associated with the bodies which do such admirable work in organising park football for boys and young men, at the small amount of playing space granted by the L.C.C. for the coming season.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

That Missing Bell.

As a final contribution to this subject, a resident of Cologne informs us that it is quite true that originally twenty-eight men were needed to ring the great bell, but after a time the strain caused by the irregular movements in pulling the ropes cracked the masonry so manual ringing was abolished and electrical power substituted in 1909.

Poor Productions.

It is frequently pointed out in this column how, in many ways, things are better done in Germany than at home, but no one can possibly say that the German newspaper is not as a rule drab, dull and unattractive looking. The news is not set out invitingly and little use is made of arresting headlines or titles. The German newspaper seems to deal in "views" rather than "news" and is a very heavy serious production from start to finish. One seldom sees anything in lighter vein, jokes seem taboo altogether and pictures rare. Whereas the Germans are great artists in book and magazine production, the newspaper press seems to represent the Cinderella of printing. They are very poorly turned out and Germany has never possessed any organ that comes within even a measurable distance of such dailies as our "Times" or "Telegraph."

Y.M.C.A. Introductions.

We hear that four thousand books have been added to the large library of the Central Y.M.C.A. Cologne, and these are to form a Reference Library for Teachers, Students and other serious readers. A subscription section is also being started, the subscriptions to be used in keeping the library up-to-date. Miss Weatherhead, the Librarian, is reorganizing both the Library and the Reading Room. In response to many requests a barber's shop for the exclusive use of British soldiers will be opened this week at the same useful institution. Soldiers will be able to get a wash-up and have their kit taken in charge, in addition to having a shave and hair-cut. In addition to the Canteen, a Restaurant has been opened for dinners, teas and suppers at moderate charges.

Coal Carts.

Have you noticed the "super" coal cart, a green painted monster, with four wheels, which is sometimes seen in the streets of a town, in this part of the country. The great point about the vehicle is the way in which the load of coal or coke is "tipped." Instead of heaving the cart right over, with a bang and a crash, and a resultant mass of coal dust in the air, there is a handle and cogged iron bar, in front of the vehicle, by means of which the latter is slowly raised, so that the coal falls gently out from the back. When the load is about half emptied, a small boy generally climbs in with a shovel or a fork, and completes the operation of unloading.

Looking Upwards.

If one takes the trouble to look at the roofs of German houses they can learn quite a deal. For example, in the matter of chimney pots, on looking out of an upper window in, say London, one is immediately struck by the multitude of chimney pots of every stamp of ugliness, pouring out their daily contribution to London fogs. One rarely sees a chimney pot in Germany, for the reason that these do not exist as we know them, smoke escaping by means of wide stacks which are so artfully camouflaged as to appear an artistic "finish" to the roofing. The effect of this is certainly an improvement on our monstrosities, and probably it acts better in practice also. Anyway Cologne has not the smokiy and sooty appearance that London has all the year round.

Wreaths for Actors.

The presentation of floral emblems to stage favourites is a familiar custom in most countries, but in Germany it has developed into a curious form not altogether in keeping with English ideas. At the recent celebration of the centenary of "Der Juxbaron" in Cologne, the stage, after the second act, was a mass of greenery intermingled with flowers. A large proportion of the tributes however took the form of huge green wreaths streaming with ribbons and gave the impression at least to the English mind, more of some state funeral than the occasions of festival. The comedian Carl Blass received no less than six of these wreaths.

Too Clever.

The present conditions in Rhineland give the German plenty of scope for using his brains, notably in the smuggling of goods into unoccupied territory. One day last week, a civilian walked up to the outpost near Rolingshoven, carrying a large laurel wreath, presumably taking it to a funeral over the line. But the guard, noticing that the German seemed to make hard work of carrying the wreath, become a trifle suspicious, and decided to investigate, with the result, that it was discovered that the "Wreath" was just leaves twisted round a motor tyre!

Early Birds.

Apropos our recent note on the attractiveness of the busy early morning scene at the Heumarkt in Cologne, a sarcastic letter has reached us from a cavalryman of the Rhine Army who signs himself "Lie-a-bed." He asks if someone would tell him the best time to see the wonderful market as in his unit the day's work does not start until 4.45 a.m. and he would like to utilize some of the spare hours before that if possible.

Doctored Trees.

On the Rheinwerft at Bonn, close to the bridge, may be seen trees which have undergone an operation resembling dental treatment. These trees, about thirty in number, have developed a hollow trunk, and this hollow has been carefully filled with cement, in much the same way as a hollow tooth would be stopped to prevent further decay. At first sight the trees appear to have had some of the bark removed from their trunks, and it requires a close inspection before one realizes what has been done to them.

A Curious Device.

An interesting relic of the German control of the Belgian railways is still to be found on the intact portions of the main lines. Travelling in either direction one cannot fail to notice before arriving at a station a series of what appear like white miniature goal posts with broad cross-bars. Each series contains five at intervals of fifty metres. The first has five black bars running obliguely from right to left and each succeeding one one stroke less. Fifty metres from the last one is a signal — a round yellow disc with an arm on it in black like the small hand of a clock — which tells the driver if he can or can not enter the station. The system was adopted by the Germans as a precautionary measure to avoid accidents. When the driver comes to a series he knows he is 250 metres from the signal and in case he should miss one or more there are five separate reminders. The system however does not appear as efficient as that obtaining on British railways.

Lesser Echoes.

In the recent Army College examinations Sergt. G. Wake, 51st Northumberland Fusiliers is believed to hold the distinction of being the first N.C.O. of the Northern Division to gain a "Special Army Certificate."

* * *

Before the war agricultural labourers earned one mark fifty pfg. per day; now they get about five marks per day

* * *

It is being asked why the price of British cigarettes varies so much in different canteens. Some standard maximum price seems to be needed.

* * *

"A" Coy of the 51st Northumberland Fusiliers put up last week for savings certificates 14,625 marks—beating all the other companies of the battalion "hands down."

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: C.Q.M.S. D.J. Rewett, 51st Gordons, Rhine Army; Gnr. G. Johnson 303 Siege Bty. R.G.A. Rhine Army; Cpl. Upperton c/o Military Governor, Cologne.

THE DOUBLE LIFE.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

In a greater or lesser degree the Fable, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" by R.L. Stevenson, is applicable to the life of every man.

In the story, the good doctor allows his evil nature to get the mastery, and that nature takes the form of Mr. Hyde which ultimately is the means of bringing about the downfall of Dr. Jekyll.

Every individual has these two natures striving one against the other, and according to the amount of license given to each, depends in the long run, which personality is going to predominate a mans life.

There is a feeling of abhorrence against the advent of the first sin, but if that sin is allowed to come again and again, there also comes a time when the loathing is past, and the horrible personality can take the lead and ruin a mans life. "The pangs of transformation grew daily less marked" said Dr. Jekyll when speaking of the change to the evil personality.

To every man is given a danger signal to warn him of the attacks by the lower nature, a danger signal which never fails to give that warning, and men call that moral sense, conscience. "Intuitively and without either argument or reasoning, certain acts are right while others are wrong."

To some men it is a stream of tendency which makes for righteousness, and those men are governed by their environment. The opposite flow of tendency makes for evil.

When national life of the present day seems at all events to help down the stream of unrighteous tendences, when men so easily float past the warning signals, the only counter power to that awful drift is the Power of God, guiding and ruling all the actions.

Counter attractions are a powerful factor in our lives, for good or evil.

"Ennobling thoughts depart when men desert
The Students' bower for gold"

The greatest counter attraction against evil is the religious instinct which is found in every man, but sometimes that instinct is stifled, with the result, that the evil nature rules the human life, but if the Personality of Jesus Christ guides through all there can be no fear of that life becoming a moral shipwreck.

Amidst all the religions offered to mankind, the Christian religion is based on the surest foundation.

"Mohammed's truth lay in a holy book
Christ's in a sacred life"

Then is the outlook so very dark, when in the first place men are warned by conscience, when evil is changing their nature; for remember, with that conscience there can be no surprise defeat. No man forewarned, with the Power of God to help, and the example of Christ for a pattern, need ever fear.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

TO SING OR TO SMOKE.

Madame Anny Sherwin, the well-known teacher of singing, says:—"If you want to sing you must not smoke. Thousands of pretty girls with pretty voices are ruining their chances of being sweet singers by smoking too many cigarettes. Cigarette smoking has become a habit with a large number of girls during the last few years, and it is a pernicious habit for an artist, with few exceptions." When asked if she approved of singing in the open air, Madame Sherwin said that in suitable weather a singer would benefit rather than otherwise from it. An artist who wishes to keep in good voice, she added, must be continent in the matter of diet and in every way, and as this is very largely a matter of habit, very little or no inconvenience need be felt.

OUR SPLENDID SEAMEN.

Admiral Sir Reginald Bacon, in outlining the history of the Dover Patrol says:—"Thank God every day of your lives for the spirit shown by the merchant service during the war. I never thought that we should be starved by submarines, even in the worst days of the war, except from one cause. I feared sometimes that the ever-present dangers of the mine and submarine might break the nerve of our merchant seamen. In the usual acceptance of the words, they did not constitute a fighting service, and the unseen perils they were suddenly called on to face might well have bred a dread sufficient to chill their hearts and make them forsake the sea. They stuck to their old traditions and saved the country!"

HIGHLAND FISHERIES.

Dr. Murray, in the House of Commons, has sharply criticised Lord Leverhulme's scheme to develop the fishing industry in the Island of Lewis. The bulk of the people in the island, he says, want to live their old life of liberty in agriculture, and have no desire for the factory methods of industrialism. More small holdings ought to be provided. The Board of Agriculture should not be turned aside from their plans by the talk that if the farms are cut up into small holdings Lord Leverhulme will wash his hands of the whole scheme.

THE DEPRECIATED SOVEREIGN.

Mr. Gordon Selfridge discussing the trend of prices says: One must remember, that the purchasing power of the sovereign is perpetually decreasing in value. Two hundred years ago the sovereign was worth 20 times more than it is to-day, and, apart from the world disturbance of a great war, this depreciation has always gone on, and, I suppose, always will. Naturally, war has intensified this depreciation, but people who talk about the dwindling value of the pound as if it were a new feature, are ignorant of the facts. Of all the countries engaged in the war, England, from the point of view of the cost of living, is probably best off. In America, for instance, the price of clothes is far higher to-day than it is in England.

A WAR COMPARISON.

The Archbishop of Canterburys, peaking on the Great War and those of former days, remarked that some of us may have dim recollections of the Crimean War. In that war there were actually killed in battle 2,755 and 1,847 died of wounds, making 4,600. Contrast those figures with those of this war. As Sir Douglas Haig has said, "never has death taken so many forms at once so violent and insidious. Never has it been so ever-present, or its arms so far-reaching. Never has the mere act of living been so exacting or burdensome. Should another war break out, by reason of the progress of science the horrors would be ten times greater than before. Heaven forbid that we should relax any effort or that we should be unprepared.

MRS. GRUNDY IS DEAD.

Mrs. Edward Cecil says Mrs. Grundy is dead and we are glad she is gone. She looked on natural human love as something to be ashamed of. So far as the man was concerned, his admiration of the natural beauty of a girl was something to be excused as a human failing. If he admired her sufficiently to want to marry her, his correct reason for wanting to do so were to be that he thought she would make him a good wife, a good housekeeper, a good needlewoman—never a good lover. For that, according to Mrs. Grundy, was outside respectable marriage. In the same way, a girl was never supposed to like a man because he was a man, but because he was a "steady young fellow"—a model of all the domestic virtues. Hence arose Mrs. Grundy's idea of marriage—that a man married a housekeeper, and a girl married to make her position in life secure. Mrs. Grundy made fun of the idea of love in a cottage in her ponderous way. Mrs. Grundy looked on marriage as the end achieved and not as the beginning of life.

THE LION LEADS in CURING

During the strenuous times of the past few years
Burgess' Lion Ointment
has more than maintained its reputation, it has gained increased commendation for its marvellous efficacy in removing pieces of shrapnel, splinters of bone, etc., from old wounds, healing them permanently from underneath.
Nature will always assert itself
It is useless healing a wound until it is thoroughly cleansed; it must break out again worse than before. The great success of
is that it will not heal till it has thoroughly cleared away all morbid matter. There is no danger to life in curing a bad leg by this remedy, as it does not throw back humour into the system. It cures without lancing or cutting, bringing all disease to the surface and healing from underneath in all cases of Ulcers, Abscesses, Whitlows, Boils, Carbuncles, Fatty or Cystic Tumours, Piles, Fistula, Polypus, Poisoned Wounds, and all forms of Skin Disease, Eczema, Ringworm, etc.
Unequalled as a General Household Remedy for Cuts, Burns, Stings, &c.
Proof. At 59, Gray's Inn Road, E. BURGESS has a Museum of Extractions, consisting of Tumours, Polypi, and diseased Bone; also numerous Photographs of most serious cases, which have all been cured by the Lion Ointment. E. B. invites the fullest inquiry into each case published by him, and is confident that no other remedy can show a tithe of such results. "UNSATISFACTORY."

Startling Disclosures of Negligence and Fraud at Air Ministry.

DEVELOPMENTS IN HUNGARY.

CORRUPTION.

DISHONESTY IN PUBLIC SERVICES.

Startling disclosures are made in the latest report of the Select Committee on National Expenditure, which was issued on Saturday as a White Paper. It deals principally with Air Ministry affairs. In all twenty-nine witnesses were examined and as the result the Committee are of opinion that a very unsatisfactory state of affairs is revealed.

One of the witnesses, Sir John Hunter, Administrator of Works and Buildings said that, speaking generally, not a single man of the 70,000 engaged in the work of erection of aerodromes had earned the money he received. He went on to give details of a specific case which he alleged had been made into a conspiracy at Renfrew. He charged both Government men and contractors men with regularly drawing money as wages for men who did not exist. Four men were arrested, but the Lord Advocate declined to order a prosecution on the ground that the available evidence was not strong enough to obtain a conviction and further that "prosecution would reveal what appears to be inefficiency and absence of control on the part of the representatives on the spot."

Sir John Hunter further stated that from investigations made by a firm of measurers it appeared that a sum of about £60,000 had been charged by contractors which could not be accounted for. The War Office refused to order a Court-martial on certain officers whom Sir John Hunter suspected of fraud and advised him to take criminal proceedings. Revelations of an equally extraordinary character are made in the report relating to a clothing contract for the W.R.A.F.

Miss O'Sullivan, the Clothing Controller to the Force, stated that a contract for 60,000 garments was given to a Manchester firm whose patterns were rejected in favour of those from another establishment. The comment is made in the Committee's report that in their opinion, where cases of negligence or fraud are discovered, action should be taken against the offenders regardless of whether they are or are not officials, or even departments. The Committee regrets very much that the Lord Advocate should have taken up the position he did.

After examining General Trenchard the Committee came to the conclusion that he is doing everything possible to cut down expenditure, having due regard to the efficiency of his department. The Committee has decided to postpone examination of the expenditure of the Labour Ministry until the Out-of-Work Donation Committee has concluded its investigations.

"AMERICANIZATION."

AGITATORS TAKE TIMELY HEED.

Chiefs of Brotherhoods and other labour organisations in the United States are backing away from threats of strikes and revolution. This is the direct result of President Wilson's rebuke and the firm statements by leading congressmen that they will not permit labour to stampede them into enacting radical legislation without a definite mandate from the people. The leaders of the railroad Unions are trying to appease the public by making efforts to interview the President about plans for railroad management. Instead of calling for "Nationalisation" they have changed the word to "Americanization" of the lines.

The strike of railroad shopmen is ending, although some men continue defiant in a few districts. After a strike of several days, which was characterised by considerable disorder and violence, the employés on the Brooklyn system returned to work on the understanding that their demands would be settled by arbitration. A Chicago message states that the stockyard strikers voted to resume work as yesterday.

According to the statements of intimate friends President Wilson believes that the cost of living in America has passed its maximum. As the result of the campaign by the Department of Justice against hoarders and profiteers prices of commodities from now onwards will gradually decline.

ATTEMPT ON THE GOEBEN.

Constantinople papers report that the Turkish officers on board the Goeben, which is at present in the roads at Nicomedia (Ismid, on the Sea of Marmora), endeavoured to sink the vessel.

Their attempt was forestalled by British warships, who put the crew to flight.

HUNGARY.

ARCHDUKE'S WIRE TO CLEMENCEAU.

The Archduke Joseph has sent a telegram to M. Clemenceau asking that he may be allowed to send two Hungarian delegates to the Peace Conference. The Supreme Council, it is understood, dealt with the matter yesterday. It is regarded as unlikely that the delegates will be received until it is certain that the new Government is really representative of the Hungarian people and offers some hope of stability. In his telegram the Archduke stated that the new Government, whose programme was the re-establishment of order in Hungary and the destruction of Bolshevism, is not concerned about foreign influences, and proposes to proceed at the earliest possible moment with the elections and to convene a meeting of the National Assembly as soon as these have been held. The Archduke further requests recognition of the Government and friendly support on the part of the Entente in the interests of the success of his efforts.

According to a Buda-Pesth report the Allied Mission has held important conferences in the presence of the Archduke and the new Premier, Stephan Friedrich. AllHungarian politicians staying abroad have been invited to return to Buda-Pesth. Up to the present 136 leading Hungarian politicians representing all parties have declared themselves ready to support the new Government.

M. Borcheso, Secretary to the Roumanian Legation in London, left yesterday for Paris on a special mission and M. Titualesco, formerly Roumanian Minister of Finance, left at the same time for Bucharest.

FINLAND REPUBLIC.

RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA.

The correspondent of the Matin (Paris) has interviewed Herr Stahlberg, President of the Republic of Finland. The constant anxiety of his Government, declared the Minister, would be to safeguard Finnish Independence while maintaining friendly relations with the great powers. The whole country unanimously desired to enter the League of Nations, that Finland might find protection therein. The desire of his Government, despite difficulties which might arise, is to maintain cordial and sincere relations with Russia, provided that that country is organised on a democratic basis which will respect popular rights. If Bolshevism menaced them it would be the task of the Finlanders to defend their country, even to the death. The question of the Aaland Islands solely concerned Sweden and Finland and could be regulated between those two countries without the intervention of Russia.

BOTHA'S WELCOME HOME.

After a triumphal progress all the way from Capetown, General Botha and General Smuts received an extraordinarily affectionate welcome on their arrival home at Pretoria on Friday. Old farmers who had fought under them in the Boer War nearly twenty years ago trekked from the remotest parts of the Transvaal to greet General Botha, who was deeply moved by the warmth of his reception.

In a speech which contained many homely allusions he compared the late war to a bush fire which had burned itself out. But, he added, there still appear occasional flames as the tree stumps are consumed.

RUSH TO SOUTH AFRICA.

So remarkable has been the demand for Crown lands in South Africa that a leading Government official prophesies that within a decade there will be none left. During the past ten years about eleven million acres have been taken up by private owners. The remainder, although of poor quality, is rapidly being applied for. General Smuts expects large numbers of Englishmen and others from overseas to settle in the Union owing to the comparatively low taxation.

RIDING MASTERS ABOLISHED.

An Army Order just issued states that as riding masters in the Royal Horse and Royal Field Artillery retire, no further appointments will be made. Officers commanding Brigades will be responsible for the training of recruits and young horses, and will detail an officer who has passed an equitation course at the riding establishment of the Royal Artillery to assist in the work of supervising the instructors.

ROYAL JEWELS.

SMUGGLED FROM GERMANY BY AEROPLANE.

Depatches from Malmoe relate a circumstantial account of a mysterious aeroplane which was seen manoeuvring along the coast in the neigbourhood of the Smyzehuk lighthouse. Suddenly it made a steep dive and two packets were seen to be thrown out. Rising again the aviators disappeared in the direction of Germany.

Two Germans who have been staying in the neighbourhood for some days were observed to pick up the packages and hurry away. Their action aroused the suspicions of the coastguard, who followed and overtook the men. After making emphatic protests they produced the packages, which, on being opened, were found to contain jewels to a great value and foreign securities representing a considerable amount. The Germans maintained that the contents of the packages were their lawful property but pending inquiry the property has been detained. The police believe that both jewels and securities belong to the Royal family of Saxony.

INQUEST ON DROWNED CHAPLAIN.

The inquest was held on Saturday on the Rev. George C. W. Sweet, Chaplain attached to the 3rd. Lowland Division of the Army of the Rhine, who was drowned while on his honeymoon at Oxford.

The widow said she became engaged to Mr. Sweet in France and came to England to be married.

Miss Cheney, who saw the couple pass in the punt, said that deceased was punting. Suddenly she heard a scream and saw him fall backwards into the river. She untied her boat and went to his assistance but he never rose again to the surface.

Mrs. Sweet jumped out, ran along the bank and plunged in at the spot where deceased was last seen. No one else was within reach to give assistance. Eventually the body was recovered with drags.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and expressed their sympathy with the relatives.

PEDLAR PALMER FORGIVES.

Henry C. Saunders, a former heavyweight boxer, living at Islington, surrendered to his bail on a charge of maliciously wounding Thomas Palmer, known in the boxing world as "Pedlar" Palmer, of British-street, Bow, by stabbing him wish a knife.

Mr. Phelps, for the prosecution, asked the magistrate to reduce the charge to one of common assault. Prosecutor and prisoner had been friends for many years, and Palmer did not wish Saunders to get into serious trouble, especially as he was satisfied that the act was committed in the heat of the moment.

The Magistrate said it was against the honourable traditions of the boxing world to use a weapon, especially a knife.

Mr. Margetts, for the defence, said ample compensation would be paid by his client, who wished to express his deep regret.

The magistrate consented—though not, he said, without hesitation—to the charge being reduced to one of common assault, and bound prisoner over in his own recognisances for twelve months in the sum of £50.

LOOTERS DISGORGE PROPERTY.

The week end in Liverpool passed off quietly and the tram services having been resumed the city is looking normal except for the military pickets and guards. It is clear that their presence, together with an increasing number of uniformed police, has cowed the rowdy gangs who played such havoc with business premises. There has been no repetition of those scenes. Looters, in fact, are hastening to disgorge the booty which they so ruthlessly acquired. Under cover of darkness they are placing stolen articles of furniture, bedding, boots, shoes and bags in side streets, hoping thereby to escape detection. Many looters houses have been raided by detectives and much stolen property discovered.

WHY THE "FIVE TOWNS" FLOURISH.

Owing to the fact that for five years Germany and Austria, who were the biggest competitors, have been shut out from the principal markets of the world, the Pottery towns are enjoying a boom in trade such as they have not known for many years. This is one of the few areas in Britain where unemployment does not exist.

WORLD'S HEIGHT RECORD.

Maurice Walbaum, has beaten the world's record by reaching a height of 7,800 mètres (25,580ft). with a passenger. The record had hitherto been held by the Austrian airman, Bier, who, on June 27, 1914, attained a height of 6,300 mètres.—

It is understood that it was by a majority of one on the Police Union Executive that the "lightning strike" was decided on, and a number of men were induced to sacrifice their service and prospects.

SEDITION.

SMART CAPTURE IN WEST LONDON.

The police carried out a raid on certain premises at Acton on Saturday and seized a number of revolutionary documents which bore a fictitious address purporting that they were printed at Edinburgh. The object of the documents it is stated, was to prepare the way for a Soviet Government in London on lines similar to those adopted in Russia. It is believed the literature was actually printed in London and steps are being taken to trace the source.

The raid was conducted by Detective Inspector Fitch, of the special branch of the C.I.D., and Scotland Yard attaches considerable importance to the capture.

It is also stated that one of the documents seized gives details of how the military might be surprised and disarmed! Another object aimed at was the encouragement of a mutinous spirit in the army. It is hoped that the raid will be followed by the arrest of the leaders of the seditious movement within a few days.

DEATH OF HAECKEL.

MAN WHO FOSTERED THE WAR.

By the death of Professor Haeckel Germany has lost her most "famous" Professor. He died at Jena on Friday at the advanced age of eighty-six.

He was a philosopher-zoologist who tried to follow Darwin in researches on the origin of man. Although he wrote several books of a real scientific value he became specially prominent for the philosophical deductions he drew from his scientific researches. He is known as the founder of the Monist-Association, Scientific research was always his main object. As a physician in Berlin he only received patients between five and six a. m. in order to have the whole day free for his work. He was the first to advocate with energy Darwin's theory of Evolution. The great fault in his work is that very often he placed the hypothesis at a point where a real scientific proof was lacking. His deductions are accordingly frequently very faulty. In spite of this looseness the scientific world is divided about Haeckel's ideas more especially since the publication of his "World Riddles" (The Riddle of the Universe) in which, he goes much further than Darwin and specifically declares that man has an animal origin.

Haeckel was always intolerant of those who did not adopt his ideas and his polemics took very often a personal character which lost him many disciples.

A German memoir says:—"Since Büchner's Force and Substance we may consider the Riddle of the Universe as the most frivolous philosophical book in scientific literature. A scholar who gives a solution to all problems, leaving the problem of 'matter' as the only one for which a solution cannot be given, cannot be taken as serious. It is a great pity that his philosophy had such an influence amongst the mass of those who were not able to controvert his assertions."

On the outbreak of war he was one of the most bitter opponents of England and did not hesitate in his public writings and utterances to descend to cheap and scurrilous abuse of the nation from whose scientific leaders he had learned so much.

ACCIDENT TO A GENERAL.

During the delayed peace celebrations at Belfast on Saturday General Sir Frederick Shaw was thrown from his horse, which took fright at the cheering outside the City Hall. The animal reared and rolled over on top of the General. He was carried into the Hall where the doctors diagnosed him to be suffering from slight concussion and shock. He was able to return to Dublin in the afternoon.

ETHER CAUSES FIRE.

Telegrams from Besancon report that a fire, caused by the explosion of some carboys of ether, completely destroyed the railway station. Two men who rushed to the spot were buried alive and six others who tried to help were seriously injured. The damage is estimated at several millions of francs.

NEW EGYPTIAN MEDAL.

An Army Order notifies that the King has approved of the Forces who were employed in military operations at Darfur in 1916 accepting and wearing the silver medal granted by the Sultan of Egypt. It carries two clasps, one inscribed "Darfur 1916" and the other "Fasher."

The railway line between Folkestone and Dover was reopened on Monday. This line was rendered useless throughout the war by the fall of some millions of tons of chalk, and hundreds of men have been engaged for some months in clearing the débris.

A verdict of suicide whilst of unsound mind was returned on Saturday at an inquest on Sophia Fowler, sixty-eight, who, in the absence of her mistress, threw herself from the top of the tower attached to Tudor Court, Fairmile, Cobham, and fell 75ft. to the ground.

Officials of the Passport Office in St. James's Park claim to be attending to 1,800 passport applications per day at present. Preference is given to wives of officers and men who wish to join their husbands on the Rhine and to persons wishing to visit graves in France.

PREFERENCE.

DEFINITION OF THE TERM "BRITISH MADE."

Under the Finance Act of 1919, the Board of Trade has made the following regulations as to the proportion of value resulting from labour within the British Empire:

1. Save as hereinafter provided goods shall not be deemed for the purpose of Section 8 of the Finance Act, 1919, to have been manufactured in the British Empire unless at least 25 per cent. of their total value is the result of labour within the British Empire.

2. In the case of those classes of those goods in respect of which an Order has been made by the Board of Trade under Section 8, subsection (2) of the Finance Act, 1919, no part of the goods shall be deemed to have been manufactured in the British Empire unless at least 5 per cent. of the total value of the goods is the result of labour within the British Empire.

3. Where a number of separate articles are included in one parcel or shipments, each and every article shall be considered separately for the purpose of calculating the proportion of value due to labour within the Empire.

4. For the purposes of these regulations the total value of an article shall be its cost to the manufacturer at the factory or works, and shall include the value of containers and other forms of interior packing ordinarily sold with the article when it is sold retail, but shall not include the manufacturer's or exporter's profit or the cost of exterior packing, carriage to port, and other charges incidental to the export of the goods subsequent to their manufacture.

5. In calculating the proportion of value which is the result of labour within the British Empire there may be included under the head of labour the cost to the manufacturer of any materials of purely Empire origin entering into the composition of the article (including the interior packing specified in Regulation 4), the cost of manufacture, including wages, proportion of fuel, supervision. and other factory expenses, and the cost of the labour of packing for retail sale. The following may not be included in the proportion of value which is the result of Empire labour, namely, any materials or interior packings not entirely of Empire origin, manufacturer's profit, or the profit or remuneration of any trader, agent, broker, or other person dealing in the article in its finished condition, the expenses of placing the goods in outside packages for export and the cost of such packages, transportation charges, insurance and any other charges, insurance and any other charges for services after the goods leave the place of production or manufacture.

6. Any question arising on the interpretation of these regulations shall be referred to the Board of Trade, whose decision shall be final.

REDUCED FARES FOR STUDENTS.

The "Liverpool Courier" states that a Liverpool chartered accountant has received from the President of the Board of Education an intimation that the Railway Executive has been induced to make a concession to education authorities which means that in future a return ticket on payment of a single fare will be issued to secondary school students over fourteen years of age travelling to and from schools, and a return ticket on payment of half fare to any pupil up to the age of fourteen.

DEATH OF AN EARL.

The Earl of Eglinton died at Castle Eglinton, Irvine, N.B., on Sunday, following an operation for appendicitis.

The deceased Earl, whose patent of nobility dates from 1507, was seventy-one years of age. He was Lord Lieutenant of the County of Ayr, a keen sportsman and Master of the Eglinton Hounds.

He is succeeded by his eldest son, Lord Montgomerie.

STEAMER WRECKED AT YARMOUTH.

An American steamer the "North Star" ran ashore near Yarmouth on Friday and became a total wreck. It was bound from Boston to Yarmouth and carried 280 passengers. All of them were saved, together with the mails. Only a small cargo was aboard at the time.

T.O.T. GOOD EXAMPLE.

Demobilized men have been quickly absorbed in the railway and bus services operated by the Underground companies.

Since the Armistice 4,680 busmen and 1,671 railwaymen have returned to their jobs. The number previously re-employed on being discharged from war service owing to disablement, etc., was 2,375, bringing the total to 8,726.

SWISS STRIKE ENDED.

The Swiss workmen's strikes have been a complete failure. Men are resuming work on conditions imposed by the employers, one of which is the exclusion of certain agitators.

STRIKE WEAPON.

LABOUR LEADERS EARNEST ADVICE.

Addressing a meeting of railwaymen at Great Yarmouth on Sunday night Mr. J. H. Thomas said he believed so fully in the power of the Labour Party that he thought the day was not far distant when there would be a political Labour Government in this country. Peace at home was as necessary as peace abroad. The right of Labour to strike must be maintained but the strike should always be the very last resort. It should not be prostituted for every grievance at every minute of the day. He pleaded for solidarity among the workers. The same sacrifices that had pulled the country through war would pull it through peace.

POLICE CRISIS OVER.

THE COMMISSIONER'S THANKS.

In a Metropolitan Police order issued on Saturday the Commissioner announces that the crisis is now over and that leave can be resumed. Preference will be given to men who were recalled from leave.

The Commissioner congratulates all ranks on "the way they have upheld the traditions of the Force, a record which will be remembered by the public as long as the Force exists." He adds that he has received many expressions of loyalty from various divisions and stations, and he tenders his best thanks for them.

WEIRD RAILWAY FIRE.

Amazing scenes were witnessed at Sturry station, near Canterbury, on Saturday night, when a fire broke out in a fully loaded ammunition train from Richborough soon after dark. Two waggons were well alight before the rest of the train could be uncoupled. The flames lighted up the whole of the countryside with a weird incandescent glow.

The railway service was entirely suspended for nearly six hours and passengers in the 7.20 train from London to Dover were unable to pass through Sturry until 3,00 a.m., when the fire was under control. The passengers had the option of returning to London but the majority preferred to watch the fireworks. The fire is believed to have been caused by a spark from the engine igniting gas which was escaping from a defective drum.

PROFITS ON BEER.

Of the fourpence which is charged for a pint of beer, more than twopence goes to the Exchequer, one farthing is the licensed victualler's profit, and half a farthing the brewer's, said the chairman of Messrs. Watney, Combe, Reid and Co., at Charing Cross on Saturday.

The dividends for the year, he added, were 24 per cent. Considering the amount of capital invested in the business the dividend was a fraction over 5½ per cent.

The net trading profits for the year amounted to £591,993 13s. 8d. During the year they had cancelled £250,000 debentures and £84,000 debenture stock, in round numbers. The amount they would be liable for as beer duty during the current year was two and half millions.

LEONCAVALLO DEAD.

Signor Ruggier Leoncavallo, the famous composer, died at Montecatina (Tuscany) on Saturday.

He is best known to the British public as the composer of "I Pagliacci," the delightful opera relating the tragedy of a strolling player. This work was composed in 1892, and at once achieved popularity.

W.A.A.C MURDER MYSTERY.

The general public will learn with surprise and disappointment that the Director of Public Prosecutions has decided to abandon the inquiry into the murder of ellie Rault, the pretty young W.A.A.C. who was stabbed by an unknown assailant at Haynes Park Camp, Bedford, in May. This particularly heartless crime is thus added to the growing list of unsolved tragedies.

IRISH FAIRS PROHIBITED.

Yesterday morning the military authorities issued a proclamation prohibiting the holding of fairs, markets, processions, and public assemblies in County Clare. Active military arrangements are being made for the enforcement of the proclamation.

PREMIER AND EXTREMISTS.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying to the Editor of the "Liverpool Express," regarding the cry that trade unionism is in danger, sent the following telegram:—

If trade unionism is in danger it is through the action of extreme men in its own ranks.—Lloyd George.

The Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab has reduced to terms varying from six years to three months the sentences on 20 persons for their share in the recent riots in the Punjab. All sentences of rigorous imprisonment and forfeiture of property have also been remitted.

MUSIC IN THE ARMY.

One department of the education of the young soldier which is making an increasingly strong appeal is the effort to cultivate his musical tendencies, and the very capable work which is being done by those who are conducting musical societies in the Rhine Army cannot fail to be without its results.

Music is universal in its appeal, and the instinct for it exists unknown in many a man who, given the opportunity for cultivation would discover for himself a new world of delight and mental recreation.

The practical utility of music in the Army has been shown in many ways, and in the early days of the war, a large proportion of the citizen soldiers were those who "followed the drum" after a recruiting march.

In camp and billet, in tent and trench it has mitigated the tedium of many a weary hour. The gramophone, the mouth organ and the even more primitive jews' harp have all helped to relieve the exhaustion of war, and the power of music as a stimulant to action has been shown many times at critical moments before battle.

That the type of music which has been such a boon to the Army during the past five years is not the supremest development of the art is true, but when all is said and done, the instinct which prompts the savage to perform upon his tom-tom, and that which colours the performance of the greatest virtuoso are essentially the same thing, the desire to express emotion through the medium of sound; and from very humble beginnings great results may be achieved. That is where the great value of Army Musical Societies exists — in stimulating and fostering even the most meagre musical talent.

THE SOLUTION.

It is certain that a solution for the present labour troubles will—because it must—be found. Many, of whom the writer is one, are convinced that this settlement will come by way of the Whitley Scheme, of which so much has been heard, but regarding which an amazing number of people are still very vaguely informed.

I propose to set forth briefly the main principles of the scheme, which takes its name from Mr. J. H. Whitley, M. P. the Deputy Speaker, who was Chairman of a Committee appointed to enquire into the question of the best means of procuring harmonious and advantageous common action in our industries.

As the result of wide investigation and free discussion, the Committee suggested a graded and mutually helpful constitution of trade councils, in which employers and employees should alike be represented: these councils, unlike our parish, town and county councils (which embrace widely different interests in varying proportions), are to have industrial instead of geographical boundaries.

The fundamental grade is to be the workshop committee, where employers. workshop heads, and representatives of the workmen can meet regularly to discuss conditions of work and necessities of the business, to exchange information and ideas, and to demonstrate their common interest and interdependence, whilst making plans for the immediate future. Such committees had already existed here and there; but their more complete adoption as a basis for the whole plan is an essential of the Whitley Scheme, since only thus can labour be brought into a full and just sense of its responsibilities, be given a fair share in the organization, and have the opportunity of learning the meaning and possibilities of its work while realising the community of aim in all grades of the business.

Next above these Committees come the District Councils of each particular industry. These discuss local needs and conditions and are the executive for the decisions taken by the National Council of that industry, which is the Advisory Power above them. The Distric Council also acts as a link and means of communication and representation between the workshop Committee and the National Council.

This latter is formed, as is the District Council, of equal numbers of elected representatives from the Employers' Associations and the Trade Union, and is really a kind of Parliament for the particular industry. This National Council will hear all sides of industrial questions, discuss and decide necessary action, and consider ideas and methods for the interests and prosperity of the industry and all those concerned in it. All these Councils meet at regular intervals.

Since it is increasingly evident that the various trades and industries depend each on the others, and that failure in one means loss to all, directly or indirectly, provision is made for joint discussion and co-operation between representatives of the different National Councils. This will enlighten all labour as to the real intricate dependence of each on all; for the decisions taken, and their reasons will pass back through National Council, District Council and Workshop Committee to every man concerned. Moreover, and this is the crucial point—these decisions will come not as an order from a superior class who are merely hiring the workers, but as the deliberate resolution of their own representatives in free discussion and with the facts before them, and the reasons for the decision will be available to every man who chooses to enquire.

This is the briefest outline of the scheme; but fuller information can readily be obtained by any reader who desires.

Let me sum up very concisely some of the main reasons why this scheme will prove the solution of most labour troubles.

First, it gives every man a responsible share in the management of his own work, and supplies him with that sense of interest and partnership which, more even than higher wages or shorter hours, is what labour really wants.

Secondly, it removes that ignorance of the aims, necessities and possibilities of each business, which is the cause of most of the troubles. Men will not work continuously and well in a blind, uninterested labour for mere hire. At the same time the diffusion of knowledge as to the present possibilities and future prospects of the business will save men from wrecking their own interests by ill-advised action.

Thirdly, it gives to all the opportunity of bringing into light any bad conditions and of discussing their remedies, without having to resort to measures that mean increased poverty.

Fourthly, capital, management, superintendence and labour are necessarily brought at regular intervals face to face in the common interest. So that, instead of hauling against each other as in a tug-of-war, and thus neutralizing valuable expenditure of thought and energy, all will pull the rope in the same direction and haul the industry of the country rapidly forward.

The scheme will create a healthy spirit born of knowledge regarding the work, its value, its connection with possible developments and the inevitable result of cessation or diminution of that work; thus strikes will be rare because needless. Drastic measures will become unnecessary. It is surely better to create a state of permanent health than to rely on calling in a doctor to cure a serious illness.

I have said nothing of the question of profit-sharing. That may, and probably will, come as a result of sharing responsibility and interest. It is one of the many questions that the industrial world in Council will settle by reasonable discussion.

What is certain is that a considerable share allotted to the workers would cost infinitely less than the losses consequent upon diminished or arrested production, cancelled contracts, and discredit and distrust in the world's markets.

At present we are in a tangled forest, and the path seems hard to find, but I believe that the signpost pointing to the sun and the open will be found to bear the words "The Whitley Scheme."

DANCING AND DANCERS.
A WOMAN'S VIEWS.

A few short weeks ago I came to Cologne, and found myself whirled off into that round of dancing that prevails here. It was a dizzy experience. I had not danced since 1914 and then we used to waltz, and dance lancers with shameless enjoyment and a good deal of romping.

It was with some dismay that I discovered that "nobody waltzed now" and that the nice boys with whom I danced hadn't any idea how it was done.

For my first few dances I spent my time earnestly endeavouring to prevent them treading on my toes and wondering what it was they expected me to do.

I watched other dancers, I apologised for the constant presence of my feet in the wrong place. I responded meekly in the negative to such questions as "Do you twinkle?" or "Shall we do the Jazzroll?"—and I took lessons.

But the main difficulty was this: Before the war we learnt how to do certain steps and do them properly, a person either could or could not waltz; now-a-days no two partners dance alike.

Just after you emerge, flushed with triumph, from a dance, feeling you have done quite well that time, your partner perhaps assuring you flatteringly that it was "topping" or "priceless" — your pride is dashed at the next attempt by finding that with another partner you can't do it at all!

And then, one night, I stopped thinking of all these things and I began to dance. I don't know how it happened, but it emerged quite suddenly and I felt confident that after the first few bars I could interpret without any trouble what my partner's idea of suitable steps and movements would be and adapt myself accordingly.

Moving rhythmically to music, according to someone else's interpretation of it rather than your own, seems to be the secret of the thing. The more definite and strong is the rhythm given by the music, the easier it is. Hence the popularity of the "Jazz" band.

Arrived at some kind of idea of the principle thing, I began to recognise certain types of dancers to be met with. There is the energetic and agile partner, often transatlantic, whose movements are rapid, varied and masterful. You are steered swiftly though the crowd with amazing precision, you are piloted, pushed and almost lifted through the steps at an amazing rate. You slide, you dip, you turn, you run, you hesitate and you arrive breathless and wondering at a triumphant finish.

In contrast to this, is the quiet dancer who dances reposefully, often at half time; he sways, glides and moves with as little effort as possible in a peaceful and dignified manner. It is like coming into the calm of Southampton Water after a bracing tossing across the channel. He is inclined to hold your hand by the right wrist at arm's length, like a piece of dead wood, and allow your hand to flap lazily at the end thereof.

Then there is the timid beginner who is not quite sure what he is going to do; he generally pushes you gently backwards with a chassé step, and turns you round courageously at intervals, and is stricken with remorse if his steering should result in your getting a lady's elbow in your cheek or your feet inextricably entangled with other dancers.

And finally of course, there is the partner who really dances, according to your own notions of dancing. Of him there is nothing to say, except that you both dance, you both enjoy yourselves, and you dance together again as often as is compatible with the exigencies of your programme.

THE WAYS OF MULES.

If Providence made mules — and I can't imagine anyone else doing it — then the ways of Providence are indeed mysterious.

Did you ever see an animal with an appetite like a mule? Is there anything a mule will not or cannot eat, from a shovel to a pontoon wagon? Show a mule the G. 1098, List of Ordnance Stores, and he thinks it's a menu card.

We have one mule that eats the tails of any others he comes across. Eats them absolutely bare — as bare as the cigarette shelf in a N. A. C. B. canteen. And they seem to like it too, — presumably because they can't reach them themselves.

And we have another mule that eats his harness. All except the rings on the breast-collar; he always leaves those, though why, we can't make out. Perhaps he is particular what he eats. We cannot send him out in draught though, unless we keep him at the trot all the time, so as to distract his mind.

The other day we were having a new stable built by the Germans. and we started to put our mules in the finished end of it. They promptly began to eat the manger. We, therefore, swamped the place with creosol, but the animals thought it was a new kind of relish.

They used to break loose at night — by eating a foot or so of neck-chain and go and drink the creosol, neat from the drum.

Then we had the mangers lined and plated with zinc. Go in at any hour of the day, and you would find a mule meditatively chewing about a yard or two of zinc sheeting. We couldn't cope with it at all.

Then they began to eat the finished end of the stable quicker than the workmen could build at the far end, and it became a race to the death.

The workmen were being slowly caught up and used to have to come and do over-time at night to keep any of the stable standing at all. It was originally designed to be eighty foot long, but after the first few days there was never more than twenty foot standing at a time.

The men went building on across country with the mules eating steadily on about fifteen foot or so behind, till there was a broad devastated track, like the Somme battlefield, stretching half across Germany.

And one terrible morning — we had gone to bed the night before in rather an anxious frame of mind, for the night-shift of workmen were only a bare nine foot ahead — we awoke and found not a vestige of stable to be seen.

The mules were then all right, contentedly eating a few bricks, a plank or so, and a barrow, that had been somehow overlooked — and two out of the six workmen were also reported missing.—

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.
Our Readers' Varied Views.

ON HANDWRITING.

Sir,—Your correspondent J. K. D. puts forward a plea for a standard type of handwriting in our schools.

Surely it is better that each should express his individual characteristics in personal correspondence, and for business purposes if uniformity is of such importance, well, use a typewriter.

FREEDOM.

BRITISH BAND CONCERTS.

Sir,—It occurred to me while listening to the orchestra in the Zoo gardens the other evening how nice it would be if some of our military bands could give concerts there sometimes.

I am sure they could put up a good show and it would be a popular move.

ROYAL WARWICK.

"IS THE GERMAN IMPOLITE?"

Sir,—The visitor to the Continent is always impressed by the great show of politeness he sees among the inhabitants. It is noticeable everywhere and no doubt it is with the idea of impressing foreigners, certainly I believe it is so in Germany

One frequently reads in the British press of the desirability of copying this politeness, but I refuse to be impressed. The British handshake, the slight raising of the hat, or even the modest touching of the hat rim, is far more pregnant with meaning than the fatuous smile and exaggerated hat play of the German. A good honest British "good-morning" even without "distress signals" by means of the hat, is much more desirable. "BIG BEN".

SHORTER READINGS.

Sir,—With reference to articles and letters which have appeared on the subject of reading and on literature generally, might I make a plea on behalf of that difficult form of literary art — the short story. During the war short stories —I do not necessarily mean of the magazine type — have come into their own. The time and sustained attention necessary for the proper appreciation of a lengthy novel were often impossible, and the short story proved a great boon. All tastes are provided for, and names which naturally occur to one are R.L. Stevenson, Edgar Allan Poe, Kipling, Hardy, O. Henry and others — a sufficiently varied fare. Plays such as the comedies of Oscar Wilde, G.B. Shaw and Arnold Bennett, too, provide excellent reading for those whose time is limited.

"What is the best short story?" might be made the subject of a very interesting and profitable controversy.

LIBRARIAN.

"CALVARIES AS MEMORIALS."

Sir,—Your correspondent "J.K.D." does not seem to understand the main reason for the erection of Calvaries as memorials of the fallen. They are not put up merely for the adornment of the countryside, but have a great spiritual significance in uplifting the thoughts of passers-by, and reminding them of all those who have given their lives for their country, through this symbol of our salvation. I agree that a terrace of working-men's cottages would be useful, but the original meaning of their erection would soon be lost sight of, as in the case of any other almost purely utilitarian memorial. I also think that if "J.K.D." realized the great part which wayside Calvaries take in the life of the French and Belgian peoples, he would not refer to these memorials as "Useless" and speak of "throwing good money down the beck," to use his own expression.

B.M.G.

OPEN-AIR ENJOYMENT.

Sir,—During the present spell of hot weather in Rhineland it has been impressed on me more than ever that we at home really don't know how to make the best use of open-air life.

What town in Great Britain is there where one can sit at ease in the open and sip one's refreshment as even the poorest can do in the alfresco cafés and beer gardens out here, listening to good music the while?

Time and again such resorts have been advocated in England, but we get no further than the stuffy evil smelling publichouse bar or the miserably inadequate tea or confectionery shop. If we have open-air music we merely set out rows of chairs and are denied the luxury of tables and refreshment. It is so even at our seaside resorts.

Every soldier on his return to Blighty ought to help to educate our people up to this innocent, inexpensive open air life. When abroad Britishers like it, but directly they go home they seem to think it is out of place. Why?

Gunners' Sensational 5 Wickets Win at Lord's.

VIGOROUS BATTING.

Brilliant batting was witnessed at Lord's on Saturday when the Royal Artillery defeated the Royal Engineers by five wickets.

The Engineers' captain declared their second innings closed at 224 for eight wickets. His men had scored 68 more than their opponents in the first venture. Thus the Gunners had 293 to get to win. But the factor of time was more interesting and important. There was only two hours and a half to play—three hours if necessary.

But Maj. F. R. R. Brooke, the old Lancashire wicket keeper, superbly supported by Lt.-Col. P. G. Robinson, Capt. E. L. Armitage (who learned to cut a long-hop at Cheltenham), and Lt. F. C. G. Naumann, knocked the runs off with fifteen minutes to spare.

ENGLISH CRICKET RESULTS.

Somerset (142 and 47 for six) beat Hampshire (114 and 71) by four wickets.

Yorkshire (423) beat Leicestershire (161 and 136) by an innings and 126.

Sussex (523) beat Essex (349 and 143) by an innings and 31.

Northants (294 and 229 for 7) beat Derbyshire (246 and 276 for six declared) by 3 wickets.

Surrey (582 for 9, declared) beat Middlesex (294 and 240) by an innings and 48.

Lancs (343 and 101 for one) beat Notts (300 and 143) by nine wickets.

Australians (198 and 419 for 8, declared) v. Kent (301 and 172 for five). Match drawn.

Warwickshire (364 and 122 for six, declared) v. Gloucestershire (393 and 51 for five). Match drawn.

WEEK-END GOLF.

Exciting Play In Vardon-Duncan Match at Montrose.

Harry Vardon and George Duncan spent a busy weekend at Montrose. On Saturday morning Vardon had two local players in J.C. Jessop and A. Shepherd against him, and he played their best ball. Vardon won by 3 and 2.

The meeting between Vardon and Duncan in the afternoon provided some exciting play. Duncan was 1 up when they turned for home. Vardon squared the match at the 11th, and after he had gained the lead at the 12th Duncan drew level again at the 13th. This, however, was his last effort, for Vardon took the 14th, 15th, and 16th, and thus won by 3 up and 2 to play.

X CORPS TOURNEY FINAL.

84th Brigade R.G.A. v. Lancashire Divisional Artillery.

The Lancashire Divisional Artillery batted first on a capital wicket, but against the fine bowling of Corporals Fenton and Walker, they fared badly for a time, 4 wickets being down with only 17 runs on the score board. On Captain Terry joining Bombardier Cook, the score was taken to 40, when the former was out l.b.w. to Fenton, after collecting 13 by sound batting. Bombardier Cook played capital cricket for 22 when he was bowled by a fine ball from Bombardier Heys, and the only other batsman to reach double figures was Lieut. Eykyn, who played a "not out" innings of 12. Corporal Fenton came out with the fine analysis of 5 wickets for 19 runs; Corporal Walker captured 1 for 29 and Bombardier Heys 1 for 22 runs.

84th Brigade, R.G.A., opened their innings with Gunners Brakes and Lainchbury, and the attack was shared by Lieutenants Allen and Eykyn. The score was taken to 12 for no wickets when the players adjourned for lunch.

On resuming the two batsmen played most bright and confident cricket and despite the changes in bowlers, the score was taken to 56. When Brakes was smartly caught at point off Lieut. Allen for a well played innings of 20. Corporal Fenton and Bombardier Heys were both smartly stumped off the bowling of Lieut. Allen after contributing 3 and 13 respectively. On 2/Lieut. Alyward joining Lainchbury, the score was taken from 70 to 103 before the next wicket fell, when Lieut. Aylward was caught after adding 16 by fine cricket. Lainchbury, who had completely mastered the bowling, continued to score freely, but with his score at 65, he was bowled by B.S.M. Sherrer. During his stay at the wicket he did not give a chance and was specially good in placing the ball on the leg side. His hits include 5 fours. Gunner Skinner played a bright innings of 15 before being smartly caught behind the wicket. Lieut. Allen and B.S.M. Sherrer were the most successful bowlers for the Lancashire Divisional Artillery, the former taking 5 and the latter 3 wickets. Final scores:—84th Brigade R.G.A. 156; Lancashire Divisional Artillery 87.

SPORT AT ALDERSHOT.

Corporal Wheeler Wins the Slow Bicycle Race.

ORDNANCE ATHLETES.

The following were the results at the Athletic Sports Meeting held by the Army Ordnance at Aldershot on Saturday:—

Quarter mile:—1, Cpl. Pentland; 2, Pte. Berdsworth; 3, Pte. Webb.

Throwing the cricket ball:—1, Pte. Smith, 90 yds.

Slow bicycle race:—1, Cpl. Wheeler.

100 yards veteran's race:—1, Sergt. Carr; 2, Cpl. Stapleton.

100 yards:—1, Sergt. Hardy; 2, Sergt. Lovett; 3, Sergt. Cranswick.

1 mile walking:—1, Cpl. Walpole; 2, Boy Badman.

Team relay:—Commercial Clothing Depôt.

Open mile:—1, Cpl. Durham, R.A.S.C.; 2, Pte. Webb, R.A.O.C.; 3, Cpl. Walpole, R.A.O.C.

BRILLIANT SPRINTING.

A.G. Hill Breaks 25 Year Old Scottish Record.

The athletic season in Glasgow was, as has been the custom for many years, brought to a close with the meeting of the Celtic Football Club at their grounds, Parkhead, on Saturday, in brilliant weather, and before fully 30,000 spectators. The meeting was notable for the presence of several southern athletes, and for the creation of two new Scottish all-comers' records, Sergt. Mason, who refused his 10 yards start, doing the half-mile in 1min 55 2-5 sec (2-5sec better than Horner Baker's previous best, done at the Celtic sports in 1914), and A. G. Hill completing the mile in 4min 16 4-5 sec, which compared with F. E. Bacon's 4 min 18 1-5sec. at Edinburgh in 1894.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Entries To Be Sent To Antwerp Olympic Games.

At a General Committee meeting of the A.A.A. on Saturday it was decided to send entries to the Olympic Games in Antwerp in 1920, also to hold the Seven-mile Walking and Ten-mile Running Championships at the L.A.C.'s meeting at Stamford Bridge on Sept. 20. The Association has been asked to appoint officials for the R.N., Army, and R.A.F. Championships on Sept. 4. Messrs. G. V. A. Schofield, E. Hoyle, W. M. Barnard, and H. J. Barclay (hon sec) were appointed as a sub-committee in connection with the proposed memorial to fallen sportsmen. Various alterations in the Association's rules were referred to a special general meeting, to be called later in the year. Mr. G. V. A. Schofield (vice-president) was in the chair.

63rd. BRIGADE'S SUCCESS.

Over 30 Prizes in 2nd. Corps R.A. Sports.

The above Sports were held at Dunnwald on Thursday in fine weather. A very interesting programme of events was submitted by the committee and some keen, and exciting finishes, were witnessed. A special feature of the day was the remarkable success of the 63rd. Brigade Headquarters team which pulled off the following events.

Putting the Shot:—2nd. Pnr. Whistler.

880 yards:—1st. Spr. Barnwell; 3rd. Spr. Cross.

High jump:—2nd. Spr. T. Shepherd.

One mile:—1st. Sgt. Young; 2nd. Spr. Barnwell.

100 yards:—1st. Sgt. Whetlor.

440 yards:—1st. Sgt. Whetlor; 2nd. Cpl. R. Shepherd.

Spar boat race:—1st. 63rd. H. Q. Crew.

3 mile:—1st. Sgt. Young; 2nd. Spr. Barnwell.

Relay race:—1st. Whetlor, Young, R. Shepherd; T. Shepherd.

120 yards (Officers):—2nd. Capt. Bentley.

220 yards:—1st. Sgt. Whetlor; 2nd. Cpl. R. Shepherd.

Obstacle race:—1st. Spr. Dickens; 2nd. Spr. Shepherd (T); 3rd. Gnr. Gower.

120 yards hurdles:—3rd. Spr. T. Shepherd.

Tilting the bucket:—2nd. Spr. Barnwell and Gnr. Eads.

Best all round man:—Silver Cup Sgt. W. Whetlor.

Summary: 42 points. 19 medals. 1 Silver Cup. 29 Other Prizes.

The prizes were presented by Brigadier General K. K. Knapp, C.B., C.M.G. Commanding 11 Corps Heavy Artillery.

AUTUMN HANDICAPS.

97 Entries For The Cesarewitch : 89 For Cambridgeshire.

EXCELLENT PATRONAGE.

Ninety-seven entries have been received for the Cesarewitch, which will be run on October 15th, and 89 for the Cambridgeshire (Oct. 29), compared with 58 and 73 respectively last year. The weights for the autumn handicaps will be published in the week preceding Doncaster. The following is the list of entries:—

ARMY HORSE SHOW.

152nd Heavy Battery's Interesting Eliminating Trials.

152nd Heavy Battery had a successful day on Friday in the Xth Corps Heavy Artillery eliminating trials for the Army Horse Show. Bdr. Price with "Dick", a 1914 horse, and Dvr. McIvory with "Dan" took the first two places in the best stripped heavy draught horse event, and Trumpeter Whitelaw took a good third for the best turned out W.O., N.C.O., or man, failing to take a higher place owing to his horse having had a fall.

For the best turned out pair of Heavy draught and G.S. Waggon, Dvr. Athies was a close second. Sergt. Frith and his gun and team were again first and deserve special credit as they only arrived back from the Cavalry Division Show at Cologne on the evening of the 6th, having marched back the whole way by road in one day.

In the four horse team and limbered waggon event, the Ammunition Column's teams of greys were third, though a higher place might have been obtained if the off leader had been a better match in colour compared with the rest of the team.

BOXING CONTESTS.

Two boxing contests were decided at Deauville on Saturday night. In the first Marcel Thomas defeated Pohl, of the American Navy, the latter's seconds throwing up the sponge in the third round, while in the second match the French bantam-weight champion, Ledoux, knocked out Coindet, champion of Switzerland, in the second round.

A STRENUOUS FORTNIGHT.

Many "Cologne Post" Cup Matches To Be Decided.

A WORD TO SECRETARIES.

As already announced, as soon as the state of the various leagues is decided the "Cologne Post" Cup Competition will enter upon its culminating stage. Only a fortnight remains in which to play off the remaining fixtures. It is therefore incumbent upon secretaries to re-arrange their outstanding matches at the earliest possible date.

Appended are summaries of the latest matches:—

17th LANCERS (130) v. 2 BDE. R.A.F. (32) at Kalk. For 17th Lancers Major Nicholls made 54, Lieut. Cooke 19, and Capt. Fowler 15 while Cpl. Whitfield took 8 wickets for 12 runs and Capt. Fowler 2 for 12. A. C. Rust took 4 wickets for 29 runs and Hisrap 3 for 21 for R.A.F.

52 WELSH (94) v. 53rd WELSH (17). For the 52 Welsh Capt. Worlock made 34 and Pte. Marsden 18 while Cpl. Walwork took 6 wickets for 8 runs and Pte. Lawton 3 for 5.

121st HEAVY BTY. (119 for 7) v. EASTERN DIV. SIG. COY., R.E. (70) at Siegburg. Bdr. Hopewell played an excellent innings of 47 and Capt. Huxford hit up 19 for the winner. Major Pope made the same score for the losers.

ARMY H.Q. SIGNALS (174 for 5) v. 24 VET. HOSPITAL (37) at Klettenberg. Chief scorers for the winners were Hampton (60), Starr (26 not out), Melmish (25 not out) and Fraser 24. Bowling for the winners, Starr took 4 for 2 and Fraser 3 for 8.

"R" A.A. BTY. (138) v. 52nd NORTHUMBERLAND FUS. (46). For the winners, Bdr. Whitehouse scored 51 runs, and later did good work with the ball, performing the hat trick, and taking in all 4 wickets for 9 runs. Cpl. Slape scored 24, and Gnr. Melville 15. Lieut. Common was the only batsman to reach double figures for the Fusiliers, his score amounting to 15 runs, while his bowling resulted in 7 wickets for 41 runs.

53rd NORTHUMBERLAND FUS. (99) v. ADV. SUPPLY DEPOT (67). Sandford gained the hat trick for the Fusiliers.

174 SIEGE BATTERY (132 for 8) v. 73 BDE. R.G.A. (39). For 174, Lieut. Webster scored 53, Lieut. Butcher 31 and Bdr. Boncaill 20.

LANCS. DIV. SIGS. (110) v. 51 ROYAL SUSSEX (60). For Signals, Pnr. House made 50 and Sgt. Head 23; Pte. Fairwood took 7 for 26. C.Sgt. Evans made top score for Sussex, 16 not out.

YORK and LANC (164 for 8) v. 24 HANTS (159) at Blücher Park on Saturday, August 9th. Chief scorers for the Yorks and Lancs. were Capt. Dixon 43, L/Cpl. Paine 39 and Sgt. Gaunt 23 not out. For 24 Hants, Sgt. Taylor 28, Sgt. Rowe 25 and Sgt. Hampton 22. L/Cpl. Paine, the wicket keeper for the Yorks and Lancs., made a splendid display of wicket-keeping.

"SPORTS FEAST".

Old German Institution Celebrated at Elsdorf.

Describing their revellings as a "Sports Feast", large numbers of German civilians made merry at Elsdorf on Saturday evening. With the local Fire Brigade band at its head a long procession, the members of which carried Chinese lanterns mounted on poles, marched through the principal streets their progress being marked by the letting off of fireworks.

The decorations along the line of route included two dazzling arches of flowers and fairy lights.

A large banner of the Elsdorf Football Club had an untimely end as the result of a lighted firework setting it into flames.

The "Feast" was continued on Sunday when various phases of sport were indulged in.

Amusement and Recreation.

Concert Tour.

By the courtesy of Miss Lena Ashwell, the Rev. E.C. Yelverton, Chaplain to the Dragoon Brigade, will escort a concert party of five ladies and two gentlemen on tour as follows:—To-night Schendorf; Wednesday Elsdorf; Thursday Zündorf; Friday Horrem; Saturday Paffendorf. The artistes are Misses O'Grady, Poole, Carrol, Rashleigh, Chambers, and Messrs. Hill and Worral.

Overath Diversions.

The troops billeted in or near the charming village of Overath have now a Church Army hut which is nightly filled. A concert party of the 26 R.F., "The Souvenirs," gave a very enjoyable concert on Thursday evening to a full house. The Kaisersaal was used on this occasion for the first time. A cinema is run nightly and now a German circus has arrived with its attendant side shows so that there is abundant promise of the troops here having all "the fun of the fair."

Leave Club Attractions.

At the B.E.L.C. there will be an Impromptu Concert on Thursday, from 5 to 6 and a Whist Drive at 6.30. On Friday, a Dancing Class will be held at 5 p.m. and the cinema will be continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. On Saturday, an impromptu concert will take place at 5 p.m. and a dance in the Theatre at 7 p.m. Throughout the week, August 11th to 18th inclusive a unique opportunity is being offered to all those who were unable to witness the historic marches of our victorious troops through London and Paris to see the films depicting these great events. They will be exhibited in the Cinema Hall daily from 2 to 3.50 p.m. and 3.45 to 5.15 p.m. On Friday there will be a continuous cinema performance until 9.45 p.m.

Massed Band Performance.

The other evening in the gardens facing the 18th Bn. K.R.R.C. H.Q. Mess, Solingen, the massed band and buglers of the 1st Light Brigade (13th, 18th and 20th Bns. K.R.R.C.) gave a two hours' performance. The weather was ideal, and a huge audience listened to the selections. The Brigadier and his Staff were present, and the officers from each battalion were there in large numbers. The programme was a generous one, each selection was carefully and excellently rendered, and the splendid results reflected great credit on the respective bandmasters. It is hoped by all that the massed band and buglers will give another enjoyable performance in the near future, for such musical treats are "few and far between."

Miss Moore at Weiden.

Miss Ada Moore gave a concert to the 74th Brigade R.F.A., Weiden on Saturday. The first item was a song "The Blackbird" followed by "That was the end of my dream." A monologue "Just by Laughing" caused much amusement and the applause was loud and prolonged "Roses of Picardy," "In and old Fashioned Town" and "The Heart of a Rose" were also sung by Miss Moore among others. A new song "The Kingdom in your eyes" was heard for the first time; but after the second chorus all joined in with great gusto — a competition between the two divisions of the audience producing great amusement. Signaller Copeland of A/75 (an old member of The Foxes the 23rd Army Bde R.F.A. Concert Party, sang two ragtime songs "When the Sun goes down in Dixie" and "They'e waiting for me in Tennessee," in excellent style. Miss Moore brought the concert to an end with "Mother McRee."

Field Concerts.

General Sir Henry Horne, speaking at the Savoy Theatre, paid a tribute to the work done by the concert parties which were engaged during the war in the various fields. He explained that "Les Rouges et Noirs," the party of the First Army, had not obtained their name from Monte Carlo but from the red and black flag of the First Army. He said that at the end of 1914, after the desperate fighting around Ypres, when the men settled drown to the hardships, sufferings, and privations of trench warfare, it became necessary for those in authority to bestir themselves and as far as possible to provide rest for the bodies and recreation for the minds of their men. To assist in that work the concert parties were developed. They had not far to look, for the theatrical profession and the music-halls were not backward when the call of duty was heard.

Race With a Shell.

There was great rivalry among the companies (continued the General) and naturally each Division thought theirs the best. The performance of the Rouges et Noirs in London was exactly the same as they had had night after night in France, and the men had not been kept in cottonwool. They did their duty in times of stress. When they were short-handed they turned out and drove motor lorries and assisted in many ways to carry on. When the great offensive took place, the party followed up close behind and gave their performances without fail. They had lots of adventures. On one occasion there was a race between themselves and a German shell for a rehearsal. Fortunately the German shell won and no harm was done except that the wardrobe was damaged.

Leave Club Sunday Concert.

The band of the 1/5th. South Staffords gave a delightful programme of music at the Leave Club on Sunday. Eilenberge's descriptive "Mill in the Black Forest" one of the best items had never been heard before by a large number of the audience. Pioneer Watkin Williams sang "Friend" and being encored gave "Sympathy". "Tommy Lad" was sung by Lt. Mearns, 51st D.L.I. and as an encore he gave "Mother Machree". Pte. Baines' violin solo was really a remarkable performance, and Sergeant Williams gave "Four Songs of the Air" which have recently been published and which will doubtless become extremely popular with the B.A.O.R.

In few words.

The "Tonics" Concert Party are appearing again at the British Empire Leave Club tonight with an entirely new programme and costumes.

JACQUES.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Carpentier's next Match.

It is reported that Carpentier's next match will be against Lenaers (Belgium) at Lyons, on September 3.

Grouse Prospects.

A correspondent writes that reports from the North of England and Scotland show that birds are fewer than ever This is primarily due to the want of experienced keepers, the majority of whom are only just back from France.

Three-Day Matches.

It was announced at Old Trafford on Friday that the Lancashire County Cricket Club Committee had decided to instruct their representatives at the meeting of the Advisory Board in London on August 19 to vote in favour of a reversion to three-day matches.

Q.P.R. Players.

The following players have been engaged for Queen's Park Rangers for next season: Goal: J. Marrick (Birmingham and District League) and J. C. Gould (X Div. of Police). Backs: A. Pullen, J. Wingrove, F. E. Blackman (Leeds City and Fulham), and W. Draper, Half-backs, A. Mitchell, J. W. Baldock, J. Broster, A. Whyman, J. W. Brooks (Derbyshire), and F. A. Wright (R.A.F.). Forwards: W. Thompson, J. Birch, J. B. Miller, J. Gregory, D. Donald, J. G. Fox, and J. W. Smith (Third Lanark).

39lb Tope.

A fine tope of 39lb has been captured at Newhaven (Sussex) by M. E. Lambert, a London angler.

Hallows Gets his 1,000.

Against Notts, at Old Trafford last week Hallows, for the third match in succession, played an innings of over 100, and at the same time completed his 1,000 runs for the season.

N.C.U. Victory Meet.

The National Cyclists' Union is celebrating the arrival of peace by a victory meeting of champions, under the patronage of H.M. the King, at Herne Hill track on Saturday, September 6.

A "Star" Amateur.

There are few, if any, better amateurs riding to-day than Mr. F. B. Rees, and on Neurotic he gave another taste of his quality in beating Carslake on the favourite Daniel by a head in the Berwick Welter.

Boxing for Boys.

The Amateur Boxing Association hope to hold championships this year for boys attending schools other than public schools. The council decided to take this step in view of the fact that boxing has been adopted by all branches of H. M. Forces as part of the physical training.

For the first time.

The Lewes Handicap is now confined to three-year-olds for the first time in its history.

At Liverpool Stadium.

Alf Wye, London, and Idris Jones, Amanford, also Jock Wayland London, and Johnny Griffiths, Chester, will meet over 15 rounds at the Liverpool Stadium next Thursday.

"Aussies" in U.S.A.

The four Australian players—Messrs. Brookes, Patterson, R. V. Thomas, and Lycett—who left England on July 24, arrived in America on Aug. 1, and will compete in the U.S.A. Doubles Championship.

Golf Unknown.

Unfortunately golf was unknown in England when the two oldest Universities were planted on water-meadows, the valleys of rivers. Oxford should be at Friiforth Head, Cambridge at Mildenhall. —A.C.M. Croome in the "Morning Post."

Early in Training.

Eddie McGoorty, of America, winner of five important fights in England during the past eight months, has gone into training unusually early for him in view of his match with J. Beckett, the English champion, at Olympia on September 2.

Covered Court Championships.

The Tennis world championships on covered courts will be decided on November 15 on the courts of the Sporting Club de Paris.

Olympia Tickets.

All tickets purchased for the postponed Beckett-Carpentier boxing contest at Olympia, on Sept. 2, are available for the substitute programme which has been arranged by Mr. Charles B. Cochran.

Golly Eyes at Last.

Everything comes to him who waits, and Hunt must have breathed a sigh of satisfaction when Golly Eyes won his first race for two years when beating Kashmir in the Sussex Handicap.

F.C's. Profit.

The Derby County Football Club's annual balance sheet shows a profit of £454 to devote to football charities with special consideration for the widows of two players, Brooks and Benfield, who lost their lives in the war.

The Stymie.

The question of revising the rule relating to the stymie in golf is under the consideration of the Rules of Golf Committee, but no official statement is possible whether any recommendation will be made to the Royal and Ancient Club at its forthcoming meeting.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Strange Meetings.

During the occupation of Cologne there have been many instances of the meetings of friends who for years have lost sight of one another. Here are three instances of unexpected and strange meetings that have recently occurred. A French officer was the other day seated in a train when a British officer entered. Recognition was instantaneous. They were side by side in hospital at Salonica and had thought one another dead. A soldier was being shaved in a Cologne shop when the barber asked "Don't you know me Mr.....?" The barber was for years Tommy's next door neighbour in Walthamstow. Two officers entered into casual conversation at the tennis courts at Lindenthal. One had been in East Africa for years, the other in India. They lived in Hertfordshire and it transpired that they went to school together.

Climbing Telephone Poles.

Perhaps some readers have noticed that the German telegraph poles have no iron steps affixed to them such as our English ones have, and have wondered how Jerry goes on when it is required to climb the poie. A correspondent says he had the opportunity the other day of watching one of them climbing. The man had a piece of steel, rather more than semicircular in shape, the diameter of which, was rather wider than the diameter of the pole. This he affixed to his boot so that it jutted out from the toe. It fitted round the pole easily and with this simple device it was quite an easy matter to climb. Also, one could work without any fear of slipping, as once the instrument is in place round the pole, it is quite an impossibility—without lifting the foot—for it to slip.

Dictionary Pitfalls.

Many must have noticed with amusement an advertisement of a German athletic meeting. The chief events announced are: "Hard Athletics:—Weight—heaving and Wrestling. Light Athletics:—Stone-pushing, Ball-pushing, Weight-throwing; High-leaping, 1500 metres-run. "Dew-pulling" seems at first rather puzzling; whether it is to be considered as "hard athletics" depends so much on the acreage to be pulled, the time of day, and the weather. But a reference to the German version of the poster shows that it is intended for a translation of "Tauziehen" i. e. Rope pulling, or Tug of war. This is an awful example of the danger of putting any confidence in dictionaries. The translator no doubt learnt from his dictionary that "der Tau" is in English "dew" (as tauen means to thaw) but failed to observe that "das Tau" is rope; a word which will recall to Englishmen the joys of the towpath, and to Scotchmen their schooldays and the joys of the "Tawse."

Beauty and the Barge.

Trippers on the Rhine cannot have failed to notice the extreme and somewhat incongruous daintiness with which the small cabins in the sterns of coal barges are finished. Muslin curtains seem to be "de rigeur" while window boxes, gay with blossoms, are quite common.

In The Sunshine.

That the habits and customs of a people are strongly influenced by their physical surroundings is shown by the popularity of swimming among the younger generation in Cologne. Indoor swimming baths, such as are provided in all large towns, undoubtedly encourage swimming, but the appeal of a natural stream, grassy banks, the open air and sunshine are much greater.

A Revelation.

We have just heard of a woman in Bonn who decided to wash an article of clothing made of the paper material so much used since the war by the Germans, so placed it in a pan on the stove. Having a little shopping to do, she left it to simmer. Before she returned, the husband came home for dinner and finding his better-half out, looked about to see if his dinner had been left out for him. Seeing the pan on the stove, the thought struck him that she had prepared him some soup, so without any more to do satisfied his cravings with evident relish. Just as he was finishing, the good woman appeared. The conversation that followed can best be imagined.

Excitement at Reihl.

On Saturday afternoon, in Reihler Strasse, one noticed quite a number of American Police, carrying revolvers, in the vicinity of the fair grounds. These officials were galvanized into action by the sound of a police whistle being blown violently. An American automobile, carrying a driver, an American soldier and a German woman appeared swiftly round a corner, and some distance behind, an American policeman running for all he was worth, and when he had sufficient breath, blowing his whistle. The driver of the auto took no notice of shouted orders to "Stop" until one of the police fired his 'shooting iron' into the air. Realizing that business was meant, the runaways pulled up, and were immediately surrounded by a curious crowd. The woman, after being questioned by and giving her name to a German officer of police left the car, which was driven away with its occupants under charge of one of the American police.

Lesser Echoes.

Without question the most popular spot near Cologne in the present hot spell is the bathing ground at Rodenkirchen. It has been thronged by bathers of both sexes.

* * *

The difficulty in obtaining German beer in certain hotels at Rhineside resorts is remarkable. At one popular Sunday rendezvous, recently, a visitor tried to get a glass of Münchener, without success at three large hotels.

Prizes for Echos.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: Pte. W. E. Reynolds R.A.S.C., 69th S.B.A.C. NOTES FROM LONDON TOWN.

THE RIGHT DECISION.

Most people will applaud the decision now taken that the cenotaph in Whitehall shall be perpetuated in enduring material and the same simply effective form on the present site. Influential London newspapers have endeavoured to get the memorial to our million dead in the great fight for freedom removed to "a more convenient site," which means, of course, some place where none but the curious will see it. The Government has had the historic sense to decide otherwise. The right place for this enduring memorial to the heroes who saved the world is where it stood when Foch and his captains and troops of the Allied armies saluted it on the unforgettable grand march of triumph. If it checks the skelter of the London traffic down Whitehall, so much the better. Let the generations pause as they pass to contemplate the cenotaph of the dead warriors and what it means to history. As for the pedants who actually insult the memorial because it does not specially commemorate in its design their particular "ism"—leave them to oblivion or the obloquy of more enlightened generations.

CAMARADERIE.

A friend of mine who is home from the wars and has what he calls shrapnel gout, says there is a wonderful difference in 'bus conductors. My friend's great trouble is getting on and off 'buses when they are busy and engaged in competitive hurry-ups. Some conductors will not give a lame dog half a chance. Others will stop the 'bus, freeze on to the cripple, and see he gets first chance. And he also says you can always be quite certain of one thing. The 'busman who jerks the cord just as he is getting on has no Army badge or war ribbon. I was getting on a 'bus with him recently, and the conductor not only waited until we were well aboard, but lent him a friendly hand to his seat quite unobtrusively. "I told you!" said the lame warrior, when the man came for the fares, "Mons Ribbon and Military Medal with bar! I knew." And that's the way of it!

THE ADMIRAL'S SMOKE.

A naval appointment announced this week reminds me of a story told about a certain senior officer concerned. This officer was renowned for his love of cigarettes and the long thin holder he always used. His trim figure and cigarette-holder were a feature of the bridge of his flagship, as familiar to the ship's company as the compass or range-finder. Dismay fell upon all when an order was issued that gas-masks were to be worn by the occupants of ships' bridges when in enemy waters. How could the admiral have his smoke, everyone was asking. As usual, however, the Navy rose to the emergency, and a humble member of the crew devised an ingenious arrangement of rubber tubing whereby the wearer could enjoy a smoke while protected against poison-gas. The ship's company were very disappointed when the gas-mask order was modified, and they were cheated of the spectacle of their popular commanding officer inhaling smoke through an arrangement bearing a strong resemblance to an infant's feeding bottle!

A GOOD TAILOR.

One hears such tales of tradesmen's profiteering nowadays that it is refreshing to come across a bona-fide case of something quite the reverse. And this I have just been fortunate enough to do. A Liverpool man now in Fleet-street tells me his old-established City tailor is one out of many thousand exceptions. He does not believe in profiteering, and does not do it. His suits are more expensive than pre-war suits because they have to be. Moreover, he is a cash tailor who has during the war made many suits for youngsters, sons of old clients, on a credit understanding. The youngsters came home, wanted a suit, said they could not pay on the nail, but it would be "All right." And the old city tailor had not the heart to say them nay. Many of those youngsters are lying under the soil of Flanders and France. My Liverpool friend asked him why he did not send in the bills to their fathers. His answer was. "Mr.—, I'd sooner see the business under the sea. I simply couldn't do it in the circumstances." Personally, really apart from his moderate terms, that's my tailor in future.

HOW'S IT DONE?

An odd story is going about to the effect that "Pussyfoot" has imported all his office equipment from America to save the expense of buying it in England. Dealers in desks, filing systems, and the like who tried to extract an order from so promising a customer were exasperated to be told that he had just got in all he required from his trans-Atlantic branches. For if true this meant that the astute Yankee had somehow managed to evade the import restrictions. Legitimate traders have been trying wildly to import American office furniture — and failing. How then did "Pussyfoot" succeed? The gossip is that persons in high places arranged to have the restrictions specially waved on his behalf. It is certainly known that one or two members of the Government are by no means averse to the flooding of the country with prohibition propaganda.

A CADDIE STORY.

A true and new caddie story to conclude with! The golf caddie has a reputation for caustic wit which some members of the craft find it rather hard to live up to. But the experience of a friend, a beginner who was paying his debut visit to one of the best of the London suburban courses, suggests that the gift is not entirely an illusion. My friend's drive somehow developed that nasty habit of finding the rough every time. "I don't think much of your course," the unfortunate amateur was driven to exclaim about the third hole. "Well," was the prompt rejoinder by the caddie, "you haven't been on it yet!"

KUT HORRORS.

EURASIAN GOES INTO THE WITNESS BOX.

When the Court-martial on William Fratel, the Eurasian medical officer, was resumed at Middlesex Guildhall on Monday morning, Captain Eastwood, who appears in defence, requested that all witnesses might be ordered to leave the court. This was done.

Opening the case for the defence, Mr. Elkin K.C., counsel for accused, said that Fratel had seen twelve years service and had three brothers in the Army. He arrived in Mesopotamia in November 1914 and reached Kut in September 1915 remaining there throughout the siege. At the end of the campaign, Fratel, who was attached to the 86th Battery R.F.A., was commended for most useful services rendered at No 9 General Hospital. When the prisoners taken at Kut started on their long march their mental and physical condition was deplorable. They were constantly villified by Turks, Germans and the native populace, and were told that the British Navy had been defeated at Jutland and that Kitchener was drowned. On two occasions at least Fratel was assaulted for attempting to attend to the ailing men and on arrival at Bagtsche he was told that he must remain inside the hospital. If he went outside to render assistance he was told he would be put to work on the railway. Fratel was thus prevented from doing his duty. He would give most vivid evidence as to the conditions prevailing among the British at Bagtsche and about the systematic cruelty practised by the Turks and Germans. Our men, said counsel, literally dropped dead because of the abominable treatment they received. When medicine was required Fratel had to steal it. Dr. Comus locked up the quinine and Fratel could only get it by subterfuge. Counsel described the hospital as a conglomeration of ramshackle huts and the staff as a motley crew. Our men, he said, were under the tragic impression that Fratel could do everything for them, whereas he could do little.

Accused Gives Evidence.

Fratel then went into the witness box and described the march from Kut to Bagtsche. He said several unpleasant incidents occurred on the way and he made representations to a Turkish officer, who said he couldn't control the gendarmes, who were savages. On one occasion he went to the help of an English soldier who had fallen out through sickness, but was prevented by a Turk, who struck him with a sjambok. On another occasion he and others were chased by Turks on horseback and had to run for their lives. On arrival at Bagtsche he was sent to work in the hospital. One day he was sent for to attend an urgent case and on returning Dr. Comus was furious and gave orders that he was not to leave the place again, threatening that if he did he would be beaten and sent to work on the railway as an ordinary labourer. Up to that time he used to give men rest chits but was then informed that he had no authority to sign any more or to admit men to hospital.

Everything Denied.

The engineers constructing the line, who ran the hospital, supplied the tents and indented for medicine, were Philip Holzmann and Co. of Frankfort-on-Maine, who were responsible.

Regarding the food he said there was no difference in the diet for patients and attendants. He never once had milk or sugar with tea. What sugar he did have he bought in the village. Fratel recalled times when he gave clothing to some of the patients and sugar or money to others. He gave a categorical denial to all charges levied against him and denied kicking a sick man or urging anybody else to do so. Accused was under cross examination when the case was adjourned.

THE GUIDING HAND.

ENTENTE AND HUNGARY.

Hungarian affairs continue to occupy the attention of the Supreme Allied Council and were again the subject of discussion in French diplomatic cirles. Regarding the departure of the Roumanian stateman Diamantidi to Buda-Pesth it is understood that his mission is not to establish a liaison between Roumania and the Allied Commissioners but simply to act as Roumanian representative in the negotiations with the Hungarians. M. Cambon, French Chargé d'Affaires at Bucharest, on Saturday handed to M. Bratiano three notes addressed by the Supreme Allied Council to the Roumanian Government, requesting them to take no personal initiative in Hungary and only to make decisions conforming to those of the Entente delegates in Buda-Pest.

AFGHANISTAN.

FULL TERMS OF PEACE TREATY.

The following is the text of the Afghan Peace Treaty which was signed at Rawal Pindi on August 8th:

Article I.—From the date of signing this Treaty, Peace is declared between the British and Afghanistan Governments.

Article II.—In view of the circumstances which have brought on the present war, the British Government, as a mark of displeasure, withdraw the privilege enjoyed by the former Amirs of importing arms and ammunition or warlike munitions through India.

Article III.—The arrears of the late Amir's subsidy are furthermore confiscated, and also no subsidy is to be granted to the present Amir.

Article IV.—At the same time, the British Government are desirous of the re-establishment of the old friendship that has so long existed between Great Britain and Afghanistan, provided that they have guarantees that the Afghan Government are sincerely anxious to regain our friendship. The British Government is prepared, provided the Afghans prove their sincerity by acts and conduct, to receive another Afghan Mission after six months for the discussion and settlement of matters of common interest to the two Governments and the re-establishement of the old friendship on a satisfactory basis. The Afghan Government accept the Indo-Afghan frontier accepted by the late Amir. They further agree to the early demarcation by a British Commission of the undemarcated portion of the West Khyber, where the Afghan aggression happened, and will accept such boundary as the British Commission lays down. The British troops on this side of the border will remain in their present positions until the new demarcation has been effected.

Intrigues and pin-pricks.

Sir Hamilton Grant in the course of his speech said:

The treaty we have signed offers a prompt solution of a difficult situation. I have indicated verbally and in writing, specific ways in which the Afghan Government can show the sincerity of their feelings. They must act whole-heartedly in the matter. There must be none of the petty intrigues and pin-pricks which in the past have often strained the relations between the two Governments. If the Afghans co-operated whole-heartedly, they would get the same whole-hearted friendship from the British.

I must thank you for the courteous way in which you have co-operated in these negotiations. We had inevitable and constant differences, but you never failed to listen patiently to our words, though your position has been difficult. You never allowed undue heat to mar the tenour of the discussion. In social relations you invariably treated us with true Afghan courtesy. The Viceroy, in sending you his greetings, asks you kindly to deliver a message to the Amir, expressing his lively satisfaction that there is once more peace between Afghanistan and India. His Excellency trusts that this treaty of peace will be preliminary to a treaty in due course which will draw closer the bonds of friendship of two old friends and neighbours.

OUR U.S. AMBASSADOR.

It is understood that the coveted post of British Ambassador at Washington, vacated recently by Earl Reading, has been offered to Viscount Grey of Fallodon. It was to the ex-Foreign Secretary that Mr. Bonar Law referred in his veiled allusion the other day.

Lord Grey is giving the matter very earnest consideration, but has not as yet arrived at a definite decision. The unfortunate state of his eyesight is a grave handicap, and may determine his line of action. But in well-informed circles it is felt that Lord Grey's ripe diplomatic experience and particularly his keen interest in the League of Nations would be of immense value to this country if he can see his way to take up his residence at Washington.

FUTURE OF YPRES.

The Anglo-Belgian Commission appointed to consider the question of the reconstruction of Ypres has held a session in Ypres. It recommends that the central portion of the town be not rebuilt but be allowed to remain as a historic monument. This area includes the ruins of the Cloth Hall, the Cathedral, the Church of St. Martin, the Palais de Justice and the adjoining cloisters.

The great cause of cheering us all up has a notable recruit in the advertisement writer who made the phrase, "The pill that won the war." It is hard that such genius should be anonymous.

CARNEGIE DEAD.

MAN WHO GAVE AWAY £70,000,000.

A romance of business is ended by the death on Monday, at his American home in Massachusetts, of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the steel multi-millionaire. His life was a proof of his saying that no young man ever lived who has not had his chances.

Born at Dunfermline in 1835, the son of a Scottish damask weaver, Mr. Carnegie was taken to the United States at the age of fourteen. He started life as a telegraph boy; he was successively a weaver's assistant and telegraph operator and helped Pullman, the inventor of the sleeping car, to develop his invention. Careful investments gave him a command of capital and he presently concentrated all his energies on the iron trade. He grew to control vast interests at Pittsburg, which were amalgamated in 1892 as the Carnegie Steel Company, Ltd., whose products went all over the world. In 1901, through the agency of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, the American Steel Trust was created by the amalgamation of the Carnegie Company with seven other companies, with a total capital of £229,000,000. Mr. Carnegie now retired on a tidy annual income of between £2,000,000 and £3,000,000. At this time he said the secret of his success lay in choosing a man for each department who knew the business better than he himself.

Mr. Carnegie married in 1887 Louise Whitfield, of New York, and had one daughter, who was married recently in New York. After his retirement he gave himself up to founding libraries and otherwise disposing of his vast wealth. His total benefactions were variously estimated at from £70,000,000 to £80,000,000. A large part of his fortune went in supporting his ideals of universal peace.

He bought Skibo Castle, in the North of Scotland, and here he spent most of his leisure. He was Lord Rector of St. Andrews University from 1902-7, and Lord Rector of Aberdeen from 1912-14. Mr. Carnegie was also the author of many notable books.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY.

HOW TWO R.A.F. SQUADRONS SECURED IMMUNITY.

Speaking at a wireless telephony demonstration given by the Royal Air Force at Westminster yesterday evening, General Seely said that in the summer of 1918 aeroplanes in two R.A.F. squadrons were fitted with wireless telephony sets. The Germans were thoroughly alarmed and their aeroplanes studiously avoided the machines of those two squadrons. Wireless telephony had not been developed by the enemy and in this branch of science we had got right ahead. There was a great future for the science. So far the maximum ranges were 165 miles for an airship and 100 miles for an aeroplane.

Some remarkable demonstrations were given in a committee room of the House of Lords. Those present had the unique experience of listening to gramophone selections, recitals of poetry and speeches transmitted from an R.A.F. station twenty miles from London. Members of both houses of Parliament were much impressed.

HOOVER'S PILGRIMAGE.

Mr. Hoover has left Paris for the purpose of conducting an investigation into the possibilities of increasing the production of food-stuffs and coal in the countries of Central Europe. In a statement before leaving he said it is his intention to talk to the workers of Bohemia, Poland and the Balkan countries on the same way as he had talked to the workers of the Western countries, urging them to intensify their efforts to increase production, as being the only means whereby the crisis facing the world owing to the shortage of food and raw materials could be overcome.

DUKE'S PLEA FOR UNITY.

The Duke of Portland, addressing a crowd including 1,200 discharged and demobilized soldiers at Sutton-in-Ashfield, alluded to the distinguished service rendered in the war by the Notts regiments, and appealed to all to pull together at this time of crisis. No man knew better than Mr. Lloyd George, who declared that the position was grave. He implored them, for God's sake, to pay heed to the Premier's warning and not throw away all that had been gained for the country and Empire at such tremendous cost. It would be calamitous if, by disunion, we lost all that our brave soldiers had won.

PROFITABLE SALVAGE.

A message from Buncrana in the North of Ireland states that during the past week salvage operations on the liner Laurentic, which was sunk in January 1917 while acting as an auxiliary cruiser, have already resulted in the recovery of a million pounds worth of bullion in ingot form. The work is proceeding rapidly owing to the fine weather.

TRAGEDY OF TOOTHACHE.

That she upset a bottle of carbolic acid while applying it to her aching tooth was the belief entertained by a doctor at a Hull inquest on Gertrude Lang, a young nurse, who was found dead in bed. A verdict of Death from Misadventure was returned.

HALE WAY HOUSE.

SUGGESTED MID-ATLANTIC DOCK.

The American Ambassador recently declared that if there is one word more than another which should sum up the relationship between England and America, that world is "proximity." Every advance of science brings two English-speaking races closer together, and aircraft make the latest link.

Unfortunately the Atlantic is very wide and very deep. "Icarus," writing in the "Observer," thinks that if only there had been an island or shallow spot halfway across there could have been closer proximity long ago. He goes on to suggest that this deficiency might be remedied by the erection halfway across the Atlantic of a huge floating dock, a harbour for seagoing ships and a refuge for flying machines. "Such a dock would be of inestimable value to both countries. There will be increasing seaborne traffic between England and America and there is no doubt that great efforts will be made with all types of aircraft to establish flying services. It is obvious, however, that barring two existing airships, the journey by aeroplane is far too exacting to give a margin of reasonable safety for some years to come. If a dock as suggested were constructed, it would be a comparatively simple matter to build upon it a platform for the landing and taking off of 'planes. Here would be kept ship and flying craft stores of all kinds, a big wireless station and effective lighthouse and probably quite comfortable housing arrangements, the project is perfectly feasible and the cost would not be half of one day of war, while the benefits would be inestimable. The cost borne mutually by America and ourselves and the dock possibly built by British and American labour would certainly expedite fulfilment."

NEXT, PLEASE.

BOMBS FOR BUNNIES.

Bombs will be used to deal with the plague of rabbits in Queensland, Australia, if the plan of a landholder in the Armidale district is adopted.

This landholder, who says that if the owners in the north-western district are to hold their land, either his own or a better scheme must be worked in common, proposes a simple method.

A few rabbits are trapped, the deadly little bombs are attached to them, the pins pulled out, and the rabbits liberated.

Away go the rabbits for home, and while they are relating to their community the story of their capture and escape, off goes the bomb, and there is a disaster attended by heavy loss of life in the rabbit world.

If poison gas has been introduced into the bomb, the fumes will lie about that burrow for some considerable time afterwards, and make the area unpopular.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL SCANDAL.

It was announced yesterday that as the result of representations to the Home Secretary an inquiry is to be held into the case of Frederick Green, a London boy inmate of an industrial school at Prior Park, Bath, whose remarkable story of being "put in chains" was told to Bath magistrates last week.

The boy was found by a policeman at 3 a.m. limping along a Bath street with a dog chain attached to his right foot.

He said he had been chained up at the school and then beaten on the head by a master with a rolling pin. He got through the window (only 14 in. by 11 in.) of the top room in which he was confined, and then slid down a water pipe.

It was stated by the Superintendent of the school that he is incorrigible and had made many attempts at escape, both at Bath and at Ilford.

KILLED THROUGH KINDNESS.

A good turn done to a stranger led to the death of Thomas Dunn, 19, before his fiancé's eyes in the River Nene, near Peterborough.

Dunn and his fiancé, Miss Elsie Read, had gone out in a Canadian canoe, and when about four miles down the river he passed an angler, who asked him to release a line which was entangled in the branch of a tree overhanging the river.

Dunn stood up to do so, when a gust of wind caught the canoe and he overbalanced and fell into the water.

He rose to the surface once, and Miss Read made a brave attempt to reach him, going into the water waist deep, but without success. His body was found at the bottom of the river.

At the inquest a verdict of Accidental Death was returned.

WORLD'S HEIGHT RECORD.

The announcement in yesterday's issue stating that the "world's record" height of 25,580 feet had been attained by a two seater has brought us a host of disclaimers. Unfortunately for the amour propre of our lynx-eyed and up-to-date readers, there are certain conditions attached to attempts on record before performances can be passed as such.

It is perfectly well known that the height stated is not the highest attained. During the war a D.H. 9 several times exceeded 31,000 feet, while 25,000 feet has frequently been beaten. But,—and the big 'but' is largely composed of red tape—service feats do not count.

DOUBLE TRAITOR.

LONDON SEDITIONIST ARRESTED.

Dramatic developments are expected speedily to follow the discovery at Acton of a programme of revolutionary plans for operations in England. It is understood that amongst the papers and booklets seized by Scotland Yard detectives on Sunday were pamphlets of a highly revolutionary character signed by Lenin and Trotzky. One headed "To the toiling masses of France, Britain, America, Italy and Japan," was in the nature of an appeal by Russian workers and peasants for the abolition of capitalism and the overthrow of constitutional Government Other pamphlets were headed "British workers, what are you going to do? We declare war." These were addressed to fellow workers, who were urged to follow the example of comrades in Russia and Hungary.

Scotland Yard officials under the direction of Supt. McBrian, chief of the C.I.D. branch, made an important arrest yesterday afternoon when a man was taken into custody, pending further inquiries. He gave the name of Maurice Facey and is stated to be identified with the Federation of Discharged Soldiers and Sailors. He was arrested at the Communist Club in Charlotte-street.

It is understood that Scotland Yard has known for some time of his extremist activities, particularly in connection with the Zachariassen affair. When the Norwegian was in England, he spent a great deal of time in Facey's company and it was noticed that after the Norwegian's departure Facey enjoyed unusual affluence. It is likely that further arrests will follow.

PEACE PLANES.

HOW THE R.A.F. SAVED CONFERENCE TIME.

Interesting particulars are published of the extent to which aeroplanes of the Royal Air Force Communication Wing have been utilized for procuring quick transit of official mails and people from England to Paris on Peace Conference business. Military machines were exclusively used for the purpose. They had to be suited for carriage of passengers and mails, to be fast, reliable, and good for night landings. Bearing these points in mind, the types chosen were D 400, Handley-Page bombers, D.H., V.A. or Airco biplanes and Martinsydes of F 4 type. Comfortable cabins were fitted to the D.H. V.A., and Handley-Pages, making luxurious aircraft, far roomier and more comfortable than any limousine motor-cars. Martinsydes, which were needed only for rapid carriage of mails, were not materially altered.

By January 10th this year the machines commenced their service to Paris. Arrangements were made whereby meteorological reports were sent to the Air Ministry every hour from points along the route. These reports were graded "A" to "F," according to weather conditions. Though "F" weather was considered impossible for flying purposes, pilots on several occasions undertook urgent journeys in these conditions and successfully accomplished their missions. It was found that twenty-five per cent. of winter days and ten per cent. of summer days were too bad to risk carrying passengers, though mails were carried on many of these days.

From January 10th to July 25th a total of 3,350 hours' flying was carried out and 1,382 passengers were taken. In addition 710 bags of mails were carried to and from Paris. Only one serious accident occurred, when pilot and passenger were lost in the Channel. The length of route was 245 miles, and the record time was created by a Martinsyde machine, which covered the distance in only seventy-five minutes. The average time of the Martinsyde machines was one hundred and thirty minutes and of the Handley-Pages one hundred and ninety-five minutes.

Among the people who made frequent journeys were Mr. Bonar Law and his secretary, Mr. Hughes, the Australian Premier, Lord Birkenhead, Lord Milner, Mr. Winston Churchill, Mr. J.H. Thomas, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, General Seely and General Sykes. All machines used have been fitted with wireless telephones, which in the Handley-Page type have a range of about ninety miles.

SELF-ACCUSED "ANARCHIST."

The self-confessed Anarchist, who told a sensational story at Bow Street a week ago of masquerading in an officer's uniform by order of a secret society in order to spread anarchy among the troops, apparently did so solely to divert attention from his criminal record.

When the "Anarchist," Thomas John Webb, was again brought up, Inspector Alfred Collins. C. I. D., stated that after serving three years in a reformatory he was sentenced to three years' penal servitude for warehouse breaking and subsequently to several terms of imprisonment for other offences at Durham, Darlington, and elsewhere. He was released in 1916 to join the Army, and had been three times dealt with as an absentee. He had shown himself to be an inveterate liar.

Sentence of six months' imprisonment with hard labour was passed.

GERMAN HIGH COMMISSIONER.

It is announced from Paris that Herr Starck has been appointed to act as German High Commissioner for the Rhine regions occupied by the Allies and that he will shortly establish his headquarters at Coblenz.

FELIXSTOWE FURY.

FATALITY AT OUTSET OF RECORD TRIP.

The large Porte flying boat known as the Felixstowe Fury met with a serious accident at Felixstowe yesterday at the outset of a test flight on the eve of setting out for a voyage to the Cape. The machine crashed when taking off. It was just skimming the water, when, for some unexplained reason the flat portion of the hull hit a wave with such force that the hull was splintered and the whole boat wrecked.

Lieutenant S.E.S. MacLeod, the wireless officer, who was strapped into his seat, could not get clear of the wreckage and was drowned. The total crew aboard numbered seven, some of whom were injured. The wreckage was subsequently towed into the harbour, but it is not yet known whether the boat is damaged beyond repair. The flight to the Cape was to have begun to-morrow, the first stage of the journey being to Plymouth. According to the schedule the route was to have been along the coasts of France, Spain and Portugal to Gibraltar, thence by way of Sardinia and Malta to Egypt, up the Nile to the Lakes, eventually striking the East African coast near Beira and following the coast round to the Cape.

The following official statement was issued by the Air Ministry:

"The Felixstowe Fury, the largest flying boat, proceeding from Felixstowe to Plymouth, this morning crashed on getting off in Felixstowe harbour owing to the hull being broken. The wireless officer, Lieutenant MacLeod, fell to the bottom and was drowned. The rest of the crew escaped with slight bruises. The machine is being salved but it is feared it is beyond repair."

The officers and men saved were Colonel P.F.M. Fellowes, in command, Major E.R. Moon and Captain L.C. Scott (pilots), Lieut. J.F. Armitt and Chief mechanics Coburn and Locker.

INFATUATED WOMAN.

FINED FOR ASSOCIATING WITH GERMAN.

A woman named Moulder, aged 40, and stated to be the daughter of clergyman residing at Dunstable, was charged at Sharnbrook (Bedfordshire) under D.O.R.A. with offences prejudicial to discipline at a place of detention of prisoners of war.

Defendant, who is a member of the Women's Land Army, pleaded guilty.

According to the police, she went to the prisoners' camp to see a German named Groger, with whom she had become acquainted while working on a farm near Dunstable. When the man was removed to the camp at Kimbarton, prisoner spent her Sundays trying to see him. After an unsuccessful attempt on Sunday last, she was found by the military asleep in a farm in the early hours of Monday morning.

Her solicitor pleaded that she had been sufficiently punished by the five days spent in custody, and said that though the Bench might feel she was old enough to know better, the sexes could not be controlled.

Defendant had not given the German money or security nor attempted to help him to escape.

The Chairman said it was a serious offence, much mischief having been caused by such conduct. She would be fined £5, but this leniency was only allowed on her giving an undertaking not to repeat the offence.

FALSE PRICES AND FALSE ETHICS.

At Croydon police court on Monday Benjamin Sinfield was sentenced to six months and Lionel Skelton to twelve months hard labour for making bets with bookmakers after the results were known. It is alleged that prisoners induced girl telegraph clerks to alter the times of telegrams, the girls in return receiving chocolates and gloves as presents. Skelton, who is a deserter from the Army, said he had lately been living on his wits and as bookmakers had been robbing him in the past through false prices they were profiteers. He therefore regarded them as legitimate victims.

EX-W.A.A.C. MURDERED.

A tragedy of which jealousy appears to be the motive occurred at Blyth on Monday. A young woman named Rebecca Quinn, 25, formerly a member of Q.M.A.A.C. was proceeding across the field to her home when she was met by Ernest Scott, a sea-going fireman. After walking a little way, Scott is alleged to have put his arm round the girl's neck, drawing a razor across the throat and inflicting a deep gash which proved fatal almost immediately. Scott has been arrested. He and the girl formerly kept company, but at the instance of the girl the engagement was broken off some time ago.

THE HIDDEN HAND IN SPAIN.

An employé of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Madrid has been arrested for being in possession of copies of diplomatic telegrams. According to the Madrid paper El Sol, for three years past documents have been finding their way to the German Embassy. Spanish official circles pretend to attach no importance to the affair, but those papers who have supported the cause of the Allies throughout the war are not disposed to let the matter rest.

FACING FACTS.

The news of Haeckel's death reminds one that the world has its riddle and that it is still far from solution.

The turmoil and fever of war, indeed, have made the problems of mankind more intricate and perplexing. Who can look at the countries of the Allied powers, victorious though they be, and yet fail to see unsatisfied yearnings, distraught nerves, tumultuous passions? The quick passage from war to peace has left peoples with little opportunity for the quiet reflection and careful inquiry that are so necessary for the moulding of worthy, national policy.

We are naturally most interested in our own country. Its days are troubled, its travails manifold. Each of its many classes seems to be following its own inclination and ideal with little regard for the harmony of the national weal that must be above every class.

But the troubles and the travails will pass. We are not pessimists, for the spirit and traditions of England are too great to perish ingloriously on the morrow of her triumph. Courage and patience and sacrifice have ennobled the long centuries of our story of government and freedom—a story that is ever new and inspiring. The gifts of wide liberty and settled rule are too precious to be lightly cast aside.

How are we as a nation to overcome the difficulties of our pilgrimage to peace and prosperity? That there are obstacles in our path is plain to all who have the interests of their country at heart. We print to-day an interesting and opportune letter from a correspondent who says much that is wise on our perplexing times.

Like many another man he is baffled by "the world of chaos" that seems to have ousted "the new England fit for heroes to live in." We are certain that he writes the views of many soldiers; and we are glad that he has written, for half the battle is won when a man faces it with understanding of its seriousness and courage in its outcome.

His remedy is an old one, but it is often neglected by timid leaders. In a sentence it is: "Tell the truth, tell it in a plain, sincere way, and England will pull through." He is somewhat sore on some of the lecturers who from time to time instruct us, for their themes are often far apart from practical life and their methods are often too academic. He would have men chosen from his own class who in straight, manly fashion would tell a simple story of England's perils and England's salvation.

The loyalty, fair mindedness, and resolution of our correspondent are to be praised. They see what one expects from a man who has served his King and country, and they give good hope of a better time for England when her sons return to her troubled shores.

What we want is the Truth — the truth about England, about her allies, about her foes. Truth is the best propagandum, and it should be simple, practical and fearless. The soldier is perplexed with anything that is indirect and inspired by ulterior motives — good though these may be. He neither wants ugly things glossed over nor does he desire things "vamped up" by opportunists, be they ever so learned and subtle. And this we are sure the authorities recognise.

Bolshevism and the unworthy kinds of Sovietism will perish when we have the fair vision of an England that takes new pride in its constitutional rule, its love of liberty and its redeeming idealism.

A PANEFUL STORY.

Percy was rather proud of it at the time. Really, after this repeated bombing of women and children, it was impossible to tolerate the enemy in our midst any longer.

Accordingly, when some kindred spirits who, like himself, had avoided the recruiting office simply because they hadn't realized the intensity of their own feelings, invited, him to co-operate in a concerted attack on the German shopkeepers in the East End of London, Percy was on it like a Rhine soldier on a cigarette parade. The casualties suffered by the enemy on all (shop) fronts on that occasion were considerable.

Percy's objective was the hairdressing establishment of Maxim Schmidt. The first intimation that Schmidt received of the failure of the local early closing order, so far as his shop was concerned, on that particular early closing day, was conveyed through the medium of the half-brick with which Percy shattered his window. Quickly transferring from the Artillery to the Infantry, Percy entered the shop, which he took by assault.

When, finally, he departed, all that remained in evidence of Schmidt's trade were bits of broken mirrors, tubes of tooth-paste resembling squirts after strenuous duty at a fair, and the remains of a tariff of charges floating on a stream of Tatcho, Harlene and brilliantine.

The magistrate, with whom Percy had an interview on the following morning, suggested that tais form of home service was a waste of good material, and Percy's view being the same as that of the magistrate, he accepted that functionary's advice, joined up, and in due course, went overseas.

His adventures, up to the date of the armistice, were, in no vital respect, different from those of thousands of others, whose feelings of relief when fighting ceased, Percy shared to the full. For a month or so, he was too elated at having come through without injury, to worry about the future.

But as the work of demobilization proceeded and left Percy untouched, he began to get restless. True, he had no job to return to, his pre-war occupations being mainly of a nature to familiarize him with the less romantic aspect of the police courts.

Nevertheless, he grumbled, and when, in due course, he was "Selected for Retention" (a piece of bad luck which had often happened to him in civil life, and for rather longer periods) he was in no amiable mood.

Nor did the information, given to him by his O.C. one morning shortly after his arrival in Cologne, that he was distinctly eligible for hair-cut and that he had better shorten his locks before the next parade, tend to lighten his spirits.

Entering the first friseur's he saw, he explained his errand to the proprietor who, a little to his surprise, responded in excellent English. The man appeared to be inclined to chat, and ere long, Percy found himself telling the German his tale of demobilization deferred.

"Yes," he explained, "if I'd joined a few weeks earlier I'd have been home, now. The 1916 men 'ull be goin' soon, but I didn't come up till 1917, worse luck."

"How was that?" enquired the Jerry, blandly, "I thought all you young chaps had to join in 1916."

"I wanted to, but me employer wouldn't let me—said I was indispensable," lied Percy.

"Wasn't by chance a glazier, was he?" queried the Jerry.

"A glazier — — —?" began Percy. Then, looking up suddenly at his questioner, and scrutinizing his features more closely than he had done so far, he realized, with a start the meaning behind the query addressed to him. The Jerry — the recognition now being mutual—continued:

"Yes, it 'ud been better for both of us if you'd joined up earlier, eh?"

Percy said nothing, but, with a sigh for the days when half-bricks were a power in the land, he paid Schmidt (which, in the circumstances, was very forgiving of him) and departed, sorrowing.

WHAT TO SEE IN RHINELAND.

(IV). EUSKIRCHEN.

Amongst the places worth visiting throughout the Occupied Territories, some having greater claims to attention than others, the town of Euskirchen should be included, though it falls far short of any claim to being a "beauty spot."

The town, lying as it does in a shallow saucer, commands no very extensive views such as are to be gained from the surrounding higher rim.

The artistic element is not provided here, as in some of the towns and villages, in regard to architecture. The best and most artistic modern building in the town is undoubtedly the Herz Jesu Kirche, standing at the lower end of Colnerstrasse. Nearly all other buildings, in the artistic sense, are ordinary, almost common-place, and hardly worth visiting on this account.

At the same time, there are quite ancient specimens dotted here and there, whose black-and-white timbers and quaintly shaped gables and roofs strike delightful contrasts, considerably enriching their modern, sombre neighbours.

The most interesting feature of Euskirchen, and really so little known, is the old wall, with the ruins of four watch towers, dating back to about 1303, the remains of the one-time tiny town defences. Even to the uninitiated in the mysteries of German architecture, it can be seen that the town is divided by this wall into two totally different parts—within, the old: without, the more modern town.

It is curious to note, in passing, that direction and period of growth have run on strange lines. Growing westward, toward Frauenberg, it has suddenly stopped, to throw out arms toward the east and south.

Making a starting point by the Herz Jesu Kirche, standing just without the original defences of the "Am Bollwerk," we can trace the course of the old wall. A little way behind the church, at the end of the Kessenichertorwall, we come across a ruined round tower, with portions of the wall on opposite sides.

It will be noticed here how little change has taken place in the houses underlying the wall itself. This feature, as in our own mediaeval towns boasting such a protection, is very noticeable practically throughout the complete circle.

Here is a cottage—hardly large enough to swing the proverbial cat—of most eccentric dimensions.

The photographer desirous of contrasts has from the highest point of the Kirchwall all his heart can desire. A tiny specimen of black-and-white work, standing alone, contrasts splendidly with the quite modern building opposite, and the tall spire of St. Martin's Kirche, with the second tower, in ruins, forms an admirable background.

Before passing these, we observe in the wall a semi-circular, domed niche, with holes for look-out purposes, clearly indicating the original intention of the builders.

Similar characteristics, both of wall and immediate buildings, are conspicuous on the other side of the circle, in Roitzheimertorwall, as also in Disternichertorwall and, completing the circle, in Neutorwall.

The historian can revel here in his element, but the artist bemoans the lack of beauty claimed by other places in the Rhineland.

THE DEMOBILIZATION OF THE HORSE.

A horse sale! What visions of amusement, of keen competition, of occasional profit, and the frequent "selling of a pup" does not that phrase bring to the mind of any Britisher who has even a passing interest in horses.

And he who is in search of the first of these emotions will be well repaid should he pay a visit to one of the sales of Army horses and mules now going on at various places within the occupied area. At these sales one recognises the German variety of all our familiar types: the obvious dealer, the dealer who looks as if he might be anything but a dealer, the bargain hunter, the "man in the know" who has come to buy one particular animal, and the seedy-looking individual who suddenly astonishes everyone by paying the highest price of the day. They are all there. Even the auctioneer seems to be the same raucous-voiced person, with his hat pushed to the back of his head, and his rather dilapidated rain coat buttoned tightly across his throat.

But one looks in vain for the dress of the type. The cord breeches, tight shiny gaiters, and gaily-coloured waistcoats that lend a holiday aspect to any English horse fair or sale are conspicuous by their absence. "Jerry" attires himself to buy horses as if he were going to church. A dark suit, the inevitable soft felt hat, and possibly an overcoat also of sombre colour appears to be the dress a la mode of the German horse buyer.

He is very much in earnest about the whole matter. These sales cannot be described as gay affairs in the least. But contrary to English custom, the dealers all work together until it comes to the actual bidding. One of their number stands at the gate of the ring and examines the animals before they come in.

Then he indulges in a sort of "tic-tac" to his confrères at the other side of the ring. He invariably carries an umbrella, one wave of which appears to mean "fair," two waves, "good," and three, "no use at all," and the buyers act on his signals without question every time.

Not the least interested or interesting of the spectators are the drivers who have brought the horses to the sale and who linger to see what price "Tom" or "Kitty" will fetch. And it is obvious in many cases that the final parting, which the horses, too, seem to understand, strikes very forcibly on that underlying strain of sentiment which always finds a place in the nature of "Tommy."

There is just one point which cannot fail to be remarked by the casual observer. Anyone who has ever sold a horse knows the value of having a man in the ring who is a bidder but not a buyer. Were this system adopted here, there is not the slightest doubt that a higher average price would be obtained. Surely it is worth while for the Government to get the highest price possible for what they have to sell.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

"TELL THEM ALL."

Sir,—At the present time "Tommy" is perplexed to the highest degree. How can he be expected to understand this world of chaos when he expected such a glorious "Peace" and read articles about a new England for heroes to live in.

Tell him the truth and he will still have the grit to pull England through the existing perils. The young soldiers who are now the backbone of the Rhine Army and are likely to be the backbone of new England are sick of hearing high faluting lectures, most of which have little bearing on their future lives, and usually the talk is above their heads.

Let men be chosen of their own class to lecture them and give them facts in their own plain, simple and true fashion. Then you will have a reliable class of men who will stick to the Government and fight down the rottenness that is being suckled into our country.

There is a vile class in England to-day bribing and cajoling men into a state of fanatical idiocy, which they blindly follow because it is something to concentrate on.

If only someone would set the seed of Truth and guide our men, they wouldn't listen to such vileness and doctrines such as Soviet rule. Cannot soldiers be employed lecturing and explaining cause and effects of the present undercurrent in England so as to fill our young soldiers' minds with a real solid ambition to make a prosperous England, and they will not have room to listen to "Bolshies." Rather, they will fight them tooth and nail. Our boys don't wish to see our women and children in the midst of bloody revolution.

No! They would serve many more years as soldiers than allow that to pass.

I am a Tommy eagerly awaiting demob to join my wife, but if she is in danger of being in the midst of revolution I am still with my king and country to fight against any madness, such as is prevailing in Russia.

No doubt there are many "Tommies" who can help their mates to understand the true state of "Blighty" and I hope they will do all they can to keep a faithful army to support good rule and order in spite of all undercurrents. A. P.

A WAYFARER'S WAIL.

Sir,—Regarding a "Wayfarer's Wail," I quite agree that many officers are commentably inconsiderate. They are probably so accustomed to, and bored with, their own cars in civil life, that they think the other fellow is walking for pleasure.

Personally I'm in one of the fortunate units, and can only say that appreciating my own good fortune, I never neglect an opportunity of giving a man a lift, particularly if he is an O.R.

WAYFARER II.

ARE GERMANS IMPOLITE?

Sir,— I have been billeted in small villages and also in Cologne and Solingen and have had several opportunities of studying the manners both of the upper and of the lower class German.

In a few cases I admit I have heard the interrogatory "bitte?" when a remark wasn't understood, but in most cases a grunt has taken the place of the interrogation.

I have noticed especially in Solingen a tremendous amount of hat raising and bowing and scraping, but, taking a dispassionate point of view, a lot of this seems showy and quite unnecessary.

I was more than pleased when at Ohligs station the other day, to notice the splendid manner in which the "Jocks" on duty there allow the women to pass through the gates first. G. Y. F.

PRONUNCIATION AGAIN.

Sir,—Somebody ventured to give a hint on German pronunciation a few days ago in your "Echoes." He said that the word "Frau" should be pronounced in the same way as the English word "bow," but would everybody know that the verb "to bow" was meant, and not the noun spelt the same way?

Perhaps "cow" would be a better word — except for those who pronounce the name of this animal "coo!" J.E.C.

THE TOTALISATOR.

Sir,—Up to now I have refrained from entering into the discussion as to the merits and the demerits of the totalisator. The lordly "Toto" deigns to inform us that the so-called dead set against the totalisator is due to mere prejudice and that unfavourable criticism is a sign of ignorance.

He may possess a monopoly of the intelligence in this area; judging from his letter, however, he certainly does not seem to be blessed with a wide experience. What the Tommy really objects to is that the price given by the totalisator is not a fair one, and that the commission deducted is too large.

Might I point out as the form of certain horses is now exposed, the odds on favourites will shrink still further. Finally I am open to bet him 1,000 marks and will submit papers before any independent person that the prices paid by the bookmakers operating at the late meetings are much larger than the totalisator prices.

If he accepts, and I win the 1,000 marks, I propose that it shall form the nucleus of a fund for the relief of the bookmakers who got so hardly hit at the last meeting but took it in the British way — smilingly. BUTCHER FRANK.

INTERESTING BOOKS.

Sir,—It would be useful to obtain from some of your readers the titles of what they consider the most interesting dozen novels they have read. I do not necessarily mean classics, as much as the type of book which is likely to appeal most to the individuals who go to make up the Army of the Rhine.

Here is my own selection:—Dickens' "The Tale of Two Cities," "Oliver Twist," and "David Copperfield," Hall Caine's "Christian," and "Manxman," Stevenson's "Treasure Island," Mrs. Craik's "John Halifax, Gentleman," Baroness Orczy's "Scarlet Pimpernel," W. J. Locke's "Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," Conan Doyle's "Micah Clarke," Rider Haggard's "King Solomon's Mines," and Thomas Hardy's "Woodlanders." R.S.A.

TIMING SPRINTS.

Question Of Adopting 1-10th sec. As Standard.

WILL THE A.A.A. MOVE?

Much is being written and no doubt quite a deal said about the subject of timing sprint races. The long-standing principle of returning in fifths of seconds is rightfully considered out of date. A fifth of a second at the end of a race may easily mean 2½ yards to a strong finisher. In any case, it represents over two yards, and two yards to a sprinter means a tremendous lot. There is a disposition to adopt a 1-10th—approximately equivalent to one yard—standard for all short distances. It is merely a disposition, as nothing definite has been done. The A.A.A. takes a deal of moving.

There are chronographs which register to a tenth part of a second, and there are others, notably the "dog-watch," that returns the somewhat uneven period of a sixteenth part of a second. Both are good, (writes "The Starter" in the "Sunday Express,") yet I prefer the 1-10th watch, and I am not doing so for the sake of expressing a preference. I have two better time-recorders of my own—one returning to 100th parts and the other to 50th parts of the second. For a general standard, however, commend me to the 1-10th part of a second return, and may it soon become a custom.

KEEN "MULEMANSHIP."

9th Cheshires Gymkhana at Bornheim.

A Regimental Gymkhana was held at Bornheim by the 9th Batt. Cheshire Regt. on Wednesday.

The sport was very good, the racing being keen and the horsemanship good, whilst a large slice of humour was blended with these.

The entries for all events were numerous, the falls were many, but the accidents were nil.

Everybody seemed anxious to try their skill and luck, from Drummers to Field Officers, and most events had at least a score of competitors to face the starter.

Clowns and female impersonators lent a humorous element to the gathering.

The results were as follows:—

Officers' mule race. (Bare Back without whips or Spurs.):—1, Lt. J. C. Siddons, M.C., D.C.M., M.M.; 2, Capt. and Adjt. J. Blower; 3, 2/Lt. H. Perrigo; 4, Lt. F. J. Facer.

V.C. race-transport.:—1, Pte. Daniels; 2, Pte. Pte. Ware; 3, Pte. Clarke.

Wrestling on mules. (Officers):—Adjutants team. Capt. and Adjt. J. Blower; Lt. F. J. Facer; Lt. H. Perrigo; Lt. Hickey; Lt. A. C. Clough, 2/Lt. Collingwood.

Mule scurry, Other Ranks (Bareback):—1, Pte. Jordan; 2, Cpl. Darby; 3, Pte. Bardsley; 4, Pte. Crook.

N.C.O.'s V.C. race:—1, Cpl. Massey, (transport); 2, C.Q.M.S. Gravenor, D Coy.; 3, C.Q.M.S. Pullin, A Coy.

Wrestling on mules. (transport):—Winning team: Ptes. Ware; Pugh; Daniels; Burchett; Pritchard; Trinder.

Inter-Company wrestling:—A Coy. Lt. J. C. Siddons, M.C., D.C.M.; 2/Lt. H. Perrigo, C.Q.M.S. Pullin; Cpl. Darby; Ptes. Tansley and Wilson.

Mule scurry, transport (Bareback):—1, Pte Daniels; 2, Pte. Roberts; 3, Pte. Pugh; 4, Pte. Trinder.

Bending race. (transport):—1, Pte. Rattigan; 2, Pte. Thompson; 3, Pte. Ware; 4, Pte. Wynne.

Officers' scurry on charges. (4 furlongs):—1, Capt. and Adjt. J. Blower, (Jim); 2, Capt. C. Smith, M.C., (Molly); 3, 2/Lt. J. C. Siddons, M.C., D.C.M., M.M. (Kitty).

HAZLET CUP.

Keen Contest at 185 Siege Battery R.G.A. Sports.

The sports of 185 Siege Battery were held on Thursday at Flamersheim in fine weather, by kind permission of Major C. O. Hazlet, D.S.O.

Lieut.-Col. W. Arthy kindly consented to present the prizes and was enthusiastically cheered after carrying out his task.

Major C. O. Hazlet, D.S.O. gave a silver cup to the winner of the most points secured during the afternoon which was keenly contested for. The winner of the cup was Gnr. Gosling Gnr. Wilkes being second one point behind.

During the afternoon the band of the Leicesters (by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Dumbell, D.S.O.), rendered a programme of music.

EVENTS AND WINNERS.

The results were as follows:—

100 yds.:—1, Gnr. McGill; 2, Gnr. Bird.

220 yds.:—1, Gnr. Gosling; 2, Gnr. McGill; 3, Gnr. Bird.

440 yds:—1, Gnr. Gosling; 2, Gnr. McGill; 3, Gnr. Bird.

880 yds:—1, Gnr. Gosling; 2, Gnr. Bird; 3, Gnr. Andrews.

1 mile:—1, Gnr. Wilkes; 2, Gnr. Winters; 3, Cpl. Lee.

Tug-of-War (Sections):—1, Left Section.

High jump:—1, Gnr. McGill, 4 ft. 9 ins.; 2, Cpl. McCuckin, 4ft. 7½ ins.

Sack race:—1, Gnr. Salmon; 2, Gnr. Wilkes.

Boot race:—1, Gnr. Wilkes; 2, Gnr. Bird; 3, Sig. Winters.

Throwing the cricket ball:—1, Gnr. Green; 2, Gnr. Bird; 3, Cpl. McGuckin.

Band race:—1, Bandsman Tilley; 2, Bandsman Walker; 3, Bandsman King.

Officer's race:—1, Lieut. Lill; 2, Lieut. Blyton; 3, Capt. Richards.

Three-legged race:—1, Gnr. Wilkes and Bird; 2, Cpl. Ridgewell and Gnr. Sloan; 3, Sig. Critchelow and Gnr. Bowden.

Lieut.-Col. F. G. West, D.S.O, Commanding the Brigade, thanked Miss Ada Moore for her kindness in coming down and giving them such a pleasant entertainment. Sgt. Barker, A/74 was the accompanist.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Wednesday, August 13, 1919.

Surface wind light mainly between North and West. Mist in the early morning. Fine and very warm in the day with improving visibility.

BOB-TAILED BAYS.

Gunners Preparing for forthcoming Allies Horse Show.

INTERESTING EVENTS.

"E" Battery of the R.H.A, intends to uphold their reputation for having some of the finest horses in the Army of the Rhine and has great hopes of pulling off some of the prizes in the Allied Armies Horse Show which takes place on August 18, for which they are entering three six-horse teams and one four-horse team.

There is much rivalry between the men of the various sub-sections in the Battery, each trying to outdo the other in having the best show. All are confident, however, that the team of bob-tailed bays they have entered will carry off an award.

Two of the teams gained honours at the Cavalry Division Horse Show: a team of long-tailed dark bays gaining a first and a team of blacks a second against the rest of the Horse Artillery on the Rhine.

Some "Old Contemptibles."

Great hopes are entertained also of the small arms cart four-horse team which was placed third in the last horse show against the whole of the country. They were unfortunate, however, one of the wheelers following home at the last moment when it was impossible to replace it.

Many of the horses in these teams are "Old Contemptibles" and first saw France in that fatal month in 1914.

It is interesting to note that in the review which will take place in Cologne at about the same time there will be on parade a 13 pounder gun from which was fired the first shot in the war by the British Army on August 22nd, 1914.

MUD BATHS.

Amusing Events in Aquatic Sports at Wahn.

The 51st Battalion Royal Sussex Regt. held their aquatic sports at a pond east of Wahn barracks on Saturday. The weather conditions were ideal and the surroundings pleasant. Unfortunately the heat, which made immersion in the water so pleasant and desirable, had also made the pond shallow. However, things went with a swing from the start. The opening item was a plate finding competition. The first was quickly found and the second shortly after, but by this time the water resembled the mud of Flanders and it was found impossible to recover the third without the aid of an entrenching tool. It was finally abandoned to its fate. Events followed in quick succession, including the fifty yards, head ball race and the cigarette race, both of which supplied considerable amusement to the spectators. The pillow fight, the final event, proceeded quite merrily up to a point, when the combined efforts of a well matched and heavier pair proved too much for the pole, which snapped, dropping them both into the water, much to the delight of the onlookers.

EVENTS AND WINNERS.

The following were the results:—

Plate finding competition:—1, Pte. Willings, W Coy.; 2, Pte. Gorman, X Coy.

Cigarette race:—1, Cpl. Katterns, X Coy.; 2, Pte. Gorman, X Coy.; 3, Pte. Bicker, Y Coy.

50 yards breast stroke:—1, Pte. Grimsey, Y Coy.; 2, L/Cpl. Wilkes, X Coy.; 3, L/Cpl. Goffe, W Coy.

50 yards back stroke:—1, Pte. Grimsey, Y Coy.; 2, L/Cpl. Hubert, X Coy.; 3, Pte. German, X Coy.

Pillow fight:—1, Pte. Myers, Z Coy; 2, Pte. Ginger, Z Coy.; 3, Pte. Tyson, W Coy.

100 yards any stroke:—1, Pte. Bradley, Y Coy.; 2, Pte. Solan, H.Q. Coy.; 3, L/Cpl. Hubert, X Coy.

50 yards head ball race:—1, Cpl. Katterns, X Coy.; 2, Cpl. McCowan, Y Coy.; 3, L/Cpl. Missen, X Coy.

Under water competition:—1, Pte. Simpson, W Coy.; 2, Pte. Myers, Z Coy.; 3, Pte. Lane, Z Coy.

Company Results.

Y Coy., 11 points; X Coy, 9 points; W Coy., 5 points; Z Coy, 3 points; H.Q. Coy., 2 points.

2nd Light Brigade Cricket Cup.

At Ohligs on Friday, the 12th (S) Bn. Royal Irish Rifles played the 6th London Regiment, the following being the result:—

12th (S) Bn. Royal Irish Rifles 57; 6th London Regiment 52.

At Haan on Saturday the following match was played:—

12th (s) Bn. R.I.R. 81; 2nd Light Bde. H.Q. 77.

DICK MOSS KNOCKED OUT.

The scheduled 20-rounds contest between Joe Conn, of Stepney and Dick Moss, of Leeds, at the Blackfriars Ring on Monday afternoon finished very abruptly.

All through the first round the Londoner had his opponent at his mercy. Once he was floored, and after Moss had gone to the ground on three occasions during the second round, he was finally counted out.

ENGLISH RACING.

Fairy Thorn Wins Two Races In One Day.

NOTTINGHAM AND FOLKESTONE.

Monday is usually an off day in the racing world, but this week two meetings were held on that day, namely at Nottingham and Folkestone. At the former Dodo, the favourite, won the Colwick Selling Plate from a good field, and Fairy Thorn won two races within an hour. At Folkestone Red Flyer won again for Mr. Edge, the well-known sporting journalist, Speck being up, and not Donoghue, his usual jockey:

The following were the results at Nottingham:—

Colwick Park Plate:—1, Dodo (5—2); 2, Sportiboy (100—7); 3, Sudden Fancy (8—1).

Clifton Plate:—1, Ocydrome (5—2); 2, Trezideila (6—1); 3, Harry Crag (10—1).

Nottinghamshire Breeders Stakes:—1, Wimasu (6—5 on); 2, Floreal (5—2); 3, Marie Therese (100—6).

Nottinghamshire Handicap:—1, Fairy Thorn (10—1); 2, Helix (2—1); 3, Hanway (5—1).

Bentinck Plate:—1, Potentilla (6—5 on); 2, Sunny Rhyme (7—2); 3, Noisette (10—1).

Elvaston Castle Plate:—1, Fairy Thorn (5—2 on); Shogunate (6—1); 3, Lucky (6—1).

Folkestone Results.

Harbour Plate:—1, Red Flyer (6—4); 2, Marievale (6—4); 3, Rivenball (7—2).

Dover T.Y.O. Plate:—1, Marron, walk over.

Hythe Juvenile Plate:—1, Sorrel (4—1); 2, Peterborough (6—1); 3, Twickenham (2—1).

Kent Handicap:—1, Conf ssor (2—1); Watergruel (4—1); 3, Rockdew (7—1).

Romney Handicap:—1, Orsan (13—8); 2, Carice (5—1); 3, Newlay (7—2).

Apprentices Plate:—1, Greek Star (6—4 on); 2, Duncan (5—1); 3, Athdara (3—1).

The names of the winners will be published in "The Cologne Post."

TEST MATCH STANDARD.

Yorkshire Versus Surrey At The Oval.

A BATTLE OF WITS.

After an absence of five years Yorkshire visited the Oval on Monday—the opening day of their match with Surrey. Against resourceful bowling and irreproachable fielding Surrey had to fight and fight hard for runs. It was a veritable battle of wits. D. J. Knight contributed 114 in faultless style, sending the ball invariably within a yard or two of the area selected for it.

Like the earlier Surrey batsmen, Yorkshire's opening pair found the bowling opposed to them far from easy to score off. But they progressed to 81 before a wicket fell, and Holmes and Denton carried on in the same steady fashion, making runs at the average rate of one per minute.

OFFICERS AT TENNIS.

Finals in the Xth Corps Heavy Artillery Tournament.

The finals of this tennis tournament were played on the Kurpark, Godesberg, on Sunday, when in the singles competition, Major Johnston, 90th Brigade, R.G.A. opposed Lieut. Savel, 129th Heavy Battery, R.G.A.

This proved a very exciting and even match and lasted an hour and a half. Major Johnston won after having to play the third and deciding game, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4. In the doubles, Major Henderson and Lieut. Savel, 129 H.B., played Major Johnston and Lieut. Le Brun 90 Bde. R.G.A.

This was also a very even contest. Each game was fought to a close finish although only two sets had to be played for the decision, Major Johnston and Lieut. Le Brun winning 6—3 and 7—5.

CALCUTTA SWEEPSTAKE.

The Royal Calcutta Turf Club have organized a sweepstake on the St. Leger. A certain number of tickets have reached England, and on Monday as much as £5 was paid for a single ticket on the Stock Exchange. The average price obtained was about 30s.

32nd Army Brigade R.G.A. Sports.

An impromptu sports meeting was held by the 32nd Army Brigade, R.G.A. on the sports field of 481 Siege Battery, on Sunday. In spite of the unavoidably short notice, the meeting was a great success, undoubtedly due to the efforts of the clerk of the course (B.S.M. Russell, 481 Siege Battery) and his assistants. 481 Siege Battery carried off most of the prizes, and Gunner Burrows of that unit again distinguished himself in many events and won the championship prize.

Cricket Friendlies.

"D" Bty., 74th Bde. R.F.A. (93) beat 145 Siege Bty., R.G.A. (81) at Weiden on Saturday. For the winners, Gnr. Davis (30) and Lieut. Deighton (6 for 19) did good work; Gnr. Middlemist scored 16 for the Gambardiers.

Light Division Signal Coy (134) v 52nd Rifle Brigade. Played at Hilden on Sunday. The outstanding feature of the game was the Signal's last wicket stand, when Sergt. Merriman and Spr. Schofield put on 59 runs. For the Rifle Bde., Lieut. Gooch made 28 runs and took 5 wickets for 17 runs. For Signals, Sig. Bradley took 5 wickets for 30 runs.

"SKILL-AT-ALL-SPORTS."

Fight Commenced For 1st Western Division Cup.

TUG-OF-WAR AND BASKET BALL.

If battles are won on the playing fields the Bornheim Sports Grounds must rank as a great battlefield, for practically every day since British troops first occupied this area, these grounds have been the cock-pit for various sporting events. But never in all its history has it presented such a scene as it did on Monday when, by kind permission of Major-General Sir E. P. Strickland, V.C., K.C.B., C.M.G., the fight for the Divisional "Skill-at-all-Sports" Cup, open to the 1st Western Division, commenced. Tug-of-War and Basket-Ball were the only events contested.

Each Infantry Brigade was represented by its best allround sporting battalion, i.e. the battalion which had amassed the most number of points in the Brigade Sports. The representatives were:—

1st Western Infantry Bde., 1/4 Cheshires;
2nd Western Infantry Bde., 53rd Welsh;
3rd Western Infantry Bde., 53rd South Wales Borderers;

The 104th Bde. R.F.A. represented the Divisional Artillery.

Tug-of-War.

Each unit was represented by two teams, a "light" and a "heavy," Bde.-Major G. M. H. Wright, D.S.O., M.C., officiated as judge.

Though each pull was vigorously contested, the teams of the R.F.A., and the 1st Infantry Bde. experienced practically no difficulty in working through to the final. The R.F.A. team, splendidly coached by Major Bushel, put up a particularly brilliant show in the preliminary pulls, both teams pulling their opponents over the mark in a remarkably short time. Though they did not dispose of their opponents as quickly as the R.F.A. team, the 1st Bde. were equally as sure.

The second pulls of the "lights" and "heavies" proved victorious for the R.F.A. teams who thus come out top of the list. The points gained were:—Divisional Artillery 28; 1st Western Infantry Bde. 24; Divisional Headquarters 20; 2nd Western Infantry Bde. 16; 3rd Western Infantry Bde. 12.

On being congratulated on the success achieved by his teams, Major Bushel stated that they had never yet been defeated, but they never had had to fight so hard for victory as they had done on this occasion. He heartily congratulated R.S.M. Martin, the coach and trainer of the 1st Infantry Bde. team, on having brought them to such a pitch of excellence.

Basket Ball.

The 1st Western Infantry Bde. (represented by the 1/4 Cheshires) were by far the superior team, and what is more, were in excellent form, the playing of the Sergt. Aubrey, Sergt. Brookes, and Pte. Waters being particularly brilliant. An exciting game resulted—1st Western Infantry Bde. 8 points; 2nd Western Infantry Bde. nil. The results for the whole of the basket ball competition stand as follows:—1st Western Infantry Bde. 8 points; Divisional Artillery 6 points; 2nd Western Infantry Bde. 5 points.

A Cup is to be given to the unit amassing the most points in Tug-of-War, Basket-Ball, Aquatic Sports, and Boxing.

MEREDITH'S LATEST.

In a thirty miles time trial on the Bath-road, held by the West London Cycling Association, Leon Meredith covered the distance in 1 hour 16 mins. 56 secs., which is stated to be a world's record. The result of the handicap in which Meredith achieved this feat was as follows:—

	Gross time. h. m. s.	Start. m. s	Net time. h. m. s.
1. J. Paine	1 23 48 1-5	7 30	1 16 18 1-5

BIG GOLF TOURNEY.

The draw for the open amateur golf tournament at St. Andrews, for which ninety players have entered, has brought together several well-known men.

The leading partnerships on the first day are:—Walter Blackwell (Royal and Ancient) and H. Tuillie (Walton Heath); J. C. Jessop (Montrose), runner-up in the recent Scottish championship, and R. S. Rodger (Alexandria); D. H. Kyle (St. Andrew's University), Scottish champion, and J. Machie (Higland Light Infantry).

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

"Y. M." Events.

All tastes are being adequately catered for at the Central Y.M.C.A., Cologne, this week. To-night in the Loreley Hall, Prof. W. Macdougal, F.R.S., D. Sc., will lecture at 7 p.m. on "The Effects of War on the Race," while at the same time in the great hall "The Braganzas" will submit an attractive variety programme. To-morrow, at 8 p.m. Miss Muriel Smith, M. A. will discuss Literature, while on Friday the Rev. Basil Bourchier M. A., will lecture at 7 p.m. on "The New World," and the cinema and orchestra will be the attraction in the great hall. Diversions, conducted by Miss Churchill and a Lena Ashwell concert party are announced for 7 p.m. on Saturday, and on Sunday afternoon there will be a discussion conducted by Dr. Francis and the Rev. A. D. Mackenzie entitled "Things that matter most." On the same day at 6.30 p.m. there will be sacred songs followed by united Divine Service.

Whist Drive.

The last whist drive in connection with the 16 Battalion, The Welsh Regt., took place in the Recreation Room, Sechtem, on Thursday evening, and although quite a success, was not so well attended as the previous ones. A couple of hours quiet play resulted in L/Cpl. Hinton winning 1st prize, Ptes Jackson, Flitcroft, and Masters being winners of the three following prizes. R.S.M. Probert and C.S.M. Phillips acted very capably as M.C.'s.

"The Title" At Solingen.

In the spacious Kaiser Saal, Solingen, and before a crowded and enthusiastic audience, the Rhine Army Dramatic Company played last night "The Title" by Arnold Bennett. Each character was splendidly acted, but chief honours went to Miss Inez Bensusan and Lieut. Hope in their parts of Mrs. and Mr. Culvert. The short but clever study of "SamsonStraight", as impersonated by Capt. G. Blight, was greatly appreciated. A charming basket of flowers was handed to Miss Bensusan.

The Victory March.

The Victory March films exhibited at the British Empire Leave Club are excellent. I went to the first performance on Monday and was much impressed. But there is one point I must comment upon: why didn't the orchestra play stirring patriotic music instead of those dreamy, lackadaisical airs? The music was the only incongruous item in the performance.

The Pedlars.

The Pedlars haven't come to stay, but, for this week at any rate, they have firmly established themselves at the Palace Theatre. Now in telling you "The Pedlars" are "some" show, I'm not giving any fresh information. They are a really fine party; and for those who haven't previously seen their performance I would strongly advise a visit to the Herzog Strasse Theatre. It would be futile to describe in detail the variety turns comprised in the first part of the programme: each artiste has his own especial forte and there is not a dull moment. There are but few parties that can boast so great a variety of talent: the comedians, poles asunder in their style, are all very funny; the "girls" have each their distinct mannerisms, and the vocalists and pianist are excellent.

Poisoned Milk.

I don't think I've ever seen Fred Weedon — or should I say the redoubtable Erb — in such fine form as he was last night. He was in his element as Thomas, the delinquent manservant, in "Poisoned Milk," a farcical sketch in one act. Playing up to the clever acting of Frank Hartley and "Dolly," the master and mistress of the house, he kept the audience in a constant roar. His humour was sometimes broad, sometimes subtle, so subtle that — but you must see the show to understand. There were moments when not a word was spoken, yet the house screamed with laughter. Really, it was one of the best sketches I've seen for a long time.

The Starlights.

By the way, "The Starlights," by permission of the G.O.C., Light Division, commenced their tour of the Rhine Army at Horrem last night with conspicuous success. The troupe have made an excellent name for themselves, most of the artistes being professionals. The following artistes will take part in the tour:—Lieut. C. Piper—Piper the Priceless; W. P. Wentley—Scotch Character Comedian; T. Lord—Trick Violinist (more bows than one); F. Leggett—Female Impersonator; A. Humphreys—Soubrette; D. Scott—Character Artiste; T. Bowman-Impersonator; T. Cottham—Elite and Versatile Dancer.

JACQUES.

BLACK AND WHITE.

Amusing Feature In 153rd Labour Coy.'s Boxing Competition.

A very enjoyable evening's entertainment was presented before an audience consisting of members of the Staff of the Royal Army Ordnance Corps (Transit Depôt) and the personnel of the 153rd Labour Coy., at the Headquarters of the latter on Saturday. The competitors were very evenly matched in each of the ten contests. Of these, two were of a humorous character, the contestants being blindfold in one, and in the other, having their gloves dipped in liquid mixture, one black and one white. Major Delaney, Army Gymnastic Staff, officiated as referee, and Major Sarson R.A.O.C. presented the prizes. A vote of thanks to these officers was proposed by the Officer Commanding, Capt. D. Andrew.

Acknowledgment of services rendered was also accorded by Lieut. Cottam, the Company Sports Officer, who energetically engineered the competition, to Coy.-Sergt.-Major Uren, M.S.M., and Sergt. Wild, M.M., who acted as judges; to Pte. Wright, the trainer; to Cpl. Blackwell who erected the ring; and to the seconds, Cpl. Smith and Pte. Fuller.

Replying, Major Delaney expressed his pleasure in having witnessed his first Labour Coy., competition and warmly complimented both contestants and spectators on the excellent sporting spirit shown.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Welter Boxing Champions.

Jack Britton, who recently defeated Kid Lewis, in America, has been challenged by Johnny Basham to box for the world's welter-weight championship.

From U.S.A.

We may have an American competitor in next year's Grand National. He is Barklie, by Migraine—Flora Pomona, and was bought by Mr. W. M. Jefford from General James Buchanan.

Signed on.

The Wigan (Northern Union) F.C. have signed on R. W. Bilkey, the New Zealand forward, recently demobilized who has played with all the New Zealand teams in England and in France.

Disposing of Thoroughbreds.

"Country Life" understands that Sir Alec Black, the owner of the disappointing Derby favourite, The Panther, is preparing to dispose of all his thoroughbreds whether at the stud or in training.

Father Thames.

Interesting catches in the form of several flounders have been made in the Thames at Kew. Their presence so high up the river speaks well for the purity of the water in the lower reaches. If the Thames goes on improving, salmon may one day again leap in Teddington Weir Pool.

Lord Rosebery's Yearlings.

Several yearlings, the property of Lord Rosebery, are expected to join Frank Hartigan's stable at Weyhill.

Sporting Guns.

The Birmingham Small Arms Co. is out to capture the world's trade in sporting guns. For the first time in the history of the sporting gun trade in England mass production is to be tried.

For Deauville.

More than sixty polo ponies were shipped to Deauville from Southampton last week in preparation for the big August tournaments which are being revived at the Normandy resort.

Basham's next Match.

A match is in the making between Johnny Basham, welter-weight champion of England, and Francis Charles, of France. In days before the war Charles was a rather useful lightweight, but he has filled into a welter.

Famous Pairs.

Are Holmes and Sutcliffe going to be famous as a first-wicket pair? Some conjunctions are good to look back on. W. G. and E. M. Grace, A. N. Hornby and Barlow, Oscroft and Shrewsbury, I. D. Walker and A. J. Webbe, Abel and Hayward. Hobbs and Rhodes, in Test matches, recur to memory at once.

Amastris and S.P. Offices.

It is said that the victory of Amastris may have an effect on the S.P. offices in London. A 10 to 1 winner takes a lot of paying out.

Winner Bought In.

Polismen, after winning at Lewes last week was bought in for 290 guineas. When Mr. Edge bought him he only cost 170 guineas. Amastris cost 270 guineas to buy in.

Varsity Tennis.

The Clare and Trinity Courts, Cambridge, will be reopened at the beginning of the October term. A match is being arranged some time in October between Cambridge Past and Present and Queen's Club.

An Australian View.

Here is an Australian view of home racing conveniences culled from the "Australasian":—There is no idea in England of catering for the comfort of the racing public as in Australia. While charges are high, conveniences are few."

Closest Finish On Record.

The Astley Stakes enjoys the credit of having supplied the closest finish on record. This occurred 39 years ago, when three horses—Scobell, Wandering Nun, and Mazurka—ran a dead heat, with two others also dead heating only a head away.

Stearine.

Stearine, winner of the French St. Leger, is to be specially prepared for the Grand Prix d'Ostende.

Abe Mitchell.

There is no truth in the statement that Abe Mitchell, of Sonning, who won the recent £500 tournament at St. Andrews, may issue a challenge to play any man for £500 a side.

1st Class Cricket Hat Tricks.

Three hat tricks have so far been recorded this cricket season, in the following order: S. M. Haslip (Middlesex) v. Notts, Horsley (Derbyshire) v. Australian I.F., and Woolley (Kent) v. Surrey.

Parson as "Rear Admiral."

The Croquet Association once refused a reporter information because his newspaper gave wrong initials to a player. The association's hilarity can therefore be imagined when a paper recently referred to a reverend player as a "rear-admiral!"

"Good Goalkeeper Wanted."

If Kent's idea of advertising on the official scorecard for a fast bowler extends to other sports it will be received with mixed feelings by players. Imagine those of a goalkeeper who might have to stand under a crossbar bearing the legend, "Good goalkeeper wanted."

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Wearing of Medal Ribbons.

As the matter of wearing medal ribbons is a very burning matter just now it is interesting to note the manner in which different nationalities wear their decorations. The Frenchman and Belgian of course, wear the medal itself and the German (in uniform) wears the whole two inches drawn round the hem of the tunic beneath the third button hole. The demobilized German is however displaying his ribbon in what appears to be rather a good way. The ribbon is attached to the coat beneath the lapel; folded in two, and the folded part inserted through the button hole, thus exposing to view about one-eighth of on inch of ribbon. Needless to say the Englishman's difficulty in following this plan when in civies is the amount of decorations he often owns, which makes this plan unfeasible, but it seems a great pity that no other method for wearing medal ribbons can be adopted other than coyly concealing them beneath the jacket.

German Rolling Stock.

A noticeable feature of the German railways is the more general use of a larger type of goods waggon than is common in England. On the continent generally the usual capacity of waggons is twenty tons and by their use a great saving of dead weight on a train is effected.

A Midnight Visitor.

The visitations of an alleged "ghost," in the shape of a kilted Highlander, to a place just outside Cologne, have been the subject of a great deal of discussion. Both officers and men positively affirm that they have seen it and a party of German motorists corroborate its presence. Possibly "ghost hunting" will become a popular pastime.

A Big Chance.

An new departure in the way of selling War Savings Certificates has recently been inaugurated at the VI Corps Officers Club. The arrangements are designed with a view to placing facilities at the disposal of any officers in Cologne to buy certificates when visiting the Club and also to enable those who desire to do so to combine an innocent flutter with their investment. Officers can now buy certificates in the Club and if they wish to participate in the draw they can purchase one ticket for each 15|6 Certificate bought, the ticket costing 10 marks. The whole of the expenses of printing etc. are borne by the Club funds so that the full value of the tickets will be available for prizes. In order that the Club will not compete with regimental War Savings Associations it is provided that officers wishing to buy tickets may purchase for each certificate purchased through their association on production of their certificate at the Club. All certificates must be purchased during the month and a drawing will take place at the commencement of the month following. Prizes will be in War Savings Certificates, the first taking 50 per cent., the second 30 per cent., and the third 20 per cent.

Honour for Machine Gunners.

A few days ago, General Giraud, of the French Army expressed his appreciation of the Guard, formed by the 3rd. Battalion Machine Gun Corps, at the General Officer Commanding in Chief's house, and gave £5 to the Sergeant in charge to be distributed amongst the personnel of the Guard. It is not the first time that this guard has come in for the appreciation of high officials.

The Cigarette Lure.

An officer was about to enter the Army College in Hansa Ring the other afternoon, when he casually threw away a respectable portion of a cigarette he was smoking at the time. It happened that the cigarette fell just in front of two mechanics who were drawing a small, delicate-looking internal combustion engine on a hand cart. Both men at once made a dive for the gasper with the result that the intricate piece of mechanism came crashing down on to the roadway — presumably also wishing to compete for the prize. Judging from the altercation that ensued between the two mechanics after they had examined and replaced the engine, they must have found the salvaging of that cigarette rather a costly undertaking. What a heavily troubled conscience that officer must have!

Glow-Worm Dials.

A great number of men on active service have found the luminous watch a boon. At certain times and in queer places it was not always expedient to strike a match to see how the time was going; and it was in such circumstances that the watch with the "glow-worm" dial was so greatly appreciated. But when travelling in a German train recently, about midday, and passing through a fairly long, absolutely dark tunnel, strange to say, it was truly necessary to have a light on the subject to see the time. The luminous face of the watch was not visible at all. To those in the know, no doubt this phenomenon is comparatively simple; on the other hand to the uninitiated it is certainly perplexing. Many possessors of the luminous type of time-keepers have perhaps not noticed this strange behaviour of the eyes, or the peculiarity of the substance responsible for the phosphorescent effect. Which is it?

A Regimental Auction.

The other evening the P.R.I. disposed of the 1/6th Battalion Welsh Regiment poultry farm. The fowls were sold in pairs by auction, 2/Lt. Topliss being the auctioneer. Owing to the slow bidding, the auctioneer offered to put in a G. S. wagon or an army mule to encourage would-be buyers, but someone thoughtfully remarked that a G. S. wagon could not be eaten and no one wanted to eat an army mule. After that the bidding brightened and the fowls were disposed of very quickly. But, whisper it, the C.S.M. who got two pairs for 60 marks was "quids in" with the Signals Officer who had a pair of cockerels for 140 marks. Everyone hopes he will have his money's worth.

Hardly the Same Thing.

The O.C.Coy. was saying a few earnest words to his men on a soldier's deportment with civilians, and after a lengthy address concluded his remarks by saying: "And if any of you is in a restaurant and a drunken civilian attempts to commence an argument, a good soldier should always drink up his beer and go out. "Now, Pte. Slithers" he said, pointing an accusing finger at a man whose thoughts were apparently absent without leave, "What would you do if a drunken civilian accosted you in a restaurant?" Pte. Slithers woke up with a start and delivered his ultimatum with unctious joy: "Drink his beer and 'hop it' Sir."

Chivalrous Courage.

Recently a child fell into the Rhine at Bonn and sank in a whirlpool. Chief Motor Mechanic G. M. Jenkinson, serving with the Rhine Patrol Flotilla, dived repeatedly into the river regardless of his personal safety and nearly lost his life in endeavouring to rescue the child. For his courageous act, the Commander-in-Chief has expressed his high appreciation.

Not For a "Cinderella."

It has been said that since the war began, the feet of English women have grown larger because of the greater amount of exercise they have had in war duties, but even so, it is doubtful if there could be found one British Diana qualified by the size of her pedal extremities to don the pair of hunting boots advertised in yesterday's "Cologne Post." These were stated to be "thirty nines."

Lesser Echoes.

This week there is a good supply of wines, except sherry and vermouth, mineral waters, lime juice, cider, dried fruits, tinned fish, soap, chocolats, matches, milk and sauce at the canteen, but few cigarettes, and little tobacco or metal polish.

* * *

A very long list of passes in the Rhine Army Examinations has just been published. It contains three hundred names.

* * *

Another fine total for War Savings Certificates is that of the 18th K.R.R., which for the week ending August 2nd subscribed exactly 20,863 marks, of which B Coy furnished 7,800. This, remarks one of the battalion, is in spite of the great number of cameras being bought.

* * *

Now that white flour is available the Rhineland bakers are producing large quantities of gingerbread and dough-nuts. The latter are prime favourites with Tommy.

* * *

The 2/4 Queens' War Savings record last week has been beaten by the 23rd Middlesex, who between August 4th and 10th subscribed as much as 24,780 marks. Splendid work!

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: Spr. G. W. Ellam, Railway Survey Section, A.P.O. S. 120, Rhine Army; Pte. G. R. Hogan H. Q. Coy. (Drums) 53rd R.W.R. Rhine Army; Sgt. G. McWillie 3rd Coy. 4th Seaforths, Rhine Army.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Indignant.—American actors have gone on strike.

No Graves Dug. — Grave diggers are on strike at Glasnevin.

Useful Discovery. — In Denmark linen is being made from the fibre of nettles.

Must be Patient. — At least 100,000 people are awaiting steamship passages from England.

Rusty Relics. — The thousands of captured cannon have become an eyesore in Paris and are being steadily removed.

The Strike Craze. — Schoolboys at Braintree, Essex, have been on strike for a weeks' extra holiday instead of the two days they were granted.

Amazing Total. — The United States possesses 17,000 cinemas, and between nine and ten million people visit them daily.

Everyone Pulling. — Labour is so scarce in the Dorset flaxfields that every possible individual is being pressed into the service for flax "pulling."

Old Paper — New Head. — London's oldest evening paper, the "Globe" is to come under the direction of Mr. Robert Donald late Editor of the "Daily Chronicle."

Trocadero Tragedy. — While conducting the orchestra at the Trocadero restaurant London M. Louis Delvenne, the famous Belgian violinist dropped down dead.

Stopping Harvest. — Labourers in Herts are demanding 75s for a week of sixty hours. While they strike the harvest is imperilled.

Ptomaine Poisoning. — During a performance at the London Palladium five persons were seized with such violent illness that they had to be sent to hospital in an ambulance.

For nursing. — Six pages of a supplement to the "London Gazette" contain awards by the King, of the Royal Red Cross to ladies in recognition of nursing services.

Rags and Bones.—A remarkable number of demobilized men appear to be drifting into the rag-and-bone trade. Possibly this is a result of the great attention paid to salvage work during the war.

A Little Mixed.—"Boys," said the Sunday school teacher," can any of you tell me about Good Friday?" "Yes'm, I can," replied an urchin at the foot of the class. "He was the bloke what did the housework for Robinson Crusoe."

Service Caps. — The re-introduction of the stiff Service dress cap is held over until the report of the Dress and Uniform Committee has been made. The large stock of soft caps will be used up before any change is made.

Active Old Stagers. — The other day a crop of two acres of grass was led and stacked in one day by two men of the village of Leconfield, whose united ages amounted to 161 years, one being 84 and the other 77 years of age.

Pro-German Myth.—In order to dispel the idea that his Royal grandmother and predecessor was pro-German and anti-French, King George has allowed Professor Rait the run of the Queen's unpublished letters and diaries, and to publish extracts in the "Quarterly Review."

More Babies.—The birth rate in Great Britain is gradually increasing.

Unsettled.—Industrial trouble on a large scale has arisen in Japan.

In Malmedy.—Belgian troops have taken occupation of Malmedy.

A new Train.—A direct express train is to be run from Bucharest to Warsaw.

A Record.—Three natives of Leamington Spa won the V.C. during the war.

Beatty's Honours.—Earl Beatty has agreed to accept the freedom of Kirkcaldy.

Commerce By Air.—A regular airship service between Berlin and Friedrichshafen is to be established.

Henderson for U.S.A.—Mr. Arthur Henderson is to visit America on a lecturing tour.

On to Moscow.—A message from Riga says that Denikin has ordered a march on Moscow.

An Air Record.—A French aviator attained a record height of five miles with a passenger.

The hottest day.—A temperature of 115 degrees was registered in London on Saturday.

Quick Work.—A theatre to hold twelve hundred people was erected in four days at Southend.

Hungry Hungary.—Mr. Hoover, Director General of Relief in Europe, has gone to investigate the situation in Hungary.

Fatal Food Riot.—At Chemnitz, sixty people were killed and over a hundred wounded in food riots.

Cheap Apples.—English apples have been sold at Covent Garden at fourpence a pound.

State Electricity.—The German National Assembly is considering the transfer of all electric power stations to the State.

On Tour.—Poincaré and Clemenceau are still travelling through the liberated provinces of France.

Deserters.—There are believed to be seven thousand German soldiers in Holland who deserted during the war.

A Long Walk.—A postman who has retired at Guildford is said to have walked 165,000 miles while on duty.

No Tickets Required.—Under the new system of rationing, food tickets will not be required in restaurants.

Free Beer.—A brewer's dray was wrecked in a collision at Sheffield and a wild scramble took place for the beer which flowed from the burst barrels.

An Ex-King's Fortune.—The ex-King of Saxony is accused of trying to evade new taxes by sending his fortune to Sweden.

Farmers' Protest.—A representative meeting of farmers at Nottingham entered a strong protest against the sale of farms over the heads of tenants.

HALF-CASTE TRIAL.

Callous Admissions To Bogus Death Certificates And Unmarked Graves.

LENIN SEES DANGER AHEAD.

THE KUT NIGGER.

ADMISSIONS AND DENIALS AT COURT MARTIAL.

The Court-martial on William Fratel, the Eurasian N.C.O. belonging to the Indian Medical Department, was resumed yesterday at the Middlesex Guildhall, when the cross-examination of accused was continued by Captain Eastwood.

Accused admitted that over 200 British soldiers had died at Bagstche and that it was not until two years after the men had died that he made the death certificates out and sent them to England. Bogus numbers were shown on the certificates to satisfy the authorities and the relatives.

Fratel also admitted that the numbers he attached to the graves were also bogus. He could not identify the graves if he were taken to the spot. He visited the dead-house every day as it was his duty to see the bodies buried. On one occasion he had to get a Greek orderly thrashed for not burying the corpses. All the bodies were laid out on the floor as well as space would admit. The fact that there were no burial services could not be helped by him. He gave orders to the orderlies to wash the patients and if they did not do so he reported the matter to the sister who then said it could not be done.

Replying to further questions accused admitted the insanitary conditions. He had complained about many of the arrangements to Dr. Comus and the sister but they did nothing to improve the conditions. He also pointed out that certain patients ought to have milk but Dr. Comus replied "How is it the Turks get on without this food and the British cannot?"

Accused said he suggested writing to the American Consul for milk but the sister would not do so.

Captain Eastwood:— And did you, Fratel?

"I couldn't write to the Consul."

"Then you consider you did all that was possible, Fratel?"

"I do."

Accused was then examined as regards the men named Penny, Wiseman, Phillips, Dye, Nichol and Oldfield. He said he did not remember those patients being brought to him but emphatically denied, so far as he knew, that they had to wait outside the hospital for hours. He explained the fact that fewer Indians died than British by reason of their being more used to the climate. He could not suggest why the witnesses had come forward and told tales about him except that he was their mouthpiece. They probably thought he could do wonders for them and he did not consider that he had neglected them under the circumstances.

George Morgan Gatherall, formerly of the 7/14th London Regiment, said that he met Fratel at Gallibeg in March, 1918, and found him considerate and kind. He always did his best for the men.

Major Edward Stainer Caine, R.A.M.C., said he was at Batsche from October, 1916, to July, 1917. Dr. Comus, who was in charge of the hospital, was disgusting in his manner to the patients and generally brutal. During the time he knew him he found Fratel to be a distinctly loyal man and a gentleman.

Captain Martin, of the Indian Medical Service, who was at Batsche at the same time as Major Caine, said he always thought Fratel performed his duties quite conscientiously. He had never heard him either saying or doing anything disloyal.

The hearing was adjourned.

POLISH PINCERS.

VAIN BOLSHEVIST RESISTANCE.

The War Office announces that for the past fortnight the Poles have been advancing steadily towards Minsk in spite of strong Bolshevist resistance. The latter delivered heavy counter attacks with the object of checking or breaking the claws of the pincers closing in on them, but their counter-offensive on both flanks having proved a costly failure, the Bolshevists evacuated the city, which was entered by the Poles on Friday. The Polish offensive to the North of the Pinsk marsh belt is likewise proceeding favourably.

By the Bolshevist retirement from Minsk and the Polish advance along the Luninetz-Mozye railway a large pocket of Bolshevists was left in a district fifty miles wide in the Mir-Koidan area.

Polish efforts are apparently now being directed to the pinching out of this pocket by sustained blows from the South.

Mr. Lloyd George had an audience of the King at Buckingham Palace yesterday, when his Majesty invested him with the insignia of the Order of Merit.

LENIN QUITTING.

TAKES WARNING FROM FATE OF BELA KUN.

Lenin has issued a proclamation rebuking the workmen who are continuously demanding higher wages, but who do not want to work. A message via Helsingfors states that Lenin seems to have become more moderate and has ordered Krasin to prepare an understanding with the Mensheviks. Strikes are raging everywhere and the intervention of the Government, who ordered the execution of one hundred and fifty leaders, has caused the strikes to spread still further. The peasants obstinately refuse to hand over their grain to the towns and this has placed the Government in great difficulties. The general opinion in Russia is that Bolshevism is played out. It is rumoured that Lenin intends to retire, recent events in Hungary having made a great impression on him.

It is reported from Petrograd that Valsatis, the former Commander-in-Chief of the Bolshevists, and his Chief of Staff have been arrested on the charge of organizing a counter revolution.

PROFITEERING.

COMMONS PASS THE NEW BILL.

After a lengthy debate, the second reading of the Bill to check profiteering was carried in the House of Commons by a majority of 243, only eight members voting against it.

Sir Auckland Geddes in moving the second reading, said that profiteering was dangerous economically, because it unduly attracted imports and adversely affected exports and because socially it created dangerous unrest. He denied that the Bill was "panic legislation," insisting that it was a definite scheme which had been carefully considered for many weeks. Having examined alternative suggestions, the method suggested was the only really practicable plan of operation. He relied for the success of the Bill on the common sense of the community.

The main criticism against the Bill was its inadequacy in that it would hit small traders and leave big men untouched. This was Mr. Clynes' chief point. Late in the discussion Mr. J. H. Thomas said that the Labour Party supported the Bill but would move amendments in committee in order to extend its scope.

Sir Robert Horne, replying to the debate, said it was plain the Bill was not a complete or perfect one, but it dealt at once with an admitted evil. The select Committee, which still remained in existence, could later on devise measures for more completely effecting the object in view.

SINN FEINERS.

SECRET MEETING "SPOTTED" BY AEROPLANE.

Despite a Government proclamation forbidding such meetings, Sinn Feiners tried to hold a mass meeting on Sunday near Armagh. Observation showed that no leaders had turned up and an aeroplane which reconnoitred the country side reported that a meeting was being held several miles away from the usual place. Police and troops were hurried to the spot where the crowd soon showed great hostility, attempts being made to cut the tyres of the army motors. A general fight ensued, the troops fixing bayonets and charging the crowd. In the face of the rifles and bayonets the crowd soon dispersed.

GERMANS DRAINING BRITAIN

Large areas of land in various parts of the country, both arable and pasture, have been greatly improved during the past two years by drainage work carried out by German prisoners. In some instances streams that have been so choked with weeds as to be almost lost, have been cleared and recovered. Many even of our larger rivers fail to serve the purpose of effective arterial drains for agricultural land because of their obstructed state, and land that should be productive becomes in consequence greatly impoverished and rank with weeds.

What has been done by the German prisoners is only a beginning. As this labour is now diminishing, and will shortly be lost altogether, it is very necessary to get the new Drainage Board thoroughly organized, so that they may deal efficiently with all the main rivers which need to be kept clear and unobstructed.

The Labour Centres situated in the Irish, Scottish and Aldershot Commands are to be disbanded.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

COLOGNE POST UP.

On and after Tuesday 19th the price of the Cologne Post will be 25 pfennigs instead of 20 pfennigs, as hitherto.

Despite this increase the price will be less than one penny. On the whole the new price will be welcomed by our subscribers, owing to the greater convenience of the 25 Pfg. note.

We are reluctantly forced to make this alteration in consequence of the continual increase in the cost of labour and paper. For so long as twenty pfennigs was within measurable distance of the actual cost we were content, but German Trade-Unions are not unlike their prototypes in other countries in their resemblance to the horse leech. We could reveal some illuminating facts concerning the coy of, "More, more!" However, suffice it to say that the steady increase in the cost of material and labour leaves us no option; so please remember that on and after Tuesday next, your

will cost you
25 PFENNIGS.

Those Units which deal direct with the Managing Editor will be charged at the rate of 20 pfennigs per copy. Their regimental funds will thus benefit to the extent of 5 pfennigs per copy. The system of "no returns" will be adhered to.

HUMAN BRAINS.

MURDERER'S EXTRAORDINARY DELUSION.

Motives of an astonishing nature are alleged in a murder case now before the District Court of Nagasaki, Japan. A miner, who is said to have believed that eating the brains of human beings was a certain specific for mental disorders he was suffering from, is charged with murder and attempted murder.

Hori Tokuichi, the man in question, had previously been sentenced in Korea to penal servitude for murder, and on being discharged went to the Matsushima collieries in Japan, where he was soon noted for his eccentricities.

In October last he attempted to kill a small dog in order to eat its brains, but the animal escaped. It was while enraged at his failure that he saw a girl telephone operator, aged nineteen, walking near by on a hillside.

It is stated that he killed her by striking her on the head with a rock, but that after going home and returning with a kitchen knife to carve her head, his nerve failed, and after cutting a piece of flesh from the body he buried it.

When the body of the girl was discovered later, Hori is said to have decided to commit suicide, but as he was married, decided to give his death the appearance of an accident in order that his family might obtain a grant of certain expenses.

Selecting a spot in the mine shaft where the roof was weakest, he planned to knock away the supports. A woman worker met with in the shaft came in the way, however. She was attacked, but, feigning death, she escaped and reported the assault. Hori was then arrested.

SKELETON MYSTERY.

STARTLING POLICE STATEMENT.

The discharge of Maggie White, who has been accused in connection with the mystery surrounding the death and concealment of her step-sister Connie Grant, was the feature of yesterday's proceedings at Willesden Police Court. The two remaining prisoners, William Grant and Alice White, were charged with manslaughter.

Dr. English, police surgeon, gave evidence detailing his examination of the remains. The small bones of the hand and foot were missing, he said, and therefore the bones found must have been buried as bones and not as a body, because the ligaments were missing.

A further remand was ordered.

MORE RAIDS ON CONSPIRATORS.

Surprise raids carried out by the police during the past 24 hours have swept up a harvest of Bolshevist literature which was about to be circulated in England and Scotland with a view to the setting up of a Soviet Government. The extremists aimed at the establishment of a Republic at Glasgow as well as London, and pamphlets disclose the fact that the sedition mongers hoped for a general strike, which would have been made the means of setting up a Bolshevist regime. Nottingham and Bradford appear to be the two principal centres of organising activity.

Besides many leaflets already in print the police secured typewritten drafts of others. Some of these were seized in an upper room in Featherstone-buildings, Holborn, where an entrance was forced late on Tuesday night. The man previously arrested has now been released.

Strikes have again broken out among the Alexandria dockers. The Cairo trams have ceased running, and the light and water services are threatened.

AIR MINISTRY.

DEFENDS ITSELF AGAINST CHARGES.

General Seely, Under-Secretary of State to the Air Ministry, replied in the House of Commons on Tuesday to the charges of extravagance brought against the Air Service.

The Under-Secretary declared that the Royal Air Force had saved millions of money and thousands of lives.

Mr. Clyde, the Lord Advocate, explained that he had declined to take criminal proceedings with regard to a sum of £286 in connection with the Renfrew Aerodrome. His reason was, that after 18 months' inquiry, he had no evidence that justified hope of a successful prosecution.

Mr. Clyde said he had advised civil proceedings last March, and these were about to be taken.

Some Figures.

As to the charge of general extravagance levelled against the Air Ministry, when he introduced the Estimates of £66,000,000 General Seely stated that a great proportion of that sum was for finishing up war contracts.

At the time of the armistice they had more than 250,000 men, and arrangements had been made to produce 50,000 aeroplanes a year, and they could not wash out the whole of that gigantic expenditure in a moment.

At the date of the armistice they had 30,000 officers: to-day they had demobilized 20,000. Of other ranks, including cadets, there were 264,000 at the armistice, and they had demobilized 203,000.

Of aerodromes and landing grounds they had 386, and they had given up 210.

The Ministry staff in all departments numbered at that time 806, and that number was reduced to 402.

Hired premises and hotels at the time of the armistice numbered 2,143, and 1,927 had been given up and 37 more were in process of being given up.

THRILLING RESCUE.

SOLDIER'S HEROISM AT A FIRE.

Exciting fire scenes and a thrilling rescue from a seven-storey building were witnessed at Cardiff. The outbreak occurred at the Royal Hotel, St. Mary-street. Large crowds soon assembled, and the excitement was intense when a young woman at the window of the linen room at the top of the building was seen appealing for help. The fire escape was found to be too short, and firemen were promptly dispatched for another.

In the meantime the young woman was sitting dangerously astride the balustrade, screaming piteously for help. It seemed as though she was about to throw herself to the ground.

Just then a man was seen climbing up the rain-pipes from a room a couple of storeys below. The smoke was particulary dense and flames were issuing from the room in which the girl had been seen.

Climbing along the narrow copingstones the man, a discharged soldier named Walter Cleall, reached the young woman, partly carried and dragged her along the parapet and through a window below. His hands were cut and burned, and he collapsed immediately afterwards and was conveyed to hospital. An American sailor named Hill gallantly helped in saving the girl. It was a most thrilling rescue, and the crowd cheered enthusiastically. The upper portion of the hotel was completely destroyed.

PRIME MINISTER'S HONOURS.

Delayed by reason of Mr. Lloyd George's pre-occupation with affairs of the Peace Conference, what is known as the Prime Minister's List of Honours connected with the King's Birthday was issued on Tuesday night. It contains forty-three names. An Earldom is conferred on Viscount Iveagh. Sir Edward Russell and Col. Hall Walker are made Barons. Amongst the new Baronets is Mr. Joynson Hicks. The new knights number twenty-three.

DESTROYER IN COLLISION.

The British destroyer Westminster, which arrived at Copenhagen on Monday from the Baltic, collided whilst entering the roads with three Danish sailing vessels, all of which were damaged.

LONDON'S NEW BUSES.

A new and more comfortable motorbus was introduced on the London streets yesterday. It holds forty-six passengers against the old type's thirty-four and instead of straps for standing passengers there are four brass rods from floor to ceiling.

FALLING INTO LINE.

The twenty-four hour clock system as used on the Continent has now been adopted by the South Eastern and Chatham and London Brighton and South Coast Railways for their Continental time-table.

In reply to question, Captain Guest said orders had already been issued, and would be in general operation in a few days for a considerable reduction in the number of motor cars used by the military in the United Kingdom, the effect being the withdrawal of over 500 cars.

DRASTIC CHANGES.

WINDING UP OUR WAR AFFAIRS.

Important announcements marked the course of the debate on the military situation in the Commons last night. Mr. Churchill said: We have arranged with France that by October 31st our Army on the Rhine may be reduced to a strong Brigade (four or five thousand men) and our Air Force to a single squadron.

More than 400,000 German and Turkish prisoners are still on our hands, requiring more than 100,000 British soldiers to look after and feed them. Permission to repatriate the Turkish prisoners has now been granted by the Supreme War Council, but authority to begin with the repatriation of the German prisoners is still withheld.

We have more than 100,000 men in Mesopotamia, of whom 30,000 are British. Owing to Kurdish and Arab risings every attempt to reduce this force is met by warnings and protests from the responsible officers on the spot. In Egypt and Palestine there are 90,000 men.

We have 60,000 men in Ireland, double the force that was there before the war. The Irish Executive offer the strongest opposition to any reduction of that force; and in such a matter the War Office must be the servant and not the master of the policy of the State.

We have also on our hands the Army in India, and also the battalions and batteries which are just going out to relieve the Army in India.

We have to keep 100,000 in France and Flanders on salvage work.

These commitments, among others, Mr. Churchill contended, showed that expenditure had not yet returned within the controlling domain of policy, but was still governed by brute facts and by the course of events proceeding in many parts of the world, as part of the aftermath of the Great War. "However angry people may become," said he, "the fact remains that our war affairs have got to be wound up."

SIGNS OF SANITY.

NO "DIRECT ACTION" STRIKE.

There will be no "direct action" strike in England.

The extremists have been beaten by events. Yorkshire miners and London policemen have each afforded the acid test; they have made the experiment, they have challenged the Government—and failed.

The experience of these two classes of workers has not been lost upon Mr. Robert Smillie and Mr. Williams. This was evident from the proceedings at the meeting of the Triple Alliance Tuesday.

The delegates, who met at Unity House, were faced with the fact that the transport workers, who form a most important third of the organisation, had decided not to issue the ballot papers on the question of direct action.

Then there were the railway workers. It is true that the Executive of the N.U.R. has the power to call its members out on strike without a ballot, but the Executive is divided, and scores of branches are hostile. If action of this kind was to be taken, with all its illimitable possibilities, surely the proper course was to allow the rank and file, upon whom the brunt of the fighting would fall, to have their say in the matter. And this view prevailed.

Two-thirds, then of the Triple Alliance was known to be more or less hostile.

So the affair was decently buried under a decision to remit the whole question to the Trade Union Congress at Glasgow next month, where a suitable epitaph will no doubt be found for it.

THE BAKERS BACK.

Following the resolution passed by the operative bakers on Sunday, there has been a general return to work. The men have practically all returned to work in London, and in all parts of the country they are going back on the old terms. The only terms upon which the men can be accepted back into their employment are:

1. That the men accept arbitration on hours and wages.

2. That they return to work on the old conditions of hours and wages, including night work.

3. That the re-engagement of men on strike must be settled with the individual employers.

4. That when the men have returned to work there shall be a meeting of representatives of employers and employed, to consider what improvements can be effected in the conditions of night work.

HIS LIFE FOR HIS WIFE'S.

At Sedbury, near Chepstow, Lieutenant Jack Dawson, Commandant at the Prisoners of War Camp, was at a picnic with his family near the Severn when his wife went bathing. The lady got into difficulties, whereupon Lieutenant Dawson, still wearing all his clothes and heavy Army boots, ran in to her assistance and brought her safely ashore, but he himself slipped in the mud and was carried away. The son made a gallant attempt at rescue, but by the time Lieutenant Dawson was brought ashore he was too far gone for artifical respiration. Lieutenant Dawson was 45 years of age.

Strawberries are working overtime and the heat has brought in a second crop.

GRATEFUL U.S.A.

£10,000,000 FOR BRITISH SEAMEN.

A most remarkable evidence of the generous appreciation by American citizens of the sacrifices which Great Britain made in maintaining sea supremacy during the war is to be found, in the organization known as "America's Tribute to British Merchant Seamen."

The project is to raise £10,000,000, solely among Americans, for the benefit of the 30,000 men of the British Mercantile Marine who suffered disablement in braving the dangers of submarine warfare.

The movement started in an informal talk among some of America's great business men, who felt that such a tangible mark of sympathy would do more than anything else to cement the bond of friendship between the two countries. Rear-Admiral Sims, who was chief of the American naval operations here during the war, gave the movement his warmest approval, and the organization has secured Mr. William H. Appleton to act as chairman.

Mr. Appleton conceived the idea that the whole burden should not be upon Americans in America. He has come to England to appeal for £1,000,000 from the Americans domiciled in this country.

He declares that he is not asking for a penny of British money. This is America's tribute to the valour and endurance of British seamanship, which stood between the Allies and disaster.

Lord Beresford, Sir Edward Nicholl, and Mr. J. Havelock Wilson [illegible] are co-operating with [illegible] this side of the Atlantic.

THESE ARE THE MEN.

The price paid by the Merchant Service during the war is shown by a special "Victory" report which appears in the Guild Gazette, the journal of the Imperial Merchant Service Guild.

The Merchant Service, a purely peaceful occupation, has given of its best; 14,661 gallant souls have laid down their lives in the cause of freedom and of right. The war honours won by the profession are as follows: Victoria Cross—6; Distinguished Service Order—80; Order of the British Empire—87; Distinguished Service Cross—410; Bars to Distinguished Service Cross—18; French awards—38; Mentioned in Dispatches—353; Commended for Services—270; Other honours—257; Total—1,519

THE LAST OF LINCOLN.

Tribitch Lincoln, who has completed his term of imprisonment in this country, has at length been deported. About a month ago he was taken to Harwich for deportation, but owing to the political situation to Austria he was recalled until the situation had improved.

The real name of this man is Ignatius Timotheus Tribitsch. He is a Hungarian by birth, and, according to his own story, was at one time an Anglican Minister at Montreal, and subsequently a curate in England. He became naturalised in England in 1909, and at the General Election of January, 1910, he stood as Liberal candidate for Darlington, and was elected. He admitted acting as a spy for Germany. In 1915 charges of forgery were brought against Lincoln, who was then in America, and after much legal argument he was extradited. In July, 1916, he was tried at the Old Bailey, and sentenced to three years penal servitude. In December, 1918, the Home Secretary cancelled his naturalisation and ordered his deportation.

STATE AS RAG-MERCHANT.

The Ministry of Munitions is shortly taking over a rag factory at Dewsbury which deals with £50,000 worth of cotton and woollen rags a week. To this factory will be sent cast-off Army clothing which is beyond repair.

Already the Government has opened an "old clothes" shop in Westminster, where they make a speciality of squeezing the last bit of value out of Tommy's cast-off clothing.

Second-hand dealers are ready purchasers of all clothing which is still wearable or capable of repair.

GRANTS FOR TRAINING.

During the week ending Aug. 8 the Grants Committee of the Ministry of Labour sanctioned the giving of 253 grants under the Government schemes for training ex-Service men of higher education for civil careers. The total number of grants sanctioned up to date is 2,778; of these 1,221 are for officers and 1,557 for other ranks.

DUMP EXPLODES AT POEL.

At Poel on Tuesday a big dump of German ammunition exploded, the fire brigade working continuously throughout the day to extinguish the fire which was caused thereby.

Eleven completely carbonised corpses were discovered and at least six more are known to be in the ruins.

British soldiers did splendid rescue work.

A big explosion occurred this morning at Kiel while the ammunition in the State shipyard there was being moved. Four persons were killed and a large number injured.

The last of the army of Air Ministry officials and clerks who have been in occupation of the Hotel Cecil for many months departed yesterday.

A CIVIC CONSCIENCE.

What is a Civic Conscience? It is the ability to take an active and intelligent interest in the affairs of one's country. The fact remains, however unpleasant it may be, that large numbers of people are apathetic and indifferent to great and vital happenings within our own land. If some are not quite indifferent they often fail to appreciate them at their true value.

We need to develop in all men and women a realization that the concerns of the nation are their concerns; that what injures some, injures all, that it is our duty to interest ourselves in everything which in any way affects the welfare of our fellow country-men We have no right to be indifferent toward some of the great movements which sway the nation's life. We may ignore them. But, if a social evil exists in our land we, by our apathy of thought and conduct, are in a measure responsible. Neutrality of mind can never release a man from his moral responsibilities.

But a civic conscience will do more than this. It will enable us to appreciate things at their proper value. We shall see the true from the false, we shall think in terms of national welfare and not of private gain.

We shall realize that to pay an agricultural labourer 12/- a week (as we did before the war), while a comedian on the stage can get a £ 1000 a week is a condition almost ironical in its injustice, that the industrial disputes which threaten to shake our social structure and paralyse our economic future are over something infinitely deeper than mere advances in wages, that the petty controversies of religious organizations do not and cannot affect the great ethical truths of Christianity.

A man will be considered great, not according to his social status, but by his service to the common good.

A civic conscience will tend to the forming of independent judgment. No longer will a man be content to shape his political opinion according to the editorial column of his favourite newspaper. He will think for himself, study things and investigate them, and come to an opinion which is not tainted with journalistic bias or influenced by political sympathies.

Men and women, in their consideration of national problems, will be above dealing in personalities. We shall scorn to traduce and slander a great and honoured name merely to gain some temporary and unworthy advantage. We shall not drag up particular events of the past merely to discredit our opponents in the eyes of the public.

Finally, this active interest will arouse within us a determination to sweep away for ever the evil blots on our national escutcheon. A passion for the happiness and well-being of our fellow brothers and sisters will fire our hearts. No longer shall we be willing to tolerate many of the grave social injustices which to-day are doing so much to mar individual felicity and endanger the common good.

Our moral and material support will ever be on the side of all good causes and noble enterprises. A broader outlook, and a wider sympathy will help us so to live and to work that this generation shall leave behind it a worthy heritage for those yet unborn.

THE DESPATCH RIDER.

In the old piping times of peace and plenty — a phrase that is hardly applicable in these days — one of the chief grievances of the enthusiastic road-man was against the motor cyclist. — the person who seemed to have one object in life, to cover a great distance in a short space of time.

How often has our peace of mind been disturbed when taking a nice "easy," by the rush and noise of the petrol maniac. It begins with a slight purr, he is then at least two miles off. It gradually increases to the sound of a rushing mighty wind, a flash, a cloud of dust and he is gone. We wonder what has happened; was it a phenomenon? No, — just a motor cyclist.

Very often he finds us down narrow country lanes whither we have gone to seek quietude; he dares where his greater brother fears to tread. Not only does he disturb the solitude with his inevitable noise, but he awakes the country-side with ear-splitting blasts on a hooter. Shall we ever escape him?

* * *

Then there came a time when we were called upon to pack away our 'bikes,' likewise the petrol driven contraption. We were called upon to play a sterner game.

Before long our ideas of the motor cyclist underwent a change. We see him in a different picture. He is no longer just a plain "motor cyclist" but has a finer name — a name that conveys something to us all, the "D.R." Admiration is the keynote of our feelings now for the men of this fraternity.

Think for a moment of him in the dark black night, without lights, going over the wicked roads in the battle scarred area. A spare inner tube slung over his shoulders in case of emergency he dashes along absolutely regardless of cost, uncalculating only the dangers.

Often the road he is called upon to traverse is searched by artillery — the enemy knows that it is the only route for the S.D.R. He is still seeking to cover a given distance in as little time as possible — but now on his country's behalf.

What of the tidings he carries? Sometimes messages that have a bearing on an Empire's destiny. Instructions for a task to be accomplished that will cost thousands of lives, a task that will make heroes of some, so that their names will live to immortal fame. Sometimes messages of seemingly trivial consequence that makes one wonder if the S.D.R. has been asked to risk his life thoughtlessly.

The more hazardous work of the Despatch Rider is now over. But he still exists. When we see him dashing about still we speculate as to what news he carries. Has he got Demobilization Instructions? is always our first thought.

When the noise of his Douglas is first heard the occupants of the Signal Office immediately begin to 'sweat.' Curiosity is a fault of the best disciplined signallers.

* * *

The other night about 21.30 hours — the time the orderly room staff endeavour to snatch a few moments to write home — the "chug chug" of the D.R. was heard. He was breathlessly awaited.

After a few moments suspense the envelope was handed in addressed to the C.O. and marked "Confidential."

Excitement ran high. The orderly room Sergeant wondered for a moment if he dare open it, but his conscience pricked him, so he sent it across to the Officers' Mess. The tension for the next few moments was almost unbearable.

After what seemed an age the Adjutant rushed in. "Brigade Major at once," he instructed the signaller on duty. We held our breath, what was coming? "You're through sir" at last. "That the Brigade Major?" . . . "The C.O. is very sorry sir but he can't manage it" . . . "Yes, very sorry" . . . "Good bye."

The Adjutant replaced the receiver, our curiosity was enormous. Then the Orderly Room Sergeant, plucked up courage. "Anything doing sir?" he enquired almost shaking. "Eh, no, the G.O.C. wanted to know if the Colonel could oblige him with a few bottles of —; they've run out in the mess.

We collapsed . . . . hang the D.R.

DANCING AND DANCERS.

A MAN'S VIEW.

The question as to what constitutes a good dancer and what is the fundamental basis of good dancing is one which at the present time is causing considerable discussion, especially among those, who by reason of their lack of experience, are least qualified to raise their voices in the presence of the masters!

To one who studies dancing, studies it with the quiet devotion of a lover of the beautiful, dancing is surely an attempt, successful or otherwise according to the abilities of the performer, to express in motion the spirit of music. The wild turbulent frenzy of the Russian dance, the simple grace of the minuet; each grasps the spirit of a particular class of music.

Before dealing with the merits or otherwise of present day dancing and dancers it is necessary to examine briefly the chief characteristics of modern ball room dancing.

In short they are: firstly, lack of hard and fast rules; secondly, full scope for the development of individuality; and lastly, the possibility of infinite variation at the will of the dancer.

Bearing these in mind and taking into consideration the elementary axioms as to ball room deportment, a good male dancer may be defined as one who, guiding his partner so as to cause no discomfort to others, moves in absolute harmony with the music.

In this definition no mention is made of intricate steps, dips, whirlwind turns, and those features of present day dancing, which in the eyes of the critic wrongfully reflect on the dancing, instead of, as it should be, on the dancer.

The omission is, however, more apparent than real, as it is dealt with in the words as to guiding one's partner; most exact steps do not cause discomfort to others, and although the man who studies dancing naturally acquires a knowledge of most steps, suitable and otherwise for the ball room, he in general employs none but the simplest.

From the man's point, of view a good partner is one who surrenders nerself entirely, and is sensitive to the slightest indication as to her partner's intended movements.

In conclusion let us watch a pair of good dancers in a crowded ball room. Firstly, they must be looked for; for their progress is a quiet and unobtrusive one. Their carriage, while being supple and free from stiffness, is erect and graceful.

The man, while not holding his partner at arm's length is clasping her only sufficiently closely to establish that unity which is necessary if she is, without hesitation, to follow his every movement. Changes in step are executed almost unconsciously and no break in the rhythm of the movement is perceptible.

Lastly, conversation is left mostly for the intervals, as the dancers are far too interested in the dancing itself to indulge in conventional small talk.

THE VILLAGE DOMINIE.

I met him in a little village lying amongst the hills of Rhineland. Of slight build, with hard set face and piercing eyes he arrested my attention. He was standing near the schoolhouse, a low whitewashed building with black timbered cross pieces. I was struck with his pretty garden and still more with the background of fir clad hill and green carpeted dale, through which ran a rippling stream dear to the heart of the trout angler.

He was the monarch of all he surveyed; a little king of the Prussian type, whose sceptre was a rod, which had an awe-inspiring effect on his fifty or more small subjects.

It was the hour of school and the children, with none too cheerful faces, passed into the building followed by their taskmaster. I looked inside, the master relaxing his features in a faint smile of welcome. The room was an example of neatness and the walls were covered with maps and pictures of military subjects.

Here the young and rising generation of this Rhineland village were taught as their fathers before them.

"You English soldiers are good to our children" said the master. "They will never forget you. They sing your songs, play your games, and can do your drills. Would you like to see how they do it?

I replied: "Yes with great pleasure."

"Come forward Max!" said the master addressing a bright faced boy of about ten years of age. The boy obeyed and clicked his heels smartly coming to attention. A toy rifle was produced and he went through the drills bringing off a perfect "slope," "order," "present," at the same time repeating the words of command in English. The rest of the children sat gazing with wide opened mouths, and were greatly excited. This was the kind of lesson they loved.

My mind went back to my old village school in the homeland. There the master, a true patriot, fired our souls with love of country. We too loved to play at "soldiers" and he encouraged it. Many passed from that school to fight the fathers of the children I see gathered here, and some have also passed beyond the sight of men into the great eternity. They played the game well and nobly to the end; their children occupy the old school desks to-day; and are taught by the same master grown old in the service, but still carrying on.

Still one more picture is recalled. It is of a little village school in France now battered to the ground. We were out at rest before the great retreat and I wanted the use of the school on Sundays. One afternoon I called on the master; he too was old and grey; the younger teachers were in the trenches.

It was perhaps the darkest hour of all in the campaign for the Allies, and that afternoon I heard the children sing, as only French children can, the Marseillaise. It was wonderful, thrilling, and the fathers of the children were marching, even to death, singing the same refrain, and playing the game.

Children are very much the same the whole world over, but schoolmasters differ. It gives one food for thought to see the rising generation in Rhineland making friends with our men and imitating their drills and games. To see such a thing was beyond our wildest dreams even a year ago.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

PRIVILEGE BONDS.

Sir,—Every Britisher knows, or should do by this time, that the floating of the Victory Loan did not meet with the phenomenal success that was predicted.

What were the real reasons that helped to bring this sorry state of affairs to pass; chiefly, to my mind, that it did not appeal to the working classes of Great Britain, or to the rank and file of His Majesty's Forces. Now, to raise new money in abundance, these particular classes must be catered for, in a manner that they can fully appreciate and understand.

An important source, from which quite a large sum annually could easily now be obtained is the rank and file of His Majesty's Forces, providing something attractive was placed before them, that they could easily understand and appreciate, so why not let them have an investment entirely on their own.

Might I offer the suggestion that the Government issue to bona-fide members of the forces a series of "Army and Navy Privilege Bonds," carrying a small rate of interest and with the chance for every bondholder to have his Bond drawn and obtain a cash bonus, once, in every six-months.

Any investment, with an element of chance attached, would appeal to their sporting instinct and incidently prove a great success towards assisting money to find its way back to the coppers of the State.

After all, many have given up so much, that they are entitled to some sort of privilege, unobtainable by the outside public. Perhaps, the Chancellor of the Exchequer might, one day, entertain this form of investment, with advantage to all concerned.

SPURIOUS AMBER.

Sir,—For some time past, large quantities of amber — chiefly in the form of necklaces — have been on sale in Cologne, and I should like to warn everyone against spurious amber which is beginning to appear.

The imitations are very good and even flaws are cleverly worked in, but if the following simple test is applied, there is no chance of deception.

Breathe two or three times on the palm of the hand, and then rub the amber briskly. If the hand then smells at all of resin, the article is not genuine, as real amber gives off no smell when this test in applied. To prove that it is real, the shopkeepers will generally rub it and make it pick up small pieces of paper, but this is no proof, as a stick of ebony or a plain glass rod when rubbed with cloth will give the same result.

Further it might be as well to add that the prices now charged in Cologne, taking into consideration the low value of the mark, are as high if not higher than one would have to pay in England for real amber.

VERITAS.

"IS THE GERMAN IMPOLITE?"

Sir,—This question is not an easy one to answer as different lands have different customs.

The other day I happened to be discussing this matter with some German people, and even they were of two minds on the subject.

The English, in their opinion, are much more polite than the Germans in some things, for instance they were quite surprised when they first saw English soldiers giving up the seats in tramcars, etc. to ladies; they were likewise pleasantly surprised when an English soldier held the door open for them to pass out of the Cathedral; the Germans apparently only think of being polite to their friends.

On the other hand we are considered very "cold" and off-handed, especially in our greetings, but to my idea the tremendous flourish with which the German menfolk raise their hats to each other is not only ridiculous, but has something almost servile in it.

"MANNERS MAKETH MAN."

OUR WIVES AND FAMILIES.

Sir,—Like many more I would like to bring my wife out here for a holiday provided the cost would come within my means, and there are plenty of N.C.O.'s and men who will be conjecturing as to the cost.

We know nothing at present except that we may bring them out at our own expense, we don't know even how much we are to be charged for rations.

I am afraid that the usual overland routes would be too expensive for the average Tommy, but there are possibilities of bringing them over by steamer.

There are numerous seaports on the coasts of Scotland and England from where regular steamer services were run to Rotterdam, Antwerp, and other ports on this side.

Once anded there, the rest of the journey I from either of these ports to Cologne or Bonn would be comparatively easy, and would be much cheaper, and save the numerous changes, with the inevitable trouble of looking after luggage.

I have no doubt these steamer routes will be open again, and I quite agree with your correspondent that the Government might arrange with a continental touring agency to help us out. Perhaps ti could also be arranged for separation allowances to be drawn on this side during the visit.

SCOTS VOLUNTEER.

THE ROSE—AND THE THORN.

"Some people grumble that roses have thorns; I am rejoiced that the thorns have roses." — French saying.

The Summer was fragrant beyond belief,
The Sun was the King of the Morn,
When I met a child weeping, who said, in grief
"My Rose, that I plucked, has a Thorn!"

I turned to the Rosebush: the counterpart
Of the little one's flower I chose,
And, holding it to her, said "Look, Sweetheart!
My Thorn has a beautiful Rose!"

As we walk through Life's Garden, by night or day,
And we find what its Wall encloses,
That the Roses have Thorns let us never say, —
But rejoice that the Thorns have Roses.

BOXING AT SOLINGEN.

Competition In The Rhine Army Championships.

ADDRESS BY LT.-COL. BETTS, D.S.O.

Nobody could have been disappointed in the boxing competition held by the 1st Light Brigade at Solingen on Friday night. The contests, which were a further stage in the Rhine Army Championships, provided boxing of a very good order, especially in the lighter weights. There was a large number of spectators and every event was keenly followed. The enthusiasm evinced bespoke a very healthy rivalry between the battalions of the Brigade. Amongst those present were Major-General G. D. Geffreys, C. B., C.M.G., (G.O.C. Light Division), Brig.-General G. V. Hordern, C. B., C.M.G., (commanding 1st Light Brigade) and Major F. W. Parish, D.S.O., M.C., Lieut.-Col. H. A. Vernon- D.S.O., and Lieut.-Col. W. G. Wilton, commanding the 13th Battalion, 18th and 20th Battalions K.R.R.C. respectively.

The Officials.

The officials were.—Referee: Lieut.—Col. J. Betts, D.S.O.; Judges: Capt. M. Brown, M. C. and Capt. G. Hilbert, C.B.E., M. C. (School of P. and R. T., Cologne); Timekeeper: Lieut. A. T. Pethick, M.C., Lieut. H. Pratt; M. O., Capt. C. Chetfield, M. C.; Recording officer: Capt. G. Walsh, M. C.; Officer i/c competitors, Capt. P. A. Chester.

One of the features of the semi finals was the plucky fight put up by Rfn. Gitana, 13th K.R.R.C. against Rfn. Covenry, (18th) in the middles. The latter, who has a terrific punch, won on points. Another good fight was that between Rfn. Doe (13th), Doe winning on points.

Final Bouts.

The finals, which produced very good work throughout, were decided as follows:—

Heavy:—C.S.M, Paddington (18th) beat Rfn. Vinton, 13th K.R.R.C. Referee stopped fight in the first round.

Middle:—Rfn. Covenry (18th) beat Sergt. Collins (20th) on points.

Officers Middle:—Lieut. Considine (18th) beat Lieut. Acarmley, (13th) on points.

Welter:—L/Cpl. Homsworth (13th) beat Rfn. Doke (18th) on points.

Officers welter:—Lieut. Braddock (18th) beat Lieut. Kirkland, (20th); Referee stopped fight in first round.

Light:—Rfn. Gardner (18th) beat Rfn. Bish (13th).

Feather:—Rfn. Frogley (13th) beat L/Cpl. Killagher (20th) on points.

Bantam:—Rfn. Doe (13th) beat Rfn. Pearce (18th), latter giving in first round.

A Sporting Audience.

At the conclusion of the events, Col. Betts said that what impressed him more than anything that evening was the exceptionally clean boxing and good sportsmanship. He had seen a great deal of boxing and he could honestly say—he assured them that he meant every word—that he had never seen a better conducted audience or cleaner boxing.

Major-General Jeffreys, before presenting the prizes, said that as most of those present were young soldiers they probably could not realise as well as the old soldiers could, the great weight attached to a compliment by Col. Betts. Nobody was better qualified to speak on boxing—certainly on service boxing. Col. Bett's name was a household word in the old Army. For many years he was champion of Arms in the British Army and he was in a better position than any other man in the service to speak on any form of physical training.

The points awarded to the Battalion teams were as follows:—

13th K.R.R.C. 22½; 20th K.R.R.C. 19; 18th K.R.R.C. 17.

Jabez Wolff has abandoned his attempt to swim the Channel after receiving reports from French and British pilots as to the conditions prevailing in the Channel.

CLEANLINESS OF BILLETS.

Novel Competition At Sechtem.

A little friendly competition between No 3 Platoon, A. Coy., and the Signal Section 1/6th Bn., Welsh Regt., took a novel form recently at Sechtem. There were five events for each of which points were awarded, namely football, basket-ball, arm drill, cleanliness etc. of billets, and full marching order inspection. The winner of each event obtained one mark—the result being No 3 Platoon 3 marks. The winnings (over 1000 marks) were spent in giving No 3 a dinner, which was much appreciated.

The dinner was followed by a short dance during the intervals of which the Signal Officer, and No 3 Platoon Officer made speeches, as also did Sergt. Morland (Sigs) and Sergt. Watts (No. 3). The party dispersed at 22.00 hours after a pleasantly spent evening.

Tennis Championships.

In the East of England lawn tennis championships, which were continued at Felixstowe yesterday, C. E. Leo Lyle, M.P., has reached the third round of the mens' singles.

Prominent winners at the Worthing tournament were C. P. Dixon, G. N. Thompson, and F. R. L. Crawford, each of whom have reached the third round of the men's singles.

B. I. C. Norton, Miss Ryan and Mrs. Larcombe are among those competing in the Derbyshire championship at Buxton.

Billiards.

A very interesting game of Billiards was played at the R.A.S.C. Bakeries Billet, Kalk on Tuesday when the home team met the R.A.S.C. M.T. Workshop, London Division. The games were of 100 up; teams six-a-side. Results:—

R.A.S.C. Bakeries 597; R.A.S.C., M.T. Workshop, London Division 389. Bakeries won by 208.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Thursday, August 14, 1919.

Surface wind between S.E. and S.W. 5 to 10 m.p.h. Fine: mist in the early morning; very warm. Some risk of thunderstorms later.

ACTRESS JOCKEYS.

Charming Pictures In Cinema Derby At Chelsea.

A WONDERFUL TRIUMPH.

The sports meeting at Stamford Bridge on Tuesday held by the members of the Cinema Trade for their Benevolent Fund was a gigantic success. There were crowds everywhere on the stands and in the arena, and the program was of such gigantic dimensions that the schedule had to do some overlapping before the end. About 9,000 spectators were present, and with £1,500 taken before the day by the sale of tickets, etc., the financial success of the meeting was again assured.

Eddie Polo, the circus darling of the younger generation, did not turn up as expected to take part in one of the trade races, but Miss Ivy Close and Miss Peggy Carlisle and many other actresses made charming pictures in their jockey costumes, which they wore in the Cinema Derby. Those who wished for a closer acquaintance with the stars of the film had the opportunity of being photographed—at a dollar a time—in the act of being introduced to the cinema favourite of their own selection, and in various other ways (writes "Astral" in the "Daily News") the funds were splendidly helped along.

Sun-Browned Maids.

Over a hundred girls took part in the trade races. Some of them ran with an ease and speed that many of their brothers might have envied, and in the tandem races, where the blindfolded male runner was held in guiding strings by his fair partner, the driver in most cases kept urgently on the heels of their gallant steeds. Here and there sun-browned maids in their artistic athletic costumes might be seen whiling away the time jazzing to the strains of an enthusiastic cinema band, led by a Sousa-like conductor dressed in flannels.

The defeat of the furlong champion, W.A. Hill, in the final, thanks to a tremendously exacting handicap, was greeted as a wonderful triumph for the cinema world, but Howard Baker's magnificent jump of 6ft, 2½in was much admired. Baker stands 6ft, 2in. high.

AN ALL DAY MEETING.

12th (S) Bn. Royal Irish Rifles Sports.

Favoured by beautiful weather the Royal Irish Rifles held a very successful meeting at Haan on Thursday, preliminaries having been run off on the preceding Monday. The spacious sports ground was packed all day with an enthusiastic and appreciative concourse. By kind permission of Lt.-Col. Brady, D.S.O., the band of the 6th London Regt. played splendid selections under the baton of Bandmaster Fordham. At the conclusion of a most interesting day, Lt.-Col W. R. Goodwin, C.M.G., D.S.O., presented the prizes to the successful competitors.

The Officials were:—

Judges:—Lt.-Col. W. R. Goodwin, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Capt. C. J. Love; Capt. W. H. Bell, M.C., and Capt. and Adjutant C. Holmes, M.C.

Starter:—Lt. R. C. Scott, M.C.

Time-keeper:—Lt. M. G. Gilmore.

Recorders:—Capt. W. Somers, M.C., and Lt T. A. Phemis.

Stewards:—Lt. B. W. Bourke, M.C., Lt. J. Miller, Lt. J. S. McMoster, 2 Lt. J. H. McWright, M.C., and Lt L. C. Hughes.

152 Heavy Bty. R.G.A.

Continuing their series of section matches, Right Section v Am. Column on Monday at Godesberg, the latter won by 20 runs, scoring 48 against 28. The outstanding feature was the bowling of Gnr. Pickard who took 7 wickets for 10 runs.

Army v. R.A.F.

Against the Army at the Oval on Friday the R.A.F. will be represented by Lieut.-Col. Blount, Lieut.-Col. D. Harries, Major E. C. Baker, Capt. S. D. Harrower, Capt. W. H. G. Heath, Capt. P. Burke, Capt. G. F. Earle, Capt. A. S. Marriott, Capt. Cransoun, Capt. L. P. Hoult, and Air-M. E. Tomkins.

ENGLISH RACING.

All The Favourites Win At Nottingham Meeting.

FOLKESTONE DETAILS.

Only once or twice in a season do all the first favourites win. On Tuesday at Nottingham all the favourites won, but so short were the prices if anyone had supported the lot he would not have made a fortune.

The following were the results:—

Westerhanger Plate:—1, Saintly Maude (6—4); 2, Ma Petite (11—10 on); 3, Billericay (8—1).

Deal Selling Plate:—1, Maroon (8—1); 2, Outcast (11—8 on); 3, Clarilan Colt (5—2).

GALLIPOLI ANNIVERSARY.

2/4th Queens Interesting Celebration.

In commemoration of the landing of the 2/4th Battalion, Queens Regt. on Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, on August 8th, 1915, a dinner was given at the Savoy Hotel, Cologne, on Friday August 8th 1919.

There are only 20 members of the Battalion who landed on Sulva, at present on the strength of the Battalion, and 16 of these only sat down to dinner, including one officer.

The toast of the "King" was duly honoured; followed in due course by "The 2/4th Queens" and "Absent Comrades."

On this unforgettable night in 1919 the fortunes of the Battalion were once again followed through Gallipoli to Egypt, the Suez, the Sinai, on that long long trail, to Palestine.

When beyond Jerusalem the order came to "about turn" and in due course the return journey brought us to "Sunny" France, and to Rhineland.

The toast "Absent Comrades" made all present think of the boys who had been left on those foreign shores, as in the words of Rupert Brooke— "For there's some corner of a foreign field that is for ever England."

The evening was not, of course, wholly spent in reminiscences, and the pianist did some good work with the piano.

ALL OUT FOR SIX.

Lancs Liv: M. T. Coy. (161) v. 29th Bde A.S.C. (6).—A friendly match arranged by these clubs took place on Saturday on D. Ground, Bonn and proved rather one sided. Lancs Div. M. T. Company had choice of innings and batted first, compiling the respectable score of 161. A most sensational collapse was the feature of the 29th Brigade innings, the whole side being dismissed for 6 runs. L/Cpl. Edwards and L Cpl. Bennett shared bowling honours, the former taking 5 wickets for no runs, and Bennett capturing five for five runs. The extra was a wide.

STARTLING CRICKET IN NORTHERN BRIGADE.

The 3rd Battalion M.G.C. played 3rd Northern Bde H.Q. at Riehl on the 11th inst. The Machine Gunners won the toss put their opponents in to bat and dismissed them for 70. They then proceeded to knock off the runs without loss. When stumps were drawn they had scored 111 for no wickets. Pte. Hughes played a fine innings of 67, not out, hitting six boundaries off the last over of the match. Pte. Pullen played very steadily for his 25 not out.

Scores. 3rd Northern Bde H.Q. 70.

3rd Battalion M.G.C. 111 for no wicket.

TWO CENTURIES.

Knight in Splendid Form at the Oval.

SURREY v. YORKS.

Nearly all the chief interest of Tuesday's cricket at the Oval—where Surrey and Yorkshire drew—gathered round the personality of Donald Knight, who at the early age of twenty-five had the rare felicity of scoring a separate hundred in each innings. Some of the critics making early comparisons declare that no better amateur batsman of Knight's age has been seen since the palmy days of A. C. MacLaren and Reginald Spooner.

Scores:—

Surrey 324 and 189 for 4, declared; Yorkshire 243 and 110 for 4. Match drawn.

Notts (374 for 5, declared) beat Sussex (155 and 212) by an innings and 7 runs.

Kent (379) beat Hampshire (153 and 187) by an innings and 39.

Somerset 379 and 84; Essex 298. Match drawn.

ARMY HORSE SHOW.

List of events for Monday and Tuesday.

The organisers of the British Army of Rhine Horse Show emphasize the fact, for the benefit of prospective spectators, that the events on Monday and Tuesday next will not be on the Cologne Racecourse, but on the Exerzierplatz, Merheim (East of Cologne).

Considerable interest is being excited in the show, the programme for which includes many attractive events. Jumping will be a special feature and for this phase, the most successful jumpers in the Rhine Army will take part.

Additional interest will be provided by numerous side-shows, which promise to be particularly entertaining. Refreshments, too, will receive special attention, provision having been made for all ranks for the edification of the "inner man." Further information concerning the show is given in our advertising columns.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

The "Tonics".

The announcement that the "Tonics" Concert Party were re-appearing at the Leave Club with an entirely new programme, and new costumes drew a large audience, despite the great heat. The whole programme was excellent, and it is difficult to pick out special performers for particular praise, but Sangar and Finlay's Dancing was remarkable. A more serious element was introduced by the singing of "Watchman, what of the Night" as a duet by Lt. Ramsay and Dodds.

The Riehl Jazz Band, now so well-known in Cologne got a great reception, and much of the success of the evening was due to Frank Collinson, the pianist.

Thief! Thief!

Messrs Tankyshun and Bitashun the famous detectives of "The Tabs" revue company have delighted thousands of people with their foolery. They are up against a really serious proposition now, however, and a genuine mystery is presented for them to unravel. On Wednesday afternoon, at Berg-Gladbach, thieves broke into the theatre there and stole a hundred pounds worth of "props." Large quantities of clothes were discovered to be missing shortly before the entertainment was timed to start, the thieves having apparently forced an entry into the building from the back of the stage. A suit case, with the lock cut away, was later found in a field near by. The loss to the individual members is naturally very serious and a benefit performance would be a happy method of recovering the loss, since it is hardly likely that there is an existing fund that would cover such a situation.

JACQUES.

SPORTING CELEBRITIES.

Major J. Victor Smith, O.B.E., R.A.S.C., No. 2 in our portrait gallery of sporting celebrities, is Commander of H.Q. Coy., Midland Divisional Train. He took first prize for best turn-out in the French Horse Show at Wiesbaden last month. Major Smith is a well-known personality in the hunting fields of Leicester and at the Race Meetings held in the Rhine Army is generally represented by one or two horses. He has several horses in training and we look forward to his popular sportsman and horse lover bringing off a coup in the near future.

3 MILE CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

The following table gives the results with number of points awarded in the 3 mile cross-country run which was carried out last week by the 51st Northumberland Fusiliers: —

1st, 65740 Pte Norcliffe, B. Coy., 3 points;
2nd, 235455 Pte Scholey, A. Coy., 2 points;
3rd, 37180 Sergt. Martin, J. C. Coy., 1 point.

Three men of A. Coy., three men of E. Coy., three men of C. Coy., and 11 men of D. Coy., completed the course in 21 minutes.

Totals:—A. Coy. 2¾ points; B. Coy. 3¾ points; C. Coy. 2½ points; D. Coy. 2¼ points.

VICTORY CRICKET SHIELD.

On Sunday, a great surprise resulted when "B" Squadron, who had hitherto lost all their matches, defeated "A" Squadron, 3rd Hussars, favourites for the Victory Cricket Shield, by 34 runs. "A" scored 111, of which Capt. Boynell made 32 in good style and Lieut Dalrymple 19. "B" Squadron went in and, using the long handle, knocked up 145 to the delight of their supporters. Pte. Hudson scored by free hitting and Cpl. Curry carried his bat for a really cheerful 38. Lieut. Cameron took 5 for 37 for "A" and for "B" Cpl. Curry took 5 for 28.

"BOBBIES'" AQUATIC RACES.

Exciting finishes are frequently the feature of races in which policemen participate, and this was a characteristic of the racing at Southwark Baths one evening this week where the members of the City of London Police Swimming Club disported themselves. This was specially the case during the competition of a 50 yards handicap. As in the preliminaries, the final also furnished an exciting finish, and reflects great credit on Police-constable Greenop, the handicapper. Result: Final heat, 50 yards (two lengths) handicap—G. Hodges, 10sec. start, 1; E. Monk, 10sec, 2; C. Perry, 14sec, 3; G. Doe, 7sec, 4; I. Richardson, 15sec, 5; G. Innocent, 24sec, 6; won by a touch, inches only dividing next two. Time 48 3-5sec. Limit 24sec.

Three-Day Cricket.

The committee of the Derbyshire County Cricket Club have instructed their representative at the forthcoming meeting of the Cricket Advisory Committee to vote in favour of a return to the system of three-day matches in the County Championship.

It has been decided to re-establish a cricket nursery at Derby, towards which some handsome promises of assistance have been received, including one from Major C. W. Lowther, son of the Speaker.

When the Advisory Board meet at the Oval next Tuesday the return to three-day matches will also be supported by Gloucestershire.

Sufficient unto the Day.

One of the Yorkshire players signed about a dozen schoolboys' autograph books at the Oval. Then, looking at the expectant queue awaiting their turn, he mopped his forehead and said:—"That's enough for to-day, me lads."

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Childs and Deauville.

Childs may cross the Channel to ride at Deauville next Sunday.

The Talk of London.

The substitute boxing programme arranged by Mr. C.B. Cochran for Olympia on September 2 is the talk of the town.

Popular in Yorkshire.

Cricket is not losing its hold on the public in Yorkshire, for during the two days of the match with Lancashire 37,000 people paid £1,670 to see a drawn game.

Swimming and Prize-winning.

It is claimed by many who have the best interests of swimming at heart that far too much importance has been placed in the past on the mere ability to win prizes over short distances.

A Course of Physic.

The Panther has been on the easy list since C. Marsh took charge of him, and he has also undergone a course of physic. The Derby failure is said to be a doubtful starter for the St. Leger.

Lady Sprinter.

Recently a North of England Ladies, 100 Yards Championship was promoted and was won by Miss Barton, who ran in spiked shoes, and was coached by her father, himself a famous athlete in his day. Her time for the race was 13 sec.

Blistered Hock.

The Panther has always had a weak-looking hock, and this has now been blistered.

475 Runs in 4 Hours.

The Minor Counties piled up runs at a terrific pace against M.C.C. at Lord's this week their total of 475 being reached in only four hours.

Injured "Goalie."

Lansdale, the Norwich City goalkeeper, sustained a nasty cut at the back of the head when attempting to take the ball from the foot of a forward threatening his goal in a trial match at Norwich.

Inter-Divisional Championships.

The programme at the two days' sports festival of the National Federation of Discharged Sailors and Soldiers, to be held at Stamford Bridge next month, includes ten inter-divisional championships, open to Federation members only.

U.S. v. Sweden.

The American Bethlehem football team, captained by Cahill, met a prominent Stockholm team at the Stadium. The match, which had been anticipated with the greatest interest, was played in a high wind and was witnessed by a large crowd. The game was drawn, both sides scoring twice.

At Blackfriars Ring.

G. Clark (Bermondsey) knocked out Sid Whitley (Walworth) in the second round at the Blackfriars Ring.

Spurs' Forwards.

The following front line, the Spurs' manager believes to be equal to any in the league:—Walden, Lindsay, Cantrell, Bliss, and Chipperfield.

New Wicket-keepers.

Two new wicketkeepers were on view at Leyton and Weston-super-Mare last week. L. Williams substituted R.A.T. Miller behind the stumps for Sussex, and H. Gibbs kept for Somerset.

Hunting Revived.

For the first time since 1914, hunting will be allowed in France. Last year an attempt to resume shooting was made in some of the Departments, but the official fixing of the dates for this year restores full liberty to sportsmen.

Veteran Athletes.

There is no stopping our veteran athletes. An 60 yards handicap was decided at Bradford last week, and the winner turned up in A. Varley, who, off the 14 yards mark, got home in 6 9-16secs. Varley won on the same ground a year ago. He had not run previously for more than thirty years.

County Bowls Champions.

Bedfordshire defeated Devon in the final for the English county bowls championship by 95—73.

World-wide Fame.

Mr. Arthur Stow, of Barrowfield, is known throughout Lancashire as a cotton magnate, but his fame as a pigeon-racer is world-wide.

Schoolboys In County Cricket.

Three more public schoolboys appeared in county cricket on Friday, and all made a promising début. The Hill-Wood brothers were in the Derbyshire team and S. G. Considine turned out for Somerset.

Another Golf Denial.

Another official denial comes from the Rules of Golf Committee. There is no truth in the report that they intend to remodel the rules of golf, or that the stymie is to be abolished. Further, no legislation will be introduced in connection with a standard ball.

Tattersall's "Sweep."

The winner of Tattersall's sweepstake on the Sydney Cup drew £4350, the second £1566, and the third £870. Similar amounts went to the lucky ticket-holders in the Newcastle Handicap sweep. Each sweep consisted of 100,000 tickets at 5s. each.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Children Take to Sport.

Much entertainment can be obtained by a study of the children of Rhineland. The way in which, with a child's inherent love of sports, they have taken up football, hockey, and other games is very marked, but it would be interesting to note whether, in view of a long occupation by the British Army, this will have any tendency to develop their character on more chivalrous lines in the future, remembering of course that British chivalry is supposed to be definitely built on the foundation of "games" which play so large a part in the education of the English boy.

Training for Grocery.

Thousands of young men, are laying down the sword to take up the sugar bag. They are being trained and helped back to the counter by the Institute of Certificated Grocers in conjunction with the Education Department of the War Office, and a series of examinations among our soldiers in the Army of Occupation has just been completed at the University at Bonn and at other centres. The institute's course of study enables the ordinary man behind the counter to go through all the branches of the business and to attain a position that hitherto has been beyond his reach. The institute has the hearty co-operation of the War Office.

Goods to England.

Attention is drawn to the fact that goods which are not on the free list may not be imported into England before an import licence has been obtained from the Board of Trade. All goods sent without the above licence having been obtained are liable to confiscation. Particulars as to the free list may be obtained from the Besatzungsabteilung, Blaubach 1.

Platform Riding.

Apropos of the undoubtedly efficient running of the Cologne tramway system there is, however, a practice which is sometimes heard to be adversely commented upon. And in a country with a reputation for the strict regulation of the liberties and comfort of its citizens, certainly it is surprising that this custom, has not been "verbotenised." What is alluded to is the permission given to passengers to ride on the platforms of the cars. The driver is often seen to be so hustled by people standing at his end as to interefere with his responsible task whilst the lot of the conductor is the reverse of enviable. Seemingly, thinness in an applicant for a job on the Cologne trams must be a capital qualification. The people who chiefly indulge in the habit under notice are, of course, the smokers.

German Type.

There are some peculiar points about German type—a first cousin of the "Old English"—that are worth notice. No one but an accustomed observer could possibly say which is a capital B and which a V: the only difference would appear to lie in the width. The capitals AIKLNOPSTZ bear a strong likeness to other letters in our print. The small k is a puzzle to the uninitiated: at times it is joined to a c, and like the first mentioned above, the long small s is only to be discerned from an f by the very advanced reader. There are three brothers in the s family, but they are very different from each other. The double point over ä ö ü are relics of former days when the diphthong was expressed with the e itself which still influences the sound: their pronunciation is extremely tricky for the average Englishman and is avoided by most natives. Another interesting and striking feature in their printing is the method of particularising a fact by spreading the letters apart: it corresponds to our italics and is a distinctly good idea.

Beware of Schweinefleisch.

Soldiers visiting one of the clubs in Cologne the other day were agreeably surprised to find pork sausage on sale. This toothsome edible has been on offer at inviting prices in the civilian shops for a week or two, but most Tommies cry taboo at these unknown quantities. There is a saying in the North of England that pork should not be served when there is no "r" in the month, and it has wisdom, for May, June, July, and August are sometimes so warm that meat taints rapidly. It is best to be always on guard against strange meats, even when going on leave. The present writer, however, credits a railway pie he once ate with being a lucky one. It caused dysentery and prevented the sufferer going on a draft to Egypt. Of his squad of twenty-four, sixteen were drowned on the outward journey.

Shortage of Metal.

Many of us here can recall with mixed feelings the many newspaper stories of war-time dealing with the alleged famine of metals in Germany. Even while the Germans were illustrating this "shortage" by supplying an incessant rain of "Krupps samples" one was still able to console himself by reading that Germany was nearly denuded of metal. We wonder how the writers of those wonderful stories would feel if they were to take a rail trip to-day through the occupied zone. Here, anyway, is evidence of abundance of metal, in fact almost wastefully exploited.

The Art of Mimicry.

A small party of officers were carrying on an animated conversation in the Club at Cologne the other night and their accent was so Teutonic and so guttural that suspicions were aroused as to their nationality. Anxious enquiries were made and the A.P.M. consulted. Then it was discovered that they were perfectly harmless, being in fact none other than members of the Rhine Army Dramatic Company who unable to restrain their natural aptitude for mumming were posing to one another as imaginary German characters.

Unlucky.

A gunner correspondent writes:—Considering the usual smooth running of the German tram systems I have been the victim of some rather strange coincidences this week. I have chanced to travel to Bonn from Cologne on the Rheinuferbahn four times lately. On the first occasion a tram ran off the lines across the footpath in Bonn and the traffic was terribly disarranged. The next time as we rushed along we passed a waggon full of hay in full flame which was standing on the next line. The next time the emergency brake was applied as the rumour spread that the whole tram was on fire. Apparently though from the smell of rubber it was a "fuze." And last night the overhead wire broke and once again the whole system was disarranged. Will not the authorities be justified in refusing to carry me soon?

Chimney Sweeps.

The German chimney sweep, when he walks the streets in full work-a-day dress, is at once a vision, both picturesque and unpleasant. Picturesque, largely because of the sandals on his feet, and unpleasant on account of his resemblance to a musical opera "Headsman." A small black cap fits on the top of his head, and his dirty coat is cut low at the neck. Below his equally dirty trousers, the feet are bare, save for a pair of thick soled wooden sandals. He carries two coils of thin wire rope, each having a bundle of twigs at one end, and a round wooden knob at the other. A piece of bent iron carried on his shoulder is his "axe." He is just about as dirty as any English sweep, but carries his "tackle" more lightly, as there is not so much of it.

Lesser Echoes.

During the present hot spell quite a number of officers have been seen in Rhineland wearing uniforms of cotton khaki drill. And very sensible too!

* * *

The decision of the N.A.C.B. to cut out "Rest House" from the title of the Cologne Officers' Club has been hailed with satisfaction.

* * *

A visit to one of the many mines in Rhineland where briquettes are manufactured is full of interest.

The improvement in the boots now worn by the German population has been remarked. This is distinctly noticeable in the case of the fair sex, and of course is due to the increase in imports of boot leather.

* * *

Some amusing silhouette postcards produced in Rhineland are being sold in the shops—"Tommy Atkins among us" and "Tommy on the Rhine."

* * *

A big placard outside an eating house in a side-street near the Dom seeks to attract Tommy with the announcement, "This is the place for a good feed."

* * *

The number of tramway accidents in Cologne, due mainly, to the narrowness of many of the streets is much greater than in the average town.

* * *

Have you noticed how the price of British and French toilet soap is falling in the shops of Rhineland? At the present rate, the figure asked will be quite normal soon.

* * *

A hundred thousand English cigarettes were confiscated by the military from Germans in illegal possession in two days at a small railway station near Bonn.

Prizes for Echoes.

Some time ago I offered prizes of 50, 25, 15, and 10 marks for the four best humorous stories that would be useful to a concert party producer. These have been won as follows:—1st., C.S.M. Graham, Intelligence B., IX Corps; 2nd., Pte C. T. Highfield (127080) R.A.M.C., 47 General Hospital, Bonn; 3rd., L/Cpl. E. S. Charlton, R. E., Engineers Dept., Railway Sub Commission, Cologne.

FRITZ: "GREAT SCHOTT!"

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

FROTH UPON THE WAVES.

Mr. Frederick Harrison in his recently published 'Obiter Scripta', says: Talk about a Victorian era has been absurdly overdone, There is no Victorian era at all. I have lived and observed things from William IV. to George V., and, great as the changes have been, both material and spiritual, there has been little spasmodic in it at any time. From 1789 to 1918 there has been a continuous post-revolutionary stream. The wild men and women who are the froth upon the waves of this mighty flood may fancy they have set it in motion. They come only from the bubbles it casts up.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

Mrs Henry de la Pasture, the novelist says: The love of a sister for a brother stands apart from every other love in the world. It is the only affection which can withstand the administration of home truths. . . . The relationship at its best, is the perfection of human comradeship—with all life's earliest memories to sanctify it—and every hope and ambition for the future to lend it an interest which can only increase with years.

ON PROFITEERING.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, M.P., ex- Food Minister, says that if the proposal is to set up tribunals to stand between the seller and the public, the effect may be good. But it is a pity matters have been allowed to go so far. If there are to be tribunals, they should have been set up at the beginning of the year, or the Food Committees might have been vested with greater powers. The Government were warned about the matter immediately after the Armistice. A memorandum was submitted by myself, as Food Minister, indicating the lines on which the Ministry should have been organised to meet the coming difficulty. The Government, however, appear then to have regarded the Food Ministry as a thing to be wound up, and it is only lately that they have found out their mistake.

IRELAND'S NEED.

Mr. George Moore, Ireland's great novelist writing on Ireland and British commerce, says:

One important aspect of the Irish problem and its solution has been avoided. I mean the effect of legislative independence, or quasi-independence, in Ireland on English trade. No, I am not thinking of the duties which an Irish Parliament might place on English goods, but of the great western harbour' which it would be one of the first acts of an Irish Parliament to build. If England did not supply the money' America would be asked to do it, and would certainly agree, provided that the harbour were supplemented by a train-connexion (by tunnel or ferry) with Great Britain. The question is simply whether the thing is to be done by England, and done with due regard to all legitimate English interests, or done by Ireland and America, with no regard for those interests whatever. This is England's opportunity, and it is one which will not last for ever.

COMPETING WOMAN.

Mr. James Armstrong writing on women and workshop competition, says: If the woman mechanic movement can be lifted from the arena of academic discussion to the world of stern reality, it will create a healthy competition in the labour world which can hardly fail to have far-reaching consequences. The masculine ranks will be stirred to activity because its accepted field of activity will be in danger of passing into feminine hands unless equal or superior enterprise be displayed. This will redound to the benefit of the country as a whole, and for this reason the movement will be enthusiastically supported by the community.

THE VALUE OF FOOTBALL.

Mr. Raley, a well-known Yorkshire football enthusiast at a meeting representatiore of fifty clubs said: Whatever people said aboutfootball five years ago he did not think that any one who studied the history of the past five years could gainsay that football had been a magnificent asset to the nation. They knew the benefit which soldiers had derived from it and, there was more discipline in one football match than during ten hours on the barrack square. In football a player learnt discipline and self-restraint without fear of "C.B." It was their duty to maintain football at its present high standard, and that was the way to develop the manhood of the country.

THE CAUSE OF STRIFE.

Sir Frederick Milner speaking on British Bolshevism says: All the bitterness and strife between class and class is caused by the men who had stayed at home drawing fat wages which they were anxious to keep up now the war was ended. There are some seven millions of men who have been fighting for their country, and if they make up their minds that they will work for peace as they have fought for victory in the war, the influence of these Bolsheviks will go to the wall. I make an earnest appeal to all to join together and work shoulder to shoulder, determined to do your duty by your country.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Lord Robert Cecil, the League of Nations must insist on the publication of all international agreements to which the British Empire is a party, on our disengaging ourselves from any entanglements contrary to the spirit of the League, on the reduction of our armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations, on the submission of appropriate issues to international tribunals and the willing acceptance of their awards, and on our shouldering our share of the responsibility for maintaining right by agreeing, in the last instance, to apply the economic and military sanctions demanded by the League; in a word, on the subordination of what may appear immediate British interests to the interests of all humanity, in the confidence that the peace and harmony of the world are, in the long run, the greatest of British interests.

No Homes to Go to.—Fourteen families have been rendered homeless by an outbreak of fire at Gartcosh near Glasgow.

Gratuities.—Officers entitled to war gratuity under article 497 of the Royal Warrant will complete Army Form Z42 or Z42a in applying for it.

Generous.—Mr. J. Herbert Lewis M.P. has presented a recreation ground to his native town of Caerwys, Flintshire as a memorial.

To Gain Trade.—Japan is making a great bid for Lancashire's cotton trade in India, which is the biggest market in the world for British cotton.

Open Again.—Estaminets and cafés are being reopened in Ypres, and on one single day nine thousand tourists visited the place.

For the Marines.—A war gratuity will be given to officers of the Royal Indian Marine under the same conditions as apply to the Royal Navy.

Taxis in the Air.—"Air Taxis" for members of the Air Council is one of the latest innovations in Government service.

Caught in the Act.— An attempt to scuttle the German cruiser Goeben, made by Turkish officers at Nicomidia, was forestalled by the British Navy.

A Fortune in Refuse.—By turning refuse into manure and salving old tins and paper, Glasgow Corporation last year saved £14,000.

Mystery for the Indians.—General Costello has arranged a Maskelyne magic entertainment for a thousand Indian soldiers in London.

Argentine Beef.—The Argentine Government has introduced a bill to prohibit for three years the export of all beef from cows and heifers.

Big Money.—Pensions this year will cost eighty-six millions, which is thirteen millions above the estimate. Next year they will take ninety-six millions.

Care of the Soldiers Teeth.—In the American Army there were five thousand dental officers at the signing of armistice, as compared with eight hundred in the British Army.

Train versus Tractor.— A train from Charing Cross Station, London, to Hastings, ran into a motor tractor at a level crossing. The engine was derailed but no one injured.

For the Table.—The rearing of goslings with a view to their ultimate appearance on the dinner table in the form of roast goose has been found by the officers of a unit near Cologne to be a very profitable scheme.

English Music Popular.—The popularity in Germany of certain English musical comedies of past years is surprising. As an instance, "The Geisha" is one of the most frequently heard selections in cafés and cabarets, and is closely rivalled in this respect by "The Belle of New York."

The Outer German.

Many must have noticed with astonishment the cost of men's clothing as displayed in German tailors' windows. An ordinary suiting seems to cost anywhere around 1,000 marks. And yet the German as a rule is quite well dressed, better so perhaps, than his women folk. The cut and style of his dress sometimes appears rather ludicrous in the eyes of the Britisher, but nevertheless one seldom sees his clothes looking shabby or threadworn. And clothes at 1,000 marks a suit! A correspondent was recently pointing out these facts to a Cologne tailor, who sadly replied that although the average man was fairly well dressed, he was not having new suits made. He was merely having his old ones picked to pieces, turned and made up again. By this method the life of a suit was nearly doubled.

PETER THE PAINTER.

ECONOMY.

WHY RHINE ARMY IS BEING REDUCED.

Mr. Churchill's statement regarding the reduction of the Rhine Army has attracted much attention. It is learned that this action is the outcome of an agreement arrived at by the Supreme War Council before Mr. Lloyd George left Paris.

Originally when the Armistice terms were prepared, an equal occupation between the English, French and American Armies was contemplated and in the advance to the bridge-heads this was carried out. Later, however, when it became clear that the occupation would have to be for a term of years, both the British and the American Governments felt that their position was different from that of France and that it would be unreasonable to keep so large a number of men overseas. The American Force was reduced some time ago to one regiment and the British are now following suit.

The Military Governorship of Cologne will be continued by a British officer until the expiration of the occupation, Cologne being the first of the areas to be evacuated according to the terms of the Peace Treaty. The size of the remaining Army will not necessitate the retention of Sir William Robertson in command. He presumably returns to England for other work. The whole force on the Rhine will then be commanded by a French General under Marshal Foch himself.

It is understood that the reasons leading up to this step are that the clearing up in France and Flanders has proceeded better than was anticipated and that evidence is now clear that Germany is showing every disposition to carry out the terms of the Treaty; that British and Allied officials have been free to move about arsenals and military centres and that the state of the population gives a strong guarantee as to Germany's present attitude and intentions.

FRATEL'S DEFENCE.

MORE TESTIMONY IN HIS FAVOUR.

The Court-martial on William Fratel concluded at the Middlesex Guildhall yesterday.

First Conductor Joseph Guigley said that during the march to Bagtsche he saw Fratel fall out and assist sick men. He had frequently seen him assaulted by the Arab escort when helping our sick. The witness added that towards the end of July, disease broke out. Large numbers died and the hospital was overflowing. Fratel was there as a sort of maid of all work and he did more than the witness could have done in the same circumstances. He had to go to hospital for treatment himself. Fratel stole medicine for him. In witness's opinion Dr. Comus was a brute of the first water. Witness mentioned a Bulgarian timekeeper named Dimok, who was the chief engineer's jackal and practised every cruelty on the prisoners irrespective of nationality. He considered that Fratel did all that was possible to help the men. In his opinion Fratel was never guilty of disloyalty or cruel or neglectful conduct.

Q.M.S. Mallon, Essex Regt., said he had known men admitted to hospital by Fratel turned out by Dr. Comus. Of eighty-nine men captured at Gaza in March 1917, fifty-nine died at Bagtsche. Those men, when they arrived, were fit compared with the Kut prisoners.

George Isaacs, formerly of the Essex Regiment, said that when he was in hospital at Bagtsche, Fratel treated him quite decently under the circumstances. Several witnesses belonging to the Oxford and Bucks Light Infantry testified that Fratel had given them medicine, one witness adding that he saw Fratel and others being thrashed by Arabs on the march.

This completed all the evidence the defence is able to call at present.

The accused's Counsel asked for an adjournment in order to produce further witnesses from India and Mesopotamia on important matters. The president, Col. Steele, said the application would be put before the Court, which would adjourn until the convener's decision was announced.

GREY FOR AMERICA.

In Parliament yesterday Mr. Bonar Law announced that Viscount Grey had consented to go on a mission to the United States to deal with questions arising out of the Peace, pending his appointment a permanent Ambassador early next year.

PETER THE PAINTER.

VIRTUAL RULER OF RUSSIA.

Dr. Martiny, leader of the Danish Red Cross Mission at Moscow, has arrived at Copenhagen. With the other members of the Mission they have been obliged to escape from Moscow to avoid ill-treatment and possibly death. Dr. Martiny declared that Lenin has not ruled effectively in Russia for the past three months. The country is at present ruled by a Lett called Peter the Painter (who became prominent in the Sydney-street shooting affray), Odershenski and Antanoff. These three form a committee of public safety on the lines of the committee set up during the French Revolution. Dr. Martiny described the situation at Moscow as terrible. Starvation is rife and thousands are being arrested and executed. Trotsky has left Moscow and is believed to be with the Army, now under the Command of the former Colonel Kamenoff.

DENIKIN'S SWEEP.

BOLSHEVISTS IN SOUTH RUSSIA SHATTERED.

The War Office announces that further details of Denikin's successes show that the advance is continuing on the greater part of the South Russian front against considerable enemy resistance. The latest reports give the results of the capture of Kamishin on July 28th as being even greater than at first stated. The estimated captures include 11,000 prisoners, sixty guns, 150 machine-guns, and an immense amount of material. The fighting around the city was extremely heavy; two crack Bolshevist divisions were completely shattered by the repeated attacks of the volunteer troops.

Meanwhile Denikin's advanced cavalry, pushing out towards the Urbakh and Astrakan railway, effected a junction with the left wing of the Ural Cossacks near Lake Eltonokol, eighty-five miles South-East of Kamishan. The effect of this junction is bound to be great. A united anti-Bolshevist front now exists along the whole of East and South Russia from the Northern Urals to the north-west corner of the Black Sea.

The booty taken at the capture of Poltawa included 136 engines, over 1,200 wagons, and 20 guns with ammunition. The population of Poltava, like that of other cities liberated, displayed intense enthusiasm on the arrival of the deliverers.

In the Black Sea area only 50 miles separate General Denikin's left wing from the right wing of the Roumanian army along the Dniester.

Further south, along the Middle Dnieper, a Bolshevist force has been routed east of Kremenchug, with a loss of over 1,000 prisoners and six guns.

In the Khersen area Bolshevist attempts to cross the Dniester—which they claimed had met with some success—have now been thrown back to their starting point.

Koltchak's Peril.

Authoritative information has reached the United States that the precarious position of Koltchak's forces is such that officials express fear that the whole liberation movement, headed by the Admiral, will collapse; and with it, of course, will go all possibility of his "recognition" by the Powers.

His army is short of arms, equipment, and guns, all of which the Bolshevists, who outnumber the Siberians by five to one, possess in abundance.

Thus the Admiral's forces are reaching the point of extreme exhaustion and discouragement. They have retreated another 170 miles, these advices say, their front being now 800 miles from that westward of the Urals which the Admiral's advanced arms occupied in the spring.

"The time has come," says one high official, "to prepare the people of the anti-Bolshevist world for a possible disaster to the Koltchak regime."

The obvious plan of the "Red" leaders is to crush the Omsk Government forces definitely, and then turn their whole strength against Denikin.

It is possible that the attention of Congress will be called to the situation by the President.

THE AUSTRIAN REPUBLIC.

The Inter-Allied Supreme Council has decided to recognize the new Austria as the "Austrian Republic."

This decision has been arrived at as a result of the Notes submitted by the Austrian delegation, in which they referred to their Government as "German-Austrian." These Notes related to the proposed changes in the Austrian Treaty,' and in some cases the only alteration in the clauses was the change of the Austrian Government's name to "German-Austrian."

FREEDOM WANTED.

AMERICA AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

In the American Senate, Senator Lodge declared that an independent America would be of greater service to the world than an America fettered by the League of Nations. He demanded adherence to the Monroe Doctrine, denying that this meant isolation. He declared he would not vote for the Treaty unless the provisions for withdrawal from the League in favour of adhering to the Monroe Doctrine were altered. The conclusion of the speech was marked by the wildest demonstrations in the history of the Senate. The galleries rose en masse, cheering for five minutes. No efforts on the part of the officials could keep the audience quiet.

SHANTUNG TREATY.

AGREEMENT CONCEALED FROM AMERICA.

Mr. Lansing, giving evidence before the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate which is examining the Peace Treaty, made the remarkable assertion that in the negotiations preceding the agreement with Japan, Viscount Ishii concealed from him the existence of a secret treaty between Japan and Great Britain regarding the Shantung Peninsula. He added that neither Mr. Balfour nor Mr. Vivani when in America told the United States about various agreements made by their Governments regarding territorial dispositions at the end of the war. The first knowledge that the United States had of these matters was after the Peace Conference assembled.

Mr. Wilson, replying to a resolution of the Committee regarding the Japanese attitude on the Shantung question, declared that he had no knowledge of an alleged Treaty between Japan and Germany, said to have been entered into during the war. Mr. Wilson asserted that Mr. Bliss's letter to him on behalf of Mr. Lansing and Mr. White with regard to the Shantung concession was not in the nature of a protest. He added that it was impossible to make the letter public on account of references to other Governments.

NORTH RUSSIA.

BRITISH SUCCESS ON THE DVINA.

The G.O.C. in North Russia reports that on August 10th British and Russian Forces under Brig. General Sadlier Jackson attacked the Bolshevist forces on the river Dvina with complete success. All objectives were gained and six enemy battalions destroyed, the Bolshevists forming them being either killed, captured or dispersed. Prisoners already counted number 1,000 and twelve field guns and many machine-guns were captured. Our lines on the Dvina have been advanced about twelve miles to Chudinova and Borok on the left and right banks respectively. Our casualties are reported to be light.

STATE AS AUCTIONEER.

£155,000,000 REALIZED.

The latest official figures of sales of surplus Government property show that the sum realized is now £155,175,292.

Among the noteworthy amounts received in one week are:— Mechanical transport, £150,406; textiles, leather and equipment, £153,812; and non-ferrous metals, £186,734; while the completed sales of mechanical transport for July realized £1,211,772.

The main items to date for sales of surplus property are:— £40,912,642 for horses and animals in the United Kingdom; £2,595,578 for food; £2,684,333 for ferrous metals; £14,768,030 for chemicals and explosives; £14,401,349 for sales abroad; and £3,660,845 for sales to contractors.

WHAT OF THE NATION'S HONOUR?

Sir Robert Horne, Labour Minister, has received a deputation of the Ex-officers National Union.

Major Horne, Border Regiment, pointed out the hardships existing among demobilized officers, who, as a body, were unable to obtain suitable employment. He instanced the case of a married ex-captain making a livelihood by carrying timber at the docks. He mentioned another case of an ex-staff captain, who came down from Oxford, having obtained a degree just prior to the outbreak of the war, who after months of fruitless search, was prepared to take a position as hall porter.

Sir Robert Horne, in a sympathetic reply, promised to do all he could for individual cases and for the demobilized officers generally.

JUDGE RENTOUL DEAD.

The death of Judge J.A. Rentoul, K.C., of the City of London Court, occurred shortly before midnight on Tuesday at his residence in Kensington. He had been in ill-health since February, and on the 2nd of last month he resigned. Two days later the City Corporation voted him a pension of £1,400 a year, representing seven-tenths of his salary.

RESTORING FRANCE.

BATTLEFIELDS OBLITERATED BY FLOWERS.

The roads in France and Flanders are rapidly assuming their pre-war state and already it is possible to motor almost anywhere in the former battle zones. All shell holes and trenches are being filled in by an army of Chinamen, who are making amazing progress in levelling the extensive devastated areas.

A Central News correspondent who just returned from a town in the districts around Amiens, Bapaume, Arras, Cambrai, Valenciennes, Lille and Ypres says that Amiens still shows many evidences of its experiences sixteen months ago but people are rapidly returning to the city and business is proceeding as usual at many places. At Arras the work of reconstruction is being carried on with considerable assistance from German prisoners. The ravages of the war in no man's land are almost completely blotted out by bright scarlet poppies. The town of Lille has resumed its aspect of properity. Ypres is still a mass of ruins but the civilians are returning to live in huts in the neighbourhood. Most of the visitors at present are those visiting graves of relatives, but it is anticipated that next year, when travelling facilities are more normal, large numbers will visit the former battlefields.

"IF A MAN WORK NOT —"

The decision of the British Triple Industrial Alliance in renouncing for the time being the idea of direct action is much commented on in French official circles, where it is ardently hoped that the decision is the beginning of an easier state of affairs in the labour world. Mr. Hoover's recent statement on the necessity for increased production is recalled in this connection, and his opinion that economic difficulties have their origin largely in the disinclination shown to work is generally shared.

"FELIXSTOWE FURY"

FATAL CHANGE OF WIND.

The inquest on Lieutenant MacLeod, the wireless officer killed in the flying boat disaster at Felixstowe, threw no light on the cause of the affair. A verdict of death from drowning was returned.

The smash was vividly described by an eyewitness who stated that the "Felixstowe Fury" rose off the water, turned and went due North. The boat then made a luff on the top side, throwing the left wing into the water, and immediately after nose-dived. Lieutenant MacLeod was afterwards found entangled in the gear.

A Court of enquiry into the affair has been opened. The proceedings were private. The view generally held in naval circles is that a sudden change of wind occurring after the boat left the water probably caused the mishap.

AFFAIRS IN HUNGARY.

ROUMANIA'S ATTITUDE.

M. Antonesco, the Roumanian Minister in Paris, interviewed by the "Temps," said that the Roumanian Government was not favourably disposed towards the accession to power of the Archduke Joseph in Hungary. The Minister pointed out that Roumanian intervention had enabled the delegates of the Allied Powers to enter Buda-Pesth and suppress the centre of Europe, a hotbed of Bolshevist propaganda. It now remained for the Powers to make use of Roumania in establishing in Buda-Pesth a Government with which a definite Peace Treaty could be concluded. The Czecho-Slovaks and the Yugoslavs regard the restoration of the Habsburg regime in Buda-Pesth with little favour.

R. 34 STOWAWAY "SENTENCED."

Ballantyne, the stowaway on the R. 34, who was discovered during the airship's voyage to the United States, has had his "sentence."

He was not court-martialled, or even tried in the usual way, but was "arraigned" before the officers. After being severely lectured for his misdeed, he expressed his regret.

The result is that he is deprived of his position as a member of the crew.

BLOOD MONEY.

In the House of Commons last night the Home Secretary, replying to questions on the subject of Bolshevist propaganda, said that the Government had information regarding organizations abroad which are endeavouring to send money into the country for the purpose of fomenting industrial unrest. The Government is taking all possible steps to prevent such money reaching the hands of those for whom it is intended, but it is clearly inadvisable to give details.

A German prisoner of war, Lieut. Hans Leroc, who escaped from Wakefield Camp, was recaptured yesterday at Dover Pier on board a steamer about to start for Ostend. He was wearing a grey civilian jacket and military breeches and puttees, and had secreted himself on the ship.

NOVEL STRIKE.

MERCHANTS CANCEL ORDERS FOR FOOD.

Following incidents which occurred at the Central Markets at Paris, when a journalist on the staff of "Le Matin" was roughly handled by a number of salesmen who objected to the publication of prices, the salesmen despatched about 500 telegrams to the provinces stopping the supply of provisions. Employees at the Central Telegraph Office, in protest against this action of the merchants which imperilled the food supply of the city, refused to send the telegrams, which they referred to the Minister of Commerce.

The Food Controller last night called together the merchants and declared that Government desired to pay attention to the interests both of tradesmen and consumers, and asked the merchants to abandon their proposed strikes. He also announced that energetic measures would be taken if the disturbances at the markets were renewed.

DEAR DRINKS.

£100 FINE.

What was described by the chairman at Wimbledon Police Court as one of the worst profiteering cases he had come across in his experience resulted in a fine of £100, with £26 5s. costs, on a caterer named William Christopher, of Railway-approach, London Bridge.

Christopher was summoned for having, at the All-England Lawn Tennis Club grounds at Wimbledon, during the recent lawn tennis championship sold to Mr. F. Turner, a London County Council inspector, a quantity of whisky 30 per cent. under proof, for the charge of 2s., which was at the rate of 5s. 8½d. per gill, whereas the maximum was 4s. per gill. He was also summoned for having sold to Mr. Henry Johnson, inspector of Wimbledon Food Committee, a quantity of whisky at the rate of 5s. per quartern, instead of 4s.

Charles Wintle, manager for Christopher, who pleaded guilty, admitted that 1s. per quartern too much was charged for whisky supplied for analysis.

Christopher, who said that he paid £100 rent at the championship, could not give a definite answer to the chairman as to the number of 4s. portions contained in a bottle of whisky.

The Chairman: The overcharge per bottle seems to be 5s., or a total overcharge of roughly £98.

The clerk was directed to call the attention of the All-England Club to the case.

THE DEMOBILIZABLE.

WHO ARE AND WHO ARE NOT.

An Army Council Instruction issued on Tuesday authorises action to be taken by Unit commanders in the United Kingdom on receiving application from soldiers desiring to be demobilized when on leave. If the soldier is on leave from overseas other than from the Rhine Army, France, Flanders or Russia and is demobilizable and has not undertaken any obligation to continue in the service, he may be demobilized. All soldiers on leave from North Russia, Siberia or Denikin's area in South Russia will be demobilized if eligible. If ineligible, they will at the expiry of their leave be posted to a unit serving at home.

SUPPLIES FOR KOLTCHAK.

It is learned at the American War Department that heavy shipments of Army supplies are being dispatched from San Francisco to Koltchak's forces via Vladivostok. Some 45,000 rifles and several million rounds of ammunition have already been forwarded.

Mr. Lansing states that no action will be taken by America regarding the recognition of Koltchak's Government until General Morris has forwarded his report.

THE PRINCE IN CANADA.

The Prince of Wales was warmly received at his first landing on North American soil. After being officially greeted by the Governor the Prince drove in state to the Government House, St. John's, repeatedly acknowledging the greetings of the crowd which bordered the route. The New York papers are most enthusiastic over the visit. The "Sun" welcomes him not because he is the Prince of Wales, but because he represents officially and most conspicuously the British nation.

NEW BADGE FOR CHAPLAINS.

His Majesty has approved of a special badge for military honorary chaplains to the King. The design consists of a Royal Cypher with Crown with an oval wreath in bronze. It will be worn by those entitled to wear it, when conducting religious services, on the left side of the scarf by chaplains who wear such and on the ordinary clerical costume by other chaplains.

Senor Joaquin Inoco, the Colombian Secretary for War, was assassinated at San José on August 10th.

ST. DUNSTAN'S.

WONDERFUL FEAT OF A BLIND SERGEANT.

A remarkable instance of wonderful work accomplished at St. Dunstan's Hostel for the Blind is afforded in the case of Sergeant Alan Nichols, late of the 2nd Durham Light Infantry, one of the old "Contemptibles." Nichols was wounded just after the Mons retreat and when he recovered became a bombing instructor. In September 1916 a defective bomb exploded which destroyed his sight, blew off both his hands and inflicted other wounds. After several operations he was enabled to go to St. Dunstan's. Thanks to the patient and scientific training he received, to a specially constructed machine and a pair of artificial hands, plus his own indomitable pluck, he now represents an almost miraculous triumph of mind over matter. Nichols can now, unaided, type letters without a single error. Recently he passed a test lasting 2¼ hours and only two corrections in his work were necessary.

TRAINING DISABLED MEN.

Mr. C.W. Bowerman M.P., giving evidence before the Pensions Committee, alluded to the evidence of Field Marshal Earl Haig and others who had spoken of the hostility of some Trade Unions to disabled men. He said he had come across a few instances but he did not think the Executives of those Unions were expressing the views of their members. The objection of those Executives was due to a desire to avoid the indiscriminate training of men for trades in which unemployment might result if too many were trained. It would be unfair to the men in the trade and to the newly trained men. In his early days he remembered men were paid from 6s. to 8s. week less than standard wages because they happened to be in receipt of a Crimean War Pension. That sort of thing must be prohibited nowadays.

FATHER KILLS HIS SON.

At Guildford the wife of a mechanic named Fred. W. Martin found her 12-year old son dead from a wound inflicted by a carving knife, apparently by her husband, who was alone with the child. She ran from the house, and Martin then cut his own throat and locked himself in an outhouse. He was removed to the County Hospital in a critical condition. He had been greatly depressed lately and was about to undergo an operation.

TRAPPED BY CHEST LID.

Mr. Charles Hankins, a retired coal merchant, of Southampton, has been the victim of a singular accident.

He was found dead in his bed room with his head trapped in a sea chest, in which he kept his clothes. The evidence at the inquest yesterday showed that the lid had come down in such a manner as to compress his neck.

ROUMANIA AND HUNGARY.

The reply of the Roumanian Government to the note sent by the Supreme Council has reached the Roumanian delegation in Paris. Although the text of the reply has not yet been officially communicated to the Peace Conference, it is known that its general tone is conciliatory. This has caused a favourable impression in French circles in view of the rather peremptory note addressed to King Ferdinand by the Supreme Council.

AMERICAN STEAMER MINED.

Lloyd's report the receipt of a wireless message from the American steamer Englewood, which has struck a mine at the North end of the Black Deep in the Thames estuary. The first message stated that the ship was sinking rapidly and asked for help to be rushed. A later message states there is no immediate danger of sinking. The ship is making for the Thames, and tugs are standing by.

BRITAIN'S HARVEST.

British farm crops have improved very considerably during the past month. Wheat is the best of the corn crops to-day; barley will be much better than seemed possible a month ago; the potato crop generally is healthy, and there is promise of a good yield of hops.

RESTORING BELGIUM.

The British dredging service and the service for the reconstruction of Belgian ports have nearly finished work and will leave Belgium at the end of the month. The ports are nearly clear and will soon be again in full service.

PERSHING GOING HOME.

General Pershing leaves Paris on Saturday for Italy to visit the Italian battlefields. He hopes to arrive back in America during the first week of September.

GERMANY'S NAVAL LOSSES.

According to the Chicago Tribune's Paris edition Germany's Naval loss totals 690 vessels and 18,854 sailors.

THE IMMORTAL DEAD.

The Cenotaph in London is to be a permanent national memorial. Consent has been given for its retention on the present site. Whitehall is to have the permanent honour and dignity of a worthy reminder of heroes that are no more. It will be a sermon in stone, and a patriotic symbol of the undaunted dead.

We believe that this decision will please the men and women of England; we know that it will please her soldiers. It was in Whitehall that the martial procession of Peace Day saluted the memory of their fallen comrades—it is Whitehall, therefore, that is sacred to gallant exploits and fearless sacrifice.

The discipline of a great army does not prevent, but rather encourages sentiment. Why should anyone belittle sentiment? It savours of idealism in life, and the war was a campaign begun and carried on for ideals.

There are many fashions of war memorials that are utilitarian, and when these take the shape of helpfulness they are altogether praiseworthy. Hospitals, convalescent homes, philanthropic institutes, better housing, are desirable and needed. We are certain that a grateful nation will not forget its debt to the maimed and unfortunate and unhappy, but it demanded one great creation and masterpiece dedicated to the shrine of pure and purifying sentiment.

The Cenotaph is that creation and masterpiece. The time will come when future generations can not know as we do the sorrows and agonies of our campaign, but the time will never come when our children will forget that in England's day of sore need and menace there were men who counted all but loss that they should save their country's honour.

In Whitehall, busy centre of Britain's capital, the immortal dead will receive their tribute and their salute.

A NOTABLE LETTER.

GENERAL VON DEIMLING TO ERZBERGER.

General von Deimling, well known as an African campaigner, has addressed the following letter to Erzberger. It is so very apposite that we reproduce it in extenso.

Mr. Vice-Premier,

Do you remember me? When I concluded a peace by understanding with the Hottentots in 1907, I was attacked in the Reichstag and in the Press by the Pan Germans and by war profiteers. I received communications stating amongst other things that my actions were "Un-Prussian," the Prussian method being to destroy the enemy and not to come to an understanding with him. At that time you, Sir, were the only one who stood up for me in the Reichstag and pointed out the fact that in bringing hostilities to a conclusion by this policy I saved the German people bloodshed and many millions of treasure. I have never forgotten how you seconded me.

I followed your endeavours to bring about a peace by understanding with warm gratitude and interest. It was plainly evident to far sighted commanders in the field that it was impossible to overcome the whole world in the long run; even during the war they bitterly cursed and bewailed the fact that every attempt at a policy of peace by understanding broke down owing to the criminal delusions of the Supreme Command, as well as to the weakness of the Reichstag and the lack of character of the Imperial Chancellor.

To-day people are breathing freely again now that the truth is coming to the light of day, and in so doing you rendered service.

We must have the whole truth, however, and not merely half.

The searchlight must be brought to play into the inmost recesses without the slightest consideration.

The German people needs the truth even though it had to be obtained across corpses.

It needs the truth for self enlightenment, for purification, to regain the confidence of the world and for its own inner peace.

May you, Sir, come out victorious from this intense bombardment, and may the cordial co-operation and concurrence of an old soldier bring you some small amount of pleasure in your strenuous fighting.

(Sd.) DEIMLING, General.

In view of the recent revelations, this tribute to Erzberger from General Deimling affords more than usually interesting reading.

TWO AT TEA.

It was really too bad. I was feeling moody; I wanted brightening up; so I dropped into Bud's for tea and the place was unspeakably dull—or so I thought. Looking back I am inclined to think I was suffering from an attack of loneliness.

Anyhow, this is not an essay on the value of the point of view. I was bored and wretchedly so.

And then she came in. "One of the artist Barribal's models," I said to myself as soon as I saw her, "piquant, Parisienné." The broad-trimmed hat, the parasol, the daring brightness of colour of ribbons and sash, extremely refreshing. She was piloted to my table, the only vacant place—my vis-a-vis and immediately on all sides laughter and talk and the band playing divinely.

* * *

We had exhausted non-committal trivialities and the personal note was creeping into our conversation.

"Oh no, I don't like that sort of man at all," she said, in answer to a question of mine.

"Why, what is your 'sort' of man?" I asked.

Perhaps she detected a little eagerness, a little more than idle curiosity in my voice, for her eyes danced mischievously as she answered "Well, shopwalkers I especially hate."

"Now you are laughing at me," I said, pretending to be piqued.

"But you can scarcely expect me to formulate my likes and dislikes can you?" she asked.

"Well no, I suppose not," I confessed. I was thinking of the dainty way she lighted her cigarette, a delightful piece of coquetry. I was not aware of anything insinuating in my answer.

"Oh don't be sarcastic, please" she said.

"I hate 'clever' people. That's why I despise teachers. They can never remember they are out of school. They turn every bit of conversation into an argument, pounce on any little word that's not just in its place, and quibble over a phrase as though the fate of the world depended upon it. Their talk is as tasteless and unattractive as themselves."

For those few seconds there was a trace of bitterness in her voice and then she laughed, a little defiantly I thought.

"Excuse my eloquence," she said "I have to break out sometimes. Don't you ever feel as though you would like to create a little scandal to shock some of those highly respectable people who never do anything wrong; who are so frightfully logical in everything?"

I was surprised at this outburst. I wondered what had inspired it. There was a seriousness about her that seemed out of plan in such a butterfly.

"I agree with you," I replied. "My little world often becomes intolerable and I turn rebellious. I must be going though," and I rose from the table.

"Must you really go?" she asked in a disappointed voice. "I'm afraid I've frightened you."

"You have rather," I said, trying to laugh, "you see I'm a teacher."

She made a move of disapproval and then, "please sit down again you silly boy," she said. "Haven't you guessed that I'm a teacher too?"

Difficulties of producing a British Army Journal.

BY SERGT.-MAJOR W. LEE, R.A.M.C.

There are many ups and downs in a newspaperman's life, but the experience of the past three weeks has proved to me that a journalist's lot, especially if he be on active service in a country like Russia under present conditions, is far from being a happy one.

Soon after the North Russian campaign opened, a scheme was set on foot by one of the Government departments to run a newspaper for the English-speaking troops on the Archangel front, and it was hoped that the paper would also serve the purposes of propaganda among the Russian population; so a couple of linotypes were ordered and sent to the base, together with a Hoe rotary, but the signing of the Armistice put an end to the department, and the machines were disposed of to a local newspaper in the town of Archangel.

I had been a newspaperman of sorts in pre-war days, and could safely say that my experience was all-round, my duties having ranged from office boy or comp, to editor or machine-man, but in my wildest dreams I never thought that there were so many troubles connected with the game as have fallen to my lot out here.

The linotypes were both Russian, so they were useless for producing an English paper, and recourse had to be had to the very limited English type in the Government printing office. There were only three founts to work on, 10pt. and 12pt. Roman, and a 10pt. italic, and the quantities of those were so small that only two four-column pages could be set at one time; those pages had to be printed, then the type was dissed and the composition of the other two pages proceeded with.

The result was that for a weekly paper all the copy for the first two pages had to be ready by Tuesday night, and the other two had to be prepared for Thursday.

Add to all these troubles that the composition was done by Russian girls whose knowledge of the English language was confined to an elementary acquaintance with the English alphabet, and who simply had to have clearly typewritten, copy, and the fact that the sole sources of news were the official communiques and what English papers happened to reach us during the week, and that all communication with the printers had to be carried on through an interpreter, and who will wonder that the editor's hair has gone white in the past two weeks.

The first proofs were nightmares, the "revises" little better, and the spare-time occupation which was to be such a pleasure because it was once more connected with the old game became a toil and trouble which threatened to drive one into a lunatic asylum.

But we "achieved the impossible," and the first number went to press punctually and all fears had vanished. The first copies were actually on their way to the forward areas by aeroplane, a touch of modernism in the midst of mediaeval methods—when the Censor stepped into the office and suspended publication until a two-column splash on the front page had been excised and other matter substituted!

There was nothing for it but to comply, and there was a sigh of relief when the bowdlerized version of the G.A.F. was safely in the hands of the distributing agent.

THE CUSS WORD.

BY A. C. DOWNER, D. D.

I am a "padre," and yesterday a young officer asked whether I was not less disposed to think badly of those who use "cuss-words" than before the war. I replied that these expressions are not used in their proper sense and to-day have no meaning except to emphasize what is said.

For example, when Christ said to the Pharisees "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?" he meant something totally different—what it was is too obvious for discussion—from what I heard a man say the other day in Cologne about "a damned pretty girl."

He certainly did not for a moment contemplate the fate in question befalling the girl, but simply meant "a very pretty girl indeed." And when an officer friend of mine spoke of "a hell of a lot of swank," anything penal or painful was plainly absent from his mind, his meaning being merely "a very great amount of swank."

Or take St. Peter, who at all times has a forcible style of speaking and who cursed and swore when he denied Christ (there seems something appropriate in that). When Simon Magus offered the Apostles money to confer on him the gift of transmitting the Holy Spirit, St. Peter's disgust and indignation flamed up, so that the old habit broke out in a new and justifiable manner "Thy money perish with thee," which is even more forcible than "You and your money be damned," the nearest I can get to it in modern vernacular.

But St. Peter was "hot-stuff," and he meant something hot and strong, whereas the penny-farthing oaths of to-day mean nothing at all and are only put in for emphasis.

Hence I look upon them as indicating poverty of expression and as a sign of weakness, rather than strength of mind, in fact, not particularly wicked, but very particularly silly.

For my part, I intend to keep these important words for the realities they represent, to use them as they are used in the New Testament, and not to whittle away their force by employing them as expletives or mere adverbs of emphasis.

A "Daily Mail" writer recently advised clergymen to take their holidays in mufti, so as to enjoy the advantage of hearing men talk naturally. Let me assure this gentleman that there is no need.

Out here, anyhow, people no longer, I regret to say, restrain themselves because a padre is present. We know all their répertoire, they have nothing to teach us. Good fellows, yes; let it go at that. But just a little bit wanting in the wholesome fear of God and very much off the spot in the application of articulate speech.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

POLITENESS.

Sir,—The letters which have appeared on the question of German politeness suggest that before any decision can be arrived at, politeness must be defined.

In the outward forms of chivalry, such as the raising of hats, etc., the average German is certainly much more ostentatious than the Englishman, but I venture to think that the English idea of politeness which consists mainly in consideration for the feelings and comfort of others is a much more genuine thing.

POLITESSE.

SHUT OUT.

Sir,—Recently I was stranded at Düren for the night and found the N.A.C.B. Officers' Club closed on account of the premises being required for a dance by the local Garrison, no provision whatever being made for travellers.

Local officers having their own messes do not really require the club at any time, and probably wouldn't miss it greatly, but I should like to know what the N.A.C.B. Officers' Clubs are principally for—travellers or local residents, and whether they are locally controlled?

R. H. A.

CINEMA ETIQUETTE.

Sir—After reading a few passages which have appeared in the "Cologne Post" from time to time, on "Cinema Etiquette," may I venture to give one on the same subject.

I have read with great interest about "that man," who on recognising a picture, catches up the story and finishes it before others around him get time to grasp its first meaning, therefore anyone interested might as well rise and go out.

Another popular doing of his is to roundly applaud the operator should the film break down or any other slight mishap take place, which again disgusts the interested one to such an extent that he begins to think he is better on the streets after all.

ONE WHO SEES.

PRIVILEGE BONDS.

Sir,—What a sound sensible letter that was by T.J.C.! I cannot imagine why in some things we British are so prejudiced and illogical.

Why, we openly sanction as a most worthy and respectable institution, Lloyd's Exchange, than which nobody could conceive a more flagrant example of sheer gambling; for the underwriter who stakes his money stands to lose it all, if his "insurance" (or "bet" I would prefer to call it bluntly) goes against him.

Yet our rulers are so timid and so hypocritical as to set their faces against issuing bonds as all the Continental nations and municipalities have done for years, with a small rate of interest and substantial prizes drawn for at frequent intervals. What is immoral in that?

You keep your capital intact; you risk nothing and may gain much. T.J.C. goes a step further and advocates bonds on these lines exclusively for the men who have helped to win the war. Splendid! But will the Government have the pluck?

A.H.N.

THE TOTALIZATOR.

Sir,—May I draw attention to the following remarkable prices returned by the totalizator on the last day's racing at Merheim (I quote the prices for places only, as nothing can be proved from the price of any individual winner, however disappointing to the backers):—1. Victory Plate 1st Division (7 runners), winner 10 to 1 on; 2nd 10 to 1 on; 3rd 100 to 30 on. 2. Cologne Grand National (11 runners), winner 10 to 1 on; 2nd 100 to 70 on; 3rd 100 to 30 on. 3 Niehl Stakes 2nd Division (8 runners), winner 5 to 1 on; 2nd 100 to 70 on; 3rd 100 to 30 on. 4. Victory Plate 2nd Division (8 runners), winner 10 to 1 on; 2nd 2 to 1 on; 3rd 5 to 1 on.

There are only two possible logical conclusions to be drawn from these figures, viz., either: (1) There is something very abnormal in the way the totalizator is being run; (2) the bulk of the Rhine Army should be at home making their fortunes as tipsters! I leave it to your readers to decide which is the correct deduction. I have no doubts on the subject myself.

Now, the totalizator, though capable of curious anomalies at times, is a mathematical machine which (with only a proper percentage deducted) must on the average pay better prices than the bookmaker who has a living to make as well as very heavy expenses and bad debts to face. Indeed the totalizator syndicate at Flushing used to guarantee its customers official starting price or better—never less. How much longer, then, are the unfortunate racegoers of the Rhine Army to be served up, race after race, with prices which could return a small fortune on every race to a bookmaker?

In every other respect the meetings are so good that it seems a thousand pities that they should be marred in this way. Everyone complains. If we can't have "bookies," at least let us have an explanation of what has been happening with our stake money.

"HABITUAL RACEGOER."

A WAYSIDE CENOTAPH.

At the crooked elbow of the lane
That winds off Robesarte,
A rough cross marks where he was slain
A swift ball through his heart.
And new-sprung grasses hide the stain.
Which saw his life depart.

At the crooked elbow of the lane
That leads to Robesarte
He followed in the legion train
Who played the hero's part
Content for neither place nor gain.
To bear Death's sev'ring smart.

* * *

A simple cross of rough-hewn wood,
A number — and an unsung name:
A mound where once a brave man stood
The one poor tribute to his fame.
Sleep well! Within my constant heart's abode
Is shrined a tomb surpassing sculptor's art
The memory of you who died beside the road
The road that winds to Robesarte.

GOLFING WEEK.

Draws And Times For Monday's Events.

PROMISING PROSPECTS.

The following is the programme of the first three days of the Golf Competitions to be held on the Cologne Golf Links during the week commencing August 18th., showing the draw for partners, opponents, and times.

Owing to the large number of entries, it will be impossible to get through these competitions unless competitors are punctual on the tee.

If owing to military duty a competitor cannot be at the first tee at the time allotted to him, he should arrange for an exchange of time with some other competitor.

Failing such an arrangement or failing to be present within 20 minutes of the time allotted will necessitate his name being scratched.

EDDIE McGOORTY FINED.

Eddie McGoorty, the American heavy-weight boxer, who is in training for the match with Beckett at Olympia on Sept. 2nd, was fined 10 shillings at Bow St. on Wednesday for being drunk and incapable in Tottenham Court Road on the previous night.

Rice v. Berry.

Bandsman Rice, who outpointed Sergt. Harry Curzon, D.C.M., after a gruelling 20 rounds at Grimsby last Monday, meets Tom Berry, the tough London heavy-weight boxer, over 20 rounds, at the Artillery Barracks, Park-st, Hull, next Monday.

Successful Exhibitors,

At the eliminating sports show of the Light Division, A/245 Battery R.F.A. secured two easily won firsts with exhibits of a water cart and a G.S. wagon, on behalf of the Brigade.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

Friday, August 15, 1919.

Surface wind from between west and north-west, 10-15 m.p.h. Mist in the early morning; fair in the day, but sky extensively covered with low cloud at times. Visibility fair, warm.

INTER-UNIT ATHLETICS.

41st Bn. M.G.C. v 15th Bn. Hampshire Regt.

INTERESTING INNOVATION.

What promises to be a keenly contested and somewhat novel athletic competition, comprising quite a number of events, takes place to-morrow at Solingen, when the 41st Battalion Machine Gun Corps and the 15th Battalion Hampshire Regt. meet in sporting rivalry.

Among the events are:—100 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, and 880 yards flat races; 1 mile, 2 miles, and team relay race; high jump; long jump; throwing the cricket ball; putting the shot; 120 yards hurdles; and tug-of-war team (catchweight).

The winning battalion will be decided by the highest total of points gained.

ALDERSHOT SHOW.

Officers' Chargers And Heavy Draught Horses In The Ring.

The Aldershot Command Horse Show, held under the auspices of the King and the Duke of Connaught, opened on Wednesday in beautiful weather, when there was a brilliant gathering on the atnletic ground, Queen's-avenue. With some 500 entries for the many and varied events the show is undoubtedly the greatest thing of its kind, for every class of horse is brought into competition, and there will be keen rivalry for the numerous and valuable prizes, amounting to nearly £800.

Officers' chargers and draught horses chiefly occupied the ring. There was much disappointment later when the champion hack, As You Were, was withdrawn. His owner, Maj. H. Faudel-Philipps, of the Bisham Stud, Marlow, took this course as a token of respect for the death by drowning of one of his house party on Tuesday night. Brig-General Watson was the chief steward on the opening day when the results were:—

A BOWLERS' DAY.

Extremely Low Scoring in Bonn League Game.

ONE RUN VICTORY.

Having a good wicket and being in excellent form, the bowlers in the recent Lancs. Div. Sig. Coy. v. 69 Siege Bty. match had things very much their own way. As reported below the aggregate score of the two teams is the lowest on record in the C.P.C.C. The following are summaries of latest matches:

LANCS DIV. SIGNALS (11) v. 69th SIEGE BTY. R.G.A. (10) at Mehlem. For Signals Pte. Falwood took 6 wickets for 3 runs and Pnr. House 4 for 4. For Gunners, Maudesley took 4 for 3 and Young 5 for 7.

185 SIEGE BTY. (76) v. 9th C.H.A. (42) at Flamersheim. For 185 Siege Bty. Gnr. Gray made 22. For 9th C.H.A. Capt. Warburton scored 18 while Lister took 3 for 29, Capt Hamilton Jones 3 for 20 and Lieut. O'Connor 3 for 15. For 185 Siege Bty. Parr took 7 for 22 and Cpl. McGuckin 2 for 5.

ARMY H.Q. SIGNAL COY. (56 for 7) v. CAV. DIV. H.Q. (46) at Quadrath. Chief scorers for the winners were Hampton 28 not out and Howarth 14. Bowling for the winners Lieut. Melhuish took 6 wickets for 17 and Fraser 4 for 22.

9th D.L.I. (112) v. 5th R.T.C. (31). Cpl. Ramsden (30) and Pte. Archer (39) were top scorers for D.L.I. The Tel. Sig. Coy. could do nothing against bowling of Lieut. Archer and Pte. Kay. The former took 4 wickets for 16 and the latter 5 for 13. The top scorer of R.T.C. was Sergt. Tyth 11.

LONDON DIV. M.T. COY. (132) v. 75 BDE. R.F.A. (43) at Merheim. The Bde. won the toss and put the D.M.T. Coy. in first. The batting started well, Cpl. Wright and Cpl. Davis putting the score up to 33. The next two wickets fell very cheaply, the score only being 42 for 4, until Lieut. Howard and Lieut. Wright came in together and made an excellent stand, putting the score to 103 before the latter was dismissed after scoring an excellent 33. Lieut. Howard played an excellent innings for 41. The Bde. did not make any stand against the bowling of Lieut Wright and Pte. Jacobs, the latter taking 5 wickets for 19, and the former 5 for 23.

Pease Note:—51st Bedford Regt. have withdrawn from Bonn League and 13 M.A.C. from Cologne Northern League.

Other Results.

4 Corps Troops 88, 1/1 North Midland H.B. 82.

ARMY AQUATIC SPORTS.

To Be Held In Deutzer Industrie Hafen.

Owing to the continued fall in the level of the Rhine, it will not be possible to hold the Army Aquatic Sports as was first intended, near the P. and R. T. School at Riehl. They will be held instead in the Deutzer Industrie Hafen, on the east bank of the Rhine, just north of the Sud Brucke on Wednesday, 20th August, commencing at 14.00 hours.

The heats will be run off on Tuesday, 19th inst, commencing at 14.30 hours, at the Deutzer Industrie Hafen. Competitors will report at the P. and R. T. School, Riehl, at 10.30 hours on the 19th, where heats will be drawn. Accommodation will be provided for O.R. competitors, arriving from a distance of over 5 miles, for the nights of the 19th and if necessary, 20th. Rations will be provided for the competitors on the 19th and 20th inst. Competitors will bring bedding, knife, fork, and spoon. Accommodation for officer competitors has been reserved at the Officer's Club, up to 40. Those desiring rooms reserved for the night of the 20th and 21th inst. must notify the Club on arrival.

The prizes will be presented by the Commander-in-Chief on the completion of the sports.

AMATEUR FOOTBALL CUP.

Entries for the Amateur Challenge Cup received by the Football Association up to Aug. 1 number 135—31 in the Northern Divisions and 104 in the Midland and Southern Divisions. Six entries in the Northern Division and 25 in the Midland and Southern Divisions are those of clubs which did not enter in 1914-15.

AMERICAN CIRCUS.

Plans Of A Future Tour Now "Kaput."

The ambition of the promoters of the 1st American Division Circus, which recently entertained nearly 30,000 people at Cologne, has been crushed. It was hoped that the party would be kept intact to tour France, England, and America. Military exigencies, however, have made such a tour impossible, and the huge amount of timber that was utilised in the construction of the seating accomodation has been sold in consequence.

It seems a great pity that a show produced by so accomplished a band of artistes should have had such a short life, since the amount of energy expended must have been enormous.

That the show in Cologne met with complete approbation is beyond doubt. Capt. Boyes, who attended to the business side of the circus, has been the recipient of numerous letters congratulating the Division on the excellence of the performance provided. One of these, from Lieut.-General Godley, is particularly eulogistic, and should, by its high terms of praise, be a matter of gratification to all concerned.

The Circus Committee is still a very much alive concern, however, from which fact it would seem that the resuscitation of the "greatest show in Europe" is contemplated when the 1st Division is once more in America.

CRICKET FRIENDLY.

57 Siege Bty. R.G.A. (286 for 6) v. 124 Siege Bty. R.G.A (81) at Kalk on Tuesday. Gunner Norton gave a splendid display of batting and was undefeated at the close with 106. Capt. W. P. Riley M.C. (53), Gunner Yule (45) and Bdr. Clissold (33) were the other chief scorers for 57th S. Battery.

Bowlers In Form.

The local adversaries at Schlebusch, 420th and 443rd Siege Batteries held an exciting cricket match on Monday last. The bowlers had it all their own way. For 420th Dean got three wickets for one run (hat trick), Hubbard 4 for 10 and Greenhalgh 2 for 7. For 443rd Easson got 6 wickets for 11 runs, Bowrer 1 for 7 and Brown 2 for 3. Result:—420th, 25 runs, 433rd, 20 runs.

SENSATIONAL COLLAPSE.

Sussex Score 204 For 0; All Out 237.

ENGLISH CRICKET RESULTS.

The most dramatic feature of the cicket in England on Wednesday was the collapse of Sussex in their match with Somerset at Hove. At lunch they were 217 for 3 wickets, the first wicket falling when 204 had been registered.

Following lunch a sensational collapse occurred, the remaining seven wickets falling for only 20 runs. Vine scored 91 and R. Relf 111.

The following were the scores:—

Sussex 237; Somerset 241 for three.
Middlesex 296 for 8; Lancs 160.
Hampshire 278; Essex 145 for four.
Derbyshire 195; Leicester 197 for six.
Wilts 426 for five, declared; M.C.C. 115 for eight.

FRIENDLY.

No 70 Squadron R.A.F. (128) v. Bakeries Sport Club (33).

The R.A.F. batted first on their own ground.

Runs came very slow at first, but Major Huskinson and Major White soon brightened the game up, Major White being caught after a quick 16. Vallender, joining in, knocked up a score of 39 (including one 5, four 4s and 4 singles, Major Huskinson batted well for 42 and was then well held in long-field. The Bakers failed to get any runs for their first 3 wickets. The innings closed with 33, Jones, (II), Vallender taking 6 wickets for 21 runs.

LEON MEREDITH'S "RECORD".

The statement that Leon Meredith accomplished a world's record in the 30 miles road handicap of the West London Cycling Association has drawn a letter from Mr. E. J. Godfrey, the secretary, who writes disclaiming the distinction.

The claim, he says, is wrong for the following reasons:—

(1) No road record is recognised at the distance.

(2) The ride was accomplished in competition, which is strictly against all unpaced cycling road records.

(3) We are in no sense a road record association, there being properly constituted bodies to attend to this branch of the sports, and we would not wish to interfere with their work.

GILLESPIE KNOCKED OUT.

The sensational defeat of Carruthers on Tuesday in the Bournemouth bowls tourney was followed on Wednesday by the downfall of Dick Gillespie on the same green at King's Park. He was beaten after leading for eleven ends by F. Ingram Rees, a Welsh international, by four shots.

AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY.

The big amateur golf tournament on the Eden course, St. Andrews, began on Wednesday with a 36-holes medal competition. The eight prize winners under handicap were:—

J. Coven (scr.), 154; T. D. Armour (scr.), 155; J. R. Anderson (2), 157; J. C. Jessop (scr.), 158; G. C. Manford (scr.), 158; T. N. Torrance (scr.), 160; J. Lang (2), 161; J. C. Law (4), 161.

2nd Brigade Cricket League.

At Wald on Monday. Bde. H. Q. (32) v. 483 Field Coy. R. E. (72). For the winners Spr. Feltham bowled very well taking 7 wickets for 6 runs, while Spr. Blyth reached highest figures with 14 not out. For the losers Q.M.S. Robson took 4 wickets for 16 runs.

Another match on Tuesday was 483 Field Coy. R.E. (44) v. 6th London Regt. (35). For the Sappers, Spr. Bird made 19 and Spr. Feltham took 6 wickets, whilst for the losers Sergt. Bunkell took 5 wickets and Rfn. Bolton scored 11.

BASHAM v. CHARLES.

Mr. Cochran has arranged a boxing contest to take place in London in September between Johnny Basham, welter-weight champion of Great Britain, and Francis Charles, welter-weight champion of France.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Rhine Army Dramatic Company.

The revival of "The Mollusc" and "General Post" at the Deutsches Theatre by the Rhine Army Dramatic Company this week is meeting with wonderful popularity. The first named play was the attraction during the early part of the week, and yesterday evening Mr. J. E. Harold Terry's delightful three act comedy was given to a crowded audience. The book sparkles with brilliant wit, and, if possible, its presentation is even more finished than when the accomplished members of the Company first submitted it.

Sir Dennis And Lady Broughton.

Miss Inez Bensusan has, in Lady Broughton, a part which suits her admirably. The character calls for sustained and artistic effort and this is accorded in full measure. Sir Dennis Broughton, her husband, is a "county gentleman" who, by flint-like crustiness, conceals a kindly generous disposition. Capt. C.F. Ball, Border Regt., submits the part excellently, albeit perhaps he does not convey that essence of refinement and polish that one might suppose Sir Dennis would naturally possess. Nevertheless, the criticism is trifling and it cannot be said that apart from this he does not make a very successful job of the work he undertakes. Miss Gabriel Paul, as Betty, is truly delightful, while the role of Alec, her brother, is capitally sustained by Major E. Pollock, R.G.A. As Edward Smith, Lieut. Esme Percy, H.L.I., has much to do and does it thoroughly well. Lieut. Onions, Monmouth Regt., as Smith's brother finds his chief success in his remarkably clever make-up, while Lieut. E.C. Stephenson, Norfolk Regt., maintains the very high standard of excellence that the whole caste achieves.

"The Fancies" On Tour.

"The Fancies" concert party began their week's tour of the Dragoon Brigade, Cavalry Division, in good style, at Berrendorf on Wednesday. It is the first time a concert party has visited this out-of-the-way part of Rhineland, and needless to say they had a great reception. Their singing and dancing was delightful, and they well-deserved the hearty applause accorded them. Miss Groves in particular worked very hard, both at the piano and with her voice, and her song about "Cissie's kisses" caused endless amusement.

Royal Command Singer.

A correspondent writes:—Miss Sura Silvers, the Y.M.C.A. singer, gave a concert at Zülpich on Monday night. She scored a great success with her mezzo-contralto voice and her captivating personality. Miss Silvers paid a visit here a few weeks ago and thanks to Mr. Hill, the energetic Y.M.C.A. leader, she made a very welcome return visit. It may be noted that this lady has sung to the men of our Fleet, for a considerable time to the men in France and now to our Army of Occupation. She has also sung before the King on two Royal Command occasions.

Sports Club Dances.

The dances which have all through the summer been given at the Sports Club, Lindenthal have been so successful that the Club think it will be acceptable to everybody if an additional dance be given on Saturday as well. There will, therefore, be dances following dinner every Tuesday and Saturday during the summer season, with the exception that next week the dance will take place on Wednesday instead of Tuesday in consequence of the VI Corps Tattoo taking place on that date.

Duren Song Recital.

On Tuesday at the headquarters of the Y.M.C.A., Duren, Bdr. William Barrand, the bass baritone of Eton, gave a song recital before a large and appreciative audience. Bdr. Barrand, who was in fine voice, opened with the Prologue to Pagliacci and followed with Lieder of Schubert, Schumann and Cornelius, his interpretation of Schubert's Erl King being especially fine. The popular "I am a Roamer bolde" (Mendelsohn) and the Toreador song (Bizet) were specially appreciated, Hattons To "Arthea" and Simon the Cellarer" were also included in the programme. Pte. Cook (tenor) also joined Bdr. Barrand in "The Moon Hath Raised" and sang Purcell's "Sylvia" and "Dedor's Lament." Mr. J. W. Rossington, L.R.A.M., Musical Director of the Y.M.C.A., accompanied and made a few explanatory remarks before each item.

Euskirchen Y. M. C. A. Reading Circle.

On Monday evening, the members of the Y.M.C.A. Reading Circle at Euskirchen were transported to a world of long ago, where winds and watercourses, singing pinetrees and melancholy marshes were animate. L/Cpl. Holdsworth' smost skilful and masterly treatment of Longfellow's "Hiawatha" was greatly enjoyed. In his reading, he did full justice to the music of this wonderful song, and led his audience to see the remarkable parallelism and similarity in the early stages of development and in the character of primitive folk-lore and tales of mystery and heroism. The secret of the intellectual pleasure of this occasion, and of the value of such a society, may be traced to the fact that the reader of the paper has had first hand acquaintance and knowledge of the people and the land of "Hiawatha." JACQUES.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Doing Well.

Dominion is said to be going great guns in his St. Leger preparation.

Promising Yearlings.

Six promising-looking yearlings, the property of Mr. James Buchanan, have arrived at F. Barling's place to be trained.

Shoeless Race.

A team of Indians running shoeless, competed in the mile relay at the R.A.M.C. sports at Aldershot and were placed third.

Hobbs on Knight.

"Mr. D. J. Knight is a great player, a man who will play in England's Eleven one of these days." This tribute to the old Oxonian comes from Jack Hobbs.

Clapton Orient Players.

Of the new professionals, Warboys is an Army International, Calderhead is the son of the Chelsea manager, while Tonner and Bowyer became great favourities with the Orient supporters during the run of the London Combination games.

Griggs Extending.

Walter Griggs has purchased Exeter House, with the stables and covered exercise ground, from Mr. Alfred Hayhoe, who used to train for the late Mr. Leopold de Rothschild. Exeter grounds adjoin Saville House grounds, which are already occupied by Griggs.

J.W.H.T.D.

J.W.H.T. Douglas will turn out for the Corinthians this season.

oughing Epidemic.

There is a lot of coughing in the Belgian stables at present, but Mr. Bottomley's horses have so far escaped.

Footballers at Cricket.

The Arsenal footballers, who are now in training, played a cricket match against the North London Club at Muswell Hill this week.

Brilliant Partnership.

"The most brilliant partnership of the season" was the verdict of the critics while Jack Hobbs and D. J. Knight were batting against Notts at the Oval.

Fast Bowler's Death.

Christopher Collins, the old Kent cricket professional, has died at Gravesend, aged 59. Thirty years ago he was one of the fastest bowlers in England. He was the father of the present Kent professional.

Len Braund's Reply.

Somerset's defeat of Hampshire strengthens their chance of winning the cricket championship, and adds point to Len Braund's reply to a friend who asked him if he thought the county would be champions. "We shall be if we are not careful," said Braund.

Field Marshal Earl Haig.

Field-Marshal Earl Haig has become a vice-president of the London Scottish R.F.C.

Cantab Freshers.

Cambridge freshers will include Chapman, of Uppingham, Partridge, of Malvern, and Gibson, of Eton.

To-day's Fish Story.

One of the largest congers ever taken by an angler has been landed by a Mr. Stevens, at Oxwich, near Swansea. It weighed 58lb.

Inter-League Match.

The match between the Football League and the Irish League will be played on the ground of the Liverpool Club on Monday October 13.

Unfit For Camels.

Templeman's opinion of the Brighton course is that it was not fit for camels to race on. He rode Farakabad, who broke his leg through putting his foot in a hole.

Bail Flies 102 Feet.

Hacker the old Gloucester and Glamorgan professional is now bowling faster and better than ever. On Saturday in dismissing one of the Asylum opponents he hit a bail 102 feet. He is believed to be the best fast bowler in the county; aged 42, but physically 30.

Not So Dusty.

The Carpentier—Dick Smith match brought in £6,400.

For Oxford.

Hedges and Stevens, probably the two best boy cricketers of the year, will be at Oxford next season.

Racing Contrasts.

The season's racing has not provided a more remarkable contrast than that seen on Tuesday at Nottingham and Folkestone. At Nottingham every race was won by the favourite; at Folkestone five favourites (four of them odds on) were beaten.

Admirable Crichton of Sport.

His Majesty has honoured a genuine all-round sportsman and agriculturist in Colonel William Hall Walker. Horse-breeding, fox-hunting, deer-stalking, yacht-racing, polo, galloway-racing and beagling have each, in their turn, received the undivided attention of this Admirable Crichton of sport.

Good for the Hammers.

Frank Burton, one of the most able of the West Ham defenders, was on the Boleyn Castle ground the other day in hospital attire, and announced to Mr. King that he had obtained six weeks' leave. He will begin training to-day, his recovery from his facial wounds having been remarkable.

OLD SCOUTS' CIRCLE.

On Saturday last the Circle met at Hohenzollern Brigade and journeyed thence to Bonn, by tramway. On reaching Bonn we decided to move forward to Mehlem; we did so and after partaking of tea, climed the hill to Roland's Arch, from which point a magnificent view of the Rhine Valley was obtained. We succeeded in boarding a train at Rolandseck, and arrived in Cologne about 22.00 hrs. tired but contented.

Wednesday evening was chiefly occupied in choosing a Committee and in general arrangements for the future welfare of the Circle.

Next Saturday we meet at Amusements Board outside Cologne Main Station, and proceed by 3.30 train to Coblenz. Members wishing to attend will bring cleaning kit and the blanket as we shall be away all Sunday. The tour will include Coblenz, Trier, and Moselle Valley.

The numbers are not yet so great as might be expected considering the number of troops in Cologne Area. Roll up, old Scouts. OLD SCOUT.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

What The Germans Read.

On the bookstall in the large bazaar in Hohestrasse, Cologne, may be seen among others the following German translations; well printed, strongly bound, some illustrated and published at two marks:— The Talisman, Kenilworth, Ivanhoe (Scott), David Copperfield, Oliver Twist (Dickens), Robinson Crusoe (Defoe), Gulliver's Travels (Swift), The Pathfinder, Deerslayer, The Last of the Mohicans (Cooper), Uncle Tom's Cabin (Harriet Beecher Stowe), The Flying Dutchman (Capt. Marryat), The Three Musketeers, Twenty Years After, The Count of Monte-Cristo (Dumas), The Last Days of Pompeii, Rienzie (Lytton), Notre Dame, Les Misérables (Hugo), Ben Hur (Lewis Wallace), Travels With a Donkey (R.L.S.) Anna Karinia, The Kreutzer Sonata (Tolstoi), Crime and Punishment (Dostoiwsky), The Decameron (Bocaccio), The Scalp Hunters (Mayne Reid), and The Swiss Family Robinson. The German's taste for literature then seems to be similar to that of the English, but how many books by German authors have we in cheap editions in England?

More Heroism.

A quiet deed of heroism was performed last Sunday night at Mehlem—among the prettiest of the small Rhine villages. Some German boys were bathing and one who could not swim but was paddling about on a petrol can, got out of his depth. He got the "wind-up" badly and shouted for help. A good many people were about, but it was two gunners of the R.G.A. who instantly recognised that the danger from this swift current was very real and ust throwing off their coats they swam jout and brought the lad to shore. Leaving him with his pals they picked up their coats and walked quickly away without a word, the many German civilians standing round in their Sunday best not having apparently the presence of mind even to say "Danke."

Good Baths.

In the public baths here can be seen several notions quite worth adopting at home. Each bather for instance is obliged to have a wash under the hot or cold shower before entering the Swimming bath. This is a great help towards keeping the water fresh and free from impurities. A few minutes under the hot shower is also beneficial in removing the sense of chill and shivering after a bath. The bather need have no concern about his property as the door of his box is automatically locked as he shuts it before going into the water. As a preventative of a bather making off with towels etc. supplied, some article of clothing (usually a soldier's cap) is held as deposit by the owner.

Another Railway Device.

Whatever the discomforts of German railroad travelling may be, one point in their favour is the easy gliding motion with which the trains start after intermediate stops. This is on account of a clutch fitted into the mechanism, so that when the train is at a standstill, the engine of the locomotive is still working letting out the intermittent "puffs" similar to those heard when the train is in progress. In order to start the train, the clutch is engaged, which gradually connects the engine with the driving wheels, thereby practically eliminating the tugging motion which is felt on locomotives without this attachment. This idea has also been adopted on some of the Great Western Railway locomotives in England, but is not so extensively used as in Germany.

Wearing Honours.

Unlike Continental folk, the practice of wearing on civilian clothes medal ribbons won in war is deprecated by the English. Germans, we hear, were amused at a picture in a London paper showing war service stripes on a hat band. At least one English soldier has adopted an ingenious idea for a permanent record of his service, one that he cannot possibly lose. He has been tattooed! On his right fore-arm he has one red and four blue "brisques" with a sergeant major's coat of arms. On his chest appear four medal ribbons, one space being left blank for the "Victory" ribbon, as soon as that is authorised. He intends to have the medals tattooed in when the designs are known, though presumably he will have the reveree side of medals tattooed on his back!

Is this A Record?

The War Saving endeavours of the 13th Batt. of the K.R.R.C. appear to constitute a record in this direction; we wonder. It seems that on one pay-day, as early as June 29th., the battalion deposited over 35,000 Mks., but on the 10th. of the present month this was easily eclipsed, the comfortable sum of 64,402 Mks. being lent to the national exchequer. Altogether 3,311 certificates have been purchased by this unit.

Lesser Echoes.

Record business in the sale of liquid refreshment is reported to have been done by the Godesberg hotels last Sunday.

* * *

Barns in Rhineland needed for the storage of harvest are being vacated by our troops.

* * *

Another ghost story comes from Düren where, it is alleged, weird and wonderful noises are heard in the stilly night coming from a disused factory.

* * *

If there is proved to be a shortage of agricultural labourers in any district in occupied territory, British soldiers may be permitted to assist with the harvest rovided they are volunteers for the work and are paid and their military duties are not interfered with.

Prizes for Echoes.

Every day we give three prizes of 10 marks each for "Echoes." Contributions are invited from all readers. To-day's prizes have been awarded to: G. V. Stilliard, Train H.Q. Eastern, Rhine Army; Spr. G. T. James R. E., Signal Squadron Cavalry Div. Rhine Army; Capt. C. H. Sheppard, Army General and Commercial College, Cologne. Yesterday's prize winners whose names were omitted through a printer's error were: Sergt. W. Slater H. Q. 14 Cheshire Regt. Rhine Army; Pte. Sydney Steen, Aid Post, 52nd S. Wales Borderers, Rhine Army; Sergt. Goldie R. E. A. P. O., S. 40 Rhine Army.

Great War Writer.—Philip Gibbs, the famous war correspondent and novelist, is, in appearance, frail and grave. His features are fine, and they tell of a man of subtle feeling and susceptibility.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

HOW TO INSPIRE CONFIDENCE.

"The best way to learn," I read, "is first of all to dive. This can be learned in ten minutes, and inspires confidence."

I was anxious to learn to swim: I was billeted in a German town with a perfectly good bath to which I could go every day. Every opportunity you see, but how to learn?

Talking it over with people I discovered that for once everyone was unanimious, — "Confidence is all that is required." And here was a perfectly authorative looking statement which said „The best way is first of all to dive, — it inspires confidence," — what could you want clearer than that?

I rushed to the baths, undressed, got on to the spring-board —

"It looks cold" said my discretion.

I quite agreed.

"And a long way down — if you don't come up again."

"Confidence" I said firmly "Is all that is required."

"The shallow end looks easier" urged discretion.

"The book says this is best" — and not giving time for him to argue further, I put discretion behind me and made an attempt, to inspire confidence.

* * *

Those stars, reader, are a one hundred-thousandth part of those I really saw. It took two strong men twenty minutes, a flask of brandy, and a week in bed to recover from that attempt at inspiration. At the end of that period I again took council.

This time I went to the other extreme, "Get in the water and messabout, attempt to imitate others" was the method I decided on this time. It appealed to me much more, and my discretion entirely approved.

Taking note of further advice such as "Get right under as soon as you enter the bath, keep on the move, come out as soon as you feel chilled," I messed about for some days and succeeded in doing nothing but feeling heartily ashamed of myself, and washing away what little confidence remained by shipping pints of water.

One day I discovered a small cork belt, — it looked interesting, and ought to have possibilities. If I try this as an inspirer of coofidence and use it as a support until I get the strokes properly, I ought to do some good.

I put it on, lay on the water with its support, and went through the motions of the breast stroke. Wonders — I was moving — I got acros the bath, — and back again, making a great deal of splash, but getting there all the same.

I did this several times, then took off the belt and tried again, fancying that I had the belt on. Eureka — I got six yards, then went gurgling under, but I had swum. I did a war dance but fell under the water, so tried to swim again. Yes, I could swim, — six yards only, but that was good enough.

Next night I repeated the performance, — twice across with the belt, then without. After that night there was no need for the belt at all — each night since then I have swum further than before.

A fortnight ago I could not swim a stroke, now I can easily do a length of the bath, leaving much to be desired as regards elegance, — but that will follow.

That then reader, is how I learned. Judge for yourself whether you prefer to dive first, which is undoubtedly the best way, as the book says so, or whether you prefer the less vigorous way outlined above.

FACING FEARFUL ODDS.

The enemy lay before me. Silently I strode toward them.

A brief respite had come to the opposing forces and I could read in the faces of my comrades the admiration they had for me and my daring.

In the faces of our adversaries all read purpose and imperturbability, and as I approached their lines, they loomed out gigantic specimens of manhood. How dwarfish I must look to them.

Their order was perfect. Each man stood his ground as though they saw in me an opponent scarcely worthy of their consideration, but had they known how confident I felt in my armour and how high was my morale, maybe their courage would have dwindled.

Steadily I advanced, adjusting my armour as I went.

In a second or two I was in the midst of the foe, my weapon in hand. How heavy it seemed. So unaccustomed to this arm was I that I doubted if even pluck or prowess could avail to make it effective. Records will show.

Hatless and coatless, my armour showing white in the suns hot rays, I singled out their most redoubtable fighter.

I saw him running full tilt toward me something tightly gripped in his right hand; something round and like a bomb, then before I had decided how to meet the peril he had launched it straight at me. If I did not obstruct it or turn it aside I was doomed.

"Zwzzz," it struck the trodden grass before me travelling at lightning speed. I took a pace forward to meet it. So intent was I, that I had not noticed the alert, aggressive attitude of those watchful others encircling me, or the one stooping as though for a spring behind. I saw the fiery-red sphere as it rose up at me.

Then I struck. Great Goblin! I had missed. I heard a dull thud behind me and turned. My opponent had missed also but a flash of red showed in the hand of the stealthy one behind and even as I endeavoured to recover that one fatal, forward pace I heard a click followed by an exultant shout and a voice appealing: "How's that, umpire?" "Out," came the reply. I was; out for a duck.

Is The Ex-Kaiser a British Subject?

There is an Act of Parliament dating back to the reign of Queen Anne which declares that the Electress Sophia, the widow of the Duke of Hanover, and all her descendants are to be considered British subjects. Some legal experts have argued that by virtue of this old statute the ex-German Emperor, as her direct descendant, is amenable to British law and should be tried in London.

OUR TRADE POLICY.

Roumania's Reply to Supreme Council Conciliatory.

STATE OF PUBLIC FINANCE.

PUBLIC FINANCE.

RE-ORGANISATION OF EXPENDITURE.

An important feature of the proceedings of the Army Committee, held yesterday, was a statement concerning the Territorial Force by Mr. Winston Churchill. He explained that he was not in a position to make a definite statement of policy, as the Cabinet still had under consideration the reorganisation of all public expenditure. He was urging upon the Cabinet the importance of arriving at a prompt decision and expressed the hope that some announcement would be made early in September.

The General Staff had prepared a complete scheme, he continued, which would be modified in accordance with the Cabinet's decision as to the estimates allotted to Army expenditure, having taken into consideration the need for the utmost economy, whilst providing for adequate defence and the military requirements of the Empire.

The Chairman of the United Service Fund explained the proposals for allocating the Canteen Funds. He emphasised the determination to see that the money should be administered at a minimum expense in order to ensure that all serving and ex-serving members of the forces should receive full benefits. He pointed out that if the whole of the money were divided amonst the officers and men, the sum for each would only be 4s. 7d. An immediate need was to take steps to assist in helping ex-service men by forming clubs based on non sectarian and non political lines.

BRITAIN'S FUTURE.

PREMIER'S FORTHCOMING ANNOUNCEMENT.

On Monday next, before the House of Commons adjourns, the Premier is making an important statement. It is expected that he will find it necessary to occupy the attention of the House nearly two hours, in reviewing the various questions.

Among the subjects to be dealt with will be the Government's trade policy, the future of the coal industry, finance and national economy, agricultural policy, the Irish problem and federal devolution.

The Premier will be in a position to make a definite announcement on the question of trade policy, but there is reason to believe that the deliberations of the Cabinet regarding the coal industry have not yet reached a stage which admits of more than a general statement, indicating the broad trend of the Government's conclusions.

The pronouncement with respect to economy in public departments is likely to be of the first importance, as it is understood that the Cabinet is resolved that drastic steps should be taken to cut down expenditure in connection with every Government office.

ROUMANIA AND HUNGARY.

Roumania's reply to the Supreme Council's Notes respecting the occupation of Budapest is described as peing couched in conciliatory and dignified terms. Briefly, its tenour is to claim that Roumania has materially aided the conference in its work of peace.

There has been a reconstruction of the Hungarian Cabinet, which is now extremely Conservative, the Socialists having refused to join it. M. Friedrich remains Premier.

STRIKERS NOTE.

Mrs. Bridget McHugh, of Pemberton, in the Wigan coalfield, Lancashire, has just died at the age of 80. She was a pit brow worker for over half a century, retiring when she was 75 years of age, and had the reputation of being the oldest working "pit brow lassie" in the country. In filling and emptying wagons, using chipping pick and spade and rake, and tippling the boxes of coal, she was as expert as a man. Her working dress consisted of a rough apron over trousers, a shoulder shawl, and a pit-head covering bonnet, and she wore iron-rimmed clogs.

COMMERCIAL AIRCRAFT.

In the House of Commons yesterday, General Seely announced that it has been proposed to hold a competition for commercial types of air craft. The precise terms, he added, would be announced in a few days, but in the meantime he was able to say that prizes to the value of £60,000 would be offered in connection with the competition.

Westmister City Council has formally consented to the erection of the Whitehall Cenotaph on its present site.

IN NORTH RUSSIA.

BOLSHEVISTS WILL ATTACK.

General Maynard reports that on the West Murmansk railway an advance guard enemy column has driven in our outpost line. It is clear that the Bolshevists are well advised that preparations are being pushed forward for the British withdrawal from Archangel, and that they are contemplating a serious attack on the Murman front in order to hasten the evacuation and if possible to damage the retiring troops.

The attack by troops of the Archangel Relief Force on the Dvina front reported yesterday is decribed as a brilliant success. The prisoners numbered 2,000. It will not interfere with the policy of evacuation.

MODERN MUTINEERS.

SHIP'S CREW TAKE MATTERS IN THEIR OWN HANDS.

An incident reminiscent of a chapter in the life of Captain Kettle is reported from the Irish coast. The British steamer "Workham" on arrival at a South Irish port reported that when 200 miles off Brest, an S.O.S. message was picked up.

The steamer hastened to the position indicated and found a vessel with apparently nobody in charge. Further investigation by the "Workham" crew revealed the captain and chief officer in the cabin in a dire plight, the crew having mutinied and broached the cargo of spirits. The mutiny was quelled with difficulty and six of the leaders put in irons. The ship was then brought on to Brest.

MANCHESTER EXPRESS MISHAP.

Early yesterday morning the London and North-Western Express from Manchester to London met with a mishap, shortly after beginning the journey and while travelling at a slow speed. The middle coach, one of fifteen, when crossing the points, swerved to an adjoing line. After being dragged a short di tance it was thrown on its side. The engine and the other coaches kept the metals. The occupants of the affected coach were violently shaken; six were injured. The accident occurred within a mile of London Road Station, Manchester. The occupants were mostly soldiers returning from leave.

TURBULENT TRIBES.

TROUBLES ON INDIAN BORDER

It is learned on high authority that one of our outposts on the North-Western frontier of India has been attacked by a tribe of Baluchis. Fairly heavy losses were inflicted on us in severe hand-to-hand fighting. The attack was apparently occasioned by the passing of a British convoy. Full details are not yet available.

The Afghanistan position is still unsettled, despite the formal signing of peace and it is thought that disturbances of a minor kind will continue along the border until the tribesmen are effectively taught that disturbance will bring its own penalty.

HOME LABOUR TROUBLES.

RAILWAYMEN THIS TIME.

A crisis has developed in the railway world, owing to the delay in securing a settlement of the wages question. The dispute affects all locomotive and electric train men in the country, involving 65,000 engine drivers, firemen and cleaners.

The Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen have sent a letter to Sir Auckland Geddes requesting a conference with a view to a definite result being reached, and hinting drastic action if the result of the negotiations is unsatisfactory. Sir Auckland Geddes saw the members of the Railway Executive yesterday afternoon and discussed the new situation with them. Afterwards he called at 10, Downing-street, where a Cabinet Meeting was in progress, and remained some time.

GROUSE BY AEROPLANE.

The opening of grouse shooting was celebrated in London by daring diners who tackled birds which, having been shot in Perthshire in the morning, were brought to London by aeroplane and served for dinner the same evening.

PROFITEERING.

BOARD OF TRADE TO CONTROL PRICES.

An important change has been introduced into the Profiteering Bill. Words were accepted by the House giving powers to the Board of Trade, after investigation, to fix maximum prices.

This power of fixing maximum prices is strictly reserved to the Board of Trade itself. It is not to be delegated to the local tribunals — "the little Star Chambers," as they were generally described yesterday. At first there was manifestly some confusion on this point in the minds of members. Lord Robert Cecil avowed himself "absolutely at sea." The whole basis of the bill, said he, had gone. He could not conceive the Government accepting such a principle, which would put the trade of the country under a number of local committees.

However, it soon became clear that this power to fix maximum prices was to be jealously retained in the hands of the Board of Trade and in the division which followed the Government Whips were taken off, and the principle was carried by 132 to 95.

The Government, determined to get the Bill through the Commons in order to send it to the Lords and make it law before the recess, sat all night on Wednesday in order to dispose of the Committee stage, rising at 7,30 a.m. on Thursday after a sitting lasting seventeen hours.

POLES AND DANES.

ALLEGED BRUTALITIES.

The last party of members of the Danish Red Cross in Russia, who bravely assisted French and English citizens against the Bolsheviks, have arrived at Copenhagen. On their way home via Poland they were treated in the most brutal way. The party includes about ten Danish doctors and officers, thirty nurses, and some children. They were treated as prisoners on arriving in Poland, and later were driven outside the Polish trenches, where they remained a week in No Man's Land, starving and exposed to firing from both Poles and Bolsheviks. The Polish military authorities refused to assist them, but finally a young Polish gentleman, highly indignant at their treatment, went to Warsaw to protest to the Government. He succeeded in sending a cable to Denmark, and shortly afterwards the party was allowed to leave Poland by special train, and the authorities made them an apology.

LIVERPOOL RIOTS.

"JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE."

At the resumed inquest on Culhbert Thomas Howlett, aged 33, boilermaker's labourer, who died from gunshot wounds received in the looting riots during the recent disturbances in Liverpool, evidence of the police and military showed that during an attack on a motor-lorry containing special constables and military. Howlett, who was drunk, tried to wrench a rifle from Lance-corporal Seymour.

The latter gave him several warnings, but he refused to let go, and, as Seymour was finding himself being gradually dragged out of the lorry he pulled the trigger of the rifle, which was pointing downwards, thinking it would shoot Howlett in the legs, but he was shot in the abdomen. The shooting was the only remedy he had unless he allowed himself to be pulled out to the ground and lose his rifle, in which case there would have been great danger of the rifle being used against himself and his comrades.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned, it being considered that what Lance-corporal Seymour did was in self-defence.

FRENCH MOTOR PARK ABLAZE.

A fire broke out at the French Army motor park at Vincennes, where a large number of military cars are overhauled and repaired. The fire soon extended; the store house was completely destroyed and much damage was done to the contents of an adjoining workskop in which were numerous valuable machines and tools. The damage is estimated at about 1,000,000 francs.

SHARK AMONG BATHERS.

Consternation was caused among bathers in Croyde Bay, North Devon, by the sudden appearance in their midst of a big shark. The fish was bagged by Mr. C.C. Cuff, assistant manager, Locomotive Works, Swindon. He borrowed a gun, waded some distance into the water and shot the shark dead. It measured 7ft. 6in. and took five men to drag it ashore. The shark is the largest ever seen in North Devon.

IRISH FARM TRAGEDY.

Poison is suspected as the cause of death of Martin McMorrow, a farmer, and his two young children, who were found dead in a bedroom at Tullynamoyle, co. Leitrim, Ireland.

In the same room the farmer's wife was found lying in a pool of blood, with terrible wounds in her head and face. A blood-stained hammer was discovered in the house, and all four persons had evidently been dead several days.

NO RECKLESSNESS.

MR. CLYNES ON DIRECT ACTION.

A vigorous attack on "Direct Action" and its folly from the workers' point of view was made by Mr. J. A. Clynes at Manchester to the National Federation of General Workers, of which he is President. The recent decision on direct action is to be welcomed, he said. Direct action could not remove the economic and social grievances of the working classes. To strike for vague or alien purposes would be to squander the resources of the workers without the slightest prospect of permanent social and industrial improvement.

After war conditions and the inevitable discontent following on a great struggle, there might be an opportunity for a dictator and a moment for playing at revolution. But the workers' interests collectively should be lifted above the recklessness of men who failed to see that the workers now had political powers wholly sufficient to secure on peaceful lines, through the agency of Parliament and without sacrifice, the greatest and most enduring economic changes. Changes to be beneficent and lasting must come through the constitutional efforts of majorities or through the general acceptance by the people of changed conditions for peoples benefits.

£69,285,000.

COST OF RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN.

A White Paper issued yesterday gives the total British expenditure on naval and military operations in Russia from the date of the Armistice to July 31st. as £69,285,000.

The amount is divided under two heads. The first represents expenditure on naval and military operations connected with the occupation of and the withdrawal from North Russia, Murmansk and Archangel, maintaining the Army in the Caucasus and the cost of Naval operations in the Baltic and Black Seas, and amounts to £25,970,000. The second is assistance given to Koltchak and Denikin and to the Baltic states. Under this head the total is £43,315,000. Of the latter amount £30,000,000 went to Koltchak and Denikin.

CROSS CURRENTS.

AMERICA AND THE PEACE TREATY.

It is difficult to analyse the situation at Washington as to the fortunes of the Peace Treaty, because of the great difference of opinion among those usually well informed. According to one section the Republican leaders have a majority and will compel textual amendments, giving America a voting strength in the League Assembly equal to that of the British Empire. This will be in addition to an amendent designed to restore the Shantung Peninsula to China. According to another section the Democrats have every confidence that the Treaty will be ratified, subject to certain interpretations acceptable to the Allies, and that the present strife at Washington is merely an effort by the Republican leaders to discredit the Wilson Government at the next Presidential Election.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee announces its intention to inform the President that it desires to consult him on matters connected with the ratification of the Peace Treaty. The Committee has decided to re-open hearings on the Treaty for the purpose of arriving at definite conclusions with regard to reservations.

The general impression is that something in the nature of a compromise will be found, giving satisfaction to all parties.

SHOCKING TUBE ACCIDENT.

A young officer, identified as Lieut. Took, Suffolk Regiment, has died in Guy's Hospital as the result of injuries received at the Elephant and Castle Tube Station. The officer, who wore two wound stripes and the 1914 ribbon, fell beneath a train entering the station. Half an hour elapsed before he could be extricated, shockingly injured about the head. While the injuries were being dressed he kept saying "Over the top! Over the top."

CIVILIANS LATER HOURS.

The gradual return to normal conditions of the civilians in Rhineland is becoming apparent in various ways. A further sign of the times is indicated in an order just issued. This portends that on and after Tuesday next, free circulation of civilians is permitted in the British occupied territory between the hours of 4 a.m. and 12 (midnight).

"JUSTICE" MUTINY SEQUEL.

A Paris message states that a Naval Court-martial at Brest, tried seven sailor, of the battleship "Justice" who took part in the mutinies at Sevastopol in April and May. Four of the men were condemned to terms of imprisonments varying from six to twelve months, the others being acquitted.

The answer of the Roumanian Government to the Supreme Council is considered as very satisfactory.

SUNKEN MILLIONS.

DIVING FOR "LAURENTIC'S" GOLD.

In a weather-beaten spot off the entrance to Lough Swilly divers are de'ying almost insuperable difficulties in the efforts to salve the gold bullion carried by the ill-fated Laurentic, when she was torpedoed early in 1917.

She is believed, to have had about £6,000,000 in gold ingots on board when she was sunk, and of this total over £800,000 has been recovered.

The vessel is broken and compressed by the pressure of the water above her, and the depth is just about the limit at which the divers can work.

Only in calm weather can salvage operations be carried on, but the authorities are fairly confident that all the gold can be recovered.

The tragedy of the Laurentic has never been fully told.

Within two hours of leaving Lough Swilly one evening in February on her way to Canada she was lying at the bottom of the sea. Two torpedoes had struck her—one giving her such a heavy list to starboard that the port boats could not be launched, and the other putting her back on an even keel.

There was time to arouse everybody on board, and all got away, although to many it meant a slow and painful death. A south-easterly blizzard was blowing with such intensity that the boats were driven right out to the Atlantic.

Flares were burnt, but none of the patrol boats was in the vicinity. The Laurentic's boats continued their fearful journey, seas sweeping over and filling them, while the occupants slowly froze to death. Eventually, 200 survivors were landed and between 70 and 80 dead.

SINN FEIN ARSENAL.

RAIDED BY TROOPS.

A raid has been made by a strong force of military and police on the Irish College at Glandore, five miles from Skibbereen. There are some sixty students at the institution, ostensibly to learn the Irish language. Last Saturday gun running on a considerable scale took place and on Thursday the college was raided by the authorities.

The inmates were asleep, but as soon as the alarm was given a huge signal fire was lighted but extinguished by the soldiers. The students, when rounded up, proved to be Sinn Fein volunteers. A search of the grounds disclosed that the place was a fully equipped military camp with a regular arsenal. The college and camp are now in the hands of the military.

The leaders were arrested and charged with being engaged in military training and drilling and with being in possession of arms and ammunition. They were remanded.

POLES BEAT BOLSHEVIKS.

The latest communiqués received in London from the Polish General Staff show that heavy fighting has been in progress on the Lithuanian and White Ruthenian fronts. Reinforced by new Lettish and Naval troops, drawn from the Eastern front, the Bolsheviks renewed their attacks during the night of Aug. 2-3 on the whole line between Nalibocha, Puszowa, and Wilejka, and severe fighting ensued, especially to the north of the River Wicza.

In the region of Davidgorod the enemy made another attack, supported by a river flotilla. Fighting continued for eighteen hours, but finally the attack was beaten off, the Bolsheviks losing 250 killed, while there was also heavy slaughter among the Chinese troops. A number of prisoners and an armoured motor-boat fell into the hands of the Poles.

TERMS OF ARMY SERVICE.

The Parliamentary Army Committee is not satisfied with the speed at which terms of military service are being decided.

Yesterday, it passed a resolution to the effect that it was essential to formulate, without further delay, the terms of service for both regulars in the after war Army and the Territorial Force. The Committee felt convinced that if further delay was persisted in, the strength and efficiency of the Territorials would be adversely affected.

THE AUSTRIAN REPUBLIC.

A great republican demonstration took place at Vienna on Thursday. The whole garrison, comprising 15,000 men, assembled in front of the Parliament buildings in the presence of high military and civil authorities and declared that they would resist by force of arms any movement designed to overthrow the Republic.

President Dr. Seitz assured the demonstrators that the Assembly would defend the republican constitution to the uttermost limits. His remarks were received with great enthusiasm.

AEROPLANE DOPE ENQUIRY.

The Committee appointed to enquire into the British Cellulose and Chemical Manufacturing Company and its relations to various Government Departments, in connection with the supply of dope for aeroplane wings, issued its report yesterday. It clears the firm or any Government Department of favouritism or corruption. The report shows that £300,000 was lost on the abandonment of proposed experiments in the manufacture of acetic acid.
